AS IT LOOKS TO ME

By Jack Ainslie

The Discard.

Recently I talked with a gentleman who has been thrown into the discard. In other words, his days of usefulness are over and his kinfolks give him the impression that they regard him as a definite liability. This regardless of the fact that the gentleman in question is by no means a pauper.

To be thrown into the discard by the passing of the years is a real tragedy under any circumstances. But the tragedy becomes all the more grim and poignant when one who has lived an active, useful life comes to the rough, rugged end of the trail only to be made to feel "in the way" and become the target of inconsiderate, unkind treatment at the hands of "the folks."

At best, the world is inclined to be critical and impatient of the old and feeble. But why should we become unkind and harsh toward those who are piloting the battered craft of old age along the rocky shores of eternity?

Old age is a fate that none of us can avoid save by dying young. We cannot stay the years nor stem the rushing tide of time. Sooner than we think the hand of time shall shuffle the deck and we, too, shall find ourselves in the discard—useless and disregarded.

As a matter of fact, the lot of those in life's discard is a real test for our sportsmanship. Just because the "old folks" cannot play the game any more is no reason why we should not "play fair" with them and make their surroundings as pleasant as possible.

As it looks to me, old age is just around the corner for all of us. Therefore, it behooves us to watch our step—and our tongues.

Attending Rotary Meet

Five members of the Sanderson Rotary club are spending this week in Dallas in attendance at the Rotary International Convention which is in session there.

Those from here attending the meeting are, Lynn Harrell, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Yates, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Creigh Jr.

Revival Meeting

The revival meeting at the Sanderson Baptist church closed Sunday night. Rev. Harrison of Sierra Blanca did the preaching, and those who attended the services each night were well pleased with his sermons.

At the close of the meeting two came in by letter and one by conversion.

Mrs. Frank Robertson, Mrs. Wallace Henshaw Jr. and Mrs. J. S. Mason were shopping visitors in Alpine Wednesday.

New Business Buildings Being Erected

Ground was broken this week on Oak street, just east of the Sanderson Mercantile Company for a new theatre building. A. D. Brown is having the building put up, and contractor C. M. Breeding is doing the work. The structure which will be of hollow tile and stucco will be of Spanish design. An up to date and most modern theatre will be built, and when completed will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

C. M. Breeding also started this week a new up to date filling station next door to the Grigsby Cash Grocery which is located on the corner of Oak and First street. It will be of hollow tile and stucco.

These buildings are in keeping with the progress of our town and will add several more attractive buildings to our business district.

Forty-Two Party.

Honoring their cousin, Preston Juvenal of Crystal City, Miss Novis White and Mrs. C. J. White were hostesses to several members of the younger set last Thursday evening when they entertained with a forty-two party at the home of Mrs. White.

The afternoon was enjoyably spent playing forty-two, high scores being made by Miss Louise White and Cecil Bradley respectively.

A salad course was served to three tables of players.

Appointed Postmaster Pro Tem.

LeRoy Grigsby received his appointment last Saturday as acting postmaster. He took the civil service examination for the post office in January and is just now receiving word of his appointment. His many friends hope that the appointment will be made permanent.

He will be sworn in and take over the duties of the office, tomorrow, Saturday, June 1.

Missionary Society Meets

The Womens Missionary Society to the Methodist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lee Grigsby. Following a short business session a social hour followed.

There were thirteen members and two visitors present.

Telephone Company Moves to New Quarters

The Telephone Company this week moved into its new quarters recently fitted up in the building formerly known as the Duncan house. Mr. McAdams purchased this house a few months ago from A. D. Brown and has remodeled it into an up-to-date apartment house.

The Phone Company has been stringing new cable and putting in new poles for several weeks and the phone system will be in first-class shape when final work is completed.

Big Stock Shipment

Russel Menzie shipped 25 cars of sheep from Sanderson Thursday afternoon to White Face, Texas, in the Panhandle country.

SANDERSON DEFEATS ALPINE IN HOT GAME

A ball game that was well worth seeing was played here Sunday afternoon between Alpine and Sanderson and was witnessed by a fair sized crowd.

Alpine got away to a good start and made two scores in the first inning, but after this the Sanderson bunch tightened-up and settled down to real ball playing showing some of their old time pep and cleverness, and only allowed the visitors two more runs during the other eight innings.

Alpine came down here with a strong well-balanced team, and the low score (6 to 4) shows what a good game our boys played after the first inning. The star player for Alpine was Lease at shortstop; his playing ranked almost perfect during the game. It would be hard to say who starred for Sanderson, as all of them played good ball. Newton's pitching was fine, as was also Toman's catching. Duncan, who pitched for Alpine was in fine form. The line-up follows:

ALPINE: Lease, ss; Neal, 2nd; Cox, c; Sims, 1f; Glazier, r; Underwood, 1st; Colbert, 3rd; Connally, c; Duncan, p.
SANDERSON: Toman, c; Newton, p; Buchanan, 1st; White 2nd; Smith, 3rd; Robertson ss; Harrell, r; W. Grigsby, 1f; Franklin, c.

A few days ago the Sanderson team went to Langtry where they played a combined Comstock Langtry team, winning by a score of 5 to 0.

The standing of the Sanderson team up to date is as follows:

| PLAYED | WON | LOST | PERCENT |
|--------|-----|------|---------|
| 2 | 2 | 0 | 100 |

Struck by Lightning.

Last Saturday afternoon, Roy Harrell, who ranches in the southeast part of the country, was struck by lightning. Mr. Harrell and his son, Wade, had just finished rounding up some sheep and putting them in a pen when it commenced to rain. They went and sat down behind the concrete tank to keep from getting wet. A freak streak of lightning went down the barbed fence and struck the windmill tower. The shock rendered Mr. Harrell unconscious for several minutes. He seems to suffer no ill effects from the shock.

Terrell County Oil News.

Wooley and Jones, Pakenham No. 1, reported drilling 700 feet. Milham Exploration Company, Bassett No. 1, reported drilling 5000 feet. Keck Pecos Trust, Hamilton No. 1, reported drilling 2310 feet. Mrs. J. B. McPhee, Sam Bell No. 1, reported drilling 700 feet. Big Bend Oil Co., Bassett No. 1, reported shut down 140 feet.

It is reported that Cumming and Kroenli have purchased an eighty acre assignment on the M. H. Goode ranch, and are going to drill a well on same immediately. It is reported that a contract has been let to drill well to the depth of 5000 ft. unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at a lesser depth.

Several prominent geologists and men of land departments of various concerns visited Terrell County last week and are contemplating more activity in the path of oil development soon.

The Oil and gas lease records of this county still reveals the fact that quite a bit of interest is also being shown at the present time including royalty sales and assignments of oil and gas leases already of record.

Mrs. J. C. Green and daughter, Miss Willie Mae, left Thursday for Valentine where they will visit relatives.

POULTRY

SANITARY RUNWAY QUITE VALUABLE

Brooding Platform May Be Used With Fair Success.

(By G. T. Klein, Extension Poultryman, K. S. A.)

By making use of the "sanitary runway," the permanent brooder house that has for years been the menace of the poultry industry may be used with a fair degree of success.

The runway is merely a brooding platform that is placed in front of the brooder house. It has a floor of one-half inch half screen or hardware cloth. The wire floor, which is about 15 inches from the ground, allows all droppings and filth to fall through. Wire sides and top of one inch poultry netting confines the chicks to the runway and protects them from enemies.

The sanitary runway accomplishes everything that turning the chicks outside will accomplish, giving them exercise and sunlight and keeping them free from contaminated soil. Diseases are less likely to spread when chicks are running on the wire floor, for they have less opportunity of infection.

The runway may be ten feet wide and the entire length of the brooder house. The framework may be constructed of 1 by 4 inch material. These boards are placed on edge to support the floor. Boards may be spaced two feet apart. The wire may be either 24 or 48 inch widths. The 48-inch material makes a slightly stronger floor. Sides should be two feet high. Sections of the top should be hinged for ease in filling the feeders and care for the chicks.

Sufficient Number of Nests Properly Placed

The number of nests in relation to the size of the laying flock during the heavy laying season is important. With a sufficient number of nests properly placed there is less danger of eggs being deposited in the litter and becoming lost, stepped on, or otherwise broken.

Nests should be darkened; they should be so constructed that it is easy for one to see and remove the eggs. If nests are too large eggs may be broken by two or more hens crowding into them. Twelve by fourteen inches is suggested for the larger breed and ten by twelve inches for the smaller breeds. Nests should be easy to remove to facilitate cleaning.

Turkey's Natural Food Lines Often Overlooked

Then there are a good many persons working with turkeys in a small way who do not recognize one of the turkey's natural food lines; they fail to remember, if they ever knew, that the turkey's food in its wild state consisted chiefly of insects, beechnuts, acorns, berries, and so forth, with but little corn. The average poultry raiser or who has not studied Mr. Turkey's former habits of life feeds too much corn and corn-meal, the latter especially.

So much corn-meal for small turkeys tends to pack the crop and cause indigestion and liver trouble.

Poultry Notes

Clean ground enables poultrymen to carry more pullets to maturity.

Sanitation and breeding are both essential in eliminating poultry diseases.

Any flock that will average better than 120 eggs per bird is a profitable flock.

More moisture is required for turkey eggs used for hatching purposes than for chicken eggs.

Griton feed is a by-product obtained in the manufacture of glucose and cornstarch. It is used in the mash as a source of protein.

Remember, a start in turkeys costs no more than a start of any good breed of chickens; there is always a good market for your turkeys.

Early hatching of chickens this spring and proper handling of the pullets will bring them into laying condition next fall during the months of high-priced eggs.

Market premium for high-quality eggs has aroused an interest in larger egg size. There are inherited tendencies toward large and small eggs. Careful selection at time of placing eggs in the incubator should contribute to the improvement of the size of the eggs of a flock.

Freedom from disease is essential to growing a large percentage of the chicks hatched. Choose eggs from disease-free parents, or if you buy back chicks get them from flocks known to be free from bacillary white diarrhea.

What is another valuable poultry feed, being very palatable. It is generally always included in the scratch feed, and its by-products, wheat bran and wheat middlings, are used in the mash. Red-dog flour and wheat shorts are also mash feeds.

Flag Day, 1929

Washington.—Mrs. Alfred J. Broeseau, former president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution is shown receiving an American silk flag from Miss Betsy Ross, direct descendant of the designer of the Stars and Stripes. Miss Ross represented the boys and girls of the United States in the American Flag Association's contest. The flag is the first one made entirely from American silk cocoons.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

AS FLAG DAY, 1929, approaches it is interesting to note that this year marks the fortieth anniversary of the series of events which led to the establishment of June 14 as a day for a national observance in honor of the Stars and Stripes. The story of how a New York newspaper had a part in bringing this about is told by George H. Brennan in a letter to Editor and Publisher as follows:

The observance of Flag Day this year has revived the mooted question of the origin of the public display of the national colors on public buildings and on public schools of the United States. Who was responsible for this glorious gesture? What impetus generated this universal waving of the Stars and Stripes?

I feel emboldened to attempt an answer in your columns as to who started the patriotic ball a-rolling and the patriotic flag-a-tying. It is just thirty-eight years ago this summer since the old New York Press aroused this country with its flag propaganda. I have recently, to fortify my memory, examined the bound files of the New York Press for 1891 now in the New York Public Library. Frankly, I was astonished at the conditions of public neglect therein set forth and the animosity of distinguished public opinion developed in the flag propaganda of the Press.

The New York Press was then owned by a group of which James Phillips, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Mass.; James R. Doudge of New York, and George West of Ballston, N. Y., were leading figures. Mr. Phillips had induced Clement M. Hammond, assistant managing editor of the Boston Globe, to become managing director of the New York Press, and Mr. Hammond had brought with him Thomas C. Quinn, also of the Boston Globe, as managing editor of the Press. Fred F. Burgin was city editor of the Press and John Lang, later the biographer of Thomas C. Platt, and now a valued member of Mr. Hearst's forces, was acting Washington correspondent.

As I was aware at the time, the flag display idea was Mr. Quinn's and the work of convincing the Washington authorities for public buildings as to public buildings was Mr. Lang's. The propaganda encompassed the entire country with expressions of exultant cooperation from governors, congressmen, clergymen, school teachers, and other influential characters of the day. In July, 1891, William Windom, secretary of treasury, and John Wamsamaker, then postmaster general, were convinced, and from that day to this the Stars and Stripes have been displayed on every public building in the United States every day during office hours. In the rules of the Navy Department there had been from early times a rule for the display of the flag on public buildings; that department but this rule had fallen into more or less disobservance following the Civil war.

New Cinema Screen

Cinemas in three dimensions, a problem on which several fortunes have been spent in recent years, are achieved in an entirely new way by an English inventor who has developed a motion picture screen which has for its surface 900,000 tiny glass lenses, each barely a quarter of an inch across. The screen is made by first coating the usual surface with a thick layer of white lead and then affixing the glass globules to this white lead coating. This work is carefully done by hand.

belongs to New York City and to the New York Press.

The year 1891 was many years prior to the agitation of Flag Day and long before Samuel Adams published his delightful volume entitled "The Dramatic Story of Old Glory."

This movement to display the flag on every federal building had the endorsement of President Benjamin Harrison who later had a leading part in another patriotic gesture connected with the flag. By a joint resolution approved June 20, 1892, congress resolved, "That the President of the United States be authorized and directed to issue a proclamation recommending to the people the observance in all their localities of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, on October 12, 1892, by public demonstrations and by suitable exercises in their schools and other places of assembly."

Accordingly, President Harrison issued a proclamation dated July 1, 1892, designating October 21 (not October 12) as a general holiday.

Our Stainless Flag

O'er battlements and ramparts in the days of heat and strife,
When Freedom, wrapped in swaddling clothes, looked smilingly at life,
Old Glory waved, all radiant with triumph and success,
No kismet lurked within her folds to mar her loveliness,
And hearts aflame with passion for freedom's holy reign,
Did homage to Old Glory—the flag without a stain!

Oh, may the glorious Stars and Stripes forever and a day,
To worthy deeds of righteousness and honor lead the way,
And may our children's children learn to reverence and prize
The precious gift our noble sires had purchased from the skies,
Then hearts aflame with passion for freedom's holy reign
Shall magnify Old Glory—the flag without a stain!

—Frederick Theodore Bastet.

Many educators later objected to "my flag" in the pledge. With the large number of foreign-born pupils in our schools that phrase, says the United States Bureau of Education, is clearly ambiguous. Consequently the pledge has been informally revised. The version now most widely used is: "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands: one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Female is Larger

The female of many species of fish grows to a larger size than the male. This is particularly true of the muskellunge. Among game birds the female often takes pre-eminence. The hen jack snipe is bigger than the male, for example.

LIONS AND TIGERS

"That old lion," said Mr. Tiger in the zoo, "has been roaring and roaring and everyone has been noticing him."

"Well, we can't blame people for noticing the lion more than they notice us," said Mrs. Tiger.

"They act for the people. They roar and make a fine noise and they sit up ready to be admired."

"We look far over the heads of people, beyond, way beyond, and we dream of the jungles and the wild life."

"I suppose the lion dreams of it too," said Mr. Tiger, "but then he does not know the wild life as well as I do."

"He is too conceited even out of captivity."

"He is conceited and so is that lioness in the next cage. But still," continued Mrs. Tiger, "she looks as though she had wider thoughts than he has."

"I admire her more."

"So do I," agreed Mr. Tiger. "She has more sense. She is more of a wild beast!"

Mr. Tiger growled in a low, fierce manner.

"You didn't tell me what was making you so angry today," said Mrs. Tiger.

"What are you grumbling about so much more than usual?"

"The roaring of Mr. Lion," said Mr. Tiger, "reminds me of the days back in the jungle."

"And it reminds me of the stories old Grandpa Tiger used to tell me of his adventures and of the things I must learn to do."

"Tell me about it," said Mrs. Tiger.

"I knew you were thinking of something of the wild life—for you looked as though you could see right over the heads of all the people right into the jungle where you could hunt and get your own dinner."

"My grandpa," said Mr. Tiger, "told me that the lion was not nearly so fine as he was."

"And he said that in the years to come he would never improve."

"He is so fond of his noisy roar, my grandpa said, that he is often very foolish."

"He thinks his roar is so brave and fine. He is so proud of it that he wants to boast and brag about it all the time."

"And the only way he can do that is by talking about it—and the way he talks is to roar."

"He will often go out into the wilds to hunt in the daytime when he can be caught."

"He is not very clever about his hunting. He is often very stupid."

"Now we always go out at night."

"I asked my grandpa the reason for this, and my grandpa was quite angry at first."

"Then he saw that I had to be taught."

"He told me that it was because we did not want to be seen."

"We are quiet and clever and tricky, he said. And it is true."

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time.

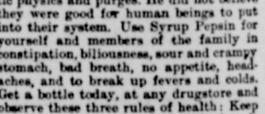

Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.

Talking About the Weather—

We were asked why in our paper last week mention was not made of our unusual cold weather. Usually when one talks of the weather they have nothing else to talk about. Too, we had so much to say and very little space to say it in that we simply had to let the weather take care of itself.

However we did have unusual cold weather, the thermometer getting down to about the 52 mark. And it was such unusual weather for May. Last Thursday we had a good rain, some hail, and plenty of lightning. Saturday another good rain fell.

In the future we will try to say something about the weather, especially when it is so unusual.

Years of service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T was so strongly and sturdily built that it is still rendering reliable, economical service to motorists in every section of the country. Millions of these cars can be put in shape for two, three and five more years of use at very small cost.

So that you may have this work done economically and satisfactorily, the Ford Motor Company is still devoting a considerable section of its plants to the manufacture of Model T parts. It will continue to do so as long as they are needed by Model T owners. The following list gives the approximate labor charges for reconditioning the Model T Ford:—

| Engine | |
|---|------------------|
| Tune motor (including replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary) | $1.00 |
| Grind valves and clean carbon | $3.75 to 4.00 |
| Overhaul carburetor | 1.50 |
| Refine detachable car transmission bands | 1.50 |
| Install new pistons or connecting rods | 6.00 |
| Tighten all main bearings | 6.00 |
| Overhaul motor and transmission | $20.00 to 25.00 |
| Rear System | |
| Replace rear axle assembly | 2.50 |
| Install universal joint | 3.00 |
| Refine brake shoes | 1.50 |
| Replace rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion, or drive gear | 5.00 |
| Overhaul complete rear axle assembly | $5.75 to 7.00 |
| Rebush spring and perches | 1.75 |
| Oil and graphite springs | 3.00 |
| Front System | |
| Overhaul front axle | $4.00 to 5.00 |
| Rebush spindle bodies and arms (both sides) | 2.50 |
| Replace or straighten spindle connecting rod | .75 |
| Tighten radius rod or steering ball cap | .60 |
| Tighten all sockets and joints of front end | 1.50 |
| Replace front spring tie bolt or new leaf | 2.50 |
| Straighten front axle | 3.00 |
| Chassis | |
| Replace rear fender | 1.75 |
| Overhaul steering gear | 3.50 |
| Repair muffler | 1.00 |
| Overhaul radiator | 7.50 |
| Repaint Coupe | 25.00 |
| Repaint Sedan | 25.00 |
| Repaint Touring Car | 20.00 |
| Reupholster Runabout | 8.00 |
| Reupholster Touring Car | 15.00 |
| Replace top deck (Coupe or Sedan) | 4.00 |
| Overhaul starting motor | 3.00 |
| Overhaul generator | 2.60 |

These prices are approximate and are for labor only, because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The charge for these parts is low, however, because of the established Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Terrell County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon E. Renfro by making publication of this citation in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, to be and appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Terrell County, Texas, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Sanderson, Texas, on the second Monday in July, A. D. 1929, the same being the 8th day of July, A. D. 1929, then and there to answer the first amended original petition filed in said Court on the 25th day of April, A. D. 1929, in a certain suit numbered 1735 on the docket of said Court wherein Roy Barksdale is Plaintiff and J. E. Hamilton, J. E. White, Annie B. Dameron and Z. C. Dameron, her husband; J. E. Wimmer, E. Renfro and Sam Bell are Defendants, said petition alleging that on or about May 1, 1927, plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described land situated in Terrell County, Texas:

Beginning at a point where the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Railway Company railroad crosses the block line between Blocks D-6 and D-7 in Terrell County, Texas; thence south with the block line between said blocks D-6 and D-7 to the Southeast corner of Section Number 66 in Block D-6 of Terrell County, Texas; thence West along the South line of said Section Number 66 to a point where said line intersects a fence constructed by Defendants, J. R. Hamilton and J. E. White, to the West of said block line; thence in a northeasterly direction with said fence to the place of beginning, and containing 1,600 acres of land, more or less; holding the same in fee simple; that on said date defendants, and each of them, unlawfully entered upon said premises, ejected plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withheld from him the possession thereof to his damage in the sum of $5,000.00; that the reasonable annual rental value of said land and premises is the sum of $4,000.00; that each and all of said defendants are asserting and claiming said lands and the oil and minerals in and under the same and the rights, franchises and privileges appertaining thereto, which claims operate as a cloud on plaintiff's title which he is entitled to have removed and quieted by judgment of the Court.

Plaintiff prays that upon a final hearing he have judgment for the title and possession of said land and writ of restitution for his rents and damages and judgment removing such cloud from his title and quieting the same, costs of suit, general, special, legal and equitable relief.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court at its aforesaid next regular term this Writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of Terrell County, Texas, this 7th day of May, A. D. 1929.

SYNOPSIS

In New York, Hugh Chesby, English World War veteran, relates a story of a treasure in Constantinople in the existence of which his uncle, Lord Chesby, firmly believes. A cablegram notifies Hugh of his uncle's sailing for New York. At the dock Hugh and his chum, Jack Nash, learn from Watkins, Lord Chesby's valet, that the old gentleman has left with a stranger, purporting to be a friend of Hugh. A mysterious telephone message notifies Hugh that his uncle is in a hospital, dying, victim of an assassin.

"Yes. He must have made a h—i of a fight. He's all slashed up—too old to stand the shock. This way."

He led us into a long room lined with beds. A high screen had been reared around one of them, and he drew it aside and motioned for us to enter. An old surgeon stood by the head of the narrow bed with a hypodermic needle in his hand. Opposite him knelt a nurse. Two bulky men in plain clothes, obvious policemen, stood at the foot.

He shepherded his assistants outside the screen, and Hugh pulled me to my knees beside him.

"This is Jack Nash, Uncle James," he said, speaking slowly and distinctly. "He is my friend—your friend. He will be with me in whatever I have to do for you."

Lord Chesby's eyes, a clear gray they were, examined me closely.

"Looks—right." The syllables trickled almost soundless from his lips. "It's—treasure—Hugh." His eyes burned momentarily with triumph.

"Know—where?"

"But who stabbed you?"

I have often wondered what would have happened if Hugh had let him talk on the treasure, instead of switching the subject.

"Tou—ton," answered the dying man, with sudden strength. "Tiger—that chap—others—against—him."

"But why? Why did he do it?"

Once more the smile of triumph in the eyes.

"Wouldn't—tell—him—treasure—said—torture—broke—away—gypsies—"

Exhaustion overcame him. His eyes closed.

"Is he going?" I murmured.

Hugh crouched lower and held his

"What Was His Specialty?"

watchcase to the blue lips. A mist clouded the polished surface.

"Give him time," he said. "Watty, who is Tontou?"

"Never heard of 'im, sir. Oh, Mister Hugh, sir, is 'is lads—"

The gray eyes opened; the lips began to move.

"Watch—out—that—gang—desperate—be—after—you."

"But who are they, Uncle James?"

"Tou—v—worst—Deran—many—bad—lot."

"Where did they take you? Tell us and we shall have them arrested?"

The gray eyes glittered.

"No—no—lad—avoid—police—don't talk—treasure—"

"Where is the treasure?" I interposed.

"Bull—cedars—"

His breathing dwindled to little, fluttering gasps, but he fought on.

"How did you find it, Uncle James?" asked Hugh softly.

That gay smile of triumph shone in his eyes for the last time.

"Used—my—brain—all—laughed—me—in—Hugh's—"

And the life flickered out of him as we watched.

There were several details to be settled with the hospital authorities. The British consulate had to be notified. Reporters had to be seen. It was early evening when the three of us returned to the apartment, and the newsboys were yelling an extra.

"English nobleman murdered on the East side! Horrible death of Lord Chesby!"

I bought a copy, and we read it as we walked down Fifth avenue.

"After landing from the Cunarder Aquitania this morning, Lord Chesby, a dignified, scholarly man of fifty-eight, was lured away from the pier into the purlieus of the East side, where, apparently after a valiant fight for life, he was set upon and hacked with knives. His body, still living, was left by an automobile—"

"Skip it," ordered Hugh impatiently. "What do they say of the object of the crime?"

"From the fact that Lord Chesby has made a life-long study of gypsy lore and dialects, I read on 'the police suspect that some criminal of these nomad tribes may have slain the distinguished man, either for personal gain or vengeance. Lord Chesby's nephew and heir, the Hon. Hugh James Ronald Howard Chesby, who is a Wall Street bond-broker, received a telephone message during the afternoon, notifying him of his uncle's fate and warning him that the same end would be his if he made any attempt to run down the assassin."

"I don't like it," interrupted Hugh again, frowning. "but it will have to stand. Uncle James wanted it that way and his word is law. The police can't help us. We are playing a lone hand. All rules are off."

"A lone hand?" I repeated. "Does that mean that Nikka is out of it?"

"I hate to drag him away from his concerts," answered Hugh, considering. "He's making pots of money. But if there's a gypsy angle to this he'd be priceless to us."

"And he'd never forgive us if we left him out," I added.

"I suppose he wouldn't. Tell you what, we'll cable him to meet us in London at my solicitor's office. I want to talk to Bellows and have a look at the Charter Chest."

CHAPTER II

The Papers in the Charter Chest

At Liverpool we wired to Hugh's solicitors for an appointment that afternoon and dispatched Watkins direct to Chesby with the body of his late master. We arrived at London about four o'clock, and took a taxi to the offices of Courtenay, Bellows, Manson and Courtenay.

A clerk stepped forward as we entered, but before he could speak a brown figure shot out of an inner office and wrapped Hugh and me in a jovial hug. It was Nikka, thinner than we remembered him, but with the same steady eyes and quiet smile. He was abashed by his own enthusiasm and started to apologize.

"I am so glad to see you two," he said. "I forgot it is a time of sadness. Yet even so it means gladness for me that I see my friends again."

"It's gladness for all of us," Hugh returned, wringing his hand, with his delicate, sinewy fingers.

"It means something like the old life once more," I added. "That is, if you can come, Nikka."

"I'll come," he said simply. "For two years I have been faithful to my fiddle. Now, I think, it is time I had a rest."

An elderly gentleman, with gray hair and precise features, emerged from the inner offices and bowed deferentially to Hugh.

"I trust your lordship is in good health. If you remember—"

"Of course, Mr. Bellows," assented Hugh. "I remember you very well. This is my friend, Mr. Nash. Mr. Zarako, I take it, you already know. Are you at liberty?"

"Sure, sir. I expected you. This way, please."

And he ushered us into a room where chairs were clustered about a square table on which reposed a huge, steel-bound box of very heavy, dark oak. Mr. Bellows waved his hand toward the box.

"I trust I anticipated your lordship's wishes. I directed the bank to send up the Charter Chest this afternoon."

"Quite right," said Hugh. "It will simplify our task. Did my uncle leave any will?"

A shadow settled on Mr. Bellows' lined face.

"There was no need, your lordship. The estate is entailed. The shipping bonds, your grandmother's dower, went before the war. The mining shares all have been sold, as well as several smaller blocks of securities. Aside from some insurance accruing from your uncle's demise, there is practically nothing outside of the Chesby lands."

He wrung his hands nervously.

"Oh, Mr. Hugh—I beg your pardon, your lordship—I don't know what you shall have to do. The death duties must raise me a bit. I am afraid we must raise another mortgage at a ruinous rate or else move to break the entail, and sell off some of the farms. I warned his late lordship again and again of the harm he was doing, but he would never listen to me."

"Poor Uncle James has paid a stiff price for his efforts," answered Hugh. "I can't find it in my heart to take exception to his extravagances after what happened in New York. And I am sure he would have wished us to go after the treasure at any cost."

"The treasure!" Mr. Bellows permitted himself a faint smile of amusement. "Am I to understand that your lordship has succumbed to this fatal lure?"

"You may understand that I am extremely interested in the possibility of finding it," retorted Hugh. "I do not blame you one instant for being skeptical, Mr. Bellows. I felt so, myself, until recent events forced me to the conclusion that there may—notice, please, that I say may—be more to the matter than I had imagined. I am anxious to secure your advice, and therefore I propose that Mr. Nash and I recount for you and Mr. Zarako precisely what happened in connection with my uncle's visit to New York."

So we began with the time I found the messenger boy studying the door-cure of our apartment, and carried the tale through to Lord Chesby's death in Bellevue. Mr. Bellows was visibly shocked.

"I had not supposed such criminals existed any longer," he said. "However, let me draw your attention to the fact that these incidents happened in New York. They could never have happened in England."

"They might have happened anywhere," interjected Nikka, speaking for the first time. His face was very serious as he leaned forward over the table.

"In the first place," he continued, "consider this treasure. I have always heard of it as the Treasure of the Bucoleon, but I believe it is also sometimes referred to as the Treasure of Andronicus."

"You mean to say, you, too, have heard of it?" exclaimed Mr. Bellows.

"Yes, it is well known in the Near East. I am a gypsy, my father before me was Yovode Tzabidji, or King of the Balkan gypsies. I have heard a story that a certain tribe of gypsies in Constantinople guard the supposed site of the treasure. But I do not vouch for the story."

I do, however, vouch for the statement that Lord Chesby is confronting an organized international band of criminals with many gypsy members; and I do not believe that such a band would waste time on any enterprise which they did not have good reason to believe would promise handsome profits. I know something of this band. If it is the one I have heard of we are menaced by the most intelligent combination of thieves, murderers and outlaws that ever acted together."

"What do you know about them?" I asked.

"I have heard that they are doing a great deal of smuggling, and it is in this work that they use the gypsies especially. I have heard, too, of this Tontou LaFitte, but he has many other names. He is said to be a combination of blood-thirsty monster and intensely clever strategist. The band have ramifications in all classes of society, and there are few countries they do not reach. I have no doubt, Hugh, they made arrangements in your uncle's case with some affiliated organization in America."

"Why don't you tell this to the police?" demanded Mr. Bellows.

"What good would it do? The police would laugh at me—and I should be stabbed some dark night. No, I can turn my knowledge to better use by adding Lord Chesby in his quest."

"It's blame lucky we have Nikka to help us!" I exclaimed. "And I'd like to ask him for his candid opinion on the treasure business."

"I don't know," said Nikka slowly. "I should not like to raise Hugh's hopes, but—put it this way. I should not be surprised if it is true. Before we go any further, let us ascertain the facts we have to go upon."

"That is my idea," agreed Hugh. "Mr. Bellows, I gathered from Watkins that my uncle discussed his discovery with you. Did he indicate precisely what it was or where he had found it?"

Mr. Bellows joined his fingers tip to tip with meticulous precision. A thoughtful expression possessed his face.

"Watkins is correct in his supposition. Your uncle did discuss his—ah—fancied discovery with me. Aside from the fact that he had made it whilst at Chesby?"

"At Chesby?" Hugh interrupted. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Display of Learning Unseemly for Women?

Dr. John Gregory, a Scotch physician and a master student of human nature, left a bit of shrewd and sophisticated writing in "A Father's Legacy to His Daughters," which he published in 1797. For reasons best known to themselves, the ladies may be interested in his admonitions:

"Be ever cautious in displaying your good sense. It will be thought you assume a superiority over the rest of the company. But if you happen to have any learning, keep it a profound secret, especially from the men, who generally look with a jealous and malignant eye on a woman with good parts and a cultivated understanding."

"A man with real genius and candor is far superior to this meanness. But such a one will seldom fall in your way; and if by accident he should, do not be anxious to show the full extent of your knowledge. If he has any opportunities of seeing you, he will soon discover it himself; and if you have any advantages of person or manners, and keep your secret, he will probably give you credit for a great deal more than you possess."—Detroit News.

Bible in Cracker Box

The British and Foreign Bible Society has published an important edition of the Scriptures in the principal language of Uganda. The volume is very long in shape, but it is only three inches wide and about three inches thick.

A peculiar reason occasioned the adoption of this form. In Central Africa the white ants and other insects rapidly destroy a book unless it is well protected. The representative of the society recommended that the edition mentioned be issued in a form that would fit into the tin biscuit boxes which are used in Uganda.

First Recorded Strike

The first appearance of the strike in history was the strike of execution of the pharaohs against the patriarchy in ancient Rome, 694 B. C.

Russia's Holy Men

If the Soviet government really means to try to suppress the "holy men" who wander about in Russia, it will be up against as hard a task as it has encountered yet, writes "Looker-On" in the London Daily Chronicle. These local saints, or "elders," as they are called, have great influence, not only on such highly placed people as believed in Rasputin, but on the mass of peasants. The Russian villages are forcing-beds for superstition, and the "staretsi" make the most of that fact. Some of them are genuine, too, and preach with the fervor of Jewish minor prophets.

Tomato Accident

Little Lydia, age five, said to her mother: "Do you 'spose we will have any more of those 'tomato accidents'?" Unable to think of anything that resembled such a catastrophe, her mother asked what she meant. She said: "Why, don't you remember when that rain and wind knocked down all those houses and killed those people?"

Originated Dating System

The custom of dating events from the birth of Jesus Christ originated with a learned monk of Rome, Dionysius Exiguus, who compiled and computed the paschal cycle. Dionysius lived in the fifth and sixth centuries, dying about 555.

IN THE MATTER OF COUNTY FINANCES IN THE HANDS OF

Frank K. Harrell, Treasurer of Terrell County, Texas. Commissioners' Court, Terrell County, Texas, in regular session, May Term, 1929.

We, the undersigned, as County Commissioners within and for said Terrell County, and the Hon. G. J. Henshaw, County Judge of said Terrell County, constituting the entire Commissioners' Court of said County, and each one of us, do hereby certify that on this, the 13th day of May, A. D. 1929, at a regular term of our said Court, we have compared and examined the report of Frank K. Harrell, Treasurer of said County, for the period beginning on the 1st day of February, A. D. 1929, and ending on the 30th day of April, A. D. 1929, and finding the same correct have caused an order to be entered upon the minutes of the Commissioners' Court of said County, stating the approval of said Treasurer's Report by our said Court, which said order recites separately the amount received and paid out of each fund by said County Treasurer since his last report to this Court, and for and during the time covered by his present report, and the balance of each fund remaining in said Treasurer's hands on the said 30th day of April, A. D. 1929, and have ordered the proper credits to be made in the accounts of the said County Treasurer, in accordance with said order as required by Articles 1448-1449-1450 and 1451, Chapter 1, Title 29, of the Revised Statutes of Texas.

And we, and each of us, further certify that we have actually and fully inspected and counted all the actual cash and assets in hands of the said Treasurer belonging to Terrell County at the close of the examination of said Treasurer's Report, on this the 13th day of May, A. D. 1929, and find the same to be as follows, to-wit:

| JURY FUND | | Dr. | Cr. |
|---|--|------------------|------------------|
| Balance on hand as shown by Treasurer's Report on the 31st day of January, 1929 | | $ 664.66 | |

NOTICE—SHERIFF'S SALE

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
 COUNTY OF VAL VERDE.

By virtue of an Order of Sale, issued out of the Honorable 44th District Court of Dallas County, on 13th day of April, A. D. 1929, by the clerk thereof, in the case of Dallas Trust and Savings Bank versus Southwest Post Office Fixture Company and B. E. Haughton, No. 68952-B, and to me, as Sheriff, directed and delivered, I will proceed to sell for cash, within the hours prescribed by law for Sheriff's Sales, on the first Tuesday in July, A. D. 1929, it being the 2nd day of said month, before the Court House door of said Terrell County, in the town of Sanderson, Texas, the following described property, to-wit:

The following sections of land in said county, to-wit:

Abstract No. 1497, Sec. 2, Certif. 6, Block S, containing 570 acres
 Abstract No. 1496, Sec. 4, Certif. 7, Block S, containing 640 acres
 Abstract No. 1491, Sec. 6, Certif. 104, Block S, containing 640 acres;
 all as described in deed from F. A. Hooker and wife to B. E. Haughton dated June 18, 1925, recorded in Vol. 8, page 425, deed records Terrell County, Texas, levied on the 13th day of April, 1929, as the property of said defendants to satisfy a judgment amounting to $14,154.65 in favor of Dallas Trust and Savings Bank, with interest thereon from February 23, 1928, at 10 per cent per annum less a credit of $4,877.70 as of June 5, 1928, and costs of suit.
 Given under my hand, this 20th day of May, A. D. 1929.
 W. J. BANNER, Sheriff.
 By JAS. S. MASON, Deputy.

PINCHED! WHO? THE NAIL?

"The ability of a Polson Super Tube to seal most punctures even after the puncturing object is withdrawn is still amazing to many motorists," says C. V. McKnight of Casner McKnight Motor Co., local dealers for Polson Super Tubes. "A Polson Super Tube," he continues, "will self seal 95 per cent of the punctures caused by ordinary objects entering the tread of the tire. A patented principal of pure gum rubber operating under high compression on the inside of the tube will grip the object so tightly that no less of air will result. There are no metal shields, liquid compounds or other devices employed and the tube uses the same air pressure and is installed in the usual manner, taking the place of the ordinary tube."

The principal of operation can easily be explained and local motorists are invited to come in and see a cross section of this remarkable tube as it represents an interesting advancement in pneumatic tire development.

Folks, this is your paper and we welcome articles for it. Any news items that you know, won't you please phone it in? Thanks.

PREACHES TO FRIENDS THE GOOD SARGON DID

"Since taking Sargon I have felt in better health than in the last five years.

"My stomach was in such an upset condition that most everything I ate soured instead of digesting properly. I would have such bloating pains after each meal that I hated to eat. About twelve years ago I had a fall, injuring my hip and knee, and I have been troubled with rheumatism in my joints ever since.

MRS. LULA E. PETERSON

"An inactive liver caused me to be constipated and I was continually taking laxatives. I had many a restless night from all this suffering and would be as tired in the mornings as though I had never gone to bed. Nothing I took helped me.

"Sargon made me feel like a different woman. My appetite has come back and I enjoy my meals. My stomach is soothed and my digestion improved so I don't suffer bad effects after eating. The rheumatism disappeared and I rest much better at night. I get up in the morning feeling refreshed and full of life and energy.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills toned up my liver and rid me of constipation in a natural manner. My whole system is reconditioned and filled with new health.

"Sargon has helped me so remarkably that I am preaching to all my friends about its benefits and will continue to praise this wonderful medicine every chance I get."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Lula E. Peterson, highly respected resident of 7814 Sherman Street, Houston. Mrs. Peterson is a member of the Royal Neighbors society and also belongs to the Baptist church.

Sargon may be obtained in Sanderson at the Sanderson Drug Store.

The new Livestock Coliseum, now under construction at the State Fair Grounds in Dallas, will be one of the largest buildings of its kind in America, having an arena space of 100 by 168 feet, and a seating capacity of 6,000.

FREEZE WITH HEAT The ELECTROLUX Refrigerator

HEAT

now keeps

MILK FRESH

A tiny gas flame gives you perfect noiseless refrigeration in the new Electrolux

The Kitchenette model is ideal for the small home or apartment. 4 cubic feet food capacity—36 large ice cubes.

FREEZE with heat. It sounds impossible. But that's just what is done in the new Gas Refrigerator. The Electrolux has no machinery to get out of order or need attention and no moving parts to make the slightest sound. A tiny gas flame and a mere trickle of water do all the work of making cold.

Come in today and let us show you how this amazing new principle of refrigeration works. Ask about our convenient payment plan.

Which of these is Your Store ?

W

HICH of these is your store?

Is it the one at the top with its well-lighted windows and shelves that are an invitation to buy—or the one below with its gloomy, depressing interior?

Does your store, with its well-displayed and illuminated merchandise suggest other things to buy . . . or does the lighting in your store make it hard for your customers to find what they came in determined to buy, much less suggesting anything new?

Does your store give newcomers the impression that you are modern, alert and alive to their needs and wants—does its very appearance make them feel that you really want their business—or does your store suggest out-of-date merchandise and methods?

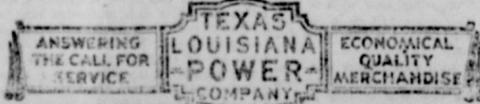

Does your store have well-illuminated corners, which make it impossible for the janitor to miss the dirt that deteriorates stock and drives away customers?

Put yourself in your customer's place. When you go to the "market" to buy for them you demand that everything you buy be in plain view so that you may examine it carefully. Your customers deserve the same privilege in your store, so that they may see that they are getting full value.

In many types of stores good illumination is the only salesman!

Good illumination is a good salesman and an economical one. Put Good Lighting on your service staff! But remember—there is a difference between "just lighting" and illumination.

Our local manager will be glad to help you with plans for illuminating your store. It will pay you dollars and cents dividends and help make a better town and better business. Why not call him today?
