Forty-Two Parties.

Mrs. Lee Grigsby was hostess to the forty-two club to which she belongs and a few friends at her home last Thursday evening. After several interesting games had been played scores were added; high scores being made by Mrs. Chester Smith and Mrs. M. A. Boling. The hostess served delicious fruit jello with whipped cream and angel food cake.

Miss Nelberta Lea entertained several members of the young set at her home last Friday evening, complimenting her cousin, Miss Viola Rogers, of Orange, Texas, who is her house guest.

The evening was delightfully spent in playing forty-two. High scores were made by Miss Mabel Harrell and Lynn Harrell. And Miss Evelyn Goode and Jack Sharp were holders of low scores.

At a late hour iced watermelon was served to the guests.

Announcement Party.

Mrs. W. E. Lea and Mrs. F. G. Grigsby entertained with a forty-two party Thursday, July 22. The color scheme of gold and white was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Baskets of vases of shasta daisies and gold zinnias were flowers used. Eight tables of players enjoyed the six games of forty-two. Mrs. Leroy Grigsby won high score, receiving a basket of golden crystal; Mrs. Arthur Locke won second high and was awarded a bottle of bath salts. Tallys were circle booklets tinted in gold. Delicious refreshments of pineapple foam topped with whipped cream, golden punch and angel food puffs were served to 45 guests.

The favors passed to each guest proved to be imitation marriage license rolled within small rings, announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Nelberta Lea to Mr. Monty H. Goode Jr., a prominent young ranchman of Terrell County.

—A Friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Holmes entertained Mr. and Mrs. G. Ensley as dinner guests on Wednesday.

The editor and wife accompanied by Miss Annie Beck spent Tuesday in Del Rio attending the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Holmes have as their house guests Mr. Holmes's mother Mrs. George P. Holmes of Canutillo, Texas, and Mrs. Holmes's sister, Miss Thelma Dickerson of El Paso.

MRS. MILLS RECEIVES DEGREE IN MUSIC AT S.W. U.

Georgetown, Tex., July 24.—(Special to The Times)—Mrs. Clyde Mills of Sanderson, Texas, was the featured pupil in the recital given by Mrs. Sallie B. M. Chambers, head of the music department of Southwestern University, last Monday night, July 19.

Mrs. Mills has taken work in the fine arts department of Southwestern sufficient to allow her candidacy for the music teachers' certificate which was granted to her at the close of the recital Monday night.

Mrs. Mills appeared four times on the program. Two groups of solos, of two each, were Mendelssohn's "Scherzo Op. 16 No. 2," Chopin's "Military Polonaise," Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C-sharp Minor," and "Chromatic Valse" by Godard. She accompanied the violin solos on the program, and as the final number appeared with her teacher, Mrs. Chambers, in Mendelssohn's "Nocturne from Midsummer Night's Dream," a piano duet.

Mrs. Mills is an accomplished musician and understands her work thoroughly. She is unusually conscientious about her study and her teaching, and Mrs. Chambers says she has never had a more earnest and hard working pupil.

WOMAN CON-QUERS FEARS

Husband Delighted and Home Happier

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use." In describing her condition before taking the Compound she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!' Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?"

BOILS FOR YEARS NOW ALL GONE

Alabamian Says Dodson's Liver Tonic Gave Him Brand New Liver Worth Fortune.

Experience seems to indicate that people store up in their systems certain poisons that break out all at once in a series of boils. Sometimes they are fatal.

Willie Hayes says: "Ever since I grew up boils broke out on me just when the planting season began, and I had to lay up. Blood remedies were worthless. The only known remedy was calomel, but it seemed to turn my stomach inside out. This spring I got a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic and I feel sure it put a new liver into me worth a fortune, for it cleared off the boils and for the first time in years they didn't come back."

The reason for this is the fact that a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic loosens up the liver, lets go a gorge of impurities, sour bile, fermented food and gas and breaks up the most obstinate constipation. And yet it never makes you sick—no gripes, no pain—even though it may drive out quarts of sour bile as black as ink. And this result is absolutely guaranteed.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel did in all your life, and without griping or making you sick, go back to the store and get your money.

BASEBALL SQUITS

The baseball team of Waseda university at Tokyo defeated the Stanford university nine 7 to 4.

The last monstache to be seen in professional baseball was worn by John Tyler of the Philadelphia club.

Charles H. Ebbets, late owner of the Brooklyn club, began as a score card and ticket seller for the team in 1883.

Cleveland was the first city to work out a plan to foster athletics and today is the largest amateur baseball center in the country.

Walter Johnson and Grover Alexander are the only two pitchers in the game today who have struck out 2,000 or more batsmen.

M. Gregg Hibbs, Jr., 28 of Bristol, Pa., has been elected captain of the Rutgers variety baseball team. Hibbs is the first-string catcher.

Mike Gazella, Yankee infielder, holds a degree as chemist which he earned at Lafayette college, but he expects to enter law school next fall.

Years ago, President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club provided contribution boxes at the Sunday ball games, paid admissions being illegal.

Only 12 players in the history of major league baseball have served 20 or more years. Adrian "Cap" Anson topped them all with 26 active seasons.

Old John Scott is still hurling a pretty fair brand of ball for the Grants. Fact is, he's been one of McGraw's most consistent winners this season.

Ebbets field, Brooklyn, may be the home ground of the professional soccer club that will compete in next season's tournaments and national cup ties.

In a season marked thus far by unusually few outbreaks, Bill McKechnie, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is the first National league leader to be disciplined.

Not a single contest was called off on account of rain last year or so far this season by the Charlotte (N. C.) club. Over 100 consecutive games have been played without a break.

At Simons of the Philadelphia Athletics uses the longest bat of any major league player—37 1/4 inches. Tris Speaker and Harry Hellmuth use bats measuring 36 inches in length.

Nowadays many baseball players make the jump from the college diamond into the big league park—something unheard of a few years back, when an apprenticeship in the minors was the usual rule.

Things looked bad for Cleveland when Spenser lined to Shanks for a triple play in the game at Cleveland on June 14, 1924. But in the eleventh McNulty worked his way to third and then, with two out, he stole home on Murray, winning the game.

Seven assists at first base constitutes a world record. Kitty Bransfield, covering the initial sack for the Pirates, accepted 14 chances at Chicago May 8, 1904, and half of them were assists. Johnny Evers had a big day at short for Chicago, yet his assists were only three more than Kitty's.

Manager Frank Bancroft of the Detroit club was the first to use the shift when a left-handed batter was doing duty. In a game played May 10, 1881, Worcester vs. Detroit, Banny benched Ed Hanlon when he heard that Richmond was going to pitch. It didn't make much difference, for Detroit made but four hits and received a shutout.

Dykes Sets Record for Freak Batting in Game

Records for freak batting stunts were put in the discard last season by Jimmy Dykes of the Philadelphia Athletics in his phenomenal hitting against the Yankees on October 2.

Jimmy went to bat five times and each time up he safely hit the first ball pitched. Four of the hits were off Garland Braxton and one was off Herb Pennock, and they included a home run and a three-bagger.

Five out of five isn't so rare, but when one batter gets five clean hits out of five pitched balls he has done something which the old-timers concede is mighty unusual.

The same player had another perfect day at the plate on July 12, when he collected four hits out of that many times at bat. Two months later he made good on five out of six trips to the plate in the second game of a double-header.

Ira Flagstead, Red Sox infielder, also had an odd record. On May 8, at Detroit, Flagstead went to the plate six times, made one hit, walked five times and scored five times.

Catcher Couldn't Give Name of a New Pitcher

Paul Shannon tells one of Connie Mack which happened several years ago when the Athletics' leader was trying out seven dozen players a year in an effort to build up his team.

"The Red Sox were playing the Macks and trouncing them," says Shannon. "Connie had sent in about a half dozen pitchers and every one of them had been hammered. Finally he sent in another.

"Half dizzy with the number of changes that had been made, the umpire asked the Athletic catcher for the name of the new pitcher, so it could be announced.

"The catcher looked at the ump with a blank stare and time had to be called while he ran out to the mound to get the name of the heaver first-handed."

Grid Practice Is Taboo Until School Is Opened

Assemblage of grid men for preliminary football work under the direction of the captain prior to the opening of the school term, September 15, is taboo in the Missouri Valley conference. This decision was made after a heated discussion by the athletic directors in their meeting at Lincoln. Previous rulings did not permit a coach to take charge of his men until after that date, but the new rule will not allow the football men to begin practice even in an unorganized way until the regular school term opens.

World's Future May Safely Be Left in Keeping of the New Generation

By REV. DR. LYNN HAROLD HOUGH, Detroit.

THERE is always a new generation, and the new generation is always the hope and the perplexity of the world. To begin with, it approaches life with all that sense of baffling mystery which young people feel so deeply and about which they say so little, for very often what seems the arrogance of youth is a kind of whistling to keep up courage in a world which seems very strange and difficult and irresponsible. Then there is the restlessness of youth which comes in good part from the consciousness of immense vital energies which have found as yet no adequate and satisfying expression. The tragedy of youth lies just in the fact that so often no central purpose is found about which all the great energies of youth are organized and so the inner life is a kind of perpetual and bitter mutiny. The glory of youth comes when every power of mind and body and all the subtle sensitiveness of the whole personality find a center in some great purpose which gives the life both satisfying expression and power of service in the world.

The best thing about the new generation is that it is all the while living at the very spot where experience and adventure meet; so that it always has the opportunity of disciplining adventure through the wisdom of experience and making experience warm and human through perpetually new adventure.

Highest Tribute Due to Discoverers of Remedies for Human Diseases

By RABBI LEON HARRISON, Famed Humanitarian.

For the men who lived and died for the salvation of humanity, to save them from torture, from disease, from horrible deaths—Koch, Pasteur, Bruce, Lasear, Ehrlich—no honors can be too great, no reverence too absolute.

Let us not forget that the modern saint is not immured within stone walls, in voluntary seclusion from the world. The modern saint and hero is he who fights battles for his fellow-creatures, he who willingly infects himself with a deadly scourge in order to save them from the certainty of destruction; he who sacrifices health and strength and youth and life, not for a vision of glory, not to the sound of trumpet and drum, not to merit the heaven of men's dreams and hopes, but simply as a soldier who will not lay down his arms, facing every danger fearlessly, reckoning not the cost, but holding fast to his colors and never deserting the post of duty.

To these men a wreath of glory that shall never fade! To a man like Lasear, laboring in a pesthole of the yellow scourge, knowing that his time would come, the time when a horrible end would befall him, to such a man the glory of a martyr and a saint!

Religious Education Most Potent Weapon to Fight Existing Crime Wave

By W. S. HISER, Indianapolis Manual Training School.

There is most urgent need for religious education in an effort to combat the crime wave in the United States.

The work of religious instruction is at least not less important, and certainly not less difficult than that of general education. It demands the purposeful rather than the marginal in the occupation of persons. As general education is the most important ministry of the state to children, so religious education is the most direct and important ministry of the church to the children. The week day school of religion places the ministry on a plane with the ministry to children through the public schools; and on the same plane with the ministry of the church to the adults through the clergy. It represents the transfer from makeshift device to a definite purposeful program.

Week-day schools of religious education represent the highest type of effective, co-operative religious work of the different religious denominations in any community. There is no other type of co-operative religious work that so completely tends to erase denominational differences.

Happy Augury in More Cordial Relations Existing Between Capital and Labor

By E. J. CROCKER, Texas State Labor Commissioner.

Capital and labor are rapidly reaching a happy medium in their relations, and are becoming far more considerate of each other.

Each is being educated to the importance of the other, and now employers, especially in America, are taking greater interest in the welfare of their employees and the laboring classes have begun to realize that without the money and enterprise of the capitalists they would be without the privilege of laboring.

The strike the railroad shophmen staged in 1922 was suicidal. But it did one great thing for labor in the United States. It threw off the influence wielded by the Internationale, which was far greater than we in America thought.

It eliminated from the ranks of union laborers many of the most vicious radicals, who presented almost unanswerable theories which will not work out in practice. Even Russia has seen the light and has become cognizant of the fact that the world cannot live without capital and capitalists.

America Behind Europe in Remuneration of Instructors of Its Youth

By DR. ERNST COHEN, University of Utrecht.

American colleges put too much money into buildings and not enough into brains.

If a private individual gives to one of your universities, a large proportion of the gift goes into buildings. In fact, it would seem that there is too much competition in this respect, with the result that your young people are tempted to choose their colleges on the basis of physical rather than scholastic advantages.

Of course, your educational plants offer extraordinary facilities, particularly for professional training, and I think it will not be long before you can match Europe in scholarship. But the development of your universities depends upon the maintenance of the faculties on the highest standards. You should pay your professors more—at least as much, surely, as you pay your artisans and mechanics. The average university salary in Europe, I believe, is well above the average honorarium received by the professors in this country.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative -Not a "Physic"

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to sit at a weak table with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Slim Longfellow got off something real clever at Shorty Smith's logrolling last Friday. Slim got enough of being teased about having sick headaches so much and came back at the boys by telling them that the reason some folks never have sick headaches is because they haven't brains enough in their cranium to get sick. Slim thinks so much of his joke, he is thinking of having it published several times in the Taterhill Herald.

HEELY OF WHITE SOX FINE AT FIRST

Classed With Topnotchers in Junior League.

In Earl Sheely, the White Sox boast one of the best first basemen in the American league. While not an all-round player of the Slesler type, the fellow nevertheless can handle his position as well with almost any of them. And that's saying a bit, considering that chaps like the Browns' manager, Lu Blue, Joe Judge, Lou Gehrig and so on inhabit the same circuit.

This is Sheely's fifth season in the majors. He joined the Hose in 1923, after the Comiskey outfit had been practically ruined owing to the 1919 world series scandal. Sheely was obtained from the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast league, where a batting average of .371 in 1920 had attracted the scouts.

From the start the tall boy made good. And he has been improving ever since. He was in 113 double plays, and had more putouts and more assists than any other initial corner guard. Sheely was in 156 games, more than any other American league player participated in.

Sheely played his first professional baseball with Vancouver in the Northwestern league, back in 1912. Since then he has been with several clubs in various leagues. Outside of a few games which he worked behind the plate during his minor league regime, he has usually performed around the first cushion.

Sport Notes

Table: "Well, well," chuckled the golfer as he messed up the nine-inch putt, "better luck next time."

According to Prof. W. T. Waugh of McGill university the modern interest in sports is nothing new. Tennis was played with balls like cricket balls, football, golf and hockey were in vogue in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries.

The horses of India being small, the game of polo was played for many years on small horses. When Americans began playing polo the small horse was found to be too slow, and they began using larger and faster animals.

The best record for competitive golf in a national event prior to Bobby Jones' mark of 134 was made by Jock Hutchinson in the qualifying rounds of the national open championship at Skokie in scores of 67 and 68 for a total of 135. But in doing so he burned himself out and in the main test two days later he slumped badly. Had the tournament been delayed a few days longer Jock might have regained top form.

Although he is president of the Kansas State Golf association, Brig. Gen. Edward L. King, commandant of the general service schools at Fort Leavenworth, spurns the ancient game. "It's too slow," General King said. "Golf is fine for women, children and old men, but until I become superannuated, I shall continue to play tennis and hand ball. I have tried a game or two of golf, but I prefer vigorous sports."

In a few years to come golf will be the steadiest of sports. This is due to the South, where everybody can make a complete change and still be in the game. The same may be said of the West, but there is too much ground to be traveled. The average golfer of the North can take his bag of tricks and practically overnight be in on his game again. The interest never dies and the longing fingers.

What is the toughest event on a track and field program, from the viewpoint of the contestant? Most devotees of the sport consider the 440-yard run the hardest. The quarter-mile is a mad dash every step of the way. It is a grueling test, where in physical fitness, endurance, stamina, speed and ability play important and necessary parts. In other words, it is a 220-yard race, only twice as far, with no jogging start or letup between the pistol's report and the tape.

Summer Fashions Varied, Charming

Winsome Evening Wraps and Gowns in Many Interesting Versions.

Social activities being directly influenced by the seasons, it followed that the unusually cool and backward period had the effect of causing the transfer indoors of many activities which might otherwise have been held in the open air. This has perhaps called forth, broadly speaking, more formal and elaborate costumes for occasions than is usually true. But the fashions adapted to the needs of the season are nevertheless unusually pleasing, declares a fashion writer in the New York Times.

Evening gowns, always the delight of the designer, are full of charm. They are much the same in type as the styles of the winter season. There are, of course, changes in the fabric, eliminating the heavier brocade and satins, velvets and metallic materials. But character and importance are given to the handsomer gowns and wraps in stuffs equally beautiful, some of them quite as costly as the gorgeous velvet and metal brocades one sees at the height of the town season. There are now even summer velvets, which are really silken chiffon velvets in embossed patterns, light as a feather and very supple. There is also a summer version of satin which has that chiffonlike texture that lends itself to the most graceful arrangement in drapery. These materials are shown in models from representative houses, both French and American. Most of them are for daytime, to be worn on more or less formal occasions, and they are also seen in "dressy" wraps for both day and night wear.

Summer Wrap in Demand. The summer wrap is of distinct importance at the moment because there has been continuous need for it, and its many variants are alluringly interpreted in chiffon velvet, and crepe satins as well as in lighter silks and more sheer materials that belong to warm weather dress. Regardless of the calendar some of the most delightful and effective gowns are being made of soft satin, for many fashionable women prefer for formal evening dress the more sophisticated mode expressed in a satin or silk.

Callot Soeurs are making some lovely gowns of satin or of moire, which is one of the conspicuous successes of the year. A detail in some of these models from Callot is a wide sash girde fitted loosely over the hips and finished with a large butterfly bow, no hanging ends. An evening gown designed for an American woman of stately carriage and little figure is made of star-crepe, a new crepe satin, very pliant and lustrous, in chartreuse, the delicate yellow green now so fashionable. The model is a flaring princess, straight in front and cut to ripple around the bottom, from the knees toward the back, where it is drawn upward, with a cascading edge that ends in a short jabot-like tie. The foundation of this gown is a straight slip of the satin, the neck being cut in a deep V—in surplice arrangement at the back, quite high in front. A band of gold passementerie is added to finish the neck and the bottom of the underdress, and no other trimming is used on the gown, which is sleeveless.

Moire Having a Run. Moire is having what in the theater would be called a "run." This is now made in lighter, softer weaves than the stiff moire that once was tested by the quality that would "stand alone." Some very handsome gowns of dignified simplicity are shown in moire, in white, in sunni, the new yellow; in several shades of green, blue, chartreuse and coral sand. Because of the ornate character of the material, these moire gowns are cut after simple designs, some of the best in princess style and little trimmed, with a narrow galloon of strass beads, in glass or silver.

In the summer evening gown, this being the acknowledged "hit" of the season. There is in it a frosty luster and delicacy that seems to be achieved in no other silk fabric. In the revival of taffeta Lanvin has led the way with her period gowns, and other designers on both sides of the water have contributed each in his or her particular way to the popularity of this ideal "summer" silk. The demand has been so heavy and so general that the dressmakers are saying there is no more taffeta to be had.

An evening gown from Callot in silvery white taffeta is made with a plain bodice, cut in round, moderate decollete and sleeveless, with the opening on one shoulder and under the arm. The normal waistline is outlined with a dull silver passementerie and a tiny, upstanding frill of narrow lace, and the entire skirt, very bouffant and ankle length, is made of ruffles of the taffeta, each edged with a line of silver, a large, stiff rosette of lace and silver being placed as a motif at one side of the belt. This delightful model illustrates the feeling for quaintness which inspires the modiste who works in taffeta.

American designers have a fondness for the fringed ruching made of taffeta with which some of the prettiest frocks, particularly for the younger women, are trimmed. Some evening gowns of unusual design in taffeta are made severely plain and given distinction through an embroidered motif. Some of these are extreme in pattern and size, extending from shoulder to hem, or in large plaques on the skirt or bodice or both. Quite lovely is a little frock of mauve taffeta with a simple bodice finished all about the edges of skirt, neck, and little cap sleeves with a boned scallop. The skirt, which is plain in front, is embroidered in a large spider's web in gray floss and is gathered to the waist full at the sides and back. Another model of simple type, although Parisian, is done in rose-gray taffeta, having a huge conventionalized rose made of narrow grosgrain ribbon plaited on the front breadth of the full skirt, a spiral of floss trailing over the length of the frock.

Handsome evening toilettes include some in silver lame and silver lace, used with brilliant effect, especially in combination with satin, which is shown this season on some of the most elaborate wedding gowns. In all lace, which is very much in vogue at the present, some enchanting evening gowns are shown. The dyed laces are very chic and make frocks that are graceful and showy for informal affairs. The dyeing of these laces is done with great skill and most charming results are achieved.

One frock of sea-green lace, made over peach chiffon, is an ideal dance frock for summer. A model of blond lace combined with chiffon of the same shade is gentle in tone, always flattering, and has the advantage of being the sort of frock that will be equally suitable for a tea dance or an evening affair, and that may be worn with a wrap of any sort. A beautiful evening gown of French authorship is made of black chantilly lace over pink satin crepe. Illustrating one of the latest color combinations.

Logically the stuff of which evening gowns and all the other formal costumes for summer should be built is the sheer material in all of its present variants—chiffon, georgette, mousseline de soie and all the crepes, both flowered and in plain colors. Chiffon in different weights and weaves is the medium of far the greater number of modes for evening and all distinctly summer dress. The artistry with which chiffon is embroidered, beaded, weighted with passementerie and fringed is amazing, the ideal accomplishment being to retain that subtle clinging action and yet produce a dazzling effect.

Fringe is one of the ultra-fashionable trimmings shown by the foremost designers of Paris and very much reproduced by modistes on this side. A high light in the summer collections is an evening gown from Premet, all in one shade of blue. It is of georgette, the upper part being finely plaited and bloused into a soft girde.

Old English Township Given Dignity of City
Salford, the great manufacturing township of Lancashire, England, which has benefited by the creation of the Manchester ship canal, is at last to be elevated to the dignity of a city, thus bringing it into line with its neighbor, Manchester. The two cities are divided only by the narrow and greasy waters of the River Irwell, crossed by many bridges. Victoria railway station, the most important of Manchester, really stands in Salford.

When Salford became one of the ancient hundreds (with power to administer laws, as in the case of manorial rights), Manchester was so poor, having been devastated by Danish invaders, that its territory was included in the jurisdiction of Salford. On the other hand, Manchester had ecclesiastical buildings when Salford had none, and not until 1834 did Salford own a chapel. Now it possesses a cathedral, in company with Manchester.

Faultfinder Not Wanted
Tacked on the wall of his headquarters, wherever his horses may be racing, and over his desk at the office on his breeding farm, John E. Madden, the famous horseman, has a sign which reads: "No complaints received unless accompanied by remedies," according to an item in Liberty. Mr. Madden, in commenting on his motto, says: "I do not think anyone has the right to claim a thing is wrong unless he is ready to show how it can be corrected."

Feasted on Giant Catfish
Some of the employees of a chair company near Owensboro, Ky., had a feast of catfish at their homes, after a 30-pound fish was found swimming about in a small pool of water in a hollow log, taken from Green river to the chair factory to be sawed into chair stock. The fish was discovered just as the timber was about to be cut up.
