Thelma Mae Boggess and Truell Johnson Wed Here on Saturday

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Thelma Mae Boggess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boggess, of Friona, and Truell Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnson of Hereford, on the evening of April 20th, at the Congregational - Christian Church at Friona.

T. F. Gauthen, assistant minister of the Broadway Street Church of Christ in Lubbock, read the double ring service at 8 o'clock.

Vases of tulips, carnations and sweet peas decorated the altar, which was flanked by lighted tapers in candelabra, which was draped with bridal wreath.

The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional, and "Because," and "My Hero," sung by Macie K. Watson, formed a musical background for the ceremony.

Misses Patsy and Roberta Reed, nieces of the bride, wearing blue evening dresses, led the wedding party, carrying lighted tapers to the altar and lighted the candelabra. They were followed by the matron of honor, Miss Doris Fern Moody, who was attired in a pastel yellow gown.

Miss Robbie Jean Boggess, niece of the bride, wearing a pastel blue evening dress, carried the rings to the altar on a white slipper satin pillow. Miss Lydia Jones, niece of the groom, wearing a white chiffon evening dress, carried a small satin basket which was filled with bridal wheat.

Truett Coffman of Amarillo, was best man, and Billy Joe Brown of Lubbock, and Louis Welch of Friona, were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was resplendent in a gown of white slipper satin, fashioned with a long fitted embroidered bodice and long sleeves, which were fastened with clusters of satin buttons, and a long full skirt which was enhanced with an oriental embroidered peplum. Her finger-tip length veil was of white net and was held in place by a lacy white hat trimmed with the oriental embroidery.

The wedding bouquet was of white roses and was tied with long satin streamers. For something borrowed and something blue she wore a ring belonging to her sister.

The mother of the bride wore a navy blue crepe dress trimmed in white with a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother was attired in navy blue with a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception honored the bridal party at the home of the bride's parents. The lace-covered bride's table was centered with an arrangement of tulips, carnations and sweet peas. Blue crystal candelabra bore white tapers and the three-tiered wedding cake completed the appointment.

Miss Doris Moody presided at the wedding cake after the traditional first piece had been cut. She was assisted in serving ice cream and cake by Mrs. B. J. Brown and Mrs. Curtiss Murphy. Mrs. Bob Reitmayer and Miss Cecile Davis secured names for the guest book.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the mountains of New Mexico. The bride chose a pale blue eyelet embroidered dress with a dusty rose topper and carried white accessories. After their return they will be at home at Hereford, where the groom is engaged in irrigation farming with his father.

Mrs. Johnson was graduated from Friona High School and attended Draughon's Business College at Lubbock, and for the past year has been enrolled at Abilene Christian College at Abilene.

Mr. Johnson was graduated from Friona High School and attended Arlington Military Academy at Arlington. He was but recently discharged from the army after having served for many months in the European war area.

Farmers Worried Over Condition Of Wheat Crop

Farmers of the Friona territory are expressing great concern as to the future of the present wheat crop in this locality, owing to the long continued drought which is oppressing the country at this time.

It is said that some fields are badly hurt already, and a few are fearing that their crop has already suffered so severely as to defeat a yield sufficient to pay the expense of harvesting the crop.

Others are still hopeful and feel that if we can receive as much as an inch of moisture within the near future, that there will be a fair yield. There is also some complaint of damage being done by the green bugs which are said to be working in some fields, and it may be that this pest is having as much to do with the present discouraging appearance of the crop as the dry weather is doing.

Row crop farmers are also getting anxious to be about the preparation of their fields for cotton and sorghum crops; although there is not much being heard about the cotton crop. It has not rained any yet, anyway near Friona in any direction though they have had some pretty good rains at Hereford and on to Amarillo, so we have been told.

Well it is beginning to look pretty bad for the wheat, and farmers are saying this is the driest year we have ever had here, but they seem to have

F. S. A. NEWS

John E. Key, Farm Security Administration land appraiser, was in Parmen County Friday morning April 19, 1946, to appraise farms for GI loans. The Fred Shulk farm in the Hub community optioned to Aubrey E. Cannon, a G-I tenant purchase and the farm in the Oklahoma Lane community optioned to Wilford E. (Bill) Johnson for a GI farm enlargement loan were both approved.

In the past when farm ownership loans have been approved by the appraiser we have been able to complete the loan. I am of the opinion that both of these applications will be approved.

I am very anxious to get these loans completed to break the ice so to speak, in hope of getting many more loans approved in the future. This type loan certainly has a big advantage to the person who has the ambition to be a farm owner but does not have the capital to buy land. The FSA can make a loan to a GI for the purchase of a farm and for the equipment to operate it.

Extension Service Offers Advice on Building Houses With Native Stone

If you are one of the many people who are ready and able to build a home, but are having difficulty in getting lumber, you may have been thinking of using native materials—logs and stone, mostly. And, if you live in a region where stone is readily available, you'll find some very worthwhile tips in a recent publication issued by the Texas A and M College Extension Service.

The name of this publication is "How to Build with Native Stone" and it does just that, from the foundation on. "How to Build with Native Stone" was adapted to Texas conditions by M. R. Bentley, the agricultural engineer, from a circular of the same title issued by the Oklahoma A and M Extension Service.

The publication is divided into a number of sections. There is a discussion of the different varieties of rock work, another on foundations, and then there are instructions for making and using forms for laying the walls. Directions for mixing the concrete mortar are included. A copy of "How to Build with Native Stone" can be obtained from your county agricultural or home demonstration agent or by writing to the Extension Service, Texas A & M College, College Station, Texas.

And speaking of stone houses, the neatest trick of the week is taking place near Bangs, Brown County, where Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Boenicke have been wanting to build a new farm home for some time but were stymied for lack of building material. Here's the way they solved their problem: Mr. Boenicke had a huge barn, built of prime, seasoned lumber—and he no longer needed it, since he had gone on a mechanized basis. So—he built a smaller barn of rock and moved his family into it. Then he tore down his old house and the old barn. Now he is building a ranch style rock house using his salvaged lumber for the wood parts. Presently he will move out of the new barn into his new house, and it will be one of the show places of the countryside, from all we can hear.

College Station Forecasts Near Record Crops

COLLEGE STATION, April 24.—Unless conditions grow worse, Texas farmers in 1946 should produce the third largest wheat crop in the state's history. Based upon April 1 conditions, the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture forecast a yield of 59,940,000 bushels, according to a statement released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Austin. If this yield is realized it will come from the largest acreage ever seeded in Texas.
The BAE statement points out, however, that final wheat harvest is dependent largely upon the state of the weather during April and May. In the important northwest wheat area, timely rains and snow provided sufficient surface moisture to bring the crop through the winter and early spring months with light losses of acreage. Notwithstanding, total rainfall for the season is below normal and subsoil moisture is deficient. Meanwhile, good general rains are needed to prevent further loss in acreage and yield.
In other wheat areas, however, rainfall generally had been adequate and the crop to April 1 had made good progress. Infestation of greenbug have been reported in many areas, but the damage from this insect had not been excessive.
Assuming that current growing conditions continue, or improve, the yield forecast would be exceeded only by the record crop of 1944 and that of 1931.
The BAE statement said that the prospective yield per seeded acre at 10 bushels is 1.9 bushels above the seeded yield from the 1945 crop and 1.8 bushels above the 10-year (1935-44) average of 8.2 bushels.
Continuing, the statement said that for the state as a whole, the reported condition of other winter grain crops are

New Chemical Is Answer to Garden Plant Problems

COLLEGE STATION, April 24.—"DD" a petroleum by-product, shows promise of being a practical means of controlling the nematodes which cause plant root diseases, according to M. Thornton, agricultural chemist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.
DD apparently is an effective in nematode control as other chemicals for this purpose, including carbon disulphide, methyl bromide mixtures, and tear gas. And the cost is much less than the other chemicals, which ran from eighty to several hundred dollars an acre.
Trials at the Plant Industry Station of Beltsville, Md., and the Branch Experiment Station, Weslaco, Texas show that DD is highly effective on the common rootknot nematode when soil conditions are favorable.
The DD liquid is applied in holes driven into the soil or as an emulsion sprinkled on the surface.
DD, now in limited commercial production, is a mixture of 1-3 dichloropropylene and 1-2 dichloropropane.

average or better than average, but these crops in the northwest area also need additional moisture to prevent losses in yield and acreage. An eight per cent reduction in corn acreage compared with 1945 is indicated by prospective planting reports on March 1. Most of the corn acreage in the important north central areas had been seeded under favorable conditions and the crop is up to a good stand in the southern areas. Much of the sorghum acreage in the earlier areas also is up to a good stand.

Rollin' 'em faster on the Santa Fe

Santa Fe serves the Southwest with two main lines.
The northern route runs across the plains of Kansas, southeastern Colorado, and goes over the mountains at Raton Pass.
The southern route leans south in eastern Kansas, runs through Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle (where it is joined by other Santa Fe lines serving Texas), crosses central New Mexico, and joins the northern route again near Albuquerque.
Along these main lines Santa Fe has increased its yard facilities, straightened out curves and lengthened sidings to handle more freight trains.
Centralized Traffic Control systems have been installed, virtually adding another "main line" to important parts of the Santa Fe.
A great new double-track steel bridge across the Colorado River removes the "bottleneck" created by the old single track bridge it replaces.
80 giant 5400-horsepower Diesel locomotives—the most powerful freight Diesels in the world—are pulling heavy freights over our steepest mountain grades.
These increased facilities on the Santa Fe are ready to "roll 'em faster" for shippers even more efficiently than before.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of Jodok

Well! Another week has come and gone and passed away into eternity and is now but a page of history and, for some people, a mere filament of memory. Within a 24 hour period, the end of two weeks has passed—the latter end of one and the first end of the other.

Within that same period also came the end of two lives—the end of the earthly life and the beginning of the celestial life of one man, the second one being commemorated with the Easter Festival, a church festival, which always comes on Sunday, being the first Sunday, after the first full moon, falling on or after the 21st March of each year.

Easter Sunday is sometimes pointed out or referred to as the Sunday when church-going men attend church, and such fact was, perhaps, no less noticeable this year than in previous years, and at all churches throughout the land.

I, also attended church again on that day, and was again well repaid for my efforts, substantiating the statement made a few weeks ago, that it pays to go to church somewhere each Sunday, for the worthwhile things one hears, sees and learns.

Among these things was the program rendered by the children of the congregation, which included their sweet childish voices as they sang the Easter songs they had learned from their teachers and trainers, and as their tender minds began to partake of something of the purposes and meanings of the Easter season, which knowledge will continue to broaden as the years with their Easter Festivals succeed each other.

And one of the worthwhile things that we older people saw was the sparkling of the young eyes as their owners came forward and took their places in the line with their mates for those exercises. It may be that some of these essential things are not sufficiently noticed by those of, what are often termed middle aged people, but to the man getting well into his "Eighties," they become outstanding features. In addition to what the children added with their singing and speaking, the sing in—of the specially selected or prepared songs for the Easter season that are always sung by the adult chor, and the specially prepared sermon by the pastor, and other church rites or ceremonies that are frequently connected with the Easter services, are well worth one's time to see and hear. Thus it is that those in their "eighties" received an inspiration for their declining years.

And thus it is that the Easter season seems in a fair way to supplant in importance and religious interest, that of the Yuletide, and why should it not? The Easter season is becoming, and should become, a time for reviving old friendships by the sending of Easter greetings, and beautiful flower offerings to those who are resistant and by a verbal greeting and a warm handshake for those in personal contact.

As mentioned above, the fact that this Easter season is a commemoration of the beginning of a new life? One man defines life as an accident that came upon one of the minor planets, and is the by-product of things sublime. It also seems that the planet, referred to, (which was evidently our earth), did not need it and cared not for it, but was unable to rid itself of it.

And thus it is, that there seems to be no part nor portion of the planet that is not impregnated with this thing we call "life" even to the most insignificant or smallest imaginable portion of it—the atom—is so impregnated with this element, called "life," as to be now recognized as the source of the greatest power now extant. There is but one power or source of power that is greater so far as the human race is able to discern, which, though it may not subdue or annihilate the power contained in the atom, still has the power, when properly exerted, to stay, or hold back the atomic power and turn it to away from bringing about destruction and turning it into channels of usefulness for all people, now and in aeons to come, and that power is LOVE.

And going back to the word—"life," it is noticeable that each individual of the human race has a life or character for each and every occasion with which he comes in contact. This fact is noticeable with all, though much more noticeable with some than with others, and if time and space permitted it would be interesting, if not worthwhile to go into this phase of the individual life, but that must be left for another time.

Sam Walter Foss, the poet, deals with this thing, "life," in the following stanza of his poem, "The House by the Side of

Now it can be told. Last September 1st was a red letter day for the Johnnies and Marys all over the nation who had gone ice cream hungry for so long.

According to preliminary reports by the United States Department of Agriculture, the make of ice cream rose from 125 million gallons in the last four months of 1944 to about 181 million gallons in the same months of 1945. Translated into easily understood terms, that means an increase from a little over five servings per month per person for every individual in the United States in the 1944 period, to nearly eight servings per person in the corresponding months of 1945.

The increase in ice cream manufacture has probably been accompanied by a decline in the make of sherbets and ices, in the opinion of the Department of Agriculture. Ice cream requires much less sugar in its manufacture than do these other frozen foods, and consequently more gallons of ice cream can be made with the same amount of sugar. Because of its lower sugar content, ice cream contains fewer calories per serving than most ices and sherbets, according to the National Dairy Council. At the same time, ice cream is a superior food, in that it contains all of the constituents of milk.

Miss Carolyn Lange, who is attending college at Lubbock came home to spend Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Lange, and her sister, Miss Doris Ann Lange.
