Congress opened its short session on resigning. On June 17 Gen. Gomes da | Coolidge's message was read to it.

Conceding that there would be time (or little more than the necessary appropriation legislation, he yet made many recommendations. The more important were: Tax relief by reduction of income tax payments due in March and June, 1927; relief for the farmers, without attempting to fix prices; early transfer of the Philippines from the military to the civil branch of the government; branch banking legislation; putting radio control under Department of Commerce; enactment of such prohibition enforcement legislation as the treasury might ask; development of reclamation projects, Muscle Shoals, rivers and harbors generally and a Lakes-to-the-Sea waterway; railroad consolidation, and coal control legislation.

Democratic members of congress undertook to introduce a measure for general tax reduction, but the majority of the house ways and means ommittee decided that there should be no tax legislation whatever during the short session. The first bill passed by the house was the senate measure increasing the salaries of all federal judges. The house also passed promptly the treasury and post office bill carrying $800,854,248. Congress adjourned on December 22 for the holiday recess. President Coolidge and his family spent the summer vacation at a camp in the Adirondacks. He delivered public addresses July 5 at the Sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia, at the Red Cross convention in October and in Kansas City on Armistice day. In March his father, Col. John C. Coolidge, died.

The American Legion held its convention in Philadelphia, elected Howard P. Savage of Chicago commander in chief and decided to have its 1927 session in France. The national encampment of the G. A. The interstate commerce commission rejected the Van Sweringen plan for a merger of the Nickle Plate, Chesapeake & Ohlo, Erie, Hocking Valley and Pers Marquette railroads, and late in the year the Van Sweringens devised another merger plan that was more promising.

DISASTERS

Prophets who foretold grave convulsions of nature during 1926 were right. Storms, floods, and earthquakes were numerous and terribly destructive of life and property, and weather conditions were abnormal in most countries. Most disastrous of all in the United States was the tropical tornado that swept across southern Florida on September 17-18. About 300 persons were killed, thousands injured and a property loss of more than $100,000,000 sustained. Relief measures were swiftly taken and restoration of that part of the country's winter playground was begun at once. Other disasters were: in January: Great floods in Mexico and western Europe; coal mine explosion near Wilburton, Okla., 91 killed; mine explosion, Helena, Mont., 27 ing the charges of corruption and slush | killed. COTTAGE CHEESE IS EASILY MADE

Haphazard Methods of Preparing Are Not Favored.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Haphazard methods of making cottage cheese result in a product that intervals. is sometimes palatable and sometimes surplus available for selling it is imtimes. This is only possible when exact methods are followed each time the cheese is made. The process itself is not at all difficult if directions given by the United States Department of Agriculture are accurately followed.

The Tennessee woman whose picture is shown has been extremely successful in making cottage cheese and selling it. She packs her product in the round waxed cardboard cartons, pint size, and makes only enough at a sees to it that the stores which handle supply of absolutely fresh cheese.

Farmers' Bulletin 1451-F gives directions for making cottage cheese in the right way. In the case of quantity production, a "starter" or specially developed sour milk is recommended, and directions are given for

WHITE MATERIALS USEFUL IN HOUSEHOLD

4-H Club Girls Learn to Select White Goods.

(Prepared by the United States Department | like linen, poplin or galatea, for sports of Agriculture.) White sales have long been associlated with the beginning of the year. The thrifty housekeeper sees ahead the need for replenishments in household linens, underwear, and sometimes in summer dress materials which can be made up at her leisure during the early spring. She counts on the January sales to take care of some of these needs, because she knows that prices will be tempting and that there will be a good choice of materials and qualities.

Useful White Washable Material.

The term "household linens" includes practically all white or chiefly household furnishing, whether made items as bedding, sheets, pillowcases, spreads, and mattress protectors; table cloths, napkins, doilies, centerpleces, tray cloths, luncheon sets, bureau and table covers, bath and other towels, wash cloths, kitchen towels. Sometimes cretonnes, prints and other washable figured materials are placed on sale with white

The white goods predominate, but colored ginghams, prints, percales and other wash fabrics are often spe cially priced at this season, so it pays to be on the lookout for bargains. Both white and colored linens may usually be found among the offerings at these sales.

Bulletin Will Help.

To help the woman who finds herself somewhat at a loss to choose among the great variety of cotton materials displayed, there is a Farmers Bulletin, No. 1449-F, "Selection of Cotwhite washable materials used in ton Fabrics." A droll idea entered Mansfield's head. He was not without humor. So he returned to his desk, looked into the telephone book, and called a number. A woman's voice answered.

"I wish to speak with Mr. Cathewe. "Just a moment, please."

Three or four minutes passed. "Hello! This is Mr. Cathewe. What do you wish to speak to me

I wish to ask you some questions frankly. Why do you hate me?"

"I do not hate you. My attitude is absolutely impersonal." "That's blunt enough. What would you say if I expressed the opinion

Mansfield then wrote two letters, The first was local. It was to the chief of police. It demanded as quickly as ssible a good photograph of Brandon Cathewe. It did not matter how it was obtained. The second letter was directed to a celebrated detective agency in New York. The best man they had was wanted immediately.

She put the letters in a Florentine box, which she restored to a drawer. She was about to close this when her eye was attracted by a slip of paper. It was a typewritten list of the bonds and stocks and accumulated funds of which her private fortune consisted. Away down toward the end she came upon something which she had not noticed previously: "Fifty shares the Bannister Morning Herald!"

"The only way you can break an editor," she murmured, "is to buy his sheet and turn him adrift." Thereupon a great and glorious idea popped into her head.

"Nineteen years ago bison were practically extinct in North America.' says Mr. Harkin's report. "Of countless millions that roamed the plains in pioneer days, only a few hundred remained. These were in the hands of Michael Pablo, half-breed Indian of Montana, who sold his herd to the Canadian government when the buffalo preserve at Wainwright was established in 1907.

London .- Alfred Harry Mutton used to be butler at Hanover square, in which fashionable quarter his wife exercised her talents as a cook. With the changing times, however, a change came in the Muttons' scheme of life. The ex-butler developed recently into a "competition solutionist"-a profession the pursuit of which resulted in a serious rift in the formerly well ordered Mutton household.

When Mr. Justice Hill, before whom the Muttons appeared to thrash out their difficulties, inguired what a "competition solutionist" might be, Mr. Mutton explained that he solved crossword puzzles and other newspaper prize puzzles for the benefit of a large circle of paying clients. "I win prizes for other people," stated the competition solutionist, perhaps with a mean look in the direction of the errant Mrs. Mutton.

"Rent Party" Staves Off Collector in Harlem

New York .- Two novel easy-money schemes have grown up in Harlem, haven of the negro in New York. The "rent party" is the most unique. When the visit of the rent collector is imminent and the family treasury is low, comes the happy thought of turning the living quarters into an impromptu place of entertainment for a night. The box office is the sidewalk, where tickets to the "rent party" are sold to whomever among the passers-by can be importuned into the home. The price of admission is 25 cents upward, according to the "swankiness" of the house

The motley room of guests occasionally get boisterous, leading the revelers into the tolls of the law.

The other scheme, in which the rewards are uncertain except for the promoters, is a sort of lottery, known as "numbers" or the "policy game," operated with the daily figures of total stock market sales as a basis. Although contributions of as little as a nickle are solicited, considerable sums are involved.

Burglar Discusses Art

as He Takes Jewelry

New York .- A burglar with a penchant for discussing art with his victims, if they happen to meet him, robbed Mrs. Adelaide O'Donohue of Brooklyn of $15,000 in jewels. Mrs. O'Donohue, police said in revealing the burglary, was awakened by a flashlight in her face just before daybreak and called out, "Who are you?"

"I'm a burglar," was the reply. "I want your money and your jewelry." She told them they were in the bureau, but he paused to remark :

"That's a corking fine painting you have there. Is it genuine? Mrs. O'Donohue assured him it was and that it was called "Out of Chaos Comes the Dawn." The thief, glancing out of the window, remarked that sure enough it was dawning. He then went to the bureau and selected gems, conversing the while.

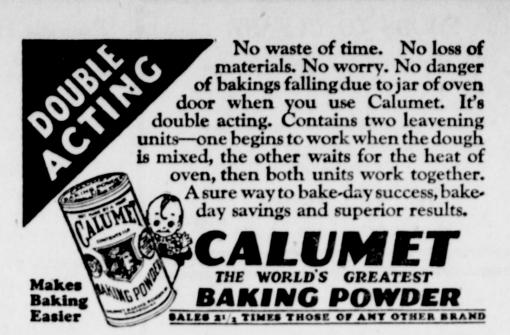

The burglar remarked upon volumes of Byron, Shelley and Keats on a table.
