ED ROBERTSON Head Coach

Final Rites For Blast Victim Are Held On Tuesday

Funeral services were held in Afton, Okla., Tuesday for W. F. Roberts, 29, who was killed last Thursday in a dynamite explosion. Mr. Roberts died instantly while preparing a seismicograph charge on a seismicograph location just north of the Chesley Bedford ranch home.

Injured in the explosion was Lonnie Dement, 23, of Friona. Dement was first taken to the Yoakum County Hospital for treatment and later moved to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. At last account his injuries were still considered serious.

Mr. Roberts is survived by his wife, two children, Peggy, 21 months old and Dennis 3 years old; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Frank Roberts; one brother, Thomas O., serving with the armed forces in London, England; and five sisters, Mrs. Thelma Rice, Mrs. Pat Kersey, Mrs. Judy Jackson, Mrs. Velma Miller and Miss Carolyn Roberts.

He has been employed by Seismic Engineering Co., for the past three years and has lived in Plains only several months.

Mrs. Roberts has returned to the family home in Afton.

This year the Cowboys will move into District 5-A. Last year they played in 3-B. There are only two schools on the 1956 schedule that were played last year. They are Amherst and Grandfalls. Amherst was in the conference last year.

Two a day workouts are being held on the football field and Coach Robertson invites townspeople to attend the workouts.

Commissioners To Meet Friday For Budget Action

Commissioners court in session Monday morning authorized the payment of $12,357 to Baker Plumbing Co., air conditioning contractor for the court house.

The money is 90 per cent of the estimate of materials and labor costs up to the time of payment.

Commissioners will be in session Friday (Aug. 31) beginning at 10 a. m. and are expected to remain in session most all day to hear discussions concerning the proposed county budget.

It is expected that the commissioners will merge some voting precincts Friday. The move, discussed Monday, would merge voting precinct 8 (Alfred school) with precinct 10 (Denver City Hall). A small portion of box 7 would also have to be moved into the box 10 district. Also discussed was merging box 5 (Turner School) with box 4 (Plains tax office).

The small number of votes cast in boxes 5 and 8 prompted the discussion and action was delayed until voters could be contacted to see if the move would meet with any opposition.

Eight Indicted By County Grand Jury Thursday

Eight indictments were returned by the grand jury Thursday as they were in session from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the courthouse in Plains.

Jimmy Hallman and William Crow were indicted for the burglary of the Plains Frozen Food store. Hallman is currently in the Kansas penitentiary, serving a sentence for robbery. Crow's case is tentatively set for September 13 in district court.

Ralphord H. Skiles, Jr., was indicted for the burglary of Mickey's Humble Service Station in Denver City. Skiles is also serving a jail sentence, and is also wanted on burglary charges in a number of other cities. Indicted on a child desertion charge was Luther L. Cook.

Four were indicted for robbery by force of a fellow Mexican last June. They were Bonafacio Rivera, Felix Perez, Jesus Guiterrez, and Pelon Lopez.

County Gives Majority to Yarborough; Vote Is Lighter Than in July 28 Primary

Yoakum County Democrats turned out in good numbers to vote in the second primary (run-off) election last Saturday. There were 1,125 votes cast in balloting which decided only three races of any great interest.

Yoakum County gave Ralph Yarborough a good majority over Price Daniel in the governor's office, although the state vote has not been officially counted and there is doubt as to who is the winner. The vote here was 707 to 418.

Daniel held a thin lead of 3,547 votes over the state after all counties had reported to the Texas Election Burnea, but the final count will be decided when the Democratic Executive Committee meets in Ft. Worth Sept. 10. Irregularities in counting or mistakes in totaling could give either man more votes — enough to insure Daniel's election or enough to close the election for Yarborough.

Ruben Senterfitt, San Saba lawyer and banker received one write in vote for governor. He was a candidate in the first primary and received 36,889 votes.

Shots Required

The school board has set an immunization regulation before entrance to school will be permitted. All children must have immunization to small pox, diphtheria, and whooping cough. The board has not set any deadline on the immunization, thereby giving all students ample opportunity to meet this requirement.

In preparing for the coming year the school board has already authorized construction of 500 bleacher type seats for the football field. They will be erected on the north side. Construction is already underway on public rest rooms for the football area and specifications for construction of the new addition and remodeling of areas in the school plant voted in a bond election July 7 are being prepared.

Elsewhere in the Review there are pictures of the faculty of the Plains three schools. Pictures not found are those of Mrs. Lena Morris, Ralph Dahl Mrs. Nell Brookshire, Pat Casey, Wallace Schneider and Mrs. Wanda Jo Williams. The last four are all new members of the faculty this year.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

The time for seeding winter cover crops is here and the Board of Supervisors of the Yoakum Soil Conservation District want to urge everyone who has land which will be subject to blowing without additional cover to seed some type of winter cover crop. In many cases some rain will be necessary before this can be done but on irrigated land these cover crops can be established with good results if some important points are taken into consideration.

One of the most common causes of unsatisfactory results from winter cover crops, particularly those mixtures containing legumes, is inadequate watering. Careful timing of the last watering and of inter-row seedings. Drying of the legume inoculant is a problem if the surface moisture is low. In some cases a press wheel to firm the ground is a help in keeping the seed and the inoculant moist. To insure good coverage and establishment of the inoculant, some people add some of the inoculant to the irrigation water. This inoculant can be added to the water in a sprinkler system by the use of a tank which feeds into the main line of the system.

Fertilization of cover crops is very important if they are seeded on land which was not fertilized for the preceding crop.

Some of the most common crops used for winter cover in this area are rye and other small grains or a mixture of these with a legume such as vetch. In some cases vetch has made excellent growth when sown in sorghum stubble. Some farmers have had good results with clover seeded for winter cover. Clover can also be seeded in the spring as a soil improving crop. Madrid clover seeded in the spring will make a good summer growth which can be used for hay or pasture and will then continue to grow through the following winter for winter protection. The next spring the crop can be used as a green manure crop or harvested for seed. Austrian winter peas make rapid early season growth than vetch the following spring.

The Yoakum Soil Conservation District has the inter-row seeder which is specially made to seed cover crops between the rows of other crops. Several cooperators are using this seeder to get their cover crops in early so that a good growth will be secured this fall.

Quite a bit of interest is being shown in the District in the use of the electric motor driven broadcast seeders. These seeders mount on the front of the tractor and are driven by a motor which runs off of the tractor battery. These units are relatively cheap and offer an excellent opportunity for seeding cover crops since these crops can be broadcast ahead of the tractor and mixed with the surface soil as the crop is cultivated.

Most of the sorghum crops in the District will furnish enough residue to protect the land if the stubble is left standing so that it will give the most resistance to the wind. This stubble really gives effective cover if seeded in narrow rows.

The stubble mulch equipment which is available for use in the District can be used to control weed growth in this stubble without greatly reducing the effectiveness of the stubble for erosion control. The large flat sweeps do a very effective job of opening up the soil so that it will take moisture, controlling weeds and still leaving the crop residue on the surface where it will be effective in wind erosion control. These sweeps prepare an excellent seedbed for planting since they do not open up the soil for loss of moisture as a normal tillage operation do. They leave a relatively flat seed-bed which can be seeded with a drill. In narrow rows with the District planter or with your regular planting equipment.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service program of the State Bar of Texas

A properly drawn will can be the means of short-cutting many legal formalities, and save a great deal of time in distributing the estate of a decedent among his rightful heirs. It may also serve to save many dollars in legal fees and court costs.

As an example, whenever a person dies without a will and it is necessary for the probate court to appoint an administrator of his estate, the person so appointed is required to post a bond. This bond is for the purpose of insuring the faithful performance of his duties.

The amount of the bond must be double the estimated value of the personal property of the estate plus a reasonable amount to cover prospective rents and other incomes from real estate involved. The administrator's bond must be kept in force until the estate is finally closed and he is discharged from his obligation by the court.

The same rule applies to an executor under a will, unless the testator has specified that no bond shall be required. This provision may be inserted or left out of the will at the option of the maker. Needless to say, there are situations in which the bond serves a real purpose. But when not needed, the statutory requirement may prove a distinct annoyance to the executor and a burden upon the estate in the form of annual premium payments.

Another example: A court appointed administrator may not sell any property of an estate without an order of the court authorizing him to do so. He must make application to the court for approval of each sale. The court must be advised of and approve the sales price and the manner in which the same is to be collected. Similar provisions apply to the making of mineral leases and other transactions.

These provisions apply equally to the executor of a will, unless the testator has freed him from such requirements. A single short paragraph inserted in a will designating him as an independent executor in appropriate phraseology may serve this purpose. Then he will have a free hand to dispose of property upon short notice whenever a favorable opportunity arises, with a minimum of legal formality.

Since every application or other paper filed with the probate court and every order obtained from the court involves the expenditure of attorney fees for its preparation and court costs for its handling by the clerk, in proper cases many dollars may be saved for the heirs by adequate provisions of a will.

(This column based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variation in facts may change the application of the law.)

Fair in Lubbock Sets Sept. 24 as Area School Day

September 24 is a "Red Letter Day" for schools in West Texas. It is "Area School Day" at the 39th Annual Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock.

"Area School Day" is the opportunity school children have been looking for, the day when they can all head for Lubbock and attend, free of charge, the opening day of the great regional fair. The Fair will be held September 24-29.

Most students will arrive in time to watch their band strut in the annual "Parade of Bands" which will be held at 10 a. m. Monday, September 24, in downtown Lubbock. Each year schools from all over the South Plains, West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are represented in the opening-day parade when their bands compete for the $600 in prizes.

Students will be admitted free of charge to the Panhandle South Plains Fairgrounds. There will be excitement and thrills waiting for them along the Midway, at the large cattle and swine exhibits, in the Women's Department, at the many merchants' exhibits in Fair Park Coliseum and Merchandise Building, plus the many outside displays and eating and drinking concessions.

Two performances of "Holiday on Ice of 1956" are set for Monday, with a matinee at 2:30 p. m., to which children will be admitted at half-price, and an evening show at 8 o'clock.

The reporter for the joint 4-H club had so much fun on the skating party in Morton she let the time pass last week and didn't get the article written for the paper.

There were 20 members present and we were very happy to have four very nice visitors. Our visitors were Martha Victor of Dallas, Gene Christian of Brownfield, Marsha White of Plains, Miss Gilmore of Levelland, and our own Nancy White (who is a lot of fun).

There was not any business meeting as we took advantage of the opportunity to skate.

Our agents, Miss La Rue Gilmore and Mr. Leo White, and one adult leader, Mrs. Rusty McGinty, were with us.

The refreshments were taken care of by each member.

TIMELY TIPS

By LA RUE GILMORE
County Home Demonstration Agent

June 15, 1956, marked a new era in the pattern industry. A revised standard of measurements has been approved by the measurement standard committee of the Pattern Industry. These charts are in the front of all the new pattern books. Before buying patterns check your measurements with the charts—not the measurements on the pattern sacks.

These patterns have been revised in order to give you, the consumer a better fitting garment. If you have been using the high chest measurement to obtain a bust measurement, it should now be disregarded. However, during this period of change, waist and hip measurements should always be checked to determine if alterations are necessary.

When you select a pattern by the new measurements on the chart notice the statement, "these are body measurements, not garment measurements." This simply means that body measurements are the measurements you take on your body so the proper size can be selected. The pattern has some "ease" to allow for comfort in moving in the finished garment.

ment. If you are satisfied with the size pattern you have been buying, CONTINUE TO BUY THAT SIZE. If there is any doubt about fit, measure across the fullest part of the bust.

After your new pattern size has been established, that is the correct pattern. Any brand or style pattern can be bought in that size with confidence, irregardless of measurements stated on the package.

Measurements should always be taken accurately. Never take body measurements over jackets or bulky materials. The bust should be measured over the fullest part. Measure the waist at the natural waistline, the hip around the fullest part of the body about 7" below the waistline.

When buying slacks, shorts or skirt patterns buy according to your waist measurement unless your hip measurement is larger than shown for that size . . . then select by measurement.

If you select your correct size from the new chart, any pattern in that size should fit you better. However, if you are not a perfect size you will still have to make alterations. The advantage to the standard pattern sizes is that it insures a better fitting garment for most people.

The main points to remember are: 1. If you are satisfied with the size you have been buying, continue to buy that size.

2. Use the measurement chart to determine the correct pattern size.

3. Once your new size has been established, any pattern purchased in that size should fit.

4. Disregard the high bust measurement, and measure across the fullest part.

5. Ask questions. The sales person home economics teacher and home demonstration agent all have answers to your questions available at your request.

ACROSS THE Cattle Guard

By LEO W. WHITE
County Agent

Cotton ginning time is at hand which means a busy time for a lot of people. The cotton farmer has been working ever since the first of the year to get this crop made and now that it is almost ready to harvest, he has to work more diligently than ever to get some bagging and ties around it and still have a little profit left. A farmer that is hauling cotton to the gin and making every effort to get it there in good condition so that he can get the highest possible grade, has very little time to think about another very important job that comes off at the same time. The job of hauling cotton burs back to the farm is an accepted practice in almost all of the cotton growing counties.

This bur hauling job is one that every farmer knows about and believes in but he can find several excuses for not getting the job done. The main excuse is time. The farmer would like for the ginner to let the burs pile up on the gin lot until after the ginning season is over so that he would have a little more time to move them. The ginner has certain regulations that he must go by in order to control the pink bollworm. He can run the burs through a hammer mill or a high speed fan or he can compost the bur pile by keeping it well saturated with water. A large pile of burs in a compost is always a fire hazard around a gin.

The solutions to the problem lies in the fact that farmers do not do their own bur hauling anyway. All of the burs that have been put back on Yoakum County land in any large amounts have been hauled by custom haulers who have trucks that are equipped for the job. They can haul them and spread them at the same time and it would not require very many trucks to keep up with the six gins in this county.

The bur haulers usually wait until they are through hauling in the Lubbock vicinity before they come out here and work up a hauling business. They can make good wages out of hauling and spreading the burs and most of the farmers would hire enough done rather than to rig up enough leading and spreading equipment to do it themselves. Now would be a good time to make some contacts and get some bur hauling equipment moved into Yoakum County. Someone who is already a resident of the county may be interested in this hauling job. It may be that a man with the necessary equipment is located in one of our neighboring towns. Whoever does the job, he should be working up a list of prospective customers now.

I would suggest that every farmer who plans to have some burs spread over his land this year should contact his gin manager to make sure that the burs will be available and see if he knows of someone who will do the hauling. At the same time, the farmer should know how many acres he has ready for burs and how many tons of burs he will need.

In a three year test at the Lubbock Experiment Stations, the average value of each ton of burs when two tons were applied to each acre of cotton land was $12-30. The value per ton decreases as the amounts increase over two tons per acre. Four tons of burs per acre gave a net return of $8.30 per ton. Farmers in the Lubbock area estimate that their burs cost them $2.50 per ton on their land.

Cotton burs obtain the three necessary plant food elements, nitrogen, phosphate and potash but the main thing that they do to our soils is increase the organic matter content. Soils that are low in organic matter will not produce a high yielding crop even if water and the fertilizer elements are in plentiful supply. If all the cotton burs that are produced in Yoakum County were put back on the land at a rate of two tons per acre, it would take

Texas Tech Opens Grid Practice With Hustle And Spirit

Texas Tech, newest Southwest Conference member, opens its fall football practice Saturday.

Despite the Red Raiders' new affiliation, Tech is not expected to be as strong as in recent seasons due to inexperience. Twenty-seven of the 52 candidates are sophomores.

Coach Dewitt Weaver, building toward a strong team in 1957 and '58 and 1960, when Tech becomes eligible for Southwest Conference title play, sees one encouraging sign for this season. That's the hustle and spirit shown by the Raiders in their spring practices.

"If Tech's hustle can overcome the experience of our opponents," says Weaver, "we'll be in pretty good shape. Unfortunately, it looks like our rivals have a good combination of both spirit and experience."

With only 19 lettermen returning from last fall's team, Tech will field its least experienced team since Weaver's first year—1951.

Nevertheless, season ticket sales have reached a new high of 7,000. After opening with Texas Western last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Culwell, the Raiders play Baylor there, Texas A & M in Dallas, West Texas here, Arizona there, Oklahoma A&M here, Texas Christian here, Tulsa here, Houston here, and Hardin-Simmons there.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE MEMBERSHIP has been attained by Texas Tech. Although the Red Raiders will not compete for the grid title until 1960 or for other championships until 1957-58, the big (8,000 enrollment) West Texas school at Lubbock will meet three Southwest Conference foes on this fall's rugged schedule. Above are Tech's Jones Stadium, capacity 28,000, scheduled for expansion, and the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium-Coliseum, which seats 10,000 for basketball. Pictured also is Dewitt Weaver, athletic director and head football coach, who in five seasons piloted Tech to four Border Conference titles and a Border record of 19 wins, one loss, and two ties.
