

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1949, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Ban of airplane junkets backfired badly; Cabinet bigwigs use Army planes for personal trips as much as congressmen; Steve Early soft-pedaled investigation of air trips.

WASHINGTON — There was a lot more than meets the eye behind the way Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson suddenly pulled in his horns about the airplane junketing of congressmen.

Real fact is that if Johnson had stuck to his guns and Congress had done any investigating, the executive branch of the government would have been shown up for private joy-riding perhaps more than Congress. For Johnson uses an Army plane almost every weekend to visit his home in Clarkburg, W. Va., while Secretary of the Navy Matthews uses a Navy plane to fly back to his home in Omaha on weekends.

That is why wise Steve Early, undersecretary of National Defense called Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois and asked him to arrange a conference with Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, who had been rebuffed by Johnson regarding an airplane junket for his committee.

At the off-the-record session which followed, Early told Senator Thomas that Johnson had not seen the letter written to him, which was written by an underlying, and that Johnson didn't even know about it. Hush-Hush On Air Junkets

Early quite frankly admitted that there had been some abuse of airplane junketing by bigwigs in the government. He also reminded Thomas that any investigation would bring out some equal abuse by congressmen. The Army, he said, even had requests from congressmen calling for airplane rides home on the pretext of official business.

Therefore, proposed the undersecretary of Defense, both sides should call it quits. And in the future, he said, the Air Forces would take the word of any congressman, when he wanted a plane, that it was for official business.

Senator Thomas was delighted. A few days before, he had called for a report on every special plane used by the White House, by the secretary of Defense, and by every other cabinet member. But now he accepted Early's compromise and called off his investigation.

So in the future it looks like both the executive branch and Congress can junket pretty much as they please.

Pat Hurley Set Fad
The man who originally started junketing in Army planes was Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley back in the Hoover administration. At that time it was a Democratic Congress which protested. Especially when Hurley flying to a meeting of Indiana editors, made an emergency landing and smashed up his plane, Democratic congressmen howled to high heaven. They didn't mind the possible loss of a Republican secretary of War, but they did object to the loss of a $72,000 plane.

Since then the cost of airplane construction has increased so that the smash-up of the big transports which carry the cabinet would be nearer $1,000,000.

Since then also, Pat Hurley's ideas of airplane junkets haven't changed, and the War Department still has a $30,000 bill which it's been trying to collect from the State Department for the use of a special Army plane when he was ambassador to China and insisted on a private plane to carry him home.

Since then, other cabinet officers—though Democrats—have caught up with Hurley. For instance, the War Department sent the Interior Department a $16,000 bill for the personal trip of Secretary of the Interior Krug to Japan, carrying Krug's father and his personal physician, Dr. Roy L. Sexton, who, because of Krug's health, frequently accompanies him. The Army felt that air—Krug had made this something of a family deal, the In-

Ethiopian Teachers From Many Nations

ADDIS ABABA—(AP)—The Ethiopian schools' personnel resembles a miniature "United Nations". The 240 foreign teachers supplementing the local staff in Ethiopian schools include Englishmen, Frenchmen, Canadians, Americans, Egyptians, Hindus, Swedes and Norwegians.

The Russians, it is believed, would like their contribution of teachers, but seem to be prevented from doing so by their weakness in languages—English is the official school language here and all the foreign teachers know English well. Education is number one problem in this East African nation.

Enrollment figures, still incomplete, are reliably estimated at near 100,000. This compares with 50,000 in 1947-48. Ethiopia's literacy rate is unknown. At one time, not many years ago, illiteracy was estimated by a foreign educator at close to 100 per cent. This figure has been reduced during recent years.

Created for Charm and Children

Here's a house that offers the luxury of sweeping contours and the utility of spacious terraces for children's play and adult recreation—all on a lot only 76 feet wide. Fieldstone walls and chimney, harmonizing with gracefully-battened plywood, give the exterior a permanent tidiness. The rear terrace, with sunken sand pit, is sheltered on three sides and has easy access to kitchen window buffet. Each large bedroom has two closets and is cross-ventilated. Four picture windows in the living room and dining all overlook both garden and front terrace. Sketch plans are available by writing Good Housekeeping magazine.

Insulate House During Erection, Engineer Suggests

For maximum savings, both in the size and cost of the heating plant and in cost of the insulation, the best time to insulate a house is while it is being built, according to engineers of the Construction Research Bureau, New York clearing house for building information. Installed cost of full-thick batts or blankets of mineral wool amounts to only about three percent of total construction cost. When a home completely is protected with this material in walls and roof, a smaller heating system is required with a cost saving for this equipment of 25 to 30 percent.

Firm Fastening

The fireproof mineral wool fits snugly between studs, joists and rafters and the tough paper vapor barrier on one side of the batts or blankets provides a flange for firm fastening to the framing members. Installation during construction is rapid since the space to be insulated is accessible. The batts or blankets are put in place as soon as plumbing and wiring are finished and before wall and ceiling finish is applied.

Bad joints in overhead electric power lines now can be detected easily by an instrument used on the surface of the earth. The instrument is an infra-red detector, technically known as a bolometer.

Midlander Reports To TBA Sponsor Benefits Of Workshop Attended At Bishop College

The educational program for negro children in Texas is on the upswing and one of the biggest boosts being given is the annual Cooperative Community Education Workshop for colored educators. Held this year at Bishop College in Marshall, the Eighth Cooperative Community Education Workshop furnished teachers training in every field. Cooperating in sponsoring the session that extended from June 6 to July 9 were: The Hogg Foundation, Austin; Prairie View A&M College, Prairie View; Samuel Houston College, Austin; Texas College, Tyler; Tillotson College, Austin; Wiley College, Marshall; Texas Tuberculosis Association, Austin; Texas State University, Houston; and Bishop College.

Attending the Workshop from Midland was Mrs. Cassie Mae Doyle, teacher in the Carver School kindergarten. She returned bearing the highest of praise for the month-long session.

The Workshop, as a cooperative project for the Negro Colleges of Texas, had its inception at Bishop. Plans for its initiation were formulated by a joint committee representing Bishop College and Texas College, and the first session was sponsored by those two institutions in the Summer of 1942. The session was divided into two continuous three-week periods: the first assigned to the Jackson School in Smith County; and second, to the Karnack School in Harrison County.

Cost Of Home Today Includes Many Items Unknown Before War

When house shoppers comment sadly that even the "economy" houses of today are priced above homes of comparable size built in 1939 they should realize that they are getting many comfort-giving features that were not even in existence before the war, John E. Haines, vice president of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, said.

To prove his point, Haines took inventory of the new improvements contained in a home completed recently in Minneapolis. He found 10 innovations in equipment or materials that were not available 10 years ago. All of them contribute to better living.

For example, the house has radiant panel heating. This system was scarcely known in this country a decade ago and the automatic control equipment used, Electronic Modflow, was perfected during the war. It was first used to regulate airplane cabin temperature.

Haines found that the plus items included a picture-window glazed with double-pane glass and a fireplace with double opening. Devices in the kitchen alone that previously had to be purchased extra but now come as standard equipment included an awning-type window that opens with the turn of a crank, a "housewife's secretary" which serves as the office of the household, ventilating fan, mar-proof table tops and outlet for a plug-in telephone.

House-Keeping Eased By Modern Design, Materials And Methods

How to cut down house-cleaning tasks has received much attention from architects, interior designers and building materials manufacturers, with the result that it is easier today to keep homes clean and neat.

Labor-saving and cost-saving equipment and construction ranges from automatic dishwashers to the fact that walls and ceilings of a home insulated with full-thick mineral wool remain cleaner longer, require redecoration one-third less often.

Simple Design

Washable paints and wallpaper, available in any desired color, smooth-surfaced flooring materials, and the design of the house itself help cut housework.

Simply-designed interiors with all dirt-catching molding and ornate trim discarded in favor of plain, smooth surfaces have become a hallmark of smart postwar home design that lightens house-keeping.

Rounded corners where baseboards join the floor and kitchen cabinets with curved interior corners make cleaning easier.

The picture window, although its glass area is greater, actually has lessened the labor of window washing because it is not divided into a multitude of tiny panes with hard-to-get-at corners, as was the old-fashioned window.

Dirt Kept Off Walls

Lath-marks so often seen on walls and ceilings of old houses rarely appear today in homes insulated with mineral wool. This material keeps surface temperatures within a degree or two of air temperature and dust-laden moisture is not deposited as rapidly as when the walls and ceilings are several degrees colder than interior air. Filters in the new warm air furnaces keep basement dust out of the living quarters.

The kitchen ventilating fan, once found only in high-priced homes, moves grease-laden air out of the kitchen before it can collect on walls and other surfaces.

New waxes, especially designed for various kinds of floors, wood and metal work, permit these to be quickly wiped clean with a damp cloth, while the many new soaps and detergents also contribute importantly to easier house-cleaning.

Two Midlanders Get TNG Commissions

Two Midlanders, William M. Neill and Paul H. Jones, Jr. have received appointments as second lieutenant in the Texas National Guard.

The announcement was made by the Adjutant General's office.

Neill and Jones are members of Troop B, 194th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron. Neill is a motor officer and Jones is a platoon leader.

Outlay For Home Purchase Often Less Than Rent

NEW YORK — Under today's long-term, low-interest mortgages, the monthly outlay in buying a home often is less than rent, even after figuring year-to-year maintenance expenditures, says the Construction Research Bureau, New York clearing house for building information.

Since no down payments are demanded from war veterans by some builders, and initial payments required from other buyers are a smaller percentage of the purchase price than in previous years of building activity, home ownership is rising throughout the nation.

The family who buys a $10,000 home with a $2,000 down payment and executes a 5 per cent mortgage for 25 years pays less than $65 per month. This includes $46.80 on interest and principal, an estimated $12 for property taxes, and $2.50 for property insurance and water.

Monthly outlay of a veteran buying the same home with no down payment is estimated at between $65 and $70.

No fixed estimate on maintenance of a house ever has been made, but many mortgage lenders say that one per cent of the cost of the house per year is a fair figure. This largely is offset by allowable income tax deductions for mortgage interest.

Wooden Roof Shingles Should Be Stained

Wooden shingles on a roof should be stained. Moisture will get under the paint film as it wears off, causing the wood to rot. Preservative stains are available in many colors and since they penetrate the wood, the danger of rot is avoided.

Shingles used as siding on exterior walls can be painted without harm because water drains off the side walls before it can seep under the shingles.

Oil paint should not be applied to shingles which have been stained, since most stains will bleed through the paint. Best procedure is to cover stained shingles with one coat of aluminum paint, then apply the oil pigment.

Mrs. Lenard Leftwich

Whitley-Leftwich Vows Are Repeated

Helen Whitley became the bride of Lenard Leftwich in a candle-light ceremony in the Calvary Baptist Church Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitley, and Leftwich, the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Leftwich. Both families live in Midland.

The couple stood before a candelabrum holding white tapers, with an alternate arrangement of baskets of white daisies, gladioli and greenery and candelabra on either side.

Sister Is Maid Of Honor LaVerne Whitley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. J. W. Leftwich attended his brother as best man.

Thelma Leftwich, sister of the bridegroom, and Jo Marie Perry of San Angelo, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. Ushers were Arne Leftwich, brother of the bridegroom, and H. C. Whitley of Hobbs, N. M., uncle of the bride.

Wanda Burnside played the Bridal Chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" for the professional and recessional, on the piano. Gene White of Bryan sang "I Love You Truly,"

Jacobs - Bond, and "Because," D'Hardelot, before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte, after the ceremony.

Wears Teal Blue Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a teal blue two-piece suit of bengaline with brown accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with a gardenia tied with white satin streamers in lovers' knots.

Marfa Club Invites Anniversary Guests

An invitation to the Golden Anniversary celebration of the Marfa History Club has been received by Federated Club Women of Midland, who are asked to respond individually if they plan to attend. The invitations were addressed to presidents of clubs, including the Midland Woman's Club.

Members and their husbands are invited to the anniversary party, which will be held in the First Christian Church at Marfa at 8 p.m. September 28. Replies are to be made to Mrs. A. L. Baugh, Box 997 at Marfa.

General meetings are held each month, when programs on current topics are presented and guest speakers are heard often.

Study groups meet twice monthly in the homes of the members. These groups are open to national and associate members, and any other interested women. Probable groups for the new season are international relations, contemporary literature, recent graduates and social studies.

Two new groups are being formed. One will study Spanish with Mrs. Carl Branson as chairman; and another, creative writing with Mrs. Brandon Resa as chairman.

Persons interested in these groups are invited to call Mrs. Ray Seifert, membership chairman, phone number 1360, for further information.

Two Duchesses To Texas Rose Festival Named From Midland

Duchesses to the 1949 Texas Rose Festival in Tyler will include two Midland girls. Patsy Ann Patteson, left, has been chosen as the Duchess of West Texas and Marylee Cowden, right, as the Duchess of Midland.

Both will be students in the University of Texas this year, and will go from Austin to Tyler for the festival of September 29-October 1. Miss Cowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cowden, 1100 West Illinois Street, attended Gulf Park College in Gulfport, Miss., last year.

Further Observance of the National Society of DAR, will be observed in the luncheon program. The guest speaker will be Reagan H. Legg, Midland attorney, whose subject is "The Constitution."

A patriotic theme will be used for the luncheon, stressed in table decorations of red, white and blue flowers. Mrs. Frank Elkin, telephone 1499-J-2, is in charge of reservations. Approximately 45 members are expected to attend.

Other attention is being given to Constitution Week by the chapter, which joins the national organization in the belief that all citizens of the United States should be helped to realize the value of the document which has been described as the greatest piece of civic literature ever written.

At the request of the chapter, Mayor William B. Neely has proclaimed September 10-17 as Constitution Week here. A member, Mrs. John McKinley, will present a broadcast "The Great Truths About the Constitution," at 10:05 a.m. Wednesday over station KGRS.

Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, Constitution Week chairman for the chapter, plans to have parts of the constitution read at the meetings.

Children's League Thanks B&PW Club For Adding To Fund A timely gift was received with thanks by the Children's Service League at its meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. Alan Leeper. It was a cash contribution of $107.20 from the Business and Professional Women's Club, the sum raised in a magazine subscription campaign sponsored by the club.

Present need for the extra cash was shown in reports of recent calls on the league for clothing needed by school children, and the statement that $110 has been spent on new blue-jean shirts to supplement the stock of used clothing in order to outfit a number of children who would otherwise have inadequate school clothing.

The league's clothing room will be kept open on Tuesday afternoons to distribute clothing. It was announced. The garments are given to children whose need has been determined in investigation by league members.

Woman's Club Ready To Begin New Year

Looking forward to an exciting year with a larger membership, building plans reaching past the tentative to the blueprint stage, and a member scheduled to be elected head of Texas' Federated Clubs, the Midland Woman's Club will launch its 1949-50 season Thursday.

The Fine Arts Club will be hostess for the first meeting, in the home of Mrs. J. Howard Hodge at 3 p.m. Thursday. All women enrolled in the affiliated clubs, and all individual members of the Woman's Club are invited.

Mrs. J. W. Carroll will be presented as the speaker, to discuss "UNESCO—A People's Agency to Foster International Understanding for Peace." This is the first program on the general subject, "Education for World Understanding," which will be followed in Woman's Club meetings through the year.

Mrs. Carroll, Midland County librarian, is substituting for Mrs. Sam R. Greer of Tyler, who was scheduled to give her own observations of the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization but was unable to attend because of her husband's serious illness.

The hostess Thursday afternoon is the member who is unopposed as a candidate for the presidency of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, and is slated to be elected at the convention in November.

Anticipating this honor to a Midland club woman, the Executive Council of the Woman's Club at a pre-season business session Friday morning voted unanimously to arrange a party in Mrs. Hodge's honor soon after the state convention.

Phoebe Lewis Bride Of Bert Hemphill

A mid-morning wedding ceremony in the Trinity Episcopal Church was read Saturday for Phoebe Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Lewis of Kansas City, Mo., and Bert Hemphill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Hemphill of Midland, by the rector, the Rev. R. J. Snell.

Miss Lewis returned for the wedding to Midland, where she and her family formerly lived and where she attended school. The church was simply decorated for the ceremony with white flowers and greenery.

Before the service, Mrs. Preston Lea played a program of organ music which included three Bach compositions, "In These Is Gladness," "Jesu, Christ, My Treasure" and "To Me and Mine in D Minor"; then "Elevation," "Debat-Possant," "Cantabile," "Frank" and "Dreams," McAmis.

Attending the bride was Janice Knickerbocker, maid of honor, and Susan Hemphill, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid. Ralph Vertrees acted as best man and the ushers were Henry Shaw, Charles Vertrees and Bill Faubion.

A suit of moonstone blue velvet was worn by the bride with coffee brown accessories, and she carried yellow roses. Miss Knickerbocker was dressed in cocoa brown velvet with a tan Indian copper, and Miss Hemphill wore a blue hat with her dark brown faller frock. Both attendants carried bouquets of tallman roses. Mrs. Lewis' gown was of hunter green crepe, with a green orchid corsage, and Mrs. Herbert Hemphill chose a greyed blue frock and a lavender orchid for her corsage.

Reception in Dewey Home The couple received the good wishes of friends at an informal reception given by Mrs. Robert Dewey and Mrs. Charles Vertrees after the wedding in Mrs. Dewey's home. White flowers decorated the table where Mrs. Joseph Edward Keyer (Continued On Page Seven)

Many Exes Guests At All-College Dance

College songs were featured in the music for a dance sponsored by the seven organized ex-student groups of Midland Friday night. It was given in the VFW Hall for exes of all colleges, and approximately 250 couples attended.

Ex-students from each of the seven groups joined in a grand march their own college songs was played by the Jimmie Furnas Orchestra, which supplied music for the dancing.

Mrs. Clyde Pederson, president of the Texas Christian University Exes, was general chairman of arrangements for the all-college dance.

Summer Hair-Dos Continue

Youthful easy-to-keep hair-dos go from summer square dances to school this fall. The simple, side-parted page boy style is still good fashion for the medium length hair of this girl (above). "Winged" effects at the sides and brushed down bangs are easy to swing if hair is short like the girl's shown (upper right). Long hair plaited into thick tight braids and looped and tied (lower right) revives the school-girl look.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Because it's so easy to swing, this summer's "square dance" hair-dos will continue to bounce through grange hall and school gyms this fall.

If you haven't yet looped up your braids, made "wings" of your hair, or folded under the ends of your long bob, square-dance style, it's not too late to swing one of these tricks.

What you need, however, to put a shining new hair-do across is silky hair. If sheen has been bedimmed by too much sunlight, salt water or both, shine up hair before you re-style it. More brush strokes each day will help. So will fingertip massage, if a little pressure is used as you move your hands over your scalp. The use of a liquid shampoo that helps to recondition hair when it's washed will help to bring up gleam.

As for the "square dance" styles here are three from which you can take your pick:

Want to make "wings" of your hair? Re-trim it to an even two-inch length all over. The front hair form bangs, the side-hair-wings, if hair is brushed up and away from the ears. For a soft, curled-shingle effect part hair down the center in back of the head. Then, on with the dance.

A simple page-boy is still the right style for medium long hair. If the hair-ends are tapered, a page boy will shape naturally. Shampoo your hair, then brush while still damp, cupping the hair ends under until they form a page boy roll.

Long hair will look less unruly for school if you wear braids. Part the hair diagonally from the right side of the forehead to the left of the nape. Plait tight braids close to the back part. Each braid gets doubled and secured with a rubber band. A ribbon bow tied to hide the rubber band will also add softness to your face.

Clean-Up Project For Rankin Begins At B&PW Luncheon

RANKIN — "Beautification and Sanitation" for Rankin was announced as the Business and Professional Women's Club project for the year at a luncheon meeting Thursday.

During September the club will endeavor to see that a galvanized disposal can is being used at each home in Rankin. The civics classes of Rankin High School under the direction of G. C. Fitzgerald, teacher, will aid the club in a house to house canvass obtaining the signature of each person who will agree to buy one of the large covered garbage cans. This will be followed up by a working plan for garbage collection.

Plans for the beautification contest will be announced during September. The contest will continue given at the end of that period. It through May of 1950 with prizes is planned to have a committee to inspect contestants' premises in September and again in May. Awards will be made on the basis of the most improved yards and premises, as well as the best kept, the neatest and cleanest premises surrounding business places.

A safety campaign will be conducted through the club's health and safety committee. Mary Frank Fitzgerald is chairman of this committee.

Men guests at the luncheon pledged their support and that of the organizations they represented.

Lelia Workman, president welcomed Judge G. H. Fisher, Mayor J. P. Rankin, Clay Taylor, Stanley Eddins, Hamilton Still and G. C. Fitzgerald.

New Members
Betty Hodge, Dee Rankin, Martha Taylor, Elsie Runyan and Lucile Blount were elected to membership during the business session. Clara Hill was appointed decoration chairman for the next quarter-year.

Announcement was made of a night meeting to be held September 23, at which time all women members of the Rankin school faculty will be honored guests.

Others attending included Gladys Carter, Leah Johnson, Clara Hill, Opal Nix, Maggie Taylor, Lelia King, Ellen Moore, Elizabeth Rains, Edna Maye Patton, Louise Murchison, Mary Ann Workman, Ruth Holcomb, Rosalie Schiller, Doris Clemens, Myrna Holman, Leola Hurn, Mary Ann Workman and Zola McSpadden.

Scarf Acts As Hair-dryer

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Who would have ever thought that a hair-dryer and a pretty fetching kerchief which a woman could tie over her wet locks and wear to town?

That's what American know-how has brought about. A triangular scarf with moisture-absorbing crystals quilt-stitched between two layers of fabric makes a so-called "thirsty kerchief." Tied over freshly-shampooed locks or over hairpin-lanced pin curls, hair dries underneath this concealing kerchief in half the normal time.

Masquerading as a gay peppermint striped kerchief, this girl's scarf is really a moisture-absorbing, scientific hair-dryer.

So determined were its makers to turn this hair-dryer into a fashionable accessory that famed hat designer Lily Dache was brought in to style the kerchief.

Results are high-styled prints—peppermint stripes, polka dots and other colorful motifs—and a variety of smart designs. Any one of these a woman can tie on and wear with perfect confidence to tea, bridge or luncheon while her hair dries underneath.

Experts Detect Polio Incidence Wide-Spread Rather Than Series Concentrated Outbreaks

Medical experts at the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, who have been charting the targets of the polio virus since January 1, detect a change in the incidence pattern of the disease this year. Instead of a series of sharp, concentrated outbreaks in specific localities, as in former years, 1949 has brought widespread incidence to almost every section of the country, they declare.

At epidemic headquarters, where reports pour in from all parts of the nation round-the-clock, two large maps tell the story.

Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, National Foundation medical director, pointed to the map where clusters of pins, each with a number on its head, indicate the number of 1948 polio cases.

"That's last year," he explained. "North Carolina, California, Texas. All hit heavily in the country's largest epidemic since 1916. Those were the 'hot spots' last year."

He motioned to another map, this year's. There were few "hot spots. Most of the map looked like a porcupine's back, with pins indicating cases almost everywhere.

"That's why this year's epidemic will cost hundreds of thousands, maybe millions more than last year's," he explained. "So many cities have polio that their nurses cannot be sent out to rural sections where statistics are short. Equipment we were able to borrow from areas where incidence was low last year is needed today for local patients. New equipment, mainly respirators and hot pack machines, has had to be provided constantly for our six regional equipment depots."

Disease is Changing

"You can't truthfully call it 'infantile' paralysis," he said. "It is becoming less and less infantile, striking more and more adults each year, although the bulk of cases still falls in the below-16 age group."

In 1916, Dr. Van Riper added, only 3.7 per cent of the victims were more than 15 years of age. This rose to seven per cent in 1931, 15 per cent in 1944, and 25 per cent last year. Eighteen per cent of the 1948 patients were more than 20. The economic problem for adult patients is even more serious than for children, for in addition to meeting the high costs of medical care, adults may suffer loss of earning power for long periods of time. Many have been aided in full or in part by National Foundation Chapters.

The National Foundation's resources have been further tapped by increased medical care costs, he said.

"This is the high cost of living in its most literal sense—the amount in costs to keep a victim alive so he may recover," he declared. "Our records show that one year's treatment for a patient may cost $2,000 or more. For a respirator patient the cost often runs to $10,000."

The cost of care in dollars is less important than its cost in human terms, he emphasized.

Rather than curtail any part of the services made possible through March of Dimes funds, the National Foundation is now asking for dimes and dollars to help provide continued care for patients throughout the United States.

Midlander Member Of Helicopter Squadron

Charles W. Caldwell, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Caldwell of 942 North Dallas of Midland, is attached to Navy Helicopter Squadron One based at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Miramar, Calif.
 Services provided by the helicopter squadron include: air-sea rescue with the helicopter hovering over one spot and hoisting a pilot from the water or ground; photography, delivery of mail or personnel to ships underway; general observation for amphibious or under-water demolition training; and flights to areas inaccessible to other aircraft.
 A leftover egg white may be used in a chilled coffee drink. To make it mix two tablespoons of sugar with two teaspoons of instant soluble coffee and a cup and a half of ice-cold milk. Beat the egg white until it is stiff enough to stand in peaks that tip over slightly when the beater is slowly withdrawn, then mix the beaten white with the coffee-milk. This will serve two.

Zippers Are Jam-Proof Now

Fashion accessories with trick fastenings are inspired by new jam-proof zipper. A small slipped-across pocket delivers "mad-money" without a hitch from each of these gold corduroy whip-stitched mittens (upper left). A zip-apart operation makes this red suede and black Persian lamb carry-all (lower left) a two-purpose bag. Unzipped from the center red panels, the daytime bag becomes an all-black Persian evening bag. Zipped pockets at the hip line of this girl's plaid wool stole add interest to the three-piece ensemble of bright plaid and black velveteen.
 By EPSIE KINARD
 NEA Fashion Editor
NEW YORK—News in zippers is that they're jam-proof. The comedian who kides the plight of the zipper-caught lady will have to find a new joke. What's going to cure "zipper-itis" is a pull-tab that turns like a key to release zipper teeth that run amok and catch in fabric.
 After the key is turned to un-snag fabric it rotates back to its normal operating position. Then the slider resumes its original function of meshing teeth and closing openings in clothes.
 Creating the gadget's perfection, two top-notch designers have keyed new fashions to new key zippers. Now that there can be no hitch in their trick closings, Peg Newton key-zips the pockets of a cord-tied stole of black, white and red plaid. She ensembles this with matching plaid skirt and a black velveteen blouse.
 Irma Kigere designs a twice-performing zip-apart bag. Panels of red suede, zipped in between top and bottom bands of black

TEEN TALK
 By VIVIAN BROWN
 AP newsfeatures

Hold everything, brown-haired girls, before putting that touch of henna or peroxide in your rinse water. Not only the new Junior Miss America, but her two runners-up have brown hair.
 Carolyn Rudy, of Bluffton, Ind., the winner, sang and strolled her way to the title. The 17-year-old high school girl grabbed the crown on the strength of her beauty and piano playing, singing and baton twirling. So get busy with your bagpipes, girls, if you want to compete for the crown next year. It's not enough to just be plain old beautiful these days. And remember your diet, too—the five-foot-five Junior Queen measures 34 bust, 24 waist 34 hips—good measurements in any glamor league.
Thinks About School
 Did the title go to Carolyn's head? Absolutely, not. All she is thinking about is going back to high school where she plans to study journalism. One of her contest prizes is a scholarship to a New York theatrical school.
 If you want to avoid hobbling around like an old lady when you are 30, choose your shoes with care now. Or maybe you already are having little troublesome warnings such as a small toe that curls, or a corn or a bunion or a callous.
 Podiatrists say that most of their footsore patients blame their foot ills on wearing ill-fitting shoes in their teens. Some girls are ashamed to wear large shoes for fear it will cramp their style, but cramping their feet is still worse punishment. Maybe we'll blame it on the poets for lauding the girl with tiny feet, and perhaps we've played up Cinderella far too much. But it certainly is no disgrace to have big feet these days. Girls are bigger and it goes with size. And wouldn't a big girl look silly with itty bitty feet?
Not All Child's Fault
 Large scale foot examinations of New York City school children, made by podiatrists in cooperation with the city health department showed appalling results. Eighty-five per cent of the 350,000 youngsters examined to date are afflicted with foot ailments caused by incorrect foot wear say the foot specialists.
 Of course it's not all their fault. Mothers often insist that girls wear hand-me-downs that are too small or too large. But some teen-agers' foot defects were caused by the habit of wearing high-heeled shoes which pitch body weight forward overstretching muscles and tendons. Lots of them insist on wearing party shoes on the slightest provocation.
 It's not necessary these days to go in for this brand of grown-up glamor. Fancy shoes just make you look silly and over-dressed, besides all the damage they do to your feet. Sensible shoes no longer are ugly as they were when Mom was a girl. Even laced oxfords with leather uppers and soles recommended by orthopedic surgeons and foot experts for school wear are pretty.
Saddle Shoes Are
 Besides oxfords, there are saddle shoes, Mary Janes, monk-toed types, bluchers and a whole range of dressy shoes, Mary Janes, monk-toed types, ment in the form of buckles, laces, ghillie ties, ankle straps. All of these have leather soles needed for support.

Mrs. Whitley chose an aqua gaudine suit with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of navy crepe. Both had corsages of white carnations.
Reception Is Held
The fellowship room of the church was the scene of the reception after the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom and their mothers received the guests.
Betty Leftwich, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the bride's book. LaLee Teaff and Willie Mae Baker served.
The table, covered with a white cloth, was centered with a white two-tiered wedding cake decorated with rosebuds and topped with bride-and-groom figurines. Small white flowers encircled the cake. Baskets of gladiolus decorated the room.
Out-Of-City Guests
Out-of-city guests included the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Perry and sons, Roy and Orville Lee, her grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Brashear of San Angelo; and her aunt, Mrs. H. C. Whitley, and children, of Hobbs, N. M.
The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and has been employed in the plant department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.
Leftwich was graduated from Midland High School and attended East Texas Baptist College, Marshall, and Hardin-Simmons University. He is the pastor of the Valley View Baptist Church.
The couple will be at home Monday in Abilene where both will attend Hardin-Simmons University. Mrs. Leftwich will be a freshman and Leftwich, a junior ministerial student.

'Sister Eileen' Cast Offers Variety Of Acting Background

Another season for the Midland Community Theater means new actors presented in its productions, as well as the reappearance of some who were introduced last year and others from past seasons. The large cast of "My Sister Eileen," initial Fall production, follows that formula with emphasis on the new.
The comedy, written by Joseph A. Fields and Jerome Chodorov from a basis of stories by Ruth McKenney, is to be presented in the City-County Auditorium September 21-28 under the direction of Art Cole. It will be sponsored by the Yucca Garden Club, whose members are conducting an advance sale of tickets and will serve as ushers.
Billie Love, who will play the title role, has not appeared in other Community Theater plays. Sharing the lead with her will be Dorothy Smith in the role of Eileen's sister Ruth. She was seen as Ann Proctor in "Guest in the House" two years ago.
Also in "Guest in the House," as Douglas Proctor, was Jack Menish, who appeared again in the 1948 production of "On Borrowed Time" and will be seen as a Cosack, one of the numerous unusual characters in "My Sister Eileen."
Two who made their Community Theater debut last Spring in "Laura," Bill Adam and Charles Berg, will have very different roles in this play. Adam, the neurotic murdered in "Laura," will make a bit appearance as an argumentative passerby and Berg, seen in the mystery as a handsome southerner, will appear in the comedy as the husky janitor, Jensen.
Adam's partner in the stage argument will be Loyd McSpadden, who has worked chiefly backstage in Community Theater plays but played a bit role in "I Remember Mama" last Winter.
Backstage Standby To Act
Vic Chancellor, seen last as a famous comedian in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," will appear as Frank Lippencott, an ambitious young drug store manager. The role is so close a professional football player who is also useful with a mop or ironing-board but not for thinking.
Harry Harrison and Randall Gibson, younger members of the cast, have had their previous Community Theater experience in plays of the Children's Theater.
Newcomers in the cast include some known to Midland audiences through participation in high school plays. Some who have had acting experience in other cities, and some who will be really making acting debuts.
On the last are Malcolm Gibson, Bob Surrey, Louise Harless, Lincoln Warren, Virginia Breedlove, Olga Frank, Fred Carroll, Frank Waddell, Clyde Condliey, Jean Ingram, LaRue Donnell, Charles Hughes, Ruth Shaw and Bob Sadler.

A proposed budget for the coming year was read by Mrs. B. R. Mathews, treasurer, and recommended by the council for adoption by the club. The council also voted approval of plans made by the social service and welfare committee for sponsoring a "big sister" movement to aid girls to remain in high school, and presenting outstanding programs to clubs other than the ones in which they originate.
Those plans were announced by Mrs. George Kidd in her report for the committee. Mrs. Lindley Latham reported on membership and Mrs. B. R. Schaburum on the scholarship fund. Mrs. C. S. Britt, ways and means chairman, told of progress on ticket sales for the book review by Evelyn Oppenheimer which the club will sponsor on September 22.
Mrs. H. L. Straughan of the safety committee asked club women to urge more effective traffic safety measures for school children. Mrs. Carroll, reporting for the library committee, invited all club women to use the library and to visit it to learn its needs.
Fannie Bess Taylor, Mrs. George Glass and Mrs. Neta Stovall told of the Building Planning Committee's activities and asked for suggestions from the club representatives.
Woman's Club yearbooks were distributed to council members and will be available for other members at the meeting Thursday.

Plan Wardrobe Before Buying

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Before going on a hog-wild spending spree for new hard-to-resist cool clothes, sit down with pencil and paper and work out a wardrobe plan.

"Plan" is the key word for a teen-age clothes collection that must serve the backbones of a college or work wardrobe. "Impulse buying" can give you a flat pocketbook and clothes that don't fit in with what you have.

No one starts from scratch. Salvage from last season's clothes every wearable garment that will still rate combined with new match-mates. A new coat, figures on your list, save your new school wardrobe round colors that match or harmonize with the coat.

Color ties the various units of a wardrobe together. A complete wardrobe plan might be broken down as follows: a new solid color suit of simple style, an extra plaid skirt and a two-piece jersey dress. For this group, all items should be chosen to create one color union. That goes for the suit jacket, the jersey top to be worn with the suit; blouses and sweaters that may be selected to pick up the tones of the plaid, harmonize with the solids of the jersey dress or suit skirt.

If your color scheming is careful, one set of accessories, shoes, bag and hat, will carry off this turnabout wardrobe.

This planned wardrobe calls for the bulk of your money being spent on the best possible fabric for your basics. If there's little cash left for mad accessories and clothes fads, depend on your wits and ingenuity to keep ahead of your crowd on this score.

There's a good fashion trick going the rounds of households, back yards, gardens and city terraces—the apron that's tied on over slacks—which the woman who sews can make and wear with her man-styled trousers. The idea is to tie apron strings to these to make them look more feminine.

Slacks And Apron Tricks Make Flattering Back Yard Ensembles flattering to her feminine figure, an apron with deep patch pockets is a big help-in-need to the woman who putters from basement to backyard and back again. For proof of the apron's added usefulness, she can ask the workman who reaches his apron pockets for the tools that he needs.

When an apron is made up of the same kind of fabrics as the slacks they're to be worn with, the two garments look as though they were designed to keep company. They will look smarter, as any color-matched ensemble does, than effects that are mis-matched. That idea has the backing of leading fashion designers this season.

SAVORY FLAVOR

To give a ham slice a savory flavor rub it with brown sugar and baste it with pineapple juice. Sauté pineapple slices in a little butter or margarine, sprinkle with brown sugar and a dash of salt, and serve with the ham. Canned sweet potatoes are a quick accompaniment to this dish.

TERMINAL TATTLER

By GENE CAMPBELL

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haverstock had Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fite of Lubbock as guests recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Sample have moved here from Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harlow of San Angelo have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stewart. The Stewarts plan a weekend trip to San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Flowers of Fort Worth and Mrs. Carrie Flowers of Eastland have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Flowers and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Voge spent Tuesday in Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nelson have been visiting in Eastland and German with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Clifton East underwent surgery in Chickasha, Okla., recently. She has returned to her home, however, and is improving satisfactorily.

Mrs. Bill Whites has her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hancock, and a brother, George Hancock, of San Antonio visiting here.

Members of the Terminal Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. E. O. Voge Wednesday afternoon. Nettie B. Messick, home demonstration agent, met with the group, and discussed plans for the coming county fair. A number of suggestions were mentioned with regard to an exhibit by the Terminal Club. Mrs. Messick also gave a talk, with illustrations, on planning an efficient kitchen. Refreshments were served to: Mrs. L. T. Derington, Mrs. Truman Hamill, Mrs. Tom Starnes, Mrs. Logan Long, Mrs. Bill Broxson, Mrs. W. C. Daniel, Mrs. Bill Ireland, Mrs. Walter Snead, Mrs. J. W. Campbell and Mrs. Messick.

Willie Mae Webb, although confined to her bed with a back injury, was entertained with a party on her birthday recently. Her friends gathered around her bed, gave her the latest news, and played records for her. Mrs. H. F. Webster, mother of the honoree, served refreshments to the following: Peggy Flowers, Nancy Upchurch, Leta Fay McClelland, Virginia Garrett, Carolyn Hardaway, Shirley West, Jessie Garrett, Dorothy McClelland, Peggy Gruening, Garland Timmons, Nell Thompson, Junior Webster, Sherry Thompson, Benny Howard, Jimmie Lamoy, John Roy Webster, Jerry Dee Webster, Mrs. L. C. Mooney, Mrs. Willard B. Anderson and Mrs. L. G. Taylor.

Birthday Party
Skipper Kyle was honored by his mother with a party on his fifth birthday. Numerous games were enjoyed and refreshments were served to the following: Paul Hamill, Lynn and Alvana Derington, Douglas Sample, Sharron and Burt Evans, Mary Sue, Kenneth and Delores Tumlin, Patty and Johnny Turner, Sue Owen of Odessa, Ricky Kelly of Midland, Mrs. Truman Hamill, Mrs. L. T. Derington, Mrs. Cletus Sample, Mrs. C. R. Evans, Mrs. Roy Tumlin, Mrs. Willard Turner and Mrs. W. J. Owen.

RESERVATIONS REQUESTED
Members of the Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club are asked to make reservations Monday for their monthly luncheon which will start at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Ranch House. Reservations may be made by telephone to number 1139 or number 2983-W.

Season a flaked white fish or crab meat salad with horseradish for a zesty flavor, and serve with tomato aspic and salad greens. Apple dumplings, made from new green apples, are a good ending for this fish salad plate.

Plenty Incentive For Politeness Is Given Pupils

BOSTON—(AP)—Maybe the kids in your school would be good mannered, too, if there was $100,000 in it.

That's the sum to reward polite boys and girls in the Roxbury District as Boston's public schools opened.

It came from Samuel Gross Davis who died in Roxbury at 91 in 1932.

He was born in Brunswick, Me., and came as a youth to Boston where he rolled up a tidy fortune in the fish business.

His will directed the $100,000 be used to give annual "cash prizes of $4 or multiples of $5 to scholars in each class of every public school in Roxbury for good manners."

Worried At First
The Boston School Committee was a little worried about the bequest at first.

Some members said Roxbury youngsters might grow up with the wrong idea if they were taught to expect $5 for every soft answer.

Others quoted the old gag about kids being "good for nothing."

But they finally accepted the goods manners money.

Boston school officials figured $26,000 already has been handed out to 4,300 Roxbury children.

Davis also set up two similar good manners funds. Brunswick, Me., got $5,000 for the purpose, and Little Massapee on Cape Cod, $50,000.

It would take 53 years for an airplane, traveling 200 miles per hour, to go from the earth to the sun.

Hemlines Hoisted By French Designers, But Most Of Fashion Changes Are Minor

PARIS—(NEA)—The last word in fashions from Paris has skirts going back up. From the gradually climbing hemline of last year, Parisian designers have hoisted skirts as high as 15 inches from the floor. But this and other changes are not so sweeping that women will have to throw away their wardrobes and start from scratch, as some did when the New Look first burst on the fashion scene. Generally, the 1949 fall collections are an evolution, rather than a revolution.

The basic silhouette is slim, slender and supple. Shoulders are normal, although less sloped, and there is a distinct tendency to effects giving width. The bosom is still stressed, but the waistline no longer is strangled and hips are unaccentuated.

Fashion intermission is featured by an ice-cream vendor in the garden of a Paris designer's salon. The buyers and fashion writers pause for some refreshment before going back to view more of the new styles. (Photo by NEA-Acme Staff Correspondent Rene Henry)

For daytime wear, the full, swinging skirt has virtually disappeared. In its place is the skirt that is coiled, wrapped and molded around the figure.

Here is what some of the designers have brought out:

The designer of Rita Hayworth's wedding trousseau has built his entire collection around the sheath silhouette, even in models where width is introduced. He has gone all out for buttons, claiming he has counted more than 4000 in his creations.

The straight lines of his simple chemise dresses are broken up by pockets, peplums and bows. Cocktail suits feature black or the new "near-black" colors. These have jackets, usually hip-length, which show unusual collar treatments. Fath has also played with scarfs and stoles on many dresses, as well as coats.

In evening gowns, his outstanding creations are built around the new version of the ultra-wide pleated tulle gown placed on a stiffened "cone" underskirt. Another favorite theme is the dress with a slender, sheath-like front buttoning over at the back onto a full pleated godet panel.

Most unusual effect here was a jeweled ankle bracelet, worn by the mannequins with late afternoon and the shorter-than-ankle-length evening dresses. Afternoon and town ensembles were completed by small fur collarettes and huge muffs. Shoes had astrakhan or ocelot trim and ankle-straps. Hats were brimless and worn at an accentuated angle.

Molyneux placed stress on the "flower line," using it effectively in both afternoon and evening models. The skirt of one evening gown was worked entirely in out-sized tulip petals.

Here has launched the "Minaret" and the "Spindle" lines. The former features stiffened basques over a sheath skirt, while the latter gives a silhouette widened through the shoulders and narrowing at the hem.

Piguet's "shutter" necklines, which open to disclose intriguing décolletés, are new, and he exploits them in his cocktail and evening dresses. The backs are either bloused or have wings sprouting at acute angles.

The theme of this collection was "Stop and Go." Skirts for daytime models were definitely shorter and more slender, with the waistline built up. Jackets, too, were shorter, and fitted with single or double collars.

Among the accessory notions Schiaparelli featured were long, narrow muffs in ocelot or beaver; ostrich feathers covering the full skirt of a short evening dress; a deep-pointed black bearskin shawl which could also do duty as a travelling rug; oversized single diamond ear-ring shaped like a flower; and enormous paper-weight buttons.

LaJuana Isbell Is Honored At Party

CRANE—Mrs. A. J. Isbell honored her daughter, LaJuana, on her sixth birthday with a party recently. Mothers assisting the hostess were Mrs. Joe Johnson, Mrs. Bob Young and Mrs. Jane Brents. Children attending included Carolyn Reed of Benton, Ill., Sharon Lynn Johnson, Judy Brents, Lee and Phyllis Young, Terry and Buddy Graham, Shirley and Rita Jane Brents, Pete and Aneta Danner, David and Jimmy Brents, and Anna Maurine Isbell.

Industrial Worker Is Key To American Economy, States General Mills Chief

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The industrial wage earner is the balance wheel of our American economy today, and the sooner the farmer and big businessman realize this, the quicker will fear of depression disappear from current thinking.

That is the opinion of Harry A. Bullis of Minneapolis, Minn., board chairman of General Mills, largest flour producer in the United States.

"I'm not worried over a probable depression," this industrial leader emphasized in an exclusive interview to NEA. "But I am worried at times because too many Americans forget that our high standard of living increases as we become more and more industrialized. When this nation began, 80 per cent of the population lived on farms. Today, less than one out of five lives on the farm."

Despite the trend away from the farm, Bullis pointed out, scientific farming and better management have made it possible for less than 20 per cent of the people to produce vastly more and better food than when 80 per cent of the population farmed for a living.

"The farmers have had seven years of prosperity. Some are now inclined to look with jealousy at the high wages of factory workers," he said. "But they ignore the economic fact that the health of American agriculture is dependent on the continued spending power of the 80 per cent of our population working in cities. The farmers' stability depends on the stability of wages in factories and he should fight to keep those wages high."

Turning to the industrial side of the picture, Bullis reported on his own company's wage policy. Despite lower figures for earnings and total sales for the year ending May 31, 1949, payments to General Mills employees reached an all-time high.

"Our 1200 employees received almost four times the amount earned by the company in the year just past," he stated. "Our net earnings were $11,654,000. We paid $43,722,000 in wages and salaries, including retirement benefits. It seems to me this type of statistical information should receive more emphasis these days when the public is reading so many stories about the large earnings of industry."

Despite the record wage outlay, the company had a good year. Divi-

Enrollment Hits 10-Year Peak In McCamey Schools

McCAMEY — Superintendent Howard Stoker has announced enrollment in the McCamey Public Schools reached a 10-year high with the opening of the schools last week. Total enrollment was 763.

Although the overall enrollment is at its highest mark, the number in high school dropped from last year's 158 students to 146 for the present year.

The senior class especially is small because it is composed of members who were caught "in between" when Texas adopted the 12-grade system several years ago.

dents to stockholders were maintained at the same rate as the previous year. Bullis feels strongly that there is not a deficiency of spending money in the country, although there is a lack of confidence on the part of many buyers and many producers. To keep American economy vigorous, Bullis says there is a need

Upton County Gets Farm-Market Road

McCAMEY — Judge G. H. Fisher announced this week he had been officially notified the Texas State Highway Commission had passed an order at its meeting August 25 making the county road, running from the intersection of Highway 87 in McCamey to the Crockett County line, a farm to market road. The stretch approximately is 4.2 miles in length.

The county must furnish all required right-of-way free of cost to the state in order to obtain the project for the county. Upon fulfillment of this provision, the state highway engineer will proceed with the necessary surface, dyke and shoulder repair work.

Estimated cost for the project is $2,500.

Judge Fisher said the necessary action by the county probably would be passed Monday at the regular meeting of the commissioner's court.

Thinly sliced eggplant may be dipped in egg seasoned with salt and pepper, then in fine bread crumbs, and fried slowly until lightly browned and tender in a little butter or margarine.

HOW TO PLAY CANASTA: 12

Canasta Goal: 'Getting The Pack'

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Hints to the beginner at Canasta: Watch out for those red treys! Remember that you must take another card from the stock pile for each red trey that you put on the table.

Make sure that you understand the conditions applying to the frozen pack.

Black treys, while apparently nuisance cards, are valuable to prevent your opponent from taking the pack, especially when the pack becomes big.

Don't waste time trying for natural Canastas. You may lose 300 attempting to gain an additional 200.

Don't waste much time on concealed hands. They only earn an additional 100 points.

Don't be too anxious to put your cards on the table. Always try to be in a position to take the pack. Remember that one additional Canasta is worth 300 points. The cards in your hand may represent a loss of only 50 or 100 points.

Don't get down to too few cards. The fewer cards you have in your hand, the less flexible the hand is.

It pays to get your first minimum meld down as soon as possible. Don't hold up your Canastas. They count 300 or 500 points on the table. Your partner may have a good melding hand and need your Canasta to meld out.

Don't be too anxious to take the pack if it contains only a few cards, especially if you have pretty good control of the pack.

You cannot have more than three wild cards in any meld, except that after a Canasta is completed, you may add to it, and there is no limit to the number of wild cards that you may add to it.

If you add a wild card to a natural Canasta, you reduce its value from 500 to 300 points. You cannot pick up a black trey even though you have two black treys in your hand. However, in order to meld out, melds may be made with black treys the same as any other meld.

When the pack is small, you can discard your singletons or doubletons, but when the pack gets large, be careful. If you have not a black three or even a wild card to prevent your opponent from taking the pack, it might even pay you to discard from one of your long suits, hoping that he will not have a match for it.

When the other side has control of the pack, try to go out as quickly as possible to prevent them from running up a large score. If the opponents have a lot of cards on the table and a number of nearly completed Canastas, it may well pay you to go out instead of playing for another Canasta in order to prevent them from completing several others.

Town And Country Interiors Slates Grand Opening Here

The formal opening of Town & Country Interiors is scheduled Monday at 106 North Garfield Street (Andrews Highway). Syd Moore, owner, announced Saturday.

The firm designs and builds distinctive furniture, does upholstery work and designs lamp shades. Moore stated. Antiques also will be refinished and restored. Town & Country Interiors will maintain a complete drapery work room.

Moore was for 15 years a designer and decorator for the motion picture industry in Hollywood.

Mary Shepard, manager of the new Midland concern, is a graduate of the New York School of Interior Decorating and formerly was associated with an interior decorating firm in Lubbock.

Lynn Mayes, another staff member, also is a graduate of the New York School of Interior Decorating. He formerly was associated with the interior decorating department of a large Dallas store.

TEXAS TODAY—

P-TA Units And Council Will Begin Programs This Week

Activity in Parent-Teacher Associations of Midland, already under way in board and committee meetings and informal get-acquainted parties, will go on schedule this week as the City Parent-Teacher Council and two units begin regular programs.

The council meeting, deferred from last week because of the Labor Day holiday, will start at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the school superintendent's office in the new high school building.

West Elementary P-TA will open its first meeting Tuesday to the public, featuring on the program a symposium on the general theme, "Teamwork for Better Homes and Schools." Three parents will discuss "What I Expect of the Teacher," and three faculty members, "What I Expect of the Parents." Audience opinion will be invited after the talks.

Time is 3:45 p.m. South Elementary Unit, which was hostess Thursday night with an open house to acquaint teachers and parents at the beginning of a school term, will have its initial program at 3:45 p.m. Tuesday in the school auditorium.

Frank Monroe, superintendent of schools, will be the speaker. Year-books are ready to be distributed to members, and all parents are urged by Mrs. C. L. Stephenson, president, to attend the meeting. The open program at West Elementary School will start at 3:45 p.m. also, after an executive meeting at 2:30 p.m. and separate social meetings. Parents and teachers of pupils in the first two grades will be entertained at 3 p.m. in the auditorium, and parents and teachers of third, fourth and fifth grade pupils from 3:30 to 3:45 p.m.

Mrs. Bert Cole, Jr., chairman of the council, announces that a parliamentarian is yet to be elected, a historian and a delegate to the Midland Youth Center Council appointed to complete the council organization for the year. Each P-TA unit is to elect a council delegate at its first meeting of the term.

Council Personnel
The present council members are as follows: Officers—Mrs. Lynn Metcalfe, vice president; Mrs. E. N. Spiars, secretary; Mrs. Frank Stubbeman, treasurer.

School heads—Frank Monroe, superintendent; Charles F. Mathews, High School principal; Wesley Martin, Junior High principal; W. D. Ladd, North Elementary principal; Leslie R. Hines, West Elementary principal; and C. D. Johnson, South Elementary principal.

Unit presidents — Mrs. Stanley Erskine, Mrs. C. L. Stephenson, Mrs. Malcolm Gibson, Mrs. A. E. Faucett, Mrs. Raymond Leggett and Mrs. O. L. Stalcup.
Chairmen—Mrs. L. G. Byerley, character and spiritual education; Mrs. H. C. Rowland, pre-school study; Mrs. W. E. Crites, publicity; Mrs. H. L. Huffman, health and Summer roundup; Mrs. W. L. Leggett, Founders Day and state birthday; Mrs. Willard Bumpass, publications; Mrs. J. J. Black, ways and means; Mrs. Earl Chapman, legislation; Mrs. Allen Dorsey, goals sheet.

Traveling Texan Feels At Home In Another State With Cash Crisis

OLYMPIA, WASH.—(P)—Texas is not the only big, prosperous state facing a financial crisis.

Despite a heavy sales tax that nicks three cents out of every dollar spent on ordinary purchases and six cents on luxury items, the state of Washington is having money troubles.

They have been talking up here in the Northwest of a special session of the legislature to levy new taxes—talk quite reminiscent of home to a traveling Texan.

The Olympia correspondent of the Tacoma News-Tribune recently had this to say: "The probability is, in the opinion of most observers in state government, that unless business and revenues take a tail spin in the months ahead, the cuts that can be made will carry over into next Summer at least, and then the state will run on its promises to pay for the remainder of 1950."

The writer had been talking about cuts that could be made, under this state's fiscal system, without a special session. Then came this observation:

"The next legislature then will have to face the facts, and either cut still Washington state's generosity in providing for everyone, or make up its mind as to what kind of new taxes it will pile onto those who are earning."

Key Situation
Curtailments in this state's budget for education and social security were seen as the key to the situation, with educators complaining they had already been cut enough. Education was trimmed back by Washington's recently-ended legislative session, and the prospect was that more crowded schools and slashed teaching forces would result.

Washington has a beautiful Capitol. The state office buildings here are constructed around a central structure called the legislative building. It houses the two branches of the legislature and the governor's office. Facing it is a stately court building. Other departmental buildings and the governor's mansion are grouped nearby under a scheme that shows someone planned with good taste in housing state officials.

The grounds are beautifully landscaped, taking full advantage of flowers that bloom in gorgeous colors in this climate.

Workmen still are repairing the Capitol dome that was badly damaged by the severe earthquake several months ago, and other buildings on the state house grounds are sheathed with scaffolding while masons replace fallen stones.

Get Big Welcome
Visitors to the Washington Capitol are given a hearty state welcome.

A uniformed guide hands over an official highway map and a directory of state parks beautifully illustrated. It shows you just where to go to find Pacific beaches or mountain streams. If asked, the guide will tell you all he knows about the fishing.

Included in the handbook for tourists are two free postcards to send the folks back home. You get everything but a postage stamp, and maybe that omission is just a reflection of the condition of the state's treasury.

DENTON—A biology professor at North Texas State College says bass catches in depleted Texas lakes can be increased 200 to 300 per cent.

Dr. J. K. G. Silvey, professor of biology, tells small lake owners: "Restock your pond every two or three years with little bass. If you want to be assured of continued bass fishing."

Silvey has been studying the habits of fish in small Texas lakes for 10 years. He has conducted his re-

Permian Basin Underwriters Hear Talk By Great Southern Insurance Firm Executive

By BERRY APPLING
The Permian Basin Life Underwriters Association held its regular monthly meeting at 8 a.m. Saturday in the Private Dining Room of the Scharbauer Hotel. Twenty-nine members and guests heard Ford D. Albritton of Houston, vice president of Great Southern Life Company, make the principal address.

Albritton told his audience the market for life insurance is large at the present time and the people usually are in a receptive mood toward purchasing it.

In discussing the training program most companies are offering their prospective agents, Albritton said, "They are giving the beginner 80 per cent theory and only about 20 per cent practice. When they get out on their own the beginner finds selling is 80 per cent practical experience and 20 per cent theory."

"Perhaps the most important thing for a young agent to learn is the approach or introduction," the Great Southern executive said. "The secret of Will Rogers' success with an audience didn't consist so much of what he said, or did, but in his easy approach and the manner in which he presented his act. The same is true in the life insurance business or any other for that matter," he added.

He enumerated three distinct phases of selling life insurance, the introduction or approach, the interview where the benefits are explained and the close. "The fatal mistake made by underwriters and other business men who have a product to sell is their inability to close," Albritton stated. "All statements leading up to this part of the actual selling should be positive and pointed toward a definite objective—selling the prospect."

"When the closing point is reached in any business transaction it should be made with utmost confidence. If this phase is approached negatively, with fumbling and awkwardness, the prospects' answer is a foregone conclusion—no."

"The inability of so many business men to produce is because they waste time. Ben Franklin said 'the only way to save time is to spend it wisely' and this has proved to be true in every field of endeavor," the Houston man said in closing. Those attending listed: Attending the meeting from Midland were: Joe C. Davis, E. M. Bodeman, Joseph S. Hullum, Duke Jimerson, W. T. Fields, George Vannaman, G. E. Massey, W. F. Chesnut, R. J. Graham, Laura Jesse, E. L. Swain, A. F. McKee, Herschel Ewell, H. W. Moore, S. L. Vann, W. E.

Harkrider and Robert L. Ebeling. Attending from Big Spring were: Harold P. Steed, Loy D. House, A. L. Dillon and Troy Barrell. From Odessa were: J. W. Hunt, O. A. Hickman, C. D. Blount and Bill Gailman. Dan English was here from Kermit, Albritton from Houston, Theron Ferguson from Abilene and Charles Knight from Fort Worth.

Violence Is Threatening To Upset European Atlantic Pact Countries

LONDON—(NEA)—As delegates representing forty-three million organized workers in Asia, Africa, Europe and America met here to lay the foundation for a new anti-Communist world labor federation, the struggle for the soul of European labor reached a new climax.

The bitter conflict between the Communist-led World Federation of Trade Unions and its new rival, which includes the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the British Trade Union Congress, has been further intensified by the recent Vatican decision to ex-communicate Communists.

The East-West truce achieved last June by the Four-Power foreign ministers already is little more than a dead letter. European labor sources, Togliatti has been under fire in Moscow for several weeks and his days as leader of the Italian Communists may be numbered. The Kremlin was particularly displeased with his failure to prevent the Italian Parliament from ratifying the Atlantic Pact.

Even in France, where organized labor is traditionally anti-clerical, the Vatican's edict is being felt. The Communist-led CGT which a year ago claimed a membership of over 5,000,000, now claims only 2,500,000.

Just how the Vatican edict will affect the Kremlin's foreign policy is difficult to predict. The men of the Politburo are apparently convinced that the long-awaited and long-predicted economic crisis in the "capitalist countries" is here, and that now is the time to strike.

This was the main theme of a speech delivered in Milan before a group of top Party functionaries by Vassili Kuznetsoff, leader of the Kuznetsoff: Strikes will "deepen the already deep capitalist economic crisis."

Vittorio: His Italian Labor Federation has been hurt by the Pope's edict.

bor is threatened by a new wave of unrest and violence which may well upset the precarious political balance in the coalition-governed Atlantic Pact countries.

A survey made by this correspondent reveals that the Pope's "Excommunication Edict" already has resulted in a mass exodus of Catholic members from Communist-dominated trade union organizations.

Giuseppe Vittorio, leader of the Italian Confederation of Labor, recently admitted that, in the Milan region alone, his union has lost over 200,000 members. Vittorio's Federation, according to official estimates, has suffered a decrease in membership from 7,000,000 to a little over 3,000,000. At the same time, the Christian and Socialist Unions, starting from scratch only several months ago, already claim 2,000,000 members.

Officially unworried, Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist chief, calls the Vatican's edict "an attempt to re-enact the Dark Ages" which will have little effect on Italian labor. Unofficially, however, the Italian Politburo is desperately seeking ways to check the mass exodus both from the Party and the Red Labor Federation.

According to some Cominform ers, headed by Harry Bridges, pro-Communist head of the West Coast International Longshoremen's Union, was recently organized in Marseilles under the WFTU.

A similar "trade secretariat" for the coal mining and steel industries is now being formed in Paris by Louis Saillant, Secretary-General of the WFTU, and Kuznetsoff. This "secretariat" will devote itself exclusively to the Ruhr and the industrial regions of northern France and Belgium.

Meanwhile, the new anti-Communist Labor Federation, according to Irving Brown and Michael Ross, AFL and CIO representatives on the Preparatory Commission, will be ready to enter the world labor arena next November.

Lone Woman Making Arkansas-Vermont Journey In Wagon

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—Mrs. Olgie Lamear is going home with her two dogs, 12 pedigreed goats, 48 chickens and three horses. Home to Mrs. Lamear is "50 or 60 acres in Vermont, where I was born." She's been living in Hope, Ark., and is making the long trek from Arkansas to Vermont in a wagon.

"I've been on the road better than three weeks," said Mrs. Lamear as she stopped near here for a night's rest. "I've been traveling ever since our farm in Arkansas was sold at a county sale. Arthur, that's my husband, drove me and my children—that's what I call the animals—to Cairo, Ill., in a truck.

"He had to go back to Hope to take care of business. Then he was going to get on a bus and overtake me. I expected to meet him at the Indiana line, but we haven't seen each other yet."

Mrs. Lamear, a 54-year-old woman in a faded blue cotton dress, recalled that she'd made the trip from Vermont to Arkansas in 1947 in another wagon. The one she's using now was a gift from Arkansas neighbors.

Snake Bites Horse
Just outside of Cleveland, a policeman stopped her at the request of Humane Society representatives, saying that one of her horses looked sick.

"I told the policeman he'd look peaked, too, if he'd been struck by a copperhead," she said. Happy was a wild buck," said Mrs. Lamear.

Mrs. Lamear finds people—and especially policemen—are kind and hospitable. The officer who stopped her gave her oats for the horses. A blacksmith shod one of them. A housewife gave them bran. And a teenager gave them a supply of carrots.

At her feet, as she drives, are a rifle, a lantern, bones for her dogs, goat milk (good for asthma) and other assorted articles. She usually stops at a friendly farmhouse about sundown, asks if she may sleep in her wagon on the premises.

"I'll sure be glad when we get to Vermont," she said, as she moved on.

PROTECT AMERICA'S SYSTEM of FREE ENTERPRISE

Why?

No nation on earth, regardless of its form of government, ever gave to human beings so much liberty and material prosperity as our own Constitutional form of Freedom. We started out as thirteen little States, ridden by poverty and threatened by savages. We now represent the utmost in individual freedom and individual prosperity. Compare our United States with any other land on earth. The workingman here is a king compared to the workingman in any other country. Almost all of us have modern homes, electric lights and power, gas, telephones, automobiles, automatic refrigeration, electric washers and irons, radios, insurance policies. Most of us own bonds and have money in the bank, plus a thousand and one other conveniences and luxuries.

Here's Where Money Goes In Fight Against Polio

Midlanders, considering the cost of fighting polio before making contributions to an emergency fund drive, might well ponder the many phases of the extensive treatment. Here are factors listed by the National Foundation as to where your money goes:

Polio equipment and hospital supplies for communities hard hit by epidemics are available on spot notice at six equipment depots set up by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. These supply points are strategically located to serve every section of the country without delay. For speed may mean saving lives.

During this year's devastating epidemic, the National Foundation is sending a steady stream of respirators (iron lungs), hot pack machines, aspirators, beds, cribs, linens, and other hospital supplies into stricken communities in 37 states. This service is essential throughout the emergency. The equipment is costly. The need for it is urgent.

Polio care is better today than ever before. In epidemic areas throughout the nation, doctors, nurses and physical therapists are using modern scientific methods to minimize crippling and effect maximum recovery. Thousands of polio experts have been trained at the expense of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

By offering scholarships and fellowships to capable men and women and by giving financial assistance to educational institutions and technical schools, the National Foundation is developing an army of professional workers for front-line action against polio. Shortage of funds in this epidemic emergency would seriously curtail this educational program, cut down the number of trained hands to serve little patients.

Polio research is showing promising results. In the past year, scientists working under grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, have successfully immunized laboratory animals against one form of polio. They are working now to produce a vaccine that will immunize human beings. The obstacles in their path are many. It may be years before a vaccine is mounted. But continued research contains the only real hope of wiping out the disease.

In the present epidemic emergency, the immediate need for money for patient care threatens the entire research program. There must be enough for today's patients and the promise of no more polio patients tomorrow.

Polio patients are assured of every possible chance of recovery today, as a result of modern research into treatment of crippling after-effects of the disease.

Infantile paralysis cannot yet be prevented. But the nation's foremost scientists, working under grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, are finding new ways to eliminate many of the handicaps that once distorted the lives of polio victims. Thousands of children have been stricken in this Summer's record-breaking epidemic. All deserve the chance to make the fullest possible recovery.

Polio treatment often continues for months after the first symptoms of the disease appear. Today, thousands of young victims of past epidemics still undergo regular treatment to minimize crippling after-effects.

Some are learning to walk again. Many others will never regain complete mobility, but can be taught to lead useful lives despite their handicaps. The cost of this after-care is often greater than the cost of the epidemic itself. Today's epidemic emergency will tax the resources of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for years to come.

Polio costs are paid by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis when patients or their families cannot meet the heavy cost of medical care unassisted.

More than $17,000,000 in March of Dimes funds were spent last year on patient care alone. The present epidemic emergency probably will cost even more if cases continue higher than last year. Thousands of stricken children need treatment now and thousands will need continuing treatment for months—even years—to come.

The National Foundation's epidemic aid fund is dwindling fast and the need for more money is urgent.

Her Irish Setters Come By The Pack

"Candy," the mama Irish setter belonging to Cliff Kunkel at Cincinnati, Ohio, watches anxiously over her latest litter of 15 puppies. "Candy," who has had 40 pups in the last 14 months, now has so many children she has to get help from a foster mother. Little Kaye Dorsey, age four, doesn't see why anyone should worry over having so many pretty pups.

Display, Lettering Courses Announced

The Distributive Education Department of Midland public schools in cooperation with the Midland Chamber of Commerce, announces it will sponsor two courses which will be held in Midland September 19-30. These two courses are merchandise display and window lettering. The instructor will be W. G. Bohannon, display and advertising specialist of the University of Texas, Division of Extension. Bohannon has had years of experience in the commercial art and display business.

Any person, who has the responsibility of displaying merchandise in a store, will be eligible to enroll for the course. In addition to these store employees, owners and managers may also enroll in this course because it contains much information about window modernization and illumination of interior and window displays. This course will be conducted in 10 one-hour class sessions (Monday through Friday of each week). An enrollment fee of $1.50 per student is the only cost connected with this course.

Actual Demonstration
Actual demonstration and actual practice are provided through the use of 12 miniature display windows, fully lighted, with hundreds of display fixtures and properties.

The show card lettering course will be of interest to many display persons and others who use lettering in advertising. This course will be held in 10 two-hour class sessions, starting September 19. The number of people in this class will be limited to 30. The fee for the lettering class is $2.

These courses will be held in the new Midland High School building. Further information will be announced and persons interested may call the Chamber of Commerce.

NAVY ABANDONS THREE-YEAR ENLISTMENTS

The Navy has discontinued three-year enlistment periods and reverted to its normal peacetime program of recruiting enlisted personnel for periods of either four or six years, at the option of the individual.

Present regulations permitting 17-year-olds to enlist for a term of minority, whereby they serve until their twenty-first birthday, will be continued.

Chief Gunnersmate Stewart from the Navy Recruiting Station in San Angelo will be in Midland, Monday to interview any one interested in the broad training program offered by the Navy. Stewart may be contacted in the basement of the post office building from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday.
