Geo sensors cause some concern

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

Over the course of the next few weeks, you might just notice a white, cylindrical object with wires jutting out of it on or near your property. Not to worry, though: It's not a bomb or UFO or even trash, for that matter. It's likely one of many sensors placed around the city by a company collecting seismic data for possible future use by oil and gas companies.

Road polices on tap for Commissioners meeting

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Discussion and possible action on policies concerning the acceptance of private roads and the naming of county roads will highlight Monday's meeting of the Howard County Commissioners Court. Officials have received several requests in recent years from property owners asking the county to take over responsibility for private roads in the area. Road and Bridge Administrator Brian Klinksiek said officials are a bit hesitant to grant those requests, however, because his department is already responsible for maintaining hundreds of miles of county roads on a budget of less than $3 million. As for the naming of county roads, Precinct 2

Commissioner Craig Bailey wants a firm policy put in place to avoid duplication, which has occurred in the past and could possibly hinder emergency response efforts called out to roads with similar or identical names. Also Monday, commissioners will consider:

• Presentation of a Leadership Big Spring project.

- · Permission to go out on bids for road shoulder
- widening materials. · An agreement between the county and the city of Big
- Spring concerning the use of fiber optic infrastructure. A closed session to discuss personnel matters.

Charlie Orr

Charlie Orr, 78, passed away peacefully Saturday, April 2, 2016.

Celebration of life will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 23, at Calvary de Taos.

Charlie was born in Fort Worth on Sept. 20, 1937. He married Shirley Ann McClain June 3, 1961, and was planning to celebrate 55 years together this year. They moved to Taos in 1986, after working for Sears Roebuck and Co. for 23 years, to become the owner/operators of the Sears catalog franchise store that eventually became the Sears hometown store. They chose Taos after a snow skiing vacation. As with everything in his life, Charlie always did the most he could. He began thinking about moving from Fort Worth to New Mexico after his first snow skiing experience about six years earlier and when he learned the Sears franchise store was for sale. He worked until it became a reality.

He did the most he could to be a good friend starting with never meeting a stranger. He always said "if you aren't 10 minutes early to church you're late." He used that time to visit with friends, tell stories about his kids and grandkids and of course to tell jokes. He met friends out for coffee weekly. He played golf as often as he could and enjoyed opening his home for parties and gatherings. He also did the most he could as a Cowboy fan wearing shirts, hats, jackets and even a watch with Cowboys football team logos. The Cowboys have lost their greatest and most faithful fan.

He did the most he could as a son and brother starting work early in his life to help support his mom and sisters. He loved holidays when there were always large family gatherings.

Charlie was involved in everything his kids did when they were growing up. He coached little league baseball and softball, took his daughters to Camp Fire Girls group camping, volunteered to drive the church youth group to New Mexico for a ski trip and he always got up early those mornings when the front yard was covered in toilet paper and his kid's cars were covered in shoe polish to take them to the car wash. He also said if he realized grandkids were so much fun, he'd have had them first. He started teaching the grandkids to say "papaw" as soon as he could as he wanted that to be their first word. He also took them snow skiing as soon as they could walk and would drive 13 hours to see them in a school activity or ball game.

He always said the best thing he could do for his kids was love their mother. He printed a page with special lettering that says "Charlie Loves Shirley" so it could be displayed prominently with all the family photographs. He did the most he could to make every birthday and anniversary special. And he also made every day special with how he greeted her in the mornings and creating daily and weekly rituals.

Everyone who knew Charlie will miss him and cherish the many fond memories he created for them. He always said he wanted a good turn-out at his funeral and he wants people to honor his memory by telling their favorite joke.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Jesse E. Orr and Bertha Lorene Burklow Orr Garner; inlaws, William Orvel and Laura Mae McClain; sister, Betty Gay; and son-in-law, Jody Wayne Swinnev.

Survivors include wife, Shirley; son Darrell Orr of Fort Worth; daughter and son-in-law Nancy and Steven Stahl of Kansas City, Mo.; daughter, Teri Swinney of Big Spring; sisters and brothersin-law, Patricia and Jesse Fincher and Peggy and Jim Lucko, all of Granbury; grandchildren, Aaron Templin, 29; Philip Templin, 27; Austin Orr, 22; Alysha, 20; Miranda Swinney, 18; Bailey Swinney, 16; great-granddaughter Heather Templin, 8; and many cousins, nieces and nephews.

Becca Cude

In loving memory of our beautiful daughter, sister, wife, mother and friend, "Becca" Cude who passed away March 31, 2016. She was born Dec. 3, 1978 to Erin Thomas and Randall Thomas in Lawton, Okla. She grew up in Midland, Texas and was a graduate of Midland High School.

Becca is survived by her loving husband Edward Cude of Marble Falls, Texas and four children, Emily, Kelsey and Kasen Cude of Marble Falls and Hailey Avery of Midland Texas, who were her world. She also leaves behind her mother, Erin Thomas of Stephensville, Texas; her father, Randall Thomas of Big Spring, Texas; sister Jenna Dahlberg of Abilene, Texas; in-laws Joe and Pat Cude of Stephenville, Texas and family as well as a large circle of friends and "adopted" family.

Becca will always be remembered for her larger than life personality, amazing irreverent wit, fantastic meals and contagious laugh. She was happiest at the family ranch in Marble Falls, Texas riding horses, taking a dip in the creek, hunting, playing with her babies and entertaining friends.

She was "precious and amazing and we loved her with all our hearts and souls".

In lieu of flowers donations in her memory may be made to The American Heart Association; 22Q. org (The International 22q11.2 Foundation); or the National Blood Clot Alliance. The family plans a private memorial service.

Hovey Cox, a senior vice president for CGG, blamed miscommunications for the incident. "All county and ISD permissions for placement of sensors and acquisition of seismic data were in place and paid for prior to commencement of survey activity around Big Spring High School,' Cox said. "While there was never any threat to safety and security, we appreciate and understand the actions taken by local authorities and school administration in response to any perceived threat to students or faculty.

"We are visitors in your city and will make every effort to ensure that our activities are carried out professionally and with minimal impact so that we can avoid a recurrence of any possible inconveniences experienced by the administration, faculty, students and families of Big Spring High School," Cox added.

He said every effort has been made to contact surface property owners to let them know about the project, but conceded some people may not have gotten wind about what was going on.

The sensors are being laid out in a grid pattern throughout Big Spring and Howard County. Data acquired through the project will be used by oil and gas companies to study the feasibility of exploration in the area, Cox said.

"These sensors are specialmicrophones ized to record seismic data — sound traveling through the earth's subsurface — and pose absolutely no risk to people or property," he said. "Ultimately the data acquired is processed to provide an image of the subsurface, very similar to ultrasound techniques. These images are used by oil and gas companies to estimate the potential of hydrocarbons present in the subsurface."

sensors have The already been deployed in Big Spring, and the company is initiating recording operations. Recording is done with specialized trucks (called vibrators) that send a focused seismic signal into the ground which are then recorded by the geophone sensors, Cox said.

"It should be noted

The arrests could give investigators new insights into the Islamic State group cell believed to have carried out the attacks in both France and women who have small travel trailers and take them all over the country. The trailers have painted scenes on them and create a sensation when a line of them motors down the highway. They look like moving billboards. The insides of the trailers are decorated to suit the owner's taste. "My camper is a 1956 Shasta.

It's about 15 feet long and very road worthy. I can tow her with my SUV. I had never pulled a trailer in my life until I became a sister. It's all about empowerment. I can get in my little trailer and go wherever I please. Most of the sisters have a theme for their camper. My little camper is 'Sister Moon'. I love the moon. I've always been fascinated by the moon and I'm a dedicated moon watcher. All the décor inside 'Sister Moon' is kinda themed toward the moon. I have signs up with messages like 'Live by the sun, love by the moon.' Our motto is: we have more fun than anyone. 'Sisters on the Fly' is just like Girl Scouts except with martinis." This month the sisters will be traveling along the Bankhead Highway, the first southern route across the US. It runs through Texas. 2016 is the 100th anniversary of the beginning of the Bankhead Highway. The sisters are planning a caravan to travel the entire length of the state and are calling it The Waltz Across Texas. It will begin in El Paso the first weekend in April and will travel eastward, going to the Davis Mountains, Alpine, Colorado City, Sweetwater, Abilene, then will take a detour to the Fort Worth Stockyards and will end up in East Texas on April 24 for the big finale. They'll pick up people as they go and we have sisters coming from all over the United States to participate in this. They're expecting 150 travel trailers by the time it's all over. It should be some spectacle."

Susie joined the sisters three years ago and says it has been some of the best years of her life. Sometimes she plays her ukulele to entertain her friends.

"A lot of the sisters are interested in cooking over a fire using Dutch ovens and cast iron skillets. We don't go hungry, that's for sure."

Susie will be helping host the sisters when they get to Sweetwater on April 16.

"They'll tour the WASP (Women Airforce Service Pilots) Museum where they'll hear about sisters who learned to fly during World War II as service pilots. I think it'll be very inspirational, since the sisters love adventure."

Letters to the Editor

Generations coming together

To the Editor:

It has been about 40 years or so since I attended a special gathering of Big Spring and Howard County leaders held in the Howard College Auditorium. The auditorium was packed and the meeting went on for several hours as a very biased crowd tried to convince representatives of the Texas Department of Transportation that the new Interstate-27 should come through Big Spring. With each word spoken in favor of the new interstate traversing our communtiy there was loud clapping and cheers. The crowd would have stayed as long as necessary but was adjourned by the DOT officials sometime after 10 pm.

For some reason, the project was delayed and is only now coming to the forefront again. I wish we could capture the zeal of that crowd of our citizens of a generation ago who recognized the importance of this project for Big Spring.

It is not only important for Big Spring but this is the logical place for the new highway to cross. The builders of U.S. 87 knew this. Even before there was a Big Spring and even before Captain Marcy and U.S. 87 this was recognized as the logical place to traverse this area. More than 200 years ago, the then rulers of the plains, the Comanche, established the famous Comanche war trail through what is now our community from as far north as Colorado to the south into Mexico. Our community is still the logical place to traverse. The Comanche knew this.

Let us try and convince the Texas Department of Transportation this fact.

I hope this community will rise up as it did 40 years ago in favor of this project crossing at the "cross roads" here in Big Spring.

Annual KBSB Trash-Off a success

Once again volunteers worked hard to help clean up our city while participating in the "Don't Mess with Texas" trash off! The weather played a factor, however, there was a grand total of 5,600 pounds of trash eliminated from our community. That is great, but we have a long way to go! Folks, we need your help to turn the appearance of our city around, everyone being responsibly for their own front yard and surrounding area. Please help us to make "Big Spring Beautiful".

We had one of our largest employers participating this year and they did a great job. Alon Refinery has participated with us in this event for several years. They had 52 employees volunteer and collected 1,520 pounds. Thanks!

Also, the Federal Correction Institution (FCI), GEO Group, worked side by side with our volunteers and are greatly appreciated. Hope Depot also ioined us. It was their first year. See LETTERS, Page 5A

Renters compared him to his caring father. Hal, for many years a deacon and Sunday school teacher, radiated an everpresent spirit for others. Kevin, however, may have felt he didn't measure up. Howard College and SWCID will do their campus later. BSJH Interact Club had five our doing their part. If there were other schools participating, I was not advised.

Please! We really need more help, however, a great job was done by those that volunteered their time on Saturday, April 2. They were Jim and Tammy DePauw and crew, Al Williams, Rene Valdez, Slim Dunaway. Also Gene and Sandy Roffers, Marvin Boyd, Frank Morphis, Carla Harrold, Janell Davis, Irene and Charlie Rodriquez, Mary, Jim and Kyler Grummitt, Vickie McLlean, Bartley and Meagan McIntosh, Lee and Fran Emerson, Dr. Keith and Willia Ledford, Londa Henry, Terry and Jan Hansen, Raul Marquez and family, Kathryn Wiseman, Teresa Darden, Terri Telchik. We had two clean up areas last week, Judge Tim Yeats and Raul Benevides. Then, we have Sandy Stewart and Genia Phillips doing an area later in the week. Hope I didn't miss someone!

We had 4,080 pounds collected by 138 volunteers and 36 under age 18, all working a total of 198 hours. Some of the most common things found were the usual plastic bags, fast food items, beer bottles, water bottles. Most unusual items found were: a paddle like the principal used, Burl Ives Christmas CD, tent with clothes and a jack stand.

Then, 42 volunteers enjoyed hot dogs and trimmings provided by Alon, 7-11, HEB, Sonic, Wal Mart, Gale's Water- Water and City. Cookies were provided by KBSH ladies.

The "Adopt a Highway" program has lost several groups in the past couple years and need areas to be adopted. Anyone interested contact TxDOT or check with me. This year the only group working that we were aware of was the U.S. Flight Academy. The instructor is Jarle Boe. The Academy's adopted the Airpark which they have done for several years. They generally have about 20 students from various countries. This year we were pleased to have six join us for hot dogs and we generally have more. We miss meeting them as they are very interesting. Adult probation did their area on FM700 Thursday and other area on Friday,

Since this ear the weather was a factor, we were still able to remove 5,600 pounds of trash from our city. And more to be done at a later

SpaceX launches futuristic popup room, lands rocket at sea

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — SpaceX resumed station deliveries for NASA on Friday, and in a double triumph, successfully landed its booster rocket on an ocean platform for the first time.

The unmanned Falcon rocket soared into a clear afternoon sky, carrying a full load of suppliesfortheInternational Space Station as well as a futuristic pop-up room.

After sending the Dragon capsule on its way, the first-stage booster peeled away. Instead of dropping into the Atlantic like leftover junk, the 15-story booster steered to a vertical named "Of Course I Still Love You."

Hundreds of SpaceX employees gathered outthe company's glassed-in mission control in Hawthorne, California, cheered wildly, jumped up and down, and chanted, "USA, USA, USA!."

"Absolutely incredible," said a SpaceX commentator. "The crowd is going a little nuts here, as expected."

Although the company managed to land a spent booster rocket at Cape Canaveral in December, touchdowns at sea had proven elusive, with several attempts ending in explosions on the founder Elon Musk wants to ultimately reuse rocket parts to shave launch costs.

This marks SpaceX's first shipment for the space station in a year. A launch accident halted cargo flights last June.

The Dragon and its 7,000 pounds of freight - including the attention-grabbing payload should reach the space station Sunday.

Traffic has been heavy lately at the 260-milehigh complex. NASA's other commercial shipper, Orbital ATK, made a delivery at the end of March, then Russia just last weekend. SpaceX's Dragon will join three cargo carriers and two crew capsules already parked there.

Besides a bevy of biological experiments including 20 mice for a muscle study, and cabbage and lettuce plants for research as well as crew consumption the Dragon capsule holds the pioneering pod.

Remember Texas history's most decisive 18 minutes on San Jacinto day April 21

April 21 marks the 180th anniversary of San Jacinto Day and commemorates the final battle of the Texas Revolution.

Though the battle was brief, the impact was monumental as it secured Texas independence from Mexico and led to annexation to the U.S.

Travelers can experience the history and legacy of the battle at several locales in the Texas Historical Commission's (THC) Texas Independence Region.

In West Columbia, Varner-Hogg Plantation State Historic Site, one of 20 sites managed by the THC, will host the San Jacinto Festival on April 16. Docents in period dress will give tours of the plantation house that once belonged to three notable Texas families, including Martin Varner, one of Stephen F. Austin's Old Three Hundred. ## Renewable energy investments set a record in 2015 ments in renewable energy, including wind and solar, hit a world record in 2015.

The world collectively spent nearly $286 billion on renewable energy development in 2015. The investment comes following an unprecedented worldwide boom in renewables in 2014 that suggested some countries are shifting dramatically toward low-carbon energy. Rising investments are in part being driven by the falling cost of solar and wind farm construc-

Yet even more investment is needed to avoid the worst impacts of climate change. Low and no-carbon energy sources are a major part of the solution outlined in the Paris climate agreement struck last year to keep global warming within 2°C (3.6°F) of pre-industrial temperatures.

Renewable energy investments, excluding large hydroelectric projects, jumped 5 percent last year, leaping over the previous investment record of $278.5 billion set in 2011. The findings were published in an annual report published on Thursday by the UN Environment Programme, the Frankfurt School and Bloomberg New Energy Finance.

The money put into renewables was more than double the $130 billion that spent on fossil power plants. Developing countries led the renewable charge. China, India, Brazil and other developing countries put $156 billion into renewables last year, a 19 percent increase over 2014.

Much of that came from China, which put $103 billion into renewable energy, up 17 percent over 2014 and making China the global leader when it comes to renewable investments.

Installations of solar and wind power generation facilities broke a global record for a second year in a row, hitting 118 gigawatts in 2015 — enough renewable energy to power more than 88 million homes. About 94 gigawatts were built in 2014.

"Although 2015 was a landmark year with the signing of the Paris agreement, the good news about renewables AP — Global invest- uptake is still not nearly enough to stabilize emissions below the 2°C trajectory," Eric Usher, chief of the Environment Programme Finance Initiative, said.

> Solar, wind and other low-carbon electricity sources have prevented 1.5 gigatons of greenhouse gases from being emitted per year over the past decade compared to a global electric power system running mostly on fossil fuels, he

To reach the 2°C goal, annual emissions need to be cut an additional 10 gigatons by 2020.

That's a huge challenge, Usher said, because many coal-fired power plants currently in use are built to last 40 years or more, and many have 20 or more years of life left in them, making it unlikely utilities will shut them down anytime soon.

ambitious "Despite signals from COP21 in Paris and the growing capacity of new installed renewable energy, there is still a long way to go," Frankfurt School President Udo Steffens said, referring to the Paris climate negotiations. "Coal-fired power stations and other conventional power plants have long lifetimes. Without further policy interventions, climatealtering emissions of carbon dioxide will increase for at least another decade."

The wave of investments in renewables is striking because plummeting oil and natural gas prices since 2014 should make power plants running on fossil fuels more attractive to investors, he said.

"However, commitments made by all nations at the Paris climate summit December, echoing statements from last G7 summit, year's require a very low or nocarbon energy system," Steffens said.

The renewables investment record also shows the transition toward the goal of reducing global reliance on coal and other fossil fuels is well underway mainly because investments in wind, solar and other renewables are now more than double investments in power plants running on fossil fuels, the report says.

Consequences of gas leak could lead to California blackouts

LOS ANGELES (AP) – A natural gas well blowout last year that crippled a major energy supply for Southern California could lead to blackouts in the region over as many as 14 days this summer, energy officials said Tuesday.

State agencies that studied the impact of the partial shutdown of the Aliso Canyon gas storage field proposed an action plan to prevent power outages but concluded they "will reduce, but not eliminate, the risk of gas shortages this summer that are large enough to cause electricity interruptions for the region's residents and businesses."

The report comes as state regulators investigate the cause of what scientists said was the largest-known release of climate-changing methane in U.S. history. The Southern California Gas Co. well leaked out of control almost four months and sickened Los Angeles residents who lived nearby, displacing more than 6,000 families from their homes.

Michael Picker, president of the California Public Utilities Commission, said the situation facing the region is similar to the shutdown of the San Onofre nuclear power plant near San Diego after a small radiation leak. State officials and utilities had to scramble to find alternate sources of power and were able to avert a blackout cri-

The report anticipates a typical summer without other supply problems. If it's hotter than usual, or other problems crop up, the risk of would blackouts increase.

"No matter what we do, there's always something unexpected," Picker said.

The Aliso Canyon impact could be felt beyond the Los Angeles area and could hit San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties, said Mark Rothleder, vice president of the California Independent System Operator, which manages the state power grid.

It could also extend beyond summer. The report said up to 18 days of outages could occur later in the year, though further study is needed.

Aliso Canyon is the largest natural gas storage area in the West and provides fuel for heat in winter and helps power electric plants in sumwhen energy demand spikes for cooling. Ample storage is needed because natural gas pipelines can't deliver gas fast enough or carry the capacity needmeet high ed to demands.

During the leak, the company withdrew most of the gas in the field to relieve pressure on the leaking well and it's under order from state regulators not to store additional gas deep underground until all 114 remaining wells pass a battery of strict tests.

Hawks sweep DH against NMJC

By DREW WILLIAMS

Sports Editor

Team captain James Davison couldn't help but show his emotion when he hit the game-tying RBI for the Howard Hawks in the second game of a double header against New Mexico Junior College.

"Let's go!" he shouted as he singled home Chad Paris from second base to tie the game at four in the bottom of the seventh. Davison knew he had just given his team a chance to take two games from the second place team in their conference. Howard (20-17, 11-7) beat NMJC (23-15, 13-5) 7-6 in the first game, and a sweep of the doubleheader was within reach.

Paris started things off with a single, and was moved to second on a bunt from catcher Tracker Conn. After Davison's single tied the game, Dominic Thornton was hit by a pitch to give Howard a free base runner and move Davison into scoring position. Robbie Lammons would come through with a single in the hole between first and second base, and Davison had no problem scoring from second to give the Hawks a 5-4 lead.

The top of the eighth was a big inning for Howard and starting pitcher Tyler Giovanoni. Giovanoni got the first batter out on a ground out, but a walk and a single the next two batters gave NMJC two on with only one out. On an 0-2 count, Giovanoni struck out NMJC's Zac Sanders, and Tracker Conn rifled a throw to Robbie Lammons at third base to catch Travon Benton stealing for the "strike 'em out, throw 'em out" double play to end the inning.

The bottom of the eighth saw the Hawks get a little bit of breathing room for Giovanoni. Andrew Beck led things off with a hit by pitch, and he was moved to second on a bunt by Jackson Owens. Rahman Williams would strike out, and with two outs, Chad Paris would become the second hit batter in the inning. With two on and two outs, a passed ball allowed Beck and Paris to move up to second and third, and Davison came through again in the clutch with a two-RBI single to right field to give the Hawks a 7-4 lead.

"It felt good," Davison said. "That's what's expected of me as a captain, to come through in situations like that. And at the beginning of the year I may have struck out, but I kept my emotions and just came through for my team."

Giovanoni went out again in the ninth inning for a chance at the complete game. He got the first two batters out on a strikeout and a line out to right field, but got into some hot water with two outs. A single by NMJC's Matt Martin and a double by Angel DeJesus brought Howard head coach Britt Smith to the mound to talk with Giovanoni. From the first step Smith took out of the dugout, Giovanoni was shaking his head "no," because he had no intentions of coming out of the game and turning it over to the bullpen.

"That's what I wanted to hear, because he was done there at the end. He was at 124 pitches, so he was done, but the adrenaline was going at that point and he's a competitor," Smith

Giovanoni struck out the next batter to give Howard the 7-4 win and the sweep of the doubleheader.

"I wasn't giving that up. I wanted that last out so I was going to do whatever I could to stay out there," Giovanoni said. "That was such an adrenaline rush when I saw him swing and miss. I was just so hyped and everything felt so good. I was so pumped."

Lady Steers win big, Steers win by one run in Lamesa

By DREW WILLIAMS

LAMESA — The Big Spring Steers and Lady Steers swept the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes in Lamesa Friday night.

The Lady Steers (14-4-1, 5-1) started things off with a 10-1 victory behind a dominant start from pitcher Yzzy Soliz. She finished the game with 12 strikeouts while only allowing three

"She didn't have her best control because she had five walks to go along with the 12 strikeouts," Big Spring head coach Howell Martin said. "But she had good stuff. She threw pretty hard and the strikeouts for the most part were swing-and-miss, and she did a good job of moving the ball around."

Mia Oliva hit her fifth home run in six games in a 2-for-4 performance with four RBIs. Kamri Kemper was 1-for-2 with a double and two RBIs, while also being hit by a pitch twice. Cierra Martinez was 3-for-4 with two RBIs, and Mary Gomez added a home run in the win.

"We had a good game all the way around and the bats came alive." Martin said. "We started hitting the ball really solid as far as the whole team is concerned. Up and down the lineup we're making good contact and hitting some gaps finally. We stopped hitting balls right at people."

The win keeps Big Spring within a game of Snyder (17-10, 6-0) for the district lead. Snyder beat Sweetwater 17-6 Friday night.

Lady Hawks split with Clarendon, still trail in conference by a game

By DREW WILLIAMS

Sports Editor

The Howard College Lady Hawks (29-13, 10-4) split their one-day series with the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs (26-17,11 3) on Friday to remain a game behind them in conference.

Howard ended Clarendon's 12-game winning streak with a walk-off win in the first game of the doubleheader. The Lady Hawks went into seventh and final inning up 6-3, but trouble on the mound from starting pitcher Celeste Villagrana let Clarendon back into the game. Villagrana walked the first batter in the inning, and the next Lady Bulldog hit a single to left field to give Clarendon two on with no outs. After another single scored the runner from second and a groundout to the pitcher gave Howard their first out, Clarendon's Katherine Betts hit a three-run homer out of the nine-hole to give the Lady Bulldogs a 7-6 lead.

In the bottom half, Howard would have to rally for the win. Kylee Keller popped up to shortstop to start the inning, and Lusi Stanley immediately followed with a line out to third base. Down to their last strike with the count at

Rangers beat Angels 7-3 in Griffin's 1st start since 2013

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A.J. Griffin said he wasn't the least bit discouraged during his two injury-plagued seasons out of the big leagues. He made it back with a vengeance on Friday night, and that made all the hard work he put in well worth it.

Griffin completed his inspiring comeback with a 7-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels, getting home run support from Rougned Odor.

"I don't even know how to put that into words, but it was a grind. And to be able to get out here and have the opportunity again is just fantastic," Griffin said.

Griffin threw 88 pitches over six innings, allowing three runs with two walks and a strikeout. He was brought up from Triple-A earlier in the day.

"I took my time this past offseason and just got my body into the right shape for pitching," Griffin said. "I'm not a supermodel or anything, but I'm in good pitching shape and I feel really good.'

The 28-year-old right-hander signed with Texas as a free agent in December after missing the previous two seasons with the Oakland A's following Tommy John surgery. Angel Stadium also was the site of his previous big league outing on Sept. 24, 2013.

"It's awesome. I've been working really hard to try to get back and compete at the highest level," said Griffin, who is 19-0 in 21 career starts in which he has received more than three runs of sup-

Rangers leadoff man Delino DeShields tied a career high with three stolen bases and scored twice, once on a wild pitch by reliever Cam Bedrosian in the fourth to give the Rangers a 6-2 lead.

"That's what Delino does for us when he gets on base," manager Jeff Banister said. "It was part of the formula last year that allowed us to get going and score runs. They paid a lot of attention to our baserunners tonight, especially Delino, and it really created some offense for us.'

Mavs beat Grizzlies, close in on playoffs after Barea injury

DALLAS (AP) — Dirk Nowitzki ended a shooting slump and returned to his rightful place as the leading scorer for Devin Harris and rookies Justin Anderson and Salah Mejri were the keys to the deciding run that pushed the Mavericks to the brink of their 15th playoff berth in 16 seasons.

Who knows what names will be next after a right groin strain sidelined sparkplug J.J. Barea, the leading scorer in a playoff push by Dallas that started when the Mavericks slowed the pace to account for the loss of point guard Deron Williams and versatile forward Chandler Parsons.

Nowitzki scored 21 points, Harris had all 16 of his in the second half and the Mavericks beat the Memphis Grizzlies 103-93 on Friday night, matching a season high with their sixth straight win and staying in the mix for a higher seed that would keep them away from San Antonio and Golden State in the first round.

"We are going to figure it out," coach Rick Carlisle said. "That's all I can tell you. When you lose guys, you lose versatility. We are going to have to be resourceful."

Tony Allen scored 25 points to lead the injuryriddled Grizzlies. They lost for the seventh time in eight games a night after clinching a playoff spot when the Rockets lost at home to Phoenix.

Memphis (42-37)dropped a half-game behind Portland for the fifth seed, and the Mavericks (41-38) still have a chance to get that high because they hold the tiebreakers on both teams. The Grizzlies play Golden State twice in their final three games and are at the Los Angeles Clippers in the other.

The Mavericks will make the postseason for the 15th time in 16 seasons with a win or Houston loss in the final three games. The Jazz, currently holding the last playoff spot in the West, dropped two games behind Dallas with a 102-99 overtime loss to the Clippers.

The Grizzlies know Marc Gasol will miss the playoffs with a broken right foot, and P.J. Hairston played briefly in the second half against Dallas after missing 11 games with a left groin

They still don't know when, or if, guard Mike Conley (left Achilles tendinitis) and forward Brandan Wright (right knee injury) will re-

ain't ducking "We nothing," Allen said. "We knew we're in the playoffs. I think it's going into the playoffs

The Lady Steers will take on Estacado (4-15, 0-6) at 5 p.m. Monday night for Senior Night. It should be a good game to recognize the seniors as Estacado is winless in district and has been outscored 264-108 on the year.

In baseball, the Steers (8-13, 3-2) beat the Golden Tornadoes 6-5 Friday. The Steers had big days throughout the lineup and Tristan Myrick and Anthony Godwin did a good job on the mound to give Big Spring the one-run win.

Godwin went 3-for-4 at the plate with two RBIs and three runs scored in the leadoff spot. Riley Henson also added a 3-for-4 day in the two-hole to give the Steers a near-perfect game at the top of the lineup. Matthew Tarrats went 2-for-4 with a runs scored, and Dylan Marquez was 2-for-2 with an RBI, two runs scored and a walk.

"When the chips were down tonight we did have some guys come through big at the plate, and that's the kind of thing you need to win the big games in this district," Big Spring head coach Bobby Smith said.

Myrick started the game on the mound and went 2.1 innings, giving up an earned run on two hits. He was pulled in favor of Godwin in the third inning after four out of the first five hitters in the inning reached base. Godwin got a ground out his first batter, but an error in the outfield in the next at-bat allowed Lamesa to tie the game at four before Godwin eventually retired the side.

Big Spring went down 5-4 in the bottom of the fifth, but came back to take the lead in the top of the sixth. After the first two batters were outs, Marquez tripled to get the rally started. Godwin brought him home on a single to tie the game, and Henson singled to right field in the next at-bat, scoring Godwin after an error by the right fielder, and Big Spring took a 6-5 lead. The lead would hold as Godwin allowed only a walk in the bottom of the sixth, a pitched around a two-out double in the bottom of the seventh. It was Godwin's first outing since throwing 164 pitches last Friday against Snyder.

"Godwin wanted to start, but we wanted to get Myrick some work. Tristan did an excellent job, but I decided to make the move to Godwin because I felt we needed to stop the momentum that Lamesa had," Smith said. "Next round we will flip the pitching rotation. We are in a good position. Not as good as we wanted but we will be fine if we will start making routine plays like we should."

Smith added that 3-2 in district is a lot better than 2-3, but that his team could be in a better position if not for the errors on the defensive end.

"There is a huge difference between 3-2 and 2-3. Mentally it would have been a big letdown if this game would have went in their favor," he said. "We honestly feel we could or should be 4-1 or 5-0 right now. We have been shooting ourselves in the foot defensively."

The Steers will look to start a winning streak when they take on Estacado (9-15, 3-2) at 7 p.m. Monday night in Big Spring.

Villagrana had a solid day despite a disappointing finish and an odd stat line. All seven runs given up were earned, but she did only allow five hits. Three walks hurt her as all five Clarendon hits came in the first inning, when the Lady Bulldogs scored three runs, and the final inning. She only allowed one base runner from the second inning to the start of the seventh.

"We thought Celeste Villagrana started off rocky in the first inning but then came together, then we got to the seventh inning and it was the bottom of the order and we're thinking 'Ok, we've got this. She's got them out all game so let's keep her out there and lets let her roll," Howard head coach Kelly Raines said.

"Then she gave up a base hit, a base hit, then she gave up a big hit. I don't know if she just lost it there in the seventh inning but we thought she was good and that's just what happens. They're a scrappy team and they're going to come at you the whole time and we were fortunate to win."

Howard wouldn't be as fortunate in the second game. Up 3-2, the Lady Hawks gave up four straight singles and a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning to give Clarendon a 4-3 lead. Lady Bulldog Courtney Turner then hit a two-run homer in the top of the sixth inning to put Clarendon up three, and they held on for the 6-3 win as Howard couldn't get their bats working for the

"We were just popping up way too much," Raines said. "We didn't do a good job of hitting the ball on the ground or hitting line drives. They definitely outhit us and I just don't think that should happen. I feel like we're the best hitting team in the conference, but we didn't show it at is a much tougher schedule

Despite the split and the fact they're still a game behind Clarendon in the standings, things are looking good for the Lady Hawks. They get Frank Phillips College (9-29, 0-14) for a doubleheader at home on Saturday, and they have yet to win a conference game as they've lost their first fourteen conference games of the year. They'll follow that with a four-game series at home against Luna Community College (6-21, 0-10), another team that's winless in the conference. Clarendon has two games against Western Texas College (17-25, 6-8), Odessa College (27-18, 8-4) and Midland College (28-10, 8-4) for their next six games, which to say the least.

Despite the golden opportunity for a six-game winning streak, Raines says her team still has to be ready for the teams that may appear to be

"We have to do a lot of growing in these next few weeks. We have to get better and try to focus and try to stay focused. It's easy to get up for Midland and it's easy to get up for Odessa, but they have to get up for the other teams as well, and these other teams are trying to beat them," she

More to come on Howard's Saturday doubleheader with Frank Phillips and their push towards the top of the standings next week in the Herald.

He finished the game throwing a complete nine innings, giving up two earned runs on eight hits and striking out 10. His team captain and coach had nothing but good things to say following his performance on the mound.

"That was a really gutsy performance. He really showed his heart out there and I'm really proud of Tyler because he works so hard every day," Davison said. "And I always tell my pitchers that I'll do anything to have their back every day, every inning, just depend on us and keep pounding the zone. Even though we make mistakes sometimes we're still going to battle back when it

Smith said Giovanoni's pitching was a big reason it was Howard's best game of the year so far.

"The second game, and I told them, it's probably the best game they've played all year," he said. "We made the error in the outfield early in the game and really put Giovanoni behind the eight ball, and he made some mistakes in that first inning, but after that, he pitched. He battled, he competed and then we made plays for the rest of the game after that."

The Hawks were being no-hit through four innings, until a walk by Jackson Owens and a double by Rahman Williams got the Hawks on the board in the fifth inning.

"Once we adjusted at the plate in the fifth inning and started to go the other way off Delgado, because he was just painting the outside corner and we were just letting him have it and getting no-hit, good things started to happen and we got a little confidence and then they started to press a little bit once the game got close," Smith said. "We could've played a little cleaner, and that's probably just the coach in you at that point. Obviously you're going to be satisfied coming back and winning here because we needed to win two games today throwing Jose and Tyler."

SPORTS

Jose Quezada started the first game, giving up three earned runs on six hits in five innings. Jake Davis pitched two innings for the save, giving up only one hit and striking out three, though he did make things interesting with three walks. Beck had a huge first game, going 2-for-2 with a home run and four RBIs to lead the Hawks offensively. Davison went 2-for-3 in the first game, and followed it with a 3-for-5 performance in the second game with a triple and four RBIs.

"These were the best two wins of the year just because of how we played as a team and you can tell how much we're growing. And I've been saying it all week that I feel a winning streak coming," Davison said.

He'll try to keep the winning streak going Saturday with another doubleheader against NMJC. More to come on the series next week in the Herald.

self-driving cars aren't ready for roads

WASHINGTON (AP) - Self-driving cars are more likely to be a threat than a boon to public safety because of unresolved technical issues, engineers and safety advocates told the government Friday, countering a push by innovators for expedited government approval. Even a trade association for automakers cautioned the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration at a public meeting that a slower, more deliberative approach may be needed than the agency's plan to provide in six months federal guidance for deploying the vehicles on roadways. There are risks to deviating from the government's traditional process of issuing regulations and standards, Paul Scullion, safety manager at the Association of Global Automakers, told a public meeting on self-driving cars hosted by Issuing new regulations takes an average of eight years, NHTSA has said. "While this process is often time-consuming, these procedural safeguards are in place for valid reasons," Scullion said. Working outside that process might allow the government to respond more quickly to rapidly changing technology, but that approach will "likely come at the expense of more rigorous development and it may be necessary to continually reevaluate the effectiveness of these processes as a long term solution," he said.

Mark Rosekind, NHTSA's administration, said the agency can't wait because self-driving technologies are already in cars on the road. He pointed to automatic emergency braking that can stop or reduce speed to avoid or mitigate a collision. Another safety option on some vehicles automatically steers vehicles back into their lane if they start to drift into another lane without the driver turning on a turn signal.

"Everybody asks when are they going to be ready? I keep saying they're not coming, they are here now," he said. "There is a huge gap that if we don't fill that with how we are going to do this safely then people are just going to keep putting stuff out on the road with no guidance on how do we do this the right way."

Rosekind emphasized that he sees self-driving cars as potentially game-changing technology that can someday save the lives of many of the more than 30,000 people killed each year on the nation's

A Ford Motor Co. official recently told a Senate committee that the automaker expects to deploy self-driving cars with a few years through a partnership with the car-sharing service Lyft. Google, a pioneer in the development of self-driving cars, is pushing Congress to give NHTSA new powers so that the agency can give the tech giant special, expedited permission to bring to market cars with no steering wheel or pedals.

But many of the people who addressed the meeting ,Äî the first of two NHTSA has scheduled as it works on the guidelines ,Äî pointed to a host of situations that self-driving cars still are unable handle. The technology relies on clear lane markings, and the poor condition of more than half the nation's roads may be beyond the abilities of selfdriving cars, not to mention driveways and parking lots.

Experts caution Whoopi Golgberg says say yes to pot for menstrual cramps

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)- With a nod to Whoopi Goldberg, lawmakers in New Jersey announced legislation that would loosen the state's strict medical marijuana law to allow women to get potbased products to ease menstrual Democratic Assembly members Tim Eustace, L. Grace Spencer and Angelica Jimenez introduced the bill on Thursday, noting in a news release that their move follows the actress' collaboration with a maker of organic marijuana edibles on a line of medical cannabis designed to relieve menstrual pain.

"For many women, the response to pain so severe that it causes them to vomit or faint is either, 'Just deal with it,' or a prescription drug that may not even alleviate their symptoms," Jimenez said.

Taylor West, the deputy director of the National Cannabis Industry Association, a nonprofit trade group, said she's not aware of any other state that specifically list cramps as an ailment authorized for medical marijuana use. But she said that it has likely been prescribed for menstrual cramps in states where doctors have more leeway in prescribing medical marijuana. Under current New Jersey law, marijuana is limited to use for a specific list of ailments, including multiple sclerosis, terminal cancer, muscular dystrophy, and other chronic illnesses. It's also approved for seizures and glaucoma if resistant to conventional treatment.

Goldberg, a West Orange resident, connected with edibles manufacturer Maya Elisabeth to launch the line, Whoopi & Maya, which includes THC-infused creams, bath salts and chocolate. The products are set to be available soon in a handful of dispensaries in California, where users need a doctor's authorization to buy a wide range of marijuana or pot-based products.

New Jersey's medical marijuana program dates to former Gov. Jon Corzine's administration, but Gov. Chris Christie has gone slow in implementing it, arguing it is little more than "a front for legalization."

Medical marijuana in New Jersey is tightly restricted and state lawmakers said Christie's administration has placed "arbitrary and unnecessary" restrictions on the program. Patients and doctors, for instance, must register with the state. Caregivers have to pay a $200 fee for an identification card.

After the success of Lucky Sushi, the owners wanted to test the waters with a new concept – a salad bar restaurant centered on ceviche.

Green Ceviche don, Äôt have artificial flavors, preservatives, sweeteners or hydrogenated fats.

"Everyone is going more health conscious," said Gabriel Arguello, one of the owners of the new restaurant. "We were already handling seafood (at Lucky Sushi) and wanted to combine it with a new trend, which is a salad bar."

The owners had originally wanted to include ceviche on their Lucky Sushi menu but found that it would have been too difficult to incorporate.

Similar to Luck Sushi, where you can build your own sushi roll, cone or bowl, Green Ceviche allows its customers to build their own salad or ceviche bowl. The concept of a build-your-own ceviche bowl came after Arguello, Äôs mother scoffed at the

"She said, 'I don't like ceviche," he said. "I asked, 'Why not?' Well, she doesn't like onions. I asked her, 'How about I can make you one without onions?' She said she would love it. We can customize any ceviche you prefer.'

Arguello said none of the restaurant's seafood is farm raised. A new batch of seafood comes every re you the proud owner of a smartphone? As of 2015, nearly two-thirds of Americans own a smartphone. If you fall into this category, Better Business Bureau serving Central, Coastal, Southwest Texas and the Permian Basin is warning of the latest twist on computer hacking: the "ransomware" scam that targets smartphones.

Don't fall victim to 'ransomware'

As of March 2016, BBB has received reports of 123 cases of this scam throughout the country. This scam occurs when a hacker gains access to your mobile device – or computer - and sends a pop-up window that says your device has been compromised or something similar. Hackers use this technique because it freezes your device and demands you to pay a ransom to have the restriction removed. Similarly, the "iScam" affected some iPhone users last year by sending an "iOS crashed" pop-up window. This scam locked iPhones and demanded money to fix the problem. News reports indicate that Apple has released a patch to fix the issue.

Unfortunately, it appears the hackers are back at it again. Your BBB recently received a report from a consumer that was affected by a variation of the iOS scam. Like the iScam, this consumer received a malicious pop-up that appeared on their iPhone masquerading as an iOS virus alert, locking the browser and urging the user to call a number to resolve the issue. The consumer was told to pay $50 and did before realizing it was a

• Install anti-virus software. To remove ransomware off your computer, use your anti-virus software's ransom tool, which should scan for and remove any ransomware attempts found on your computer. If you have an iPhone, turn on the anti-phishing feature for your Safari browser, 'Fraudulent Website Warning,' which is located in your phone's settings. When turned on, you will be alerted if you visit a suspected phishing website. Also, enable the pop-up blocker feature in settings. Keep your devices updated. Make sure all antivirus software and firewall protection on your computer is up-to-date. Also, update your phone every time a new software update is available. Although it can be time consuming, it really is for your safety!

 Be cautious when giving control of your device to a third party. Allowing a business to take remote control of your device can open you up to fraud or various malware. Be cautious of third-party apps or clone apps that look legitimate but are really designed to infect your device with malware and steal personal and financial information. Be sure to ask questions and don't feel pressured into allowing a third party access to your phone.

· Protect your personal information. Think twice before providing your credit card or financial information, especially if you are cold called by a company claiming to be affiliated with an anti-virus company. Also, try not to store personal information in your phone, such as credit card numbers, account log-ins or passwords.

 Don't click on suspicious-looking links. If you do receive a text from an unknown number, don't click on any links or follow any instructions provided. If the text asks you to respond yes, no or stop, don't respond as this only confirms to scammers that the phone is active and in use. You can forward suspicious texts to 7726, or "SPAM". It's then recommended that you delete the texts.

 If you are hit by ransomware, try force quitting the browser. If that doesn't work, put the phone in airplane mode, then clear the browser history and cookies. If it still doesn't work, contact tech support for your device's manufacturer directly.

4 Fed leaders face questions about powerful jobs rates to levels not seen since New York, a residential dorrecession since the Great De-

WASHINGTON (AP) — Janet Yellen was put on the spot about whether she made a mistake in raising interest rates in December. Ben Bernanke was quizzed about what it felt like to be called a traitor by the governor of Texas. Alan Greenspan was asked

News in brief

Cost of mailing a letter drops to 47 cents beginning Sundav

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of mailing a letter is going down.

Beginning Sunday, the price of a first-class stamp drops two cents, to 47 cents. The reduction is the result of an expiring surcharge that had been put in place in January 2014 to help the beleaguered Postal Service recoup $4.6 billion in losses dating back to the Great Recession.

Postmaster General Megan J. Brennan said in a statement that the forced rate reduction would exacerbate Postal Service losses. The agency estimated that it would lose $2 billion in annual revenue as a result.

Commercial and other postage rates also are declining.

In its latest financial report, the agency reported a $307 million profit between October and December of 2015, due in part to increases in holiday ship-

But postal officials said at the time that without favorable interest rate changes and the postal surcharge, they would have had a net loss of approximately $700 million in the first quarter.

An independent agency, the Postal Service does not use taxpayer money for its operations. But under federal law, it can't raise prices more than the rate of inflation without approval from the Postal Regulatory Commission.

The service is still seeking relief from a congressional mandate to pre-fund retiree health benefits, something that neither the government nor private companies are required to do, as well as greater flexibility in setting rates.

Liberia giving school oversight to American group

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Liberia plans to outsource the oversight of its entire primary education sector to a U.S.-based, for-profit company that is linked to Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg, education officials say.

Bridge International Academies, which has received $10 million from Zuckerberg and his wife, will be responsible for monitoring and evaluation, though Liberian teachers will remain in the country's classrooms.

Education Minister George Werner said "radical" steps are needed to improve schools in Liberia, which struggled with the legacy of civil war even before Ebola left nearly 5,000 dead here and forced schools to close for months.

"Our country is not competitive educationally," Werner told "New Dawn," a popular Monrovia ra-

"This doesn't mean that our children are not bright; the system is failing them."

A few years back President Ellen Johnson Sirleaf went so far as to describe the educational system in Liberia as "a mess" after all 25,000 students failed the entrance exams for the University of Liberia.

Under the new program, Liberian teachers will have to be properly vetted and deemed qualified to justify their inclusion to teach, Werner said.

Bridge International Academies says a girl in Liberia currently is more likely to get married than to be able to read by the age of 18. Their program will "give good teachers the support and resources they need to become great teachers.

Shareholders approve sale of Starwood Hotels to Marriott

NEW YORK (AP) — Marriott International has cleared one of its major hurdles on its journey to acquire rival Starwood and become the world's largest hotel chain.

Shareholders in both Marriott and Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide Inc. approved the $14.41 billion sale Friday morning.

The vote puts an end to a hectic month in which Marriott had to fend off a last-minute competing bid from China's Anbang Insurance Group. After aggressively pursuing Starwood, Anbang suddenly withdrew its bid last week, clearing the path for Marriott.

The acquisition has already been approved by U.S. anti-trust regulators but still needs to clear authorities in the European Union and in China. The deal is expected to close in the middle of this year.

Holders of over 97 percent of Marriott shares present and voting at the meeting, representing over 79 percent of outstanding shares, voted in favor of a proposal to issue shares of Marriott common stock in connection with the transaction. Holders of over 95 percent of Starwood shares present and voting at the meeting, representing over 63 percent of outstanding shares, voted in favor of a proposal to approve the transaction.

At closing Starwood stockholders will receive 0.8 shares of Marriott common stock plus $21.00 in cash for each share of Starwood common stock.

Last year, Starwood — the owner of Sheraton, Westin and St. Regis brands — put itself on the

The company has struggled to grow as fast as its rivals, particularly in "limited service hotels," smaller properties which don't have restaurants or meeting space.

Brooklyn case takes front seat in Apple encryption fight

NEW YORK (AP) — The Justice Department says it will continue trying to force Apple to reveal a phone's data in a New York drug case.

The government told a Brooklyn judge Friday it still wants an order requiring Apple's cooperation even though it no longer needs the company's help with a phone linked to a mass shooting in Califor-

An Apple lawyer did not immediately return a request for comment.

The Justice Department recently dropped a legal fight to compel Apple to help it break into an iPhone used by a gunman in the December attack in San Bernardino that killed 14 people.

In Brooklyn, a magistrate judge had blocked the government from forcing Apple to help in the Brooklyn case.

The government recently appealed to a district

Your Lunar Playmate

It's been a while since you gave much Holiday thought to Mathis who your best playmates are. The question applies urgently to people of all ages now, as the need for quality play is much stronger and more primal than most people would guess. The Gemini moon suggests profound benefits to prioritizing social fun. ARIES (March 21-April 19). What some creatures eat on the regular is poisonous to other creatures. Make no assumptions. Ask and you'll learn something interesting about the particular tolerances and preferences of those you adore.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Your future success depends on being able to read the crowd today. When you anticipate what people need and want, you gain real power. In short: Know your audience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're not always in a position to follow your hunches, so seize today's moment and run with it. This is a prime opportunity in which your life can be markedly improved when you act on your psychic inklings.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Love will turn you into an artist. The sweetness you feel for someone puts a song in your heart, poetry in your dreams and other kinds of creativity you never even considered before into your able hands.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). If you needed another reason to maintain an easygoing attitude, just know that any troubles you encounter today will pass so quickly that they will hardly qualify as true "troubles." Call them "blips" instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Observe the situation a while longer. There will be tremendous benefits to being perceived as cool, mysterious and wise. You will embody all those things in silence.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Casual conversation will be most enlightening. Social experience will teach you what you can't get in a book. You'll be impressed by the eloquence of others, and it will rub off on you too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You want more than the others want, and your drive is much stronger than theirs, too. Just be careful not to let your ambitions overshadow the small victories of the day that really deserve to be celebrated.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). It will take more than usual to see what's so fantastic about a situation, but don't stop looking. There is far more good than evil in the world. Focus on the many things that are going right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You don't always recognize "enough" right away, and that's something to work on now. Knowing the proper amount of energy to bring to the situation will make everything about it better for you. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You may not like the hand you're dealt today, but there's a winning way to play it. Probably you'll have to bluff a bit. Don't think of this as a lie; rather, think of it as a hopeful projection.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Of course you deserve your own kindness. If you're still struggling with that it's a good day to simply drop the fight. Assume that one of the main things you need right now is more compassion and then give it to yourself.

TODAY'S BIRTH-DAY (April 10). You'll be chosen for a first-string team or some type of elite mastermind group. This will be an honor, a pleasure and a big responsibility. Your earning potential grows as you pick up more skills through the next six months. June and August bring adventure. Family bonds strengthen as you get out of your element together. Libra and Leo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 33, 39, 1 and 26. FORECAST FOR

THE WEEK AHEAD:

The way we experience

love changes according to the age of the lover. A 13-year-old crush is a completely different experience from the dance that 20-somethings do, and senior citizen dating is another story altogether. And yet, the senior citizen still has the 13 and 20 year-old mind and heart somewhere inside to draw from. Going back to the young love feeling is one theme of Venus in Aries. This assertive, youthful placement for the love goddess is prone to puppy love, and no age group is immune to it. This week, Mars adds to the excitement by enticing Venus in an auspicious trine. Mars is coming from the fire realm of Sagittarius and is pulling in a great deal of excitement and heat from the world at large.

Under this cosmic angling, to love someone especially through the introduction of new influences, cultures,

languages, lifestyles

is to inspire that person, and experiences. If you don't think that your lifestyle is a completely different world to another person, you need to get out and meet the "other people" who live completely differently from you. Whether you're the teacher or the student, this week's mash-up of social influences will be overwhelmingly positive and life-enhancing. CELEBRITY PRO-FILES: Shay Mitchell is a fiery Aries born under the reasonable influence of a Virgo moon. This fire/earth combo is the perfect balance, made even more auspicious by Mercury and Venus in Pisces, the sign known for empathetic alignment. With the communication and

Annie's Mailbox ®

Dear Annie: I am a young lady in my 20s, and I think I've found the man I want to spend the rest of my life with. I want to start a family and build a life with him, but I don't know how that's going to happen.

"Jonathan" takes care of his mother and father. They are on disability, even though they aren't truly disabled. They don't drive, but can do anything other people do. It's just hard for them. His parents are wonderful people and I love them to death, but Jonathan drops everything to tend to them, whether it's going to the grocery store or lending them money. It's hard for me to think we could have a family of our own when he already has one, and it's a big responsibility.

Jonathan works hard every day and can never say no to his parents, and his father would give him plenty of attitude if he did. I would do anything for my parents, but when is it too much? -- The Young Lady

Dear Lady: Most people on disability have a reason, so when you say his parents are not "truly disabled," you could be wrong. The things that are hard for them, along with their inability to drive, could make their lives more difficult than you realize. And a man who takes such good care of his parents might make an excellent husband and father. However, if you think his parents are somehow scamming the system and taking advantage of their son, you might want to back away from this relationship. Jonathan is unlikely to curtail his level of responsibility and would resent you if you

We hope you will have a serious talk with Jonathan about this, so you can see where his priorities are, and how deeply they conflict with forced the issue.

Dear Annie: "A Frustrated South Dakotan," says he has epilepsy with "very minor seizures," and is unhappy that his mother restricts his activities. Your recommendation of the Epilepsy Foundation website is excellent. There are a couple of specific points I would like to address:

1. States have regulations against people driving when they may have a sudden loss of consciousness for any reason (seizures, narcolepsy, low blood sugar). This is for the protection of everyone on the road and sidewalk. If a person who knowingly has uncontrolled seizures causes an accident, he may be at risk for criminal charges. At the very least, his insurance rates will go up.

2. ## Teen suspect faces murder charge in Austin student's killing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) – A homeless 17-year-old has been arrested and will be charged with murder Friday in the killing of a University of Texas dance major whose body was recovered in the heart of the bustling campus, unnerving one of the country's best-known schools.

Investigators said Meechaiel Criner wasn't a university student and wasn't believed to have been in Austin long. Austin Police Chief Art Acevedo said Criner could face additional charges in the slaying of 18-year-old Oregon-native Haruka Weiser.

"We are very certain that the subject we have in custody ... is responsible for the death of this beautiful young woman," Acevedo said at a campus news conference.

Weiser – described by a former dance teacher as having a "dancer's soul" – was last seen leaving the campus drama building Sunday night. Her body was found Tuesday in a creek near the alumni center and UT's iconic football stadium, an area that hums with activity day and night.

The slaying shook a campus that's home to about 50,000 students. University President Greg Fenves called Weiser's slaying "horrifying and incomprehensible" and described it as an attack on the entire school community.

"It was unsettling," said 20-year-old Jasmine Chavez, who was on UT's central mall area Friday but hails from Houston. "I feel better now that they've caught the guy."

Police released surveillance video that showed a man they said was a suspect walking a women's bicycle. Firefighters recognized the man on the video as Criner, whom they had spoken to in connection with a trash fire near the UT campus on Monday. An Austin resident who reported the fire also called police when she saw the surveillance video, Acevedo said.

Criner wasn't arrested for the fire but was instead taken to a shelter. Police found him there Thursday and took him into custody without incident. Acevedo said his clothing matched that of the man on the surveillance video and that he was in possession of a women's bike, as well as Weiser's duffel bag and some of her other belongings.

Acevedo wouldn't speculate on motive and said authorities are still working to determine Criner's criminal record. Texas Department of Family Protective Services spokeswoman Julie Moody said Friday that Criner "had been in Child Protective Services care" but that she couldn't elaborate on where, for how long or provide any further details, citing privacy rules and the ongoing criminal investigation.

The Austin Police Department released a photo of Criner being led into their headquarters, but it was unclear if he had retained an attorney.

Weiser's autopsy showed she had been assaulted, but police have refused to release further details about her death, except to say that the route she took from her dorm to the drama building often passed Waller Creek, where her body was found.

Fenves said increased police patrols on campus, which have included Texas state troopers in cars, on bikes and on horseback, would continue for the time being. The Department of Public Safety also is conducting a security review on campus, including checking video monitoring, lighting and building security systems

Fenves said the arrest "brings a tremendous sense of relief to our students, our faculty, our staff and the entire University of community."

"We will honor Haruka's life and what she stood for," Fenves said. "We will take this as an occasion to do as Haruka's parents asked us to do, learn from this and make this a better community and a safer community for everyone."

The university said that Weiser's was the first on-campus homicide since former Marine Charles Whitman climbed to the top of UT's bell tower on Aug. 1, 1966, and opened fire, killing 14 people and wounding scores of others. Authorities later determined Whitman also killed his wife and mother in the hours before he went to the tower. A 17th death would be attributed to Whitman in 2001 when a Fort Worth man died of injuries from the shooting.

Weiser's family said she had planned to take on a second, pre-med major soon and to travel to Japan this summer to see relatives.

"She was so happy to be a student at UT and was looking forward to the opportunity to perform again as a dance major," they said in a statement. "We know Haruka would not wish for us to be stuck in sadness but to keep living life to the fullest. That is what we will try to do in coming

Belgium: unsure whether suspect Abrini is 'man in hat'

BRUSSELS (AP) Belgian authorities said the remaining fugitive suspect in the Nov. 13 Paris attacks was arrested in Belgium on Friday, after a raid linked to the deadly March Brussels bombings yielded five detentions

The suspect, Mohamed Abrini, could be the mysterious "man in the hat" who escaped the double bombing at the Zaventem airport, but federal prosecutors said they still needed further verification. "We are investigating if Abrini can be identified as the third person at the Brussels national airport, the so- called man with the hat," said prosecutor Eric Van der

Another man arrested on Friday, Osama K., alias Naim al Ahmed, was seen with Brussels subway bomber Khalid El Bakraoui just before the March 22 attacks, the prosecutor said.

Osama K. was also filmed by security cameras in the City 2 shopping mall when the bags were bought that were used by the suicide bombers who attacked Brussels Airport the same morning.

Belgian prosecutors said fingerprints and DNA from Abrini had been found in a Renault Clio used in the Paris attacks, and in an apartment in the Forest area of the Belgian capital that was used by Salah Abdeslam, another Paris suspect, as a hideout until police stumbled Friday's arrest of five suspects came a day after Belgian authorities released photos and video of the "man in the hat" airport suspect.

Local rescue group tries to save the strays of Big Spring

By JULIE BASS

Staff Writer

On April 2, Relocation Rescue and West Texas Pets Alive worked together to bring some fun, to the area and to help save a few furry lives.

There was food, bands, various activies and dogs at the Raise the Woof event held at city amphithe-

The group's focus is to help adopt out animals that would be euthanized due to lack of room in local shelters.

"We are trying to help make Big Spring a no kill area," said Stephanie Yeats, volunteer and foster dog owner. "We need to expand and build on to what we have. It will take a lot of money and time."

The groups currently watch the local shelter, and when an animal comes up for euthanasia, the group tries to find a rescue group to help the animal, or they themselves pull the animal to care for it until a family can be found.

Unfortunately, Saturday was a busy day and only a handful of people showed up to the event.

"We are of course disappointed. But we will keep trying and learn from this to make the next one even better," said Yeats. "We won't give up on these animals."

For more information, contact Yeats at 432-935-9606 or find them on Facebook: facebook.com/relocationrescue.
