Finesse Is Needed

A fight between two boxers who have no defensive skill is usually a rough affair. Each will take a punch to land one, slugging toe to toe without science or finesse.

A political fight of this nature seems to be shaping up between the President and Congress. Truman has called the present Congress the worst, or maybe the second worst, in the country's history.

Thus each indirectly admits the other is right. Truman doesn't claim that he has been the best President in our history, nor do the legislators boast that the 80th Congress has the proudest record.

This does not promise to be an edifying spectacle. And when the President hints that there may be more of the same "when things warm up and we get into politics," many voters will feel a chill of apprehension.

The prospect of a debate on whether we really have had the worst government in our history during the last two years is somewhat degrading. It also threatens to becloud certain important issues and deepen the normal partisan divisions of an election year by artificial means.

Any such theme for a campaign debate would tend to degenerate into a Democratic-Republican argument. That, of course, is not what it really is. It is a White House-Capitol Hill argument. There are partisan aspects to the feud, but there are also partisan activities that contradict them.

If the present campaign theme is continued, however, we may depend on a broadside of generalities that will blow the inconsistencies sky high.

There was a time, before this contest for the booby prize began, when it seemed that Congress would be wise to reconvene after the political conventions and give some important and pressing legislation the deliberation that it deserves.

A booby-prize campaign would be embarrassing enough without its becoming a ruling factor in the acts of Congress. For the shadow of world affairs and America's place in them cannot be removed from the activities of a national election.

The United States has a big investment in world affairs and a big stake in their outcome. America's voice is one of the strongest in shaping them. The authority of that voice will be lessened somewhat by our political wrangling this Summer. That can't be helped.

We hope that the booby-prize campaign will be abandoned. If it is not, we should like to devote another editorial to a few questions which we hope both sides will be asking themselves and answering before they go further.

We'll soon be hearing from the straw vote experts—and start wondering what they do between elections.

It's more pleasant when the lowdown on people is high praise.

Herbert Hoover Gets Credit For Best Convention Speech

PHILADELPHIA—(NEA)—Convention postscripts—There ought to be an easier way to name presidential candidates.

Best speech, Herbert Hoover's... Worst speech, most all the others. They were so bad that even the radio audiences were pouring in complaints.

Best press conference, Gov. Earl Warren of California. He made a hit as the squarest shooter at the convention and a man whose word could be depended on.

Biggest boo from the crowd, to Senator Ed Martin of Pennsylvania, when he came to the platform to nominate Dewey and said, "This is the most historic moment of my life."

Biggest demonstration, Harold Stassen's a. m. show... All the other "spontaneous demonstrations," staged mostly by ringers and not by delegates, were put on by grim-faced old timers and extras for the mob scene.

Biggest let-down, also Harold Stassen's. Day before the balloting began, Stassen declared that the "Grundey-Dewey deal" had injured the Republican Party.

Q—Is there a passage in the Bible prophesying the flight of airplanes over Jerusalem? A—The reference is probably to Isaiah 3:15 which reads, "As birds flying, so will the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem; defending also he will deliver it; and passing over he will preserve it."

Q—What were the Hanging Gardens of Babylon? A—They are supposed to have been a part of the palace at the Babylonian capital. Tradition says the gardens were built by King Nebuchadnezzar for his wife who longed for something resembling her native hills in Media.

When the receiver is connected with wind T's, it will automatically light up the right runway for pilots; if the wind is changing, blowing in gusts from different directions, two runways will be lighted. If the unit fails for any reason, it will automatically turn on the lights at the moment of failure and the lights will be left burning until the receiver is repaired. Such are some of the elaborate safety measures Mallory has built into his invention.

Expansion Plan For City Hall Hits Snag

Plans for enlarging Midland's City Hall hit a snag Friday night when only one bid was received for the project and it was considered too expensive at this time by the councilmen who attended the session.

City Manager H. A. Thomason recommended that the expansion program be pigeon-holed until costs of building materials decrease and that new bids then be asked. Felix Stonebocker submitted a bid of $77,950 on the proposed expansion of the building and explained he had pared costs as much as possible. No other bids were received.

City Orders New Fog Machine, DDT Powder For War On Insects

The City of Midland soon will have its own fog machine, plus a big supply of DDT to wage war on flies and other insects.

City Manager H. A. Thomason said Saturday the city had ordered a late model machine which is being shipped by air express from New York.

The fog machine previously used to spray DDT in the city was owned jointly by the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Big Spring chapter of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation. However, this machine has been sold to Big Spring, and J&V's have turned over proceeds of their sale of half-interest in it to apply on purchase of the new one.

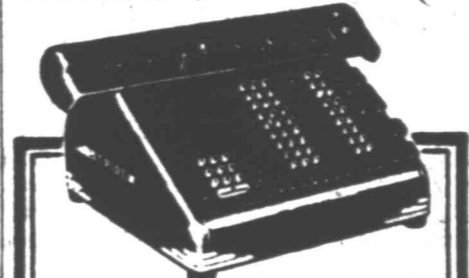

Along with the new fog machine, the city has ordered 1,000 pounds of DDT.

Construction permits in Midland during the week ending Saturday amounted to $111,500, which brought the 1945 figure to $2,140,535.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

Seven hundred cattle sold at the Midland Livestock Auction Thursday, and except for some choice butcher offerings, they met a decidedly cooler reception from buyers than in the previous week's sale.

But calves and yearlings went at $25 to $28.50, with medium kinds at $21 to $24. Common and cull calves and yearlings bulked at $14 to $21. Fat cows scored $17 to $21, with ordinary ones at $16 to $17.50. Canners and cutters brought $10 to $15. No fat bulls showed up, but there were some common and medium-fat ones which sold for $16 to $19.

Stocker steers and yearlings ranged from $23.50 to $36, comparable heifer calves $20 to $22, and heifer yearlings $17.50 to $20.

Horace "Bono" Hargrove from down Stiles way was a visitor in Midland Friday.

G. A. Farral of San Angelo said last week he was still "feeding" everything on his ranch south of Fort Stockton. He got some spotted rains on his Pecos County ranch in May, but the moisture wasn't heavy enough to make much of a showing against the prolonged drought, he said.

Don Martin of Seymour and Max Gardner of Wichita Falls were here last week en route to the Maria country. Martin, who does considerable cattle trading in this territory, said he hadn't heard of any calves being contracted for Fall delivery, but he figured the price would be around 28 to 30 cents when trading gets started.

Frank Williamson has been moving more cattle to the country near Walsenburg, Colo., which he bought this Spring. He has put about 250 head up there, and plans to ship about that many more. The grass is green, there has been plenty of moisture, and cattle are thriving around Walsenburg, he says.

Carl Craddock of Pawhuska, Okla., was in Midland last week with reports of plenty of rain and good grass in his home country.

George Glass, Midland breeder of registered Herefords, has bought a herd bull from Steve Currie of Garden City. The bull was bred by Winston Bros. Snyder, who showed him to a grand championship at Odessa about six years ago.

In the May 30 (rodeo) edition of The Reporter-Telegram, this reporter worked up a kind of left-handed story on the way the Encyclopaedia Britannica in our office treats the subject of "Rodeo."

We complained that our edition of the EB completely omits mention of the Pecos Rodeo though numerous other Western towns are named as being famous for cowboy shows. We also wailed that Midland and the World Championship Rodeo staged here annually is totally ignored.

Not that we were seriously alarmed because the EB neglected West Texas and the original home of the rodeo; we have yet to be shown that it would make any difference in attendance or quality of rodeos in Midland and Pecos if the Encyclopaedia Britannica devoted several pages to the shows. It was just another rodeo story, something to fill up a gap in a big paper. We'd forgotten all about it until Friday, when the postman brought this letter from Dale O'Brien, director of the Public Relations and Advertising Department of the encyclopaedia:

Dear Frank: In your piece on the Midland Rodeo in the May 30 issue of The Reporter-Telegram, you were quoting from an earlier printing of the Britannica, and the current revision of the encyclopaedia does do justice to Pecos.

The present article reads in part as follows: "The first public cowboy contest wherein prizes were awarded to the winners of bronco riding and steer roping was held on an open flat adjoining the courthouse at Pecos, Texas, on July 4, 1883, but no admission fee was charged the spectators."

In the current revision the "unseemly comment" about drooling of ballads no longer appears either. As a matter of fact, the "big bust" you mentioned in your last paragraph is not in the Britannica now either.

You may be interested to know that the Encyclopaedia Britannica is kept up to date by the process of continuous revision, which entails at least one new printing every year. I am enclosing a release we did last year on the revision process for your information.

Best regards. DALE O'BRIEN. That was the letter. The reference to "drooling" concerns our protest against the EB's stating that cowboys sat around fires at night "drooling ballads." The "big bust" phrase was one we used (we're not bragging about it, understand) in commenting on the way the encyclopaedia classed top rodeos of the country.

All of which just goes to show you how you can get in a jam down here in Midland if somebody in Chicago catches you stepping out of line.

But we still have a comeback: The edition of the Britannica in our office was printed in 1943. The first Pecos Rodeo is supposed to have been held around 1883, or thereabouts. Which means that by 1943 the EB had had some 60 years to discover that the first rodeo was held in Pecos.

The Britannica is a wonderful reference source. We respect it. But it hurts our feelings when the publicity director salutes us as "Dear Frank" instead of "Dear Mr. Frank."

Speaking of rodeos, Sterling City is going to throw one August 12 and 13. Free barbecue at 5 p. m. the first day, plus plenty of calf roping and other contests are scheduled. Both performances will be at night.

Cecil Davis Nabbed After Auto Accident

DALLAS —(P)— An automobile accident in Dallas County resulted in the recapture of Cecil C. Davis, 24, who escaped from the Snyder jail Wednesday.

Davis had hitchhiked a ride with two soldiers. Their car collided with a truck Friday afternoon. The soldiers were AWOL from the Walker Airfield at Roswell, N. M., and signed extradition papers to be returned.

Davis had been the object of a widespread manhunt since he sawed his way out of the Snyder jail. He had been taken to Snyder from the Huntsville Prison to participate in a trial.

Livestock Roundup

FORT WORTH —(P)— Receipts of all classes of livestock last week dropped well below totals of the week before. Top medium, food and choice slaughter and stocker cattle and calves ruled steady, lower grades were weak to $1 lower, except cows were around 50 cents off, spots more and bulls $1 lower for the week. Good butcher hogs closed 25 cents higher, sows steady to 50 cents up and feeder pigs were steady compared with week ago.

Shorn old crop lambs and yearling and Spring lambs were weak to $1 lower and older sheep were $1 or more off. Slaughter steers and yearlings sold for 15-13, butcher sows 16-50-24, canners and cutters 8-18-50; bulls 18-22, slaughter calves 14-30, stocker steers and yearlings mostly 17-27.50, stocker calves 30.00 down, stocker heifers mostly 25.50 down, stags 17.50 down, Spring lambs 12-26, yearlings 11-23, ewes and aged wethers 7-10, old bucks 7.50 down, feeder Spring lambs 20.00 down, feeder yearlings 17.50 down.

Fight Against TB Is Waged in Poland

WARSAW —(P)— Poland's health agencies are fighting a hard war against tuberculosis. It has been claimed as high as 18,000 lives monthly—more than 600,000 per year. Millions of Poles are suffering tuberculosis in some form.

The health ministry, assisted by the Danish Red Cross, the Norwegian Red Cross and the Polish Red Cross and other agencies, plans tuberculosis examinations within the next two years for approximately 2,000,000 persons aged two to 18 years. The Children's Emergency Fund of the United Nations is slated to give substantial aid in this big drive to detect, arrest, cure or prevent tuberculosis.

Our store contains most of the items for daily use, and as we go along, with the help of our many friends and neighbors, we hope to complete our stock. My son and I built the Northland Food Market, as we did our home, one block west of the store. For the past twenty years, my life has been devoted to that of a cowboy. In that period of time, I worked on two ranches—the J. V. Stokes, Sr. ranch, and the George W. Glass ranch. I worked for Mr. Stokes, whose ranch is located southeast of Midland, for a period of over four years. He sold his land and cattle, and I moved to Mr. Glass' ranch, twelve miles north of Midland. I stayed with Mr. Glass for over sixteen years, but due to my physical condition, I had to leave the kind of work I had always loved. We hope to have as much success with the Northland Food Market as I did as a cowboy, and with the aid of all our friends and neighbors, I know we shall.

That makes four ways an athlete can stay in school without fear of being called to service, although ROTC membership will defer only juniors and seniors.

Here's a quick glance at some of the SWC situations: TCU has two veterans among key players and others have joined a Naval Reserve unit; Baylor's best are in ROTC; National Guard or a reserve unit of some kind; Texas has mostly veterans and the others are in the campus Naval ROTC unit; Texas A&M lists 26 of its 62 ball players as veterans.

Cincinnati Tabs Four In First To Shut Out Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Scoring all their runs in the first inning, the Cincinnati Reds, behind the airtight pitching of Johnny (Double No-Hit) Vandermeer, shut out the New York Giants 4-0 Saturday to even their current series at one game apiece.

The Reds took advantage of wildness on the part of southpaw Monte Kennedy and an error by outfielder Whitley Lockman to tally four times on only two singles.

Kennedy, making his second start since his recall from Minneapolis last week, failed to get by the first batter. He walked two of the first three batters to face him, then gave up singles to Hank Sauer and Danny Litwhiler. When Lockman overcharged, Litwhiler's hit, two runners crossed the plate and Litwhiler reached third. The stocky outfielder scored a moment later on a wild pitch.

Vandermeer, in fashioning his first shutout, scattered seven hits for his fourth victory.

The Midland Indians and the Vernon Dusters collide in Indian Park Sunday at 3 p. m. for the second engagement of a three-game series.

Saturday night behind the three-hit pitching of Leland Crissman the Indians broke Vernon's hex and beat the Dusters 9-2 in Indian Park. Vernon had conquered Midland Thursday and Friday nights by 4-2 scores at Vernon. Crissman was very stingy with hits. He allowed three, but of the scratch variety. He struck out eight Dusters and walked six. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Crissman of Oklahoma, were in the stands to see him hurl. They drew a nice hand from the fans.

CHICAGO (AP)—Patty Berg, Minneapolis professional, erased a four-hole deficit on the final six holes to defeat Babe Didrikson Zaharias 1 up on the 37th green of a hectic overtime battle for the Women's Western Open golf tourney championship Saturday.

The 30-year-old Miss Berg, in her first match-play meeting against the Babe, ruined the 35th birthday celebration of Mrs. Zaharias.

The Babe blew up completely on the last nine after leading most of the scrap over 6,434-yard Skycrest Country Club.

Patty's triumph matched Mrs. Zaharias' three victories in the Western Open.

Apparently nettled by a low-flying airplane which buzzed the gallery of 2,000 most of the back nine, Mrs. Zaharias saw her four-hole lead melt away under Miss Berg's stubborn battling until the match was squared on the 36th green.

Then, on the 400-yard 37th the sturdy Minneapolis red-head rang down the curtain on the Babe with a nifty par four, while Mrs. Zaharias scrambled for a five.

Yankees Take 8-5 Junior Baseball. Tilt From Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The New York Yankees rode to an 8-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday on the strength of home runs by Johnny Lindell and Yogi Berra.

Although he needed help from reliever Joe Page, Alvin Reynolds was credited with the victory, his ninth of the season.

Page entered the game in the sixth inning, after Reynolds had been belted for four runs in a four-inning Tiger uprising, and allowed only one hit the rest of the way.

In the fourth, the Yankees jumped on Tiger starter Virgil Trucks and his successor, Freddie Hutchinson, for four hits and four runs. One of the hits was Johnny Lindell's 11th homer of the season.

Chicago Convention Guests Big Eaters

CHICAGO—(AP)—Visitors who have left Chicago with a "fed-up" feeling need no longer wonder why. It was something they ate.

The Chicago convention bureau says in a year's time 900,000 conventioners come here to meet—and to eat. The men and women, on the average, stay three days. That means 8,100,000 meals.

The itemized bill of fare includes 11,988,000 pounds of meat, 2,568,000 pounds of fish, 18,000,000 potatoes, 2,028,000 pounds of vegetables, 3,312,000 eggs, 9,000,000 slices of bread, 5,400,000 pieces of pastry, 3,800,000 scoops of ice cream, 9,000,000 cups of coffee.

Concrete for use in high-temperature furnaces is now available. It is a high-strength chrome-base material that can be poured or plastered into place and which is able to withstand heat as high as 3100 degrees F.

'Current Biography 1947' Is Purchased By Midland Library

Life stories of 361 persons who figured in the news of 1947 appear in Current Biography 1947, the 700-page reference volume, added to the reference collection of the Midland County Free Library, Mrs. J. W. Carroll, Librarian, announced.

Because much of the limelight of 1947 focused on Congress, many of the names were chosen from the newly elected Republican majority in the Senate and the House of Representatives. New heads of state and political leaders abroad, among them Vincent Auriol, president of the French Republic and David Ben-Gurion, premier of Israel, were featured, as were such as Nikolai Novikov, Soviet ambassador to the United States, and Prince Philip, now a member of the British royal family, also appear in this yearbook, as well as UN delegates and important personalities in the fields of science, art, literature, music, labor and industry, the social sciences, education, and other of the thirty-three classifications by profession.

Russians May Get Food From Lupine

MOSCOW—(AP)—From White Russia it is reported that lupine, which formerly was raised only as fodder for cattle and as a natural fertilizer, is being used as a raw material for industry. Two Belorussian scientists have discovered a means of removing harmful alkaloids from the lupine crop and it thus can be used as raw material for food products and machines.

Another scientist has discovered how to separate protein from lupine seed and obtain a product not inferior to protein of animal derivation. From lupine, states Ivestia, there can be made high quality and cheap artificial wool, plastics and plywood glue.

SWISS TOURIST TRADE

SCHAFFHAUSEN, SWITZERLAND—(AP)—Switzerland's tourist business in 1947 was worth about 117 million dollars to the Swiss economy, the Central Office for Tourist Promotion reported to the members recently. Statistics for the first quarter of this year promised 1948 would be equally as fruitful.

The copybara of tropical South America, which attains a weight of 180 pounds, is the largest gnawing mammal now in existence.

Knowledge Of Tricky Building Terms Can Be Beneficial To Home Builder

By The Associated Press

It's a good idea to know what your architect, lawyer and builder are talking about. Misunderstandings of terms can be costly.

For example, if you want a bathtub set back into a nook—sunk into the wall—you don't ask for a sunk-in tub. That would be a tub below the floor level. What you want is a recessed tub.

When in doubt, ask questions. Some terms explain themselves, such as door stop, stair tread, window light (a pane). Others can be tricky.

Here is a partial list of terms you may encounter:

Abstract—Usually a summary of past ownership of your land, including deeds, wills and legal proceedings.

Air-Conditioning—Not always cooling; usually humidified forced warm air heating.

Apron—A flat board of interior woodwork under a window stool.

Bay—The space in a plan that is divided by columns or piers.

Bridging—Wood or metal braces between floor joists.

Chase—Groove in masonry, usually to accommodate pipes.

Concrete—Mixture of cement, sand, gravel, stone or other reinforcing materials for strength.

Coping—Cap on top of a wall to shed water.

Cricket—Small roof behind a chimney to shed snow and water.

More Terms

Dado—Molding around lower part of a wall; a chair rail or low wainscot.

Door Butt—A hinge secured to the edge of a door.

Easement—A right to use land, other than as tenant, for a specific purpose, such as passage.

Elevation—Altitude, but also a scale drawing of the upright parts of a building.

Equity—Your cash interest in property over and above liens.

Escutcheon—Metal shield around keyhole or doorknob.

Exedra—A wall seat, often of stone and in a curve.

Fee—Payment for service; or inheritable estate in land.

Fire Stop—Any solid tight closing between walls or floors to prevent rapid spread of fire. Usually a board.

Flashing—Metal strips or other sealing of joints in a roof, in valleys and around chimneys; also around doors and windows.

Footing—A spread base for a foundation or column.

Furring—Wood or metal strips holding a plastered wall away from masonry or ceiling.

Header—A beam across the end of joists, such as one framing a stair opening.

Joist—One of a series of parallel beams supporting floor or ceiling and supported in turn by larger beams, girders or bearing walls.

Kitchen Dresser—A cupboard or kitchen cabinet for dishes and pans.

Leader—A downspout, eaves drain, roof drain or conductor, variously known in different sections of the country.

Still More Terms

Lintel—Horizontal structural member over door or window opening.

Meeting Rail—Cross bar holding lock in middle of a double hung window.

Mullion—Generally non-structural upright bar between units of a window, such as a casement.

Muntins—Small frames in a window holding the panes.

Newell—The post at the foot of a balustrade.

Orientation—Arranging or facing a house for view, sunlight and direction of wind.

Parge—Or Parge Coat—Coarse plaster as a decoration or protection.

A new plastic made from oil and sand can be used to keep bread and cake from sticking to the pan. The new grease is a silicon compound spread on the inside of the pan in place of grease.

Billye Jane German, Watt Reynolds Are Wed In Impressive Ceremony

A sunburst arrangement of white gladiolus and Marconi daisies decorated the altar before which Miss Billye Jane German and Watt W. Reynolds, Jr., exchanged marriage vows Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. German of 715 West Storey Street and Reynolds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Watt W. Reynolds of Fort Worth.

The wedding took place in the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. H. H. Hollowell, pastor, read the service.

Matching the sunburst arrangement were two baskets of white gladiolus and Marconi daisies on either side of the altar. Woodwardia trees flanked the sanctuary, which was outlined with seven branched candelabra.

The chancel rail was entwined with fern studded with Ester Reed daisies.

Arrangements of Marconi daisies, white satin roping and new coronas of Marconi daisies completed the decorations.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Preston Lee, and Jack Rhodes sang "I Love Thee."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown traditionally designed, with a long styled bodice and long fitted sleeves of ivory Schiffl embroidery, and an off-shoulder neckline of sheer illusion.

The very full gathered skirt of ivory satin swept into a formal train.

A fingertip veil of imported French brida fell from a diamond-shaped beaded brim of the matching Schiffl embroidery.

The bridal bouquet, valley lilies clustered with white orchids and interspersed with French illusion, was cascaded with showers of white stephanotis.

Miss German also carried a point-lace handkerchief in an antique gold handkerchief holder loaned her by Mrs. John Sparks of Fort Worth.

Bridal attendants Mrs. Howard E. Arnold, Jr., was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were Miss Edith Jones of Abilene, Miss Marian Longnecker of Dallas, Miss Eliana Eastham, Miss Joan Steinberger, and Mrs. Paul Anderson.

All wore gowns of Spring green marquisette fashioned with scalloped capes, tiny ruffled shoulder collars, fitted bodices and full gathered skirts.

The bridesmaids were looped hosiery of matching green taffeta and they carried floral fans of green net and yellow Ester Reed daisies.

John C. Ryan III of Fort Worth was best man. Groomsman "The Honorable" W. W. Reynolds, Jr., of Fort Worth, Harry Bradford of Houston, Watt M. Casey of Albany, and Al German and Jack Rhodes of Midland.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. German selected a gown of champagne lace with short sleeves and classic lines. Her hat was a halo of champagne illusion over lilacs, and she wore a corsage of purple orchids. Champagne lace gloves completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Reynolds was attired in a gown featuring a gray lace top and a full gray chiffon skirt. Her hat was a halo of gray and chartreuse maline, and her accessories were chartreuse. Green orchids made up her corsage.

Reception at Scharbauer After the wedding, a reception was held in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

Guests were served from a table covered with a white cloth and draped with net swags which were

Mrs. Watt W. Reynolds, Jr.

The wedding of Miss Billye Jane German and Watt W. Reynolds, Jr., was solemnized Saturday evening in the First Methodist Church. Miss German is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. German and Reynolds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Watt W. Reynolds of Fort Worth.

German-Reynolds Wedding Attendants Guests At Dinner

Thirty-one guests were present Friday night at the rehearsal dinner given Miss Billye Jane German and Watt Reynolds, Jr., for attendants taking part in their wedding, and relatives of the betrothed couple.

The dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. George Abell in the Private Dining Room of Hotel Scharbauer. Miss German, Reynolds, Mrs. Howard B. Arnold, matron of honor, and John C. Ryan, best man, sat at the head of the U-shaped table.

A pale green cloth and white tapers in silver candelabra carried out the green-and-white motif chosen by the bride-elect. Each candelabra was encircled with a white daisy wreath and accented with a white satin ribbon. Beautiful bouquets.

Silver flower-bowls held the three large bouquets of white gladiolus and marconi daisies.

For the four-course dinner, served by candle light, Miss German chose a gown of aqua chantilly lace and marquisette with a full skirt and a bolero top. She wore an orchid in her hair.

The wedding attendants received gifts from Miss German and Reynolds.

Present at the dinner were the parents of the engaged couple, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. German and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Reynolds of Fort Worth, the hosts and hostesses, Paul Anderson, Mrs. Ruth Garrett of Fort Worth and Miss German and Reynolds.

Also present were the bride-elect's attendants, Mrs. Arnold, Miss Eliana Eastham, Miss Joan Steinberger, Mrs. Paul Anderson, Miss Marian Longnecker of Dallas, Miss Edith Jones of Abilene, and Miss Sue Harding of Fort Worth.

Attendees of Reynolds present were Ryan, Al German, Harry Bradford of Houston, Jack Rhodes, W. W. Reynolds, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Jack Higgins, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds, Kent; and Mrs. Ethel Casey, Albany, Texas.

Wallace-Brewer Engagement Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wallace have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patsy Wallace, to David F. Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Brewer of Dallas. The wedding will take place July 24. Miss Wallace is a June graduate of Midland High School. Almeda Kellett, Robert Blalock Exchange Vows

Miss Almeda Kellett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kellett of Jayton, became the bride of Robert C. Blalock, Tuesday in a wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Kellett, 815 West Wall Street.

Blalock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blalock of San Antonio. The Rev. Vernon C. Yearby of the First Baptist Church read the service of the double-ring ceremony and the marriage vows were exchanged before an altar decked with gladiolus and asters.

The bride was attired in a sweet length dress of white tulle. Her accessories were gold, and she wore an orchid corsage.

Attendees were Mrs. Louis B. Kellett and Alton Hill.

A gray cape with draped skirt and high neckline was chosen by the bride's mother. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Reception is held

A reception in the Kellett home followed the wedding. Seasonal flowers outlined the entertaining room, and forget-me-nots adorned the serving table, which was agreed with a white lace cloth.

Pink roses encircled the wedding cake, and crystal appointments were used.

Mrs. B. J. Kellett presided at the punch bowl, and Mrs. Louis Kellett cut the cake.

Go To Indian Lodge

The newly-married couple left immediately after the reception for a wedding trip to Indian Lodge, near Fort Davis. A rose linen dress was chosen by the bride for traveling. Her accessories were white and she wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Blalock is a graduate of Jayton High School and Texas Tech, Lubbock.

Blalock is a graduate of Midland High School and served in the Navy three years. He is now employed by the Rotary Engineering Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Blalock will reside at 513 West Wall Street after July 1. Out-of-town guests were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellett; Mrs. R. C. Blalock, Sr., of San Antonio; and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bruce of San Antonio.

Community Theater Comedy Is Enjoyed

The Community Theater, which has provided many hours of fine entertainment for Midlanders, rang the bell again Saturday night when it rang down the curtain on the Paul Osborn comedy, "On Borrowed Time."

This was the seventeenth production of the theater, now in its third season. Sterling performances were turned in by Elvin Weatherbee, Jr., Morris Creath, Myrtle Ratcliff, Louise Showalter, Leon Waldes and Bill McMorris.

They were ably supported by Art Cole, Billie Reid, W. A. Waldschmidt, Jack Menish, Don McKibben and Lee Warren Hays.

Midlanders who failed to see this production missed a treat. The play production committee has not made its decision on the production.

Many times to the Community Theater, was the director. "The Man Who Came To Dinner," will be presented by the Community Theater in late September. This Moe Hart and George S. Kaufman comedy ran two seasons on Broadway, September 23, 24 and 25 will be the dates. More than 30 persons are needed for the cast and try-outs will start August 17.

In October, the Kiwanis Club again will join hands with the Community Theater to produce a minstrel. Another show will be staged in December but the play production committee has not made its decision on the production.

Model Octogenarian:
 A Two-Job-Woman Herself, She Believes
 Working People Have More Fun, Live Longer

By SYLVIA BROWN
 AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK—You can take this from an 80-year-old working girl, Mrs. Anna Binn, who models "on the side." Work, and you'll live longer.
 This, coming from the popular "Benny" as she is called in the trade, is honest advice. She is in excellent health and believes that "people who keep an interest in life will last longer than those who just exist from day to day. Besides it is so much more fun to be independent."

 Once in a while, she says, people sympathize with her—"an old lady who must work." Always, Benny says, she advises them to save their pty "for those who can't or don't want to work."
 The white-haired sweet-faced Benny who looks like everybody's mother is at present averaging about five 1 1/2 hour modeling jobs a week. She could do more, but then she says "it would interfere with my main job."
 Her "main job" is a full time one-six days a week in a night club as a ladies' lounge attendant. She works from 8:30 night until 3 a. m., takes a taxi home, sleeps until 7 o'clock in the afternoon, then calls the Society of Models where she has been registered three years to see whether she has an assignment. She says:
 "I haven't missed a day for illness in eight years. Only once did I have to take a night off and that was when I had a modeling job in Chicago."
 This was a memorable occasion in Benny's life. She had never flown before. She was wined and dined and "felt like a real glamor girl," she says.
 The five foot two-inch model who tips the scales at 130 pounds, has no relatives nearby, her husband having died several years ago. She has lived at the same hotel for 16 years, though she originally registered for two weeks. She has no kitchen and eats all her meals out—usually alone—but she doesn't mind. As a matter of fact, she says, with a twinkle in her blue eyes, "it is fun to live alone because you can do as you please."
 Usually she pleases to take walks or go to the movies. Though she "did go through the night club stage" when she was younger they don't intrigue her now. She sees "enough of night clubs" while on her night job.
 Benny uses no makeup except on an occasional job. She is not interested in romance "though the right man may come along." She doesn't care if he doesn't show up. She says:
 "Live alone and like it is my motto. And I like it. I don't owe anybody anything."

'Call Northside 777' Is Thrilling Mystery

For those who like thrills, chills and suspense packed tightly into their murder mysteries, the movie production "Call Northside 777" which showed Friday and Saturday at the Texas Theater shouldn't be disappointing.
 "Call Northside 777" is more than the average murder mystery, because closely woven into the thrills and suspense is a true story, photographed as much as possible at the actual scenes.
 The story revolves around the faith of a city editor, a reporter and the convict's mother in the innocence of a man sentenced to 99 years for murder of a policeman in the prohibition days of 1932.
 Use of photography makes this story different. Shots of the Chicago slums and the Illinois State Prison as well as the busy interior of a metropolitan daily newspaper are in the production. A close-up of the workings of a lie detector, step-by-step shots of the sending of a picture over Wirephoto, a typotype machine and several good shots of rolling presses and the circulation department in action are seen.
 The Wirephoto scenes were of machines used by The Associated Press.

Sachet Pretties Enhance Charm Of Pastel Ruffled Petticoats

This modern young miss is sewing sachet-filled pretties to the ruffles of her petticoat to add to its old-fashioned charm.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Sew sachet-filled pretties to petticoat ruffles if you want to enhance the old-fashioned charm of these whispering reminders of grandma's days.

The modern young miss will find as her grandma did that because sachet powder releases its fragrance slowly, its perfume is a long-lingering one. Economical to use, too.

You might, if you wish, let the color of your costume dictate your choice of a sachet scent. Petticoats of lavender sheers, for example, could swish the clean, fresh scent of lavender sachet. Pink verbena and yellow jasmine are other floral scents which a stickler for matching things could feebly beam with pastel petticoats.

If you can't swing ready-made sachet pretties on your allowance, make your own. Make small bags for sachet out of tiny scraps of satin or ribbon and sew up tightly after they are filled. These pellets can be beribboned with bows or tiny rosettes by which they are tacked to a petticoat flounce.

It's Simple To Sew—

Dressmaking Expert Says Women Should Learn New Short-Cuts

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
NEW YORK—"You can afford it, if you can sew it. And you can sew it if you simplify the process."

So says Lucille Rivers, dressmaking specialist whose busy Greenwich Village shop hums with production of garments for fashion shows staged by New York department stores, fabric companies and advertising agencies. Before opening her present business, Miss Rivers put in five years of cross-country teaching for pattern companies, holding sewing classes in hundreds of cities. She says:

"The average woman doesn't have time for fussing. If she has to spend weeks in over-cautious preliminaries before she finishes her dress, she's tired of the fabric, the process and the garment by the time it's completed."

"You should see how women respond to simplified practical methods of sewing—short-cuts proven to be entirely reliable by responsible workmen such as I have in my own shop."

Miss Rivers herself loves sewing, and has been at it since the age of 15. She opened her first dressmaking shop on her 21st birthday, and has been evangelizing streamlined sewing methods ever since. She adds:

"To schoolgirls who discover that sewing can be simplified, it means not only that they can have more clothes, but the career of sewing and designing at once appears attractive. Youngsters made a bee-line to my store classes, after school hours, in every city I visited."

"Mothers of college girls are a big part of the current dressmaking crusade, too. When they get a letter to the effect that the future Bachelor of Arts would like a new outfit, they want to supply it. And it's wonderful to see how many mothers have learned that they can afford it, if they can sew it."

Miss Rivers sternly disapproves of the old-fashioned methods of teaching dressmaking. She says:

"Too many teach from theory. The stand up before a group of women who probably have taken off a few hours in the middle of the afternoon while someone minds the children for them, and they tell these women, for example, that every seam must be tailor-fused. I've heard them do it!"

"This discourages the amateur from the start. Chances are she'll decide it's all too much trouble, and give up the whole idea. But if she were shown how simply a dress can be made, she would be an enthusiastic home-sewer."

"I say that a simple dress should be done in a few days at the most.

Too much handling, too much striving for perfection, spoils the attempt—and the enthusiasm."

"When a woman starts to sew for herself, the first thing she must know is her correct pattern size. Many women have been taught to take only three measurements—bust, waist and hips. I'd like to see them take length of waist and width of shoulders, as well. I advise taking front length of waist, back length of waist, and front and back width of shoulders. If a woman has no one at hand to take these measurements directly from her figure, she might take the dimensions herself from any dress in her wardrobe which fits her comfortably and well."

"Front length of waist is taken from the wide of the neck and the top of the shoulders over the bust to the waistline. Back length of waist is taken from the center

SENIOR MYF GUESTS HAVE WIENER-ROAST

A hearty and wicker roast was enjoyed by members of the Senior MYF of the First Methodist Church and their guests Thursday night.

The group, in wagon and pickup, rode to the destination, five miles north of Midland. The outing was closed with the singing of favorite songs.

Back of the neck to the waistline. Width of shoulders is taken from armhole seam to armhole seam at a point about four inches from the top of the shoulder, front and back.

"After taking these measurements, the home dressmaker should alter her pattern accordingly. This one step eliminates many of the headaches of fitting."

From her observation, Miss Rivers says that the country is now in the midst of its greatest home-sewing boom, and that thousands more women will take up the craft when present sewing methods are simplified for them.

Dancing Cotton

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—One reason for the young look of St. Louis fashions is that they reflect young thinking on the campuses of the country. Opinion polls, school surveys and actual designs contributed by young hopefuls influenced the creation of many of the Summer successes launched by the St. Louis fashion center.

Proof that America's style-minded gals favor young-looking cottons is the prevalence of these styles which cater to their whims. The two fashions shown above answer the loud clamor heard in and out of the cotton belt for sun dresses which can double as dance frocks.

The green-and-white checked dress at left owes its young look to a sheathed bodice and a wide skirt tucked at the hemline to form a solid border.

The dress at right was created by St. Louis designer Paula Brooks to give the young gal with a finger every chance to show it off. Topping the full skirt of multicolored plaid is a long-torso bodice, elasticized to fit like a second skirt. A stole scarf of matching plaid is added for pure drama.

OLD SUGGESTION

Scientists, many years before anyone ever even thought of such things as atomic bombs, suggested the idea that worlds, in extreme old age, lose their stability and are destroyed by atomic explosion.

Chin-Up To Limber Up

CHINNING a bar is an exercise grow-ups have taken over from the kids.

Try this method of lifting your weight from the floor, if you really want to limber up and give arm and chest muscles a workout.

Work up to this weight-lifting gradually. Then try kicking into space. It's excellent for limbering legs, slimming thighs.

All of this cheering-you-on comes from Dorothy Szapoff, opera and concert star who claims that her daily bar-chinning exercises keep her in fine fettle.

Miss Szapoff uses a portable chinning bar, which she takes with her on concert tours and anchors inside a door opening by means of suction cups. Almost any horizontal bar strong enough to support body weight, however, could be chinned to give you the benefits of this hoisting and kicking exercise.

AMAZED AT QUICK ACTION OF MERTOX

"For the past ten years I have been troubled with severe gas pains which seemed to press against my heart and made it difficult to breathe. I had a pain under my heart that was almost unbearable at times," writes Mrs. Alma Cummings of Waco.

"My food would not digest and soured on my stomach. I had had dizzy spells and when these attacks occurred I felt all puffed up. My appetite has greatly improved and I can now eat lots of things that I couldn't eat before taking this wonderful medicine."

"Since taking MERTOX I feel like a different person. It certainly is wonderful to get up in the morning and do a day's work, without that tired, worn-out feeling. I certainly was amazed at the quick action of this medicine."

You can get MERTOX from any Texas drugist at the new REDUCED price.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcostratin. Four this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 47 Pounds
"When I commenced to take Barcostratin, I weighed 212 pounds. I now weigh 145. I lost 25 pounds on the first two bottles. I feel so much better after losing that weight. I think it is a wonderful medicine and thanks to Barcostratin."—Mrs. George Gregg, Chalmers Court 4, Apt. 1, Austin, Texas.

Lost 20 Pounds
"I lost 20 pounds taking four bottles of Barcostratin and I feel fine."—H. M. Gates, 212 25th Street, Corpus Christi, Texas.

An average of more than 50 Midland youngsters have enjoyed the Youth Center's amusement facilities every afternoon since the building was brought from the Midland Air Terminal, established on a lot at the corner of Illinois and B Streets, and opened to teen-agers.

Barefooted Walk Benefits Feet

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Take advantage of the "bare-foot season" to give the muscles of your feet a fling at freedom. While lolling on the beach, kick off your shoes, and get in as much barefooted walking as you can. Even if shoes are nothing more than leather soles with ribbon laces, remove these encumbrances as often as possible. Spread your toes when you walk. When you sit, try spreading toes like you spread the panels of a folding fan. It takes practice and patience to learn to flare your toes, but the reward for your effort will be a stronger metatarsal arch.

Exercise the long arch of feet, the so-called "suspension bridge" of your body. A good exercise for strengthening this bridge is taken sitting erectly with your back braced against a rock, stone wall or tree trunk. In that position, stretch legs out in front of you and dig heels deep into sand or grass. Now, force your toes to move first toward and then away from your ankles.

Governor Proclaims 'Waddy' Week In Texas

AUSTIN—(AP)—This week will be "Waddy Week" in Texas by proclamation of Gov. Beauford H. Jester.

"Waddy" is another name for cowboy, and the Will Rogers Range Riders of Amarillo will sponsor a "Waddy Week" celebration at Amarillo July 2-5, carrying on activities typical of the early days in Texas.

The governor's proclamation noted that "the great Republic and State of Texas was developed into a world leading cattle empire through the efforts and rawhide determination of its friendly, courageous, and freedom-loving cowboys, popularly known as 'waddies'."

"From the colonization of Texas to the present time, these waddies with their fellow Texans imbued with the waddy spirit have never failed to go beyond the call of duty in defending freedom and human liberties throughout the world," the governor observed.

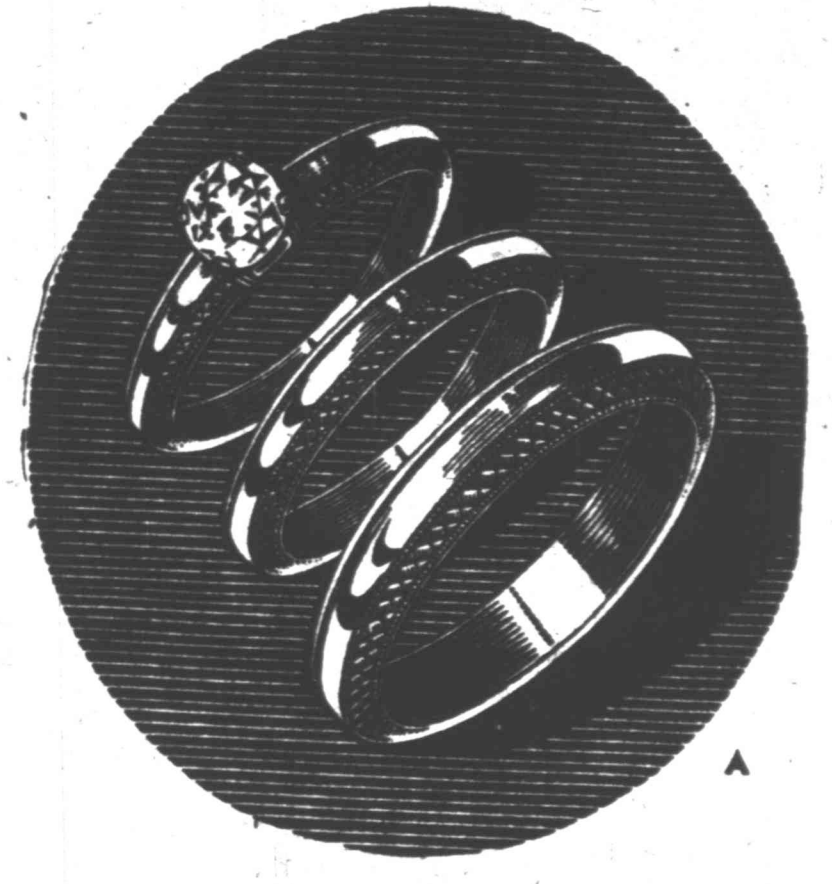

Thus, he said, they gave Texans "the worldwide reputation of being the most courageous, hard fighting, generous, friendly and freedom-loving people."

Pennsylvania Dutch Lost Colony Found

READING, PA.—(AP)—Persistent detective work by Dr. Alfred L. Shoemaker, curator of the Berks County Historical Society here, has disclosed a "lost tribe" of Pennsylvania Dutch living in County Limerick, Ire.

More than 200 years ago the tribe tried to reach American freedom in Berks County but were sidetracked. Now Mayor John F. Davis, of Reading, himself of Welsh descent, is extending an invitation to representatives to visit the city and county during the bicentennial celebration which reaches its peak August 14.

Known as Palatines, members of the group left the Rhine region in 1709 and arrived in London enroute to America. Once there, Doctor Shoemaker relates, the immigrants awaited ships to carry them to America to join compatriots who had settled along the shores of the Schuylkill and Lehigh Rivers, Berks County, Pa. "Due to a lack of shipping space," he continued, "they were transported across the Irish Sea by the English and established a colony in County Limerick, where they live today."

From 1709 until 50 years ago, when the last "Irish" Pennsylvania Dutchman who spoke the language died, the group retained its identity. This was inevitable, Doctor Shoemaker explained, because the immigrants were the only Protestants in a solid Catholic community. Today the Palatines are conspicuous only by a slight Rhine accent, and by observing their old custom of "shooting in the New Year."

The custom of "rubbing noses" as a greeting actually is a salute by smelling or sniffing, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Right Technique Develops Proper Grooming Habits

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeature Beauty Editor

If you want to teach your little girl good grooming habits, make them easy for her. When brushing her hair she should know the correct technique, own a pretty brush and get a reward that will encourage her to continue her grooming practices.

Teach her to use the brush correctly by letting her brush her hair when you do yours. Set up a scoring system for her. At first she will be awkward and tire easily. But as her performance improves you can mark her progress either by the gold star method or special treats.

A simple and effective brush routine is one that starts at the nape of the neck and encircles the head, brushing a layer of hair at a time. Every stroke should be upward and outward to raise the hair so that the bristles can cleanse and massage the scalp. The brush should be placed on its side against the scalp at the neckline and turned with a twist of the wrist so that all the bristles roll on the scalp.

Loosen Dry Skin
Explain to your youngster that the bristles should touch the scalp so as to loosen dry skin particles and stimulate surface circulation. She should brush to the very tips of her hair—to remove dust, dry skin particles and excess oil.

A good brush will give daughter the best cooperation. You can choose a sparkling jewel colored one, but make sure it has long resilient bristles. These should be set at least half-way around the brush to give double-brushing with every stroke.

You might go so far as to show her how to put her hair up in rag curlers. This can be made more attractive for her, and the performance seem less of a chore, if you supply her with some colorful rag curlers. Save bright red, green, blue and yellow strips of material which can be used for this purpose.

You will notice that as daughter becomes more conscious of her hair, she also will become interested in how she wears it. The simple hairdo always is best for a little girl. If she wears pigtail, however, during the Winter months, find a becoming arrangement that will be cooler for Summer. You can do this by cutting her hair a little shorter so that the braids fall just a bit below her shoulders. Or you may wind them around her head and fasten them with a bow on top.

Critics Say TVA Is Foe Of Private Enterprise; Others Call It Helpful Aid

Old tin bucket still serves the Taylor family near Selma, Tenn. With TVA power lines on horizon, they hope bucket days are over.

The water pump Harvey Kling has at his home near Ramey, Tenn., means running water, a bathroom, that electricity made possible.

By RICHARD WALLACE

MEMPHIS, TENN. — (NEA) — Critics describe the Tennessee Valley Authority as an enemy of private enterprise. But many residents of the valley insist that TVA is the most helpful friend private enterprise ever had in this section.

Instead of injuring private business, TVA's friends insist that the system has created a new frontier of consumer demand so great that it may take years to supply.

Lloyd Jones, manager of the Gibson County Co-Operative, with headquarters at Trenton, Tenn., believes that he can show any visitor, with facts and figures, just what a big boon TVA has been to private enterprise in his section.

"Pet Milk Company has opened a dairy processing plant in our neighborhood," Jones says. "It's processing 67,000 pounds of milk a day from 949 farms in four counties."

"At present there are only four milk coolers on those farms—but 125 others are in the market for milk coolers. At present only 15 have dairy water heaters—but approximately 300 others want dairy water heaters. Only a few have hay driers and feed grinders now—but most are in the market for hay driers and feed grinders."

That's business.

"That's business," Jones says, "private business, private enterprise. It's the business for the big manufacturers of electrical equipment." And it all can be traced directly to the work of TVA and the presence of TVA power, he added.

The Gibson County Co-Operative, which Jones manages, is the world's largest electrical co-operative from the standpoint of members. It has 15,000 rural members. It started 10 years ago with the aid of $25 borrowed from the Farm Bureau to pay its charter expenses.

It operates in a territory of West Tennessee where electricity wasn't available, outside of a few small municipalities, prior to TVA. The co-op, with the assistance of Rural Electrification Administration lines and TVA power, has pushed service out to its 15,000 members.

Only one or two cotton gins, in the area served by the Gibson Co-Op, were electrified 10 years ago. But the co-op served power to 30 gins last fall. There are only four in the area now that are not now electrified, and two of those plan to electrify immediately.

"That's more private business," Jones points out, "both for the ginners and for the manufacturers of electric gin equipment."

Just scratched.

Back in 1936 there were perhaps a half-dozen farm homes that Jones would call electrified.

Now there are 1,200.

In Pickwick territory 4000 farms are in the market for water pumps. Every dealer has a long waiting list for ranges and refrigerators. About 1000 people now want electric ranges and about 2500 are on refrigerator waiting lists, Brawner says.

And the surface, he says. Electric lines haven't even been stretched to about 25 per cent of the farms in the Pickwick territory.

That's just a sample of the farm-home market. The TVA area is dotted with new factories and commercial enterprises — all private enterprise at work. Many of them, like the soy bean mills at Tiptonville or the strawberry processing plants at Bell, are home-grown enterprises — started by local business men to serve a need and a market that were neglected before. Others, such as the Humboldt Full - Fashioned Hosiery Mill, at Humboldt; the Rutherford Garment Works, at Rutherford; or the Brown Shoe Company plant, at Selmer, are branches of outside industries which established plants in rural areas that were predominantly agricultural before.

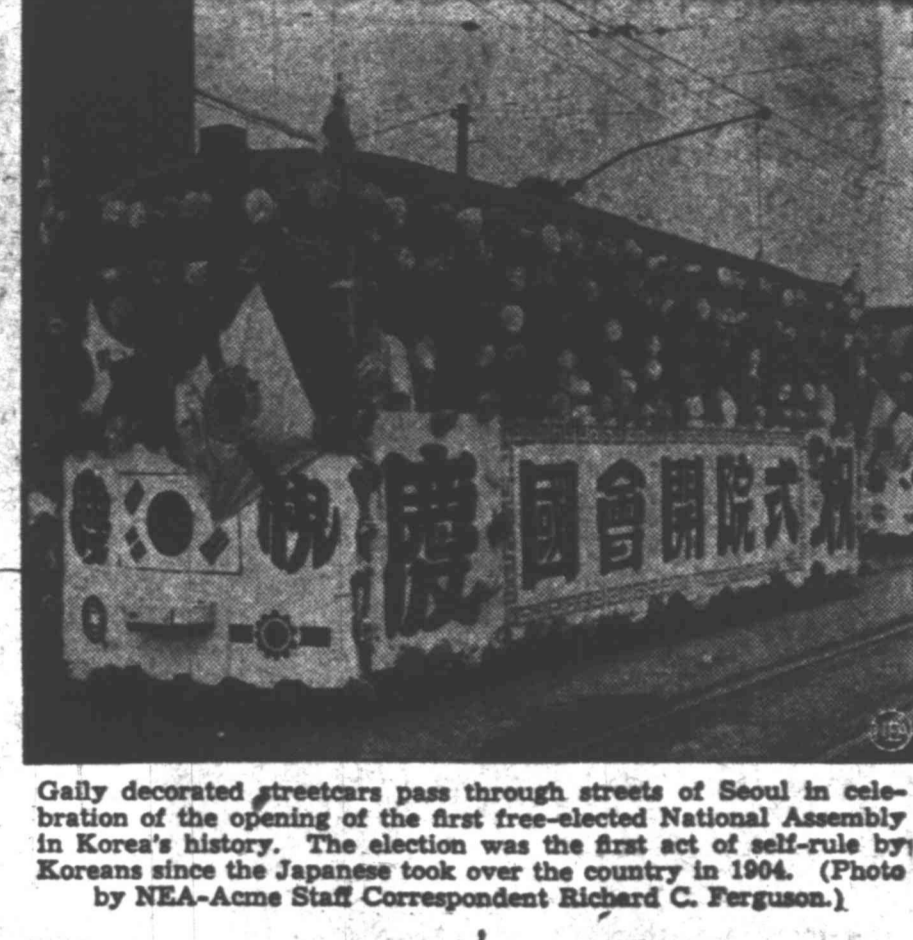

Plant managers and mayors of the towns all are careful to explain to the visitor that these plants do not mean that some other plant was closed down in New England or elsewhere. They're all expansions — serving bigger markets.

WHY "Stepping Down" IS SO IMPORTANT TO YOU

Hudson amazes motor-car world by using vital "step-down" zone—not available in any other car—to bring you riding qualities and safety beyond anything known before!

Word's going 'round—and fast, too—that Hudson gives you a "sweet, smooth, safe ride that is a new high in motor-car performance!

Perhaps you've heard pleased and proud Hudson owners talking about this exciting new experience, but here's something you may have missed hearing:

The key to this amazing new ride lies in that area just under the floor of the average car, which in the New Hudson becomes the "step-down" zone—as illustrated in the sketches at the right.

This "step-down" zone is all-important, because experience has shown that the lower to the ground a car can be built, the better it will handle, the more stability it will have, the safer it will be, and thus the more enjoyable and comfortable will be your ride.

Hudson, and Hudson alone, has accomplished a near miracle of low-built streamlining and smooth, safe, comfortable riding with a new type of base frame which surrounds the passenger compartment, and thus permits the floor to be lowered down within it. Recessing the floor creates the "step-down" zone and a center of gravity that is the lowest in any American stock car—yet road clearance is ample!

That's why Hudson has a hug-the-road way of going, even in cross-winds, and on every conceivable kind of highway.

When you see how this car takes even the sharpest curves, it will spoil you for any other type of automobile! You sense this delightful conformity to the road the minute you begin your ride; and this stability, plus the protection of riding encircled by a sturdy box-section steel frame, gives you a grand feeling of safe well-being.

Sitting in this car is as downright satisfying as stretching out in your favorite easy chair. You ride on seats that are lowered and cradled ahead of the rear wheels and, even with its low silhouette, this breathtakingly beautiful motor car gives you more head room than any other mass-produced car built today! Hudson's use of the vital "step-down" zone in its exclusive, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame is a development that required years of engineering work, the perfection of new production techniques, and millions of dollars in highly specialized new plant investment. Perhaps this explains why Hudson alone offers this new design principle today.

The nearest Hudson dealer has a booklet—yours for the asking—which explains how "stepping down" brings you advantages beyond anything known before! Hudson Motor Car Co., Detroit 14.

Other Cars—Here you can see that any car with floor on top of the frame, as shown above, fails to utilize that all-important space between frame members (henceforward vented by placing floor on top of the frame). This results in a high center of gravity, and either a high roof line or insufficient head room.

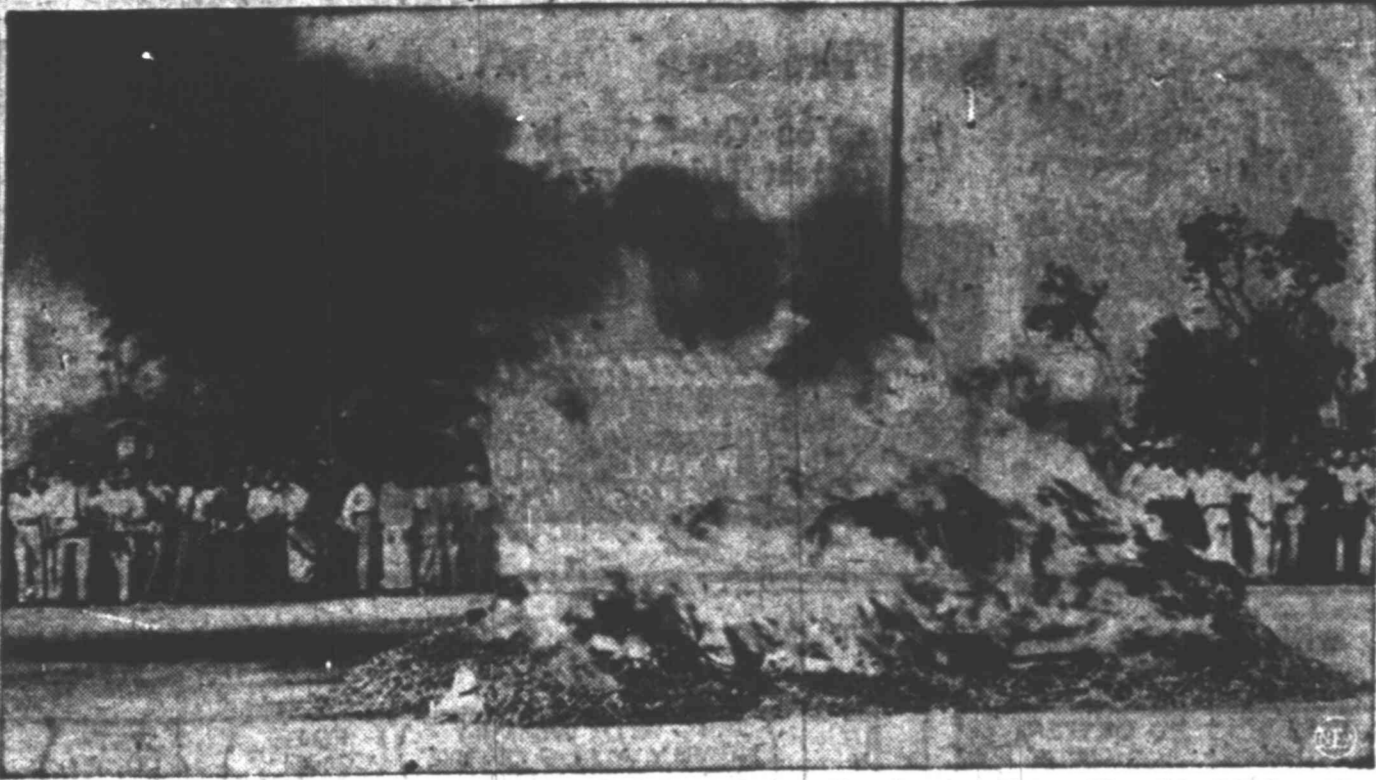

New Hudson—Here the important space between frame members, shown above, becomes the "step-down" zone—a highly useful addition to interior passenger roominess that creates a new, lower center of gravity, which in turn permits greater safety, improved roadability and ride, a low, streamlined silhouette.

This time it's Hudson

Education May Be Picked Up While Asleep

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. —(AP)— Sleep influence may have an important place in education tomorrow. University tests suggest it can work.

There have been several efforts to teach during sleep. During World War I some IT students who had difficulty learning Morse code while awake learned to send and receive soon after they started sleeping next to a telegraph sounder.

In 1942, Dr. Lawrence Lehan, a psychologist at William and Mary College, used a repeating record in an attempt to make 20 boys stop biting their nails. He reported eight stopped the habit after they had listened to the record for 84 nights.

Now a young graduate student and instructor at the University of North Carolina after two years of experiments is convinced the brain can absorb useful sound during sleep.

The experimenter is Charles R. Elliott, who has conducted two years of experiments in which he found college men's memories were improved after sleep instruction. In his tests, Elliott used a machine called the cerebrograph, invented by Max Shacter of New York. Automatic Phonograph.

The cerebrograph is an automatic phonograph which can repeatedly play special records for selected periods of time.

Elliott put the cerebrograph to work in group tests. Forty students from Duke University took part in his experiment. First, all were required to memorize a series of three-letter words from a repeating phonograph record. Some knew the words after 16 repetitions, one after 43. Then 20 students heard 15 new words during sleep. The other 20 men slept undisturbed. After awakening all learned the new words by heart.

Compiled results, Elliott says, showed students who heard words subconsciously while asleep learned more rapidly than those who did not. Both groups did better, due probably to previous practice. But the improvement of the sleep-hearers was 40 per cent, against 27 for the others.

An important part of this experiment was the assurance that sleep-learners never knew words were spoken during the night. This complete unconsciousness was accomplished by turning on the cerebrograph only when a brain wave charting apparatus showed them asleep, and also by removing tell-tale equipment from sight before the men awoke.

Both Elliott and U. N. C. Psychologist Harry W. Crane, who supervised the test, believed sleep instruction very well might be an aid to awakened education—involving such subjects as foreign languages, mathematics, diction and many others.

The fine levied for negligent driving when his auto crashed into another was $50 and costs. The damage to the other car was $350. The Marine could meet neither amount and faced a jail sentence.

A motherly appearing woman was the mercy party with a $50 check covering the fine.

Asked what her interest in the case was, she pointed to her husband and replied, "It was our car." "I have two grown boys of my own and know how easy it is to go to sleep driving."

Life-Size Nude Painting Proves To Be Lively

PALO ALTO, CALIF. —(AP)— The life-sized nude in the Stanford University Art Gallery did seem remarkably life-like. Police Sgt. Edward J. Farman mused.

Then the nude moved and he stopped musing. Covering the lady's nudity with his coat, and his embarrassment as best he could, he hustled her off to jail for clothing and observation. She was later committed to Agnew State Hospital for five days observation.

Farman happened to be in the gallery because campus residents had complained of a woman's loud singing. He had just about given up his search when his attention was drawn to the nude who didn't stand still.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

JESSICA had never known death. Her mother had died when she was too young to remember. Now Genevieve Miles and her mother arrived to take charge of the house and to treat her as though she were an interloper. To Jessica's surprise, Lucy seemed shocked out of her trance which had kept her hidden behind her own door. She seemed indifferent to the curious glances of her former friends. She was thin and pale but strong enough to do various simple tasks and appeared eager to be helpful.

The days following the funeral Lucy took an interest in everything about the house. She told Jessica that there was a small amount of insurance and that she and Tom had made some plans regarding the money. She would do typing at home as soon as she was stronger. Tom wanted to take a course in drafting at the night class offered by the university. He was ambitious to become something more than a plodding laborer. Lucy told this innocently, with no thought that Jessica might resent the confidence Tom gave his sister.

Then, the day before Christmas, Tom said to her, "Lucy says she can take care of the house now, Jess."

"You mean—"

"You may feel free to go whenever you wish." He turned on his heel and left her.

That evening Tom brought in the Christmas tree and they trimmed it. Lucy had strung popcorn and cranberries. There was the usual anxiety about whether the lights would work, and when they did, they sat together in the dark and regarded the little tree with pride. How delighted Betty would be when she saw it! How happy this evening, anticipating the morning—Christmas.

The clock struck twelve. Tom said, "Golly, it's Christmas already."

Jessica's heart was so light it threatened to fly away, until she remembered—a few days and she would leave Tom.

She rose hastily and said, "I'm tired. I'm going to bed." She rushed past Tom and up the stairs and into her own room. With the door closed she drew a deep breath. Did Tom suspect her impulse to fling herself into his arms and beg him to let her stay on his own terms?

SHE did not hear the door open. She started as Tom spoke her name. She sat up in bed. She saw Tom's tall figure dark against the thicker darkness in the hall.

"I want to talk to you," he said.

He was silent a moment as he sat down beside her. Then he said, "I planned to let you go away without telling you this night— He brushed his hand across his eyes and was silent for another moment.

Did he think of the happiest they had shared as they worked together for Betty's pleasure?

He went on, "Tonight I decided I must tell you. I was a selfish guy when I married you. I wanted you, Jess, wanted you so desperately that I refused to face the fact that I could never make you happy. I know now that I was wrong and I know the motive which prompted you to marry me, Jess. I understand exactly why you did."

"You know?" She kept her voice steady with an effort.

He nodded. "You pitied me."

"Pitied you?"

"You have a tender heart. I've watched you since I came back. In spite of your desire to go away, you've stayed, helping me, helping Lucy."

"I feel responsible for what happened to Lucy."

"Why should you?"

"Because I influenced her to change. Because I set her a bad example when I treated my own marriage vows so lightly."

"You don't need to tell me about that," said Tom roughly.

"I want to tell you. Please, Tom, listen this once."

"I thought I was in love with another man. I thought myself cheated because I had to endure a few petty hardships here which I never knew at home. I was selfish, opinionated. The man I met favored me and made me think I was abused. He told me that nobody loved forever, and so I should feel no guilt when I ceased to love the man I had married. I was unhappy and lonely. I listened."

... ..

TOM rose. He crossed the room and stood beside Betty's crib for a moment. Then he came back and stood beside the bed. He said in a low, impersonal tone, "I think I know what you're trying to say, Jess—that you've felt a strong obligation to stay here with me. You've stayed because you felt it your duty to stay."

"You think—" Her voice broke.

"I don't want your pity."

She gave a little cry and slipped out of bed and stood beside him.

"Is that what you really believe, Tom—that I pity you?"

"What else?" he asked, and made no move toward her.

"This," she said brokenly, "I went away with you that June night because I loved you— Wait, I want to tell you—try to make you understand. I want everything clear between us, now and always. I never loved David Gregory. I never loved any man but the man I married—you, Tom."

He caught her hands and drew her to him. He said, "Jess, my home will be an empty place without you. You must know that. But I have so little to offer. I didn't come here to beg."

"To beg?" Jessica laughed softly. She felt Tom's arms tighten about her. She lifted her face. She said, "You don't have to beg for what belongs to you. Do you, Tom?"

with her in one of the practice sessions and saw her execute a nice defensive play on today's hand. Sitting West, Mrs. Shelgren elected to open the jack of clubs. Declarer went up with the king in dummy, I won the trick with the ace and cashed the queen of clubs. Then I shifted to the seven of spades, which South won with the ace. The eight of diamonds was led, and Mrs. Shelgren realized that while this might be a singleton, she could not afford to win the trick. She played the ten of diamonds, which allowed dummy to win with the queen.

A small diamond was led back and ruffed by declarer, who hoped to drop an ace doubleton. But when the ace failed to fall, there was no way that South could avoid losing two heart tricks. Thus the contract was defeated one trick.

If Mrs. Shelgren had gone in with the ace of diamonds at trick four, declarer could have entered dummy with the queen of spades and discarded the two losing hearts on the king and queen of diamonds.

Hunt For Oil Resumes In Bavarian Mountains

MUNICH—The acute fuel shortage in Germany has caused geologists to resume their search for oil in the Bavarian mountains.

Years of researches which were halted during the war convinced geologists that oil can be found in the deeper soil in the mountain area. Test drillings are under way in several parts of this American-occupied state, newspapers report, but results are said to be meager.

Thin Red Line And Rich Man Of Mystery Threaten Middle East Oil Development

By S. BURTON BEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—A thin red line on a map threatens development of what may be the world's richest oil field, at a time when the world's fate seems to depend on that oil.

That line marks the boundaries of the long-dead Ottoman Empire. Because of it, two big American oil companies have not been able to invest a quarter of a billion dollars in facilities to produce, refine and distribute the liquid gold of Saudi Arabia.

They have guaranteed a loan for $102,000,000, and work is going forward now. But unless some legal way can be found to cut the red line, vital development of the Arabian desert is going to run into serious financial trouble.

The story is a bit complicated. It is a first-class sleuth with a fat expense account could be put on the trail of one C. I. Gulbenkian, the story might prove to be dramatic, too. Very briefly, it goes something like this:

The Middle East has known oil reserves of 20 million barrels, which is eight billions more than the U. S. Conservative oil men think they may find five times that much when they get time and money to finish the job.

This oil lies in three big fields. One, in Iran, is exploited by the British. Another, in Iraq, is part of this story. So is the third, in Saudi Arabia.

Back in 1914—spurred by Winston Churchill's understanding of British naval needs—the Iraqis were persuaded to grant a concession in which British, French, Dutch and Germans shared equally. The mysterious Gulbenkian apparently acted as go-between, in wheeling the concession, for which he got a five per cent interest in what now is the Iraq Petroleum Company.

Awarded To France
After World War I the German interest was awarded to France. Walter Teagie, then head of New Jersey Standard, put up such a squawk that it was turned over to five American companies—his own, Socony, Gulf, Atlantic and Pe-American.

The concession had a string that looked innocent then. It was agreed that no concern involved in Iraq Petroleum should exploit any oil unless all the others were asked in and accepted—within the limits of the old Ottoman Empire. The red line marking that empire takes in all of the Middle East except Iran—where the British are established—and the little sheldkum of Kuwait.

That agreement in 1926 forced Gulf to pass up a chance to get into the almost unbelievably rich Saudi Arabia field for a mere $170,000. Standard Oil of California took up the option for 30,000 gold sovereigns. Calsco took in the Texas Company to get use of its worldwide marketing machinery. Today these two, through the Arabian American Oil Company, have exclusive rights to an area as big as

Texas and California together—an area in which wells average to gush forth 5,000 barrels a day, compared with the U. S. average of 13 barrels.

Calsco and Tezaco have put $80,000,000 into Arabian-American. They are getting 330,000 barrels a day. But the world is starving down because of a shortage of oil. With enough money, plus priorities on steel and machinery, Saudi Arabia could double its output by 1951.

The two owners of Aramco don't have that much money. But Jersey Standard and Socony-Vacuum do. And Jersey and Socony also have vast potential markets for which they can't find enough oil.

So now Jersey and Socony want to buy into Arabian-American. They are willing to pay $76,500,000 and $25,500,000 respectively, for 30 per cent and 10 per cent interests, and then to pass up $138,000,000 of early profits. That means they invest $240,000,000 at least for the sake of getting in on Arabian oil.

But Jersey and Socony are parties to the Red Line Agreement, Saudi Arabia is part of the former Ottoman Empire. The two companies seem to be barred from investing in Arabia unless all partners in Iraq Petroleum are asked in—and accept.

The British claim that the Red Line Agreement was killed by their World War II Trading With the Enemy Act, when France was occupied. The French say it is silly to penalize them for German invasion, and have gone to court.

Jersey and Socony have an idea the British are right, but they can't be sure. They would rather persuade the French to let them buy into Aramco than to depend upon a court's decision. They think they may be able to induce the French.

But then, according to industry gossip, there remains Gulbenkian. He has as good a right as the French, if any, to say "No." And nobody knows much about him, or what his asking price will be.

He is a man of mystery. Supposed to be fabulously rich, with a finger in deep and sweet financial pies all over the continent, he is said to make his headquarters in Lisbon. That is about all that any oil man in this country seems to know about him—except that in hands that like the feel of money, they feel he may hold the fate of the Marshall Plan—and of the United States' attempt to revive war-torn Europe.

Red Astronomer Describes 'Blue Plants' On Mars

MOSCOW—(P)—A Soviet scientist claims that there is plant life on Mars.

The director of the Alma-Ata observatory in Central Asia, G. A. Tikhov, delivered a report before a gathering of Soviet scholars recently in which he not only stated that Mars is inhabited by specific forms of life but also described the specific characteristics of Martian plants.

Tikhov is probably the only "astronomer" as he is called by the newspaper Ivestia. It should be noted he does not claim that there are human beings on Mars or other forms of advanced animal life.

But he does consider that certain specific types of plants by means of evolution have been able to adjust themselves to the severe climatic conditions of the distant planet.

Tikhov describes these plants as "grasses and creeping bushes" and says they are like some arctic plants on the earth to some extent possibly such as creeping juniper, cloudberry, cranberry, lichens and mosses.

He says that they are green-blue, light-blue and even dark blue in color.

Some of these plants, Tikhov claims, grow brown and dry up even by the middle of the Martian Summer while others retain their bluish-green and blue leaves even through the Martian Winter.

Tikhov states that he considers that the equatorial regions of Mars and other portions of the planet where the sun daily rises and sets are not favorable for life because of the extreme variations of temperature each day running from plus thirty degrees Centigrade to minus fifty degrees Centigrade at night.

On the other hand, it is his opinion that the Martian polar regions where the sun does not set during "a major or lesser portion" of the Martian half-year (nearly a whole year on the earth) are favorable for the development of life.

The temperature in this area, he states, is constantly above zero and variations in temperature are small.

During the Martian half-year (nearly as long as an entire year on the earth, it is repeated) Martian plants can become green, flower, and bear seeds. These Martian plants then for the cold half of the Martian year can hide in the soil under cover of the leaves of previous years.

Gradual changes
The change from the Summer to the Winter in these polar regions, says Tikhov, is very gradual.

Mars is 1.52 times as far from the sun as is the earth, he stated, and therefore the intensity of the sun's rays striking the outer atmosphere of Mars is much less intense than that falling on the earth.

Summer on Mars at 43 degrees latitude, said Tikhov, corresponds to Winter on the earth at the same latitude. (Portsmouth, N. H. and Milwaukee, Wis., are located at about this latitude.)

Compensating in a way for the less intense rays of the sun, the Martian atmosphere is thicker and absorbs less, said Tikhov. This, he said, "creates special conditions for plant growth."

Ivestia explained that Tikhov had come to his conclusions after years of observation of Mars through powerful telescopes as well as study of plant growth in cold areas of the earth.

The paper said Tikhov plans an expedition to the subarctic soon for observation of Mars.

Pet Peeves Make Dull Conversation

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer
When you start airing your pet peeves, remember that a girl's "likes" get a better audience than her "dislikes."

The only pet hates or peeves which seem to fascinate an audience are those which are amusingly—and sometimes vehemently—expressed. But it takes a very clever, worldly-minded woman to make her pet peeves sound amusing. Teen-agers who are less gifted are apt to do better when they talk about the people and the objects they like.

A girl's youthful enthusiasm for a person or an object is apt to make her an inspired conversationalist. A girl is also apt to be liked because she sees more traits in human beings to admire than to dislike.

Conversely, the girl who takes the negative view usually gives the impression that she is making complaints, and for that reason runs the risk of being considered a tiresome talker. Moreover, people who hear a girl air her pet hates constantly are apt to wish that she were a more agreeable young person.

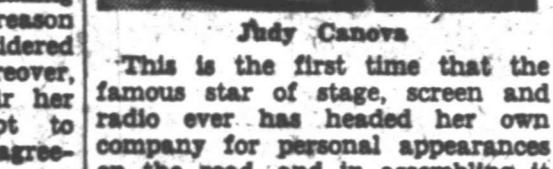

Judy Canova Brings New Variety Show To Big Spring Wednesday

Plenty of women, particularly those with mature figures, are taking liberties with The Look and with good results. The results are usually a more modified flare of skirt when excess fullness has been cut out at the side and back seams. Sometimes excessive fullness is also taken out of the peplum of a dress or jacket.

Another liberty you can take with The Look, if you miss the shoulder padding which has been taken out of your particular dress or suit, is to put it back in. Big chunky pads, of course, are to be avoided, because their use can make your new dress look outmoded. But a discreet bit of padding used to give too-sloping shoulders a needed "lift" is entirely in order. If used with discretion, pads are not apt to throw a garment out of kilter.

Taper New Togs To Slim Figure

German Horses Go On Food Demonstration

BAYREUTH, GERMANY—(P)—Horses have added a new touch to hunger demonstrations which are frequent in Germany now.

In a protest against the inadequate fodder ration and its sporadic distribution, several scores of horses recently were led to the city food office. While a delegation of horse-holders went upstairs, another group guarded the horses clattering their hoofs on the pavement outside to lend weight to the demands of their owners.

City authorities promised improvements. The immediate result was the formation of a new horse-fodder allocation and distribution board.

Dewey's Personal Domestic Platform

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

Thomas E. Dewey's platform, in the domestic field, has to rest mostly on his record as governor of New York.

Some few items that he considers important are national, so that he can only say what he would like to do about them. One such is inflation. For this he blames the war as prime villain, but claims that government mistakes have aggravated the evil.

His proposed cure includes government economy; restraint upon both speculation and consumer credit; greater sale of government bonds and encouragement of other forms of saving; retirement of the federal debt; and tax revision to encourage production and thrift.

He is squarely on record for federal development of the Missouri, Columbia and Willamette rivers for flood control, irrigation and power, and of the St. Lawrence for navigation and power.

He wants to see social security extended to cover persons now left out.

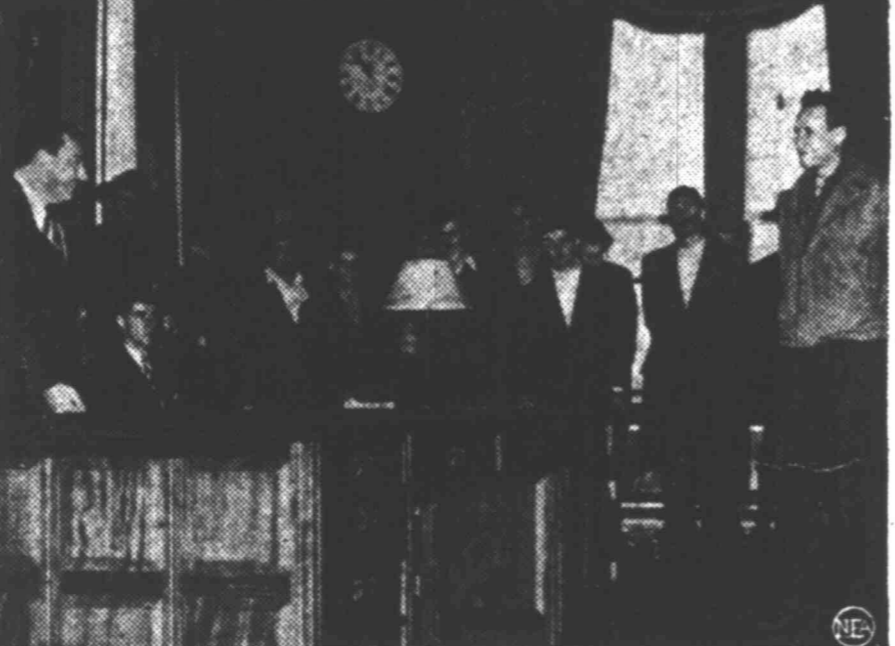

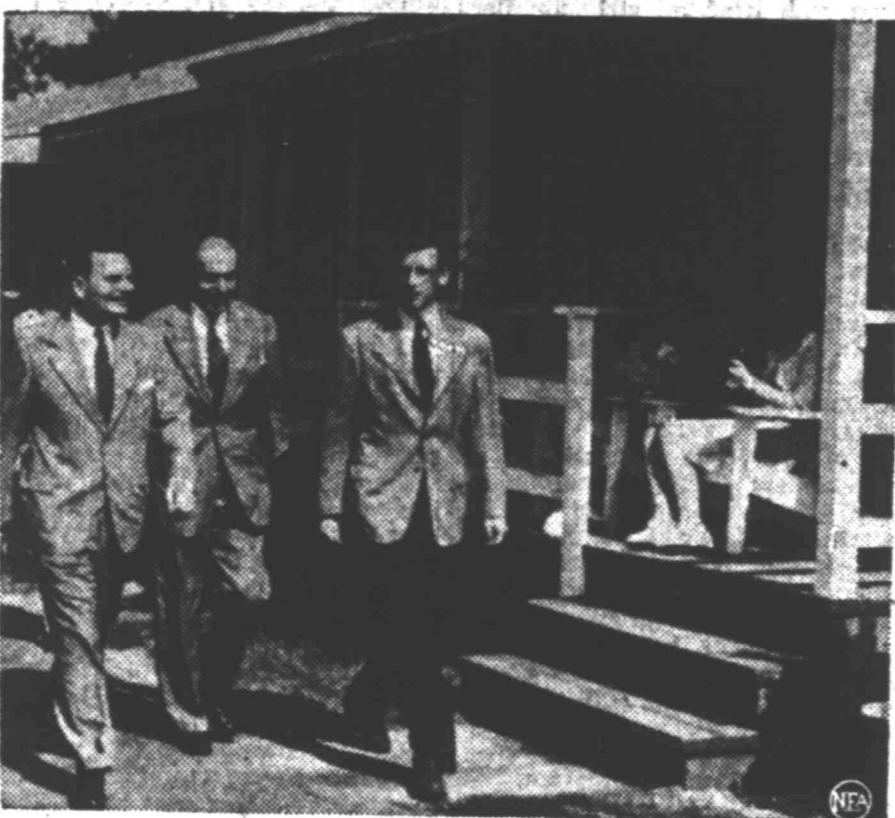

But a much larger number of national issues are merely broader aspects of the same problems with which he has been wrestling in Albany for six years. Short of confessing that he has been wrong all that time, he could not change his approach, if he would, to labor, housing, health and similar issues. The voters would go behind whatever he might say to the record of what he has done.

Dewey has taken the bull by the horns, and proclaimed his pride in two of the most controversial measures he sponsored as governor. These are the act forbidding public employees to strike, and the act forbidding employers to discriminate against job-seekers because of race, creed, color or national origin. The Dewey camp boasts that New York, under him, beat Washington to both of these measures as well as to protection of the employer's right to argue unionism and to ask for a collective bargaining election.

In 1947 a wave of actual and threatened strikes of public employees got under way — school teachers, sanitation workers, water supply employes, transit workers. Dewey sponsored a law under which any state or municipal employe who strikes shall automatically lose his job. He can be re-hired only by expressed permission of his superiors. If he is taken back he cannot have a pay raise for three years, and he can be fired at will, for any reason, for five years.

The CIO in New York has been against Dewey. But when he ran for re-election in 1946 the AFL, Columbia and Willamette rivers for flood control, irrigation and power, and of the St. Lawrence for navigation and power.

Bills Dewey pondered during governorship. (Including 1947 stack at top) covered two controversial issues, but housing was as big a headache as any. He provided a big housing program, including one at Farmingdale he inspects (middle), but vets weren't satisfied, and marched on the State Capitol (bottom).

ponent, had long been organized labor's favorite. When Dewey took office, four leading industrial states had better strike records than New York. Now none has. His backers attribute this to the effectiveness of the state's conciliation service and Labor Relations Board. Under Dewey, New York has liberalized its unemployment compensation laws, has extended minimum wage controls to cover retail workers, has provided that women must get the same pay as men for the same work. The bottom pay for state employes has been raised from $900 to $1,640, the average pay from $1,700 to $2,450. New York has provided emergency homes for 50,000 veterans at a cost of $70,000,000. The State has 26,000 -pension homes built or building with public moneys, and Governor Dewey has sponsored an additional $135,000,000 bond issue to provide more permanent housing, as well as an increase in housing subsidies to $13,000,000 a year. When OPA rent controls went off, first temporarily and then permanently, New York had its own controls waiting to go on, to prevent boosts. New York has provided three special colleges to accommodate 6,200 veterans, and has helped 52 regular colleges and universities to house and care for more than 100,000 new students, which more than doubles the ability of the state's institutions to educate veterans without neglecting youngsters just out of high school.

Taxes have stayed just about where Dewey found them when he took over after years of Democratic administration. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman had cut the state income tax in half. Dewey kept it there until the veterans' bonus was authorized. Then he insisted on providing to pay that off, and as a major part of the financing program the personal income tax was raised by 20 per cent. Instead of cutting taxes greatly, Dewey chose to pay off state debt, and lay up reserves to pay off post-war state construction. He has cut the state's debt by $138,000,000, and saved more than $800,000,000 for public works. His publicists claim credit for simplifying the income tax. He has done that, but in general the state's simplification has followed that of the federal government. Its short form return is about as easy to handle as Uncle Sam's, but the long form, for those who want it, or must report in full, still is more complicated.

The state's mental institutions, which were in pretty bad shape, have been vastly improved since Dewey took office. State aid to education has been increased by 80 per cent. Administration of relief to the needy has been streamlined, so that the deserving can get help with a minimum of red tape. By inference, at least, Dewey has been accused of being too tolerant of Communists, though the Reds themselves consider him pretty close to their Public Enemy Number One and he glorifies in their hatred.

The accusation appears to spring largely from Dewey's opposition to any attempt to outlay the Communist Party. His theory, elaborated on many occasions, is that the Reds are easy to beat so long as they are in the open. Therefore they should be kept aboveground, watched, and soundly thrashed on every occasion. When Dewey first was elected, before he went to Albany, GOP politicians expected him to try to run things with an iron hand. Some of them had a meeting at which they decided to fight when he tried to boss them. Later, one disclosed their amazement when he began, from the first, consulting them, listening to their opinions, taking their advice, working with them, and giving them credit in public.

There have been occasional flare-ups of rebellion when some GOP leader thought Dewey was pressing him hard, but these have been rare and brief. The record unquestionably is Dewey's. Some he inspired, the rest he accepts. But overall it is also the record of the Republican Party in New York under Dewey's leadership.

Reds Plan To Triple Automobile Production

MOSCOW — (AP) — Moscow News says that by the end of the current five year plan in 1950 the USSR will be producing 500,000 automobiles annually. This is three times the present rate.

During this five year period the number of automobiles in the Soviet Union will be doubled. There are now ten large automobile plants in operation or under construction instead of the three plants that existed before the war. In addition to them four automobile assembly factories are being constructed.

The principle types of present day Soviet cars are: the Zis 110—biggest, simplest of the machines, a long 8-cylinder automobile; the Pobeda—a medium sized four cylinder car; the Maakvich—a low powered four cylinder machine.

(Automotive production in the United States now is approximately 5,000,000 a year.)

British Interest In Going To Australia Increases

CANBERRA — (AP) — Interest of British people in migrating to Australia is continuing, says Immigration Minister Arthur A. Calwell. The minister says 100,000 inquiries from prospective British migrants were handled by the Australian Migration Branch in London in the first four months of this year. "Each of these inquiries represents, on the average, two-and-a-half persons," he says.

Sweetwater Cow Tries To Escape Her Fate

SWEETWATER — (AP) — This cow hardly can be blamed for running away. Her future wasn't bright. A want ad in the Sweetwater Reporter tells the story. "Lost—small brown Jersey cow. Left horn missing. Black face and forelegs. Call Steak House on East Broadway." Jugado is the Spanish word for a trial court. From it the U. S. got the slang word "hoosegow," meaning a jail.
