Gaines Venture Will Drill To 15,000 Feet

Unofficial reports that Forest Oil Corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation No. 1-A Parmer County well is scheduled to drill to at least 15,000 feet, to test into the Ellenburger, have been verified.

That venture, located 15 miles southeast of Seminole, and 600 feet from south and 800 feet from west lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer County School Land survey, was originally started under a Railroad Commission permit to go to at least 8,500 feet to explore through the lower Permian.

Already Drilling

The venture has been active for several weeks and at last report had penetrated below 5,300 feet in San Andres lime, and was drilling deeper.

Operators have filed an amended application with the Railroad Commission, requesting a permit to continue to at least 15,000 feet. The application indicates that the project will go to that depth if it is necessary to get a full test of the Ellenburger.

That will make the Gaines County exploration one of the deepest petroleum developments ever drilled in the Permian Basin.

North Pecos Wildcat Is Slated By Slocum

A. O. Slocum of Midland, and others, have filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas to drill a 2,000-foot wildcat in Central-North Pecos County, nine miles southwest of Buena Vista.

It is to be their No. 1 John G. Crockett, and is 2,310 feet from the northwest and 990 feet from the northeast lines of the lease in section 58, block 10, H&GN survey.

The project is due to get underway by August 22, with cable and rotary tools.

NW Nolan Discovery Completed As Pumper

Northwest Nolan County's Ellenburger discovery—Skelly Oil Company No. 1 Ater, five miles southwest of Sweetwater, has been officially completed as a pumper.

This new field opener, located 330 feet from north and 2,500 feet from west lines of section 67, block 23, TP survey, reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 154 barrels of 42.3 gravity oil, plus two barrels of basic sediments and acid water.

The production is from perforated section in the top of the Ellenburger between 7,097-7,120 feet. That interval had been treated with 500 gallons of acid.

The well drilled to 7,155 feet and was finished on a plugged back bottom of 7,120 feet.

East Steptop Staked For Mitchell By Gulf

Gulf Oil Corporation is to start operations soon at a one-half mile east outpost to Superior Oil Company No. 1 Dockery, recently completed Ellenburger discovery in Central-West Mitchell County.

The new venture will be Gulf No. 1-A O. D. Dillingham of Abilene. It will be at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 9, block 28, TP survey, T-1-S.

It is slated to drill to approximately 8,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

The Superior development was completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 170.7 barrels of 45.3 gravity oil, plus 28 per cent water. The flow was through an 11/64th inch tubing choke.

The production was from open hole section in the top of the Ellenburger at 7,990-8,004 feet. That interval had been treated with 1,000 gallons of acid prior to the taking of the potential test.

Two Extensions Are Set In North Snyder

Standard Oil Company of Texas is to start operations soon on two outposts to production in the North Snyder area of North-Central Scurry County.

Both ventures are slated to dig to between 6,900 feet and 7,000 feet into the Canyon lime reef.

Standard of Texas No. 1 T. C. Davis will be 487 feet from east and north lines of the southeast quarter of section 339, block 97, H&AC survey.

That puts it on the southwest side of the south extension to the field, and outside the area which has up to now been proven for production.

Near Old Dry Hole

It is approximately one mile northeast of a dry hole drilled several years ago as Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Davis. That exploration went to 8,027 feet in the Ellenburger.

Standard of Texas No. 1 Jap Beck is on the east side of the North Snyder region and one mile south of the closest production in the north end of the pool and the same distance north and a little east of the nearest completed producers in the south end of the field.

It will be 600 feet from south and west lines of the south half of section 393, block 97, H&TC survey.

New Tremors, Pillaging Spread Panic In Ecuador

QUITO, ECUADOR—(AP)—New earth tremors and pillaging by unruly Indians spread fear and panic Wednesday among the thousands of survivors left homeless by Ecuador's destructive earthquake.

Official government estimates of the death toll in Friday's quake rose to 6,000. But the truth is no one knows for sure how many died in the great piles of rubble that litter some 50 demolished towns in the populous Andes Mountain region south of here.

Fresh tremors Tuesday tumbled weakened walls in Ambato and other cities, adding to the terror of some 150,000 homeless.

Groups of workers attempting to dig their way through the blocked highway to Pelileo, 100 miles south of Quito, were reported buried under a landslide loosed by the new tremors.

Shoot-to-kill orders were issued to troops guarding Pelileo against looting by the wild tribe of Salasaca Indians. Defense Minister Manuel Diaz Banados said one band of Salasacas had been driven off when caught ransacking the ruins. Landslides Continue

The Salasacas have been the fiercest warriors in the Andes region for 400 years. Driven out of Bolivia by the Incas centuries ago, they have harassed Ecuadorian settlements even in modern times.

Continuing landslides and sulphurous fumes oozing from jagged crevices have terrorized the countryfolk who escaped the worst effects of the shocks.

Albania Charges Invasion By Greece

LONDON—(AP)—Albania said Wednesday she is being invaded by Greece and that fighting is in progress along a 30-mile front.

A broadcast by the official Tirana radio said bloody clashes with Athens government troops began four days ago.

It added that hundreds of Greek soldiers have been killed or taken prisoner.

A spokesman for the Greek Information Service in London said "There is certainly no invasion." He said the Albanian report probably referred to the new offensive launched by the Greek army against the Communist-led guerrillas in the Grammos Mountain area not far from the Albanian border.

Midland's Water Declared 'Good'

The quality of Midland's water is "good," City Manager H. A. Thomason told Mayor W. B. Neely and members of the City Council at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Thomason exhibited water reports from the State Health Department in Austin, which gave Midland water good rating.

The reports were received on 30 samples sent to the state laboratories in the last four months.

Pecos Voters Approve Bonds

PECOS—(AP)—Reeves County voters Tuesday approved a school bond issue of $275,000. The vote was 111 to 33.

Pecos schools were taken off the state bonded list last July 17 when state inspectors said overcrowding in the Earl Bell (Latin American) Elementary School resulted in discrimination against those students.

Council Studies Sewage Disposal Problem Of City

Sewage disposal, sewer system, and paving problems of Midland occupied most of the time of the City Council at its regular meeting Tuesday night in the City Hall, as councilmen discussed these matters in detail.

A special meeting of the council will be held at 1 p. m. Monday, August 22, with engineers to discuss the sewage disposal and sewer system problems of the municipality. Engineers who specialize in this work will present their suggestions. Ever-growing Midland has outgrown its sewage disposal system.

By unanimous action, the council decided the use of hot-mix paving will be specified in the next contract letting in the city's paving program. Hot-mix now is being used on streets in the first section of the large paving program and the councilmen decided to continue with this type pavement.

Zoning Ordinance Amended

An ordinance providing that the north boundary line of the city's "H" business zone be moved to block south, from Michigan Street to Tennessee Street, between Pecos and Fort Worth Streets, was passed on its second reading by unanimous vote. The action amends the zoning ordinance.

Roger Smith of Waco was the low bidder on sewer and water improvements for the South Park Addition in Southeast Midland. The council accepted his bid for the work subject to approval of the owner of the subdivision, Spalding & Company, which will finance the improvements. Five contractors submitted bids and Smith was low with $10,365.14 for the water lines and $3,824.50 for the sewer lines.

Amend Beer Ordinance

The council voted to amend the beer ordinance to permit the W. E. Whitson Grocery, 2000 West North Front Street to have an off-premise beer permit. The Zoning Commission recommended granting of the permit. A letter from the Midland Ministerial Association objected to the proposal.

Texas Polio Once Again On Upswing

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas' polio incidence during the last week bounced back up to 121 new cases to match the state's all-time high mark, the State Health Department reported Wednesday.

The incidence record was set only four weeks ago.

The matching of the figure last week came after state health officials said they believed polio already had reached its peak and might begin to level off somewhat.

The 121 new cases were reported from 50 counties, six of them reporting polio for the first time this year.

The total incidence of polio now stands at 1,339 for the year.

State Health Officer George W. Cox called the dread disease "as baffling as ever."

The jump in incidence this week demonstrates the unpredictable nature of polio," he said.

20 Cases In Tarrant

Most of the increase over the previous week was in Tarrant County, where 20 new cases were reported. Seven cases were reported there a week earlier.

"If people in the northern part of the state adopt individual cleanliness campaigns, they might stave off fresh outbreaks of the disease," Dr. Cox advised, adding:

"One thing everyone ought to be careful of is to stay out of vacation camps that haven't been approved by officers charged with sanitation."

He said clean-up drives should be directed at insect breeding places, rather than at the insects themselves.

Huntsville's worst polio year was 1948 when 1,765 cases were counted for the entire year. This year's incidence is now within 426 cases of the record.

Senators Ask For MacArthur's Views On Arms Program

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A group of 10 senators Wednesday "urgently requested" Secretary of Defense Johnson to recall Gen. Douglas MacArthur from the Philippines and one Democrat—Senator Byrd of Virginia—said in a letter to Johnson that the pending $1,450,000,000 foreign arms aid bill deals with "a problem which is global in character."

Noting that the chiefs of staff have visited European countries but are not likely to have time to go to the far Pacific, the senators said they want the views of MacArthur and Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger, Naval commander in that area, before voting on the arms measure.

Fred Jones Dies In Electric Chair For Slaying At Floydada

HUNTSVILLE—(AP)—W. Fred Jones died in the state's electric chair early Wednesday saying a prayer for "all who prosecuted me and lied about me."

It was the second trip to the death house for the convicted shotgun slayer of H. C. Love, Jr., in 1948. A letter from the Midland Ministerial Association objected to the proposal.

At 12:03 a. m. the Floydada grocer calmly walked into the execution chamber.

At 12:11 a. m. the prison doctor said Jones had paid his debt to society.

"Tell Thelma (his wife) by bye," Jones said as they strapped him in the chair, "and say bye to the children and be sure to tell my enemies that I love them."

"I am stepping out into eternity," the dignified-looking 40-year-old man said to the assembled officials, witnesses and newspapermen. "I am a saved man, and I know my God. If any of you here do not know your God, let me recommend him to you. I love all who prosecuted me and lied about me."

Negro Also Executed

"Go ahead, everybody. I love all of you."

Within minutes after Jones' body was removed from the chair, General Kerzee, 57-year-old Dallas negro convicted of the mutilation slaying of a negro woman in 1948, was electrocuted. He died at 12:21 a. m.

It was the first double electrocution in Texas since 1938.

On his way to the death house, Jones stopped in front of Kerzee's cell.

"Don't be afraid, General," he said. "You're going to heaven and I'll see you very soon."

Jones twice was tried and convicted for shooting Love, 23-year-old Purple Heart war veteran, outside Jones' grocery in the small West Texas town. Jones also was a World War II veteran.

He pleaded the "unwritten law" as his defense.

New Drilling Firm Acquires Properties Of Jerry C. Hawkins

DALLAS—(AP)—The newly organized Delta Gulf Drilling Company has acquired substantially all of the properties of Jerry C. Hawkins of Dallas, totaling about $15,000,000, and his oil well drilling business.

This was announced Wednesday by Hawkins and by Joe Zeppa of Tyler, president of the Delta Drilling Company and president and treasurer of the Delta Gulf Drilling Company. Hawkins is a vice president of the new corporation. The deal was effective July 1, the announcement said.

Under the terms of the agreement between J. C. Hawkins and others and the Delta Drilling Company and Joe Zeppa, substantially all of the assets of the J. C. Hawkins partnership have been transferred to the Delta Gulf Drilling Company.

These interests include: Full or partial interest in 135 producing oil and gas wells and 22 oil well drilling rigs of heavy types; all other equipment used in connection with the operation of oil and gas properties and the drilling equipment; producing royalties; wildcat leases and royalties; and "all other assets with few exceptions."

"The properties have an estimated value of $15,000,000," (Continued on Page 16)

Flames Burn Bodies; None Are Identified

BLOOMINGTON, IND.—(AP)—Fifteen persons died in the flaming wreckage of a Greyhound bus that burned after smashing into a bridge abutment near here early Wednesday.

None of the dead has been identified.

The bus, bound from Indianapolis to Bloomington, hit the bridge on a winding, hilly road shortly after midnight. Seconds later it was in flames.

Coroner Robert W. Lyons of Monroe County said 15 would be the death toll.

Twelve other persons were injured. They are in a Bloomington hospital.

The bodies removed from the wreckage were brought to the Indiana National Guard Armory here to await identification.

The bus was so badly smashed it was necessary to cut it to pieces to pull aside the debris to reach the bodies. As each piece was removed, another part of a body would be found.

Flames Sweep Vehicle

Driver Wayne Cramer of Indianapolis, one of the survivors, said a front tire may have blown out, causing him to lose control of the bus. After striking the abutment it skidded 150 feet down winding Highway 37 and came to rest on its left side, blocking the emergency door.

Flames enveloped the vehicle almost immediately. The driver said he and "two or three" passengers got out the front door. The other survivors escaped through a rear window which a passenger kicked out.

Greyhound spokesman in Indianapolis confirmed that there were 37 passengers on the bus when it left Indianapolis for Bloomington.

Glen Van Horn, manager of radio station WTVF in Bloomington, said one of the survivors told him he "walked through five feet of flames" to get off the bus.

Johnson May Accept Arms Slash

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson told senators Wednesday the Military Department is willing to accept 60 per cent in cash and 40 per cent in contract authority to launch President Truman's arms program.

It is agreeable to the military, he said, to spread the cost of the $1,450,000,000 program over two or even three years.

To Provide Better Road To Oil Field

Midland County will build seven miles of road through the Hal Peck ranch, in the southwest part of the county, to provide better access to the Pegasus oil field, it was decided Tuesday at a three-county meeting held here.

Attending the meeting were commissioners and judges of Midland, Ector and Upton Counties, and Peck.

Peck is donating right-of-way for the road, which will provide an approach to the oil field from the Crane Highway.

Truck Difficulties

Oil companies working in the area have reported difficulties by truck drivers and others in the field owing to the lack of roads. Ranchers also reported that trucks, which were unable to follow a definitely outlined road to their locations had caused damage to the land. Some sheep and other animals also had been reported injured or killed by the vehicles.

County judges attending the meeting were Clifford C. Keith, Midland; Raymon Stoker, Ector; and G. H. Fisher of Upton.

Former Assistant Levels Attack At Tom Clark's Record

WASHINGTON—(AP)—O. John Rogge, a former assistant attorney general under Tom Clark, said Wednesday his former boss "has neither the stature, integrity nor ability" demanded of a Supreme Court justice.

Rogge, whose legal activities since he left the program unquestionably, appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee in behalf of Henry Wallace's Progressive Party.

The committee is considering President Truman's nomination of Clark to the high tribunal.

Rogge had been allotted 20 minutes to testify. But he remained on the stand more than an hour after launching a bitter attack on Clark's part in carrying out the Administration's loyalty program.

Rogge called the lists of subversive organizations which Clark has issued under that program unconstitutional "black lists" intended to imply "guilt by association."

He said Clark had conducted a "loyalty witch-hunt" among federal employees until many Americans are "afraid to think for themselves."

Six witnesses—including spokesmen for four organizations Clark has listed as subversive—were waiting to testify when the committee wound up its morning session. As a result, a night meeting was ordered.

'King Of Comedy' Gets His Due In 'The Mack Sennett Story'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Forty years ago an ex-bullfighter named Mack Sennett bounced into Hollywood, hired some unknowns named Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand and Gloria Swanson and built a film empire as the "king of comedy."

It was an empire built on laughter, custom plays, Keystone cops, laughing beauties and a still unchallenged production record of 700 comedies in a row.

New Hollywood is getting around to honoring the old boy, who is almost 70, short on cash and long on memories.

Paramount will film "The Mack Sennett Story."

Eagle Lion will soon release "Down Memory Lane," clips from Sennett's best comedies and considerable new footage in which the white-haired film pioneer plays himself.

A $100 debt to two Broadway bookies propelled Sennett, then a burlesque actor, into motion pictures.

He was keeping strictly out of their way but one day they cornered him. Sennett pretended he was overjoyed to see them.

"I've been looking for you everywhere," he lied. "There's a pile of money to be made in these new moving pictures and with $2500 I could make four pictures and be on my way to a fortune."

"You're crazy," said the bookies. "You owe us $100 and you want $2500 now?"

"I must have been a good salesman," said Sennett, "because they came through with the money."

Westward Ho!

Sennett, Mabel Normand, Fred Mace and Ford Sterling took a train for California. They got off at the Santa Fe station and started toward the center of town in an automobile.

Sennett remembers: "We soon found our way blocked by a shrine parade. Within 10 minutes we'd bought a doll that looked like a baby and cried when squeezed. I told Mabel: 'You wait on the curb with the doll until our car comes close. We'll start the camera and then you run out and accuse one of the marching Shrineres of not providing for his baby. Ford and Fred will come up and help you.'"

"We got a place of cardboard and printed PRESS on it and hung it over the windshield of our car. Then we covered up the camera with my coat."

"Mabel did as I told her and it was even better than I had hoped because the man's wife was marching with him and she got pretty excited. The cops came up and were funnier than our actors. When they discovered the hoax, Mabel and the boys got back in the car and we drove away fast."

Next day Sennett rented a small store building and made a brief beginning and a brief end for the "movie" he had taken 10 minutes after his arrival in Los Angeles.

His bookie partners were delighted. The picture sold readily at a fine profit. He was in business.

A year later Sterling left Sennett to form his own company and Sennett sent his New York representative a wire and told them to find and ship to him a vaudeville comedian he had seen in a second-rate vaudeville theater. He thought the name was Chapin or Chapman.

The comic, of course, was Charlie Chaplin. Chaplin received $125 a week from Sennett. For the first six months he stashed his pay checks at the bottom of a trunk.

He thought the checks were some special kind of American currency. New Like Newsdays Making movies in Sennett's day was slightly more informal than today.

Said Sennett: "One day we were shooting a scene with Roscoe Arbuckle and bear in front of the studio. The bear was chasing Roscoe and the big boy, to escape, jumped on a stretcher that had just come to a stop."

"It wasn't in the script but the bear jumped on the car too, and continued the chase. The passengers were pretty active getting out of his way."

Daring stunts were popular then, too. The most daring stunt Sennett recalls was performed by a fellow named Dick Dickinson.

"It was for Mabel Normand's picture, 'Molly-O.' Dick dropped from an airplane to the top of an Army blimp. He then ran toward one end of the blimp and when it tipped down he turned and ran to the other end. He repeated this a few times—at 3000 feet in the air—and then garbed a rope and slid down the side of the blimp and swung into his cabin. We kept Dick on salary for a year after that in appreciation of the stunt."

More than 33 million short tons of cane and beet sugar were produced by the world in 1947.

Confessions Of Engel, The Romantic Swindler

By SIGMUND SAMUEL ENGEL
As Told To Edgar Brown
(Copyright, 1949, Chicago Herald-American)

Hypnotic perfumes of the sultan's harem still tantalized my nostrils as I left Constantinople on a Continental Eastern Express and whirled post-haste toward new adventures in Japan.

Two ladies awaited me in Tokyo. I never kept a lady waiting. The fact that my impending Oriental rendezvous involved a pair of San Francisco matrons, freighted with American dollars didn't have anything to do with my eagerness.

Well, hardly anything. San Francisco is the town of my birth (regardless of what you may read in any "official" records) which are thoroughly fouled up as far as I'm concerned, and my acquaintance with these estimable women dated from my vaudeville days.

Mrs. Wilma Haggerty, of the West Coast clan of ladies' outfitters, was an oldtime friend of Martin Beck and this had her briefly into show business.

Mrs. Fred Sonnenschein, who owned several places but preferred to live at the Fremont Hotel, had become a bosom pal of Wilma. Their Bay View places adjoined and they had other common interests, including a zest for travel.

Meets Old Friends

During my short sojourn in Constantinople I had met these old friends, who were globe-trotting on a lavish scale. Here's how my mind reacted:

I watched them spending money like Death Valley Scotty and I thought I was told that since our last meeting both women had been widowed. I learned their next stop was Tokyo. Ergo, I dated them up for a fling in the Jap capital.

I cannot honestly say whether the predominating motive was the chance of financial profit or my nagging desire to enjoy myself in the presence of women who frankly and openly kept me on a pedestal.

Likely it was a mixture of both. In any event, it seemed like a logical thing to do, so I did it. This "confession story" wouldn't be confessional at all if I didn't admit that commercialism was taking over my romantic life to a marked degree.

Blends Business With Pleasure

I feel no obligation, though, to apologize for this. How many others in business or professional life have frequently blended business with pleasure?

Oh, Wilma and Freda had long been enamored of me and they made no effort to conceal the fact that the old spark of love still smoldered, ready to burst into passionate flame when touched by the fire of my presence.

The rendezvous in Tokyo was disconcerting, and in no way was I disappointed. My old friends were housed at the Imperial Hotel, naturally, and they had reserved a nearby suite for me in a wing of this sprawling, Wright-built hostelry.

I crossed Asia on the Express, caught a ship on the Russian coast and debarked at Yokohama to retrace the spirit embrace of Wilma and Freda, who knew that each was in love with me but wisely decided to accept the situation.

Shorn Of Youthful Bloom

In Tokyo we formed a threesome congenial most of the time, and did this strange and fascinating city properly. The "girls" now somewhat shorn of their youthful bloom but still attractive withal, had class and sophistication galore.

The financial setup was this: In the knowledge of Wilma and Freda, I had always had plenty of "the fresh." They never doubted that I was a man of substantial, solid wealth. I didn't have to win their confidence; I had it.

In Constantinople, during our little meeting, we had discussed the difficulty of keeping in funds while hopping over the globe. Wilma, I think, had been considerate enough to ask me if I had plenty of ready cash.

I was in the money, thanks to my lucrative experiences in Berlin and Vienna, and I thanked her courteously and smilingly rejected the implied offer of a loan. This canny move paid off very well when my roll began to thin out in Tokyo.

We were doing the usual things: visiting the lovely grounds of the Imperial Palace, dropping in to watch the Diet in action, shopping in the intriguing little markets that dot the town, patronizing the weird theaters and night clubs.

Tense Situations

Maintaining an even keel, sharing my attention among the two women equally, taxed my ingenuity.

but I was up to the job. There were, however, several slightly tense situations. Once the "girls" came to me together and chorused: "Come now, darling, it's time to declare yourself; which do you really love?"

I handled this poser as a huge joke, laughed and cried. "Both, of course. Privately, to each in turn, I protested my total, unshared adoration in a way of which only I am capable. Why not? It was the word each wanted to hear."

Another occasion for jollity among us was the first time I mentioned, in mock embarrassment, that funds weren't coming in from the states and I was financially embarrassed.

Wilma and Freda decided this was funny—for a "man in my position" to be virtually stranded in a strange land without means of support.

Good Donations

Both came forth with sizeable donations, the magnitude of each swelled by the underlying spirit of competition. Henceforward in Tokyo I "took" these women and "took" them good. Their "loans" mounted to tens of thousands.

I had no compunction in this respect. It was a trivial matter to both; they were what they wanted, an ardent suitor and a genial companion, and they were well able to pay for that rare and costly commodity.

Moreover, I had no fear of reprisal—save in the remote contingency that one would become inebriatedly jealous of the other. I took care to prevent that; and if either recalled my neglect in repaying the debts, neither mentioned it.

A young riot in a geisha house abruptly terminated our delightful sojourn in Tokyo. It is amusing now in many aspects, but it was rather serious then.

The scene was the Kurasi Club, named in honor of a famed admiral. We sat enjoying the performance of 50 lovely geisha girls, the three of us, when late in the evening we were joined by young officers of the American embassy.

Party Became Gay

I never drink, but as self-appointed host I ordered strong native beverages in abundance and the party became very gay. Presently some German diplomatic attaches came over and we accorded them a boisterous welcome.

Along toward morning, nothing would do but a private performance by half a dozen of the loveliest Oriental beauties from the ranks of the geishas.

This was swiftly arranged, geisha being available readily to those able to meet their luxury rates. Those assigned to our party not only danced for us but ably joined us at our tables and imbibed freely.

They were younger and handsomer, more present than I, but three of the Japanese lovelies somehow chose me as the object of their affections. They quarreled, then fought, then started tossing glasses with gay abandon.

The joint was up an uproar and under cover of the riot I ditched Freda and Wilma, who were blaming me for the whole mess, and left the premises with the admiring geisha girl of my discriminating choice.

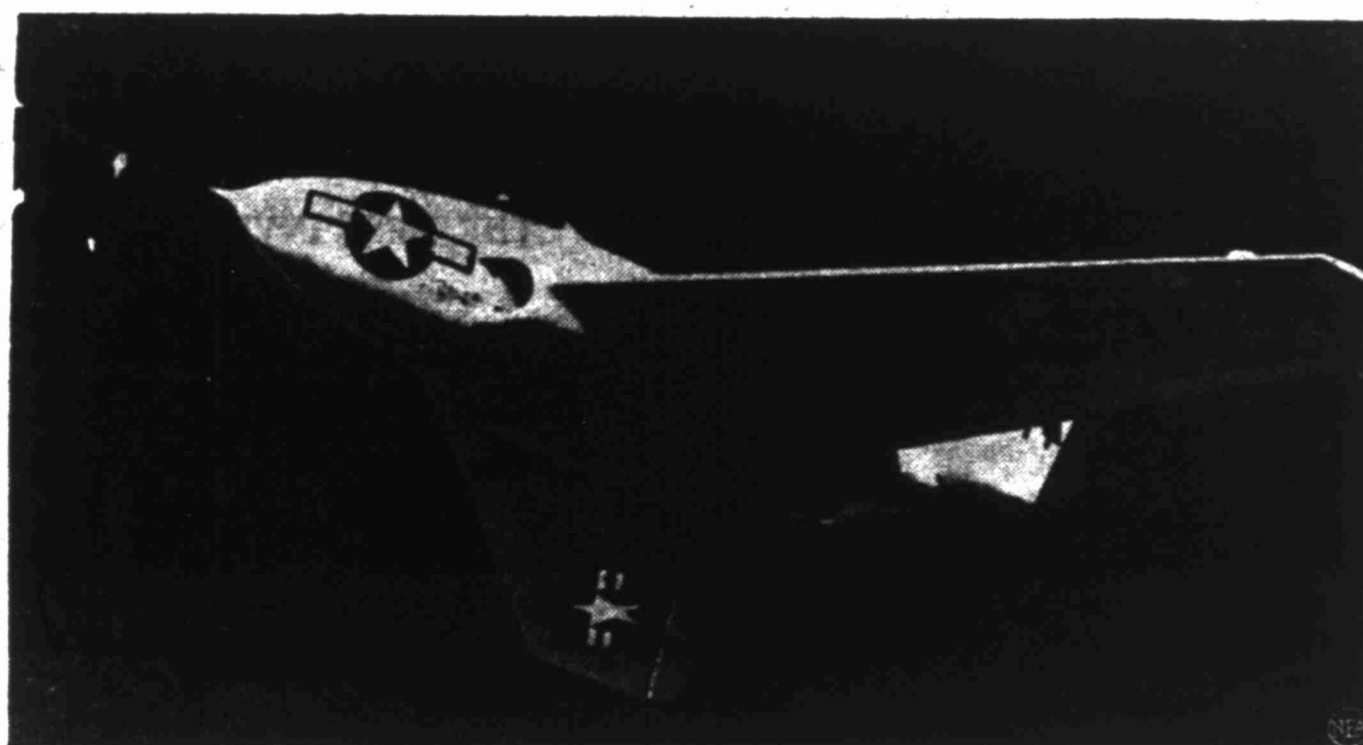

Don't ask me why I pulled this one; there certainly wasn't any money incentive. Maybe it's an insight into my "true character." In any event Miss Kobayashi and I hit it off well.

Next day I pacified my irate "sweethearts" and we visited a Buddha temple in which an ancient priest with long whiskers became enamored of Wilma Haggerty, went a little off his trolley and created another embarrassing scene.

A Tokyo newspaper printed a pointed article about certain American tourists creating scenes, upsetting native customs and becoming general nuisances.

The climax was an official summons and a simple request: Would we kindly get the heck out of there, please, and permit Japan to get back to normal? We were still laughing as we embarked on the

Method To Prepare Peaches For Locker Related By Agent

For the information of Midland County housewives who are preparing peaches for the home freezer, Mrs. Nettie Messick, home demonstration agent, has prepared a reliable method.

Use only sound, ripe fruit, she suggests. If fruit is too green it shrivels and lacks in flavor and color. If it is too ripe, but still good, it is better to make a fruit juice or puree with it.

Prepare the peaches as for eating, keeping fruit cold from the time it is gathered until frozen. The fruit should be washed in cold water.

One method of preventing discoloration is to mix four level teaspoons of citric acid or three tablespoons of lemon juice in a quart of cool water. Leave the fruit in the solution only five to 10 minutes and then pack immediately.

The amount of sugar must be determined by the tastes of the family. To make syrup dissolve the sugar in boiling water. Then chill the syrup before pouring it over the prepared fruit. One pound (two cups) of sugar dissolved in one quart of water should cover four quarts of well packed fruit.

After the peaches are prepared, pack into containers. Be sure that the syrup or fruit juice covers the pieces. If enough juice is not drawn out, some of the softer fruits should be crushed or cold water added to cover.

The more air-tight and moisture-vapor-proof the container, the better the food will keep during storage. Double cellophane bags, boxes with cellophane linings, heavy waxed cartons, tin cans and glass fruit jars are some of the containers which may be used for packing.

Foods expand in the freezing process; therefore, a headspace should be provided.

GO AHEAD, BE DIFFERENT

The "Joneses" may have a beautiful-looking living room, but don't copy it! Their room no doubt shows individuality... which is something you can't always put your finger on, yet you instinctively know when it's there or missing.

Be different. Use informal articles! They in turn will give the room the individuality and informal setting you're after. Look what's happened to the old fashioned coffee pots in the picture above. They make mighty attractive lamps, don't they? You no doubt have a number of things hidden away in the attic or cellar that would make beautiful lamps... just use your imagination.

High Tension

We've been hearing for years that many of our top business executives kill themselves with the strain of overwork. Perhaps most of us have felt this situation was just an unfortunate accompaniment of modern living about which nothing could be done.

But now comes a suggestion that this tense pace is neither normal nor necessary, even for today. Writing in Collier's magazine, Howard Whitman quotes psychiatrists as declaring it is an abnormal, neurotic drive rather than brains, energy or ambition that leads a man to punish himself with work and possibly "succeed himself to death."

Business leaders can amass plenty of evidence to support their contention that their problems and burdens have mounted to dizzy heights in the last two decades, and that their own tensions have risen in proportion. The doctors, however, decline to admit that most executives have to work as hard as they often do.

They insist that the men who let work dominate their lives are out of balance in some way. They say some have a distorted idea of life that allows no place for fun and rest. Some men simply don't know how to use free time and tie themselves to work to avoid boredom. Others are ridden by fears—of failure, and competing executives, of insecurity they often can't define. So these high voltage individuals focus so hard on making a living that they forget all about making a life. They deprive their families of badly needed companionship and guardianship. They lose the matchless riches of leisure, the fulfillment of spiritual wants that can't be satisfied in the grubbing world of work. And into the bargain, they kill themselves. In so doing, they rob business of brain power, training and leadership.

Thus they defeat the very purposes for which they are supposedly slaving. The doctors' advice to business executives is to grow up, to stop racing each other to the grave and grasping for the symbols of life instead of life itself.

Any sensible person would be likely to agree with Dr. Leo H. Bartemeier of Detroit, whom Whitman quotes as follows: "The grown-up man has his prestige and security within him. He doesn't have to make a million dollars. He doesn't need the biggest car. His joy comes from being a person, a fully realized human being."

Wishful Thinking

Senator Donnell of Missouri thinks the North Atlantic Treaty opens the way to an American civil rights program. This is the final proof that when a man wants to be against something he can find a reason almost anywhere under the sun.

Not all dumb waiters are pulled up by a rope—but there are times when folks think they should be.

How To Win Friends And Influence People

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1949, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) Drew Pearson says: Mrs. Pearson decrees that Merry-Go-Round should rest; Robert S. Allen begins writing column tomorrow; Tributes to Truman, Byrnes and Tom Clark.

WASHINGTON—Maybe I shouldn't admit it but I've been having increasing trouble with my wife lately. Usually she is the easiest person in the world to get along with—but not in August.

Every Summer she labors under the delusion that Washington is not cool in August and that I can write a column just as well from some other part of the U. S. A. She even jolts my self-esteem by insisting that the world would get along just as well if no column was written at all—for a while.

In vain do I argue that someone has to keep an eye on the lobbyists and the legislators. It does no good. The five-percenters could run off with the U. S. Treasury and Mrs. P. just wouldn't worry about it if the thermometer was above 80.

In vain, also, do I scan the weather reports and gloat over the fact that it's been 91 in New York, 84 in Philadelphia, 99 in Nebraska and only 95 in Washington. Washington, I argue, is a much cooler place. But it makes no difference.

"We don't have to go to New York, Philadelphia or Nebraska," Mrs. P. replies. "There are other places in the U. S. A. besides New York, Philadelphia or Nebraska—such as Canada."

Obviously, I can't win. I should have known this from previous Summers. But there is nothing more unwise than a stubborn husband, so I resorted to delaying tactics. I got out the railroad and airplane timetables and left them in a conspicuous place in the living room. It did no good. Mrs. P. wanted a date, the exact date, the hour, the name of the hotel, the time of the train's departure. I even told her that Bob Allen was busy and wasn't ready yet to take over the column. She didn't waver for that one either.

"If you don't need a vacation then General Vaughan's," was her comeback. "I'm almost beginning to feel sorry for him."

So this is to announce that having reached the end of my domestic rope; this will be the last column to be foisted on a hot and helpless public until September. The best reporter in Washington, Bob Allen, has been kind enough to take over until then.

Keeping Score On Truman Before I close the season's score, however, there are a couple of points I would like to set straight. If anything should happen to me I would not want the wrong impression to prevail about certain people.

For instance, I have been pretty rough on some of the White House hangers-on who influence President Truman. But while I deplore the choice of these White House cronies, I continue to applaud most of Truman's legislative program.

The President is sincere, honest, frequently impulsive, and not always efficient. But history will show that 99 per cent of the time he has been fighting for the little fellow—and that's a lot more than can be said of some presidents.

The great tragedy is that he harms his own program and the common folk he is trying to help by his stubborn loyalty to certain cronies.

Byrnes and Truman Some time ago I wrote a column about the differences between President Truman and ex-Secretary of State Byrnes in which I reported that Truman had become irked at Byrnes just a week or so before he resigned, and that Byrnes' resignation, which he himself had hastened for some time, had been planned by that.

Byrnes has now written me that the latest part of this column was incorrect and that Truman was not irked. I regret this error, and am glad to make the correction.

I should like further to repeat what I have written before, that in my opinion Jimmie Byrnes resigned just when he was striking his real stride as a great secretary of State.

I have always felt that the country would have been much better off if he had continued in office; for General Marshall, fine and sincere as he was, had to unlearn the military habits of a lifetime—which was not easy. Thus for a year or more the nation marked time when it should have been marching forward on the road to peace.

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority Written for NEA Service

I like to meet young up-and-coming stars. The lives of every one of these typical American boys and girls are very interesting. Take the young star I was chatting with the other day, Kay Starr. She sings every Tuesday and Thursday night over one of the major networks.

Kay is a little Indian girl who belongs to the Cherokee-Iroquois-Choctaw tribe, born and raised in the town of Dougherty, Okla. When she was 10 years old in Dallas, Texas, she was offered Wednesday for club membership.

Kay likes to play bridge but refused to play with me. She shyly said, "I am afraid I might hurt your ace and then you would get angry with me." I told her "I wouldn't, especially if she trumped my ace in today's hand."

West cashes the king of diamonds and leads the ace. If this holds the trick and he plays the ace of clubs and a small club, declarer will pick up the trumps and take the contract. But look what happens if East trumps his partner's ace of diamonds. The queen of clubs is returned if declarer lets this ride. East returns another club and defeats the contract.

When Tom Clark was a student at the University of Texas he roomed with a Jewish boy. And because his roommate wasn't invited to join a fraternity, Tom also refused to join a fraternity, and did not do so until after his roommate had finished college and could not be admitted to membership.

And when Tom Clark helped organize the Federal Bar Association he shocked some of his colleagues by demanding that negro attorneys be admitted to membership.

Tom had been under a fire of criticism from his old friends in Texas for championing civil liberties. But he has never wavered, either as an enforcement officer or as an educator for civil liberties.

His Freedom Train, bringing the Declaration of Independence and other priceless papers to the American people, will go down in history as one of the most constructive moves ever made to educate the nation on civil liberties.

And few people will ever know how long and hard he worked to organize that train.

John L. Lewis Dictates Not many of his colleagues, Cavalcante supported the Sims compromise—which was endorsed by Democratic leaders—rather than accept complete defeat of the Taft-Hartley repeal bill. Also, he didn't win the highly reactionary Wood substitute to pass.

As it happened, both the Sims and Wood substitutes were voted down, but Lewis was so incensed by Cavalcante's independent stand that he ordered his Pennsylvania constituents to send the congressman for it.

So they say

I feel our American friends can play a great part in trying to find a solution to the British financial crisis and some means for a freer and more flexible system of world currency. Community-Wide TB Surveys Can Save Unwitting Victims

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D. Written for NEA Service The great white plague, or tuberculosis as it is more commonly known today, is an infectious disease. The germ which causes it is most commonly caught from a person with the disease, although it can be carried also by unpasteurized milk or contaminated meat.

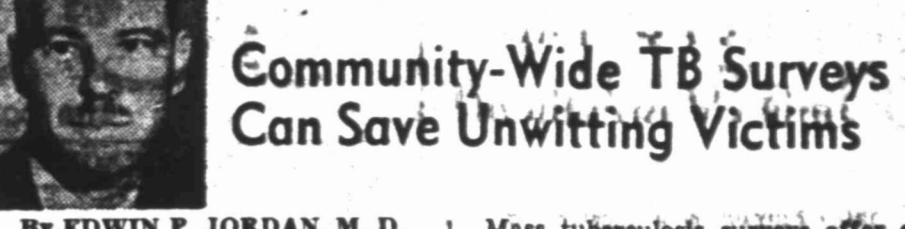

The best line of attack is to prevent the spread of the germ. One of the best ways to attack this problem is to survey the entire population of a community city by city with the aim of picking out those who have the disease but do not even know it.

People who do not even know they have tuberculosis may infect others. The community survey has now become possible because of revolutionary improvements in the technical methods of diagnosing tuberculosis. This technical improvement involves the use of a tiny or miniature X-ray film.

Probably Savannah, Ga., was one of the first large cities to try this method out on a large scale. The county in which Savannah is located has a population of 150,000. During the Autumn of 1945, almost 75,000 residents of the county appeared voluntarily for chest X-rays.

Since that time several other cities including Washington, D. C., Seattle, Wash., and Cleveland, Ohio, (in which such a survey is now in progress), have carried out similar X-ray surveys aimed at revealing unsuspected cases of the disease.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Community-Wide TB Surveys Can Save Unwitting Victims. Mass tuberculosis surveys offer a wonderful means of picking out unknown tuberculosis (and often equally unknown other diseases of the chest). This permits many thousands to obtain proper treatment early enough to bring about a cure and helps to protect their many relatives and friends from acquiring this serious disease.

Steps to the Moon

THE STORY: Gaynel Trane, while waiting to meet Harry Brainerd at Detroit, is "kissed" by an "extraneous woman." In spite of all she can do to prevent it, this young newspaper advertising man, Frederick Fitzroy (first Freeman, in earlier drafts), Gaynel decides that she will have her first (and only) lesson.

"KOBEE, oh Kobee!" Gaynel cried, spied the little Filipino coming down the Grand Staircase, so designated because it rose with such majestic dignity from the exact center of the enormous, crystal-chandeliered reception hall.

"Even the dogs seem to have deserted the house, Kobee! Even heaven's sake, what's that terrific racket? Why have you such a guilty look? Tell me—what's up, what's going on?"

"I have wish to exchange the word," Kobee said. His small, beady eyes were apprehensive; he rubbed his hands, wrinkled and dry as old parchment, together in silent anguish. "You come home very late."

"Never mind that," Gaynel interrupted. "We are all wait for it," Kobee reminded gently. "That is why I make the preparation for you." He sighed deeply and shook his head.

"I have the wish to inform you that it is now the desire to open the theater, to benefit the performances."

Gaynel yanked off her small tan beret, made a ringer with it over a huge silver loving cup on the mantelpiece, peered off her shoulder and toms them in the same direction. "You don't mean Mother's opening the theater? Why, it hasn't been so much as dusted since we used to do Uncle Tom and Elsie Dinsmore for the admission of two pins."

Gaynel did not wait for his elaborate explanation. Another ear-splitting bang, as though the removal of which had, no doubt, been largely responsible for the sound effects.

Gaynel's younger sister, Pat, was sitting on the steps, nursing her chin and wearing a torn smock and her most set, stubborn air. Miss Cupples, the maid, was on tiptoe, handing something to Gaynel's mother who, perched on a step ladder, was feminine and stuffy, as usual, in her sheers, most billowy house coat and highest rhinestone-heeled mules. Even Denny, Gaynel's brother, appeared to have been commissioned into activity. He was scuttling about on the stage, giving forth Shakespearean selections to the accompaniment of Clapper. Pat's wire-haired, who yapped ecstatically at his heels and to the amusement of an admiring audience of two girls, seeking in each other's arms between fits of hysterical laughter.

"Darling!" Mrs. Trane discovered her eldest child standing in the doorway. "So you're home at last. Do come in. See what we're doing."

preening long enough to blow her a kiss, followed by a broad grin. "Yes, it's too, too exciting. Did you come for a try-out, Miss? He pulled his face into a severe contortion. The resemblance between Denny and Gaynel was striking; they might have been twins—there was only 18 months difference, except that, being masculine, Denny was almost too handsome for his own good.

"Denny, please!" His mother threw him one of her beaming looks, crossed to take Gaynel's hands. She remained blissfully unaware of Denny's slight mockery; it was inconceivable that any child of hers would be rude in any way; besides, Denny, being her only son and her favorite child, could do no wrong.

"Darling, I want you to meet Melvin Mosby. . . Come here, Melvin, please! You see, darling, it's all Melvin's idea; he's so full of ideas! The little theater movement; all the arts. So worth while. . . the way the drama is declining with all its games and the cinema and all. Melvin, this is my other darling daughter, Gaynel, Mr. Mosby."

"How do you do?" Gaynel inclined her head, but she did not put out her hand. One look told her here was the Root of the Trouble. Mr. Mosby, in spite of his ideas, looked like a harmless and helpless rabbit; he had a long nose that actually quivered, and big ears.

So it was Little Theater now. Last month it had been a Surrealist, the month before a New-Thought Cult; before that an orchestra leader, a relative of Miss Cupples, who by now had become a permanent fixture.

"You haven't said that you think it's lovely idea," he mother persisted. She put an arm through Gaynel's, drawing her into the group. "And this is Miss Pierce," introducing a short, plump girl with horn-rimmed glasses, who was struggling with some screens.

"Miss Pierce is going to be in the dramatic division. And Mr. Thornblow. . . come here, Thorny, darling—Mr. Thornblow writes, Gaynel. He's going to do a play for us. Isn't that too wonderful?"

"TOO wonderful," Gaynel agreed. She gathered her forces, telling herself she must be firm and cast her ballot now or never. Miss Pierce looked well nourished. And writers were supposed to be able to exist on next to nothing. But this really looked bad. One protegee, or doctrinaire, was enough; a whole troupe was beyond comprehension.

"Won't it cost a terrible lot?" Gaynel ventured, watching for the pained expression that such material matters always brought to her mother's eyes. "Costumes and scenery and all, I mean. And just to heat this place alone." The furnaces simply gorged coal as it was.

"Darling! I knew you'd say something like that!" The pained expression was very much in evidence.

Denny winked again at his sister. "Why, the whole thing isn't going to put us out a penny!"

"Our idea," Mr. Mosby explained gravely, as though pampering a willful child, "is to make money, Miss Trane."

"For charity, of course!" her mother hastened to explain. "Why, the whole thing isn't going to put us out a penny!"

"Our idea," Mr. Mosby explained gravely, as though pampering a willful child, "is to make money, Miss Trane." (To Be Continued)

French Opposed To Germany As Member Of European Council

STRASBOURG, FRANCE—(AP)—Former French Premier Edouard Herriot said Wednesday a division of minds exists on the question of admitting Germans to the new Council of Europe.

In an address to the opening session of the council's Consultative Assembly, Herriot indicated Western Germany would have to work her way into the organization with proofs that she no longer harbors aggressive intentions.

He told the 101 delegates from 12 nations that the assembly would deal with "problems of life and death" for Europe.

"A closer association of Europe presents itself as a matter of urgency," he said.

Many political leaders of Western Europe hope the discussions here will mark a long advance toward the goal of full unity of that portion of Europe outside the Soviet orbit.

Tribute To Churchill

There have been proposals to include Western Germany in the organization as soon as the new West German government is functioning. It was thought that Herriot's statement on the question perhaps reflected the point of view of the French delegation. France has a deep-seated fear of German aggression based on experiences of history.

Herriot listed the achievements of Germany's great men of science, arts and letters and said: "If Germany had remained faithful to these great examples, how eagerly would we work with her for the organization of a liberal Europe."

Herriot, a leader in the movement for European unity, paid special tribute to Winston Churchill, declaring: "From his mind sprang the movement which has brought us together here." Churchill, one of the British parliamentary delegates, was seated in the second row.

Leaking Well Casing Blamed For Blowout

MARSHALL, TEXAS—(AP)—It now appears the gas blowout in an East Texas bayou may have been caused by a leaking oil well casing and not from an earth movement. The upheaval happened Sunday night and split and uprooted large cypress trees and hurled rocks into the air.

Natural gas seeped through crevices and bubbled up through the mud of Black Cypress Bayou, two miles east of Jefferson.

G. C. Clark, geologist, said Tuesday night that leaking gas from a well casing could have seeped through the porous shale formation.

Clark said there was no evidence of any sub-surface movement. Residents who have heard tales of an 1812 earthquake that rocked the area rested easier Tuesday night.

Britain's National Health Plan Lures African Chieftan

LONDON—(AP)—When Nii Kwabena Bonne III, tribal chieftan from British West Africa's Gold Coast, heard about Britain's national health scheme he decided it was an opportunity not to be overlooked.

He arrived in London Tuesday night from Accra, capital of the Gold Coast, where he maintains a 56-room castle. Wednesday he told reporters:

"I understand I can obtain health treatment free here, and spectacles, too." Bonne explained he had a stomach ailment and had been in poor health since he was operated on in 1944.

The chief came to the right place. Under the British health plan visitors as well as residents are eligible for free medical care.

Highway Patrol Officer Resigns Under Pressure

EDINBURG, TEXAS—(AP)—Sheriff Rene A. Solis said Tuesday that State Highway Patrolman Sam Eller resigned after a shooting in which the patrolman's gun was used.

Solis said H. J. Spencer, 33, oilman, was shot in the shoulder in a car here last Saturday. His wife, Evelyn, has been charged with assault with intent to murder.

The sheriff said Mrs. Spencer used Eller's gun in the shooting. Afterward the sheriff asked that Eller resign as a patrolman.

Deputy Sheriff J. J. Vale said he later went to Eller and asked for the gun used in the shooting. "He refused to give it to me," Vale said. "We got in an argument after he said he was an officer and had as much right to be carrying a pistol as I did. There was a scuffle. I had to defend myself so I pulled my gun."

Vale said his gun was discharged during the scuffle and the bullet went through Eller's trouser legs.

Farmers Must Post Bond For Braceros

This was announced by Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller, who said employers in the South will be required to post bonds as follows:

Up to 500 workers, $15 each; from 500 to 1,000, $10 each; and more than 1,000, $5 each. The minimum bond will be $500, but groups of braceros will be allowed to band together to contract for groups of 1,000 or more workers.

Senate Authorizes Purchase Of Land For Big Bend Park

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A measure to authorize the secretary of the Interior to acquire title to four sections of land for addition to the Big Bend National Park in Texas was approved by the Senate Tuesday.

The measure goes back to the House for action on a Senate amendment providing that the government should not pay more than $10,000 for the land.

The Senate Interior Committee said the transaction would correct a surveyor's error made when the park's boundary was established. The land involved was intended to have been included among other acreages conveyed by Texas to the Interior Department for the park.

Additional information will permit the National Park Service to build an approach road from Texas Highway 227 into the park.

Mexico City Hikes Gasoline Prices

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Mexico City gasoline prices went up about one-third Wednesday. Similar price boosts for the rest of the country are expected shortly.

The government petroleum monopoly Pemex announced that regular 60-octane gasoline will sell for 18 1/2 cents a gallon instead of 14 cents. High test 70-octane will be 23 cents.

Antonio Bermudez, Pemex director, said the boosts are needed because of recent losses and because Pemex needs more capital to develop her oil industry.

★ WE, THE WOMEN ★ Make Your Wife Think She's Still Your 'Best Girl'

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Have you asked your wife for a date lately? If it's been two months (or heaven forbid, maybe even two years) since you've called her up and said, "How about our going out to dinner and a show tonight—just the two of us," go ahead and ask her for a date tomorrow. And I'll give you free of charge, a few pointers that will make the evening perfect from a nifty wife's point of view.

When you ask her for a date, say in a masterful way: "Never mind hunting around for a baby sitter. I'll line one up and pick her up on my way home." You'd be surprised how giddy and giddy that little bit of thoughtfulness will make her feel.

If you're ready before she is don't hound her to hurry up. Sit down with the evening paper and let her take her time so that she'll feel glamorous instead of thrown together.

When she finally does appear, let out a low, long whistle. That's much safer than asking her: "Isn't that a new dress?" Much more flattering, too.

Whether you take her to an expensive restaurant or an inexpensive one depends on the state of your pocket book, of course. But that's not nearly so important from a wife's point of view as whether or not you give her your undivided attention during the dinner hour.

Don't flirt with the hat check girl. Don't kid the waitress. Don't worry out loud because your food is slow in coming. Concentrate, Mister, concentrate—on the girl across the table from you who is all dressed up, and just for you.

Don't let yourself even once during the evening fret about how early you've got to get up next morning or what a hard day you've got ahead. Forget the office. Forget tomorrow.

You've got a date, you know, a date with a girl you once figured you wanted more than any woman in the world—or at least more than any woman you had a Chinaman's chance of getting.

Do exactly as I've outlined and I'll wager that when the evening is over your wife will say, "I can't remember when I've had so much fun."

United States Experts Dig In On Problems Of Far East

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—This government Wednesday dug in to finding what to do in a grand mess. The mess is the Far East, where the Chinese Communists are taking over China. This has been a great disaster for the United States since, between them, the Russian and Chinese Communists now control most of Asia. Only last week the State Department issued a "white paper" which said: 1. This country has washed its hands of Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists, who were the only opposition the Communists had. 2. Since the Nationalists are no competition any more, the Chinese Communists can take over all China any time they wish. Wednesday an aged man, 73-year-old J. Leighton Stuart, flew into Washington with his head full of knowledge of China to give what advice he can. He's American ambassador to China. Although he's had that job only since 1946, he's lived in China 45 years, mostly as an educator. Secretary of State Acheson has created a special group to figure out what this country should do about the Far East, which includes China and the rest of Asia not in Communist hands. This group is made up of three men: Philip C. Jessup, an ambassador-at-large; Dr. Everett Ruess, president of Colgate University; and Raymond B. Fosdick, president of the Rockefeller Foundation. This group will have the assistance of the State, Treasury and National Defense departments, the Economic Cooperation Administration, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The problem is this: With all China in the hands of the Chinese Communists, and with those Communists working with the Russian Communists, then— Vastly strategic areas now controlled by, or tied in with, the United States are in easy bombing range of the Communist-run, eastern coast of Asia. They are Japan, Okinawa, and the Philippines. Formosa Is Problem Then there is the island of Formosa, off the China coast. This once belonged to China. The Japanese captured it. After World War II the Allies decided to give it back to China.

This hasn't been settled yet and isn't supposed to be until the Japanese peace treaty is signed. Meanwhile, Chiang Kai-Shek, whom the State Department doesn't think is worth helping, has made his headquarters on Formosa. He's reported to have withdrawn 300,000 of his troops from the China mainland to Formosa, and has most of his Air Force there. Formosa—in any trouble which might later arise with Communist China—could be of help to this country. What to do about that? That's another problem for the special board to consider, in addition to deciding what this country ought to do to stop the spread of communism through the rest of Asia.

NO FIVE PERCENTER— Ex-Bootblack Tells Tale Of Close Friendship With Capital's Mighty

By BILL ROSS WASHINGTON (AP)—How did John F. Maragon climb from shoe-shine boy to man-about-Washington and favor-doer to people-about-Washington? He told his own story Tuesday. For nearly three hours, the 55-year-old onetime Greek immigrant chartered for reporters the course of his sometimes hectic, sometimes fabulous career. The yarn smacks of Horatio Alger—but only to a point—as Maragon tells it. In the sweltering heat of his lawyer's downtown office, he unfolded his story. It was the year-to-year account from $6 a week, 13-year-old Kansas City bootblack to his present role in Congress' probe of "five percenters." His words were well-chosen. His Greek accent always was as apparent as his grammar was correct. Maragon listed a sheaf of senators and congressmen, past and present, as his friends. He talked of Sir Thomas Lipton, the British tea tycoon and yachtsman. There was mention of the late Hugh Johnson, who ran the NRA during the early days of the New Deal. Even Kaiser Wilhelm was brought in. Vaughan "Very Close Friend" And Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan? A "very close friend," was Maragon's description of the presidential military aide. "To retain a good friend," he went on to say, "three things are necessary. You must be honest, loyal and not use them." Maragon stated that he followed this creed closely in all three respects so far as Vaughan is concerned.

Yes, he said, he knew well many, many high officials. But then his attorney, Myron G. Ehrlich, asked: "Have you ever accepted any money for doing anybody a favor in any government department?" "I have not," Maragon answered. Then he went into his service as a G-man. He told of a job overseas as an interpreter for an official government mission to Greece. There were his foreign jaunts as representative for a perfume company. And his job as a traffic representative of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. But never, Maragon said, did he make big money. Never did he become wealthy—the missing ingredient to make his career a rags-to-riches saga. "I don't even know where I'm going to get the money to pay this man here," he said pointing to his attorney. Maragon said things started looking up for him in Washington during prohibition days. As he put it, he "took the rap" for a senator about to be arrested because the lawmaker's suitcase was dripping bootlegged gin. It was the grateful and still unidentified—but now deceased—Senator who later got Maragon appointed a G-man in the days before J. Edgar Hoover took charge of the FBI, Maragon related. The job paid $7 a day plus expenses. "What's your job now, John," reporters asked him. He said he is a "publishers' representative." The company, a Chicago concern, soon is to put out a "Who's Who of the Republican and Democratic Parties," Maragon said. He denied reports that he once had a special White House pass. He called it a routine identification card passed out to transportation men—during his days with the B & O Railroad—who might be called to the President's office. The pass was turned in, Maragon asserted, when he left that job. There also was his report on the early stages of his business activities when he served as a news butcher aboard Union Pacific Railroad day coaches in Iowa and Nebraska. And of a wartime filer in to the banana business. It was to operate the banana business that he and two friends opened a bank account in San Antonio, he continued. The Senate committee investigating "five percenter" activities last week looked into this facet of Maragon's affairs.

Airline, Railroad Linked By Signal

DENVER—(P)—Passengers on the United Airlines' flight from Denver to Cheyenne have noticed a train far below them winking its big headlights in the night. Passengers of the 8:15 p.m. Colorado and Southern between the same two towns have on more than one occasion spotted the huge airliner flying parallel to the track, systematically blinking the lights on its wings. This has been going on for three years now.

The engineer of the train and the pilot of the plane are father and son. The blink-blink of the lights is 64-year-old Clarence Chapman's way of saying "How're you, boy?" to his airborne son. 31-year-old Capt. Leroy Chapman. Occasionally the senior Chapman fancies-up his nocturnal hello by lighting a red railroad flare and holding it out the window of his cab. "I'm right proud of my boy," Clarence says. "And I just like him to know the old man's still up and around and on the job."

Device Designed To Tap Wire-Tapping

NEW YORK—Thanks to a new electronic device, Teletap, you'll be able to trap any wire-tapping being done on your telephone line, according to Business Week magazine. The magazine says Teletap signals you when someone is listening in on a wire-tapping device or on another extension, and the device doesn't have to be hooked up directly to the phone wires.

Radio Script Writer Has Own Worries

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(P)—Carlton E. Morse is a pleasant, balding man of 48 who bakes his own bread.

He also eats steak and potatoes for breakfast—seven days a week—and believes he makes the best apple pie in America.

It's an apple pie with pears in it—and a little dash of rum," he explained. Morse is better known for his skill at the typewriter, however, than his skill with the skillet. Since 1929 he has turned out 20,000,000 words of radio drama.

His most durable breadwinner has been "One Man's Family," a weekly NBC half-hour program he has written, produced and directed for 18 continuous years. Morse believes this is a record for this type of dramatic serial.

The program tells the trials, tribulations, and vicissitudes of an American family—Henry Barbour, a retired stockbroker, his wife, Fanny, and their offspring. It has gone on so long that it's "Abe's Irish Rose" and "Oklahoma" seem like one-night-stand tent shows. "When I started there were only seven characters," said Morse. "Now there are 18 active characters, and I'm in the third generation of the family."

He is proud that six of the seven actors who appeared on the first broadcast of the program still play their original roles. Members of the live cast have had a total of 22 children during the 18 years. Morse and his wife, Patricia, are childless. The program really is an idealization of his husband's own family, said Mrs. Morse. "His father and mother are a wonderful couple. They just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary."

Listeners Protest
Morse rises every morning at 6:30 and cooks breakfast. By seven he is at his typewriter. He is a swift writer. By 9:30 he has finished his stint for the day. It takes him two mornings to write the weekly program, and his mythical family has grown so large he needs a chart now to keep the relations straight.

His listeners take the Barbour family very seriously. "One day I killed off one of the characters in an auto accident," Morse said, "since death must come to every family. But hundreds of people wrote in and protested. Some said they would never listen to the program again."

Since then he has kept his characters alive and talking. They grow older as ordinary people do, and one of his biggest problems came when all his characters were married.

"There was a little slump there," he admitted, "until the children grew up, and created some new love interest."

A rotating projectile travels farther and straighter, and it's path is a flatter curve; hence the "rifling" of a rifle barrel.

Unemployment Causes Heavy Drain On State Pocketbooks

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Exhaustion of unemployment insurance benefits by workers is another recession headache that must soon be faced. Since the laws governing unemployment insurance vary in every state, it is difficult to make a national round-up on this subject that will fit all cases. But the nature of the problem may be stated in general terms.

The weakness of the unemployment insurance system is in combating depressions. The system was designed primarily to give temporarily unemployed workers some income between jobs. If the country is now heading into another period of low employment such as it went through in the 1930's, that's where the trouble will come. The 33,000,000 workers now covered by the various state systems become eligible for unemployment insurance as they build up "wage credits." The more steadily workers are employed in any year, the more unemployment insurance they are entitled to, up to the maximum set by each state. New York now has the most liberal unemployment insurance terms in the nation. Unemployed workers there may draw a maximum of $26 a week for a maximum of 26 weeks in any year.

When a worker exhausts his unemployment insurance benefits in any year, he may not become eligible for more unemployment insurance until a new "employment year" begins. It is in determining the limits of this employment year that state practices vary widely.

Use Quarterly System
In New York, the unemployed may become eligible for additional benefits at the beginning of every quarter. The rise in New York unemployment insurance claims from $1,000 as of June 11 to $28,000 as of July 9 was due in part to the fact a number of claimants had exhausted their benefits in the second quarter of the year. But they became eligible for new benefits after July 1.

Massachusetts and 15 other states have uniform benefit years, beginning April 1. Maximum benefit in Massachusetts is 23 weeks in any one year. When a Bay State worker has used up all his wage credits and drawn benefit payments for 23 weeks, he cannot again become eligible for benefits until after the next April 1.

In other states, the usual pattern is for each worker's employment year record to begin on the day he files his initial claim for insurance. Then when he has exhausted his benefits, he does not again become eligible for more unemployment insurance until 52 weeks after he filed his first claim.

When a worker is drawing insurance for from 20 to 26 weeks, he is obviously not building up wage credits for the following year. In this annual year this worker will therefore be eligible for—roughly—

TEXAS LEAGUE—

Gold-Plated Dallas Club Slides Into Fifth Place

By The Associated Press
The gold-plated Dallas Eagles were turning green in the heat of the Texas League pennant stretch Wednesday. With a crash that scattered Oilman Dick Burnett's thousands and made the Dallas dream a nightmare, the Eagles fell into the second division Tuesday night. The lackadaisical club that was an awesome machine in the first months of the campaign thus fell out of the top division for the first time. And the way they're going they won't even be in the play-off. Eight straight defeats turned the trick as Oklahoma City moved into the first division and Dallas was kicked to fifth place. Shreveport beat the Eagles 8-4 to break a tie with them for third. Front-running Fort Worth gained a game on second-place Tulsa by licking Beaumont 4-1 while the Oilers were edged by Houston 6-5. Hugh Sooter notched his third pitching victory of the season over a Dallas club around which rumors of dissension have swirled for weeks. Sooter didn't finish the game, being relieved by Dee Sanders in the eighth after Ben Guintini of Dallas had clouted a two-run homer in the seventh. Triple Killing Chris Van Cuyk pitched a four-hitter in Fort Worth's conquest of Beaumont. The Cats turned in a triple play with Van Cuyk starting it. With Zeke Melagnano on second and Tommy Upton on first, Van Cuyk took a blooper from Wayne Tucker, threw to Wally Pila at second and Pila flipped to first for the triple killing. Fort Worth pounded it. Oklahoma City bested San Antonio 7-5 in thirteen innings. Ray Shore walked in one run and another scored on his wild pitch to give the Indians the decision. Each club got eight hits with Milt Nielsen homering for Oklahoma City and Jake Jones and Charley Grant parking one each for the Missions. Houston got six runs in two innings and outlasted Tulsa. The Buffs used six hits to perfection with Solly Hemus and Don Bollweg pitching in with homers. Jack Creel went the route for Houston and was touched for 11 hits.

Webb Returns To Duty Wednesday; Tribe Back Home

The final game of the Midland-Roswell series in Roswell was called in the fourth inning Tuesday night due to rain. Roswell was leading 5 to 0 at the time.

The Indians and Manager Harold Webb return home for a five-day stand, opening Wednesday night with the Sweetwater Swatters.

SPORTS SLANTS

by SHORTY SHELburnE

Latest reports on Harold Webb indicate the old skipper will be back at the helm on schedule Wednesday night.

Mrs. Red Knight had a chance meeting with the "round man" in the lobby of a Fort Worth hotel last week.

She reports Harold was going through one of his usual clown acts while surrounded by a bunch of ball players.

Webb told Mrs. Knight he is feeling much better and is anxious to rejoin the club.

Midland fans could do worse than making Wednesday night a sort of "homecoming" night for the Skipper. Something we all like has been missing since he left. It'll be back when he takes his team on the field Wednesday night.

A good turnout, a rousing round of cheers and anything else to show Harold and Indians we are behind them 100 per cent, will do a lot for them.

If anyone happens to be looking for Coach Tubgot Jones or any of his assistants these days, they'll probably find them huddled together in conference on things to come in football this season.

They are getting themselves ready for the opening of football training at Memorial Stadium Monday morning.

Schedules for each training period and each game just everything leading up to it are being worked out so there will be no lost motion.

Looking over one schedule for an early season game we noted in bold letters a "WIN GAME" in the schedule continued with "Return to hotel, eat supper," etc.

An outlook like that is what we need more of here in Midland when it comes to football.

Six freestyle swimmers from Japan are on their way to the United States to enter the AAU meet in Los Angeles. They are the first group of athletes to enter International competition since before the war.

In typical MacArthur style, General Doug gave them a bit of his advice before they departed.

"If you lose be composed. If you win be modest."

Mac should know about this swimming. He made a famous "swim" from Corregidor to Australia once. Remember?

Comes a letter from a citizen of Odessa notifying us that the Bronchos will be out to get 'em again in football this season.

The fellow brought up every ball player who has ever done an Odessa football suit in laying the foundation for his claims of how Odessa exceeds Midland in everything.

According to his figures and calculations, the Odessa starting lineup should average 162 pounds this year.

Bangaway Is Top Favorite In Major Harness Classic

GOSHEN, N. Y.—(AP)—The 24th Hambletonian Stake, the world's most famous harness racing classic, comes up for decision Wednesday at picturesque Good Time Park.

With 18 three-year-olds, cream of the trotting business, entered, the old timer were predicting a wide open affair such as this quaint old Orange County village probably has never witnessed before.

An expected crowd of 20,000 or more probably will establish Bangaway the 3 to 1 favorite, despite his racing luck draw from post position which gave him the No. 18 spot in the bulky field.

Owned by C. M. Saunders of Toledo, Ohio, Bangaway was never sharper, having won four straight races. The Saunders colt will have Ralph Baldwin at the reins.

In nine of his major league years, Ty Cobb collected more than 200 hits.

Optimists Outlast Lions Club 18 To 15

By BERRY APPLING

Just for the record, the Optimist Club edged the Lions Club 18 to 15 Tuesday night in a baseball contest in Indian Park—but that isn't important. To be listed as important was the entertainment furnished some 600 fans who came to see their favorites and the 100-odd dollars taken in through contributions for charity.

Only 10 errors went into the record book through generosity of the scorer as 85 men paraded to the plate for official times at bat—not counting 16 who gained first through walks and six hit by pitched balls. Thirty-four hits were garnered, 16 by the winners and 18 by the Lions.

Ability to get their hits when they counted most, combined with six errors committed by their opponents, enabled the Optimists to jump into a first inning lead that never changed hands throughout the game.

Lions Trail
The Lions trailed by only one run in the first, second, third and seventh innings before the Optimist nine pulled away with a three-run spurt in their half of the eighth.

Starting mound assignments were handled by Joe Roberson of the Lions and Red Roberts of the Optimists. Roberson allowed 12 hits and 15 runs in seven innings while Roberts gave up 16 hits and 10 runs in six and one-third innings on the mound. After the two starters were relieved everybody pitched—well, at least several. So many in fact, the scorers never did get the names straight during the remaining innings.

Players were changing positions so often and new ones coming in during the later innings that radio announcers, reporters and scorers were repeating the old Abbot and Costello routine, "Who is on first. No, who is on second? etc." Topping it all was the third base replacement for the Lions in the ninth. The press box and radio booth were trying to find out who the new replacement was when he was pointed out as Claude Watkins, who only the inning before had been acting as third base umpire.

Leading Batters
Heavy stick for the winners was furnished by Meyers, who drove in six runs and scored two while getting four hits in as many official times at bat. Bill Stalling contributed the power in the Lion attack with four hits in five appearances to drive in four runs and account for two himself.

Players in the game for the Optimists were Dick McKnight, Lou Guthrie, Ted White, Bob Wayne, John Grimland, Dick McGowan, Gene Purvis, Jones, Wemple, Holman, Love, Red Roberts and Meyers.

For the Lions were Copper Daugherty, Joe Roberson, Bill Stallings, Maurice Cox, Roy Terry, Delbert Downing, "Doc" Rae, "Doc" Ellis, "Doc" Scott, Ted Watkins, Al Chase, Cecil Hodges, Jim Nobles, Carson, Kitchens, Duncan, Butler, Murry and Claude Watkins.

The score: R H E
Optimists — 343 031 130—18 15
Lions — 343 000 510—15 18 6

WT-NM League—
Double Win Moves Abilene Closer To High-Flying Dukes

By The Associated Press

The West Texas-New Mexico League race rolls into its final month with little settled. Clovis appears out of contention for a first division spot, being eight and one-half games away from fourth place, but all the other clubs still are very much in the race.

Tuesday night top-running Albuquerque beat Lamesa 10-7 but lost ground to second-place Abilene, which swept a double-header with Clovis.

Don Ferrarese turned in some fine relief hurling as Albuquerque tallied for five runs in the seventh and victory over Lamesa.

Abilene took the first game from Clovis 7-3 with a six-run spurge in the sixth and capped the nightcap 8-6 by scoring five tallies in the first three innings. Ortiz and Roca limited Clovis to eight hits.

Lubbock downed Borger 10-7 with Manager Jackie Sullivan blasting a three-run homer in the eighth to furnish the margin.

Pampa bombarded Amarillo with 23 hits and a 15-7 victory. The game was halted in the eighth by rain. George Payte won his tenth pitching victory.

The 23 home runs which won the National League championship for Ralph Kiner in 1946 comprised the lowest winning total since 1926.

Girl Against The Channel— People Have Crossed English Channel By Many Queer Methods, Shirley Discovers

By SHIRLEY MAY FRANCE

(Copyright NEA Service, Inc., 1949)
DOVER, ENGLAND—(NEA)—By the time you read this, I'll have finished almost all the drudgery attached to training for my channel swim—weather permitting.

I mustn't forget those last two words. They've made and ruined channel swimmers for the 73 years they've been keeping records—and probably for centuries before.

"I've finished my final speed practice dash, although I almost called it off when a bee stung me just as I was getting into the water. It seemed to hurt me more than bee-stings do back home. Everybody on the beach had some remedy for me, but I settled for iodine."

With my final endurance training swim behind me, I'll only go into the water for sharpening-up swims, while waiting for the weather to be right and for my father and coach to give me the word to go.

I wish I could tell you when that will be but it's that old weather again. I've seen the channel as fast as an ironing board one minute. Ten minutes later there'll be waves crashing on the beach. One minute you can see the lights of Cape Criz Nez in France, 20 miles across. The next minute you can't see beyond the breakwater, only half-mile from shore.

British Know Facts
I wish I could bring some of that old reliable weather around my hometown, Somerset, Mass., over here for a few days.

One British newspaper said the other day that I claimed I could swim the channel on my back. Of course I never said anything like that, but since I've been down here, I've learned that someone once did just that. Just like folks back home know all about baseball and football, the folks around here know all about channel swimming.

From talking to them, I've picked up a few interesting items about what is possibly the world's most historic body of water. In 1862 a man named William Hopkins floated from Dover to Calais with a bundle of straw—on his back.

Another man did it on an air mattress in six hours in 1934. An American named Fowler crossed on water skis in 1878. In 1934, a Frenchman came across in under 14 hours clinging to a one-foot rubber ball.

A Frenchwoman once flied up a bicycle with peddles and rowed across in just over nine hours. People also have crossed in boats drawn by kites, in amphibious automobiles and in lifesaving suits.

But all I want to do is swim it.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Red Sox Nip Yankees 6-3

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the Boston Red Sox ever catch up with the New York Yankees in their season-long American League pennant chase, most of the credit must be given to their much maligned pitching staff.

In the last five weeks, during which time the Red Sox have picked up six and a half games on the Yankees, Boston hurlers have pitched 25 complete games in 34 starts. As a result, they've won 25 of them to whittle their deficit to five and a half games.

On July 4 the Red Sox trailed the leaders by 12 games. Ellis Kinder, the Red Sox' right-handed ace, is the latest to go the route. He finished what he started Tuesday night, beating the Yankees 6-3 for his thirteenth victory against five losses.

Kinder permitted the Yankees 10 hits, including a pair of home runs by Outfielder Hank Bauer, but an early 5-0 lead furnished by Birdie Tebbetts and Ted Williams carried him through.

A note of disappointment was Don DiMaggio's inability to prolong his consecutive game hitting streak. The Red Sox centerfielder, who had hit in 34 consecutive games, was held hitless in five trips to the plate.

Cards, Bums Keep Pace
The triumph, Boston's twelfth in 15 starts in this current home stand, left the third-place Sox still a game behind the Cleveland Indians. The Tribe whipped the St. Louis Browns 9-2 to reduce the Yankees' lead to four and a half games.

Bob Feller gained his fourth straight and tenth victory of the season as the Indians ended a three-game losing streak. Bob sided his own cause with a bases-loaded single in the fifth and a double in the eighth.

The fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics and fifth-place Detroit Tigers won their games to move forward also. The A's, aided by 15 bases on balls, defeated Washington 8-3, and the Tigers walloped the Chicago White Sox 11-5. The A's are now 7 1/2 games behind, the Tigers nine.

Brooklyn and St. Louis continued in their first-place National League deadlock. The Dodgers whipped the Philadelphia Phils 8-1, and the Cardinals won from Cincinnati 4-1. The New York Giants protected their hold on third place by edging out the Boston Braves 4-3. In the only daylight contest, the Pittsburgh Pirates slugged the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

LIKES DIAMOND

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds' freshman outfielding ace, Lloyd Merriman, was drafted by both the Chicago Bears and Los Angeles Dons gridiron teams after a top collegiate football career at Stanford, but passed up the offers in favor of the diamond.

Rendezvous Club Clips Rotary Engineers

The expected and the unexpected happened in Midland Softball League makeup games at Wadley Field Tuesday night.

The Rendezvous Club found enough power to check Rotary Engineers 4 to 3 in a hard-fought contest that was nip and tuck all the way. The Engineers, making a sustained drive for the first division were favored to cop the tilt. Bill Salmon was the winning pitcher.

League-leading Western Plastic rolled over Shell 8 to 0 in the second game with Jack Dunlap on the mound. The win gave the Western nine a tighter grip on first place.

Regular league play continues Wednesday night. Shell takes on Rotary Engineers in the opener and The Reporter-Telegram plays Joe's Gulf in the finale.

After two home stands this year the St. Louis Browns were 20,000 paid admissions behind last year's total.

Finn Metal Worker Is Chronic Sneezer

HELSINKI, FINLAND—(AP)—Finnland is not to be sneezed at when it comes to sneezing. A man named Pelkonen, of Tampere, Finland, has been sneezing for half of his 40 years—not without interruption, to be sure. For two or three days, maybe a week, he is normal. Then it starts, and he sneezes 1,500-2,000 times a day. The sneezing is accompanied by a bad headache and some fever. Dr. Eric Nyberg, of a Helsinki hospital, explained that Pelkonen, a metal-worker, appears to enjoy generally good health, but the sneezing recurs without fail—and Pelkonen returns to the hospital. There he is put to bed and given "asthma" treatment. The affliction, the doctor said, is an allergy, a form of nasal catarrh, caused by the veins in the nose.

Steak House Wins, Keeps Customers

Winning customers and holding them has become a knack with the Steak House, 611 West Wall Street, but the management says there is no great secret to this. It is just a matter of consistently good food and superb service, they will tell you, and this is available 24 hours a day. Therefore, breakfast, dinner, supper and that late snack all can be obtained at the Steak House. Supervision of the meals being prepared is strict as is the attention given to courtesy and fast service. The Steak House can seat many patrons and despite the restaurant's popularity it is not necessary to wait long to place an order, even at the rush hours. There are tables, booths and a lengthy short-order counter. Gains Popularity The Steak House has been serving Midland and area several years and still is gaining in popularity every day. Many persons traveling the Permian Basin make this their eating headquarters. Families also are finding that a meal at the Steak House is the next thing to mom's cooking. Many prefer to bring the whole family, and friends, here for Sunday dining and on special occasions. There is a wide variety of foods on the menu every day and the same courteous service and well-prepared eats are the rule rather than the exception.

Commissions Open In Naval Reserve

Lt. C. W. Chapman, of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Dallas, stated during an interview here Tuesday that the Navy is interested in having Navy veterans, who since their separation have returned to college, apply for a commission in the Naval Reserve. The Navy feels these men are well qualified for commission due to their past experiences in the Navy and their completed education. When asked about active duty with the Navy, Lieutenant Chapman stated two weeks training could be requested by those men and women in the reserve through the Commandant, 8th Naval District in New Orleans.

Lieutenant Chapman said that for detailed information, Midlanders could correspond with the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Room 1904, Santa Fe Building Dallas, Texas.

Several Envoys To Russia Are Women

MOSCOW—(AP)—Women in recent years have been playing an important role in Moscow's foreign diplomatic life. First of the women ambassadors to the USSR was Madame Pandit, now Indian Ambassador in Washington.

She was followed by Golda Meir, first Israel minister to the Soviet Union. Then came the young and pretty Ida Gamcko de Benavides, as charge d'affaires, for Venezuela. Latest of the women diplomats to Moscow is S. D. Blagayaeva, new Bulgarian Ambassador.

This will be the coming thing in large passenger ships and luxury liners, according to speedboat designer and manufacturer Gar Wood. It's the Venturi, Wood's newest design, shown in Detroit. The twin-hulled yacht is said to be able to ride the roughest type of water and still maintain its even keel. Wood says the unique "tunnel" construction pockets air on which the craft rides, preventing rough sailing even in heavy seas at high speed.

Florida Ex-Convict Jailed For Practice As Medical Doctor

HOUSTON—(AP)—An escaped Florida convict, who used his unfinished medical school training to practice medicine at Groveton, Texas, was captured here Sunday night.

A pharmaceutical salesman's curiosity led to the arrest of Jerry Burnett, 29.

Burnett voluntarily told police he fled from the Florida State Prison at Raiford a year and a half ago while serving a two-year term on hot checks charges.

Police had no inkling of the prison record and asked Burnett why he volunteered the information.

"I just couldn't stand the suspense any longer," he said.

Police arrested Burnett after receiving a call from E. L. Carlson, 29, Houston pharmaceutical salesman.

Carlson had run across Burnett in Groveton under the name of "Dr. John T. Snyder."

A few days ago Carlson heard the man had disappeared after the sheriff asked to see his medical license.

Tuesday night Carlson spotted Burnett standing in front of a downtown hotel. Carlson followed the man and kept him in sight until he had opportunity to call police.

Mae West Wows 'Em In Culture Crazy Colorado

CENTRAL CITY, COLO.—(AP)—Brooklyn born Mae West, who says she brought sex out of the back room, is wowing 'em in this state-called "culture crazy Colorado" by a New York critic.

The musty old Central City Opera House, dark 10 months out of the year, is crowded nightly for Mae's saga of sin titled "Diamond Lil." She introduced the play 20 years ago in New York when she was in her middle 30's.

Her scheduled three-week run, which opened July 30, has just been extended another week to meet the demand.

"I've got the feel for this one," she told an interviewer. "This mining town, would have been home grounds for that gal (Diamond Lil). She would have slept while the miners dug the gold out of the hills. Then at night she would have dug the gold out of the miners."

Central City is just over a few 14,000-foot peaks from Aspen, Colo., site of last month's international celebration honoring Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, German philosopher.

It attracted world renowned intellectuals and was one of the summertime events that inspired John Chapman, New York Daily News critic, to dub the state "culture crazy Colorado."

She Has A Name For It

"I call it sculpture," says Artist Jeanette Sherman, 24, of Detroit, as she explains to befuddled visitors to the Modern Art Exposition in Paris the symbolism of her decorative work. She explains, "It has in it the feeling of the sky, the sea, the mountains," and believes it contains all the forms used in sculpture.

City Manager H. A. Thomason reported that the Civil Aeronautics Administration has allocated $30,000 for improvements to the Midland Air Terminal. The city will be required to spend an equal sum in the program to improve runways and the lighting system at the big airfield, and also to raise the control tower higher and improve it.

When the program is completed, the CAA will pay the costs of operating the tower, Thomason asserted.

Kitten Finds Coolest Spot In Neighborhood

CHICAGO—(AP)—During a heat wave a kitten squirmed into a narrow space between two buildings in suburban Glenn Ely. Its cries attracted a crowd. When all else failed, a fireman extricated the cat with a hook attached to a long pole.

Two days later the kitten was back in the same trap. A policeman, using the same tool, fished it out again. But within 48 hours it was in the tight spot again.

Chief of Police Lee Brister made a personal survey of the situation. He peered in the small opening, felt a cool breeze on his face and called off rescue work. The kitten, he decided, was in the most comfortable place in the neighborhood.

and Armed Service Committees.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) Tuesday proposed a 50-50 split in the cash and contract authority to carry out the re-arming of the North Atlantic Pact nations.

But Johnson said his staff has advised him that 80 per cent of the $1,150,000,000 for Western Europe must be in cash. The remainder can be in authority to make contracts which will be paid for in cash later, he said.

After Johnson completed his testimony, Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff, took over. He said that if the American people want to use the advantage gained in the "cold war," they must move quickly at establishing a long range plan of defense.

Bradley and the military heads of the Navy and Air Force, Adm. Louis Denfeld and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, have just returned from a 10-day trip to Europe, where they conferred with military chiefs of Atlantic Pact nations.

"Your joint chiefs of staff have examined the defense concept of the Western European Union and have found it is in accordance with our strategic thinking," Bradley said.

"Exhaustion of our moral and material resources would be the result," he said. "For that reason, the joint chiefs of staff urge the enactment of this legislation."

Bradley vigorously opposed any reduction in the proposed amount. He said every item in the bill had been carefully considered and had been found essential.

Warned to be armed against wild dogs.

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—The Greenland commission of the Danish parliament, which will visit Greenland this Summer, has been warned not to go there unarmed.

An official announcement called on the members to take big wooden clubs with them. The authorities are not afraid of hostile Greenlanders, but of wild dogs in the northernmost settlements.

Crazy Room Keeps Music Sorta Sane

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK—The newest echo chamber, a room that makes the hollow sounds you hear on radio and phonographs, looks like a schizophrenic's dream. Split personalities, when they draw a design, exaggerate size and proportions beyond all reality.

The engineers of sound of the RCA Victor Division, directed by Alfred A. Pulley, have achieved the same kind of design by careful calculation of how to make echoes. This is the chamber used to make Vaughn Monroe's recording of "Riders in the Sky," and Sammy Kay's rendition of "Four Winds and Seven Seas."

The echo room's walls are built with the same rounded half-columns used in the world's finest music and radio studios. In the good rooms the columns are symmetrically placed.

Like Crazy Room

But the echo chamber reminds you of a crazy room in which the rafters run wrong, side wall beams are horizontal where they should be vertical and vertical supports are misplaced so that they could not support anything. No surface is parallel with any other.

ed value of $15,000,000," the announcement stated. "The new corporation has assumed the payment of substantially all of the liabilities of J. C. Hawkins."

As part of the financial program of the Delta Gulf Drilling Company, the Delta Drilling Company and Joe Zeppa will advance to the new corporation on a long-term basis, substantial cash and credit, in excess of $1,500,000 as working capital.

The Delta Gulf Drilling Company will pay off all of the indebtedness assumed under the agreement with J. C. Hawkins except that to banks and large trade creditors which is on a long term basis.

To Continue in West Texas

The new Delta Gulf Drilling Company will continue to operate its drilling rigs in West Texas and Southwest Texas, the Gulf Coast of Texas and Louisiana and in Mississippi, supervised from its branch office in Houston.

Delta Drilling Company plans to continue operating its drilling rigs in East Texas, North Louisiana, Arkansas, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Montana.

Delta Drilling Company maintains district offices in Shreveport, La., Evansville, Ind., and Denver. The main office of the Delta Drilling Company is at Tyler, Texas, and the main office of the Delta Gulf Drilling Company will be Dallas.

Zeppa said the company may decide to sell a part of the drilling rigs and also a part of the undeveloped leases and royalties.

Vice presidents of the Delta Gulf Drilling Company are Chris Zeppa of Tyler, W. W. Hawkins of Lafayette, La., and Clarence Iohman of Houston.

Air Force Member Held After Shooting Of Widowed Mother

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Battling back an angry crowd of about 150 persons, police early Wednesday took a 24-year-old Air Force member into custody for questioning in the killing of his widowed mother.

William Bucarich, 24, home on leave from the Air Force, was covered with blood and in tears when police arrested him on the stair-lead leading to his second-floor apartment home.

Neighbors ashort time before had found his mother, Mrs. Mary Bucarich, 49, dying of a revolver bullet wound near her heart.

Police Lieutenant Jack Duxey said Bucarich claimed his revolver went off accidentally while he was showing it to his mother. The neighbors told Duxey they heard the young man quarrelling with the widow just before the shot was fired.
