$24.97 may not be a pot full
... but that's how much you can save a year using economical GAS for Clothes Drying

If you're a lucky one who already has a pot full (money, of course), might as well skip to the next ad. But if you feel that $24.97 is a sum to reckon with, heed these words of wisdom: 'Go First Class with GAS and Save the Difference!' That's right. With gas, the average cost per year to a family of four is only $2.63—9 times less than it costs to dry the same family's clothes with any other dryer! Add to this the fact that gas dries clothes FASTER, SAFER, and more DEPENDABLY ... it makes good sense—and a lot of dollars—to GO GAS like so many Smart Moderns are doing!

RURAL MAIL MAN KNOWS ABOUT ROAD CONDITIONS

I want to let my commissioner, (both past and present), know that this man as carrier appreciates the good condition of the roads in Precinct One were in to take the heavy rains we have just had.

If the roads had not been well graded, ditches open and tin horns looked after one wonders what condition they would be in. It certainly pays to have good grades and all tin horns open.

If you don't think so look over some of the roads in Crosby County that this carrier travels. Practically no grade, but ditches filled up, too flat for water to run off and their horns stopped up. Just drive down the old highway towards Rails and see what I mean.

Cheryl's Chatter
(about events at Floydada High)

Wow! Was the band ever happy last Saturday after winning Sweepstakes at Brownfield! Around 3 o'clock everybody in Floydada could probably hear us hollering all the way from Brownfield! Also, on Friday quite a few of the bandmen won first division in their solos and ensembles. We hope this is just the first year in a long, long record of sweepstakes wins—right?

Virginia Taylor and Wren Patterson went to a State FFA Convention in Big "D" last Thursday and Friday. Virginia is president of the local FFA chapter and Wren was the elected delegate to represent our chapter—they had fun—in the rain, of course!

If the rain (drip-drip) has stopped, the seniors are still planning on their Rodeo. There will be afternoon performance on Friday and Saturday, and one nine-time show on Saturday. Much interest has been shown in entries, sooo, why not come out and view the cowboys—Ho! Some of the riders should be very comical, especially Robert Stovall!

Delegation Gets Phone Service Consideration

The South Plains delegation who made a date to talk about their telephone troubles with the general manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Texas, R. A. Goodson, in Dallas, last Friday-morning, found the man who looms large in telephone business a man easy to talk to and willing to listen.

Unable to shake them off in a general way of their determined effort to get a hearing on their presentation of their great need for uniting their community by telephone service, Mr. Goodson listened patiently and heard them through.

They had their chance to extol the great advancement made by their community in recent years and the outlook for even greater expansion of commerce and agriculture in the ensuing years. Apparently they made their impression sufficiently strong that something may come of it.

Mr. Goodson promised them the matter would be re-examined in a favorable attitude. "You are the most persistent people I have ever talked with," he smilingly told the group, as he assured them of the new step his company would take.

South Plains School District has been divided by a line of demarcation arbitrarily set up by the telephone companies nearly 30 years ago. Half of the community has excellent telephone service, the other half none. Half is in touch with the school, community and official affairs of their county, the other half is not until they get in an automobile and go find out or are told by messenger.

This was part of the story they told the great man in telephone business. They returned home pleased and—at least hopeful the telephone company will undo the injustice done them years ago, unwittingly but deadily injurious just the same.

Others entered in the meet were Billy Don Colston, Melvin Lloyd, Maurice Ginn, Bob Ed Dempsey and Dale Newberry. Judge of the contest was Jack Kassahn, and Lynn Pittard, assistant county agent, was supervisor of the group.

Johnny Witkowski is 15 years of age. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Witkowski and is a freshman in Floydada High School. His father is the Case Implement dealer in Floydada.

Local implement men working with the county agriculture agent's office were sponsors of the event here. All had tractors at the meet and each boy drove the tractor of his choosing.

Lynn Pittard said though entries were lighter this year this was believed to be a result of postponement of the event from original planned date. All contest grades were much higher than those made a year ago and the contest was termed as a success.

Five Teams To Enter Five teams of Floyd County 4-H boys will be entered in the district competition at Texas Tech in Lubbock Saturday. Besides Witkowski in the tractor operator's division there will be an entomology team made up of Norman Ferguson, Kenneth O'Neal, Tommy Ogden and Jimmy Hucksaday. This group placed second last year.

The field crops team is James Teague and Eugene Bandy, electronics team Charles Carr and Leon Williams, and farm and home safety team Warren Mitchell and Billy Don Colston.

'Danger', This Is Home! Good Idea For Sign

COLLEGE STATION, March—Not many housewives would put a DANGER sign over their front door? Yet, unless more people suddenly become "safety-conscious" that sign would not be a bad idea at all. Home accidents can kill! Carelessness and negligence in the home cause a death every 16 minutes and produce some disability every four minutes, reports the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

Falls are the home's greatest hazard, claiming a total of 14,000 lives annually. Burns are in the grim order and about 5,400 people die yearly as a result of them. Poisoning and carelessness with firearms each cause slightly over 1,000 deaths a year, and almost 6,800 people annually succumb to a list of varied causes.

More children under 14 are killed by home accidents than by any single disease. Here's how to minimize the dangers to children in your home. Label all medicines and store them out of children's reach; make sure all firearms are unloaded and stored safely; keep matches and knives out of reach; and don't leave saws, pins and sharp tools within children's grasp.

How safe is your home? Check yourself on these questions asked by the safety council. Are too many electric appliances running from any one outlet? Are the rugs kept from curling and slipping? Do you immediately wipe up water or grease spilled on the floor? Do you have a safe can opener such as the swing-away wall type? Is there a nonslip floor in the shower? Are all flammable liquids labeled and sealed? Keep a first aid kit handy at all times. Remember—someone is hurt in the home every seven seconds.

Longnecker Tells Rotary Club Of Research Station

Dr. Thomas C. Longnecker, head of the Plains Research Station of Texas Research Foundation at Halfway in western Hale County, told members of the Floydada Rotary Club Wednesday of the plans for the first year of operations at the research farm. He also recounted the background of its inception and of the successful research hoped to be undertaken.

Dr. Longnecker told his audience that of all the many crops which Texas grows only one, the sunflower is a native of the state. He hopes the station will be successful in helping other agencies create better crops and methods of growing them. He also said new crops may be a part of the station's success in serving agriculture of the high plains.

Two of his interested listeners were Paul G. Copestace and Thomas J. Scott, Australians, who are on a tour of the southwest to get firsthand information on Texas ways of farming and ranching. The visitors were guests of the Rotary Club along with their host, L. B. Brandes, of Providence, and Oliver C. Grote, regional field man of Texas Farm Bureau.

Longnecker was presented by Carl L. Minor. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hunt and son Gene, and daughter, Nelda and Frank Brown, of Amarillo, visited Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Davis Sunday. Mrs. Hunt is Mrs. Davis's sister.

FHS Jr. Rodeo This Week-End

The rodeo date is at hand and all ready for the big show. That is the opinion of Norman Davis and Joe Noland as they anxiously watch the skies wondering what Friday and Saturday's weather menu will be.

The rodeo is scheduled to get going Friday May 3 with an afternoon performance scheduled for 2:30 and then on the next day it will be on again and again at 8:00 o'clock that night.

The rodeo is for contestants through age 20 and will offer prizes in reining, bull riding, bull riding, and barrel race among other attractions. Entry fees are five dollars in each event.

Those who have these junior age rodeos highly recommend them as top notch entertainment. Though the contestants are not as smooth as the older professionals they do offer a show with much excitement and a lot of laughs.

Price of admission is $1 for adults and 50c for students. All gate receipts will go to the senior class for their annual class trip fund. Local merchants have assisted the students in securing funds for staging the rodeo. The stock is that of Morris Stephens.

Many out of town entries have come in and more are expected say the sponsors, and competition is going to be keen in all events. Columbus made four voyages to America.

Williams to Talk On Land Surveys

South Plains Surveyors' Association, Chapter No. 1 of Texas, will gather tomorrow night (Friday) in the Blue Flame Room of the Pioneer Gas Company's office in Lubbock.

Walter D. Newell of Floydada, vice president of the surveyors' fraternity, is president of the chapter and will preside. The meeting hour is 7:30 o'clock.

Newell announced this week that Jeff Williams, Plainview, will discuss problems of surveying on the South Plains. Mr. Williams got a week to the pioneer years of the plans and scores of the now accepted survey laws were set by him in those early days.

GEED IS BLAMED FOR VIOLATIONS OF GAME RULES

Geed has more to do with making a game violator than most anything else, according to Captain E. M. Spott, head of the Law Enforcement Division of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"So many hunters and fishermen just can't keep from being greedy," he says. "They'll seize dynamite, telephone or otherwise illegally take fish when they know it is against the law. These same people will jacklight, poach or kill out of season. Fortunately they are in the minority, but there are too many." The man who takes too many fish, or kills more than his limit of game is stealing for everyone, according to the captain.

Bunker Silos Are Economical

New silos will be needed this year and one which many farmers will consider is the bunker-type. Advantages are low initial cost, excavation and ease of feeding. Bunker silos can also serve as self-feeders.

The bunker silo holds about twice the silage per dollar invested as the most conventional upright silo. It consists of a floor flanked by side walls from six to eight feet high and is usually open on both ends. Silage is dumped from wagons and each load packed tightly to reduce spoilage.

Most critical part of construction is the side wall. It must have sufficient strength to support the weight of the silage and the equipment. Walls should slope outward slightly so that silage will settle tightly against them. Walls may be made of concrete or lumber. Lumber is the least

News of Broadway

(By Mrs. T. E. Thornhill)

BROADWAY, April 29—Another wonderful rain fell Saturday night here at the house. We received 1.3 inches of rain but farther south and east the rain was heavier. The Boy Scouts who were enjoying the Camporee down at the Preston Weaks ranch were about washed away. Any how they had to evacuate their tents and head for higher ground and so they all ran through the wind and rain to the bunk house. But they say they had a fine time, however evacuating camp from the rain was certainly a new experience for most of them, such a little rain they have ever seen.

It rained Sunday here and this Monday morning is still raining, the ground is getting good and soggy once again.

Remember

Nothing is more appreciated by the lady of the house than electric appliances... and no appliance is more important than the electric range. It's the heart of the kitchen, and the modern electric range will quickly win the heart of the entire family.

If you are shopping for ideas for mothers day don't overlook the gift that will bring joy to her for years to come.

See your local appliance dealer and find out how easily a beautiful new range can be installed in your home. See the many models and sizes he has to offer and you are sure to find just the right one to fit that kitchen of yours.

If it's beauty, safety, convenience, or economy you are seeking in a range, then the range you are looking for is electric.

The automatic electric will come on, cook your meal and then go off again as you desire by only making a few simple settings on the controls. With dependable electricity you can go about your business and not worry over the family meal.

As an added economy electricity heats only what you are cooking. No flood of excess heat spills over into the kitchen and entire house to make it uncomfortable, or to add an extra load for your air conditioner.

If you are looking for the best... look at an electric.

LIGHTHOUSE ELECTRIC CO-OPERATIVE INCORPORATED

COULD THERE BE A DIFFERENCE IN POINT OF VIEW?

Many men probably think that there is little difference in kitchen ranges... that the range which was popular several years back is just as good now as when it was purchased. This may be true if we consider only the operation of that particular cook stove:

But if you ask the lady of the house she will give you another answer.

Her present range may have appeared as the only one years ago when many people looked on electric cooking as expensive and took second choice when selecting a range because of a belief that this would give economy of operation.

The modern cook knows that electricity is not extravagant... it is very economical, one of the best buys on the family budget.

She can realize that the electric range works for only a few pennies a day and she need not be satisfied with yesterday's second choice. The modern electric range heats only the food being prepared, there is no excess heat spilling out all over the house to overload air conditioning. Electricity offers the advantages of clean, safe, automatic cooking. Just set the controls and let the ever present electricity take over and complete the job while you go about other tasks or enjoy taking it easy.

Appliance dealers in Floydada have a wide selection of electric ranges on display. They can show you the very make and model that will fit your kitchen.

Now at this Mothers Day season would be a good time to give a thought to the range in your kitchen. Could it be the little woman is deserving of a modern kitchen range.

Floydada Students Leave For State Meet

The annual interscholastic meet will open in the afternoon, May 2, at 2 o'clock in the gymnasium. Registration in Greentown will be held at 7:00 p. m. Friday and will enter the contest at 10:00 a. m. Saturday, in room 116 of Waggener Hall.

The state meet one-act play contest will be held in Hogg Auditorium on the campus. The schedule for Conference A, which includes Floydada, is:

Thursday, May 2: Session 1 starts at 4:30 p. m. (3 plays); session 2 starts at 7:30 p. m. (4 plays).

Judges for the play contest this year are Dr. Angus Springer, Southwest University, Georgetown; Prof. James Barton, Southwest Texas State Teachers College, San Marcos; and Dr. Loren Winship, University of Texas.

I. T. Graves, superintendent of Floydada Public Schools, is a member of the legislative council for the State Meet, and will attend meetings of the session.

The annual interscholastic League directors breakfast will be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Driskill Hotel on Saturday, May 4, at 7:30 a. m. Results of the referendum balloting on amendments to the Constitution and Rules and the Awards Rule will be announced at the breakfast session.

The Legislative Council, at its November meeting last year, recommended the adoption of amendments which have been submitted to member schools for statewide balloting. All senior and junior high schools which paid their membership fees for 1956-57 were mailed a ballot on April 15.

Awards Rule

If passed, the amendment to the Awards Rule will further clarify the rule by listing the exact inter-school contests to which the rule will apply. If the amendment is adopted, the Awards Rule will apply to the same inter-school athletic contests now covered by the Amateur Rule, plus debate, declamation, poetry reading, extemporaneous speaking, one-act play, journalism, ready writing, spelling, number sense, slide rule, typing, shorthand, and music competition.

Other Amendments

The other amendments, if adopted will more clearly define the duties of the State Executive Committee and the Legislative Council. If passed, these amendments will place all legislative matters (except questions involving University policy) under the control of the member schools, while the State Executive Committee will concern itself mainly with the judicial and executive functions of the League.

If the amendments to Article XV of the Constitution are adopted, it will mean that all material changes in eligibility and other rules not involving a question of University policy shall first be submitted to the Legislative Council for its approval, then to the League membership for a deciding vote.

The adoption of these amendments places the full responsibility for League legislation on the Legislative Council and the member schools.

The youngsters will be honor guests during the busy weekend at the University of Texas' Exposition and Power Show.

The Power Show, to be held Friday, May 3, from 6 to 10 p. m., will feature exhibits explaining the wonders of modern science and engineering. The exhibits, which are both fascinating and educational, will give the prospective students an idea of what engineering and an engineering education are like.

University students in the Colleges of Engineering and Pharmacy, home economics department, radio-television and the three ROTC branches prepare the Power Show exhibits. Information booths and guided campus tours will help answer visitors' questions about the University. In addition, faculty members will offer career counseling and the Registrar's Office will provide information on entrance and other scholastic requirements.

Other activities planned for the League visitors include a party for press conference delegates Thursday; debate contests, art exhibits and a chamber music concert by University students; a baseball game between the University of Texas and Baylor University; a triangular track meet between Texas, Texas A&M College and Rice Institute, and swimming for the high school girls in the Women's Gymnasium pool.

The Longhorn Band will hold auditions for prospective members Saturday, May 4, in the Band Hall north of Memorial Stadium.

On Friday night, May 3, the University will recognize outstanding seniors and other class leaders at its traditional Swing-Out ceremony on the terrace in front of the Main Building.

The Floydada students accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Graves and Wendell Daniel left for Austin Wednesday and will return home on Sunday. Coach Preston Watson will journey to Austin with several of his track boys on Friday.

who also placed in the mile run. Last Saturday Ogden got a third place tie in high jump at the big Red Raider Relay. Though a very cold day for the whirlwind he did clear five feet eight and three-quarters inches with only two boys besting this mark. Five feet eleven won first as all the jumpers were having trouble loosening up.

Other thinclads from district two who finished in the money Saturday were Jerry Williams of Lockney who took fourth in the 100 yard dash and Denver Ford of Tahoka who took fourth in the mile run.

Both of these boys as well as the remainder of the Lockney sprint relay team are expected to enter the state meet this week at Austin.

Charles Ogden Lone Entry In Track & Field

Charles Ogden will carry the school colors this week end when he enters the state track meet at Austin, Texas, on Friday. Coach Preston Watson and Bill Patterson will leave Floydada Thursday and hope to arrive there in time to see a triangular meet in which the University of Texas and two other southwest conference schools will compete.

The schoolboy meet will get going full blast Friday and finals will be held off Saturday. Ogden will be entered in the high jump, the event which he placed first in at both district and regional. The Floydada high jumper has jumped over six feet this year on occasion and is believed to be capable of placing in the big meet if he feels right. He has been plagued with a sore back some in the past days and wet weather has been hampering practice sessions some.

Ogden will be the first boy to represent the school in track since Stanley Vickers entered weight events a few years back and Jack Womack

VIEWS AND COMMENT

Which Shall It Be? When an economy wave hits everybody joins in the hue and cry. All of us are economy-minded. We want the government to quit wasting money. Unfortunately the government, meaning to us the bureaucrat, begins cutting where it hurts us the most, making the cuts where they will be most noticeable and resented by the greater number of people. As for instance the Pentagon has begun slicing off the air training program. Most of us would like for them to begin somewhere else. But if they must do it the grudging way, then let them have at it. What we would like to see happen is for Congress to take back its authority and have the bureaus and commissions fill their missions as defined. As it is the bureaus have the whip hand and the congressman is between the two states of mind of his constituents—one that he must establish economy as a watchword in government, the other that he mustn't cut essentials. The bureaucrat is in position to make the congressman look silly as matters now stand.

The government has about $70 billion dollars which has been authorized by Congress to be spent—that is, already if all new appropriations were cut off tomorrow. This is on the authority of Editor and Publisher. The entrenched executives have a long way to go before they are out of funds.

Southwestern at Spur. Southwestern Bell telephone Company officials are having a new experience at Spur, even more so than when they announced the Floydada exchange would be changed to dial. Most Floydada people didn't get enthusiastic but they didn't react in as heated a manner as citizens are at Spur. People in the Dickens County city like their present arrangement, they say. They have the best operators in the world. They can find whoever they want to find when they want them. The dial system is not going to bring any great blessing of modernization and they know it.

When Mother Bell gets ready to make a change in an exchange, like a switch to dial, she purrs of the great benefits the community is going to derive from it, how well justified is an increase in rates on account of it, and so on. She doesn't tell of the dire necessities which compel the change. Nor does she reveal that the change is forthcoming, come hell or high water. She has the nicest way of dealing with the recalcitrant Floydadas and Spurs!

Domestic Advice Department: What's your rule? If you're in the bath tub and the telephone rings what do you do about it. Jump out and try to get on enough clothes for decency and get to the thing before the caller hangs up? Or have you realized that no matter how hard you try you'll get there a split second too late for your impatient caller? Best way, take it calmly, enjoy your bath. If they had anything worthwhile to say they'll call again later.

Speaking of Taking it calmly, it has begun to dawn on people that they've got to live with daily breathless alerts over radio and television. Probably the psychiatrists had this in mind when it was recently announced that a ratio of one out of seven of all persons now living would be treated for mental illness in the course of their lives.

Story said last week that some Texas cattlemen was marketing a considerable number of six-year-old thousand pound steers. Texas people have forgotten (if the present generation has ever known) how a steak or a roast from a mature animal tastes. They're trained to and lick their chops over a piece of veal. Like "weak water" compared to the real thing. Millions of Texas cattle eight and ten years old used to go up the trail and wind up in a fattening pen to make he-man's food. Not so any more, save very, very rarely.

Fame is what you have taken,
Character's what you give;
When to this truth you waken,
Then you begin to live.

SEES STRONG ONION PRICE AT HARVEST

L. A. Marshall, crusader for $1.000 crops to be grown on thousand dollar irrigated land in Floyd County, goes out on a limb this week to predict good prices for the crop again this year.

"The outlook for the price on onions is very good and has been all the season," he says.

"Beginning in South Texas and the Laredo district harvesting is over. Harvesting is now in the Uvalde or winter garden area. The crop is excellent.

"They are having good rains on up north to the Greenville-Dallas area. The planting in that area was heavy because of last year's good prices. The current rains will make their tonnage very heavy. The prices have held steady at $2 to $3 per 50 pound sack.

"Our harvest prices should be in this range."

Mr. Marshall is working on a test to see if the South Plains farmer can put the big money in his own pocket he is now spending for onion plants. In this connection he says of an experiment he is making:

"Last October 1 I planted Grano and California Red onion seed in my garden to see if it might be profitable for our farmers to raise their own onion plants. This March I transplanted these plants. They are now over 12 inches high.

"Also in March of this year I bought 100 plants from South Texas to compare production, time of harvest, and so forth, with plants raised here.

"The South Texas plants are six to eight inches high, the home-raised 12 inches high. The test is not over. The main thing to be determined is will the home raised plants make too many fruit stems.

"Onion growers are invited to come by my place here at 602 South Wall Street and observe this experiment through the harvest.

"Our irrigated section paid South Texas this year around $300 thousand for onion plants this season. Maybe we could raise them here."

Marshall also urges local growers to try a few Charleston Gray melons to see what they do on the plains. In favor of this project he says:

"I have taken Star Cash Grocery to order some seed so anyone interested may try them. They are the most popular melon on all melon markets.

He also urges that warehousing is a must, sooner or later. "Let's keep this fact in mind. We cannot get past first base, vegetable speaking, until we build a temperature-controlled warehouse with packing shed, quick-freeze department, including tomato juice canning department.

"Finance to build this can be obtained from government money, a large per cent of it. Let's make this a must in 1958."

"Some current quotations: Grano onions, Detroit Mich., $4.50 per 50 pounds, St. Louis around $4, Denver, Colo., $3.50, Dallas up to $3.50.

"Peppers $5 to $7 per bushel based on outlook good. Cabbage around 3 cents per pound.

"Out look for price on all vegetables excellent."

"The word to describe the money situation at present is 'Stutterin.'"

There are approximately 5,000 honey bees to the pound.

On Alert for Masshoppers

WARRIORS ADVISED — Farmers in many areas of Texas are being alerted by Extension Entomologist C. P. Puller for possible infestations of locusts this spring and early summer.

Reports made by the entomologists say that locusts are forecast for the western counties in the near future. The locusts are being reported in the following counties: DeWitt, Garza, Kinney, Kinzle, Floyd, Briscoe, Crosby, Swisher, Armstrong, Randall, Castro counties. All of these counties are in the western part of the state.

Light infestations of locusts in deep central Texas at present, entomologists should be watched carefully. The first locusts hatched hoppers, and in the Brazos River valley, locusts will progress with favorable weather.

To do the most effective control, farmers should be alerted before the locusts reach the garden margins, ditch banks, and other areas where they are likely to be found. The appearance of young locusts in large numbers justifies the use of insecticides. Insecticides should be available for locusts and include carbaryl, heptachlor, toxaphene, and DDT.

Entomologists suggest that farmers be contacted before locusts reach control measures and how they should be used. The insecticides for man and animals are masshoppers and the directions should be followed. Puller and

Your Health

AUSTIN—Between now and fall, insecticides in back yard gardens will fog the air like smoke as the annual battle between gardener and garden pests is joined in earnest. Farmers will fight with spray planes and aerosol mists as a summer sun brings maturity to insect-vulnerable field crops.

Inevitably, the insect will lose. A single breath of lethal spray, a single drop on his tiny body, a single bite of spray-covered green and his doom is sealed. He has a single consolation a grim, but satisfying one: His executioner, being human is liable to the human disease of carelessness. Which could mean that the man behind the spray gun stands a fair chance of being himself a victim of the very weapon he employs against the insects.

So it is that the executioner becomes the executed. Modern insecticides and miticides—including the deadly "organic phosphates"—allow slight margin for error. Improperly used, they have a high toxicity for warm-blooded animals—including humans—as they have for insects.

Does their danger restrict their use? Yes, but only to a certain extent. Skilled doctors and chemical engineers in the State Health Department's Division of Occupational Health, while acknowledging the dangers of careless use, say: "Any poison, however toxic, can be used with safety when proper precautions are taken."

It is for this reason that the State Department of Health, in cooperation with the Texas Medical Association and Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has undertaken to acquaint as many persons as possible with exactly what those precautions are. The project has taken this form:

Kits of materials on every conceivable phase of insecticide usage, including the composition of poisons and their relative toxicity, and a description of insects and mites each is effective for physicians, veterinarians, and county agents. Also contained in the kits are guide sheets listing laboratories prepared to perform highly complicated blood tests for cholinesterase activity, how specimens should be prepared, and the limits of exposure to potent insecticides.

All the information is the latest obtainable, condensed to bare essentials for quick reading and reference. The intention is to make the office of every doctor and every county agent an information center in the safe use of economic poisons. Still, the burden of safe use will always be on the person behind the spray gun. He is the one who must follow the instructions on the manufacturers label. He is the one who must guard other people and livestock against wind drifts containing spray. He is the one who must make sure he is gloved and masked and properly clothed before using the poison. He is the one who must be alert to spillage or inhalation.

Small Dams For Texas Conservation

The State's tremendous land and water resources—ill formed many years of neglect—are getting a good "shot in the arm" from the various Soil Conservation Districts.

Hundreds of small dams, known as retention reservoirs, have been constructed on upstream tributaries in major Texas watersheds. Many others are planned in conjunction with large downstream reservoirs.

These upstream water retention structures are beginning to dot the countryside. In some areas, they can be seen from the highway. They might appear, at first, to be an exaggerated "Texas-size" stock tank. The small dam projects have a three-fold purpose: Prevent flash floods, conserve water and stop soil erosion.

Thousands of acres in lowland areas have made available for crops and pastures because the retention structures have eliminated seasonal flash floods.

SCD co-operators in the area, through proper land treatment on farms surrounding the reservoirs, help preserve every rain drop that falls. They also assist the Soil Conservation Service in obtaining necessary easements for proposed reservoirs.

The dams, when constructed remain the property of the landowners.

Recreational facilities have been set up by many owners. An irrigation has been applied to small, adjoining crops.

The structures are designed to release excessive water downstream at a slow rate, thereby putting into practice the idea to "make water walk, not run". When a flash flood strikes, the reservoirs catch the water and release it very slowly.

Completion of all the planned small dams will in the future tend to stabilize the flow of large creeks and rivers—providing more dependable, year-round surface water supplies.

All Texans should be proud of the locally controlled Soil Conservation Districts SCD boards of supervisors and the farmer-cooperators are far-sighted, progressive leaders. They have recognized that, as the soil goes, so goes the nation. And they're doing something about it.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

(Nelle Witt Spikes)

THE BROUTH BREAKING

The southwest wind had punished the plains all day.

The papery corn blades rattled with every gust.

Dry and wilted. The scoured fields flowed with dust.

Grasshoppers, rising from stubble, hurried away.

The wind died out neat sunset. Clouds, blue-gray

And rimmed on each fore-edge with a silver crust.

Piled up northwesterward-smoke-dark and smeared with rust

In the father distance. Lightning began to play

Silently in the masses. Slowly they mounted.

Had the horizon; the circlets swelled and spread

Solid across the sky, weighting the air.

The early stars, while they still could be counted.

Dimmed and went out. Suddenly overhead,

The tension broke. Sweet rain was everywhere!

-Elijah L. Jacobs.

Scrap books are fascinating things to own, but getting them made is quite another story.

Cutting and pasting, on and on, the job goes but the work amply repays one for the work put into it.

I have two books of poems, many of them about the second world war. Seems funny that this late war is getting to look so far away for our young people.

I have scrap books of funny things during that time that are very humorous to me but Joe Ellis does not get much out of them as he does not know the connection to things of that period.

The war still seems very near to me. I think of the times we had on the farm with trying to keep the old car running, the worn-out tires and how hard it was to get a permit for a new one.

We had to take a trailer with us most every where we went and we were always having tire trouble.

The rationing of food did not worry us for on the farm there was plenty of eggs, milk and butter and meal and wheat and corn for bread.

We did not get a bit hungry for sugar and to this day I recall how tired we got of trying to sweeten our tea with saccharine.

How wonderful it was to find a V-Mail letter in the mail box! How we wrapped so carefully a parcel to go overseas which many, too many times did not reach its destination.

How very black the big headlines looked! How awful the news on the radio!

What takes my mind back to those war-torn days? Well just listen and I will tell it to you.

HITLER AND THE DEVIL

-Peter P. Bell

Hitler called the Devil up on the telephone one day.

The girl at central listened to all they had to say.

"Hello," she heard Hitler say "Is old Satan home?"

Just tell him its the dictator who wants him on the phone."

The Devil said, "Howdy" and Hitler, "How are you?"

"I'm running a hell on earth, so tell me what to do."

"What can I do?" The Devil said, "Dear old pal of mine?"

"It seems you don't need any help, you're doing mighty fine."

"Yes, I was doing very good until a while ago."

"When a man named Roosevelt wired me to go more slow."

"He said to me, Dear Hitler, we don't want to be unkind."

"But you have raised hell enough, so you had better change your mind."

"I thought his lease-lend bill was a bluff and he could never put it through."

"But he soon put me on the spot when he showed me what he could do."

"Now that's why I called you; I need advice from you."

"For I know you will tell me just what I ought to do."

"My dear Hitler, there is not much left to tell."

"For Uncle Sam will make it hotter than I can here in hell."

"I've been a mean old Devil, but not half as mean as you."

"So the minute you get here the job is yours to do."

"I'll be ready for your coming and I'll keep the fires all bright."

"And I'll have your room already when Sam begins to fight."

"For I can see your days are numbered and there's nothing left to tell."

"So hang up your phone, get your hat and meet me here in hell."

"Now you can readily see why this poem would not have much meaning or interest to the young teen agers, but you can bet your bottom hat it will have plenty for the boys who fought and the ones who stayed at home and anxiously waited for news for the cessation of the war."

SPARKS FOR MINDS

ALMOST five centuries ago, Gutenberg's invention of movable type started a revolution. It has been going on ever since. For five times five centuries—and even before—a few men were the privileged rulers—by accident of birth or of circumstance. The people were subjects, supporting those thus kept in authority. However, movable type, by cutting the cost of printing, began the process of making knowledge more widely available. People's understanding then grew. Sparks of hope were kindled in the minds of men. When it became apparent to entrenched authority that promoting with dissemination of information and ideas might in time destry their powers, censorship was exercised. In a search for greater freedom, men of many races and creeds crossed the ocean to establish homes on this continent. They and their children founded here a nation dedicated to a new principle: government by the people, and for the people. And knowing that liberty could be overthrown only by abolishing freedom of speech and the press, they provided further that this basic freedom should never be abridged. This system of government created an opportunity for all men to advance, limited only by their efforts. In but a few generations it was for this people a higher standard of living and of human welfare than had ever before been dreamed possible. America's freedom of the press has proved to the world that the patriotic interest of an informed plain people can be relied on to govern wisely and well.
