65,000 Ford Workers Walk Out Blockades Of Crusading Constable East-West To Cease May 12

In an atmosphere of armed truce, the East and West girded Thursday for the next round of the cold war-after the blockades at Berlin are lifted next Thursday.

The West considered it had won a victory by bringing the Russians to agreement. But Russian-controlled organs were putting the best front they could on the developments. At best, the battle of Berlin was only part of a broad picture strewn with storm clouds. And a cold wind still was blowing off Russia toward the Foreign Ministers Council, which will meet in Paris More Dirty May 23 to consider the German question as a whole.

Under the Big Four agreement made public Thursday, the Russians will lift the total blockade which shut off Western Berlin, except by air, for more than 10 months. The Western Allies will end the counter-blockade which severely pinched the economy of the Eastern zone of divided Germany from July 26, 1948, on. Airlift To Stand By

Last Minute Peace Efforts To No Avail

DETROIT—(P)—A strike of 65,000 workers hit Ford Motor Company at noon Thursday and negotiators broke up a last-minute conference in which they had hoped to reach a settlement.

Peace talks were called off at 12:20 p.m. They had been extended after the deadline in a last desperate hope agreement could be reached.

Some 62,000 shouting workers streamed out the gates of the big Rouge plant. At the Lincoln-Mercury plant, another 3,000 left their jobs.

Assembly lines, whose speed had been the subject of wrangling for months, stopped.

And so, Ford was hit by the first major walkout since the bloody 10-day battle in 1941 when the UAW-CIO first gained recognition.

Groundless Fears

There may be some question about the authority of the United States Congress to investigate the United Nations. But that question is not in the mind of Senator Karl Mundt. The South Dakotan has urged the House Un-American Activities Committee to look into the world organization. And he reports that the members' reaction is Three things about the UN seem to be bothering Mundt. Government employes dismissed for security reasons are catching on with the UN "to a shocking extent," he finds. The UN also may be issuing "super-passports" that have more authority than the ones our government issues. Further, he suspects that UN headquarters at Lake Success may be a "hiding place for Soviet espionage agents and other undesirables.'

Senator Mundt does not say what action he desires if the House committee confirms his worst fears. Would Congress demand that the UN clean house, and order it from our shores if it didn't obey? Or what?

Before the Un-American Activities people start any probe, it might be well if they sat down and considered calmly the causes of the senator's alarm. They might find, on reflection, that the charges are no cause for a case of national jitters.

What is particularly shocking about former government employes getting jobs with the UN, anyway? Their dismissals as bad security risks carry no charge of treason or down in the Senate. surprise action by the Senate Finance Committee in failing to cut Near-Certain Hoax heavily on pending appropriations left the spending-taxation issue squarely before the individual members of the Legislature. The committee let the bars down on spending, recommending pass-

The legislators could put the bars back up by trimming the money bills on the floor. They could go on deficit financing by a four-fifths majority, or they could pass a tax bill to raise some more money. House committee action Wednesday night wiped out the liquor sale-by-the-drink issue for the session. The Liquor Regulation Committee killed Rep. A. J. In Greencastle, Ind., Mrs. James W. Wright's Persian cat was jet black, above left, until it went after a bird. The cat, reaching for a canary, pulled the bird's cage from a hanger, and at the same time a flower pot fell and rolled after the retreating cat. It was several hours before the frightened animal was found. In a few days it began to turn white, above right. The first change was a ring around the feline's neck; then came a gradual greying.

vestors get into the field. In Italy the investment situation been much the same as in mance. No marked improvement been noted yet, although the lira has held its price for about a sear now.

In Western Germany there has been a scarcity of investment capital, but to ECA officials the money supply seems to be increasing as the balance of exports over imports continues to rise.

Greece alone of the countries being helped has shown no improvement on the investment side, according to ECA officials. The continuing warfare there drains the resources of the nation.

But for the Marshall Plan countries as a whole there is a great outpouring of native investment capital. They will spend about $30,-000,000,000 this fiscal year to modernize factories and farms, build new plants, homes and transportation facilities.

This means they will be taking about 20 per cent of their national incomes and plowing it back into business. In average periods of prosperity such investment is usually around 15 per cent of income. To raise it to 20 per cent, the countries will have to maintain reduced living standards for some years yet, denying themselves a lot of conjumer goods.

The business outlook has to be good, and the people's faith in their countries' future must be strong to impel them to invest on such a scale. Even in the United States in some ars of the depression '30's the depreciation of plant values was larger than the total of gross investment.

NUEVA PANGASINAN Bongabon 🦐 NUEVA TARLAC MT. ARAYAT PAMPANGA Sea ≈ Philippine President Quirino has ardered a full-scale military campaign to clean out the rebellious Hukbalahap guerrillas who have kept central Luzon in terror since World War II ended. His action followed the ambush by Communist-led guerrillas in which Mrs. Manuel Quezon, widow of the Philippines' first president and 11 other persons were killed. On map, (X) marks scene of assault on the six-car convoy as it rolled toward Baler, the late president's birthplace. The Hukbalahaps have been conducting a small-scale civil war against the Manila government, operating from "Huklandia," a mountainous area comprised of parts of three provinces shaded on map. Their fortress-stronghold is Mt. Arayat. From this area they make constant forays on nearby towns, killing, torturing prisoners, burning farm houses and exacting "taxes" from land owners.

The Winkledink came walking out of the forest. He looked like a monkey with white hair. But he was really a winkledink, because he could never believe any-thing anyone said—until he had seen for himself.

"Daddy Ringtail," the Winkle-dink said to the monkey daddy, what are you doing with that paint and brush?"

"I'm painting Sammy Ringtail's gangerwanger," Daddy Ringtail said, because that is what he was

All baked in the oven in matched set of ovenware at the same time-chicken with pineapple and mushroom garnish, lima beans and seasoned squash. Not only sounds good, but cuts down kitchen time-and these days that means more time for Spring outdoors. So

Baked Pineapple Chicken (4 servings) Three to four-pound frying chicken, 1/4 cup fat, 2 tablespoons finely diced onions, 1/4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, 2 cups well-seasoned chicken broth, 1/2 cup crushed pineapple, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet.

Wash chicken thoroughly and ary carefully. Cut in serving size pieces. Melt fat in large frying pan over moderate heat. Add chicken and brown lightly on all sides. Remove browned chicken to 1 1/2quart casserole. Place onion in frying pan and cook 1 minute. Stir flour, salt and ginger. Add chicken broth, pineapple and kitchen bouquet.

Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Pour sauce over chicken and bake, covered, until chicken is tender, about 45 minutes. Half an hour before the chicken is done place seasoned squash, lima beans and the contents of a 6-ounce can of broiled mushrooms in small casseroles. Cover and heat in oven with chicken. When ready to serve, just remove covers, transfer to a suitable tray and place on the table. Looking for a main dish lunchon salad? The answer is easy and very delicious.

Calls Himself Only Career Goose Man

NEW HAVEN, CONN.-(AP)-Want your lawn mowed? Get a flock of geese, says Lewis Glaser. He calls himself America's "only career

Besides trimming your grass, the New Haven goose raiser claims they are good watchdogs, honking alarm if some intruder approaches. They look nice on water, he continues, make good companions and need little attention.

But Glaser doesn't slight their more renowned assets. He says geese are hard to beat as far as eating is concerned and that the goose egg looks better on a breakfast table than on a baseball score-

They are profitable, too. He says a goose raiser can sell eggs or geese. Glaser, who got interested in geese while at University of Illinois Agricultural College, has traveled around the world studying the history and raising of the fowl. He says that while they are a profitable industry in many European countries, they have been neglected

The reason, he asserts, has been the need for natural hatching of the eggs. Glaser says this takes time and, complicated by the goose's short, six-months laying period, has served to limit the goose business. Attempts to hatch goose eggs artificially have always before ended in failure, Glaser says, because of the eggs' very hard shell and shell-inclosed membrane. Solves Incubation

He says he has solved the incu-bating problem. No new type of incubator is needed, he says. All that's necessary is the right amount of heat and the proper amount of warmth of moisture. Glaser envisages a tremendous upsurge in the goose business. An output of 75,000,000 geese yearly wouldn't strain the potential market, he says. He elaborates on his idea in a book he has just written,

"Successful goose raising." He says federal departments as well as agricultural colleges and farmers have already expressed interest in the system. During the war, he adds, the Army released him from active service so he could carry forward his research. Glaser says the government was concern-ed with increasing food production and in using the feathers for lining flight jackets and for other pur-

Pass By Trieste

ROME (P) Over 100,000 refugees and prisoners of war from eastern Europe passed through Trieste's transit camps since the end of the war, the Allied Military Government (AMG) of the free territory says.

Since May 1945 the refugee camps in Trieste territory gave shelter to 60,741 refugees from Eastern European countries, 20,511 prisoners of war, and to 19,351 Italian citizens who abandoned the former Italian eastern territories assigned to Yugoslavia by the peace treaty. The refugees and prisoners of war were cared for by officials of the British, American, Swiss, Yugoslav, and Italian Red Cross organizations. They were sent to displaced person (DP) camps in Italy or to their own countries.
