NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK, 1953

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

WHEREAS needless accidents continue to kill thousands of farm people each year; and

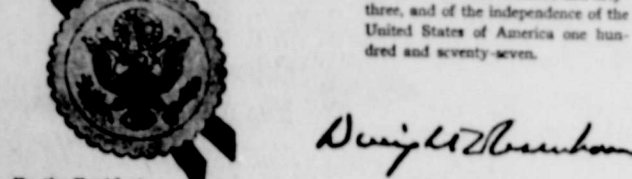

WHEREAS accidents injured more than a million and a quarter farm residents last year; and

WHEREAS these tragic losses are reducing America's strength in a period of great crisis;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby call upon the Nation to observe the week beginning July 19 as National Farm Safety Week, and I urgently request every farm resident to cooperate in an all-out effort to make 1953 an accident free year as possible.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this seventeenth day of April in the year of Our Lord nineteen hundred and fifty-three, and of the independence of the United States of America one hundred and seventy-seven.

Tenth National Farm Safety Week Receives Farm Leaders Support

"I hope all those who farm to live will adopt safe practices so that they will continue to live to farm," said Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, in calling for support of the 10th National Farm Safety week, July 19-25.

Senator George Aiken, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said "Everyone in the United States is affected by accidents to farm people, directly or indirectly. I hope that every farm family in the nation will observe the 10th anniversary of National Farm Safety Week by resolving to be accident free in 1953."

Allan B. Kline, president, American Farm Bureau Federation, said "National Farm Safety Week has established itself as a worthwhile institution. For the scores of volunteer workers in farm safety in 1944, there are thousands ready and waiting to do a good safety education job during Farm Safety Week, 1953."

Representative Clifford Hope, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, said "I like the day-by-day program set up by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the 10th anniversary of National Farm Safety Week."

With only a week and a day to go the McCoy team of the Hi-Plains softball league has a cinch on the top spot in the series and will go into the Shaughnessy play off as the first place team.

Although swamped with orders for cottonseed meal and pellets, oats and corn the Floyd county drouth relief committee had no concentrated feed available for the scores of applicants from farms and ranches of the area yesterday.

The wheels of the relief program were started to rolling on June 27 when USDA Secretary Ezra T. Benson told Texas cattlemen at Lubbock that relief for their feed shortages would be provided quickly.

But yesterday his five-man committee had no concentrated feed nor notice that any would be received this week, although some or all of the promised thousands of pounds are presumed by the committee to be rolling toward Floydada from Amarillo.

The committee yesterday morning had applications for 196 tons of cottonseed meal and pellets, 10,429 bushels of oats, and nearly a carload of corn.

The local committee had anticipated that the cottonseed products might be made available at the mills in this area for farmer stockmen with orders from their county boards.

John K. West, of the committee, said yesterday it was unlikely the concentrated feed will be made available at the mills at an early date.

West said the committee is hourly anticipating notice that the concentrated feeds have arrived but has nothing tangible on which to base this hope except that the feeds were ordered for Floydada delivery.

Meanwhile the Extension service, acting through state agents, is scouring the states where grass and feed are plentiful for deals which cattlemen can make either to sell their cattle to new owners or put them out on grass on gain contract or on lease.

Mrs. J. R. Maddox, who was hospitalized at Maddox hospital on July 4, had improved sufficiently to be removed Monday to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jack Deakins.

Announcement that every family in the community is asked to attend a meeting tonight (Thursday) at Harmony was made late yesterday.

McCoys, Mitchell Hdwe and Builders Mart are certain to go into the Shaughnessy play off. REA can win two of three remaining games and be sure of the fourth place in the Shaughnessy. If Rudy's loses two

Owners of property on Highway 70 through Floydada who joined with the city and state highway department in a voluntary improvement program, will be returned 15 cents per lineal foot on the payments made for their curb and gutter.

The city put up $29,000 with the highway department for the total of city and property owner participation in the two-mile paving job through the city. The final bill for all work done, including engineering, was $25,599.94, the city was advised last week by the highway department.

City attorney Richard F. Stovall said the property owners who paid cash will receive their refunds within the next few days. Those property owners who accepted responsibility and would like now to come forward and pay off their mechanic's liens, may do so and get the deduction.

Property owners who want the city to carry their portion of the cost with mechanic's lien for security also will get credit for the 15 cent per lineal foot on the charges placed against their property adjacent to the highway, he said.

The completion of the two miles and more of three-lane highway through the city with parking lanes on either side, together with curb and gutter, is looked upon by officials as a triumph of local civic pride, interest in community welfare and property betterment.

Granting 'Phone Rate Increase Soon Is Viewed As Improbable

There seems to be no probability that Southwestern Bell Telephone company will get a voluntary increase in rates for the Floydada exchange from the city council of Floydada as presently made up.

This conclusion is drawn from the meeting of representatives of the telephone company and the council Monday night. Auditors of the petitioning company presented figures which they claim clearly entitle them to an increase in rates to a basic $9 for business telephones, plus federal tax, and other telephones within municipal limits, at a proportionate raise.

The raise in rates sought would increase their local income an estimated $9,000 and the company would still be operating the exchange at a loss of more than $28,000, the city council was told. The figures were broken down to show income from long distance lines here, the portion of the income from this source credited to the exchange, and the estimated depreciation of the local plant.

Arguments of the telephone company representatives embraced among other things the fact that plant investment has increased by half a million dollars or more, pay rolls have quadrupled, number of employees have tripled, and most importantly, number of telephone connections offered for use on the local exchange have multiplied by three in the past eight years, thus affording the subscriber three times as many local connections.

The telephone company representative said the new rates sought would put the charges here in line with rates charged at exchanges that give approximately the same service as is rendered here.

Of the various tables of figures presented the council took note and they have no idea of attempting to refute any of the figures given, a spokesman said. The municipality simply does not have the kind of money it would take to employ an independent auditor to get figures on which to base an argument. And when these figures were obtained, if they were, in turn would call for more figures and those for more, it was said.

A composite of council opinion apparently was expressed Tuesday by Leonard Matsler, a member, who said that "if Southwestern is losing the kind of money in Floydada they say they are, they need to do something about it besides going to see the city council."

The council and the Southwestern officials spent nearly two hours in their conference.

Cecil Cole, Lubbock, district manager, headed the telephone men who sat with the council. LeRoy Deason, accountant, and Hugh Steger, legal representative, both of Dallas, together with J. C. Oakley, local manager, and J. E. Blackshear, wire chief, were other members of the delegation asking for the increase.

Melvin Henry this week confirmed a report that extensive changes and betterments for their headquarters building are planned by Light-house Rural Electric Cooperative for the last half of the year 1953.

Both exterior and interior changes are in the plans, said Mr. Henry Monday, shortly after resuming his post as manager of the big cooperative, following an absence of three weeks for an operation.

The interior of the building will be completely changed, with more and re-arranged offices. Heating and cooling systems will be installed.

Most striking change in the structure will be the modernization job planned for the front.

While the change is being made the cooperative records and personnel will be moved to the American Legion auditorium, from which the business will be operated for the several months the changes and betterments are under way.

The contract for the work to be done is now contemplated to be let early in August. Soon thereafter the force will move to the Legion hall, which the cooperative has leased for the duration of the building contract. Approval of the plans has been made by the Rural Electric Administration.

County Librarian Is Guest Speaker At Club Meeting

A public library is intended as an institution of service to all ages and groups of people of a community, said Mrs. Roy Hollar at the Floydada Rotary club members at their noon-day luncheon yesterday.

Featured speaker of the hour Mrs. Hollar outlined some of the ways in which the Floyd county free library hopes to be useful to the people of the county. She besought the aid of business and professional men in promoting the library to a period of great usefulness.

Mrs. Hollar was presented by Olin Watson.

Also present at the meeting was Mrs. James H. Barnard, chairman of the county library board, who was introduced to honor her as a prime mover in the two-year campaign for the establishment of the county library.

NO OIL RIG YET

The Hesperian had no information as late as 4 o'clock yesterday on the plans of Sinclair Oil company and others for a test at Center.

Last week reports had it that the problem of communitization of the leases under the well had not been solved at the time local interest was centered on the date that the drill would be rigged up. Contacts were made with Midland, Amarillo and Fort Worth offices of Sinclair only to learn that the matters had not been passed by the legal departments of the interested companies. The deal is being handled out of Fort Worth office.

The test, according to report at the Railroad Commission office, is slated at 10 thousand feet. Location was given as the J. M. Massie land north of Floydada four miles.

VIEWS AND COMMENT

HAVING DONE ALL, TO STAND

Area conditions are pretty rugged. One can't discount a drouth that has hit so hard it has young men leaving their families, like they did in the early nineties, going off to find work where it is to be found, the while their families wait at home and "hold things together." The area affected is not just a few counties down-state. It is an area that comes up and surrounds the plains and the panhandle and laps over into other states except for a few fortunate spots where there is water for irrigation or where failure has not marked more than a year or so of operations. What this all means is reflected in an editorial in The Quitaque Post. It is re-printed below. Between the lines you can read of courage and faith, of determination to hold families and communities together, of people with character who have been unexpectedly hit by unseemly conditions and are bravely meeting them. The editorial comes from the pen of Mrs. W. R. Scott. Says she:

Many of the young men are leaving town in search of work, and we like the attitude of some of them. They are burning no bridges behind them. Conditions here present a serious situation and they are facing it as they have faced the war—making the best of it. Some of them are leaving their families here while they find employment elsewhere, and that means they intend to return when conditions here return to normal—as they surely will when it rains—and it will surely rain again some day.

By leaving their families here, they are protecting the community and their investments in it. The local merchants will depend on these families to support them, and help them stay in business here. This is the present hope and future welfare of local business men. We hope that most of those who are forced to seek employment out of town will consider this. We have a good little town—with fine merchants who have given their patrons the most considerate treatment and best service they could receive anywhere. Many will be ruined financially if the population moves out from around them. The prosperity of our farms will return when the drouth is over. We do hope that you will leave your families here, if you are forced to find work elsewhere—and it will surely not be for too long.

Here the family will remain comfortable, and living conditions generally will be better, if more people will stay in their homes. At the rate wage earners are being forced to move to employment centers the larger towns will soon be faced with a housing emergency and rents will again go soaring. Stay "put" if you can.

We are fighting a war—a Drouth War. Let's fight it together, helping each other all we can. That is the traditional pioneer spirit of West Texans.

DRAFT LAWS AND REGULATIONS

(Fifth in a series of 10 on the draft law and its rules and regulations.)

On a local draft board is placed the responsibility, under applicable laws and regulations, of deciding which men should be deferred because of their civilian activities.

The three categories of men considered are: (1) farmers or farm workers, (2) college or university students, and (3) men in industrial and all other civilian activity.

In the case of students, deferment until the end of the school year is ordered by law, if the student is mailed an order to report for induction while he is in school satisfactorily taking a full-time course of instruction, provided he has never received such a statutory deferment before.

If the student has previously received such a deferment, then further deferment is up to the local board. The board can consider information outside the scholastic as well as scholastic information. The widely-publicized draft test for college students can be ignored by local boards under draft regulations if the board so desires. Score on the draft test and class standing of the student are provided as information for the board.

Here are three things the board considers when it is looking at a case of possible deferment for farming or other civilian activity: (1) Is the man engaged, except for seasonal or temporary interruption, in the activity? (2) Can he be replaced by persons with his qualifications or skills? (3) Would his removal cause a material loss of effectiveness in the activity?

In the case of farmers or farm workers, the chief question asked is: Is he employed in the production for market of a substantial quantity of agricultural commodities necessary to maintenance of national health, safety or interest?

All such deferments are for limited periods.

Old Singman Rhee isn't doing a thing more or less than you or I would do under the same circumstances. We think he has the United States diplomats and big wigs dead to rights. They must think so, too. All of this grows out of the fact that a man in a frocktail coat a year or two ago took over and began to appease out of one side of his mouth and talk hard out of the other. There wasn't but one answer, we all know now. America lost its chance when we began trying to out-trick a master trickster. What a tangled web we have weaved! Now we halt between conscience and expediency.

They're pretty thorough down at the city hall and there is no reason for this newspaper or the public to assume that slipshod methods are followed simply because they do not know how much water they are losing between the master meter that checks the water into the mains and the 1200 odd meters that check it out to the customers. Principal thing is to know how many consumer meters are doing their job efficiently and to have somebody available that can set meters in that are operating good, get the ones out that are not operating and get them fixed. Also important in the mind of the layman is that pressure level against an emergency of fire.

No one can teach more than he is.

County Couple Get View of Alaskan Mountains

People who read and the violent eruptions of the Alaskan mountains Thursday will be interested to know that a couple from Floyd county people who had the pleasure of viewing the mountains from the air of swirling dust and of feet into the clouds of the mountains experienced the perils of the air as they began to fall to

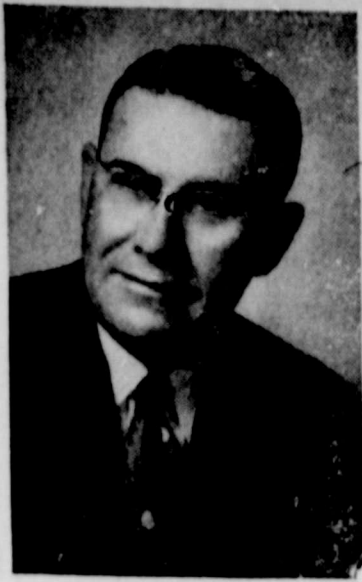

At 12 noon it was as dark outside as midnight. I have never seen it so dark. Sure gives one a creepy feeling. They closed all the offices and asked people to conserve on electricity. It began getting light about two and now it is light and hazy out doors and there is still volcanic ash falling in a very fine mist. We are enclosing a little of the ash so you can see what it looks like. It just clings to everything. Fly Airplanes out of Area. They flew all the army planes up to Fairbanks as the ash is injurious to the planes, but they reported that it is not harmful to people. It is reported that it will kill the gardens. It is about a half inch thick on the ground and the car is covered with it. They advise people not to drive cars as it can get in the gas tank and the air breather and the oil. I am glad we have seen this. It is something we will probably never have an opportunity to see again. I got off at one and one of the girls brought me home. I called Joe and he came after me and then Bob got home about two-thirty. We came home about three thirty and I swept out the house. The volcanic ash sifts into the house just like sand and dust. All the trees and everything out doors are covered with the ash and it sure makes things look weird. It looks like something you have seen in the movies and read about. This has never happened in Anchorage before. I am sure you have heard about it over the radio and read about it in the newspapers. But we are perfectly o.k. and it is not harmful to human beings, so don't worry about us. Julie thought it was snow and they were willing to take a nap today as it was so dark. The kids thought it was winter time already.

IRRIGATION ON INCREASE

The amount of Texas land under irrigation has multiplied by more than 170 times in the last 60 years, according to a report of the Census Bureau.

While the total land in farms in Texas has increased from 51,300,000 to 145,400,000 in the 60 years between 1890 and 1950, Texas land under irrigation has jumped from 18,419 to 3,150,527 acres.

The total capital investment in Texas irrigation enterprises at the time of the 1950 census was $144,445,313 or at the rate of $45.84 per irrigated acre.

Two-thirds of the irrigated acreage of Texas is in single farm enterprises.

It's the newest in a long list of Ford advancements that make this Ford the outstanding car for '53!

No other car near Ford's price has ever offered you so much! Ford was the first in its field to bring you V-8 power. Today, Ford alone of all the low-priced cars offers you the smooth, unsurpassed performance of a V-8 engine. And Ford's Six—the most modern in the industry—with Overdrive, won the Grand Sweepstakes in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run.

Ford first brought to the low-price field a completely automatic transmission that combines the smoothness of a torque converter and the gas-saving "go" of automatic gears. Fordomatic remains the most versatile automatic you can buy.

Ford's new "ride" brings you road-hugging and bump-leveling qualities never before known in low-priced cars. Front end road shock alone has been reduced up to 80%.

Easier-acting suspended pedals, Center-Fill Fueling and Full-Circle Visibility are just a few of the many important advancements first introduced by Ford.

And now Ford brings you the newest and finest in power steering . . . Master-Guide, a system exclusive in Ford's field! It's no wonder, then, that Ford is the "Worth More" car . . . worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it.

HELPS YOU OUT OF "TIGHT SPOTS!" The tougher the going the more Master-Guide works for you. For example, if you go off the pavement onto a soft shoulder or a rough, rutted road, Master-Guide provides the muscles to keep you on a steady course. At the same time, Master-Guide absorbs the shock that might otherwise be transmitted to the steering wheel. You'll find all handling is easier with Master-Guide and that parking requires only one-fourth the normal effort. Should Master-Guide ever lose its power, the standard steering mechanism will operate just as usual. Thus, Master-Guide provides new ease and stability, with a natural feel and full security, wherever you may drive. Optional on all V-8 models at extra cost.

'A Cow Elected Me To Office

--J. E. Daniel

In the biographical memoirs which Judge J. E. Daniel is writing there are numerous references which shed a light to things as they used to be in high plains counties of Texas. In the following the judge laughs at himself in an anecdote about his race for county and district clerk of Briscoe county, 36 years ago.

It was in the fall of the year 1898, that I was elected county and district clerk of Briscoe county, Texas. One day I was out soliciting votes, and after crossing over the four leagues of the San Jacinto county school lands, located in Briscoe county, which was then uninhabited, late in the evening I arrived at the dug-out home of a Mr. Smith. (I have forgotten his given name) in the north part of the county, where I spent the night. Later another man also came and stayed all night.

In the conversation before retiring, Smith told us that he had raised a little crop that year and had stacked it out a little way from his house, and that a cow with very sharp horns was eating and destroying it and he was unable to drive her away because every time he came near her she would fight and run him back to the house. Finally the other man suggested that they take a couple of lariot ropes, throw the loops over her horns and be on one side of the cow and Mr. Smith on the other, holding the ends of the ropes, they could keep her from getting to them, and that Mr. Daniel (that was me) could drive her. That way we could all take her so far off on the school land that she would not likely come back to his feed stack.

The suggestion was agreed to by all three of us, and we proceeded with its execution. They roped the cow and I drove her for them. After quite a while they stopped and managed to get the ropes off and turned her loose.

As soon as she found she was set free she made a lunge at me and of course, in self defense, I took to my heels and fled as rapidly as possible from her, but she kept after me and continued to hoop up the end of my

Doniece Cline Is Complimented at Bridal Shower

Miss Doniece Cline, bride-elect of Glen White of Lamesa was named the honoree at a bridal shower given in the home of Mrs. R. A. Garrett on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Garrett, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. H. O. Cline received the guests, who were invited to call between the hours of 5:30 and 7 o'clock.

Mrs. E. F. Stovall presided at the guest book and Mrs. J. V. Daniel was in the gift display room. Mrs. Fred Martin, Mrs. J. D. McBrien and Mrs. John R. Gray and Mrs. E. J. Morehead presided in the dining room, where frosted lime punch, angel squares, topped with pink rose buds was served.

The refreshment table, covered with lace cloth, centered with a crystal basket of pink and white asters and pink candles was beautiful with crystal punch service and other crystal appointments.

Mrs. Lon V. Smith invited the guests into the dining room to be served.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Garrett were Mesdames, E. F. Stovall, Lon V. Smith, Ralph Johnson, P. W. Bell, Sam Spence, C. O. Spence, Fred Martin, W. O. Jones, G. N. Shirley, J. V. Daniel, E. J. Morehead, J. D. McBrien, John R. Gray, A. H. Kreis, A. C. Rainer, and Mrs. Mary Francis Christine of Lubbock.

Miss Cline and Mr. White will be married in the First Christian church Thursday evening, August 6, with Dr. R. Earl Allen, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

rain-coat, the tail of which, on account of the brisk breeze created by my rapid retreat, was blowing almost straight backward. The cow not realizing, perhaps, that my corporeal anatomy was considerably in advantage of the spot she was aiming at, was wasting her energy and time. Finally she gave up the chase, either this or I simply got up so much speed that I out-ran her.

I was scared a little, fearing all the time, that the cow might discover her mistake, and make a deeper stroke, and perhaps inflict a serious bodily injury upon hinder parts, and disqualify me in the eyes of the voters to such an extent that I would be defeated when the election result would be announced, so I increased my speed to the very limit, and succeeding in coming out a victor without even a scratch.

After this escapade my race with the cow was noised abroad until most of the voters learned about it and said, "Well, if he can run like that we will just elect him as our county and district clerk." And when the election result was announced, I had, or the cow had, won the race for me.

Gentlemen's Agreement
I was elected, but it was not by my own vote, for I voted for one of my opponents and he voted for him, also after having agreed to vote for me. It occurred this way:

In talking with him one day I said, "I don't like the idea of voting for myself."

He replied and said, "Neither do I like the idea of voting for myself. Suppose I vote for you and you vote for me, in other words, we just swap votes?"

I said "All right that suites me fine."

Election day came, we met and made out our tickets. I voted for him and he voted for me.

I had implicit confidence in him—never dreaming of insincerity or fraudulent intent to betray my confidence in order to satisfy his selfish ambition. On the way across something I don't know what it was, whether some word or action of his influenced me to say to him "We will each hold these tickets in our hands and each will then know we have voted for each other."

He made no reply, and as we entered the court yard, I noticed that he put his hand in the pocket of his pants. Of course that made me suspect that he might not have voted for me. I was elected, and when installed in office, had charge of the ballots and the record of the voters, and the question of fraud pressing so heavily upon me, I examined the record and the ballots and found out for sure that I voted for my opponent and he also voted for him.

I never told him of my discovery of his deceitful act in getting my vote. The next election came on and he was again my opponent in the race, and on my way to vote I met him and he said to me, "Jim, I am ready to vote again like we did before."

I said "well you vote just as you think best, and I will consider and try to do the right thing when I go to vote."

Notwithstanding the fact that we were again opponents in this race, he acted friendly with me, and said, "Jim, if you are elected, I will be the first man to congratulate you." I was again elected, but he never did congratulate me.

For the good of future generations, I offer this admonition. "As you travel the road of life from the cradle to the grave, young man, beware of selfish ambition! It will lead you to sin you cannot hide—it will surely find you out! Your consciousness of guilt will sting your soul as you travel to the end of the way. Better is a little with a knowledge of innocence and righteous dealings, than with plenty of this world's goods, and a guilty knowledge of fraud and deceit always saying to you, "I fear my sins have found me out."

Reports Should Have Number As Well As Name

His name was Smith, and his mother in a burst of originality had christened him John. A good solid name that goes back to the Founding Fathers, and beyond. But Mr. Smith lost his identity when he neglected to put his social security number on the tax return at the time he made the social security report on self employment last March. Now the social security people are trying to pick him out from among the 1,287,315 other persons named Smith from whom social security accounts are kept. The first name, John, doesn't help much. There are 89,345 John Smiths to whom social security account numbers have been issued. They'll get him straight, but it will take time and trouble for all concerned, including Mr. Smith, and it will cost some social security taxes to get the job done.

Your name not enough

Your name on the quarterly report of your wages, or on your annual report of your self-employment income that counts toward old-age and survivors insurance is not enough to identify your social security account," John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office, pointed out.

Unless your name is accompanied by social security number, just as both appear on your social security card, there is no certainty that you will get credit for your earnings.

The nine-digit number on your social security card is different from the number shown on any other social security card. Mr. Hutton said that well over 100 million numbers have been assigned by the Social Security Administration. "No two of these numbers are the same," he added.

Numbers Preserve Identity

The numbers preserve the identity of each worker and his account, making possible the social security system which is geared to the persons own earnings.

"The confusion, trouble and possible loss of payments that result from an incorrect number, are pointed out to the Smiths," Mr. Hutton kept for nearly a million and 897,733 Browns and 367,129 named John Smiths, 896,845 named Charles Dickens and 413,300 usual as that of a Charles Dickens novel, it alone to identify your social security account," Mr. Hutton said you'd be surprised how many unusual names are used where the social security account records are kept. Workers are advised to attempt to memorize their security number. A change in position of one digit may credit your earnings person.

In conclusion, Mr. Hutton said, "No matter whether you are John Smith or Richard Roe, sure that it is reported, your number just as well as your name, and if you change your name, ask for a new social security card, which will show your name but the old number social security card is valid for your life. It is the record of your earnings will set the amount of your benefits."

Annual Celebration Has Agriculture Tech Scholarship

PETERSBURG — The American Legion announce they will stage their 6th annual celebration at Petersburg on Saturday, August 8. Everything is being rounded into shape by the Legion. Committees are being appointed to look after various details. A free barbecue dinner is one of the main attractions. Other entertainment features are being worked out, among them being matched roping, perhaps a baseball game, and then there is the parade that will take place for all who care to participate.

LOCKNEY. Bill Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Sherman, a graduate of Lockney high school in May, has been awarded a freshman scholarship for the agriculture division of Texas Technological college at Lubbock given by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. Texas. Texas authorities should have control over their own state employees. But to date, officials of the U. S. D. A. Fruits & Vegetable Branch have refused to sign the contract—a contract which is in every way similar to those of other states where the cooperative project exists.

Texas deserves the rights granted other states. The present contract is a perfect example of federal encroachment.

Athlete's Foot Is Not Choosey Of Its Victims

AUSTIN, TEXAS — You don't have to be a Mickey Mantle or a Babe Zaharias to be eligible for athlete's foot. You're qualified just by being human.

This ringworm foot infection can come to either sex at any age at any time, although it is probably more prevalent during summer months when feet are more apt to perspire.

You'll know you've got it when your feet begin itching and blistering, and when you see the soggy dead skin between the toes or on the soles. Take action then, and you can usually get rid of it in a hurry. But neglect it and you're in trouble.

Here are some suggestions from State Health Officer George W. Cox which will prevent athlete's foot or help you get rid of it if you have it now:

Dry carefully and thoroughly between your toes after bathing and as often as practical during the day. The disease is caused by a fungus which thrives on damp, perspiring feet.

Massage your feet with a mild rubbing alcohol. This will help prevent spreading the infection from one spot to another.

Dust a good fungicide powder or even an unscented talcum powder or powdered boric acid, between the toes, in stockings and shoes if at all practical, change stockings once during the day.

Swab all cracks or soggy areas between the toes with one part iodine diluted with ten parts of alcohol.

Wear absorbent socks and put a piece of cotton on areas between the toes where cracks or soginess are evident.

Don't use remedies which have been sold for eczema. Consult your physician if the cracks and blisters and soginess do not yield to these measures.

And keep this in mind: If athlete's foot is neglected, it can spread readily beyond the feet. The lesions will go deeper and deeper, and may cause critical damage.

Control of Weeds Seen As Problem

Weed control in Floyd county is growing into a problem, a county-wide problem, declares the Floyd county Farm Bureau, members of which are studying and talking best means of finding a solution on a county-wide basis. Bindweed infestation and Johnson grass are two of the principal problems, especially in the areas where irrigation has been practiced over a period of years.

Not only have farms begun to show the need for a control plan of the ditches under the control of the county are coming in for study.

This was one of the matters discussed by the county commissioners Monday, between busy sessions carrying out the routine of county affairs at their regular meeting.

Among those who talked with the commissioner was W. R. Puckett, service manager for the county Farm Bureau.

Demonstrate High Voltage Machine
A novelty in the approach to weed control was introduced into the county this week by an operator who demonstrated a mobile high-voltage machine on the M. H. Martin land Monday and on the road side in the northern environs of Floydada Wednesday. A heavy charge of electricity is applied to the infested areas on the theory that the voltage will journey the length of the root system and effectively kill out the weed growth.

Claim made is that after the machine applies its charge to the ground the earth is left clean of weed growth but still highly productive.

several days and County Agent W. G. Rodgers said he already had some names.

What the Extension service will do, he said, is to get the names as a service to cattlemen and let them make their own trades, whether they are hunting grass or want to sell.

What Mr. Rodgers suggests is that those who want grass or want to sell give him their names and the information about their herds of cattle or sheep. The information will be swapped back and forth. When a man turns in his name and his wants a copy will be kept here and a copy sent the state Extension Service office and thence to other states.

All kinds of situations are due to arise from this exchange of information, Rodgers believes. For instance, he has the name of a man in Colorado who has a surplus of hay and wants to buy some heifers.

He would like to haul hay in and cattle out. Rodgers thinks this kind of thing will be the means of a practical solution for the man who has cattle and no grass or feed. It offers a man a chance to make his own trades and handle his own business in the way he can salvage the most from a bad situation.

China Soldier Not Superman And Not a Bum

SEOUL — The Chinese Communist soldier is not the myth many have made him.

He is not a superman, nor is he always a fighting demon. Neither is he a dyed-in-the-wool intellectual professing the Marxist doctrine.

The average Communist soldier is a simple peasant about five feet seven inches tall and weighing approximately 140 pounds.

In all probability, he is a farmer in his mid-twenties. He cannot read or write—for the majority of the Reds have but three to five years of schooling.

He gripes about incessant night marches, bad treatment from his officers, lack of adequate clothing and medical care, the frequent united Nations air attacks, and the lack of Red air support.

His chief concern is not for the ideological principals involved in the struggle or the absurd Communist charge of "imperialistic aggression." His main interest is in staying alive and being able to obtain his daily quota of grain, rice, fried flower and millet.

The Red soldier in Korea leads an austere and disciplined life fraught with hardship. He has little, if any, contact with the civilian populace and rarely is he provided amusement to break the monotony of his existence.

In his army, leave is unheard of and there are no chaplains. There is no post exchange to furnish him the little luxuries of life and often even the essentials are denied him.

As a private, he draws the equivalent of approximately 30 cents a month—hardly enough to pay for his tobacco, toilet articles and party fees.

While the average American soldier receives the best clothing and equipment that his country's ingenuity can provide, the Communist soldier is issued the familiar cotton-padded uniform, a pair of rubber-soled shoes with canvas tops, a blanket and a water-resistant cloak. Slung over his back is a haversack in which he is likely to have a mess kit, canteen and metal bowl with lid and chopstick.

Although he receives hot meals while in the rear areas, in combat his food usually is cold, for it has been cooked under the cover of darkness the preceding night. Meat seldom is served to the lowly soldier. In training, he spends as much time listening to political propaganda as he does learning to use his weapons.

Each battalion has its political commissar who specializes in propaganda and Communist indoctrination.

Each platoon has a certain number of strong, loyal Communist whose duty it is to check on other party members.

At the squad level, every two men are responsible for a third man. Thus, in theory, every man is watched. No freedom of thought or action exists under the Communist regime.

In action, he carries a bandolier containing a three-day ration of rice, his ammunition and rifle and depending on his mission hand grenades.

In the early days of the war he and his companions for assortment of weapons from as many as 11 countries. Now, most of them with Russian-made weapons. This, in brief, is a Communist—the average Communist—the soldier who is less a sacrifice in battle than on the battlefield.

Each platoon has a certain number of strong, loyal Communist whose duty it is to check on other party members.

At the squad level, every two men are responsible for a third man. Thus, in theory, every man is watched. No freedom of thought or action exists under the Communist regime.

In action, he carries a bandolier containing a three-day ration of rice his ammunition and rifle and depending on his mission hand grenades.

In the early days of the war he and his companions fought an assortment of weapons as if they were from as many as 11 different tries. Now, most of them are with Russian-made weapons.

This, in brief, is a Communist—the average Communist soldier who is less than a human sacrifice on the battlefield.

Many people from here attended the funeral in Lockney Wednesday of last week for Mrs. R. H. Ford. Rev. Chas. Joiner participated in the funeral services of Mrs. Ford who was a sister of Mrs. Hugh Marble. We extend sympathy to all the family in their sorrow.

WHY WOMEN BUY

OTTAWA, June 18 — Why do women buy?

At the convention of the Canadian Dietetic association Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr., national president of the Canadian association of consumers, quoted a big retailer who gave nine reasons:

Because hubby says they mustn't.

Because nobody has one like it.

Because everybody has one.

Because it makes them look thin.

Because it's imported — it must be good.

Because it's going to be scarce.

Because it's pretty.

Because it's a bargain.

Just because.

Today's average television set contains more than 1,000 parts — more than 12 number of parts found in a watch. More than 1,000 are required to assemble the receiver.

An easy way to have a supply of plump, delicious prunes in good thick juice is to put some in a fruit jar, cover with water, add a little lemon juice, screw on the jar top and put in the refrigerator for four to six days. No cooking is required.

If you are looking for something different for a picnic supper you might like to try this:

Cut lengthwise slices from the tops of hot dog rolls. Carefully scoop out a small "trough" in the center of each roll. Fill with your favorite chicken, ham or tuna salad, or for something different—

Grind 2 pounds of bologna and 1 1/2 pounds of cheddar cheese in food grinder.

Add 1/2 cup salad dressing, 2 table-spoons chopped onion and 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickle. (Add some of the roll crumbs if you wish). Fill the rolls and replace the top crust on the rolls.

Wrap each roll separately in foil. These will be piping hot after about 10 minutes in the oven or put into hot coals.
