

THE SANDERSON TIMES

Volume 17

Sanderson, Texas, Saturday, July 5, 1924

No. 21

SANDERSON MARKET

TIP FRAZIER, PROP.

Fresh Meats, Fruits, Vegetables.

Fish and Oysters in Season.

YOUR BUSINESS APPRECIATED

Phone 94.

Seiberling All-Tread Tires

In their long barred, one piece tread and side wall, these tires have the greatest pneumatic tire improvement since the improvement of the cord.

The Seiberling All-Tread is not just a new tire—it is a different and better TYPE of tire.

And They Cost No More Than Any Other Tire.

Come in and look them over.

Keefer Filling Station.

W. E. STIRMAN

Dealer in

WOOD—and—COAL

Cedar, Mesquit, Oak Wood and Coal

Drayage.

Store Room.

Phone No. 2

Sanderson, Texas.

LEMONS & HENSHAW, ABSTRACTORS

Terrell County Lands

Lands Sold Property Returned Lands Leased Taxes Paid

Abstracts Examined and Titles Passed Upon By an Efficient and Reliable Attorney.

Office with County Clerk, Sanderson, Texas

G. J. Henshaw, Mgr.

Ora E. Lemons, Sec'y

JUST RECEIVED A

CAR LOAD

1924 Model

FORDS

W. J. FERGUSON

--MONEY SAVED--

Each month makes a big saving at the end of the year. That's why it pays to buy from us.

We handle everything in the general merchandise line.

SANDERSON MERCANTILE CO.

TO WHAT DID THE TRAIL OF THE RED LINE LEAD

Offered to readers today is the first installment of Crittendon Marriott's thrilling story of mysterious happenings on land and sea, "The Red Line Trail."

Here you will find a curious combination of adventures all thrown together in quest of a mysterious something the nature of which even the most alert reader probably will not suspect. A dying man makes an urgent request, and immediately there is precipitated a series of stirring events which whirl the reader from chapter to chapter with an amazing speed. A ship under sealed orders dashes down the Atlantic coast. Strange things happen aboard her and the astounded passengers begin to suspect each other of treachery. In the midst of this intrigue there is unfolded a beautiful romance of youth and love today, giving the story every quality to make it appear to the taste of the most exacting reader.

In presenting "The Red Line Trail" The Times has endeavored to give its subscribers a really good story by an able writer. Begin reading it today and you will follow it through to its surprising end.

Mrs. Lizzie Green and daughter, Willie Mae, left Thursday morning for Valentine to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance McLyman and Gerald Grigsby left Monday for Ozona to attend the barbecue held at that city this week.

A news item from the Floresville Chronicle-Journal points out a loyal Sanderson booster:

Clyde Griffith, former well known young business man of this city who now holds a splendid position as secretary-treasurer of the large Kerr Mercantile Company of Sanderson, spent two days of this week with Floresville relatives and friends. Mr. Griffith is delighted with Sanderson and his position. He is connected with a firm that does an immense business, one of the largest in that section. The owners, Messrs. Joe and Jim Kerr, are well known in this and Atascosa counties. They are prominently identified with a number of large enterprises at Sanderson. Mr. Griffith says the town is enjoying a substantial growth and that entire section is now in good shape. His many Floresville friends were indeed glad to see him.

FOR SALE OR TRADE

I have 60 head bred Billies for sale or trade, they were raised by Max Luckie. For further information see or write Wickliffe Edwards, Sanderson, Texas.

Miss Kato C. Hartnot of El Paso, enroute to Nashville, Tenn., spent Wednesday as the guest of Mrs. W. F. Bohlman.

Chester Smith and family have as their guests Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. B. E. Smith, and sister, Mrs. Alice Stevenson, of San Antonio.

LOST—Between town and Big Hill a hub cap to a Paige car. Finder please leave at Mussey Bros. Garage.

Miss Annie Scherer returned to her home in San Antonio after a pleasant visit with Miss Mary Ellen Bohlman.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

A meeting was held of the business men, leading citizens and representatives of the railroad last Thursday night in the sample room of the Kerr Hotel for the purpose of organizing an Athletic Association to build a permanent ball park in Sanderson.

Several plans were discussed and officers elected which was voted that John Stovell was made chairman and E. F. Howard secretary and treasurer of the association and several committees appointed. The proposed location for the grounds was decided on being about three quarters of a mile east of the town of Sanderson along the highway.

Roundhouse foreman Daggott and several S. P. officials are co-operating with the citizens in making of plans and assisting all they can to make a success of the park.

About $500 has been donated to date and the several committees are planning on getting started to work as they plan to have the grandstand up by July 12th, for the Sanderson-El Paso game on that date.

County Highway Engineer John Stovell received a communication from Division Engineer in regards to the Highway through Terrell county, which follows: Mr. John Stovell, Sanderson, Texas.

Dear Sir: I will accept Section A on Highway No. 3 in Terrell county as being complete June 30th and will instruct Maintenance Superintendent to take care of this section.

D. E. Manigault, Division Engineer.

WANTED BY LADY—Work in store or restaurant. Write Box 284, Hondo, Texas.

Bro. D. E. Adams' daughter, Mrs. Utley, who has been critically ill in El Paso for the past two months with inflammatory rheumatism is improving again. She is now the proud mother of an eight pound son, who arrived Sunday morning at nine forty-five. Both mother and son are doing as well as could be expected.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, at Valentine, on June 25, a daughter.

Mrs. Alex. Mitchell returned the first of the week from San Antonio where she has been visiting friends and relatives the past few months.

Sanderson loses good citizens in the departure of J. T. Farley and family who left Wednesday for Scedona, Arizona. Mr. Farley intends to go into the ranch business there.

John Clifford of El Paso visited his aunt, Mrs. W. F. Bohlman, this week.

E. J. Chastain, superintendent of the Wybor Baptist Station at Tampa, Fla., spent a few days here this week with his nephew, Ed. Chastain. Mr. Chastain is enroute to the City of Mexico where he is to give lectures at the Baptist Theological Institute there.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan and Lindsey Hicks were in from the ranch Thursday on business.

SANDERSON WINS A ONE-SIDED GAME

The Langtry Lobos arrived in Sanderson last Sunday and made their appearance on the local field, returning home that evening with a 27 to 2 defeat ringing in their ears.

"Red" Cavender was in the mound for Sanderson and he allowed the Lobos with but 2 hits and the 2 runs scored were made off of walks. He had perfect support behind him.

H. Hall pitched for the Lobos and he was smothered with base hits, 2 and 3 bagger, home runs and very poor support. The full nine innings were played in a slow 3 hour game.

Sanderson used the following line-up: Cavender, pitcher; Duke, catcher; C. White, first base; Bodkin, second base; Robertson third base; M. White, short stop; Sharp left field; Stirman, center field; Buchanan, right field.

Lobos: H. Hall, pitcher; G. Skiles, catcher; Weaver, first base; H. Brown, second base; Flowers, third base; Luther Billings, short stop; Schrier, left field; T. Brown, center field; L. Billings, right field.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hollibeke are the proud parents of a baby daughter born Sunday, June 29, at Valentine, Texas.

THE INTEREST OF THIS BANK

IN its customers begins when they open an account—continues during the life of their connection here—and is terminated only by the customer himself.

NOT as a matter of occasional occurrence, but as one of continuous habit is our interest shown in the financial welfare of those who honor us with their business.

Sanderson State Bank

A Guaranty Fund Bank

GROCERIES

Fruits, Vegetables, Ham, Bacon.

YOUR TRADE SOLICITED

W. H. FARLEY

GROCERIES

Fruits and Vegetables, Meat Market

in Connection

YOUR BUSINESS SOLICITED

ALEJANDRO MARQUEZ

We Carry Everything Handled In A General Store

DRY GOODS

The Season's New and Best Styles

DRESS GOODS,

MEN'S SUITS,

HATS, CAPS,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

GROCERIES

We Have Everything That's Good to Eat

Canned Vegetables and Fruits,

Jellies, Jams,

Teas and Coffees.

HARDWARE

We Are Headquarters for

Hardware, Oil, Paints

Stoves, Pipe Fittings,

Wire, Nails,

Studebaker Wagons

FURNITURE

We Have a Nice Line of

Chairs, Rockers, Tables,

Dressers, Beds,

Springs and Mattresses.

LUMBER

Anything You Want in

Building Material, Sash

Doors, Cement, Lime

Brick, Roofing,

Fencing.

THE KERR MERC. COMPANY

AW, WHAT'S THE USE

By L. F. Van Zeln

Poor Fish Hooked a Whale

PEOPLE OF OUR TOWN

Here's to the Old Timer who has weathered the Storms Brasily and Come through Undaunted, who thinks Times are just as Good as they Used to be and Looks Forward serenely to the End of the Chapter. We like Poppy Old Folks. Long may they Wave!

MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL

By Charles Suthrope

Believe It or Not

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

FOLKS LAUGHS AT ME CA'SE AH'S SORTER KNOCK-KNEED BUT TAIN NONE O' MAH FAULT - AH WUZ A BOW-LAIGGED BABY EN DE DOCTUH TUK EN STRAIGHTEN 'EM OUT TOO MUCH!!

TURN ME OVER

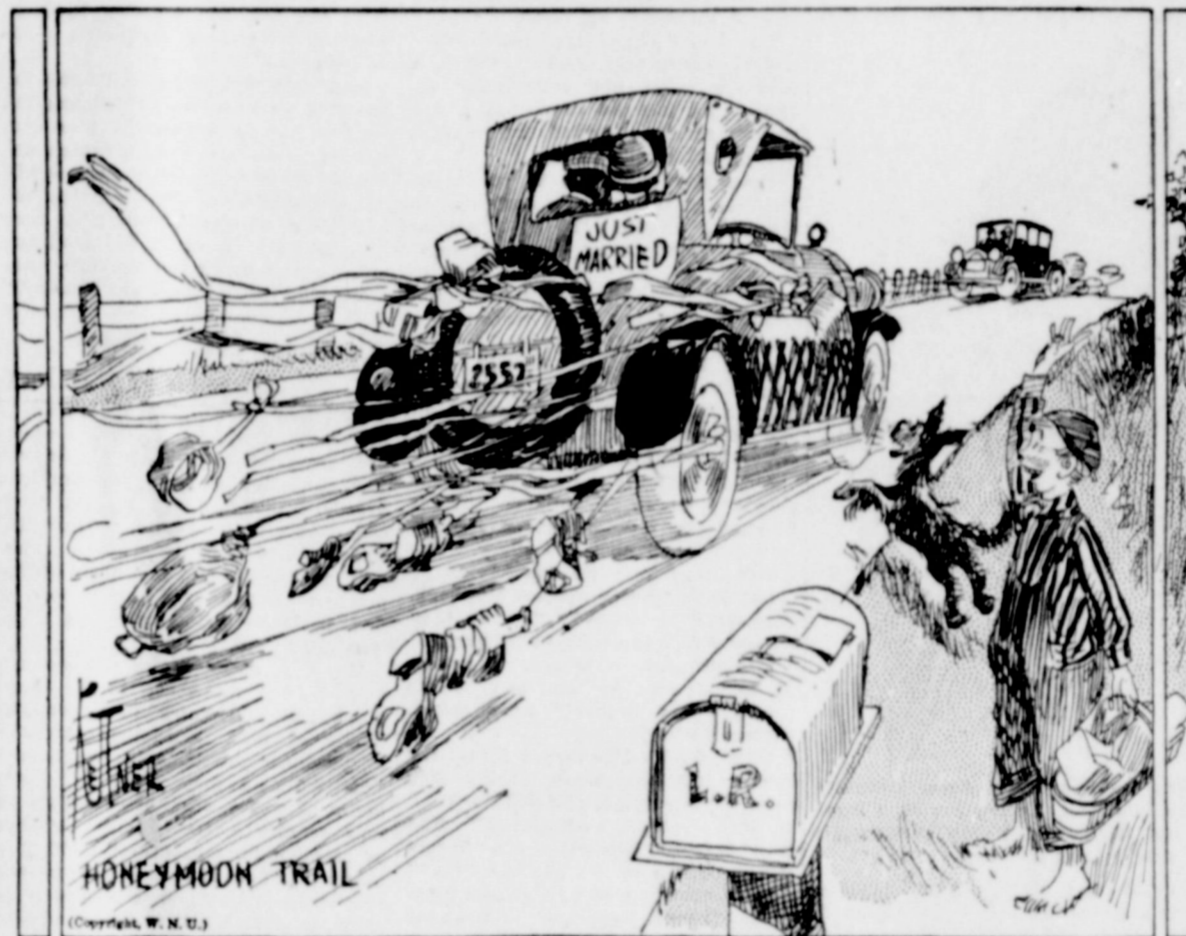

Well yes and no. When I finished that I had just Did Joe obbe strike you as a truthful man?

Ether Waves

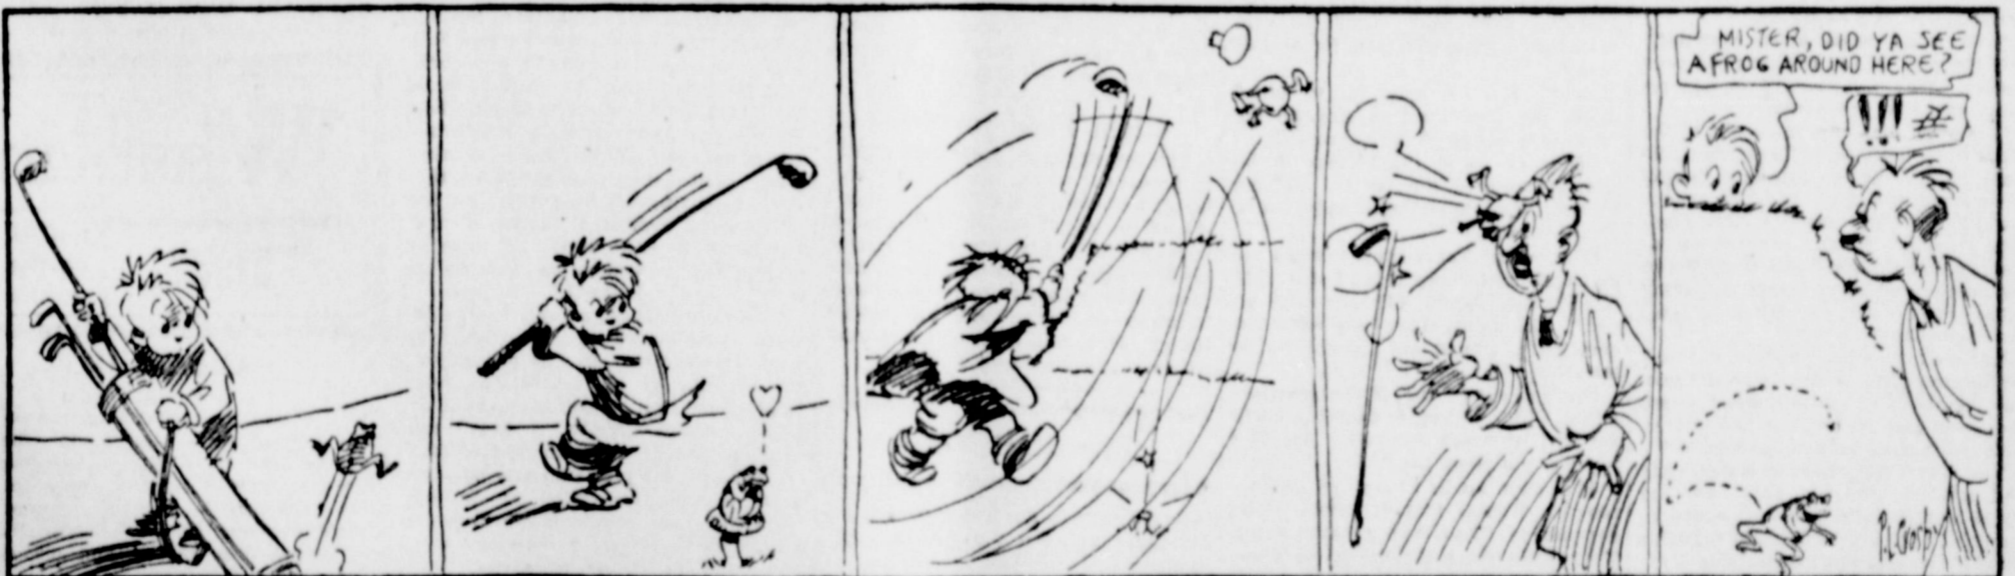

Along the Concrete

The Clancy Kids

"Boys Will Be Boys" Thought the Golfer

By PERCY L. CROSBY

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

I cannot sing or whistle, though for years and years I've tried. It's strange, I think, because I feel so musical inside.

ONLY ONE, COUNT 'EM

FULFILLED HIS PROMISE

How is Jones getting on? When I last saw him he had a good gular business. In one group near the gate.

RADIO RALF AND HIS FRIENDS---

By JACK WILSON

GASTRIC URGE

"Why is he so anxious to have his friend marry?" "So he'll have some place to take dinner, I think."

CAUTIOUS. Say, old man, lend me a fiver till pay day, will you? Which? Your pay day or the day you'll pay me.

THE RED LINE TRAIL

By CRITTENDEN MARRIOTT

Copyright, W. G. Chapman

TALE WITH THRILLS

Here's a good sea yarn—as good as one of W. Clark Russell's old-time stories, and with the advantage of being modern. It opens with a mysterious murder and the securing of valuable papers by the villain, masquerading as a rich man's secretary. Thereupon the rich man and one of his daughters hastily start on a mysterious journey, its destination an island in the South Atlantic. The rich man's wife and his other daughter follow soon after. The captain's safe is robbed of his sealed orders. Dirty work in the fore-cabin and all over the ship. Mutiny, marooning and shanghaiing. A mysterious island that contains no gold, but something far more important than pirate's cave or treasure cache.

And here! Why, the rich man's son is in love with an actress, to the father's great indignation. One daughter is in love with a young man working on one of her father's docks. The other falls in love with an English lord who gets mixed up in the affair—a regular fighting son-of-a-gun. In the end six young and wildly beating hearts are made happy. The joke is that all these marriages are better than their wealthy and ambitious fathers and mothers could have hoped for.

And, by the way, the author, Crittenden Marriott—who is he? It's a new name, but it's dollars to doughnuts that he is some experienced spinner of yarns under a pen name. Certainly he writes like a skilled craftsman.

CHAPTER I On a Dark Road

The trolley station at Curwen is small, consisting only of a closed-in shed with a single bench against its rear wall and a line of gimcrack, zig-zag scroll seats overlooking its open front. On a dark night it is almost invisible and is practically nonexistent. It was well after ten on an evening in late October when a buggy, drawn by a hard-driven horse and containing a single occupant, approached the station. The man who was driving continually peered ahead, in the manner of one trying to recognize some landmark that may tell him where he is. When he saw the rectangular bulk of Curwen station against the sky line, he leaned out, endeavoring to distinguish the white letters that spelled the name. Failing to do this, he threw back the lap robe and prepared to get out and inspect them more closely.

happened from the shock of the occurrence. "Oh! Poor fellow!" she breathed. "Is he dead?"

"He ought to be," the man spoke harshly. "Anybody who drives an automobile through the night forty miles an hour and runs down a horse and buggy ought to be dead. However, he isn't dead yet."

"Is anyone else hurt?"

The man shrugged his shoulders. "If they were, they're past praying for," he said caustically. "The auto went into the river."

The girl glanced at the water and shivered. "Can you get him to the house?" she asked. "We haven't any men about the place."

The man from the buggy had risen and was looking at the girl. She seemed to be about twenty-two or three years old, with clean-cut lips and a well-shaped nose. He could not make out her eyes, but her chin bespoke determination, and he guessed that her eyes might be gray.

"No," he said, considering. "I won't need to trouble you. I can manage, I think." He bent down again, caught the wounded man's arm and drew it over his right shoulder in accordance with the rules for carrying wounded on the battlefield. Then he rose with some difficulty to his feet, lifting the man upon his back, and began to struggle slowly up the slope. The girl followed.

The slope was short and not very steep, but the wounded man was heavy and the rescuer himself was scarcely in condition for the work. However, he went doggedly on until he had nearly reached the top. There he stopped, staggered, and would have fallen backward had not the girl propped him from behind, pushing with a strength altogether unexpected. The timely aid enabled him to step over the crest of the slope onto the road. "Thank you," he murmured gratefully. "You saved us."

"You could have saved yourself," said the girl. "If you had dropped your burden, who didn't you? A new respect spoke in her tongue."

"I always play the game out if the cards have been dealt," remarked the man, lightly, as with firmer footing he crossed the road and the tracks toward the open gate on the other side. As he passed through it he noticed that someone was standing on the porch, and heard a soft, quivering voice. "Oh, Edith," it called. "What has happened?"

"It's an automobile accident, mother," replied the girl, clearly. "An automobile jumped the bank and plunged into the river and threw out the driver. This gentleman is bringing him in."

The bearer mounted the steps firmly and followed the old lady into the house and the sitting room, where he thankfully let his burden slip from his shoulder to a broad lounge. "Is there a doctor anywhere in the neighborhood?" he asked as he rose.

The girl nodded. "I'll telephone," she said.

She went to a telephone hanging on the wall and gave a number. A moment later she turned around. "Doctor Fox is expected home any minute," she said, "and they will send him over as soon as he comes. He is the only doctor anywhere near. Can't we do something before he comes, Mr.—"

"Harrison," responded the man promptly. "Henry Harrison."

"Thank you. I am Edith Grant. Can't we do something, Mr. Harrison?"

Harrison nodded. "I'll try," he answered. He was already feeling the limbs of the wounded man. "One of his legs is broken and he's badly cut about the head. Get a basin of warm water and a sponge, please."

The girl turned to the older woman. "You're white as a sheet, mummy," she said. "You must go and lie down. Come!" She led the unresisting old lady from the room.

At his tone Harrison bent swiftly forward and Miss Grant, who had drawn back a little, turned toward him with a startled face. "What is it, doctor?" quavered the girl.

"Matter!" The doctor was fingering the wounds. "This man has been shot. The bullet went clear through him and came out at his back. He's dying. Who shot him?"

Harrison and the girl looked at each other. Harrison's face was white. He seemed dismayed, perhaps terror-stricken, by the announcement. "I certainly didn't," he blurted out.

"You? Certainly not!" The doctor seemed a little surprised by the hasty disclaimer. "Not unless you were traveling with him. He was shot at least an hour ago. He must have been pretty far gone when he ran into you. Did you find any papers on him?" The doctor was working as he spoke.

"We haven't looked," Harrison spoke calmly. The doctor's assertion that the man had been shot an hour before seemed to restore his poise.

The doctor slipped his hand into the man's pockets and brought to light a purse, a watch and other small articles. At last he drew out a fat packet, carefully corded, but muddy, broken and bloodstained.

Hesitantly he stared at the seals, and then at the man. "I don't like to open this," he said. "I'll try to restore him to consciousness first, anyway."

He hesitated, as if doubtful what to do with the packet. When Edith recognized his dilemma she reached out her hand to take it. But she shook her head. "No, thank you," he said. "I'll keep it." He slipped the packet into his pocket, then raised the man's head and poured a few drops of pungent liquor between the contorted lips.

Almost instantly the man opened his eyes and stared around him. "What has happened?" he demanded, striving to struggle up upon his elbow. The intonation of his voice was foreign.

Gently the doctor pressed him back. "Lie still," he ordered. "There's been an accident and you're badly hurt."

Into the man's eyes snapped a look of terror, and he snatched at his breast. "My pocket!" he shrieked. "Where is it?"

"It's here!" The doctor thrust the packet into the man's hand. "It's safe. Now you must lie still."

"Still! Still! Good heaven!" the man laughed hoarsely. His fingers closed tightly on the packet. "I will be still enough soon," he gasped piteously. "I must work now. I must see Henry Archman before I die."

"Henry Archman?" The doctor's eyes met those of Miss Grant. "Mr. Archman lives near here," he said soothingly. "We will send for him at once."

"No! No! I shall go to him." Again the man tried to struggle up. "Where is my car?" he demanded.

"Your car is at the bottom of the river," answered the doctor. "Listen to me. You have been badly hurt. You are dying."

"I know it. Yes, I know it when the bullet hit me! I feel it shall fall. But I'll fool them! I'll beat them all yet!" The man's voice rang with desperation. "I must see Henry," he reiterated.

"So you shall," the doctor promised glibly. "But you must lie still. I will get Mr. Archman for you. But first tell me who shot you."

The man made a gesture of contempt. "What does it matter?" he demanded. "You cannot touch them. They snap their fingers at the law. But Henry can beat them. That will hurt them worse. Get him for me!"

"But—" The doctor still strove to protest.

Edith Grant stepped forward. "Dying men have privileges, doctor," she said. She turned to the man on the couch. "Tell me your name and what to say, and I will telephone to Mr. Archman."

"Here's a mystery. Who shot him? And what for? And what does he want of Archman?"

Then He Rose With Some Difficulty to His Feet, Lifting the Man Upon His Back, and Began to Struggle Slowly Up the Slope.

Then He Rose With Some Difficulty to His Feet, Lifting the Man Upon His Back, and Began to Struggle Slowly Up the Slope.

propped him from behind, pushing with a strength altogether unexpected. The timely aid enabled him to step over the crest of the slope onto the road. "Thank you," he murmured gratefully. "You saved us."

"You could have saved yourself," said the girl. "If you had dropped your burden, who didn't you? A new respect spoke in her tongue."

"I always play the game out if the cards have been dealt," remarked the man, lightly, as with firmer footing he crossed the road and the tracks toward the open gate on the other side. As he passed through it he noticed that someone was standing on the porch, and heard a soft, quivering voice. "Oh, Edith," it called. "What has happened?"

"It's an automobile accident, mother," replied the girl, clearly. "An automobile jumped the bank and plunged into the river and threw out the driver. This gentleman is bringing him in."

The bearer mounted the steps firmly and followed the old lady into the house and the sitting room, where he thankfully let his burden slip from his shoulder to a broad lounge. "Is there a doctor anywhere in the neighborhood?" he asked as he rose.

The girl nodded. "I'll telephone," she said.

She went to a telephone hanging on the wall and gave a number. A moment later she turned around. "Doctor Fox is expected home any minute," she said, "and they will send him over as soon as he comes. He is the only doctor anywhere near. Can't we do something before he comes, Mr.—"

"Harrison," responded the man promptly. "Henry Harrison."

"Thank you. I am Edith Grant. Can't we do something, Mr. Harrison?"

Harrison nodded. "I'll try," he answered. He was already feeling the limbs of the wounded man. "One of his legs is broken and he's badly cut about the head. Get a basin of warm water and a sponge, please."

The girl turned to the older woman. "You're white as a sheet, mummy," she said. "You must go and lie down. Come!" She led the unresisting old lady from the room.

At his tone Harrison bent swiftly forward and Miss Grant, who had drawn back a little, turned toward him with a startled face. "What is it, doctor?" quavered the girl.

"Matter!" The doctor was fingering the wounds. "This man has been shot. The bullet went clear through him and came out at his back. He's dying. Who shot him?"

Harrison and the girl looked at each other. Harrison's face was white. He seemed dismayed, perhaps terror-stricken, by the announcement. "I certainly didn't," he blurted out.

"You? Certainly not!" The doctor seemed a little surprised by the hasty disclaimer. "Not unless you were traveling with him. He was shot at least an hour ago. He must have been pretty far gone when he ran into you. Did you find any papers on him?" The doctor was working as he spoke.

"We haven't looked," Harrison spoke calmly. The doctor's assertion that the man had been shot an hour before seemed to restore his poise.

The doctor slipped his hand into the man's pockets and brought to light a purse, a watch and other small articles. At last he drew out a fat packet, carefully corded, but muddy, broken and bloodstained.

Hesitantly he stared at the seals, and then at the man. "I don't like to open this," he said. "I'll try to restore him to consciousness first, anyway."

He hesitated, as if doubtful what to do with the packet. When Edith recognized his dilemma she reached out her hand to take it. But she shook her head. "No, thank you," he said. "I'll keep it." He slipped the packet into his pocket, then raised the man's head and poured a few drops of pungent liquor between the contorted lips.

Almost instantly the man opened his eyes and stared around him. "What has happened?" he demanded, striving to struggle up upon his elbow. The intonation of his voice was foreign.

Gently the doctor pressed him back. "Lie still," he ordered. "There's been an accident and you're badly hurt."

Into the man's eyes snapped a look of terror, and he snatched at his breast. "My pocket!" he shrieked. "Where is it?"

"It's here!" The doctor thrust the packet into the man's hand. "It's safe. Now you must lie still."

"Still! Still! Good heaven!" the man laughed hoarsely. His fingers closed tightly on the packet. "I will be still enough soon," he gasped piteously. "I must work now. I must see Henry Archman before I die."

"Henry Archman?" The doctor's eyes met those of Miss Grant. "Mr. Archman lives near here," he said soothingly. "We will send for him at once."

"No! No! I shall go to him." Again the man tried to struggle up. "Where is my car?" he demanded.

"Your car is at the bottom of the river," answered the doctor. "Listen to me. You have been badly hurt. You are dying."

"I know it. Yes, I know it when the bullet hit me! I feel it shall fall. But I'll fool them! I'll beat them all yet!" The man's voice rang with desperation. "I must see Henry," he reiterated.

"So you shall," the doctor promised glibly. "But you must lie still. I will get Mr. Archman for you. But first tell me who shot you."

The man made a gesture of contempt. "What does it matter?" he demanded. "You cannot touch them. They snap their fingers at the law. But Henry can beat them. That will hurt them worse. Get him for me!"

"But—" The doctor still strove to protest.

Edith Grant stepped forward. "Dying men have privileges, doctor," she said. She turned to the man on the couch. "Tell me your name and what to say, and I will telephone to Mr. Archman."

"Here's a mystery. Who shot him? And what for? And what does he want of Archman?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Threats

I consider it a mark of great prudence in a man to abstain from threats or any contemptuous expressions, for neither of these weakens the enemy, but threats make him more cautious, and the other excites his hatred, and a desire to revenge himself.—Machiavelli.

CLIVE STOCK

PROPER FEEDING IS REQUIRED BY PIGS

For the first twenty-four hours after farrowing, the sow should have nothing to eat, but she should have plenty of clean water. On the second day she should be fed a light feed of bran in the form of thin slop, and should be put on feed gradually so that the pigs will be able to take care of the milk flow. Young pigs must not get too much milk, because it tends to give them scours, one of the most serious troubles. About the only way to check this trouble is to feed the sow very lightly and sometimes it is necessary to skip a few feeds and gradually bring the sow back on full feed again.

No fixed rule can be followed in regard to the amount of feed the sow should have for the first week or ten days, says L. P. Crawford, farm herdman at Clemson college, in discussing the care and attention that should be given the sow and litter during the first two weeks after farrowing. Some sows produce more milk than others. A heavy milker should be fed lightly until the pigs are large enough to take care of the milk. A poor milker should be fed more liberally in order to get the milk flow started. It is necessary that the feeder use judgment in each individual case. After the pigs are a week or ten days old the sow should be on full feed.

Pigs ten days or two weeks old are likely to develop thumps. This is caused by the pigs becoming too fat and from the lack of exercise. Often when you think you are going to have a wonderful show litter you will find them breathing hard and with a pronounced jerk in the flanks. This is thumps, and we have found that this trouble can be prevented easily by forcing the young litter to take exercise. This can be accomplished by pushing the young pigs along with a broom, or carrying them some distance from the bed and allowing them to work their way back, the former method being preferable.

Assuming that all has gone well for the first week, we would then get the sow out in a lot to herself. A lot containing young pigs or rape where she can get all of the green forage she will eat is preferable. She should be fed in addition a well-balanced ration, such as a mixture of corn meal, middlings and a small percent of tankage. Another good ration is corn and skim milk.

All Sheep Susceptible to Stomach Worm Pest

The stomach worm is a parasite of all breeds of sheep. Fine wool sheep are susceptible to invasion by this pest just the same as any of the mutton breeds, although they may not show the effects of a medium to light infestation as quickly. This is probably due to the fact that their bodies are more angular and a slight loss of flesh is not as noticeable, writes D. S. Bell in the Ohio Farmer.

The eggs of the stomach worm are passed from the sheep in the droppings and will hatch in a variable length of time depending upon the temperature and moisture conditions. This hatching may occur in a few hours or under adverse conditions it may require a few weeks. Dryness or freezing temperature will kill this newly hatched larvae. If it passes through the winter in a chitinous sheath and in this condition is resistant to freezing and drying for long periods of time. Keeping sheep and cattle off an infested pasture for one year is usually considered necessary for these ensheathed larvae to die and render the pasture free.

Right Feed for Sows

The sow needs the right kind of feed to produce a strong litter. Corn, barley and wheat are fattening feeds and should be supplemented with protein, calcium and minerals to produce strong, healthy litters. Alfalfa, clovers, field peas and soy beans are protein feeds. Tankage and skim milk are animal sources of protein feeds and need consideration in the brood sow's diet.

Live Stock Notes

Guard rails in the pen are often the difference between pig loss and pig profit.

A good time to replace scrub stock with pure breeds is when the price of live stock is low.

Care ought to be taken when the sows are put on pasture not to overfeed the first few days.

Pigs put on pasture produce profitable pork. Full-fed April pigs will make an early and better market.

Nature's tonics for young growing pigs are exercise, sunshine, plenty of green succulent feed, and clean surroundings.

"It can't be done," said a hog producer one day last fall while looking at a litter of pigs raised to a ton of pork in 180 days from birth. Yet many have done it.

Sows to nurse litters well must have some reserve flesh to draw from, and should come up to farrowing time in a fat degree of flesh.

THE SANDMAN STORY

JACK SAVED THE BIRDS

"Who could have put it there?" Mr. Sparrow gave one little peck at the catch and then another, and at that moment Puss jumped out from behind a bush where she had been hiding and the cover that kept Jack inside the box popped open at that very moment, too.

Up went all of the birds into the trees with a whirl of wings, and out came Jack with such force (for he had been shut up all night, you know) that when he struck Puss on the nose he scared her out of all but her ninth life, and partly out of that.

But little gratitude did the birds show poor Jack, for as soon as they were sure Puss was gone, for that day at least, down they flew nearer and nearer to poor hopeless Jack to see if it was safe to fly down to the ground again.

When his little mistress at last did come for him all of his beautiful gray whiskers were gone and also the little red tassel on his pointed cap. Those ungrateful birds had stripped him of everything they could and carried it off to their nests.

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Down They Flew, Nearer and Nearer to Poor Jack.

ably a trap set by some wicked boys to catch us."

"But what I cannot understand is why Puss was so scared of it," spoke up another Robin. "She ran as if her mistress had caught her trying to catch one of us."

"There she is now," said Robin Redbreast, peering around the side of the house. "She is pretty well scared or she would not let us see her so soon after she jumped at us."

But Puss did not notice the birds. She had her big yellow eyes fixed upon the thing on the ground that had hit her on the nose. It was quite still now, but it had been active enough a little while ago.

Puss took a few steps around the corner of the house, and just then the wind blew Jack's whiskers and away flew Puss as if Mr. Dog was after her.

On the ground under the tree was poor Jack-in-a-box quite upset. He had been left there by his little mistress and quite forgotten, though he was safe inside his box then.

The birds were busy picking up the crumbs left from the tea party Jack's little mistress had given under the tree the day before, and at first had not noticed the box that held Jack at all.

But Mr. Sparrow, who is very in-

Have You This Habit?

By Margaret Morison

DOMINEERING

OF THE boys in Centre Newton, Brown was the brains and Smith the boss. Brown had been taken once to the theater to see Julius Caesar; and after that he always said that when he was old enough he would write plays like Shakespeare. Smith would write plays like Shakespeare, and the frightened children and the old portrait, he knew that his play would be a tragedy. Smith's habit of having his own way had cheated himself most of all.

HAVE YOU THIS HABIT?

(© by Metropolitan Newspaper Service.)

what passed after that for some minutes. Then he realized that Smith was asking him a question. "It was painted by that Frenchman who did so many portraits in this country," Smith was saying, as he pulled aside a curtain. There before Brown stood Lucy Gray after three years of married life. Brown almost groaned aloud. He was reminded by some trick of memory of a wounded heron he had once found in the surf on the beach. As he went slowly down the broad stairs, Brown knew that the plot of his play was finished. As he remembered the newspaper headlines, and the frightened children and the old portrait, he knew that his play would be a tragedy. Smith's habit of having his own way had cheated himself most of all.

HAVE YOU THIS HABIT?

(© by Metropolitan Newspaper Service.)

Right Feed for Sows

The sow needs the right kind of feed to produce a strong litter. Corn, barley and wheat are fattening feeds and should be supplemented with protein, calcium and minerals to produce strong, healthy litters. Alfalfa, clovers, field peas and soy beans are protein feeds. Tankage and skim milk are animal sources of protein feeds and need consideration in the brood sow's diet.

Live Stock Notes

Guard rails in the pen are often the difference between pig loss and pig profit.

A good time to replace scrub stock with pure breeds is when the price of live stock is low.

Care ought to be taken when the sows are put on pasture not to overfeed the first few days.

Pigs put on pasture produce profitable pork. Full-fed April pigs will make an early and better market.

Nature's tonics for young growing pigs are exercise, sunshine, plenty of green succulent feed, and clean surroundings.

"It can't be done," said a hog producer one day last fall while looking at a litter of pigs raised to a ton of pork in 180 days from birth. Yet many have done it.

Sows to nurse litters well must have some reserve flesh to draw from, and should come up to farrowing time in a fat degree of flesh.

Threats

I consider it a mark of great prudence in a man to abstain from threats or any contemptuous expressions, for neither of these weakens the enemy, but threats make him more cautious, and the other excites his hatred, and a desire to revenge himself.—Machiavelli.

Sigrid Holmquist

This winsome "movie" star was born in Baros, Sweden. She was educated in Stockholm and Copenhagen. Miss Holmquist is five feet, six inches tall, has light hair and blue eyes, and weighs 108 pounds. Her first motion picture experience was in Sweden. She is a splendid swimmer and is passionately fond of animals.

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

DROPPING THE DISHCLOTH

IF A woman drops her dishrag it is a "sign that company is coming." This superstition is general in the United States and Canada. In certain sections of the South they add that "some one is coming hungry" and in Maine they say that if the dishcloth spreads out upon falling the visitor will be a woman; if it falls in a heap, a man. But these are "frills" to the general mystic meaning of the dropped dishrag. This superstition is analogous to that regarding the dropping of a knife which has the same significance—a feminine version of it, as it were.

Our barbarian ancestors of northern Europe personified their swords, named them and came to regard their weapons upon whose faithfulness their lives daily depended, as something in the nature of superhuman companions. Thus the "self-unsheathed" sword or dagger warned of the approach of a stranger and all strangers were "prima facie" enemies in those days. From that we get the superstition of the

A LINE O' CHEER

By John Kendrick Bangs.

AN APPEAL

I WILL admit that World of mine
Mayhap's a different World from mine,
And yet you cannot well deny
We're sheltered by the self-same sky,
And whatever paths we run
Are lighted by the self-same sun;
And spite of changes Time hath rung
Both from the self-same root
Have sprung.
Hence Brothers are in Joy and pain,
And Brothers ever must remain—
So let us cease the passing herd
And dwell in Peace and Brotherhood.
(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

SIDONIE

ONE of the most charming and interesting little names in the feminine category is Sidonie, heroine of novels beyond number, and yet quite commonly in every-day usage. Sidonie is another of the names which are derived from places, and means "of the city of Sidon."

Curiously, Sidonie is the feminine of one of the most famous masculine names of Roman history. Her predecessor was Caius Silius Appollinaris—yes, actually—Sidonius. He was said to be the most curious character of the dark ages, a literary and married bishop of Clermont. In the fifth century, who, though possessing a reputation for extreme piety, was vastly different from the customary conception of ecclesiastical sanctity.

This good man has been canonized by the church, and the 23rd of August has been set aside as his feast day. His only namesakes have been women; France first evolved a Sidonie, which is still extremely popular there. Then came Sidonia as a Spanish product. The daughter of George Podlebrand of Silesia, was Sidonia, also called Zedena. As early as 1488, Sidonia was in vogue in Germany.

George Cable, whose military romances are still widely read even by the growing generation, did much to establish the popularity of Sidonia here, when he so named the heroine of one of his most popular books. The turquoise is Sidonia's talismanic stone. If set in gold it will protect her from all danger. Monday is her lucky day and I her lucky number.

(© by Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Life of Railroad Spikes

The durability of railroad spikes depends entirely on the type of track and traffic hauled; however, heavy spikes should last about fifteen years and light spikes from twenty-one to twenty-five years. For general repairs approximately thirty-six spikes per mile per month may be used.

WHEN VIA TRUBBLED BY QUOTS
A VILL TO A VILL TO A VILL TO A VILL TO

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Mrs. Shaw Calls Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a God-Send to Sick Women

Cambridge, Maine.—"I suffered terribly with pains and soreness in my sides. Each month I had to go to bed, and the doctor told me I simply had to go under an operation before I could get help. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and I told my husband one day to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I took the third dose I felt better. I took it four times a day for two years, getting better all the time, and now for four years I don't have any pains. After taking the medicine for two years I had another child—a lovely baby girl now four years old—the life of our home. I do praise this medicine. It is a God-send to women who suffer with female troubles and especially for pains at the periods. I surely was very bad once, and I know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation."—Mrs. JOSIE M. SHAW, Route No. 1, Cambridge, Maine.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound reports 93 out of every 100 were benefited by it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Proof Positive

"What is the surest sign that a fellow is in love?"
"When he divorces his wife."

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best—Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

A Serious One

"Have you ever had a motor mishap?"
"Yes, I met my wife in a garage."
One application of Roman Eye Balsam will prove how good it is for sore eyes. Costs only 25 cents. 112 Pearl St., N. Y. Adv.

Kill RATS!

Nothing can be more disagreeable than a home infested with rats, mice, cockroaches, waterbugs, ants, etc., the greatest destroyers of food and property, also carriers of disease. Kill these pests by using—
STEARNS' Electric Paste
the standard exterminator for over 45 years. It is ready for use, better than traps, and does not blow into food like powder. Directions in 12 languages. 35c and $1.50. Money back if it fails. Sold by all druggists. Refuse substitutes.
U. S. Government Says It

NR
TO-NIGHT Tomorrow Alright
KEEPING WELL—An NR Tablet (a vegetable aperient) taken at night will help keep you well, by being and strengthening your digestion and elimination.
Used for over 25 years
Get a 25¢ Box
NR
Chips off the Old Block
In JUNIORS—Little NR
One-third the regular dose. Made of the same ingredients, then ready, cooled. For children and adults.
SOLD BY YOUR DRUGGIST

ITCH!
Money back without question if HUNT'S BALM fails in the treatment of ITCH, BURN, RINGWORM, TETTER or other itching skin diseases. Price The at Druggists, or direct from 14 South Main St., Boston, Mass.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

OUTGROWN CLOTHES

"It's too bad," said the dress which was too small now for the little girl who owned it and who had worn it.
"Yes, it's too bad," the suit which was too small now for the boy who owned it and who had worn it, agreed.
"The whole trouble is," the dress said, "that we seem to be blamed for all of this."
"Now it is not our fault at all. Only we can not grow."
"The boys grow and the girls grow but the dresses and the suits all stay the same."
"You know sometimes I think, while it has its drawbacks that we can't grow, still it also has its good points."
"For example no one can say to one of us:
"Dear me, how you've grown."
"They can't pat us on the back and say:
"Well, dress, I hope you're a good little dress and never disobey."
"Nor can they say:
"Now, suit, I hope you'll grow up to be a fine man of whom we will all be proud."
"Have you any idea, suit, what you will be when you grow up?"
"No, they can't say such things to us."

"Yes," said the suit, "it has its good points—the fact that we cannot grow. It is nice to think no one will pat you on the back in a superior fashion."
"True, we can be patted on the back in a way, but it is the one who is wearing us who is really patted on the back and talked to in a superior fashion."
"They don't talk to us that way."
"They can't, and that's the truth. Yet there are drawbacks about not being able to grow."
"For example, others have to wear us when we're not new and they feel that we're not new."
"We're worn but we're not liked much and we're called 'Hand-Me-Downs' and it's not a flattering term."
"Sometimes I've been quite sad to think that I must be worn by the next boy in size in the family simply because I still have some 'wear left in me.'"
"I am not regarded with affection as I go down from one to another."
"Nor am I," said the dress. "And yet I cannot blame those who do not care for me. I feel sorry for them and I understand that it is something which must be done but which is not very exciting."

"Then I am often laughed at. The one who has just owned me was not the first to own me. A sister older than she owned me first and now I'm to go to a very little sister."
"I shall be too big for her and she will feel ashamed in me. But they will make a tuck—a thing I must submit to—and they will say:
"It doesn't fit her but she will grow so fast it will in a very short time."
"But I've been laughed at lately as my owner put me on and I was way up on her."
"It wasn't my fault. She had grown. That was all. But they all laughed and said:
"Goodness, would you believe the child had grown so much. Why that dress looks a perfect sight on her."
"Oh, it is rather hard to be outgrown clothes—hard on the children particularly."
"But then, I think to myself:
"Well, the grown-ups had to do the same thing when they were young, too, and when these children grow up they'll be doing the same with their children."
"So it makes it fair, I suppose."
"I suppose so," said the suit wearily.
"Oh yes," said the dress with a sigh which made a wrinkle upon its rather plain front.

Latitudinous Lids
Says an English paper: "Women are to be feminine again—in dress, at any rate—and as manners are influenced by the mode we may yet return to the slimping darlings who wore wide-brimmed hats to hide their blushes and crimolines."
We weren't aware that even Gainsborough, whose hats were the limit, made 'em of that size.—Boston Transcript.

Road Was Coming
Small Edna was out driving with her parents one afternoon. She was much interested in watching the road. After a while, as they began driving faster, she exclaimed: "Oh, look out, mummy, the road is coming!"

Not Regarded With Affection, and the girls grow but the dresses and the suits all stay the same.

That Dress Looks a Perfect Sight.

Used for over 25 years

Get a 25¢ Box

SWISS AND VOILE IN LEAD; LARGE PICTURE HATS FAVORED

AS INSPIRATIONAL as a morning stroll through a flower garden on a bright summer morn, is a walk through aisle after aisle of cool-looking tub-fabric displays, such as the stores are featuring these days. The urge of porch and daytime frock is feet as yards and yards of dainty voiles, swisses and other likable wash materials unfold their tinted and printed charms to view.
Dotted swiss and voile, printed or plain, are declared first choice this season for cool, informal summertime frocks. Dresses of these sheer materials are individualized with touches of novel embroidery, unique hand-drawn work, tucks, plaits and other details which bespeak good style at this time.
The two models pictured are typical of the fashion's trend. Note the hip band of novelty lace with collar, cuffs and pockets to match which graces the dotted swiss. Drawnwork and tucks are the distinctive features introduced in the pretty voile frock shown. Most of the voile models abound with elaborate drawnwork designs. Orchid is especially popular for the plain tinted voile.
The latest effect in printed voiles is the flock-dot design. The entire floral pattern is defined in dots, which at a distance look as if the motif was outlined with beads. Black flocking in white is very effective, also color contrasts such as brown on orange, red on navy, deep violet on delicate orchid, and of latest vogue is bright red on white or vice versa. Red swiss, pin-dotted with white, is especially favored for young girls' summer day frocks.
Much attention is given to collar diversity, the Peter Pan being especially liked with a necktie of narrow ribbon streaming down the front of the frock.

TYPICAL OF THE FASHION'S TREND

A favorite model for the tinted voile used vivid shades such as orange, poudre bleu, and that most popular color, peach, is the straight-line dress with front panel effect from neck to skirt-line hem. The fastening of these simple straight frocks with fanciful buttons up and down a center frilled plait prevails. The simple sash tie of self material is used on the button-up-the-front dresses.
The wide-brimmed picture hat, true of its tradition of former years, has arrived for summer conquest. As if to make up for lost time, when the audacious little chick usurped the throne, some of the large brims are spreading themselves an inch or several wider than usual. True made up with malines of the same color, with a single streamer of the lace brought down over the brim and twisted about the throat.

LARGE PICTURE HATS IN FAVOR

Very effective are sheer black lace drapes or veils worn over pure white hats. This placing of black lace over white is the latest message from Paris, and there is every promise that the vogue will become very popular this summer. Every detail of the chantilly lace pattern is accented, with white for a background.
JULIA BOTTOMLEY.
(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

SOIL SURVEY WORK IN TEXAS COUNTIES

Many Counties Are Yet to Be Covered, Which Will Take Several Months.

(By S. C. Hoyle, Editor Extension Service Publications A. and M. College of Texas.)
The field work incident to the detailed soil survey of Wichita County was completed this week, and the work of compiling a complete report and map is now in progress. Publication of the report and map will be made by the Bureau of Soils, United States Department of Agriculture, and will require several months. The field work, the mapping and writing of the report have been in charge of W. T. Carter, Jr., Chief of the Division of Soil Survey, Texas Experiment Station, under a cooperative arrangement with the Bureau of Soils. Mr. Carter will turn his attention next to field work in Milam County, Navajo and Hidalgo Counties are also in process of being surveyed.
This reconnaissance work has been done in the western part of the state and much of the territory will likely not require detailed service for some time yet. Excepting the Trans-Pecos region, the entire western two-thirds of the state, and covering 134 counties is now surveyed in reconnaissance. Within this area several counties and smaller areas have also a detailed survey. The unsurveyed counties farther east will, no doubt, be surveyed in detail as rapidly as they can be reached. Reconnaissance surveys would not be very practical in most of these counties owing to their varied soils.

The Boll Weevil in Texas.
The history of the fight on the boll weevil covering a period of 22 years, and its effect upon cotton production is given in Circular No. 32 written by A. B. Conner, vice-director, and H. J. Reinhard, entomologist, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.
A brief, up to date description and life history of the weevil are given, also the principal factors effecting control measures, both natural and artificial means of control are briefly described. This circular also emphasizes plain common sense good farming as a most certain means of producing cotton profitably under boll weevil conditions. It advises the destruction of cotton plants by the thorough plowing of the cotton stalks immediately after the cotton is harvested as long as possible before frost. It is advised that this be done through concerted action of communities in order to destroy the food supply of the weevil and thus drive the insect into hibernation in a weakened condition or actually starve him before hibernating time. The circular advises the use of calcium arsenate or lead arsenate only in individual cases where the promise of good crops seems to justify the outlay. It also advises early planting of standard varieties suited to the locality and of quick-maturing habit; caution is also given against the use of improvised nostrums and other "fly-by-night" methods which have not given results of enough value to justify the outlay.

Cut-Ants in Colorado County.
Considerable damage was being done in Weimer section of Colorado county by the ravages of cut-ants, and a demonstration for the destruction of cut ants was arranged. Many farmers had to wade in the mud to see this demonstration, but never the less took quite an interest in the controlling of these pests. The county agent used a two-inch earth auger welded to a section of 3/4-inch gas pipe to bore down to the brood insect. The insects were found at a depth of from four to twelve feet. Six nests were treated with carbon bisulphide and instructions were given regarding the application of a second treatment. There is a movement on foot to put on a community campaign to rid the community of this pest.

Grasshoppers in Wilson County.
Grasshoppers have made their appearance in several parts of the county. In two localities demonstrations have been given in mixing and applying the poison mash treatment advised by the Extension Service. A. and M. College of Texas, and in spite of the continual rains excellent results have been obtained. The matter has been taken up with Mr. W. A. Baker of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Entomological Laboratories at San Antonio, and there are sufficient supplies on hand to take care of any reasonable outbreak in the county.

Suggestions for Farm and Home.
Rye is worthy of consideration for fall planting. It can be grown as winter grain in colder and more exposed places, and is much heartier than wheat. It is also better for poor sandy soil, and will endure more acidity in the soil than wheat, oats or barley.
The sheep flock should be supplied with cool, shady pasture and should have a constant supply of good water.
It is a good idea to secure a good parbred ram for the fall breeding season, provided one is not already on hand.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA
MOTHER:—Fletcher's Castoria is a pleasant, harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, prepared for Infants and Children all ages.
To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Thoughtful Man
Salesman—Here's a very nice pair of overalls, excellent to wear when stoking the furnace.
Mr. Grump—Haven't you an apron of the same material? My wife dislikes overalls.

Don't Forget Cuticura Talcum
When adding to your toilet requisites. An exquisite face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume, rendering other perfumes superfluous. You may rely on it because one of the Cuticura Trio (Soap, Ointment and Talcum), 25c each everywhere.—Advertisement.

Table From Fifty Trees
A table made from 100,000 pieces of wood from more than fifty different trees that grow in the Holy Land is possessed by a clergyman of Denton, Texas.

Aye, Aye!
"He was so mad he couldn't see straight."
"Choler-blind, so to speak."

Guaranteed To Help Your Mouth
Or many back. Will stop bleeding gums—Checks Pyorrhea. Cleans, whitens and preserves the teeth. Sold by druggists. Wholesale address: Products Co., Laurel, Miss.

ZI-O-DINE DENTAL CREAM
A tooth dropping strong drug in one use. Free from Alkali or other irritants. The old simple remedy that brings comforting relief to toothache, sore gums, swollen gums, etc. Sold by druggists.

Mitchell Eye Salve For SORE EYES
Send model or drawing for examination. Highest references. Best results. Prescription assured. Wholesale address: Products Co., Laurel, Miss.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM
Restores Color and Density to Gray and Faded Hair. Sold by druggists.

HINDERCORNS
Remove Corns, Chafes, etc. from all parts of the feet. Apply to the corns or chafes. Sold by druggists.

Why have Roaches Water-Bugs Bed-Bugs or Ants
When a few puffs will kill them
IT is so easy to kill these pests with Bee Brand Insect Powder, and at an amazingly low cost. Close doors and windows—blow the powder from a piece of paper into corners, cracks and crevices—wherever insects may be. The finely ground powder floats in the air and kills these loathsome pests. Repeat every three days until free from them.
McCormick & Co., Baltimore, Md.
In red sifting-top cans—at your grocer or druggist. Household sizes, 15c and 35c. Other sizes, 70c and $1.25. Large Pump Gun, 75c.

Bee Brand INSECT POWDER
If your dealer can't supply you, send 35c for large household size. Give dealer's name. Get our free booklet, "It kills them," a guide for killing house or garden insects.

A Remedy for Piles
Ask your Druggist (whom you know) what he knows about PAZO OINTMENT as a Remedy for Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. 60c.

THEY LOOK AT YOUR SHOES!
SHINOLA
AMERICA'S HOME SHOE POLISH
Keeps All Kinds of Shoes Neat and New Looking Shinola for Black, Tan, White, Ox-Blood and Brown Shoes
The Shinola Box opens with a turn of the key without soiling the hands or breaking finger nails.
Shinola Preserves and Softens Shoe Leather. Shields Shoes from Moisture, Makes Shoes Wear Longer. Shows Shoes with Shinola is a Tidy, Neat Habit.

Princess Theater

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY—"HIS FORGOTTEN WIFE." F. B. O. Picture. The third of the Palmer prize pictures, and up to the standard of the others. The war is in this one. This picture was released in June.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY—You can't beat this—Hoot Gibson in "BLINKY." A whole troop of Uncle Sam's cavalry thundering over deserts and mountainous passes, with Hoot the fastest, fightin'est man in the bunch. You should see him win his spurs in this whirlwind production.

"SERVICE"

I am equipped with large TRUCKS, to HAUL for YOU ANYWHERE.

No orders are TOO SMALL, and none are TOO LARGE for ME TO HANDLE.

I make a specialty of carload lots by UNLOADING and HAULING the goods to YOUR BUSINESS HOUSE OR RANCH.

Will CRATE and PACK FURNITURE ready for shipment. Work guaranteed.

When in need of TRUCK SERVICE of any DESCRIPTION consult me.

F. M. Mansfield

Plaiting; skirts, panels, ruffles; hemstitching; covered buttons, tailored buttonholes. Mrs. H. B. Houston, Uvalde, Texas.

CATARRH

Catarrah is a local disease greatly influenced by Constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH REMEDY is a complete of an Ointment which gives Quick Relief by local application, and the Internal Medicine, a Tonic, which acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces and assists in curing your system of Catarrah.

Sold by druggists for over 40 Years. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

LAURENCE & LEMONS
SANDERSON, TEXAS

Agents for Fire, Tornado and Automobile Insurance.

E. F. Howard

Agent For

Good Reliable

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES

Your Business will be Appreciated

HERE'S TO THE LINE,

Let your ships fly where ever they may. And don't forget old

A. BANKHEAD

For your Shoe and Saddle Repair Work Guaranteed

Take Calotabs
TRADE MARK REG
for the liver

Beware of imitations. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages bearing above trade mark.

ELITE
Confectionery

HOT AND COLD DRINKS
SANDWICHES,
CIGARS,
CANDIES,
TOBACCO
SCHOOL SUPPLIES
We Want and Appreciate Your Trade

Ford Service

Genuine Ford parts

Repairing done on any make car

Accessories—Everything for your car—Motor Meters, radiator caps, chamois skins, sponges, polish, Goodyear and Fisk Tires and Tubes. Cars stored, washed and greased with Alemite Grease—we are sole agents for Alemite.

MUSSEY BROS.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

Relating to Granting of Confederate Pensions

Senate Joint Resolution No. 10

Proposing an amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas to provide that the Legislature may grant pensions to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows, who have been citizens of Texas since prior to January 1, 1910, providing that all soldiers, sailors and their widows eligible under the provisions hereof shall be entitled to be placed upon the rolls and participate in the pension fund created hereunder; levy a tax of seven ($ 07) cents on the one hundred ($100.00 dollars valuation of property in this State for the payment of such pension, providing that the Legislature may reduce the rate of pension for such purposes, fixing a time for the election to be held on such amendment and making an appropriation to pay the expenses thereof.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas

Sec. 1. Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas shall be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Sec. 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations whatsoever, provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent or disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors, who came to Texas prior to January 1, 1910, and to their widows, in indigent circumstances and who have been bona fide residents of this State since January 1, 1910, and who were married to such soldiers or sailors prior to January 1, 1910, and to indigent and disabled soldiers who under the special laws of the State of Texas during the war between the States served in organizations for the protection of the frontier against Indian raiders or Mexican marauders and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia of the State of Texas who were in active service during the war between the States and to the widows of such soldiers who are indigent circumstances and who were married to such soldiers prior to January 1, 1910, provided that the word "widow" in the preceding lines of this Section shall not apply to women born since the year 1861, and all soldiers and sailors and widows of soldiers and sailors eligible under the above conditions shall be entitled to be placed upon the pension rolls and participate in the distribution of the pension fund of this State under any existing law or laws hereafter passed by the Legislature, and also to grant aid for the establishment and maintenance of a home for such soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who aided in the Confederacy under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law, provided the Legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together, in the home. There is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas a State ad valorem tax on property of seven ($ 07) cents on the one hundred ($100) dollars valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for services in the Confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the Legislature may reduce the tax rate herein levied, and provided further that the provision of this Section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity.

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be subject to a vote of the qualified voters of this State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1924, at which all voters shall have printed or written on their ballots:

"For amendment of Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows who have been a resident of this State since January 1, 1910," and "Against amendment to Section 51 of Article 3, of the Constitution, authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers and their widows."

Sec. 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State, and the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the general funds of this State not otherwise appropriated for expenses of publications and elections thereunder.

Approved, March 20, 1923.
S. L. STAPLES,
Secretary of State.

—FOR SALE—A good milch cow giving 3 gallons of milk a day. See or call Dr. P. F. Robertson.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Under and by virtue of an execution and order of sale issued on the 9th day of June, 1924, in cause No. 105,058 of the 11th District Court of Harris County, in favor of W. C. Moore, P. S. Moore, W. R. Edwards and P. K. Edwards against Spears Havelly of Calvin, Bell county, Kentucky, for the sum of Thirty-two thousand eight hundred eighteen and 80/100 dollars principal, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the 8th day of November 1923 together with the sum of thirteen and 50/100 dollars cost as taxed on said execution, and the further cost of executing the same, I have levied on the 13th day of June, 1924, and will offer for sale and sell on the first Tuesday in August, 1924, same being the 5th day of August, 1924, at the door of the Court House of Terrell county, Texas, in the city of Sanderson, between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m. any and all right, title, interest and claim which the said defendant Spears Havelly of Calvin, Bell County, Kentucky, had of, in or to the following described land and premises situated in Terrell county, Texas, viz:

That certain land known as the west three hundred ninety-four (394) acres of six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas, by virtue of certificate No. 2112, survey No. 69, Block A-2.

That certain land known as six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas, by virtue of certificate No. 2106, survey No. 57, in Block A-2; granted said Railway by State of Texas; also six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas, by virtue of certificate No. 2107, survey No. 59, in Block A-2; also six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas, by virtue of certificate No. 2108, survey No. 61, in Block A-2; also six hundred forty acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas by virtue of certificate No. 2109, survey No. 63 in Block A-2.

That certain land known as six hundred fifteen and five tenths (615.5) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas by virtue of certificate No. 1890, survey No. 33, in Block A-2; and also six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas by virtue of certificate No. 2166, survey No. 17, Block A-2.

That certain land known as six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas by virtue of certificate No. 2111, survey No. 67, Block A-2.

That certain land known as six hundred forty (640) acres of land originally granted to the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway by the State of Texas by virtue of certificate No. 2110, survey No. 65, Block A-2.

All of the above land being situated in the County of Terrell. Terms: CASH.

F. N. Harrell,
Sheriff Terrell Co., Texas.

DENTISTRY

If you are satisfied with only the very highest class of dental service, one which includes the most modern equipment, by which alone perfect dentistry can be undertaken, you should consult Dr. A. Hodges.

Boozer Apts. Apt. 6

Royal Tailor Shop

CLEANING, PRESSING, DYEING, ALTERATIONS, Etc.

A reduction of from $5 to $14 on our latest Spring and Summer Suits

Work called for and delivered

Frank Robertson, Mgr.

Phone No. 6

ANNOUNCEMENT COLUMN.

For District Judge:

JUDGE JOSEPH JONES,

(Re-election.)

J. Q. HENRY.

For District Attorney:

JULIAN LACROSSE

H. E. (Heinic) VELTMANN.

For County Judge:

G. J. HENSHAW.

(Re-election)

For Sheriff & Tax Collector:

W. J. BANNER.

F. N. HARRELL, (re-election)

J. J. NANCE.

For County Attorney:

J. CALVIN STANSELL.

For County & District Clerk:

LUELLA LEMONS,

(re-election)

For Tax Assessor:

W. J. FERGUSON.

(re-election)

HENRY GATES.

BEN DAWSON.

B. GREEN.

For County Treasurer:

FRANK K. HARRELL.

(re-election)

For Commissioner Precinct No. 1:

W. A. COCHRAN.

For Constable Prec. No. 1:

TOM PARSONS.

Alamo City Business College

"The Efficient, Accredited School"

For Better Business Education

Fully Accredited by the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools

An institution with a seriousness of educational purpose, conducted for the educational profit of its students, and co-operating with the home, the church and the public schools in giving to worthy young people an efficient business training—a school with a deeper interest in human wealth, in educational service that fits students to make a life as well as a livelihood—a school whose credits are transferable to 300 of the leading business training institutions of America—a school where rectitude of conduct and excellence of achievement are inspired by example in educational and business practices.

Up-To-Date Texts and Courses

Day and Evening Sessions

ENTER ANY TIME

Call, Telephone or Wire

Crockett 259

305 E. Houston St.

A Hint to the Wise, Etc.

See Manager For Contract

Why annoy your neighbor for the use of his Telephone when you can have one in your house for $2 Per Month?

Sanderson Telephone Company

Church News

of Sanderson

Tomorrow is regular appointment for Rev. M. F. Bell for this place, services at 11 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. All very welcome.

Presbyterian Sunday school opened last Sunday with a much larger attendance. Children returning from their vacations, so glad to have them with us again.

The little folks in Mrs. Duke's class were glad to welcome her home again, she was in her place Sunday morning.

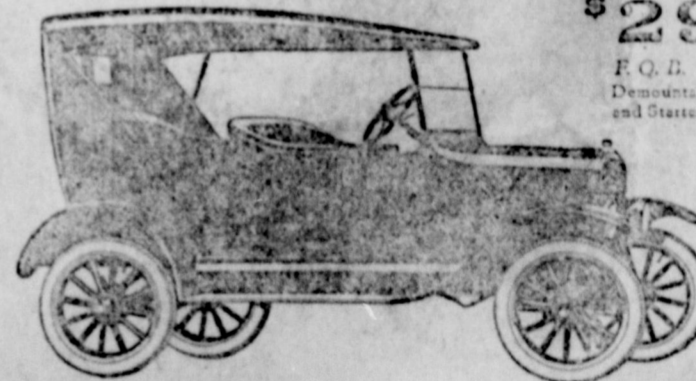

Church news is very scarce these days, soon be back on the normal footing.

—Regular Correspondent

Dr. Layton Cochran left the first of the week for San Antonio to do intern work at the Robert B. Green Memorial Hospital.

Get the Tonic of the Out-of-Doors

The Touring Car $295
F. O. B. Detroit
Demountable Rim
and Starter to extra

Be sure that your efficiency and your comfort this summer have the help of that car you have always intended to buy. You know its value—you know what an essential aid it is to a fuller activity, an easier life, more healthful hours out-of-doors.

Delay invites disappointment. Why wait? Buy now!

Ford Motor Company

Detroit, Michigan

Runabout $295 Coupe $525 Touring Sedan $520 Fordor Sedan $655
All prices f. o. b. Detroit

SEE THE NEAREST AUTHORIZED FORD DEALER

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

You can buy any model by making a small down-payment and arranging easy terms for the balance. Or you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. The Ford dealer in your neighborhood will gladly explain both plans in detail.