DEL MONTE, CALIF. — (AP) — Crooner Bing Crosby presents his own idea of a bigtime golf tournament Friday, with the game's best professional and amateur shot-makers on hand to make it a top-flight meet.

The pros play for $10,000 in cash and the amateurs for merchandise awards, with Crosby footing the bill and the profits going to the Sister Kenney Foundation and the Monterey, Calif., Community Chest.

Sam Snead and Roger Kelly, a former California amateur champion from Los Angeles, won last year's tourney but this year the Ben Hogan-Johnny Dawson best-ball combination took the public eye.

Scores are not expected to be outstandingly low. Plays over three difficult courses on as many days.

Classy Entry List

The field, originally limited to 150, was extended to 172. Such teams as Bobby Locke, the South African pro, and Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio; and Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., with Amateur Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., gave class to the entry list. Ward is a former two-time national amateur titlist.

Galleries more interested in celebrities than golf will tag along after MovieMan Dennis O'Keefe, Randolph Scott, John Hodiak, Edgar (Slow Burn) Kennedy and the crooner himself, who can be depended to break 80 most of the time.

Freeman Gosden of "Amos 'n' Andy" is participating, too.

Odell Rumors Are Top Items At NCAA Meet

NEW YORK. — (AP) — Nearly all the lobby rumors circulating around the gatherings of the American Football Coaches Association and the National Collegiate Athletic Association have to do with the possibility that Howie Odell will leave Yale for some more fertile coaching field.

In particular, the story is that Odell will take over the vacant coaching job at the University of Washington.

Odell is embarrassed to a considerable extent by all this talk, because he has no quarrel with Yale's athletic authorities, but he admits freely he's interested in the Washington job and thinks he may be in line for it.

Meanwhile, there was reliable talk that if Odell leaves Yale, attempts will be made to sign Herman Hickman, Army's line coach as head man at New Haven. Sanity Code, Also

Meanwhile the NCAA 'sanity code' is another popular subject of discussion. Coaches and athletic directors who regard football as a business appear to be in the majority among those who feel the code is impractical and unenforceable.

This code, embodied in a series of constitutional amendments adopted in principle a year ago, is ready for presentation to the NCAA membership at Saturday's final business meeting.

The last preliminary steps were taken Thursday when the means of enforcing the principles were drawn up by the NCAA Executive Committee and discussed and clarified at the conference of conferences.

Two Committees

The regulations call for the creation of two committees. One, known as the Constitutional Compliance Committee, will have as its main purpose interpretation of the rules and answering questions concerning specific practices. The second is a fact-finding committee, to be drawn up from a larger panel to investigate specific cases and to report back to the Compliance Committee.

If a complaint is received against any NCAA member, the Compliance Committee first will bring it to the attention of responsible authorities of that institution. Then, if satisfactory results are not obtained, a new fact-finding committee will be appointed. Results of this committee's study would be passed along through official channels, with the possibility that the offender might be penalized by expulsion or suspension from the NCAA, which would make it impossible to schedule contests with member institutions.

Bulldogs Drop Cage Thriller

SCORE IS 34-32—

The Midland Bulldogs put up a terrific fight, leading most of the way, before going down by a two-point margin to the San Angelo Bobcats, 34-32, in the home gym Thursday night before a packed house. It was a 3-AA conference game.

Victory was decided in the final minute of play. The Bobcats tabbed a long loop-er, desperate field goal and won a ball game they never should have taken. This "prayer" field goal broke a 32-32 deadlock, which had existed as the game waned. Even so, Midland still could have won a game the Purple fought so hard to take. In the fading seconds the Purple missed a field goal from under the basket and also a free shot.

San Angelo, before Thursday night, had won two conference games by top-heavy scores, averaging 51 points per game, but for the evening the Bobcats had all the basketball they could handle, because Midland was not after them.

Swedish Swatter Fights Friday In American Debut

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK. — (AP) — How good is Ole Tandberg?

That's the subject up for discussion Friday night at Madison Square Garden when the tall, blond Swede from Stockholm, who upset Joe Baksi last July, meets the Cleveland "cubie," Joe Maxim, in his American pro debut.

There has been enough talk about the Swedish swatter to lure about 12,000 customers and an expected gate of $60,000.

If Ole can prove his decision over Baksi was no fluke, he can win himself a piece of change. For the heavyweight situation is wide open, ever since the night Jersey Joe Walcott dumped Joe Louis on the seat of his pants.

Wild Scramble Looms

Although it's a sure fire thing Louis and Walcott will do an encore next June, there is nothing certain about the rest of the picture. If Louis wins and retires, there will be a wild scramble for the job, in which Friday night's bout might cut an important figure. If Louis loses, the boys will be jumping over one another to get in the ring with Jersey Joe.

Maxim, for one, is sure he can whip Walcott, although he lost two out of three starts to the Camden, N. J., contender. The wise boys have installed Maxim as a pre-fight favorite, quoting 9 to 5 against the Swede, who will have a 25-pound pull in the weights.

Amateur In 1940

Tandberg, now 29, is no Johnny-come-lately to the fight game. He won and lost the European heavyweight crown to Karel Sys of Belgium in 1943. Back in 1940 he fought at Chicago as an amateur, but he has not fought here since he turned pro in 1941.

Maxim's only New York appearance was a dreary 10-round loss to John Thomas, a roly-poly heavy from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in March, 1946.

Joe Page Is Latest Yank To Sign Contract

NEW YORK. — (AP) — Joe Page, ace relief hurler of the New York Yankees, is the latest of the world champion key performers to agree to 1948 contract terms.

The Springdale, Pa., lefthander, who won 14 and lost eight games last year as he appeared in 55 contests, signed his contract Thursday.

The Yankees did not announce the terms, but New York sports writers estimated Page got $20,000, an $8,000 boost.

Crane WSCS Has Budget Meeting

CRANE.—The WSCS of the First Methodist Church adopted a budget and meeting schedule for the coming year at a recent meeting in the church.

Mrs. C. A. Shaffer introduced the year book and scripture theme. Mrs. George Crane, spirit life chairman, gave the devotional. Mrs. Shaffer conducted the program on "Thy Way Upon Earth," assisted by Mrs. Guy Bosworth, Mrs. R. O. Warren, Mrs. Cecil West, Mrs. Jack Mathis, Mrs. J. D. Foster, and Mrs. Richardson.

Mrs. John E. Clark was in charge of the business meeting. The group voted for meetings to be held the third Tuesday of each month. A meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. D. Foster at 2 p. m. Tuesday, to organize circles for the year.

Activity Schedule, Stamp Discussion Heard At GS Meet

Mrs. I. A. Sekries, leader of Girl Scout Troop 12, outlined for her group Wednesday a schedule of activities for the next sixteen meetings, including the completion of proficiency badges leading to the curve bar rank and investiture as Senior Girl Scouts.

The meeting in the first Presbyterian Church featured Mary Ann Searles in a discussion of stamps and the plants and flowers used in the design of foreign stamps. This discussion, an activity on the Wide-World Badge, was augmented by an exhibit of mounted stamps from different countries.

Members of the troop will usher for the Community Theater's production, "Years Ago," January 15-17, it was announced.

A letter of application for the gifts delivered to the State Sanatorium was read to the group. Membership cards were presented to those attending which included Betty Pitzer, Barbara Long, Janet Hoffer, Mary Ann Searles, Joan Turner, Jane Beckry, Madelon Schabrum and Shirley Pulliam.

The Look For The New Year, 1948

The Clothes:

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The new look becomes the old look for 1948, and the die-hard in knee-length skirts will die as out of place as a bobby soxer at an embassy ball.

Once again it is fashionable to be ladylike and femininity is the theme of fashions for Spring. Skirts are approximately two inches longer than in the Fall, when the dropping hemline created a fashion furore unmatched since the dawn of the hobble skirt.

But as skirts grow longer necklines go lower, and the feminine form is dramatized to the hilt by the fashions in store for 1948.

TEN BEST-DRESSED
NEW YORK.—(AP)—The Duchess of Windsor once more wins top billing among the ten best-dressed women of America for 1947, as voted by fashion editors, designers, and stylists in the annual poll conducted by the New York Dress Institute. They are as follows:

1. Duchess of Windsor
  2. Mrs. William Paley (the former Barbara Cushing)
  3. Mrs. Harrison Williams
  4. Mrs. William Rhineclander Stewart
  5. Mrs. Byron Foy
  6. Mrs. Millicent Rogers
  7. Mrs. John C. Wilson
  8. Mrs. Howard Hawks
  9. Mrs. Geoffrey Gales
  10. Mrs. William Wallace (the former Ina Claire)
- The following, three of whom are fashion designers and a fourth married to a fashion designer, received enough votes to qualify but the judges decided that their professional association should preclude their being listed as "top ten": Mrs. Adam Gimbel (Sophie Gimbel), Mrs. George Schlee (Valentina), Mrs. Orson D. Munn (Carrie Munn), Mrs. Gilbert Adrian (Janet Gagnor).

by imported laces, rustling taffeta petticoats and ten-yard skirts are all over the place.

The average skirt length for street wear will be 12 inches from the floor next Spring, as compared with 14 inches last Fall. Dressy afternoon and cocktail dresses are just above the ankle, but only the most formal gowns are floor length. The newest length for dinner and evening wear clears the floor by about four inches.

Waistlines are as small as nature and a good girdle will allow. Many of the new waist-nipping styles have built-in "minimizers."

The vogue for petticoats reaches alarming proportions, many of the new full-skirted dresses being sold complete with ruffled taffeta petticoats which are supposed to show discreetly as well as provide sound effects.

As to necklines—they're as low as the law allows in all after-five fashions. Some are slashed clear to the waist, with only the flimsiest veiling of lace. Others are designed to be pulled down to reveal the shoulders. And evening gowns are almost uniformly strapless, many with great bows or puffs of fabric to accentuate the bustline, in the Dior manner.

Styles for 1948, as befits Leap Year, are feminine, alluring, beguiling—and the prices will be higher than ever.

The Girl:

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

When designers gave the Modern Miss the new look they didn't expect that she'd go back 1,000 years for beauty tricks to complete her ensemble. But it looks as if Miss 1948 will be a voluptuous lass, who isn't adverse to stealing a bit of old world charm and a leaf or two from Grandma's photo album—such is the opinion of some of America's outstanding beauty authorities. Here's what they say:

She'll be natural, says John Robert Powers. "Conservatism will be the keynote. She'll garner Grandma's charm but find her own pattern of beauty by studying herself, dropping some of the excess baggage designers have whipped up for her."

With Mona Lisa smile, says makeup artist Eddie Sens who adds: "There won't be many mouths made up in watermelon shades. She'll create her mouth from a natural lipline with a bit of added fullness."

And a full-bloom bosom, says beauty consultant Ann DeLafield, who predicts "the bust measurement will be two inches greater. I have shelved all bust reducing exercises in favor of bust development and a ballerina waist. With the 'New Look,' how can the average girl's bustline be too large?"

The Madonna type of beauty, says model agent Clyde Matthews, is "what my models will strive for in order to please advertisers. Many of them prefer the simple Madonna hairdo (parted in the center, drawn back and fastened at the nape of the neck)."

It's all in subtle sleekness, says hairdresser Victor Vito who foresees straight hair, fewer permanents and hair-sets, in favor of a line that is achieved by excellent hair shaping. No more frizzy curls. She'll use feminine wiles to get her man this Leap-Year says model agent Harry Conover, "but she'll also be a career girl in marriage or business. She'll wear a simple shoulder length hairdo men like in a variety of lady-like styles—and she'll cover the back of her neck, a line the boys definitely dislike."

Seductive ankles will be a "must" with the new look, says model agent Walter Thornton who adds: "In spite of longer skirts, a pin-up girl will still be a pin-up girl. Her ankles will do the trick."

Vito, Sens and Conover agree that false hair pieces will be worn with bare-shouldered evening gowns, specially by girls who have cut their hair too short for queenly beauty.

Mrs. Kate Marshall, At 92, Slows Down To A Gallop

AF Newsfeatures
VIENNA, VA.—The remarkable Mrs. Marshall didn't "do much" his month.

She visited her 340-acre farm ten miles from here and straightened out a few business matters. She kept check on a new pig that arrived she managed to get a bit of roasting and some mending and wine done and to thumb through and read a dozen new magazines and keep up with the news through "no or three daily papers."

But Mrs. Kate Harvey Marshall said she was taking things a little easy, now because "I'm getting old."

Besides, she explained, she was little tired from managing her obacco farm. She is adamant about its management and insists upon buying fertilizer and seed herself and banking her money on the sale of crops.

"Got a pretty good price for my obacco this year," she said, remarking that she had managed to sell it before the British stepped out of the market and the price dropped.

Mrs. Marshall lives with her daughter, hard-working Mrs. Penelope Conner.

She looks nearer 72 than 92. Speaking quietly, she explained.

During the session, the group learned the "YWA" ideals.

Those attending were Ruth Melton, Vera Lee Golins, Ruby Hale, Alta Sparks, Margaret Smoot, Lottie Sue Wilson, Nellie Clark, Norma Middlebrooks, Ollie Belle Sells, Mrs. J. S. Griffith, Dorothy Raines, Anna Joyce Streeter, Gwen Simpson, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Drake, Rebecca Smoot, Dorothy Routh and Mrs. White.

that she doesn't read much any more.

"No," said her daughter. "Mother doesn't read much. Just a dozen or so magazines a month, about three newspapers, the Bible and any other book she can get her hands on."

Mrs. Marshall remarked that she had just finished "The Pavilion of Lost Women" and that she thought it "very good."

"I don't get up early any more, either," she homogenarian noted.

"No," said her daughter, "Mother usually doesn't get up much before seven."

"I go to bed early, too," said Mrs. Marshall.

"Oh yes," smiled Mrs. Conner. "She gets to bed shortly before midnight most of the time. But if we have guests she'll sit up till one o'clock."

"I don't do any cooking now," But her daughter said the only reason was because her mother was "afraid of the electric stove."

The remarkable Mrs. Marshall pushed away "a little thing" she had been crocheting and moved aside two quilts she had made.

"I can't walk around much," she said, pointing to a sturdy cane leaning on the couch.

"Mother," Mrs. Conner remarked, "has been out to see a new pig we have five times today."

During the war Mrs. Conner and her mother lived alone in the big house here.

One day, Mrs. Conner broke her leg. The day she returned home from the hospital, Mrs. Marshall broke her arm.

The two women moved beds into the living room to simplify housekeeping, but neither got much sleep because, as Mrs. Conner explained it:

"Mother would wake me before daylight so she could clean the room and make the beds before some one came to call."

The Modern Shopper Says "Charge It!"

Credit is extended by merchants as a shopping accommodation. They realize it isn't always convenient or safe to carry cash to pay for each purchase. It's a nuisance, too, to have to wait around the house for a C.O.D. delivery of a telephone order.

But credit is more than just a convenience. It has a definite value to the user. For most people depend on a monthly salary or income paid at some regular interval. By using their credit, they are able to meet current expenditures out of current income, which is just good business.

And credit, properly used, increases in value just as a friendship becomes stronger through close association! Using your credit regularly and paying bills promptly according to agreement puts you on the records of the stores and the credit bureau as a person of known worth.

That's why the modern shopper says "Charge It" and religiously pays all bills promptly!

Use your credit freely and pay all bills by the 10th or promptly as agreed.

Taft-Hartley Without Hysteria

A few months ago, Eric O. Johnson decided to talk over common problems and interests with the employes of the American Central Division of Avco Manufacturing Company, Connersville, Ind., where he is general manager. This wasn't a novel idea, of course. But it produced some interesting results.

Johnson spent many years as a steel worker before he became a boss. When he talked to his employes, it was in a language that these UAW-CIO members understood. He talked about such things as the corporation's records, manufacturers' and retailers' prices, profits, Communism, capitalism. And he talked to the 2500 workers in groups of about 100, so there would be as little speech-making atmosphere as possible.

Recently, Johnson decided to talk about the Taft-Hartley Law. But before he did so he took a secret poll, supervised by a union-management committee, to see what the workers thought of it. He found that 13 per cent of the shop employes were for it, 63 per cent were against it, and 24 per cent didn't understand it. The supervisors were 60 per cent for, 17 per cent against, with 23 per cent who didn't understand the law.

It would be more dramatic to be able to say that Johnson's eloquent logic reversed the percentages, but, of course, that didn't happen. However, another secret poll taken after the talks showed that 20 per cent more employes favored the law. The figures now revealed 33 per cent of the shop workers for and 56 against, with 11 per cent wanting more information. Among the supervisors the figures had changed to 93, 5 and 2 per cent, respectively.

Johnson began his talks by saying that he didn't consider the new labor relations law perfect, or think that it shouldn't have some changes. He assured his listeners that the company respected their right to organize. Then he began a detailed discussion of the law.

He pointed out that the Taft-Hartley Act did not omit a single word from the Wagner Act's section on rights of employes. "Management," he said, "must still bargain with the union chosen by you. Management still can't interfere with, restrain or coerce its workers." Management can still be punished for unfair labor practices.

Johnson dwelt on the workers' protection from union or management discrimination. He took up such points as political use of dues, secondary boycotts, non-Communist pledges, closed versus open shops, the 60-day period for settling disputes after a strike notice, and the right to strike.

The audiences threw questions at the boss, and he answered them. Then he ended his talk with this counsel: "There may still be individual points in this law you personally disagree with. But don't condemn the entire law when individual points can and may be changed."

Johnson's explanation must have demolished some of the bogymen which have been haunting rank-and-file union members. We think his method of treating the whole matter deserves to be copied. Only calm and detailed discussions can quiet the hysteria which this new law has induced, restore the good relations that the hysteria destroyed, and really expose the law's vices and virtues and show what amendments it may need to function with greatest justice.

Stumbling Block

If the collapse of the London Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference is disappointing, take a look at the record of trying to make peace after World War I. Roles of the nations have changed, but the issues and arguments are much the same, and the results equally unsatisfactory.

On its face, the record after War I may look better. Two months after the fighting stopped, the peacemakers met at Versailles. In a month they had drawn up the covenant of the League of Nations. In less than six months they had agreed on terms of a peace treaty. By contrast, it is now two and a half years since V-E Day. And there isn't a sign of a treaty with Germany.

This isn't the whole story, however. The U. S. never did sign the Versailles Treaty. It was July, 1921—nearly three years after the end of War I—before the U. S. Congress, by resolution, declared the war with Germany ended. Even that didn't settle things. There were years of trouble over reparations. And that's the great stumbling block today.

Wrangling among the victorious and glorious Allies was no less bitter after War I than today. The studied insult, the double cross, the knife in the back, are always used when peace is being made—particularly when there is loot to divide.

By the device of "mandates," Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Orlando took over every bit of loose and unprotected real estate on the map. And they very nearly compromised the U. S. into becoming a partner in their crimes and accepting a mandate over Turkish Armenia. It was an unlovely and poverty-stricken trouble spot they didn't much want for themselves.

Compare that with today's situation. Now Great Britain is shucking colonies and mandates as fast as she can. France wants the Saar, as she did in 1919. The U. S. is actually involved in the Middle East—right up to its neck—in an effort to block the spread of Russian Communism. For it is Russia which is today intent on grabbing all the real estate and reparations.

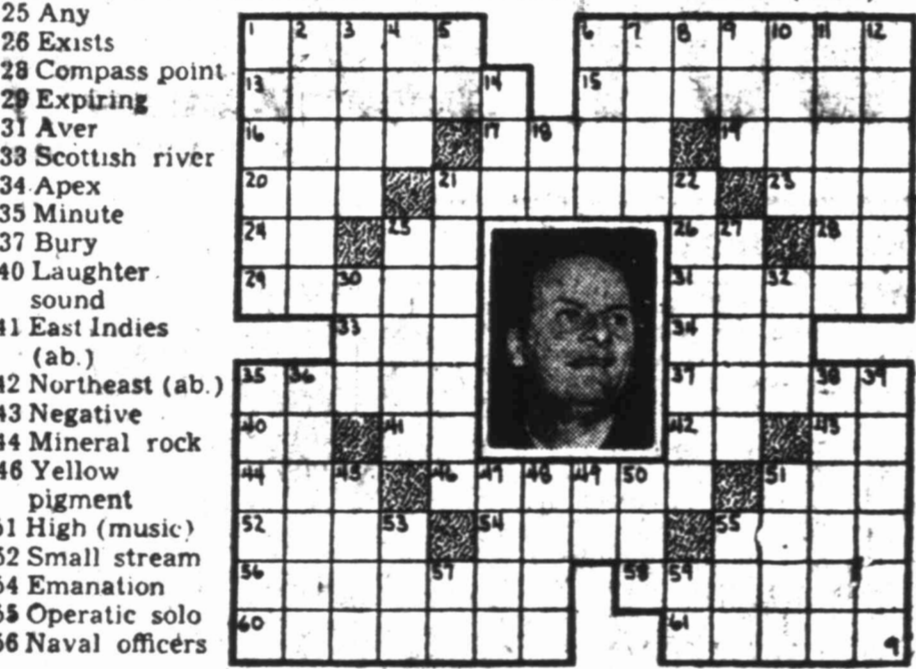

The big difference between War I and War II peace negotiations is that after War I they tried to make peace first and settle reparations later. Today, the Russian aim is to get reparations first.

Suggests Conference To Study Common Cold

CHICAGO. — (AP) — A national conference on how to fight the common cold is proposed by Noah D. Fabricant, M. D., assistant professor of otolaryngology at the University of Illinois College of Medicine. He would have not only doctors, but chemists, biologists, pharmacologists, physiologists, bacteriologists, engineers and architects at the meeting.

The engineers and architects might be able to supply useful information on buildings designed to keep the indoor air fairly free from the common cold causes.

Doctor Fabricant says colds are not a definite, single disease, but a group of different ills. If cures for colds are to be found he thinks a national, cooperative scientific and medical effort must be made.

If such a plan were adopted, Doctor Fabricant said it could be used to collect funds from the public, and probably states to support the research.

Doctor Fabricant quoted medical studies, to show that all present remedies for the common cold are of little value, except rest in bed and use of steam or other inhalations to relieve irritated nasal passages.

He said special diets, vaccines, and use of ultra-violet light and of sprays to purify the air of common cold infections have failed to stand rigid tests.

Present remedies, Doctor Fabricant said, treat the symptoms rather than getting rid of the cold itself. Alcohol has been used for generations, either to break up early colds or treat them.

Doctor Fabricant said that in reasonable doses alcohol does some things to the body that may be useful for common cold symptoms. It promotes blood circulation in chilled areas and dilates blood vessels near the body's surface, both of which may be useful at times.

Doctor Fabricant cited all the known remedies as an argument that a great national research project is needed in order to get at the roots of colds and find out any general treatment that will be useful to the majority of sufferers.

Texas Formula Would Relieve Shortage Of Oil Industry Steel

HOUSTON. — (AP) — Representatives of the nation's steel manufacturers have been requested to participate in a conference to consider a Texas formula described to relieve the shortage of tubular goods within the oil industry. H. J. Porter has announced.

Porter, president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, said the plan was based on a recently enacted act which allows industry to make voluntary agreements without fear of prosecution under anti-trust laws.

He said the plan calls for a state committee of five members to be appointed by the governor of each oil producing state. The various state committees would in turn appoint subcommittees for proration districts.

The committees, under the proposed plan, would allocate the steel companies' production of oil industry tubular goods on the following priority: 1, exploratory wells; 2, wells to protect leases expiring within six months; 3, offset wells under contractual obligations; 4, number of locations on any lease; and 5, other wells.

He said the program was designed to increase reserves of crude oil and natural gas, increase productive capacity of petroleum, and facilitate further conservation of oil and gas.

"Shortages of tubular goods have seriously threatened exploration for petroleum and building up reserves in this country," Porter declared.

Most animals, birds and fish can see colors, although not as perfectly as human beings.

Third Party Candidate Finds The Going Rough

By ALEXANDER B. GEORGE
 WASHINGTON. — (AP) — What chance has Third Party candidate Henry A. Wallace to upset the presidential election?

Nobody really knows now, but the record shows that of the three most formidable third party candidates in the past—all ex-Presidents—only one polled enough votes to influence an election.

Republican Theodore Roosevelt, Progressive Party candidate in 1912, divided the normally Republican vote with President William H. Taft. That insured an election victory for Democrat Woodrow Wilson. Roosevelt received 4,128,000 votes to 3,488,922 for Taft and 6,286,214 for Wilson.

Democrat Martin Van Buren, President from 1837 to 1841, ran as the Free Soilers candidate in 1848, but failed to get any electoral votes. The Free Soil Party was composed of Democrats and Whigs who opposed the extension of slave territory.

Know Nothing Party
 Whig Millard Fillmore, who stepped up to the presidency from vice president when Zachary Taylor died in 1850, was the presidential nominee of the American, or Know Nothing Party in 1856. Fillmore got the electoral vote of only one state, Maryland, in the race with victorious Democrat James Buchanan and Republican John Fremont.

The Know Nothings were a formidable third party in the early 1850s, electing several congressmen and governors. Their main object was "to secure the government for genuine native Americans" and to resist the alleged political power of aliens and Catholics.

The name Know Nothing derived from the silence of party members concerning the organization. The party, originally a secret association, was organized as "the Supreme Order of the Star Spangled Banner."

LaFollette Boils
 The magnetic Teddy Roosevelt was offered the Progressive Party nomination again in 1916 but refused and returned to the Republican fold. He supported Charles Evans Hughes against President Wilson. Hughes lost.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, Sr., left the Republican Party in 1924 to run for the presidency as a Progressive. His platform advocated farm relief, public ownership of railroads, direct nomination and election of the President and a constitutional amendment providing that Congress could re-enact a law and override a supreme Court ruling that it was unconstitutional.

Senator La Follette captured the 13 electoral votes of his own state, Wisconsin.

Free Silver Champions
 A third party movement showed considerable strength in Western farm regions during the early 1890s. It was the Populist, or People's Party. It championed the cause of the farmer and the working man. It demanded free coinage of silver, the direct loan of paper money to farmers on the security of their crops, a graduated income tax and government ownership of railroads, telephones and telegraphs.

James B. Weaver of Iowa, Populist presidential nominee of 1892, received more than a million popular votes and 22 electoral votes. Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected President by a substantial electoral majority over Republican Benjamin Harrison.

Gold Democrats
 By 1896, the Democratic Party had adopted so many Populist ideas that the latter endorsed the candidacy of Democratic Nominee William Jennings Bryan. The Populist, however, nominated their own candidate for vice president—Thomas E. Watson. By 1900, the Populist presidential vote was only 50,000.

When the silver-tongued Bryan ran against William McKinley in 1896, a number of Conservative Democrats who didn't like Bryan's free silver platform bolted the party. Some of them formed a party called Gold Democrats and nominated Gen. John Palmer of Illinois for President. He didn't receive any electoral votes.

Until Wallace's candidacy this year, the most recent third party movement was William Lemke's race as nominee of the Union Party in 1936. The late President Roosevelt's lead over Republican nominee Alfred M. Landon was so overwhelming—523 to eight electoral votes—the vote for Lemke, a North Dakota Republican, made no difference.

Two Texans Serve First Congress Terms

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two Texas members of the House of Representatives will be serving their first regular sessions in the 80th Congress when it gets down to business Monday after first-week preliminaries.

They are Clark Thompson of Galveston, filling out the unexpired term of late Rep. J. J. Mansfield of Columbus, and Ken Regan of Midland, occupying the seat left vacant when El Paso's Ewing Thomas quit to take a Federal District judgeship.

Both new members won hard campaigns for the abbreviated terms. Both have 100 per cent Administration voting records for the special session that ended in December. Thompson, reputedly wealthy, served in Congress once before until redistricting took his home town out of the area he represented. Regan is new to Washington.

Meet The Kupchiks—They're 'Typical,' Says Uncle Sam

The Kupchiks are the "typical" family of Cleveland, Ohio, and thus, of a good part of America, according to standards of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. LANDS SAKES! WITHOUT ADVERTISING, WHERE WOULD WE BE!

Advertising is the Spark Plug of Business, And Good Business is What Makes Good, Steady Work!

WHEN you read the advertising in this issue—wherever you read or hear advertising—remember this: Advertising's job is to sell goods. Poor sales mean pay cuts, layoffs, fear and worry all through the family. Good sales mean steady work, pay increases, promotions, peace of mind for all.

For when advertising sells goods, there's just naturally more work to be done. In the factory that makes the goods. In the mines and on the farms that produce the raw materials. In the transportation lines, stores and businesses that handle the goods. Yes, and in the banks, insurance companies, machinery houses, real estate firms, builders, etc., that service that factory. It's a never-ending chain.

So be grateful for advertising for bringing you fine products at good values. But most of all—thank advertising for making your job more secure.

FHA Officials Visit Midland

F. A. Van Patten of Washington, D. C., zone commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration; E. T. Stearns of Fort Worth, district director and J. A. Reley of Lubbock, evaluator of the Lubbock FHA office, were Midland visitors Thursday night.

Van Patten, touring the Southern states, of which he has charge, of the FHA business originating there as well as the business in Puerto Rico, said his visit mainly was to assist the Port Worth and Lubbock offices in expediting the processing of mortgage commitments. He assured West Texas builders and home owners that a plan now is being devised which will greatly increase the efficiency and reduce to a minimum the number of days of processing of future cases.

The FHA officials were taken on a tour of the city while here. Van Patten was astounded at the manner in which Midland has grown in the last few years, and at the quality of the homes erected here. He said Midland is one of the most beautiful cities he has visited.

Churches Divided On Question Of Women Pastors

By ADELAIDE KERR

Would you listen to a woman minister? Would you have one as head of your church?

Those are burning questions in some congregations today. And probably more will consider them in the year ahead than ever before. According to the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, there is a great shortage of ministers and, in the face of that lack, a great movement of young women as well as young men toward life service in the church. Moreover, the war opened many doors to women, which hitherto had been closed to them and some mature able women, who want to do a humanitarian work, are seeking pulpits.

But the door to these is by no means wide open to women. Ever since St. Paul said, "Let your women keep silence in the churches!" millions have followed his dictum.

"During World War II," one American churchman recalls, "the Bishop of Hong Kong pressed by a shortage of ministers ordained a woman. When word of it reached church headquarters, one churchman was so upset that he called the sex to which his mother belonged an affront to God. There was such a to-do about the whole thing that the woman withdrew."

Other women seeking pastorates have met skepticism and doubt. Religious organizations which have surveyed the field say that the pulpits given to women are generally in small, run-down churches, some of which have been closed for years. Some women ministers have been so successful in building these up that other congregations, aware of their work, have asked for women pastors.

Few churches today give women equal status. Among the religious organizations which do are the Christian Science Church, the Society of Friends (Quakers) and the Unity School of Christianity and The Salvation Army.

Miss Inez Carvert of the Federal Council of Churches, who is making a survey on women in the churches, reports: "The Methodists, Congregationalists, Unitarians, Universalists, Disciples of Christ, Northern Baptists and some other church bodies ordain women, though the Methodists do not give their ordained women full status. Some churches license women, but do not ordain them."

The Episcopalians, Lutherans and Presbyterians do neither. The Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., referred the question of ordination of women to its presbytery this summer for the second time in history, but it was voted down.

Those who do not want women in the pulpit wrap up their objections in some such words as:

"Women lack emotional balance and the ministry calls for sober judgment. Men won't have a woman 'telling them off' and women wouldn't like it either. Women cannot take the same part in such community activities as the Rotary Club that men take. If you have women ministers, there will be no men in the churches."

Those who would like to see more women as ministers reply: "There are very few men in churches now. Perhaps a capable appealing woman minister might be what is needed to bring them in. A fine woman has a maternal quality which enables her to understand another's problems and help him solve them. She can cope with birth, marriage, illness, broken homes and death as well as a man and a large part of a minister's work is this job of helping people adjust their lives."

"Men trust the rearing, education and character formation of their children to women. They are always quoting their mothers as oracles. They why do they object to trusting the religious guidance of adults to women? One look at the way mankind has conducted itself while men have headed the churches seems to indicate some changes could well be made."

Nazi Plan To Wreck French Youth Leaves Postwar Problems

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS. — (NEA) — Seven school boys from comfortable middle-class families were picked up on a black marketing charge. Their ages ranged from 15 to 17 years. One was carrying a suitcase filled with U. S. dollar bills.

Search of their homes disclosed a hoard of $8000, plus large quantities of cameras, fur-lined flying jackets, motorbikes, cartons of cigarettes and similar readily marketable items. Their spoils were valued at 51,000,000 francs, which at current exchange is almost $51,000.

They typified one of the most disturbing and most perplexing problems with which France is afflicted today.

The Nazis set out deliberately to weaken France forever by destroying both the physical health and the moral fiber of the coming generations. All experts concerned with juvenile problems agree that the Germans were at least partly successful.

Part Of Scheme

The damage thus done, intentionally, as part of the scheme to remove France as a world power, is aggravated by internal conditions.

Mobilization, deportation, internment and evictions broke up many families. Divorce, always high in this country, is on the upgrade. War and divorce have created a vast army of orphans, semi-orphans and illegitimates, who are deprived of normal family guidance, restraint and teachings.

And social workers are unanimous in saying that four out of every five children brought before the Children's and Adolescents' Tribunal come from homes either broken up already or torn by parental dissension.

Slums, and the acute housing shortage that has hit the working classes particularly, are important factors.

Black Market Contributes

The black market itself is a cause of juvenile delinquency, as well as an expression of it.

During the war it was considered patriotic to cheat on the Nazi occupation. Families that ordinarily prided themselves on ethics and morality entered the black market both to supply shortages and to put something over on the Germans. Black market operations became proper—and not merely permissible—among the best trained youngsters and in the best schools and universities.

When the Nazis were expelled, and serious shortages continued, it was not easy to teach boys and girls that what they had been encouraged to do before had now become criminal.

Theft Most Common

There is the most common juvenile crime in France. Vagrancy—a natural result of broken homes—comes next. The proportion is about seven boys to three girls. Prostitution among girls under 18 is rising steadily.

On the other hand, alcoholism is very rare. The records show almost no cases of rape among minors, such as are reported from the United States. Theft accompanied by violence and murder are infrequent.

Among factors that are blamed, but whose responsibility is hard to measure, the experts include diet deficiencies.

Many of the adolescents that come before the courts have never known enough food or a balanced diet. After four years in which Nazi design aggravated the normal shortages of wartime, they passed into a post-war era almost as bad. In addition to the pressure that this puts on a child to seek food by any means available, it has resulted in retarding mental growth in many cases.

Laying Of New Sewer Line Underway Here

The laying of a sewer line up Peacos Street to serve the area immediately South of Fairview Cemetery is underway, Henry Nunn, city engineer, said Friday. The project is being done in advance of a proposed paving program in that section of the city.

Ditching for the project is about two-thirds complete and the laying of pipe has been started, he said. The ditch is 10 feet deep.

The project includes more than 1,000 feet of eight inch line and approximately 700 feet of six inch pipe. Water lines recently were installed in the area.

Cuba has about the same area as Louisiana.
