Secrecy Veil Is Lifted From Czech Trials

MUNICH, GERMANY—(AP)—The U. S. Army, partially lifting a heavy veil of secrecy from a spy trial, Thursday publicly sentenced Frontisek Klecka, 31-year-old waiter on the Orient Express, to 20 years at hard labor.

The eight-man U. S. Military Commission, ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay to relax its secrecy, made known the name of the first defendant and invited the press to hear the verdict—but it did not reveal the specific charge against Klecka.

Shortage Of Foods, Fuels Grows Acute

Mountainous snows and flood waters in some areas of the storm-stricken West isolated several communities Thursday, stranding thousands of persons.

Food and fuel shortages in some of the snowbound Wyoming towns become more acute. The misery of ranch families mounted. At least a dozen small towns and several ranches in the Elko, Nev., area were marooned. Residents declared an informal "state of emergency," and private and Army pilots flew food into the area.

Heart Fund Drive

This month the American Heart Association is conducting its first nationwide fund-raising campaign, with a goal of $5,000,000. The drive really marks the end of what has been called the cold war against heart disease, and the beginning of a concerted, coordinated effort to defeat the leading cause of fatalities in the United States today.

In connection with this campaign, it is interesting to note the progress made since a similar program of a year ago. Last February's Heart Association campaign was intended to dispense education rather than to solicit funds. Yet since then the association has taken in nearly $3,000,000, more than half of which came from a radio contest.

The number of local heart associations has doubled. And the national group now has a new and valuable ally in the National Heart Institute, which Congress set up within the U. S. Public Health Service last Summer. The institute will supplement, with the aid of federal funds, the association's program of basic heart research.

But more impressive than accomplishments are the amount of work to be done and the unknown territory to be explored. Heart ailments still cause half the deaths of persons past 40. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele has bluntly stated that "medical science knows so little about the causes of heart disease that at present very little can be done to prevent it."

While medical science seeks those causes, it is necessary that many more heart sufferers receive diagnosis and known treatment than are getting them today. There are, as we said, twice as many local heart associations for that purpose as there were a year ago. But the number is still only 40. That is a long way from the 500 that the Heart Association says are needed.

Research can be expanded and the number of researchers can be increased. But they cannot be hurried or put on a time schedule. The establishment of centers for relief of heart disease, however, can and must be speeded. That, evidently, is why the Heart Association will set aside 70 per cent of the funds collected this year for local associations. Half of what remains is to be spent on research, and the association's educational program will benefit from the balance.

Those are the plans. They will come to nothing, of course, without public support. There is no need to emphasize the worth or importance of this campaign. Almost every family includes a past or present sufferer from heart disease, or can count on one in the future. The individual's chance of having some sort of heart trouble is almost 50-50.

No health campaign is more important than this one, and none is more intimately deserving of support. For, in a sense, one's contribution is a payment on his own health and life insurance.

No Private Purges

The Joint Committee on Civil Rights, made up of 21 national organizations, has threatened to overturn the Democratic majority in the Senate in 1950 unless that present majority takes speed action "to end the national disgrace of filibusters."

However sympathetic the Senate majority leadership may be to the appeal, we doubt that it is very frightened by the threat. Roosevelt, at the height of his popularity, failed to persuade the voters to purge his Democratic opponents in Congress. Last Fall the leaders of organized labor were going to defeat every congressional candidate who had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act. They also failed. Neither special pleaders nor even a President can purge and punish through elections without wide and general public support. That circumstance will always be exasperating to one group or another. But it is still one of the most encouraging signs of a healthy, workable democracy.

They Were Disillusioned Long Ago

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: Legislative processes cool Atlantic Pact; congressmen stiffen Lange's determination; Truman pats poll dissector; State Department hint pushed Franco loan.

WASHINGTON — It was kept very hush-hush, but Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange had a very significant secret luncheon with a group of congressional leaders in House Speaker Sam Rayburn's office just before he returned to Oslo.

At the luncheon, the Norwegian diplomat shrewdly let his hair down to tell American congressional leaders his nation's troubles, resulting from its willingness to join the dynamic-laden Atlantic Defense Pact.

Lange told the congressmen who met with him that Norway was not worried about whether or not to throw in its lot with the West. Rather, Lange said, the thing that concerned the Norwegians, as well as the Danes, was what would happen in the event Russia began massing troops near the Norwegian border during the period while Congress debated and before American aid became effective.

Note: The luncheon for the Norwegian foreign minister was arranged by his old friend, Congressman Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Truman Asks Autographs. President Truman is still getting a kick out of the mistake the pollsters, predictors and newspaper makers in the last election. He particularly enjoyed the recent book by Morris Ernst—"The People Know Best"—which dissects the mistakes of the press in the last campaign.

He estimated it might be five months before American aid reached Norway in quantity. It was this lag, the foreign minister said, that was causing the Norwegians so much concern.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Majority Leader John McCormack

of Massachusetts both expressed the conviction that America would back Norway to the hilt. But both also warned him that the American legislative process would have to be followed before the aid could be sent. They assured him, however, that if the Russians began threatening Norway, Congress would only act more swiftly.

Upshot of the luncheon, which was also attended by Appropriations Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon of Missouri, Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Sol Bloom of New York, Senator Magnuson and Congressman Mitchell, both of Washington, was that Lange's determination to stick with the West was sufficient.

The problem stumped the State Department for a while, because it could not risk giving Spain an American government loan without arousing a loud protest from many Americans who considered Franco a fascist dictator. Finally, it was decided to pass the word quietly to the Chase National Bank that it was all right to give Franco a loan. Chase National jumped at the chance, because it's a good business deal that may lead to more loans of this kind.

The State Department, meanwhile, is sitting back to watch how Franco spends this first loan so it can decide whether to open up the U. S. Export-Import Bank to him for further help. Needless to say, Paul Cullerton is now as high with Dictator Franco for making all this possible.

Austrian Treaty Kaput. Sam Reyber, the American representative at the discussions for an Austrian peace treaty, was reported to come back home. Reyber has reported to the State Department that, with the conference only three days old, it's already quite clear the Russians have no intention whatsoever of coming to any agreement on Austria.

Therefore, Reyber has suggested that rather than waste time further, he let an understudy take over his position at the conference while he comes back to Washington to do some more work. The State Department, however, is still convinced that the Austrian negotiations by the Big Four deputies to the foreign ministers now going on in London will result in enough concessions by the Russians to warrant a Big Four meeting in New York in April. Actually, the State Department is convinced the Russians want to pit Molotov against Acheson to try out our new secretary of state for size, weight, height and reach.

Business Biggies In Washington. President Truman has been holding some highly important off-the-record meetings with business leaders because of his concern about a possible depression. The second meeting took place at Blair House secretly last Thursday and those present included Ward Canaday, head of Willys-Overland; Frank Bear, vice president of the Bank of America; Joe Love, president of Burlington mills, and Vice President Albert Barkley.

Henry Ford. II was invited but was prevented from coming by bad flying weather. Grave concern was expressed over Federal Reserve Board limitations on installment buying which, it was said, were threatening increased unemployment.

The industrialists told the President and Barkley that the one element blocking continued production was the Federal Reserve Board's limit on installment buying.

Canaday and Bear pointed out that drastic cutbacks in auto production would mean a real softening of the entire steel market, including the shutdown of some marginal mills. Truman and Barkley seemed impressed by what they heard, promised to take the regulation up with Federal Reserve Board Chairman Thomas E. McCabe.

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority Written for NEA Service

One of the difficult problems for bridge writers is to get down to earth for their readers who are just beginning to take up contract. As I said in Moore's article, the late Louis E. Watson in my opinion was one of the greatest card players.

Back in the days when people were changing over from auction to contract, Louis used to say, "Teach them the simple way. The tough ones will take care of themselves."

Today's hand, for example, would present no problem to the expert, but it is the type of hand which the beginner would study. When the dealer was the opening lead of the deuce of hearts, with the king, he might be tempted to cash his four high spades. But then he would lose the contract because he would have no entry into his hand.

Bridge hand diagram showing a deal with South and North hands. South: 1087, Q982, 1852, 452. North: 442, 1012, Q1073, A84. Dealer: West. Trick count: 10. Opening: 2.

The correct procedure is to lead the ten of clubs. East should refuse to win this trick. Now declarer should lead the nine of clubs, and again East will refuse. Now the six of clubs is led and overtaken in dummy with the jack. East is forced to win this trick, and regardless of what he returns, declarer can win it, cash the ace and king of spades and enter dummy by playing a spade. This allows him to cash two good club tricks.

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the coldest "cold wave" officially recorded in this country?

A—The coldest wave that ever hit the country invaded the northern Rocky Mountain region in February, 1933. It hung up the all-time low temperature record for the United States when it curried the mercury of a thermometer in Yellowstone National Park at 66 below zero Fahrenheit.

Q—How do Brazil nuts grow?

A—The nuts are not actually nuts, but rather seeds, which grow in round pods similar to a coconut, about 30 nuts to each pod. When the pods are ripe they drop from the tree.

Q—Will there be any total eclipses of the moon in 1949?

A—There will be two total eclipses of the moon, both visible in North and South America. These will occur on the nights of April 13 and October 4.

Q—How old are the Yale-Harvard rowing contests?

A—These contests were begun in 1852, when six-oar crews without coxswains on a three-mile course on Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H., Harvard winning.

Q—Which famous artist always prayed before painting?

A—Fra Angelico, the saintly Florentine painter. Believing in divine guidance, he prayed for inspiration for his work and it is said he never handled a brush without prayer.

THE STORY: John Henry and Sid Conover, vacationing at a swank resort, witness a card game at a gambling room. Sid Conover's quarters are occupied by John Henry and Sid Conover. Sid is a gambler and John Henry is a gambler.

John Henry stepped blithely forward and John Henry followed. He squinted in the reception hall, his eyes accustomed themselves to the murkiness. The man who had opened the door teetered on squeaky patent leather shoes. He was dressed in a black double-breasted suit with a black bow tie. There was a lot of him.

"Are we late?" Faye asked. The man bowed his square head and said, "Never." John Henry realized he was either butler, house or guard. Possibly all three. "Your card, madame?"

Faye flipped her fingers and the husky man caught the card deftly. John Henry had his chance to see it—and he was disappointed. The drop of his stomach let him know his self-appointed investigation had been based on pretty flimsy grounds.

For the card bore the queen symbol. Whirls and lines of patterned engraving followed the edge like those on a bond or a bank note. In the center was simply a straight black line followed by a large "Q."

"Certainly," the butler said curtly. "You will forgive these precautions—my pin-point eyes catch the pair—but they have been found to be necessary. My name is Sidney, madame. Though it was barely 11 o'clock,

Tales Of Swiss Competition In Watches Don't All Jibe

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Just before the House Ways and Means Committee voted 18 to seven in favor of returning to and renewing the Hull foreign trade agreements program for three years, it had two days of highly important hearings on the American jeweled-watch industry.

It was at first made to appear that American-made jeweled watches were being driven off the market by competition from Swiss-made movements imported under low tariffs. Charges were made that the U. S. national defense was being hurt by wiping out the jobs or skilled workers able to make the fine measuring instruments.

The case was taken to the White House where promises were made that it would be looked into. If the charges as presented could be substantiated, here was one instance where an American industry could clearly show that it was being hurt by the tariff policy.

The House Ways and Means Committee hearings centered around the Waltham Watch Company, Waltham, Mass. But spokesmen for the American-made Elgin and Hamilton companies and the 140 importers who assemble them in American-made cases and jewelry also got in their say. So the whole industry finally had its works opened up for a thorough cleaning and adjustment.

The Waltham story makes one of the most dramatic business narratives of recent years. Waltham recently closed down, laying off 2,300 skilled workers. An appeal was made to Reconstruction Finance Corporation for new capital. RFC finally agreed to a loan of $6,000,000 provided the company itself could raise $3,000,000.

In a magnificent effort, the people of Waltham went all out to save their principal industry. They are now reorganizing their homes and clearing their lawns to raise their share of the capital and will probably succeed. But when it comes to determining why the Waltham company failed, there seem to be two stories.

Walter Cenerazzo, president of the American Watchmakers' Union, presented evidence that he found in making, blaming the whole thing on the low tariff on imported Swiss movements. Also, he declared that while American watchmakers were engaged in war work, Swiss imports were built up to such a point that they captured the American fine watch market.

According to Cenerazzo, the average cost of an American-made movement is $12. Average cost of a Swiss movement he puts at $9.50, which, with $2.50 duty brings the New York delivered cost to $12.00. Waltham has found it impossible to compete against this differential, says Cenerazzo. He is ready to put a quota on Swiss imports, limiting them to the volume of U. S. production.

Other watchmakers told a different story. Benjamin S. Katz, president of the American-owned Gruen Watch Company, Cincinnati, said that the $6.50 movement described by Cenerazzo would go only into cheaper watches, retailing at around $20.

Troubles Other Than Swiss. Spokesmen for Elgin and Hamilton, the two old and established American watchmakers, declare they have had good sales since the war and last year had record net profits, operating under present tariff rates and in competition with the Swiss. What all their surveys show is that Americans prefer to buy American-made watches, if they can get them, because it is easier to get them repaired.

Waltham's troubles were traced to other sources. Katz said that four years ago Gruen was approached to buy Waltham. He offered $6,000,000 on two conditions. First that he would buy only assets, not stock. Second that he be permitted to close the plant for two years so that it could be completely revitalized. This offer was refused. The stock was subsequently sold to Ira Golden, but he has not been able to save Waltham. They declare the reason for bankruptcy is the need for new capital and new management.

When Congressman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark) asked Katz if the U. S. tariff laws were responsible for the layoff of 2,300 Waltham workers, he replied "No. Management and Mr. Cenerazzo are responsible. Mr. Cenerazzo has been killing the Waltham employes to sleep many years with the idea that their only problem was the Swiss. . . If they had a $20 tariff, it still wouldn't help Waltham."

The conclusion from all this is that while importers of Swiss movements do have a cost-price advantage, it isn't enough to prevent other American fine watchmakers from producing at capacity.

North Carolina, in 1860, levied special taxes on imported hats, graded canes, harps, watches, and politicians.

the wheel was in full spin. Men and women of all ages bordered the board. The card tables gripped another quota of gamblers, amateur and professional.

John Henry looked wryly down at Faye. "What's the big idea dragging me out here?" he asked. "What you need is a drink," Faye answered confidently.

"This bar was equal-separated from the square gambling room by an archway which cut off some of the juice-box loudness. Its only lights were the pink neon facings on the big mirror. A solitary man hunched on one of the leather-topped bar stools. The mess-jacketed bartender was polishing glasses and softly whistling the opening strains of the Orpheus in Hades Overture.

Faye banged a small fist on the bar. The whistling choked off and the bartender blinked. "Yes, madame?"

"I'm buying. What'll you have, partner?"

"I don't know. You order," said John Henry, avoiding the bartender's accusing glance.

"Two rye. Straight," said Faye. Conover looked among the flushed faces of the milling gamblers in the main room. "What gets me," he mused, "is how they do all this. It's against the law, you know."

"But it's thrilling!" Faye chorused and snatched up a glass, silvering.

John Henry edged away. "The surprised the police haven't cracked down. Don't tell me they don't know this place exists. He granted to catch on. When the ground to the drink on the bar."

"Just what I've thought since last night—they're a bunch of crooked cops."

He looked in the bar mirror at the eyes of Lieutenant Lyle. "Morning, Mr. Conover," said the lanky police officer and advanced. "Just what I've thought since last night—they're a bunch of crooked cops."

He sat beside John Henry, one stool removed. Close enough, Conover realized sickeningly, to have heart every syllable. (To Be Continued)

Longhorns Stay In Loop Race With Win Over Texas Aggies

By The Associated Press

The Longhorns from the University of Texas trounced Texas A&M in a basketball game Wednesday night in Austin and in so doing left Baylor and Arkansas out still hopes for the conference crown.

Currently Baylor and Arkansas are tied for the lead. The Baylor Bears moved into the tie for first Tuesday night by edging the Rice Owls.

The Owls will change the picture again Friday night when they engage Texas Christian University at Fort Worth.

Texas defeated A&M 56 to 43 in their Wednesday game.

It was close at halftime, Texas leading only 19 to 17. But the Longhorn sharpshooters began hitting the hoop in the second frame and pulled away 32 to 21 within five minutes after the half began. The Aggies were not close after that.

Tom Hamilton of Texas led the scoring with 17 points. Slater Martin, Texas center, connected for 16 points to bring his season total to 300.

After the game the Longhorns were able to count 15 successive victories over the Aggies on the Austin court.

Oilers Tip VFW; Teds Bump Jakes

The once-called lesser lights of the City Basketball League shone brighter Wednesday night and knocked off the higher-ranking boys. Magnolia ripped the VFW 45-34. Ted Thompson Agency stopped the JayCees 34-29.

Magnolia had its full strength and won its first league encounter. It beat the league-leading VFW five to turn the trick. Halftime score was Magnolia 32, VFW 17.

Adams sparked the Oiler attack with 16 tallies. He is a hot-shot, who in only two games has scored 36 points. His mate, Townley, garnered 13 tallies. Harris led the VFW quintet with 12 tabs.

Ted's Terrors were too much for the improved JayCee outfit, which knocked off the VFW recently and had been posting high scores of late. Puttrell took scoring honors for the Thompsons with 14 tallies. He was high for the game. Price got 12 markers for the Jakes. Halftime score was Ted Thompson 18, JayCees 8.

Next games scheduled in the loop will be played Friday night in the MHS gym.

RECYCLE STOLEN

Charles Klapproth reported to police Wednesday the theft of a bicycle from his residence on West Texas Street.

DOWN SPORTS LANE

—With Tanner Laine

NEA reports that Joe DiMaggio reportedly signed a one-year contract at a flat $90,000. But the story is more than that.

The Yankee's front office will say nothing more than that its front man got a good raise, however, and plainly told him to keep his financial affairs to himself.

In place of giving the details of the new arrangement, the New York club announced that the great outfielder collected an estimated $386,559.20 in salary and World Series checks in 10 years of service.

He was worth every cent of it, and then some.

Webb, Topping and Weis might well have given DiMaggio what he wanted, and advertised him as the $100,000 ballplayer he so richly deserves to be in these days of unprecedented attendance.

That would have increased even DiMaggio's towering stature and bucks office magnetism.

And to some extent at least it would have recompensed the Clipper for some of the lean pay checks he drew while having fat years under Ed Barrow.

"Ed Barrow refused to pay me what I was worth," he says, registering one of his mighty few complaints.

DiMaggio was paid $8,500 when he came up from the San Francisco club in 1926, and was some time reaching $42,000, which was what he collected when he returned from the Army in 1946. Larry MacPhail gave him $50,000 in '47, and that base pay and bonus arrangement netted him $68,000 last trip.

Hank Greenberg, Bob Feller, Hal Newhouse and Ted Williams have grossed more than DiMaggio in more recent years.

This despite the fact that the big boy from Fishermen's Wharf has been the Yankees in the big town, where the star is supposed to get the big money.

Of the 15 pennants the Yanks have won in 28 years only one was acquired without Babe Ruth or DiMaggio, and that was in a war year.

As was a three-year lapse between Ruth and DiMaggio.

An extraordinary one he was, Lou Gehrig could not carry the Yankees.

DiMaggio, now 33, stood out the last two campaigns under distressing circumstances.

He paced the Yankees to another pennant and World championship in '47 despite an open crescent wound in the rim of his heel, the result of the removal of a spur.

Last season he kept the club in the fight until next to the last day, while for three weeks playing with the worst charley horse of his career.

DiMaggio is more than a remarkable slugger and runs-batted-inner and center fielder to whom the pitchers pitch and all hands look up.

Joe DiMaggio has carried himself like a champion off the field as well.

Demaret, Mangrum Are Houston Open Favorites

HOUSTON—(AP)—Only injured Ben Hogan was missing Thursday as 150 golfers teed off in the first round of the $10,000 Houston Open tournament.

George Schneider, Professional Golf Association tournament director, said all regular members of the PGA Winter circuit except Hogan have checked in at the new Country Club course.

All but a handful this week took their first look at the year-old 6,510-yard layout that has a par 72 and is littered with pine trees, traps and water hazards.

Houston fans have boosted two native Texans, one a Houston boy, into positions as favorites.

They are the top money winners of the current Winter tour—Jimmie Demaret, the colorful Houstonian who plays out of Ojai, Calif., and Lloyd Mangrum, a native of Dallas but now a Chicago resident.

Mangrum rejoined the circuit here after a week's vacation in the Rio Grande Valley. Those most familiar with Pine Forest believe Mangrum's steady, straight style of play will do well on the course's narrow fairways.

New Champ Certain Demaret, current money leader with $5,825.00, was scheduled to rest this week but loyalty to his hometown fans forced him to decline the opportunity.

He saw his 1949 tournament income pass the idle Mangrum last Sunday when he played his best 18-holes of the season to gain a tie for fifth place in the Texas Open at San Antonio.

Mangrum has won $5,755. Hogan, recovering in an El Paso hospital from serious injuries received in a West Texas automobile collision, ranks third with $3,823.33.

Regardless of the outcome of the tournament the Houston Open will have a new champion. Bobby Locke of South Africa, the 1947 winner, is absent.

Twenty-six of the 150 players, representing 36 states, Canada and England, are amateurs.

Rice Baseballers To Work Out Next Week

HOUSTON—(AP)—Baseballers at Rice Institute start practice next week for a 1949 schedule which begins March 19.

Baseball Coach Harold Stockbridge has a squad which includes 11 lettermen.

Besides two games each with other members of the Southwest Conference, Rice will play two games each on a home and home basis with Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston State.

Aggie Thinly-Clads All Set To Repeat As Loop Champions

COLLEGE STATION—(AP)—Frank Anderson, Texas A&M track and field coach, believes his charges will repeat for the third straight year as Southwest Conference champions.

The track and field men at work on Kyle Field's cinder track for the Border Olympics in Laredo March 12.

Several top performers are back from last year.

George Kadera, champion discus and shot tasser last year, has been getting good distance in practice.

The crack mile relay team is not causing Anderson any worry. Don Holdbrook, Ervin Eilderback, Connie Ludwick and Little Don Mitchell have beaten teams from Oklahoma A&M, North Carolina, Penn State, Villanova and Seton Hall of Washington, D. C., already this year.

Among those Anderson considers possible point winners are: Carro Hahn, mile; J. D. Hampton, conference cross country champion; Jerry Bonnen, two-mile; Leroy Bodeman, Land and Tate, Jack Quirey and Johnny Davis, pole vault; Bill Napier and Red Wilson, dashes; Webster Stone, R. B. Atkins and C. W. Clark, 440-yard dash; and Robert Hall and Bill Cardon, hurdles.

Fuzzy Finds Bangtails Are Sure Foolers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—There is a theory a man can't come out ahead laying the races, because you can't win for losing.

But Fuzzy proved that sometimes a man can't lose for winning. The only catch was—he didn't end up rich because he was betting money he didn't have.

Fuzzy and Roy are two pals with a bad case of bangtail disease. For years they have been gradually "improving the breed" at the rate of $2 a race. But they haven't improved their own finances at all.

One day after a favorite they had invested the usual two bucks on limped in out of the running, Fuzzy said:

"Wonder how long it would take me to lose a million dollars—if I had it?"

"Bet $2 I could lose it faster than you," said Roy.

"You're on," replied Fuzzy, who never backed away from a $2 bet in his life.

Bet Mythical Million

Each gave himself a mythical million dollars. They agreed to bet $10,000 each on every race at every track. Whoever lost his million first would be winner. As there were four tracks operating, each with eight races, Roy and Fuzzy had to bet $320,000 a day apiece.

The first two days Roy started out well by losing $250,000. Fuzzy had a couple of winners. By the end of the week, strange to say, both had won $300,000. Unexpected winners, paying off at big odds, had put them ahead of the game.

At the end of the second week, however, the two were getting rid of their money. Roy fell to $500,000. Fuzzy was well below his original $1,000,000.

The close of the third week found Roy, cursed by three wins at long odds at one track on the same day, up to $1,500,000. Fuzzy was down to his last $200,000.

On the last day—the bet was limited to four weeks—Roy ran his money out on the first five horses. He was broke and happy.

Unfortunate Fuzzy

But poor unfortunate Fuzzy. The day before he had put $10,000 on a maiden named Pileta's Dream, and she galloped home first to pay him $800,000. That was at the rate of $112 for a $2 bet. And on the last day two other nags came in, one paying $230,000 and the other $190,000.

Fuzzy, at the end of the final race, had $2,000,000. In trying to pick losers he was 100 per cent ahead after 28 days of desperate betting.

So he mournfully paid Roy $2 and went home with the mythical $2,000,000 in his empty pocket. I asked Fuzzy if this experience had taught him a lesson.

"Yes," he said. "It has convinced me there is an element of doubt in horse racing."

Fake Divorce May Prove Real For Happy Couple

To prove that Cleveland, Ohio's, divorce court is so overburdened it grants divorces haphazardly, Cleveland Press reporter Leonard Hammer, left, posed as a lawyer and, without producing principals, witnesses or evidence, faked divorce papers for happily-married Mr. and Mrs. Richard Campbell, right. Campbell is a Cleveland Press editor. Now the stunt may back-fire. The divorce court judge refuses to vacate the "divorce." Several judges agree with the assistant county prosecutor who said "These people (the Campbells) are divorced, there's no question about that." The Campbells then sought a marriage license, but were refused until they produced a certified copy of their divorce decree. And Reporter Hammer is faced with contempt of court charges.

Dispute Leads To Resignation Of Top American Zionists

NEW YORK—(AP)—A dispute over the conduct of fund raising to aid Israel has led to the resignation of two top American Zionists from the world's highest Zionist council, the Jewish Agency Executive.

They are Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, head of the American section of the Jewish Agency, and Dr. Emanuel Neumann, president of the Zionist Organization of America.

They withdrew Wednesday from the executive in a protest against the reelection of former U. S. Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as the 1949 chairman of the United Jewish Appeal and Henry Monitor as its executive secretary.

The UJA is the central fund-raising agency for various Jewish aid organizations.

A key issue in the dispute is said to involve the question of whether aid funds collected for Israel shall be controlled by the Israeli government, or remain under control of the World Zionist Organization.

Silver and Neumann were reported to incline toward the latter view.

Four of the 19-member executive, which had called a special world-wide meeting in an unsuccessful effort to patch up the dispute, sided with Neumann and Silver.

The executive voted not to accept the resignations, and expressed hope Neumann and Silver would reconsider.

Axe Believed Used In Houston Murder Found By Workmen

HOUSTON—(AP)—A blood stained axe, believed to be the weapon used in the murder of Mrs. Paul Rodriguez and a brutal attack on her husband and two daughters, has been found near the Rodriguez home.

Rodriguez, 37, remains unconscious at a local hospital, while the two youngsters, Paula Vola, four, and Mary, 15-months, have regained consciousness but remain in serious condition.

Capt. George Seber of the Homicide Department said the axe was found by W. S. Pitts, a railroad construction gang foreman. The weapon was found concealed under a steel beam about 300 feet from the Rodriguez home.

Pitts said he and Lawrence Nevins, construction crew worker, noticed the axe as they were lifting a steel beam with a crane.

Several suspects have been questioned by police investigating the slaying but all have been released.

Autopsy Ordered To Determine Cause Of Dallas Man's Death

DALLAS—(AP)—An autopsy was to be performed to determine which of several vicious wounds caused the death of Ray Adair Moore, 33, of Dallas.

Sheriff Bill Decker said the autopsy would be necessary to determine if a shot, a bashed-in skull, back stabs or throat slashings caused Moore's death.

The man's mutilated body was found in a roadside ditch early Wednesday.

His car was parked nearby and in the vicinity officers found a woman's lipstick and Moore's recently-acquired false teeth.

A list of 18 names was found in his pocket. Officers have discounted an early theory the names which might have been those of members of a Pyramid Club, had any connection with the slaying.

Decker tends to believe the killing was a grudge slaying.

Officers said Moore was a hard worker with good habits. They said he had been married twice and that they talked to his two former wives. He owned his home, where he kept a room. The rest of the house was rented to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bratcher. They said Moore was afraid of the man who had to stay home at night alone he would take the knobs off the doors," Bratcher said.

L. A. Hirsch, office manager of the Plastics Manufacturing Company where Moore worked, said the dead man had worked from 3 p. m. Tuesday until 11 p. m.

Mrs. Effie Page, who lives near the spot where the body was found, said she heard a shot about 11:30 p. m. Tuesday.

State Highway Patrolmen are working with Sheriff Decker on the investigation.

Three Texas Cities Have Good Safety Records For 1948

DALLAS—(AP)—Three of Texas' major cities were above the median in a list of safest cities in the nation according to population brackets during 1948.

Dallas, the safest city in Texas in 1948, ranked seventh nationally. Houston held ninth place and Fort Worth stood in fourteenth. Thirty-one cities were included in the 250,000 to 500,000 population bracket.

San Antonio ranked thirtieth in the group.

Dallas had a death rate of 14.2 per 100,000 population in 1948. Texas had a rate of 28.1 and the national rate was 21.9.

The figures were released by the National Safety Council in the February issue of its publication, Public Safety.

Patman Asks Easing Of Installation Curbs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board was warned Wednesday by a Texas congressman that blame for a depression will fall on its shoulders unless installment buying curbs are eased.

Chairman Patman (D-Texas) of the House Small Business Committee told the board that controls, which are administered by the FRB, have crowded everybody but the upper crust of purchasers off of automobile, refrigerator, furniture and appliance market.

He also asked the board to provide relief for such small businessmen as automobile and appliance dealers who he said are being hurt by the Regulation W consumer credit curbs.

Jet Planes Hit the Silk to Slow Down

Experimenting with the use of parachutes to slow down fast jet planes, a Boeing XB-47 stratojet comes in for a landing, in Seattle, Wash., trailing its chute behind it. The "deceleration parachute," nicknamed "brako," is internally stowed under the tail and released by the pilot just before landing. It enables the fast jets to land on shorter runways.

El Paso Murder Defendant Placed Under Observation

EL PASO—(AP)—Mrs. Velma Griggs, 34, charged with slaying her husband, Thursday was under observation of the county psychiatrist. District Attorney Roy D. Jackson said he asked the psychiatrist to observe Mrs. Griggs for several days.

Sheriff Allan G. Falby said Mrs. Griggs told him she killed her husband because she thought he planned to harm his first wife and six children. She said the first wife lived at Baytown, Texas.

Falby said he believed, from questioning Mrs. Griggs that her husband was shot about 4:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Griggs was in their trailer home with the dead husband, a bus driver, when officers arrived.

Two Menard Men Die In Auto-Truck Crash

SAN ANGELO—(AP)—Two men were killed in a truck-automobile collision 12 miles east of here Wednesday night.

Clint Word, 36, and Sam Cochran, 35, both of Menard, were killed. Both were in the automobile. Benny Wilson of Lamesa, driver of the truck, escaped injury.

Rankin News

RANKIN—Lawrence Holcomb has returned from a veterans hospital in Fort Worth, where he had been a patient the last month.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Workman and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Miller of Texas attended a piano recital in the high school Wednesday night. Mrs. Delbert McEwen has as her guest her sister, Mrs. Hammond, from Kansas.

Tommy Workman was a San Angelo business visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Forry, who reside near Reading, Pa., are expected to arrive in Rankin Thursday, having been called by the death of her brother, Tuffy Barfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Franklin and children, Joyce and James, have moved back to Rankin from Fort Worth, where they have been residing the last year.

Mrs. Walter Clay McSpadden, who underwent surgery in a McCamey hospital Tuesday, is reported to be doing nicely.

Joel Starnes of Fort Worth was a Rankin visitor this week.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS:
"HO HUM! GUESS
I'LL TAKE A REST"...
Put the above in the collection of famous last words. Not that it's bad to take a rest... far from it. A good "blow" for yourself may be just the prescription to cure fatigue and a case of jitters. You owe yourself some rest after a busy season.
But the kind of rest that may spell danger is relaxation of your ADVERTISING effort. Don't let up on this all-important endeavor as long as you are in business... for it is vital to continuing success. When you think consistent ADVERTISING won't pay, THINK AGAIN! California Scenery Bows Out; Press Agents Take Command

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—The scenery just isn't enough any more. Like movie theater owners and radio show sponsors, the coast's famous winter resorts have discovered that even movie stars and eastern millionaires (not to mention ordinary tourists) want premiums these days.

The postwar tightening of purse strings started it and last month's snow on the palm trees finished it. Today there's a press agent behind every palm tree (or snow bank), bouncers disguised as cowboys throwing people into the resorts and Barnum-like ballyhoo including such things as orchid sandwiches and perfumed swimming pools.

I became aware of this new trend in keeping the public happy when George Raft and Billy Mann bought the swank Desert Retreat at Palm Springs.

There was an immediate announcement that the Retreat would feature the only perfumed swimming pool in the world. But even this was done with a gimmick. It seems that a mystery scent would be inserted into the pool at weekly intervals and anyone guessing the name of the scent would receive extra accommodations gratis.

I don't know whether this offer is still in force but I did hear of a Hollywood producer who won the club's undying enmity. They asked this fellow to guess the scent and without the slightest hesitation he said: "It smells just like my last picture."

Next I had an announcement from the elite Bel Air Hotel that its chef was whipping up orchid sandwiches—using orchid leaves instead of lettuce. Inasmuch as they did not send along one of their orchid sandwiches, I can't vouch for the taste but I'm told that orchids have it all over lettuce in the preparation of tasty tidbits.

Then I heard about the sunken, Roman type baths in nearly every room of the swank new Palm Springs Biltmore. Each tub is five feet square and holds more than a hundred gallons of water.

Eve Arden took her two children there recently and later told a friend: "We spent a wonderful weekend in a bathtub at Palm Springs."

When Red Skelton was a guest, he telephoned room service and said: "I'm going to take a bath now. Would you please send up a pair of water wings and about 25 feet of rope."

Every mail now brings more announcements:

The Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe, famous because it divides two states, announces that hereafter bliss couples can get married or divorced on the Nevada side of the dance floor and not have to stop dancing while doing it.

The Reno Club Cal-Neva announces it is putting slugs in its slot machines for big prizes to those who win them.

The Del Mar Turf and Surf Hotel, I understand, is still working on its underwater swimming pool wedding.

Ooops—here's another announcement from the Desert Retreat. The latest innovation there, according to the press agent, is a hanger hat for the convenience of over-timble guests, fashionably tooled from ice bags. You merely arise (if you can) in the morning, fill the hat with ice cubes and step boldly out into the sun (or snow).

That did it. I'm headed for a quiet week end in somebody's attic.

M-G-M will give 10-year-old Dean Stockwell a star buildup as a result of his work in "The Secret Garden." . . . Producer Albert J. Cohen is ready to shoot on a big scale western based on Tom Horn, the famous western gunman who was supposed to make the James boys look like boys.

Marfa Contractor Awarded Crane Job

CRANE — The Commissioners Court has accepted the bid of $1,868 submitted by Joe W. Copeland of Marfa for construction of sidewalks, curbs, gutters and single curbs around the new courthouse.

The arena for the Crane County Roping Club was assured when the commissioners voted to spend not in excess of $1,850 to develop this project on Crane County property.

E. E. Barfield was employed as trapper at a salary of $150 a month. The First State Bank of Crane was designated as depository for Crane County funds for the years 1949 and 1950.

Election Officers for 1949 were named as follows: Precinct 1, Haydon Wilmoth; Precinct 2, K. J. Harold; Precinct 3, Glenn Allen; Precinct 4, Harold Smith.

IS OUR FACE RED?
Atlantic Pact Meaningless Without Pledge Of Support

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(AP)— It's like telling a pal, "We have to protect each other and if anybody slugs you, you can count on me."

The pal says, "Count on you, how?" And you get red and confused and you can't answer.

That's how it is with us now after all the talk about a North Atlantic Pact.

Our State Department has been talking for months with Canada and the nations of Western Europe about an agreement.

But these questions will hit the heart of any agreement between this country and the Western European Democracies:

1. Will the agreement mean any thing at all unless we given an iron promise to fight for any ally that's attacked?
2. And how can we keep any allies, or expect them to stand up against threats or attack, unless we give such a promise?

Problem Unfolds
And right there the problem unfolds: Congress, alone under the Constitution, has the power to declare

Odessa's Proposed Hotel Is Leased

ODESSA—Officers of the Odessa Civic Hotel Corporation and an official of the Associated Federal Hotels Wednesday signed a 15-year lease for a proposed hotel here. The lease begins with occupancy, and the hotel is to be completed on or before Sept. 1, 1950.

A Dallas architect was authorized to proceed with detailed plans for the 150-room hotel, and it is hoped the plans will be ready for bidders within the next two months. Rental is to be 75 per cent of the net profits of the hotel property.

Recovering From Attempted Assassination

'Basic Science' Law Passes Senate Panel

AUSTIN—(AP)— A besieged but intact public school reorganization bill was near the top of the Senate calendar Thursday as the 51st Legislature prepared to take another Thursday-to-Monday week end recess.

Senate foes of the central education agency measure growing out of the Gilmer-Aikin Education Committee's recommendations indicated they contemplated no new delaying action following the 11-hour filibuster that started Tuesday afternoon and ended at 3 a. m. Wednesday.

The bill moved to the No. 2 spot on the Senate calendar as committee action Wednesday sent a new controversial proposal to the floor of that branch of the Legislature.

"It was the bitterly contested 'basic science' or 'minimum standards' bill, fought by chiropractors and defended by medical doctors. It was recommended for passage by the Senate's Public Health Committee by a 6 to 4 vote Wednesday night.

While both House and Senate contemplated taking a week end recess, more important committee work was ahead Thursday.

An afternoon hearing was scheduled by the House Committee on Elections on a bill to establish a commission to revise the election laws. Several measures were on the Senate State Affairs Committee calendar.

Officer Exonerated In Convict's Slaying

DALLAS —(AP)— City Patrolman A. L. Edwards, who shot and killed and escaped negro convict early Tuesday morning, was exonerated of any improper action by a Dallas County grand jury.

The grand jury returned a no bill for Edwards to clear him "without any delay." No charges had been filed against the officer, although technically he was subject to a murder charge.

Edwards surprised the negro as he was attempting to break into an elderly widow's residence. When the officer started for the convict he jumped from behind the house with a knife in his hand. Edwards fired and a bullet struck the negro in the back of his head.

WE the WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Guests never really relax in her house because no matter how well she knows them, the moment they walk through the front door they become "company."

They aren't just friends to be made comfortable and welcome in an easy-going, relaxed sort of way. They are company who must be treated differently from the family.

The house looks good enough for the family, but she always feels she has to apologize for it to the "company."

The children's everyday manners are good enough, but she keeps after them whenever there is company so they will be sure to make a good impression.

She's a good cook, but she is always afraid there is too much salt in this, or that something else is cooked a little too long when she serves food to anyone outside the family.

Worries And Fusses
And so she worries and fusses trying to see that everything is just right for company. And then she wonders why her guests never seem to feel at ease.

If she could just treat those she entertains the way she treats her family—giving them the best she has and assuming that it will be good enough—she would be the kind of hostess she wants to be.

But guests are company, and she never forgets it, or never lets them forget it.

No wonder her guests find it hard to relax and enjoy themselves.

Relax, Live Longer, Says Seattle Lady

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—Is man at heart a weak, furtive, miserable, "fruity-cat creature?"

Does he in his inmost soul fear woman as the mouse dreads the cat's silent power? Is that why men don't live as long as women? Well, that's one feminine angle to the question of why the ladies prove the more durable sex in the great game of living.

Recently I gave one man's views on why wives outlive their husbands—as insurance statistics show they do. The burden of my song was that the whole thing could be explained off as another example of the male's innate chivalry.

Of course, I may also have mentioned in passing—indeed I did mention it—that the average husband undergoes considerable extra wear and tear in his lifetime earning creature comforts for his lady fair. But I pointed out he was glad to do it.

But a lady in Seattle takes exception to this entire thesis.

Violent exception, too. She says men don't last as long as women because they fret themselves to death trying to prove they are something they aren't.

High Time To Cease
The Seattle lady also says it is high time men cease this "war of nerves" against their superiors—women. Then, she says, they'll live longer.

"If men would stop using up their energy protesting their superiority, they could rest and enjoy life instead of fighting at every opportunity."

And another thing, says the lady from Seattle:

"Men insist that only men be in Congress and hold business positions. They insist upon doing every bit of work and attempt to be the masters of music, art, writing, mechanics, and all manner of endeavor.

"They will not permit women to enter these fields because they fear the loss of their own hold on matters of importance. And in so doing they have to put forth such effort to maintain their false position that they kill themselves off."

Relax, fellows, and live longer. You heard the lady. You know who's boss. Mama's gonna go out and tote home the bacon from now on.

But they are tough, stubborn men on certain issues. They are fighting with a strategy verging on passive resistance against the further dismantling of their plants for reparations.

They are bitter about British and French fears of cut-rate German competition in exports. They say West Germany must export to live, and if markets are blocked off, then nothing can prevent the impoverished German masses from turning to Communism.

In long-range planning for West Germany's rehabilitation, they rely not only on possible foreign aid but these internal assets.

RECOVERY IN GERMANY— Reviving Industries See U. S. Capital, Confidence Prime Needs For Survival

By DANIEL DE LUCE
ESSEN, GERMANY—(AP)—Ruhr industrialists see West Germany, with its hard-working population of 46,000,000, as a wide open field for American private investment.

The men who run the smoky collieries and clanging steel mills of this vital territory dream of an economic junior partnership with the United States.

You hear no echo among them of Moscow's charge that Wall Street has begun the "colonialization" of their fatherland.

They say West Germany must strive to convince the United States of peaceful and profitable opportunities here, so that American investors in the future will put as much as $2,000,000,000 into modernizing German industries.

Difficulties imposed by Western Allied suspicion and distrust are conceded. But the industrialists regard the polarization of the world between the United States and Soviet Russia as West Germany's ultimate salvation.

Internationally-Minded
They point to the colossal resources of the Soviet Union and the tremendous industrial development of the United States. They ask how a shrunken, outclassed Germany in the center of Europe could ever be mad or strong enough to destroy the peace again.

In their talk, at least, Ruhr industrialists are now the most pacifist and internationally-minded of Germans. They foresee no hope of restoring West Germany to economic health without Western European cooperation.

But they are tough, stubborn men on certain issues. They are fighting with a strategy verging on passive resistance against the further dismantling of their plants for reparations.

They are bitter about British and French fears of cut-rate German competition in exports. They say West Germany must export to live, and if markets are blocked off, then nothing can prevent the impoverished German masses from turning to Communism.

Internal Assets
In long-range planning for West Germany's rehabilitation, they rely not only on possible foreign aid but these internal assets.

The technical skill and physical endurance of the average German worker.

German inventive genius, although it has been unprotected since the war by international patent rights.

Natural resources and increased utilization of existing industrial production capacities.

They say no other Western nation, however, has to cope with such formidable disadvantages as these: Exorbitant government payrolls and taxes resulting from a hodge-odge growth of post-war state and local administrations.

Occupation costs which have exceeded $200,000,000 marks ($1,666,000,000) a year in West Germany.

An influx of 6,000,000 refugees and expellees after the war.

A housing problem in bombed-out cities that has kept millions living in what are worse than slums.

Reparations bill that has not yet been fully added up by the victor powers.

German Capital Inadequate
The only large sources of private capital in West Germany at present are the insurance companies. A German survey recently indicated they would have barely 150,000,000,000 marks ($46,000,000) available in 1949 for investment. This would not be enough to keep even the coal miners' housing program going on schedule.

An early withdrawal of Allied occupation forces would contribute to relieving the financial dilemma. But in the long run, industrialists assert, the best solution for West Germany is to persuade Americans to buy into enterprises here.

They say such private investment should begin before ERP aid stops in 1952 or West Germany's patched-up economy will fall apart.

That's what they say. Believe them or not.

Lions Kill Dogs That Lose Voice

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—A dog's bark, not the dog, frightens mountain lions.

That's the belief of Owen W. Morris, predator control agent for the U. S. fish and wildlife service. He says:

"Sometimes in deep snow dogs will wear out before the hunter can get to the spot. Then the cougar comes down and kills the dog."

Deep snow forced many hungry deer into Salt Lake City and its suburbs this winter. Later, cougars followed the deer, says Morris, and made kills near houses.

Morris reassures householders by saying "cougars won't attack humans."

Milk consumers of the United States use more than 60,000,000 quarts of fresh milk and cream daily.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You have accepted a number of dinner invitations and decide you must do something to repay the hospitality shown you.

WRONG WAY: Decide to have a big cocktail party and invite all those who have entertained you at dinner, thinking that would be an easy way to take care of your obligations.

RIGHT WAY: In repaying hospitality always try to return a dinner invitation with a dinner invitation.

Griddle Cakes Keep Men Happy

Griddle cakes and syrup produce masculine breakfast smiles.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Start the day with a "stack of wheats" with butter and syrup. The man of the house will be happy. Griddle cakes are versatile. They can be served at many meals. Meat roll-ups, a variation of the basic recipe, use every last scrap of leftover meat or chicken and make a delicious supper entrée. Another variation is the apple pancake dessert which provides a hearty ending to an otherwise light supper of soup and salad. Corn griddle cakes, new and different, will please all the family to matter what hour of the day they are served.

Corn Griddle Cakes
(Makes 12 to 15 griddle cakes)
One and one-half cups sifted flour, 3 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 cup milk, 1 cup cooked or canned corn, 2 tablespoons melted shortening. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, pepper and sugar and sift again. Combine egg, milk and corn. Add to flour mixture, add shortening, then mix only enough to dampen flour. Bake thoroughly on hot greased griddle. Serve hot with butter and maple-blended syrup.

Meat Roll-Ups
6 servings
Use your favorite pancake recipe. Spread each pancake with about 2 tablespoons of meat mixture, made by mixing 1 1/2 cups ground cooked meat or chicken, 1/3 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1/3 teaspoon onion juice, and few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Roll carefully. Serve at once with gravy or well-seasoned white sauce to which a bouillon cube has been added.

Apple Pancake Dessert
6-8 servings
Use your favorite pancake recipe, making six 7-inch pancakes. (Allow about 1/2 cup batter for each.) Stack in two piles, spreading spiced sweetened apple sauce or apple butter between cakes. Sprinkle top with confectioner's sugar, if desired. Cut in pie-shaped wedges and serve at once with maple-blended syrup.

Princess Elizabeth Sculptures On Horse
LONDON —(P)—Princess Elizabeth and "Tommy"—one of her favorite horses—have been sculptured in a gilded silver statuette. Queen Elizabeth had it done for her personal collection of portraits of her heiress-apparent daughter. Doris Lindner, a sculptress noted for her models of horses, caught Elizabeth's likeness at sittings in Buckingham Palace. Later she worked frequently at the royal stables to catch Tommy's characteristics. The equestrian statuette shows Elizabeth side saddle on Tommy, as she appeared as colonel of the Grenadier Guards at the King's birthday parade last June.

Wildcatting Takes Upward Trend In Midland Oil Areas

Wildcat activity in the Midland area increased the past week, as shown by records of the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission of Texas. Nine ventures were started. Only three were listed for the previous week.

Culberson, Gaines, and Pecos Counties each received two new wildcats. The remaining three were divided equally among Crockett, Lynn, and Scurry Counties.

A total of 58 new projects were listed for the past week, with Ector County leading with eight and Andrews County falling second with seven.

Grane County reported six new locations. Hockley, Pecos, and Scurry Counties had five new explorations each. Applications were filed for four new ventures in Cochran County.

Gaines and Winkler gained two new projects each. The remaining new drillsites were divided one each among Borden, Dawson, Reeves, and Upton Counties.

Junior Meats Nice For Canapes

Make the canape tray substantial with ripe olives, cheese and baby meat spreads.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Buffet and party service is making popular gains with the discovery that guests like to sink their teeth into something substantial, even at informals. You don't be surprised if you find yourself eating and liking sandwiches made from some of the versatile new baby meats. Lined with curry, lemon, mayonnaise or Worcestershire, they fit smoothly into celery stalks or stuffed eggs.

Tangy Veal Canapes
(Makes 3/4 cup)

Three tablespoons grated cheese, Italian style, 1/4 cup butter or fortified margarine, 1 can (3 1/2 ounces) junior veal, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper or pimiento, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Add cheese gradually to softened butter or margarine. Mix until smooth and well blended. Add chopped veal, onion, pepper or pimiento and lemon juice. Mix in well. Spread on bread, toast or crisp crackers.

Deviled Eggs

Curried beef is truly good in stuffed eggs. Remove yolks from hard-cooked eggs; mash well. Combine with meat mixture; blend well. Stuff egg whites generously and garnish with minced parsley or chives. (Curry addicts may want to step up the curry powder).

To Make Small Roll Canapes:

Trim crusts from thin slices of very fresh bread. Spread each slice with favorite filling and roll up like jelly roll. Cut each roll in half. Serve plain or garnished. Or brush lightly with melted butter and brown in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 5 to 10 minutes.

Curried Beef Spread
(Yield: 2/3 cup)

Three tablespoons mayonnaise, 1/4 teaspoon curry powder, 1 can (3 1/2 ounce) junior beef, 1/2 teaspoon salt, black pepper, to taste. Mix mayonnaise, curry powder and chopped beef until smooth and well blended. Add seasonings. Spread generously on bread rounds.

Acme Completes Big Expansion Program

A multi-million dollar development in new buildings and equipment has been completed on Acme's 2-acre tract between Alameda and Santa Fe in Yreum, Calif.

This great expansion, the result of two years' construction work and installing new equipment, makes Acme one of the largest and most modern breweries in the world.

Through every step of the brewing process, Acme beer is tested in a new, modern, fully-equipped laboratory.

Fuel will flow continuously and automatically from all tanks to all engines in a newly developed flow system. The same system permits the refueling of all tanks on a plane from a single tank truck.

Youth Center Chatter

JUNE HAZLIP-JOYCE HOWELL

Well, you lucky people, here we are again. Aren't you glad? Don't answer that!

We had a talk with Mr. Engel and he says no records have been brought in for our juke box. How about that, kids? Are you happy with what we have, or do you think we should have some new ones?

Just as we promised, here's the news of the big Ping-Pong Tournament! Yes sir, here's your chance to prove your talent with a paddle. (Ping-Pong, that is!) The big affair is all set to "come off" February 25 from 8 to 11 p. m. We will give you all the details next week.

Also coming up February 26 is the Sophomore Hat Dance! This dance will be given in the high school gym and promises to be quite an affair! All the proceeds will go to the Youth Center so all you fellows grab a girl and trot on down to the Hat dance. (No admittance without a hat of some description.) We'll all have a swell time!

Paddle Shortage
Playing Ping-Pong with everything from magazines to handkerchiefs to be a new fad. But it's really due to the shortage of paddles! Seriously, kids, please, if you've hidden any paddles, return them. Two weeks ago we had eight and now the number is down to four! How can we have a tournament if there are no Ping-Pong paddles?

This week's "Medal of Honor" goes to Dots Thompson. This courageous lad sat on three thumb tacks during the Coronation without uttering a sound. Dots is one of the Youth Center's new members. Glad to have you with us, Hero! Wonder who will be the hero next week!

Have you noticed the bruised shoulders around the Youth Center lately? Someone has invented a rather fiendish little card game which is the cause of it all! (As we discovered when we accidentally got involved.) It seems you draw a card and the person drawing the highest card gets to hit the rest of the football boys with "shoulder pads" under their shirts. It feels like it! And just how does Bill Little manage to get an ace every time?

Raincoat Found
Anyone missing a raincoat—there is a beautiful aqua one in the Youth Center cloakroom, just waiting to be claimed. One raincoat was claimed after being at the Youth Center six months.

Guess you all didn't know we have a letterman in our midst. Most lettermen are in football or some other sport, but this one isn't! Casey Harding is a full-fledged letterman for the Youth Center register. If you are too tired to do a beautiful, artistic job when writing your name, Casey will be glad to do it! No charge either!

Place For Everything
Although you might not know it, there is a place for everything at the Youth Center. Empty Coke bottles go in the cases, candy bar wrappers in the wastepaper baskets, and magazines go on the counter. Please, kids, after persons have been nice enough to give their magazines to the Youth Center, the least we can do is to put them up after reading them. You'll find if each of us will "pick up" instead of "putting down," the whole place will look a lot neater.

Hey there, fellows and gals! Here's a piece of good news for you! There will be a square dance at the Youth Center Friday night! This is your chance to put the instructions Professor Greggerson gave us to good use! So come on down and let's make this the best square dance yet!

Drifting Shoes
Somebody's shoes are always drifting around the Youth Center without people in them. Peggy Charlton, Bill Spence, Margaret and Therese Finch nearly always are missing a shoe or two! Don't your feet get cold, kids? The missing shoes usually end up doubling as footballs for the boys! We noticed Bill Little, trying on Mary Ann Finch's shoes.

Did you people(?) see that cute young lady and gentleman who visited the Youth Center Saturday? They were two and a half-year-old Jeanne and Chris Baker. Gail Baker's twin brother and sister. Future Youth Center "inmates" no doubt!

Well, that's about all for now so Goober (courtesy of Pat Benedict) 'til next week!

Expert Gives Answers To Your Fluorescent Lighting Questions

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The use of fluorescent lighting in the home is ringed with a big question mark by many women who are drawing up Spring redecorating plans. The following answers to frequently asked questions about this type of lighting are based on interviews with lighting engineers.

Q Which source gives off more light—fluorescent or incandescent?
A A fluorescent lamp produces about two and a half times as much light as an incandescent bulb of comparable size.

Q Is it harmful to the eyes to mix the two types of light in one room?
A No. A mixture usually gives a room better illumination. Concealed fluorescent strips provide general illumination and incandescent lamps serve as secret lighting for specific visual tasks.

Q How about ceiling fixtures or cove or balance-concealed lighting?
A Any lighting installation that requires cutting into wall surfaces to connect wires to a household electric system should be done by a competent electrician. Fluorescent fixtures do not require any complicated rewiring of an electric system.

Q Are fluorescent fixtures expensive?
A Fluorescent fixtures are usually more expensive than average unadorned incandescent fixtures. Fluorescent lamps for replacement cost more but will burn four or five times longer than incandescent bulbs.

Q Can I replace a burned-out lamp myself?
A Certainly. The lamp fits into slots in the holder and can be twisted in or out. Starter mechanisms are as easy to replace.

Q What causes fluorescent lamps to flicker?
A A pronounced flicker usually means lamp or starter is wearing out and should be replaced.

Q What are the practical advantages of fluorescent light?
A Fluorescent lamps are low in surface brightness which results in little direct or reflected glare. Even distribution of light over a wider area, plus efficient use of current, makes a "cool" light. These qual-

This living-dining room decorated in shades of yellow, terra-cotta and aqua blue combines fluorescent and incandescent lighting for better illumination and decorative effects. Warm-toned fluorescent strips are concealed in ceiling cove, under bookcase shelves, and at edge of yellow-painted china cabinets flanking window. Miniature six watt warm-toned fluorescent strips illuminate six niches above loveseat and blend with incandescent table lamps.

ities enhance its value in home-work centers.

Q What are decorative uses for fluorescent light?
A Fluorescent plays up colors and textures of furnishings. It provides "plus" illumination to make a room more cheerful. Lamps range in length from a few inches to several feet which permits flexible arrangements. Short strips may be recessed in niches or under shelves. Longer strips may be mounted above windows or along ceiling coves.

Q Does all fluorescence cast a blue light?
A No. Five standard degrees of fluorescent "whiteness" range from daylight or bluish tones to soft pinkish whites to warm tones similar to incandescence.

Q How do I choose the color?
A In general, warm-toned lights can be used with the widest variety of colors and will blend well with incandescence. Color tests also indicate that pink and some tan shades look clearest under soft white lights; green and blue shades under daylight-type.

German Death Notices Censored

BERLIN—(AP)—The Russians have imposed censorship on death notices and grave markers in their zone of Germany, according to press reports from Saxony.

This censorship, announced through the Communist Department of the Interior, concerns death notices of German prisoners of war repatriated from Russia. A German press service report from Saxony says that henceforth relatives of ex-PWs who die are forbidden to publish public death notices. And when they're buried the grave marker must contain no reference to cause of death or to the fact that the deceased had been in Russian confinement.

Drinking Stopped By 'Black List'

ST. PETER PORT, GUERNSEY—(AP)—Guernsey men say the finest cure for drunkenness is the "black list."

That is simply a list of men—and women—who must not be served with alcoholic drinks on the 10,000 square mile island. And anyone disregarding it and selling or giving a drink to a listed person is liable to $200 fine or six months' imprisonment. It's a medieval practice that works so well it's been preserved.

Chief Inspector John Banneville of the Guernsey civil investigation department quoted one man black listed for the last two years: "It is impossible for me to get a drink on this island now. No one dares serve me; no one ever dreams of asking me to have a drink."

Some are black-listed voluntarily; others are listed on magistrates' orders for excessive drunkardness.

Those on the black list are photographed holding a blackboard on which is written his name and age and the period for which he is blacklisted. The sentence records that he is on the black list for a period varying from one year to life.

Then copies of the photograph are sent to every hotel and inn proprietor on the island. It must not be exhibited but every proprietor must keep it near his bar for quick reference.

On Saturday night Mrs. Galloway presented her older pupils in recital. Those presented were Dolores White, Judy Mathis, Jo Ann Fisher, Ila De Owens, Mary Alice Cochrum, Nancy Robinson, Norma Crittenden, Martha Cook, Leanne Fressley, Lawrence LeBoeuf, Dolores

Russia Announces Prepared Foods

MOSCOW—(AP)—Canned soups are being turned out in large quantities in Moscow.

An announcement said the Mikoyan Food Factory is producing some 70 different varieties from formulas of famous Russian chefs.

Breakfast foods, it was pointed out, also are becoming extremely popular.

"Cornflakes, by the way," said the announcement, "is winning more and more popular approval."

Prepared baby foods are reaching the market, too.

"All the mothers will have to do," it was said, "is to put the stuff in boiling milk and the babies will get their complete dietetic formula, with all the necessary vitamins and under conditions of super-sterility."

Russia twice has tried to mint platinum as the national coinage, but abandoned both attempts.

White, Jocelyn Welch, Betty Knell, Ann McDonald, Judy Mathis, Shirley Allen, Sue Harold, Venona Hamblett, and Donnie Tomlinson.

This model tries out make-up technique which encourages powder to cling longer to skin. Powder-filled puff is pressed against skin. Surplus powder is removed with soft brush.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Four annual awards for education writing have been announced by the Education Writers Association.

The EWA, an organization of newspaper, magazine, radio and television education editors, will award plaques for a newspaper feature or series dealing with education; for a feature or series by a general magazine, radio, television or wire service; for the best article or series interpreting education in a newspaper; for the best newspaper editorial.

The first three awards will go to individual education writers, and the fourth to a newspaper.

Newspapers or individual writers may make nominations. Deadline for entries is March 1. Winners will be announced in April. Entries should be mailed to Millicent Taylor, EWA secretary-treasurer, of The Christian Science Monitor, Boston, Mass.

Judges will be Dr. Floyd Taylor, director, American Press Institute, Columbia University; Hal Boyle, The Associated Press; Dr. Belmont Parley, National Education Association; Dr. G. Kerry Smith, U. S. Office of Education; Dr. Harold Taylor, president, Sarah Lawrence College.

CHOCOLATE FROSTING

A skin does not actually have the smooth surfaces that it appears to have. Examined under a microscope, the most impeccably smooth skin would reveal a texture as rough and as craggy as a coarse dry sponge.

When powder is used to make this rugged surface even, skin looks smoother and powder stays put longer.

To "sink in" your powder, press in your puff. See that the puff carries a good dusting of powder to your face. Sink powder in, and remove with a complexion brush any surplus that makes your face look dusty.

If you haven't tried using two shades of powder—an idea of applying tone on tone which one cosmetic house has discovered—now while skins are pale from lack of sunshine, is the time to try this trick. For the first application of powder, use a skin-matching shade. Over apply a powder of a rosier shade.

Electric Eels May Go By Radar

NEW YORK—(AP)—Electric eels seem to have some strange electrical "radar" to find their way despite poor eyesight.

C. W. Coates, curator and aquarist of the New York Aquarium, New York Zoological Society, told about it in displays—now electric eels to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The electric eels come from tropical South America. They grow four to seven feet long, and can develop a wallop of 600 volts. Sometimes they kill horses or cattle.

But they all have poor eyesight. It may be due to damage from its own shocks, or those of its fellows, Coates said. The eel lives in murky swamp water, but can find living things quickly and easily. It can locate a wall placed in the water, or an electrical discharge.

It apparently does it by an apparatus that works on the principle of radar, Coates said. Radar sends out high-frequency radio pulses, and records the echoes bouncing back from a target.

When the electric eel tries to locate something, one of its three "batteries" or electrical organs starts discharging, sending out electrical pulses. The rate increases as it gets more excited.

And the fish seems to have some kind of receptor organs, other than its eyes or ears or nose, to find its "target," Coates added. These seem to be located in enlarged pores around the eel's head.

"We have been unable to find anything of particular interest beneath these pores, so far. But if they are removed or insulated, the fish does not seem able to find its way about. It would almost seem as if these are the receiving end of an electric finding apparatus."

The electric eel is not an eel at all, but is shaped like one, and hence its name. Its electricity is chemically produced. It is one of half a dozen kinds of electrical fish now living.

Nineteen hundred years ago, one physician made patients writhe and stand on an electric fish "until the foot and leg up to the knee had become numb."

Today, study of how the eel creates and transmits its electricity promises to help in understanding the chemical—electric action of nerve impulses in humans.
