South Plains Missile Sites

Smith, staff fense has never announced the from The Ama-number of Minuteman missiles in a squadron an Associated Press for Minuteman story in December of 1960 re being sought in ported 50 of the big birds would field men go into a silo squadron.

According to the July 17 is- sue of Missiles and Rockets Mag- azine the Minuteman installations scheduled will be composed of 150 missiles each for a total of 600. Engineer fieldman visiting farmers in the 7-county area sur- rounding Lubbock have told some farmers that about 150 sites are being selected.

The comptroller of the South- west Division of the Corps of En- gineers in Dallas, Athel Reid, said the number of spots being inspected in the Lubbock vicinity are in "the hundreds — probably between 200 and 400 will be in- vestigated." Reid said this would allow the best selection possible for the sites needed.

A missile making firm official said that to all appearances the Lubbock area was a good possi- bility for yet to be announced Minuteman squadrons. He said the Corps of Engineers usually begins seeking easements for a testing program after the Air Force has selected the area as a "good potential site."

Reid said the Lubbock area is definitely a "prospective missile area."

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa and Mahon have both stated that no funds have been appropriated for such a Lubbock project.

Funds for the present four Min- uteman projects were approved in Pres. Kennedy's budget for this year but funds for new pro- jects would have to come after the first of the year.

Mahon said the lack of public information on such a project for the Panhandle-Plains is due to a new Administration shut down on information about strategic pro- jects.

Defense Secretary Robert Mc Namara stated earlier this year that announcement of definite projects and the number of pro- jects would no longer be made.

"It's a little discouraging with everything out," explained Ma- hon. "The Russians know where everything is." And with this in mind Mahon added that a missile project would "make this (Lub- bock) area an important war tar- get — this is most discouraging and sobering to me. I wish we could avoid it."

The 58-foot Minuteman is con- sidered a major step forward in the United States retail- ing in a war of supersonic mis- siles.

The three - stage solid fuel rocket would not need to be raised from its silo like the Atlas be- fore firing — it would be fired while in the pit.

The lengthy fueling and count- down on the 15-minute to-blast-off on an Atlas would be eliminated with the solid fuel Minuteman, as reported in Aviation Week maga- zines.

Firing the Minuteman would be many more than in like lighting a firecracker — just "boom." The Atlas get it started and off it goes. The Atlas, is com- posed of launching pads, with liquid oxygen before firing.

Corps of Engineer personnel in the field selecting sites have been giving landowners a basic outline of the project.

"They told me what the land was for — for missile sites," said John Bickley of Lockney. Bickley was approached by Corps of Engineer men last week who wished to obtain an easement for land owned by Bickley just north of Lockney.

"I didn't sign it," said Bickley. "I certainly didn't." According to Bickley the engineers wanted the right to enter and make tests on his land for 24 months.

Bickley said he and about five other farmers in Floyd County re- fused to sign the contracts be- cause they didn't want their ir- rigation systems "ruined" by blast- ing on their land.

The engineers told farmers they will only take core samples and seismic tests that would not harm irrigation systems. In the possi- bility of actual silo building the field men say they'll drill — not blast.

One field man told Bickley the easement signing job he had was "rush" and he was working

"seven days a week 12 hours a day." According to the Floyd County farmers the job is sup- posed to be completed by Aug. 1 so that the site testing and evaluation can begin by August 15.

Only one farmer in the Lock- ney area agreed to sign an ease- ment contract. According to Mrs. Leslie Ferguson, who co-signed the contract with her husband, "they said they could go and take methods to get the land even if we didn't sign."

A missile making firm official said the Minuteman silo is not as large and complex as the 174-foot deep Atlas silos. The missiles are installed in large numbers, he said, for possible at once "clus- ter" firing. Engineer field men have told landowners the Minute- man silos are 80 feet deep.

A Los Angeles, Calif., firm, Perkins & O'Brien, consulting en- gineers, is expected to take over the actual testing when they move into their leased offices in Lubbock Monday or Tuesday. The firm has a six-month office lease.

The firm will reportedly bring a field crew of about 100 men to Lubbock to evaluate the land obtained in easements by the Corps of Engineers. It is the duty of Perkins & O'Brien to verify the feasibility of building the silos here.

After a trip to Washington D. C., Lubbock Mayor David Casey reported the building of missile sites in the 150-mile radius a- round Lubbock would mean an additional 2,000 personnel assigned to Reese Air Force Base.

Rumors in Lubbock have set cost estimates on the possible project as high as $2 billion. But the cost estimates made on the four scheduled Minuteman bases have been released as $75 mil- lion for each base.

In the Oklahoma City area all needed easements have been obtained and core and seismic test- ing has already begun. Tongues in Oklahoma City have been more loose than in Lubbock and films of the testing were televised on an NBC national news show this week. On the show the tests were described as being for Minuteman missile silos.

Late Friday Mayor Casey said that Lubbock through its con- gressman (Mahon) and through the Chamber of Commerce "are definitely trying to get these sites here."

Mayor Casey said that the pro- ject, if it came to Lubbock, would mean "that we would have about 150 of these sites around Lubbock and they'd be at least 15 miles apart from each other."
