Midlanders Enjoy Big Celebration

Following a full day's program of holiday attractions, Midland Monday night will ring down the curtain on its 1949 Trail Days Celebration—the first and most successful Fourth of July weekend festival staged here in many years. The celebration opened Friday, with a complete program of events and attractions scheduled for the holiday weekend. Large crowds were * on hand Friday and Saturday to witness and participate in the diversified program of entertainment.

Crowds were gathering early Monday and there was more holiday activity than usual in downtown Midland-bearing out the predence Day itself will be the largest day of the festival. Hundreds of out-of-city visitors are expected to join with Midlanders in swelling attendance at all final day events. firms were closed Monday.

George told reporters he favors a bill proposed by Senator McClellan (D-Ark), and backed by 62 senators, which would order President Truman to cut five to 10 per cent off appropriations made by Congress. But the Georgian, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, said he fears such a measure never will clear Congress and get the approval of the President. Truman has poked fun at the legislators for asking him to cut funds instead of doing it themselves.

Gaither talked to Fitzgerald by telephone Sunday and then told The Associated Press in a telephone interview the couple was being investigated for possible connection with the case.

"I've got a witness here who could identify the woman." he said. 'Looks Good'

Gaither admitted the latest development in the case "looks good." The man and woman were arrested by Fitzgerald Saturday on a check passing complaint. They fit the general description of the couple wanted for questioning in Thornton's death.

Fitzgerald said several bus stubs were found in the couple's effects. These indicated they had been traveling almost continuously since July 17 and had been in Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Lubbock. A Chrysler automobile key was reported found in their possession. Fitzgerald said the man and woman were "in their early twenties." (Continued on Page 8)

British Hope To Avoid Devaluation Bob Hope is still blushing. He Of Pound Sterling

By Dewitt MacKenzie AP Foreign Affairs Analyist It's not surprising that Britain's economic crisis should have given rise to discussion as to whether devaluation of the pound sterling would ease the situation.

Under England's controlled currency the pound now is pegged about $4.03. It also has a fixed value in relation to currencies of other countries. The point in lowering the value of the pound to increase their purchases in Brit-works like this: Say the yalue of the pound in U.S. money were reduced from $4.03 to $3.03. then obviously the American would save a dollar on every one pound transaction he made, whether it be for a pair of gloves or for food. Thumbs Down

However, this would cut two ways for England. While she would be selling more goods, she would have to pay more for necessary imports. that her increased expenditure for imports might more than offset her gain in sales.

So Britain thus far has turned thumbs down on any idea of devaluation. Apart from other considerations the psyschological effect shockingly bad both at home and abroad. After all, the value of the . Angela Lansbury is switching pound is John Bull's badge of

For many hours after the unexpected announcement the suspense in Britain and abroad was terrific. What would grow out of this daring move? Was it constructive or destructive? Governments and big business the globe around were in a cold sweat, while they waited for some sign of the trend.

Of course, a devaluation of the British pound now wouldn't have any such repercussion. Still, it government wishes to avoid.

Fun Began

How July 4th fun began: Fireworks came to America before the 4th of July. Clipper ships College. brought firecrackers from China. They were used to celebrate the repeal of the hated Stamp Act on May bonds for Texas Western College 21, 1766. A law to prevent their saie at El Paso. in little old New York was enacted records of the use of fireworks on Independence Day was in 1810.

Band playing on July 4th was started by the first "displaced persons" in the U.S. Philadelphia was "heightened festivities."

First parade on the 4th of July was staged by the Society of the C'Lcinnati in New York in 1787. The GIBBS society listened to an oration, by Robert R. Livingston, then paraded Phone 2468 down Broadway, "after which the paraders each drank 13 toasts in honor of the day," according to the New York Packet. On another occasion the senators paraded.

Noisemaking began as early as 1790 when "grenadiers, infantry and artillery passed New York's City Hall, firing off canon and small arms." The city appropriated $35 "to keep the church bells ringing" throughout the day.

Picnicking on the 4th of July is an old custom. The 10th anniversary of Independence Day was celebrated at public expense in New York. the Common Council ordered 150 gallons of punch, 130 bottles of wine, $100 worth of erackers and cheese, and allowed $50 for "glasses, mugs, bottles and windows" that might be 'broke or missing."

Speechmaking and reading the Declaration of Independence were part of the July 4th celebrations before noisemaking took over the day, and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy West-People went to church to hear oramoland of Seminole left Thurstions. William Maclay wrote in his journal in 1790 that he atended St. Paul's Chapel in New York with President Washington to hear "the anniversary of independence."

The pianist, Faye Middlebrooks of ! spur, sister of the bride, played a nuedley of love songs preceding the wedding. A trio composed of Veria Lee Goins, Anna Joyce Stre Bter and Nellivee Clark, all of Mid and, sang "Because" (D'Hardelo), "Wedding Prayer" (Dunlap) was played during the prayer. The piar ast also played the traditional wed ding marches. Bac kground Of Greenery

The church was decorated with bask ets of gladiolus arranged on eith er side of the altar with a back around of greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Conrad O. Middlebrocks of Matador, wore a twopiec ed suit of white crepe. The three quarter length sleeves and V-sh aped collar were edged in navy with navy and white stitching. She wore a hat of white horsehair braid and other white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with a willte orchid tied with white satin streamers with tiny rosebuds tied in knots along the streamers. She carried the traditional handkercl lief which all members of the Margie Schumate Young Woman's Auxil ary carry.

The maid of honor wore a pale pink dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. A reception was held following the exeremony in the home of Mrs W. Br. Moore, sister of the bride, 106 Nort h Uvalde Street. Mrs. Raymond Futile presided at the guest book and .Mrs. J. T. Campbell of Plainview served the wedding cake.

Out- Of-City Guests The table was set with a white tables cloth and a centerpiece of shas a daisies with white candles on ether side. Garden flowers decorated the house.

Tyranny Still Stalks Abroad

On the Fourth of July we celebrate the winning of independence as a nation. This day—in 1776—was the moment in history when a great enterprise founded on freedom began.

We Americans of the mid-twentieth century are the current custodians of those liberties born 173 years ago. We and our forefathers have seen them challenged by tyrannies that have come and gone in the world. We have guarded freedom well against these tests.

But the idea of tyranny dies hard. Crushed, it finds new forms and new tools and rises again. When it grows strong, it seeks to stifle liberty wherever it exists. For the heady draughts of free air are poisonous fumes to the

Today tyranny is astride part of the world once more. In its new dress it is called communism. It has a strong weapon, a philosophy of government that professes to look toward a great, cooperative society, welding the mass

Armed with this weapon, Communists shrewdly have muddled the world's thinking. They have made a starkly reactionary system appear progressive to some, thus trapping idealists, intellectuals and others easily drawn to the dea of cooperation.

Yet while extolling the glories of cooperative living, practicing Communists in Russia and other nations have ruthlessly stamped out liberty and real cooperation among peoples wherever they could.
