VOLUME 23

SANDERSON TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCT. 31, 1930

NO. 34

To the Citizens of Terrell County

On account of recent session of district court, urgent duties and illness in my family it has been impossible for me to see each and every one of you personally, as was my intention. To those I have not seen I hereby personally solicit your vote and good will at the coming election Nov. 4th.

It seems a little strange to me why so suddenly the office of sheriff and tax collector should become important, when six months ago it was vacant, and no one cared to serve the county and citizens in this capacity, on account of the office paying very little. Since I accepted the office I have done my very best to do my duty as an officer, and to merit the confidence and good will of all good citizens. I believe I have been reasonably successful and hope for the support of the good citizens who appreciate my efforts while working under a financial handicap.

I believe most people have their minds made up as to who they will support, and a lot of last minute soft soap, apple sauce and false promises will not mislead any intelligent person. It will be my policy to continue to do my very best to enjoy the confidence and merit the good will of every one. And the same courteous consideration will be extended to all alike, whether you live in precinct one, two, three or four. So trusting in the good judgment of our citizens of Terrell county on election day, I remain with best wishes,
Yours to command,
Lee A. Cook,
Sheriff and Tax Collector.

His service for our country in time of war has been classed as Honest, Faithful and Honorable. Mr. Stansell is now serving his fourth term as County Attorney of Terrell County, Texas, and is offering himself as a candidate for the office of County Judge of this county, and if elected will endeavor to handle the office in an efficient, honest, faithful and honorable manner. His past record of staying on the job, and the way he has handled the county attorney's office is his platform. — Paid Political Advertisement.

TERRELL COUNTY OIL NEWS

Several oil men from various points in other states were here last week watching with interest the various wells now drilling in the county. Quite a few people in the oil industry from the State of California are expected here this week to make inspection of the sub-surface conditions on the several wells now in operation.

The deed records of this county shows that Lydia M. Webster, address unknown; W. W. Hawkins of the State of Arkansas; A. M. Fowler of Wewoka, Okla.; Leonard Marten of Jefferson, Wis.; H. M. Waller of Beverly Hills, Calif.; Leo E. Kuter and J. H. Greenburg of Hollywood, Calif.; Hendrick Sartoy of Los Angeles, Calif.; D. A. Carton and J. D. Catlett, Inc., of Tulsa, Okla., and Hon. J. E. Price of Houston have recently purchased under royalty deeds in this county.

It is reported that the Gilcrease Oil Company will in all probability drill a test well for oil and gas on their block about 14 miles east of this city in the near future. This report is likely to be true as they have been endeavoring to purchase additional leases on lands adjoining their block.

To the Voters of Terrell County

As you know I am a candidate for re-election to the office of County and District Clerk at the election next Tuesday. Owing to the arduous duties of my office I have been unable to leave it and make an extended canvass of the county, and I take this method to let you know that I will sincerely appreciate your vote and support. I have filled the office of County and District Clerk for several years and have given of the best of my service to you, and if re-elected I will continue in the future to serve you to the best of my ability.

Sincerely,
MRS. LUELLA LEMONS.

The Red Poppy-Symbol of Armistice Day

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

WITH the coming of another Armistice day men and women all over the world will pin flaming red poppies over their hearts as symbols of the blood which was shed on the battlefields of the World War. For the red poppy has become the emblem of Armistice day and we wear it on November 11 as a memorial not only to the men who died during the war-torn years of 1914-18 but also to those who came back to their homes alive but bearing upon their bodies and in their minds the scars of that holocaust—the disabled veterans.

The story of how the red poppy became the emblem of Armistice day goes back to November, 1918—even before there was an Armistice to lighten the burden of a war-weary world. In it there is a curious parallelism between the establishment of this custom and another custom observed on another day when we honor our war dead. It was a group of southern women in Columbus, Ga., who in 1835 banded together to decorate the graves of soldiers, both Union and Confederate, thus originating a custom which is perpetuated in our Memorial day observance. And it was another southern woman, Miss Moira Michael of Athens, Ga., who originated the idea of adopting the red poppy as a symbol of the sacrifices of the fighting men of the World War and whose efforts have resulted in this flower's being adopted as the Armistice day emblem.

The idea came to Miss Michael while she was serving on the staff of the Y. W. C. A. overseas headquarters at Hamilton hall, Columbia university, in New York. On Saturday, November 9, 1918, she was sitting in the headquarters office when a soldier came in and placed a copy of a monthly magazine on her desk. In it she happened to read Colonel McCrane's now-famous poem, "In Flanders Fields." She was so stirred by the lines that she re-read it several times and then with a sudden inspiration she wrote this reply to it:

Oh! You who sleep in Flanders Fields,
Sleep sweet—to rise anew!
We caught the Torch you threw
And holding high, we keep the Faith
With all who died.
We cherish, too, the Poppy red
That grows on fields where valor led:
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes never dies,
But lends a lustre to the red
Of the flower that blooms above the dead
In Flanders Fields.
And now the Torch and Poppy red
We'll wear in honor of our dead.
Fear not that ye have died for naught;
We'll teach the lessons that ye wrought
In Flanders Fields.

As she wrote, she decided that she would wear a poppy for remembrance and she would also ask others to do the same. While thinking about this three overseas Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. workers, who had been attending a conference at Columbia, came in to bring her a check for $10 in appreciation of her efforts to make a model hostess house of their headquarters. She immediately told them that she would use the money with which to buy poppies and then explained her idea. They were as enthusiastic about it as she was and, returning to their conference, spread the news. As a result, all of the workers at the conference that afternoon were wearing poppies which Miss Michael had provided.

The next morning Miss Michael went to see her friend, Dean Talcott Williams of the Columbia school of Journalism, and confided to him her poppy-thought. He was very much pleased and offered to pass the thought on that afternoon to a war workers' committee on which were Mrs. Preston, the former Mrs. Grover Cleveland, and Rodman Wanamaker. He attended the meeting of the committee and brought back to Miss Michael enthusiastic reports of the manner in which her plan had been received.

Then came the armistice and Miss Michael turned all her energies to spreading the idea of the poppy as a national emblem. She presented the plan to other conferences and they straightway adopted it. Home-coming programs were made and the poppy idea was introduced into them.

Miss Michael wrote her congressman, Charles H. Brand, and he replied on December 10, 1918: "I am writing today the War department in behalf of your suggestion that the poppy be adopted as the national emblem in commemoration of our soldiers who died in France."

Miss Michael wrote to many institutions of education, women's clubs and other organizations, explaining that as it was impossible to have triumphal arches or great memorials in all places from which came the heroes of the World War, she begged them to adopt the poppy as a tribute to the men who won the victory.

"Out of every great event of the world has come an emblem," she wrote, "Lest we forget!" into this war went many emblems: The flags of nations, the Red Cross, the Red Triangle, the service flag and pin. Now out of this war should come some symbol perpetually to remind us and unfailingly to teach coming generations the value of the light of liberty and our debt to those who so valiantly saved it for us."

On the eve of the Georgia State convention of the American Legion, August 19 and 20, 1920, in Augusta, Miss Michael went to the Legion headquarters in Atlanta and turned over to them her arguments concerning the adoption of the poppy. Charles M. Galliene of Post No. 1, Atlanta, took charge of the material and presented the movement to the convention. It was adopted and the delegation to the national convention was instructed to present it at Cleveland, Ohio, and to support the resolutions. The resolutions were presented to the national convention in September, 1920, and the poppy became the National American Legion Memorial Flower.

In an official report, which she issued on February 8, 1922, from Canada on Poppy days, she announced: "The great war veterans have sold 1,000,000 small poppies and 200,000 large ones, clearing $30,000 for their relief work, and for the French, $80,000 to go to the poor French children of the battlefields."

In England the poppy program flourished tremendously. Earl Haig's British Legion adopted the selling and wearing of poppies in 1921 and since that time more than $11,000,000 has been cleared for ex-service men. In 1927 alone the British legionnaires sold 28,000,000 poppies and made a profit of $2,522,000. In 1928 the sales reached the $3,000,000 mark. In every British community, no matter how remote from the mother country, anniversary of the armistice is observed by the sale of poppies. The full list of overseas collections from poppies, as printed in the 1927 report of the British Legion, assumes the appearance of a gazetteer of the world. There are listed there the Azores, Egypt, the Grand Canary Islands, Morocco, Nigeria, the Sudan, the Orange Free State, Bermuda, British Guiana, Trinidad, Borneo, British Malaya and dozens and dozens of other countries.

Instead of the poppy becoming a national emblem, as the Poppy Lady first dreamed, it has become an international emblem. In Europe, besides the British Isles and France, 19 countries wear the blood-colored blossoms in their lapels: Italy, Holland, Germany, Spain, Belgium, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Greece, Rumania, . . . oh, almost every corner of the globe. Poppies are even worn in Japan, China, Mexico, Asia Minor and in every country of North and South America.

The poppies are made by disabled veterans in hospitals in the East, at piece-work cost and the state departments of the Veterans of Foreign Wars all taken certain quotas. A small amount is deducted for national and state relief and the rest goes to the points that sell the poppies to be used as their relief needs arise. The veterans are paid one and one-quarter cents for every poppy they make and some of them are skillful enough to turn out from 800 to 400 poppies in a day, thereby earning about $5.00.

Moving Large Trees Done Successfully

Proper Attention to Details Is Quite Essential.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Moving large trees was once regarded as being so difficult that it was seldom attempted, but by the use of modern equipment and the exercise of care, it can be done successfully, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The same attention to details is required as is needed in moving smaller plants, but because of the greater weight to be moved and the longer time required, both in preparation and moving, much greater attention to details is necessary.

Among the essentials for successful transplanting are a good tree, including a well-developed root system and a healthy top; moving at the proper season; Deciduous trees while dormant, evergreens when the ground is sufficiently warm and moist to stimulate the plant to the immediate formation of roots; properly dug trees with the roots well protected from the time the soil is first removed until replanted; an adequate hole; the tree properly set and the soil sufficiently firmed; the top properly pruned; and the soil properly watered until the tree is re-established.

With the use of derricks, trucks, and an abundance of protection for the bark and roots, the mechanical difficulties of moving large trees have been greatly reduced.

Excellent Practice in Winter Care of Manure

The best practice in handling manure is to haul it out and distribute it on the fields every day. The attempt should be made to cover the more level and rolling fields as there is more of a tendency for the manure to wash and leach away on the hillsides.

There will doubtless be some days when it will be impossible to get into the field with the spreader, and it will then be desirable to pile the manure until it can be handled and drawn out. In building the pile, it is well to separate it from the regular barnyard so that it can be built up in much the same manner as a stack of hay or straw. If spread out and improperly cared for, it will result in a very large loss of fertility, due to leaching and loss by fermentation.

Fall Plowing Has Many Advantages to Farmer

Fall plowing of land is advisable in many instances as it is more economical and not because it will increase the yield of corn in every case, according to D. H. Hughes of Iowa State college.

There are a number of factors in favor of fall plowing such as the teams are more able to do the work then as they are used to doing heavy work; there is more time in the fall as the pressure of the other work is less and greater destruction of weeds and insects is secured by fall plowing.

The character of soil is a factor to consider in fall plowing, some soils run together in the winter and others wash badly. Other soils are heavy and wet and one cannot be sure of getting to plow them in the spring.

Agricultural Squibs

Shavings are superior to all other materials for hen's nests.

Do not worm a dog that you suspect has distemper. It may kill the dog.

Honey ranks high in energy value; the calorie value to the pound is 1485.

Well-matured, strong, one-year-old scion wood should be used for grafting.

The earlier lime is applied the sooner it begins to correct acidity for next year's clover.

Live stock and live stock products furnish 80 per cent of Ireland's return from agriculture.

Under average conditions, alfalfa will give good stands if seeded at the rate of about 12 to 20 pounds per acre.

Silage is a great cattle feed, and is useful in feeding some other stock, but as ordinarily made it is far from a balanced feed.

Paint protects wood by retarding gain or loss of moisture, so that the sudden swelling and shrinkage of the surface that causes weathering does not occur.

Alfalfa should never be sown in wet, poorly-drained ground. It cannot stand "wet feet." Likewise, there will be only disappointment if alfalfa is sown on soil that is markedly acid.

Fourteen hundred and nineteen New York dairymen know their cows. They own the 35,267 cows in the advanced registry, in dairy herd improvement associations, and in dairy record clubs.

Silage costs may be made unacceptably high by attempting to produce milk or to finish beef cattle on a straight silage diet. It is the combination of silage, some hay and a concentrate that generally gives most economical result.

Brides Brought Home by "Yankee" Doughboys

Members of the A. E. F. brought home 3,709 brides up to March 15, 1920, of whom a record was kept at Hoboken, N. J. Of these, 2,295 were French; 1,101 English, 92 Luxemburgian, 79 Belgian, 41 Italian, 31 German, 23 Russian, with a few from Spain, Switzerland, Poland, Greece, the Netherlands, Rumania, Serbia, Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia. The husbands of these women included men of the army, navy and marine corps. This does not represent the entire number of foreign brides, but only those who were received and cared for in the hostess' houses under the supervision of the Red Cross, these being the only cases in which a record of nationality was kept. A number also came by commercial boats. It is understood that a total of approximately 5,000 members of the American expeditionary forces married foreigners, not including those engaged in the Rhineland occupation.

MOTHERS ARE LEARNING USES OF MAGNESIA

From the beginning of expectancy until baby is weaned, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia performs the greatest service for many women.

It relieves nausea, heartburn, "morning sickness," inclination to vomit; helps digestion. Its mild laxative action assures regular bowel movement.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is better than lime water for neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding.

All drugstores have Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in generous 25c and 50c bottles. Always insist on the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years.

No "just as good" oil, says lubrication expert

In every line of endeavor there is always a leader—and countless followers. The field of household lubrication is no exception. Unfortunately the general public doesn't always appreciate the difference between the real thing and the "just as good"—but household experts do.

They know an oil intended for general household lubrication should clean and protect as well as lubricate. 3-in-One Oil does these three things, because it is a scientific compound of three high grade products—animal, mineral and vegetable oils. It is distinctly in a class by itself.

3-in-One costs more to make than ordinary oil, but less to use. If you want the best possible service from your sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, washer, electric fan and other household devices, insist on the old reliable 3-in-One Oil. At good stores everywhere, in 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

Monopolistic Prices

In general, prices of goods under monopoly will be higher than under competition, but this will not always be the case if, as may happen, the costs under monopoly are less than the costs under competition. In some cases monopoly may result in lowering costs so much that the greatest profit is obtained by setting the price lower than under competition.

Sanderson Epidemic
 There seems to be a troublesome epidemic in the city of Sanderson. This epidemic is of a breaking out disease, similar to small pox, but has not been determined by all physicians that have examined it as being small pox. If such is true this disease is of a light form, so much so, that many cases haven't even been confined to their bed.
 The schools were closed Monday of this week in order that the rooms might be thoroughly fumigated, and school duties will be resumed by Monday of next week. Altogether there has been in the neighborhood of fifty or sixty cases, practically all of a very light form. All school children and numbers of others have been vaccinated. Picture shows and other business houses have been fumigated.

Following is a telegram received by the county judge.
 Austin, Oct. 27th 30
 G. J. Henshaw, County Judge, Sanderson, Texas.
 If possible will send a physician latter part of the week. Do not advise closing school.
 J. C. Anderson,
 State health officer.

An Appeal For Ex-Service Men

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 30.—In a statement released from national headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. here today, Commander-in-Chief Paul C. Wolman, Baltimore, Md., directed an appeal to all veteran, civic and patriotic groups for co-operation in finding employment for ex-service men out of work.

"With the winter months approaching, we appeal especially to business executives and industrial leaders in the crisis that faces the unemployed ex-service man," Wolman emphasized.

"The United States Veterans Bureau has created free employment bureaus for the benefit of unemployed veterans but the good these offices can accomplish is limited by the number of jobs that are available," the V. F. W. chief continued.

"Industries contemplating expansion, and business leaders in need of workers, are urged to communicate first with either the nearest U. S. Veterans Bureau employment office, or with local officials of Veterans of Foreign Wars units. Government employment offices are located in metropolitan centers throughout the country.

"In nearly 2,000 towns and cities there are V. F. W. posts, whose leaders are anxious to contact unemployed veterans with sources of employment.

"This is neither an appeal for charity nor a request for contributions," Wolman explained. "In bringing this situation to the attention of business executives throughout the country, we merely seek to remind them that their first obligations, when jobs are available, are to the patriotic men who quit their jobs back in 1917 to protect the peace of the nation.

"This country has witnessed during the past several months increasing activity on the part of foreign influences seeking to undermine the moral and economic welfare of the nation.

The Sweetness of Low Price The Bitterness of poor quality

Don't ask "How cheap are your prices?" but rather "What is the quality of your workmanship?"

The hole-in-the-wall press shop stakes everything on low price, while our goal is always "Higher quality."

Stay right—you can't go wrong by staying with the best. Call and deliver. Phone 68

FRANK ROBERTSON, Owner.

These same influences have seized upon the unemployment situation as an opening wedge for their doctrines of revolution and communism.

"Unrest and discontent are primarily the by-products of unemployment. Idle workers are receptive to the propaganda and seeds of dissatisfaction sown by agitators.

"The strongest safeguard against these insidious activities is a minimum of unemployment, not only among the rank and file of the laboring masses but among the ex-service men as well.

"The government is continuously striving to keep faith with those who came out of the war disabled in mind and body. It is up to the country at large to do the fair thing by the veteran who has been striving to resume his original status as a citizen and a taxpayer."
