TEEN TALK

Dear Judy:

The newest craze in the pigtail set is a headgear of wiglets—long pigtailed made of yarn. The kids like them because they warm the ears and the wiglets can be tied around the neck when skating or skiing. Besides they really look cute. Dark-haired kids usually pick yellow for the blonde here go for black yarn which gives them a pretty good indication of how they would look if nature blessed them with another color hair.

Here is how to make wiglets: Cast ten stitches on number six needles, knit in a garter stitch for nine inches, bind off. Cut remaining yarn into strands fifty-four inches long, sew each strand separately crosswise along center of knit piece which makes the center part. Then turn this part over and braid the yarn on each side starting below the ears. You can take your choice of long or short wiglets. Some of the kids like them very short; some have them down to the knees; others vary the effect by tying contrasting ribbon bows to the pigtailed.

Have you heard about the "answer to a maiden's prayer"? It's a rayon satin pillow case with a life size photograph of her favorite star reproduced on the fabric. Such swain artists as Sinatra, Crosby, Coma, Milland and Ladd are decorating the rooms of the younger set—just for a lark, they say.

Helen says she got the shock of her life when she walked into her sister's dark room, and the light shining from the hall hit one of the satin pillows because it looked for all the world as if Mr. Sinatra was sitting in the chair.

Child Who Has Temper Tantrums Needs Exercise, Not Punishment

Punching bag offers a child a satisfactory outlet for excess energy.

By EVA LEWIS SMITH
Written For NEA Service

NEW YORK—(NEA)—What to do about Johnny's temper tantrums?

In my experience as a consulting psychologist, few problems baffle parents more than how to deal with a young child's uncontrolled outbursts of temper.

If your youngster is healthy in body and mind but indulges in a tantrum now and then, you will need to find ways of helping him outgrow this infantile way of reacting. To meet the problem successfully will require all the understanding, love and patience that you have.

Your job is to give the same intelligent concern to Johnny's emotional development that you give to his physical and mental development.

In most cases, a child who has temper tantrums is highly endowed with emotional energy. That's fine. He finds it difficult to be crossed in his desires. He wants his own way. But he must learn to accept a certain amount of discipline as part of growing up. Yielding to his whims to avoid a scene only invites recurring demonstrations of his power! It does not help him.

You'll be closer to the solution when an outburst threatens, if you can skillfully divert his attention to such activities as running, playing ball or even jumping up and down while you count 10.

A punching bag, installed in an easily accessible place, has proved a real help in several cases because it offers a child a harmless and satisfactory way to "work off steam."

I remember one case of an eight-year-old boy, Joe, whose abundant emotional energy led him to pick frequent fist fights with his friends. After consultation with his parents and his teacher, it was evident that what he needed far more than punishment for fighting was more energy release. A punching bag solved the problem.

Every afternoon before he was dismissed from school, Joe was sent to the gym to hit the punching bag 100 times. This strenuous exercise siphoned off his excess energy and Joe was able to play without quarreling with his friends.

Of course, it isn't always possible to head off a tantrum—especially in the very young child. If a frustrated child goes off on an emotional spree of kicking and screaming, let him have his tantrum in solitary fury. Remember he acts that way for a reason. He's trying to get a rise out of his adult audience. Take away his audience and you'd be surprised how often a tantrum will die of its own weight.

Keeping your own voice calm helps you face a tantrum. A calm voice also encourages the child to relax.

A Special Apple For The Teacher

Taffy apples make Valentines for teacher.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

The Northwest abounds in apples. That means good fruit for your family at lower cost. So use apples frequently in your budget menus these days.

Let the youngsters make their own taffy apples to give to their favorite teacher on Valentine's Day. Or at least let them do the dipping themselves.

Taffy Apples
(Makes 12)

Two cups extra sweet, white syrup, 2 teaspoons butter or fortified margarine, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/16 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 cup evaporated milk, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 12 wooden skewers, 12 Washington Delicious apples, washed and dried.

Heat extra sweet white syrup, butter or margarine and salt to boiling. Dissolve soda in milk and add very slowly to mixture. Continue boiling to firm ball stage or 250 degrees F., stirring frequently. Add vanilla. Insert wooden skewers in blossom end of apples. Dip apples into hot syrup; remove and twist to spread syrup over apple evenly. Dip in chopped nuts or coconut. Place on waxed paper to cool.

From the new book, "Secrets of New England Cooking," comes this breakfast hint for using apples.

Large Attendance Urged At World Day Of Prayer Program

All Midland women are invited to attend the World Day of Prayer program to be sponsored by the Midland Council of Church Women Wednesday afternoon in the First Christian Church, with Mrs. Merrill Patton as reader and Mrs. Paul McHargue as program chairman.

Special music will be presented by Mrs. Wayne Moore, Mrs. Tom Hillis and the Rev. and Mrs. Clyde Lindsley.

Offerings and prayer will help in carrying on six projects, such as the inauguration of three mobile units and the newest development in the Home Missions Council migrant program. These "harvesters" stand to the migrant as the symbol of Christian friendship and ministry. They are equipped to serve as worship center, a library, a school, an emergency hospital, a playground and a recreational center for all ages. The staff worker who takes each from camp to camp, following the migrant families who follow the crops, needs help in planning and organizing his program—these helpers he finds largely among the migrants themselves.

The agencies to whom the World Day of Prayer funds are administered are depending upon communities. Everyone is urged to attend the Friday program, it was announced.

Meaning Of 'War Booty'

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The rules on what a victor nation (like us) can take from a conquered nation (like Germany or Hungary) are pretty foggy.

The arguments over what is "booty" are many and varied. Just recently a Senate committee decided that we can keep 105 Hungarian horses.

In international rules of war, booty is anything taken on the field of battle that the enemy could use.

But consider how difficult it is to decide about booty when it comes to such things as a silver banquet service.

The subject of booty fades into the vagueness which covers all the war souvenirs now American soldiers carry.

On an O. K. from a higher officer in the U. S. Army, the stuff was shipped over here.

The Russians appear to look at the subject differently. Our recent ambassador to Poland, Arthur Bliss Lane, says he saw long lines of horse carts leaving Poland.

Your share, $1,782,472,718

For your livestock and your dairy and poultry products, soybeans, cottonseed, etc. . . you ranchers and farmers of America received in 1947 almost thirty billion dollars, a new high. Out of that amount, $1,782,472,718 came to you from Swift & Company in payment for the products you sold to us.

HOW SWIFT'S DOLLAR WAS DIVIDED. 79.3 Cents to Producers—Swift & Company, during 1947, returned to millions of producers of agricultural products an average of 79.3 cents out of each dollar received from us. 9.7 Cents to Employees—In 1947, Swift's 73,000 employees earned $217,072,169 in wages and salaries, or an average of 9.7 cents out of each dollar of Swift sales. 3.8 Cents for Supplies—Last year, out of each dollar of sales, Swift spent an average of 3.8 cents, or a total of $86,006,885, on supplies of all kinds—mountains of salt and sugar; trainloads of hoes, barrels, other containers; miles of twine, tons of paper; fuel, electricity, etc.

How We EARN Our Profit In addition to providing a market for livestock and many other agricultural products, Swift performs many essential services for producers and consumers. Most people can't go to farms to buy their meat—neither can retail dealers. Swift brings the meat to them. We have been doing this job, necessary job for 62 years, efficiently and economically.

Conservation of Our Land Resources by H. H. Kildee, Dean of Agriculture Iowa State College. During recent years we have become increasingly conscious of the importance of conserving our land resources. Accordingly, we have initiated conservation programs and practices which are sound and logical.

SKEPTICISM While one man is saying, "It can't be done," someone is doing it. Folks are skeptical of things they do not understand, never taking the trouble to study them. Revolutionary inventions have been scouted as impractical. Every new discovery has its hosts of doubters, without the expenditure of an hour's study, even a moment's thought, the unthinking boldly proclaim every new idea an impossibility because perchance, simple as it may be, it is unintelligible to them.

How Good Is An Opinion That depends on who gives it. And on what it is based. The CPA's opinion is based on an independent audit—which means an extensive financial examination.

In Monkey's Eye, Research Fights Heart Killer That Claims Millions

Dr. Charles A. R. Connor: To fight the nation's worst killer, he hopes for $228,000 in public support.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In a university laboratory, Dr. John C. Burch watches the microscopic development and deterioration of blood vessels in the eye of a monkey.

The blood vessels, transferred to the eye, where they can be better observed, may hold an answer to one small part of the greatest medical problem facing the nation today—how to cut the enormous death and disability toll of cardiovascular diseases—those of the heart and blood vessels.

But Dr. Burch's research problem, and those of the comparatively few other doctors who are trying to solve the riddle of the heart, is complicated by lack of funds.

Today, one out of every 20 Americans is a victim of heart diseases, high blood pressure, or hardening of the arteries. In 1945, the last year for which figures are available, diseases of the heart and blood vessels killed 588,000 persons in U. S., more than cancer, accidents, nephritis, pneumonia and tuberculosis—the next great killers—combined.

Yet until a few years ago research funds available for heart studies amounted to less than 25 cents per death from heart trouble. Even last year, including U. S. Public Health Department appropriations and contributions of $600,000 by the Life Insurance Medical Research Fund, the total available for study amounted to $4.52 per death, less than 25 cents per person suffering from diseases of either the heart or blood vessels.

This year, for the first time in its history, the American Heart Association, with headquarters in New York, is asking public contributions to support heart research and its allied activities.

It hopes to raise $228,000 of which $500,000 will be spent on research, and another $126,000 on educational work among doctors and laymen. The balance will go towards helping communities to develop local heart associations, establishing standards of care for cardiovascular patients and other service work. The fund-raising campaign will be climaxed on February 14, at the close of National Heart Week.

Service organizations such as the American Legion, the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary Clubs, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce are actively supporting the drive for funds. Druggist groups have agreed to set up plastic heart-shaped contribution boxes in their stores.

Work Will Continue

But the work will go on just as intently after the drive is finished. Eventually, says Dr. Charles A. R. Connor, medical director of the American Heart Association, the association hopes to have local affiliates in every major area in the country. Already 23 local heart associations are working as "task forces" for the national group.

Local heart associations, Dr. Connor says, back research programs of their own when possible, and plan community care and treatment of heart diseases. Where local heart associations already have been established, funds collected this year will go towards furthering their work and supporting the national program.

The association's drive is only a small beginning to an enormous problem. But, it hopes, education and research soon will make it unnecessary to brush off the staggering tolls of heart and blood diseases with "nothing can be done about it."

119-Pound Lady Blacksmith Wields The Hammer, Knows Her Anvils

AP Newsfeature

BELLE PLAINE, MINN. — The hands that wield the hammer in the Belle Plaine village smithy are strong like those of Longfellow's blacksmith. But, unlike those of the mythical smith, they are not "sinewy."

They belong to 119-pound Mrs. Frances Bleichner, who helps her husband, Thomas, in all of the work at his blacksmith shop. She has been working full time at the shop for the last five years—ever since the eldest of her three sons entered the service.

But the work was not new to 47-year-old Mrs. Bleichner. She had been helping out at the shop on busy days since the Bleichners moved to Belle Plaine ten years ago; and before that she learned a lot about the trade while playing in her father's blacksmith shop in Sturgeon Lake, Minn.

She is not only the wife and daughter of blacksmiths, but she is the mother of a blacksmith as well. Her eldest son, 35, worked in the shop before he entered the service. The youngest son is at college.

Mrs. Bleichner, says she finds that being petite and feminine does not keep her from handling easily the shop's heavy tools or from using all of the complicated machinery. (She can work the electric band saw, plane and drill besides using various welding instruments and taking her turn at the anvil with a six-pound hammer.)

At first, she said, Mr. Bleichner didn't want her to use the electric drill because he had been injured ago; and before that she learned a lot about the trade while play-work and "hasn't suffered a scratch."

Since the first snow fell, the Bleichners' chief work has been getting plowshares in shape for the Spring plowing. This they do on a cooperative basis. Mr. Bleichner does the sharpening and Mrs. Bleichner's job is the grinding off and polishing.

Another proof that Mrs. Bleichner is not a typical Longfellow blacksmith is the house that stands next door to the shop. Besides working eight hours a day in the shop, Mrs. Bleichner manages to do all of her own housework and keeps busy in what spare time is left by embroidering aprons for gifts.

Expert Tells Barbers What Is 'Hair-Brained'

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Doctor Joseph Lerner is introducing barbers to psychology in a series of lectures at the National Barber College.

First, the barber must stop being mechanical, says this former instructor at the University of Michigan Medical School.

"The barber must remember he's working with people and not just a head of hair," Lerner advises.

"A barber should know a little about psychiatry and mental diseases so he can recognize it. Many people act funny in the chair because they are nervous or afraid.

It's important that the barber be able to calm a person and lead him along without saying: 'don't be nervous, I won't cut you.' That's exactly the wrong thing to say."

Other suggestions by Lerner:

"Always agree with the man in the chair. If he complains about the weather, say it's terrible. If he talks politics, agree with his views.

"Some men want to talk about themselves and their problems, and the barber should be skilled enough to let them do just that."

Hannibal Hamlin, Who Served With Lincoln, Is Man Near Forgotten

Hannibal Hamlin: Even the snow hides his name on his statue in Bangor, Maine.

BANGOR, Me. — (NEA) — Millions of U.S. school children celebrate Lincoln's birthday, but few, if any, even remember the name of his running mate who helped him frame the Emancipation Proclamation that carved Lincoln his greatest niche in history.

Except here in Bangor where he lived most of his life, Hannibal Hamlin is the forgotten man of the Civil War. Even in Paris Hill, the Southern Maine town where he was born in 1809, few remember him. Occasionally a tourist asks direction to his birthplace; more are interested in another house nearby, scene of a murder.

There still are a few men here who can remember Hamlin as he was after he returned from politics in 1883.

Col. Harry M. Smith, who played with Hamlin's grandsons while a boy recalls going to the Hamlin farm to "tend hay." Hamlin supervised the work dressed in a tall silk hat and cutaway coat. Once when Bangor staged a giant parade in his honor and offered him a carriage he turned it "own." "I'll walk with the boys," Hamlin said.

Democratic Man

Colonel Smith remembers Hamlin as a democratic man, and C. S. Seavey, who once worked for the family, described them as "common people." One of Hamlin's big interests after his retirement was bee-keeping, and Seavey still remembers the day a bee stung the statesman in the eye.

Hamlin grew up in the backwoods country round Paris, attended Hebron Academy, managed his father's farm for a time and ran a weekly newspaper in Paris before studying law.

He was admitted to the bar in 1833 and turned his attention to politics as an anti-slavery Democrat. In the Maine legislature he served as presiding officer from 1836 until 1840, and in 1843 went to Washington as a member of Congress. In 1848 he moved up to the U.S. Senate.

Against Slavery

Hamlin took a prominent stand in Congress against extension of slavery. When the Wilmot Proviso, prohibiting slavery in any of the territory gained from Mexico after the Mexican war, was scheduled for introduction in Congress Wilmot was detained at the White House. Hamlin heard of it and at the last moment introduced the Proviso as an amendment to a bill granting Mexico $2,000,000. It passed 115-106.

When the Democrats endorsed the Kansas-Nebraska bill, he withdrew from the party and joined the newly-organized Republicans.

He resigned from the Senate to run for Governor of Maine on the Republican ticket, won, and took office January 8, 1857, only to resign a month later to return to the Senate where he could carry on his anti-slavery fight. In 1861 he resigned from the Senate after his election as vice president under Lincoln.

The GOP convention of 1864 failed to renominate him or he might have become president. Instead he became collector of the Port of Boston from 1865 to 1869. In 1869 he returned to the Senate, remaining until 1881 when he resigned to become minister to Spain. Three years later he retired after a career in public life lasting nearly 50 years.

From then until his death he lived quietly, taking little interest in public affairs. He spent much of his time at the Tarratine Club here, which he founded. He died at the club July 4, 1891, during a game of cards with old friends.

None of Hamlin's descendants live in Bangor today. A great-grandson, Dr. Hannibal Hamlin, is a Boston surgeon, and another member of his family, Miss Louise Hamlin, lives at Belfast, Me.

Bangor has grown past his old farm, and it is now part of the city. The house is used by the Bangor Theological Seminary. There is a historical marker on a tree near it to identify it for the curious. A statue stands in a city mall and there is a school named after him. Each year school children compete for the Hannibal Hamlin essay award. But there is little else to remind the nation of Lincoln's forgotten vice president.

Texans Urge Salvage Of Scrap Metals For Oil Industry Usage

WASHINGTON — (AP) — "The return of junked guns, tanks and the like from Europe to relieve the scrap iron shortage has been urged by Reps. Ken Regan of Midland and Lindley Beckworth of Glade-water."

Both represent large oil producing areas, Regan the territory from Midland and Odessa to El Paso, and Beckworth the East Texas field.

How the oil industry is affected by the scrap iron shortage was described to the House by Regan.

"This shortage of steel continues to hamper, prevent, and delay the drilling of wells that would, in all probability, relieve if not entirely prevent the shortage of oil and its products if an adequate supply of well casings could be made available," he said.

"Yet, Mr. Speaker, we are told that there are tremendous quantities of scrap steel in Europe and Africa."

"Mr. Speaker, we are shipping boatload after boatload of various supplies and commodities to Europe; the boats are returning empty. Beckworth Writes Letters

"Is it not high time, Mr. Speaker, that these United States start practicing some economies at home and do something that will be a direct benefit to all our people?" Beckworth has for months corresponded with American Military Government officials in Germany on the matter. Recently he received word from them that plans were being drawn for an organized program to salvage war scrap for shipment to the United States and England.

General Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor in Germany, wrote that while negotiations for returning scrap are pending, "it is doubtful that any scrap will be sent in through Texas ports."

Beckworth wrote back for more information and again urged more attention be given to the matter of getting some of the scrap through Gulf ports for use in Texas.

Moslem Situation Is Discussed At Rotary Institute

Chester M. Tobin of Chicago an authority on Turkey and the Middle East, told the Midland Rotary Club's Institute on International Understanding Wednesday night that appeasement doesn't buy peace.

In his address at the Midland High School Auditorium, he said spiritual forces of the world must join with the material forces of the United States to assure peace.

"We must get the Christian spirit into power politics," Tobin declared. "Only in this way will the best policies prevail."

He detailed interestingly the history of the Moslem world, its religion, its people, its economics and its wars. He explained the Balkan situation and the history of the Turks since the years when Turkey was a major world power.

The Middle East oil situation, the policies of the United Nations and American relief for Turkey and Greece also were topics discussed by the speaker, who was introduced by the Rev. Howard Holwell, president of the Rotary Club.

School Marm Swings Pii's New Pendulum

CHICAGO — (AP) — Visitors to the Chicago Board of Trade henceforth will have explained to them the meaning of the shouting and waving of traders on the floor of the big grain market.

Directors have equipped a lecture room. Eunice Dustin, formerly a school teacher in Moline, Ill., presents an illustrated talk on the market's functions. Slide films are used with the lecture.

She encourages questions. The most frequently asked question, she said, is:

"How can anyone sell what he doesn't own?"

This is a query directed at the short seller.

The reply is that many commercial goods are sold before they are manufactured, and that the short seller must deliver the grain eventually unless he cancels out his obligation by buying futures.

"Will prices go up or down?"

To this attempt to get an inside tip on the market, she answers:

"Some thing it will go up and some think it will go down, which is why there is a buyer and a seller for every transaction."

In recent weeks, Miss Dustin's most tremulous lecture came when a group of economic professors, here for the annual convention of the American Economics Association, strode into the lecture room. She gave her lecture, then braced herself for questions.

"Where can we get hold of some of those slides to use in our classes?" the professors asked.

PACK OF WILD DOGS CHASES RAILROADER

POTTSVILLE, Pa. — (AP) — Samuel Bolich outran a snarling, hungry pack of wild dogs—but I really had to run," he said.

Bolich, a trackwalker for the Reading Company, said he climbed to safety on top of a railroad car standing at the foot of Hawk Mountain.

The dogs fled two hours later when a railroad maintenance crew approached.

"Those dogs sure looked hungry," Bolich commented.

Hollywood Films De-emphasize 'New Look'

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The hippy frills and ankle lengths of the new look are due for a downfall in Hollywood films. This comes from Paramount designer Edith Head, who states the reason—the men.

"Much as we women hate to admit it," she admitted, "men have an influence in setting female fashions. And they just won't go for the new look."

Edith illustrated with some clothes she is designing for Barbara Stanwyck. The actress told her to lay off "new look" extremes. Barbara said Robert Taylor wouldn't take her out if she wore them.

Public Invited To Visit Scout Ranch In Davis Mountains

The ranch road to the Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains has been improved and the general public is invited to visit the ranch on weekends. Guy W. Brenneman, Midland Scout leader, announced.

Scouters, Scout parents, officials and supporters in 15 West Texas counties are campaigning for $200,000 with which to improve the ranch as a year-round camping area.

The 6,000-acre ranch is one of great beauty, Brenneman said. Many varieties of desert and mountain plant life, game and wildflowers abound, and a mountain stream runs through the heart of the area. Huge lava palisades, snow and high pines crown the mountain peaks, and arrowhead deposits and Indian writings make it a fruitful area for the exploration and adventure that boys love.

Swimming, hiking, plant and wildlife study, handicrafts and merit badge work will be part of the activities possible at the ranch for boys of the council's 15 counties.

State Highway 17 out of Pecos through Balmorhea and Toyahvale will take visitors to the well-marked ranch turnoff, and the road from this point on is posted with large arrows.

Dan Cupid Rides Again

It's love again as Valentine's Day approaches, with Dan Cupid still holding sway. For centuries he's been linking new sweethearts together, and with 1948 bestowing "Leap Year privileges" on eager young ladies. Dan expects a record number of victims. This year's gay Valentines carry messages of affection for many people besides sweethearts. Husbands and wives, parents, school chums, and even "just good friends" rate special Valentine verses, too.

Mystery Of Tower To Be Solved Soon

NEWPORT, R. I.—(AP)—Historians are arming themselves to storm a tower that has never surrendered its secret in hundreds of years.

The old stone mill—whose ancient silence on a hill in Touro park has challenged generations of New England questioners—is soon to face a full battle line of science, archeologists and historians who seek what lost hands braced its arches and set its stones.

A familiar picture in American schoolbooks, the strange tower—which may be the oldest structure in the land—has for years never given the answer to these two questions of its origin:

1. Was it built by Vikings as their church or stronghold against savages of the twelfth century new world?

2. Was it built on order of Governor Arnold, first colonial governor of Rhode Island, between 1663 and 1667?

In New England historians and householders have chosen sides on those two explanations for generations and now for the first time a direct study will dig for the answer. The newly formed Newport Preservation Society, headed by Mrs. George Henry Warren, Jr., and sparked in this project by railroad magnate Robert R. Young, has at last been authorized by the Newport Park Commission to make excavation.

In its present state the tower stands like a hollow shell, its roof gone, and its grey fieldstone bulk supported by arches with eight columns.

Schoolboys know of it, too, from Longfellow's poem "Skeleton in Armor" in which the poet writes of the tower as the refuge of a Norse warrior.

Chief spokesman of the Norse theory was the late archeologist, Philip Ainsworth Means of Pomfret, Conn., whose book, published in 1942, declared flatly that the tower "is the nave of a round Norse church erected in the twelfth century by men sent out by Bishop Eric Gnupeston, bishop of Greenland and Vinland."

The opposing school scoffs at the Vikings and quotes Governor Arnold's reference in his will to his "stone built windmill." They argue, too, that Arnold's mention of such a structure was the only reference to it from the time of Newport's founding in 1639.

Once, historians claim, the tower had two floors and there were traces of a fireplace in it.

Pilgrim records show that the old mill was used as a powder house in the Indian war. Up the years it served as a corn mill, a lookout tower and a hay mow.

Means called the tower "this most enigmatic and puzzling single building in the United States."

Contractors Ballot On Settlement Plan

DALLAS — (AP)— The Associated General Contractors of America Thursday are voting on a labor union official's plan for settlement of jurisdictional disputes.

The plan was submitted Wednesday by Richard J. Gray, chief of the building and construction trades department of the American Federation of Labor.

Under the plan, all jurisdictional disputes not settled locally within 10 days would be referred to a five-man board in Washington.

Labor representatives would hold two positions on the board and management two. The fifth member would be an impartial chairman. The group would be known as "the National Joint Board for settlement of Jurisdictional Disputes."

Make Use Of 'Abundance' Foods

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Apples and cabbage are both on the plentiful list. So are white and sweet potatoes. Use these excellent abundant foods in your menus to provide nourishment at budget prices.

Scalloped Apples and Cabbage
One quart sliced apples, 2 quarts shredded cabbage, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 cup bread crumbs.

Place alternate layers of the apples and cabbage in a greased baking dish. Season each layer with salt and fat. Sprinkle the sugar on the apples. Spread the bread crumbs over the last layer.

Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes, or until the cabbage and apples are tender. Toward the last, remove the cover so the crumbs can brown. Serve in the baking dish.

Scalloped Potatoes
Four cups pared and thinly sliced potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 to 2 tablespoons onion, grated, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, 2 cups milk (about).

Wash and pare potatoes; slice thin. Place half of the potatoes in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with half of the salt, pepper, paprika, flour, onion and bits of butter or margarine; repeat the process.

Add sufficient milk so that it can just be seen between the top slices. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes; remove cover and continue baking about 30 minutes or until tender and browned.

Add Good Meat Stew To Weekly List Of Favorite Budget Dishes

NEA Feature Service

Give stew a "new look" now and then—and new flavor, too—and you can add it to your list of weekly meat favorites. This good dish is made from the thriffter cuts of beef and helps considerably in cutting food costs. The main ingredients of a good stew are tender cubes of meat and well cooked vegetables in rich gravy. You can vary a stew's flavor by using different herbs and spices, a variety of liquids and a wide range of vegetables. Or you can make stew look like an entirely different dish by varying the manner of serving. (See below.)

Stew Variations
Meat: Beef, veal, lamb, or pork may be used, or a combination of one or more of these. (Pork is not used frequently for stew.) Meat may be browned or not before simmering. Browning the meat makes a deeper colored stew, also gives the meat more flavor.

Liquid: Water, bouillon, tomato juice, tomato puree, vegetable juices or cooking water, or diluted canned soups.

Seasonings: Herbs, spices, onion or garlic (or both), celery tops, minced carrots, parsley, Dill seed and caraway seed make tasty stew seasonings.

Vegetables: Carrots, onions, and potatoes are used most often. To keep stew interesting, use many different vegetables—whole kernel corn, green beans, cabbage, tomatoes, peas, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts.

Ways to Serve: On rice, noodles, split biscuits, or split cornbread. Or top with dumplings. Or make stew into a meat pie by topping with mashed potatoes, pie crust, biscuit dough or cornbread batter. Here's one of these ideas put into use—tomato herb stew served on rice—(as pictured on the previous page):

Tomato Herb Stew
2 pounds beef or veal stew meat, 1/2 clove garlic, 1/2 teaspoon marjoram, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, 1 can tomato puree, 3 cups water, onions, carrots.

Cut meat into 1 1/2 inch cubes. Flour meat and brown thoroughly in hot lard or other fat. After browning, sprinkle generously with salt and pepper. Mince garlic and add to meat with herbs, tomato puree and water. Stir well, bring to a boil, then turn heat low and simmer, covered, for 3 hours for beef, 2 hours for veal, 45 minutes before done, add 5 sliced carrots and 5 or 6 small onions, along with a teaspoon of salt. Thicken liquid, if desired, with a flour and water paste.

For good measure, here's a ground beef dish to add to your list of budget favorites. It's a new style meat pie.

Ground Beef Layer Pie
1 pound ground beef, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 1/4 cup catsup, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups bread dressing.

Make a bread dressing seasoned with minced onion, and celery, and a little sage. Combine meat with beaten egg, seasonings, and catsup. Press half of meat mixture into greased casserole. Cover with bread dressing and rest of meat. Set in pan of hot water and bake uncovered in a 350 degree F. oven for 45 minutes. Cut into pie shaped wedges and serve with gravy made from meat extract.

Greek Women Given Lessons In Homework

By HELEN MAMAS

ATHENS—A gray-haired American woman who has devoted 35 years of her life to teaching homemaking wants to take Greek peasant women out of the fields with a raised standard of living.

Dr. Edna N. White, former director of the Merrill-Palmer School in Detroit, is home demonstration specialist of the agricultural division of the American Mission for Aid to Greece.

For the past month she has been surveying every social problem related to child care, nutrition, and hygiene to "uncover all community forces that touch the homes and children of the Greek people."

Onetime director of home economics, extension and vocational work at Ohio State University, Dr. White hopes to set up a homemaking village to train leaders who will go into villages to teach simple home economics and family life to Greek women. The leaders will be recruited from among the estimated 25 college girls studying agriculture at the University of Athens and Samos.

She says: "Home economics is in its infancy in Greece. I have a pioneering job I want leaders to work through village rural centers with community women to build community life. The problem here is different than in other countries. Women use a lot of energy in the fields. They have no time for their children and even less for their homes. We can't change this, but we can help men do a better job at farming. If the income of the farmer can be increased by better farming techniques, maybe then women wouldn't be required to give so much time to the fields. Their primary job of caring for their children and homes can then be accomplished with more success."

Dr. White indicates she believes the standard of living of a country depends on the position of the women.

BULLY BEEF

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Six years ago J. J. Tyne of Corona, S. D., bought a 10-year-old Short-horn bull for $175. He sold the animal in the Sioux Falls stockyards the other day—at the mature age of 16—for 20 cents a pound, or $337.

She Calls It 'Disintoxication' But It's 'Male Beauty Shop'

PARIS—(NEA)—Countess Le Gualdes de Mesamburn gets very indignant when you call her institute "the only beauty parlor for men in Europe."

Not a beauty parlor, but an institute of hygiene, she says with regal dignity, and anyway: "Why should men not take as much care of their appearances as women? There is no good reason why any man from 35 on should be content to let his figure go and gradually acquire a paunch. A man's beauty is in his trim appearance, his flat tummy and a chin which is not multiplied by three."

So the countess opened the doors of her exclusive beauty salon at certain restricted hours—to tired business men, actors, writers and sportsmen. The price for her cure is high—$98 for 12 "Godolphin Treatments." The treatment was named after her favorite horse.

Basis of her treatment, the countess says, is a thorough "disintoxication" of the body through the skin, somewhat comparable to, but more effective than, the countess says, a Turkish bath—an old masculine standby.

After a session in a vapor bath, the customer gets wrapped in a blanket steeped in a hot liquid containing calcium and phosphates mixed to suit individual cases.

"This disintoxication is most beneficial to men, who generally suffer from excessive smoking and alcohol," she says. "Treatments have to be taken on an empty stomach, and as each session lasts over two hours, I offer my clients a couple of raw vegetable sandwiches to stay the pangs of hunger."

The treatment also includes massage, infra-violet and sun lamping, and a high-frequency run over the spine. The staff doctor is a middle-aged Russian woman, and the attendants are all women selected to add dignity to the establishment. The countess never handles a treatment herself. "It would be altogether too awkward," she says, "if we were to meet at a formal party, which might well happen."

The countess lost a fortune between World Wars and, figuring she'd be hampered by her social position making a living in France, came to the U. S. where she divided her time between Hollywood and New York learning the secrets of the beauty trade. In 1939 she returned to France, got caught up by

The cure starts in the "automobile"—French for steam bath...

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority

Many beginners at contract say "I have learned how to bid but I do not seem to be able to master the play of the hand." The most important lesson to learn in the play is to count your tricks. After you have learned that, one of the first plays you will be able to master is the endplay situation.

Today's hand gives the simplest form of the strip and endplay. Declarer wins the opening lead of the jack of hearts with the king. Now we will look over the situation. We unquestionably have a heart loser. If we can guess where the queen of diamonds is, we will have no diamond losers. But if we guess wrong we will go down on the contract needlessly.

Here is the procedure for a strip and endplay. Take two rounds of trumps, which pick up the outstanding trumps. Cash the ace and king of clubs, thus eliminating clubs from the North and South hands. Now cash the ace of hearts and lead the four of hearts, and you do not care who wins it because either East or West will have to lead back a diamond. If East wins and leads the diamond deuce, South plays the eight-spot and West has to put on the nine or queen. That gives declarer three diamond tricks. If West wins the lead, he must lead up to the ace-jack of diamonds. As I said above, this is a strip and endplay. You strip the North and South hands of hearts and clubs so that if East or West leads to lead a heart or a club instead of a diamond, you can discard a diamond from one hand and trump in the other, and be able to trump the third diamond.

Shoplifting Family Brought To Court Planned A Store

ANTIGO, WIS.—(P)—A wave of shoplifting in five northern Wisconsin communities has resulted in the arrests of a family group whose members say they intended to open a store.

Five members of the family were arraigned on charges of grand larceny. A sixth individual will be charged as an accessory. The group was arrested in an Antigo store. Deputies searching their home near Merrill found "hundreds, maybe thousands of dollars' worth" of merchandise. The district attorney quoted members of the family as saying they planned to open a store, and had made a deposit on a building at Merrill.

PRIORITIES IN MANILA

MANILA.—(P)—Scores of schools and hospitals in Manila burned out during the war will be rebuilt in 1948, the Philippine war damage commission says. Such institutions have first priority in the multi-million dollar rebuilding program, which should get into full swing this year.

Montana Boasts Origin Of Real Western Tunes

MISSOULA, Mont. — (AP) — So you think the frontiers of the west were shored back by people singing "Oh, Susanna"? Well, you're wrong, pardner. At least the melody wranglers of the Montana University Music School Foundation say you are. An early-day Montanan was much more apt to be singing "Swan Boats With the Wrong Woman," "Ricky Jim," "Yellowstone Flat," or "You Made a Hole in My Heart You Could Ready-Roll a Turnip In."

To preserve the music in the history of the west, the foundation—directed by Music School Dean John Crowder—sent a three-man party into the field last summer. They staked out musical claims in the Fort Benton and Miles City areas.

Find Montana Songs
With a trailer recording set, and a free hand, they rounded up old-timers to sing for them. By the end of the summer, the three had heard 31 performers, ranging from young cowboys to grey-beards who turned up with 13 songs known to have originated in Montana.

Several of the singers told of having heard even more fascinating songs than those they remembered. During the first summer's work, the field party out 33 discs—of different tunes, and 30 additional variations.

Charles R. Cutts of Billings, Montana, directed the field party. Working with him were his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Wylder, of Missoula.

Vary the flavor of a stew and you can serve this thrifty meat dish often. In the stew pictured, tomato puree is used as part of the liquid. Herbs and a touch of garlic give it interesting flavor. This type of stew is good served with rice or noodles.

Some Meatless Creole Recipes

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Eggs are becoming more plentiful. Oysters too are a good meat alternative. Let's listen to Adelaide Van Wey, southern-born contralto, expert in both Creole songs and Creole cooking. These Creole recipes are from her collection.

Eggs a la Creole
Six egg yolks, beaten, 8 egg whites, beaten, salt, black pepper, cayenne pepper, 1/2 pint medium cream sauce, 3 tablespoons chili sauce, 5 tablespoons grated sharp cheddar.

Beat egg whites into beaten yolks. Pour some of this mixture over part of the cream sauce mixed well with chili sauce, which has been placed in casserole dish. Sprinkle liberally with grated cheese. Repeat layers in this order until all ingredients are used. Grated cheese must be on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until cheese is melted and delicately browned.

Oyster Pie
Two dozen medium sized oysters, 6 or 8 shallots (onion to taste can be substituted), sliced, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 heaping tablespoon flour, black pepper (to taste), dash tabasco. Use No salt. Heat oil, and fry shallots in oil, then slowly stir in flour. Season with pepper and tabasco. Add oyster liquor, then oysters. Cook for 30 minutes slowly. Let cool.

When cool put into 2 pie plates lined with your favorite pie crust, have upper crust thicker than lower, about 1/4-inch. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) until pie crust is nicely done.

Orange Rosettes Rate High In '48 Cake Baking

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

The other day Martha Jane Tupper called me and asked me to come right over to her test kitchen, where she bakes out citrus recipes. If I wanted to "taste something good," I went and I wasn't a bit sorry! Since we did food work together for a magazine for a number of years I had an idea that "something good" would turn out to be an understatement. It did. She had concocted the most delicious small orange cakes, and I know right now that it's going to be one of my favorite recipes for 1948—you're too if you try it. It reminded me of a recipe I've seen but never tried in my mother's handwritten cookbook, but the older version included ground raisins. Martha used pecans instead. I suspect this is because she comes from Fayette, Mo., where pecans grow in her backyard.

Martha Jane said that she had found at least part of her inspiration for baking the cakes in my kitchen. Among my collection of old cooking utensils I have one of the earliest muffin tins made in this country—a handmade affair blackened with age, with each irregular pan riveted on crudely and separately—and she had admired the decorative way it hung against the kitchen wall. When she went home to Fayette for a visit recently, she couldn't wait to bring back a perfectly beautiful old iron gem pan, which had been her grandmother's, to decorate her own kitchen and to use for these particular cakes. I ate three of those wonderful little cakes right away and couldn't wait to bake them at home.

We hope you'll find this recipe for Orange Rosettes easy to follow and that you'll make them with success and enjoy them as much as we did!

Orange Rosettes
1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 1/2 cup orange juice.

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and baking soda. Cream shortening; gradually add sugar, blending thoroughly after each addition. Beat in egg. Stir in orange rind and pecans. Add dry ingredients alternately with orange juice, mixing well but quickly. Fill greased 2-inch shallow muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from pan; cool. Insert fork into cup cake and dip in the following Orange Syrup, striking fork lightly against edge of pan to allow excess syrup to drop off. Place on rack to cool. Makes about 22 cakes.

Orange Syrup
1/2 cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 cup sugar.

Combine orange juice, orange rind and sugar in small sauce pan; stir over low heat until sugar is entirely dissolved. Increase heat and boil rapidly for 5 minutes or until a 230 F. temperature is reached on the candy thermometer.

Faith, Hope Is Charity's Help

By MARC J. PARSONS DETROIT — (NPA) — Loretta Gibson pins her hopes on faith and her charities grow by the year.

That's the reason she's Detroit's first Citizen-of-the-Month.

Citizen-of-the-Month is a new idea sponsored by the Detroit Junior Board of Commerce.

The board asks the city's three big daily papers, six radio stations and 42 small neighborhood weeklies to gather nominations.

A board of judges, representing a cross section of Detroit's business and labor groups, churches and racial mixtures, pick from the nominations one person each month they believe has done the most for the city by their personal example of good citizenship.

Until the board turned its spotlight on Miss Gibson she had labored in comparative obscurity for 17 years, nursing incurable cancer cases.

Her story begins in 1931 when she decided to devote her life to cancer patients.

A graduate nurse, she took special training in cancer care, borrowed $1,000 from her father (the later made it a gift) and set up the first Mercy Hall in Detroit.

That first hospital was a padlocked speakeasy. She rented the 12-room building for $60 a month and put in six beds for her first patients.

Today Mercy Hall is in a new location, expanded to 110 rooms, 60 beds, and still growing.

Miss Gibson already has plans for a new $4,000,000 cancer hospital and she is sure that the money to build it will turn up at the right time.

Faith has helped her expand her work through the years.

When Mercy Hall had grown too large for her general public, Miss Gibson found a new one that just seemed to fit her needs.

The only trouble was it cost $75,000 and she had only $150.

"Almost Laughed At Me" "Finally I went to the agent and said I want to buy that building. I told him I will pay you $150 down and at least $150 a month and pay the entire amount inside of two years." He almost laughed at me. But a week later he called and said I could have it on those terms. I didn't even know where I was going to get the first $150 monthly payment. But in less than 11 months we had paid the $75,000 in full.

Then she bought the building next door to her new Mercy Hall. It cost $15,000 and another $19,000 for repairs. She also had to spend $900 to build and $35,000 to equip an X-ray room before she could use it. She had no money, signed contracts for the entire amount "strictly on faith," and paid it off in a year.

Since she started, Mercy Hall has handled 3500 cancer patients and treated another 5000 cancer out-patients. Seventy per cent paid nothing or a very small part of the cost of their care.

"No One Incurable" "Every case that hasn't any money eventually finds us," she says.

"No one is ever considered incurable. We examine each patient as if he never had been diagnosed before. About 10 per cent go home cured. But we usually get only the worst cases."

Miss Gibson, who as a Catholic has taken private vows of dedication to her work runs Mercy Hall on a very strict non-sectarian, non-racial basis. "We have never had any trouble," she says proudly.

Her new $4,000,000 cancer hospital is only the first step in her expanded program of charities. She already has acquired most of the block where the present Mercy Hall is, and the new hospital will be built there. There also is her Marywood residence for 20 elderly women who were once well-to-do and now are living on meager pensions. She hopes to expand her facilities for handling such cases.

In the same block she plans to build an orphanage for colored children and a home for the blind.

"I call it my City of the Handicapped," she says.

At Austin, State Highway Maintenance Engineer C. B. Finley said travel conditions over much of Texas were worse than in the last ice storm. He warned motorists to stay off the highways unless they had chains.

"The only cross-country driving should be of an emergency nature," he cautioned.

Train Crew Marooned Ice conditions were reported from the Red River valley at Gainesville and Bonham as far South as San Antonio.

Interurban car service between Denison and Dallas and from Dallas to Waco was suspended Thursday morning because of ice. Bus service between Fort Worth and Dallas also was cancelled this morning.

Morning bus and automobile traffic skidded on the streets of Dallas, Austin and San Antonio.

A new member of a Texas Electric Railroad freight train were marooned five miles northeast of Hillsboro for six hours Thursday after power was cut off on the Dallas-Waco line.

P. D. Forbes, the conductor, said the men had only a lantern for heat. The men became walking icicles in a 200-yard walk to a highway, where they met a taxicab which took them to Hillsboro.

At Midland, on the South Plains, schools were closed and the mayor called a holiday for all except essential businesses to conserve natural gas for home use.

The snow storm, which blinded and paralyzed traffic in the Panhandle Wednesday, had spread south and west beyond El Paso and over the South Plains to Lubbock.

But the accompanying blue norther, which produced wind velocities as high as 50 miles per hour at Dumas, had died down to 20 and 25 miles at Amarillo. Temperatures were slightly higher, with a low of seven degrees at Amarillo and Pampa.

The lowest temperature reported in Texas was six degrees at Guadalupe Pass, in the far West. Other low readings: Wichita Falls 14; Abilene and Big Spring 14; Austin 23; El Paso 17; Dallas 23; Houston 24; Waco 24; Corpus Christi 24; Brady 24; Wichita Falls 15; Victoria 30; Texarkana 41.

Restrictions on the wholesale use of natural gas were asked again Thursday by the Lone Star Gas Company and the West Texas Gas Company, serving wide areas of North and West Texas.

The West Texas Company called for a voluntary emergency business holiday closing all non-essential businesses in the 44 county area.

Ranchers in the San Angelo area feared a heavy loss of new-born lambs and some two months to 10 weeks old.

A five-year-old boy was rescued from a stalled truck Wednesday when Pike Cluck of Gruver, Texas, rode horseback through deep snow and a freezing rain to bring him safely back to Gruver.

Some telephone lines from Lubbock to Amarillo were down.

Book Written Without Plot Looks Into World War III

NEW YORK — (AP) — I want to tell you about a book that may affect your life and the lives of your children.

It is a book without a plot. It has no hero or heroine and no love interest—except maybe love of country. It has no happy ending, because it ends on the note that we are just beginning.

The book is "Airborne Warfare" and it is published by the Infantry Journal Press, whose volumes for one reason or another don't hit many drug store book counters.

Major Gen. "Slim" Jim Gavin wrote the book. It is a kind of blueprint of World War III—if and when which may rank in time with the historic book on armored warfare written by an obscure French captain, Charles DeGaulle, before the outbreak of World War II.

"Slim Jim" is a kind of military Horatio Alger. A steel-willed man with a pleasant grin, he enlisted in the Army at 17 and at 37 became commander of the famed 82nd Airborne Division.

Gavin thinks the danger of the military mind lies in spending its time now learning how to fight the war better.

"The future of our armed forces is in the air," he says.

About Future Warfare Gavin cites evidence to bolster his belief that airborne landings played a decisive role in saving the beachheads in Sicily, Italy and perhaps Normandy. Yet he says that as late as 1942 the faculty of a leading American military service school was teaching that it was impossible to land a division of airborne troops behind enemy lines because too many takeoff airfields were required.

Two years later three full divisions of airborne troops were the first allied soldiers to land in France.

What will future warfare be like? Well, Gavin thinks beachheads will be replaced by airheads on enemy territory—a full Army landed by air and functioning in four to six days.

Guided missiles—with atom bombs as their probable warheads—will have a global range but will be accurate only on targets a few hundred miles away.

"Never again may troops concentrate as they have in the past," he says.

Labor's Politics Hit Snag

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Organized labor's drive to swing the 1948 elections ran into double trouble Thursday.

The two big complications seemed to be:

1. The possible chilling effect of a grand jury indictment on union political spending.
2. Divided political loyalty within the ranks of both AFL and CIO.

The indictment cited the CIO and its president, Philip Murray, under the section of the Taft-Hartley Act which bans use of union money for political purposes.

A CIO strategist said privately the indictment is bound to discourage unions from campaign spending.

Unions Can't Agree

Both the AFL and CIO have as their aim the defeat of congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act. But both are finding it hard to make their members stay hitched to a single line of political action.

Top AFL officials failed, at their recent executive council meeting at Miami, to agree on a league director. There is more turmoil about this than appears on the surface.

Bill Hutcheson, head of the AFL carpenters and lifelong Republican, has declined to go along with the others. There are reports that Dan Tobin, one of the staunchest Democrats among the AFL leaders, may make his own separate political plans, too.

As for the CIO, a group of its unions representing about 1,250,000 of the CIO's claimed 6,000,000 members have indicated they may support Henry Wallace, third party. Murray and the rest of the CIO have come out against a third party this year.

Mrs. Black announced that following the election of various unit officers for the coming year, another course will be conducted for new officers and for those who were unable to attend Wednesday's session.

Parents were welcomed to the South Elementary School by the unit's vice president, Mrs. Douglas Nix, and hostess for the noon-hour lunch, served in the school cafeteria, was President Mrs. Leland Ball.

The course continued from 9:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Waldo Leggett serving coffee during the morning session.

Texas Recommended For Treasury Service

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Thirteen men will soon visit the Philadelphia Mint, pick up an assortment of coins at random, then weigh and assay them.

That's an old and annual practice, to make sure that the hard money you carry in your pocket is sound. The assayers are paid only their traveling and other expenses for a couple of days work. They're appointed by the President.

One of those the Treasury Department recommended to Truman for appointment is a Texas, U. S. Naval Capt. Oscar Henry Dodson. Senator Tom Connally appointed Dodson to the Naval Academy 20 years ago from Central, Texas.

As a hobby, Captain Dodson has studied the "science of numismatics" and specializes in the collection of coins of the United States, ancient Greece, Rome and China.

Phi Beta Kappa Vs Football, Fraternities, Fun In College

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)— If college football could be beaten to death with a Phi Beta Kappa key, Robert Maynard Hutchins would have done it long ago.

At the ripe old age of 49 this ex-boy wonder of the educational world—became president of the University of Chicago at 30—is still trying to protect America's ivory towers from the evils of the inflated pigskin. It's no longer on the program at Chicago.

Just a few days ago "Fighting Bob" renewed the attack in a lecture in Buffalo during which he remarked:

"Football, fraternities and fun were designed to make a college education palatable for those who shouldn't be there."

Kant To Dinner

In his theory the people "who shouldn't be there" are those who go to college for a vocational or technical education. He believes universities should be reserved for those who seek the intellectual life on a high and ardent level—Aristotle for breakfast, Thomas Aquinas for lunch, Kant for dinner.

His ideal is the medieval university at which students poured over metaphysics and philosophical classics, thereby, Hutchins holds, learning to think so that they could discover the truth for themselves. This system, of course, created its share of wandering intellectual bumps just as amateur tennis today has produced a number of traveling athletic tramps.

These unemployed career high-brows could argue learnedly on how many angels could sit on the point of a needle—a hot argument in those days—but they weren't much help when somebody had to get in the hay for harvest from the fields.

As a graduate of a state university which had its share of "Football, fraternities and fun," I find it difficult to understand the learned doctor's abhorrence of this happy trinity of American education.

Pisto, one of the intellectual rockets of history, was an able wrestler. Most of the football players I knew did better than fair in their studies, and their only complaint was they weren't being paid enough for the labors in the stadium—which was true at that time. I understand now football players generally are better paid and that is as it should be—football is work.

College fraternities do make some snobs, but so does Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary fraternity of the learned. The school fraternities also teach shy country boys how to get along with people and to refrain from wiping their noses with their dinner napkins. Phi Beta Kappa doesn't do this—it merely honors a number of high-ranking students who may know nothing they haven't read in a book.

There is no reason why a boy can't go to college, study for a career, learn to enjoy Socrates and the world of ideas—and still find time to watch a football game Saturday afternoon and go to a fraternity dance Saturday night. A man ought to quit any college he doesn't have fun in—or resign from living altogether, for that matter, if it ceases to entertain him to a reasonable degree.

As an admirer of the glacial consistency of Bob Hutchins, A.B., A.M., LL.B., LL.D., I can't quite understand the logic of his wrath against college fraternities. The latest volume of "Who's Who In America" lists him as belonging to eight social and business clubs and two honorary clubs in three cities on two continents.

The length of a day increases about a thousandth of a second every century.
