Newsy Notes From The High School

November the 11th was not observed as a holiday by the Sanderson Public Schools. It was decided that on account of having already lost so much time from school it would be wise to use this day teaching, thus making up one of the days which was lost during the week school was dismissed. The other days of that week will be made up on Saturdays.

Two days, Thursday and Friday, will be observed Thanksgiving. This will give the teachers an opportunity to attend the State Teachers meeting that is to be held in Houston from the 27th to 29th. Mr. Brannan has stressed the importance of as many teachers as possible attending this meeting, and it is probable that Sanderson Public Schools will have a representative there to visit in the Houston schools for at least three days prior to the meet itself. A large percent of the teachers have joined the association this year, and before the association convenes we are counting on having a 100 percent membership.

Twenty-one pupils are enrolled in the second grade of the Sanderson Public Schools, and, as in the first grade, the boys are in the majority, there being 13 boys and only 8 girls. Those included in this group are: Billy Bristow, C. G. Carpenter, John F. Charlton, E. F. Davis, Wilton Dishman, Kenneth Litton, Robert Lockhausen, Elton Loden, Bobbie Lee McCue, Harold Molyneux, Reginald Monroe, Arthur Rutledge, Hicks Ledford, Mona Breg, Lavern Halley, Rosemary House, Lillian Harrell, Ruth Murrah, Ethel Laura Nance, Irma Lee O'Neil, Wanda Bess Arnn.

Mrs. S. E. Nelson has charge of this class. This is Mrs. Nelson's second year in the Sanderson Public Schools. She has attended both Sul Ross State Teachers College and the University of Texas, and has a senior standing toward a B. S. degree.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

At 10:00 o'clock a. m. on Sunday, November 30, the Sanderson Men's Fellowship Bible Class will hold their first study and devotional period, at the Princess Theatre. The Sanderson Men's Quartette will render a special vocal number at this time, entitled "Just Outside the Door."

All men who are not now regularly attending some Sunday school are earnestly solicited to attend this Fellowship Bible class at 10 a. m. at the Princess Theatre every Sunday.

J. M. Rustin and Clayton Harrell went to El Paso Monday as witnesses in a damage suit brought against the T. & N. O. Railway Co.

We can sell you Christmas cards, any size, any price. The best for the money. We print the name and sentiment, or can have it done. Call us and will bring samples to your home. Wish to get our order in by the 15th of November. Don't delay, order today.

Terrell County Oil Activities

Several men were here the first of this week endeavoring to purchase oil and gas leases and royalties in the northwestern portion of the county, due to a report that the Dixie Oil Company contemplates drilling a test well on the Jim Mitchell ranch in the near future and due to a report that a major company also intends to make another test on the Jim Lackey ranch. The Transcontinental Oil Company made a test on the Jim Lackey ranch a few years ago and encountered a good showing of high gravity oil at the shallow depth of 1350 feet, probably the base of the permian.

It is reported that the Milham Corporation of Texas has recently made a location to be known as R. M. Bassett No. 1, 150 feet from north line and 2640 feet from east and west lines of section 76, block "Y", James Bass survey.

It is reported that the Big Bend Oil Corporation's Bassett No. 1, is now drilling at the depth of 2660 feet on the center of the northwest quarter of section 155, block D, M. K. & T. E. Ry. Co. survey.

It is reported that the Transcontinental's and Mid-Kansas test on the Goode ranch is drilling on section 26 in block 161, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co., night and day shifts endeavoring to reach the deep sands similar to those in the Texon and Big Lake districts.

No reports at this issue of the press from the Keck Pecos Trust, Miller Brothers, Wooley & Jones, nor Mrs. J. B. McPhee tests.

A report from an oil man in the East indicated that Terrell County is still looming in the limelight in the path of oil development, and that things would eventually get better in the lease line as soon as the bears quit playing the stock exchange.

Tuesday Bridge Club

Mrs. B. F. Davis entertained the Tuesday bridge club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Large baskets with bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums were used in the decoration of the living room. Honors were won by Mrs. P. E. Dishman, first; Mrs. D. A. Pollard, second, and low was given to Mrs. Harry Dishman.

Those present were Mesdames James Nance, Hollman, Banner, P. E. Dishman, Sessums, R. Stirman, B. Brown, Breeding, Pollard and Kellar. Guests were Mesdames, Harry Dishman, H. Buchanan and Vernon Buchanan.

Delphians Meet.

The Alpha Delphian chapter met Wednesday Nov. 12th., at the regular place of meeting. The lesson on the Zenith of Florentine painting was especially interesting. The genius of Leonardo de Uence, the power of Michael Angelo, and the perfection of the pictures of Andrea del Sarto was all brought out in the study of their pictures given in the text and those brought by different members.

In order that more members may be present it was decided to have our next meeting Tuesday Nov. 25th instead of Wednesday before Thanksgiving.

Dr. P. F. Robertson was called to El Paso Monday as a witness in district court there in a damage suit against the T. & N. O. Railway Co. Several months ago a white man had his foot cut off in the yards in Sanderson and he is bringing suit for damages.

Program of Baptist Workers Conference

The following is a program of Pecos Valley Baptist Workers' Conference with McCamey Baptist church, Tuesday, Nov. 25, 1930.

Aged Man Died Here Monday

An old man named Adolph Blashka, aged 73 years, died about 9 o'clock Monday night at Dora Hinton's restaurant.

The old fellow arrived in Sanderson several days ago and had been hanging around the depot and on the streets. Sunday he was found lying in a lot and was taken to Dora Hinton's restaurant where Dr. Utterback gave him medical attention. He was born in Germany and came here from Los Angeles, Calif. In his coat pocket was found an army discharge, showing that he had served as a baker's helper in the U. S. Army Transport Service during 1921. There were no papers or letters to give a clue to any relatives in this country.

W. E. Stirman prepared the body for burial, and Monday evening the old man was buried in paupers field at the cemetery.

Dr. Doty has been on the sick list for several days. Mrs. Doty came up Monday and took the Doctor to a hospital in San Antonio. It is thought that he will be able to return here in a few days.

American Legion's Thanksgiving Dance

The American Legion Post No. 160 of Sanderson will give a Thanksgiving dance at the C. A. C. hall in Sanderson Thanksgiving night, Nov. 26th, beginning at 9 p. m. There will be good music and a lunch will be served during the evening. Everybody invited. $2.00 per couple.

This dance will be an unusual affair. Tell your friends and everybody come.

BOND FURNISHED IN TERRELL COUNTY WHISKEY SEIZURE

John B. Anderson of San Antonio, arrested in Terrell County about a week ago on a liquor charge, was released from Val Verde County jail Saturday morning after bond for $500 had been furnished. He is to appear in federal court next March.

His arrest followed the seizure of 60 gallons of moonshine whiskey near Sheffield. — Del Rio Evening News.

Upset Not Serious if Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, head-achy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cas-cara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

"Gerald suffered with his stomach and bowels until he was listless and weak," says Mrs. B. E. Geren, 822 W. Main St., Oklahoma City, Okla. "Now he's the strongest boy I know. I gave him California Fig Syrup because Mother used it. It increased his appetite, regulated his bowels, helped his digestion."

Nothing could be more convincing than the way thousands of mothers are praising California Fig Syrup to show how it acts to build-up and strengthen headachy, bilious, half-sick, constipated children.

Your doctor will approve the use of this pure vegetable product as often as impure breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness warn of constipation—or to keep bowels open in colds or children's diseases.

Can I Learn to Fly?

by William R. Nelson

First Solo Flight

TO EVERY student sooner or later comes that memorable day when he or she flies "solo" for the first time. Some students have been "turned loose" after one day of instruction. Others require fifteen or twenty hours of instruction first. The average normal person solos after eight to ten hours of dual flying.

Good flying schools carefully build up a student's confidence, as well as his ability, before sending him off alone. Seldom is the embryo flyer told in advance he is to solo. It comes, fairly unexpectedly, only when the student has demonstrated he is ready for it.

"Now I want you to do it a couple more times for me," my instructor had said simply.

He had climbed out of his seat ahead of me and was standing on the wing walk, leaning into my cockpit. I recalled later that he had studied my expression minutely. After he spoke he smiled and stepped down to the ground and waved me to go ahead.

I opened the throttle, pushed the stick forward and was off. I was too busy to think of anything but operating the plane until after I had made my second turn and was cruising back to glide in for the landing. Then I noticed that empty seat ahead of me and my heart began to pound.

"You have done all of this many times before," I said to myself. "Just imagine he is sitting there as usual. He thinks you can do it. He said 'do it for me.' You can't fail him." I ran through my mind and calmed me.

The glide in was uneventful and the landing, my first solo landing, was "three-point." That gave me some satisfaction. But it was shortlived. As the plane rolled along after landing, I unconsciously pushed forward slightly on the right rudder pedal and before I discovered the error, the plane turned around in a slow "ground loop." My instructor came running up, laughed at my consternation over the loop, and sent me away again on solo number two.

The second trip was more jerky than the first. I was getting nervous. The landing was not as good, either. I worked the stick backward too fast and hit the ground harder than I should, causing a bounce. That did no damage but it shook my confidence and my instructor called it a day.

Use of the Stabilizer

IN THE empanage or tail assembly of an airplane is a small horizontal control wing which appears stationary. It is just ahead of the elevator, that bigger wing which, hinged at its front, moves up and down. The horizontal part is the stabilizer, and it is not stationary.

In the pilot's cockpit is a small control wheel or lever, as the case may be, which will move the stabilizer. I was taught its use, which is important and quite simple to learn.

"In level flight let go of the stick and watch the nose of the plane," my instructor began. "If the nose remains headed for the horizon, the stabilizer is set the way it should be. If the nose climbs, turn this wheel at your left side forward until the climbing stops. If the nose has a tendency to go down, pull backward on the top of the wheel until it comes up to horizon and stays there."

In the air my instructor put the plane in a level position and cautioned me to look along the "sights" I used to spot horizon. Then he let go of the stick and the nose began to climb. A forward movement of the small wheel brought it down.

"Now I'll change the stabilizer and you adjust it," he said through the speaking tube. As he did so the nose began to drop. I pulled back on the top of the wheel and it came up slowly. A forward movement on the wheel and the nose went down again. Back and forth, not over four inches either way, I moved the wheel, finally finding that position at which the nose of the ship held to a level position.

"You will find that you will have to adjust the stabilizer when you fly solo," he explained. "When I get out the weight changes and that throws the plane out of balance. If you were on a long cross-country flight you would have to adjust the stabilizer to compensate for the difference in weight caused by the consumption of fuel."

After four turns about the field he suggested another solo flight. Something within me told me not to try it and I begged off.

"If you feel that way," he answered. "I don't want you to go alone."
That loss of nerve was another new experience. What caused it I'll never know.

Bloodthirsty Man

Man kills to obtain his food, kills to clothe himself, kills to adorn himself, kills to defend himself, kills to attack, kills to instruct himself, kills to amuse himself, kills for the sake of killing.—Joseph de Maistre.

Hide and Seek

Some one has found that when he buys one shirt he gives employment to 50 persons, and 47 of them do nothing but hide pins in the tail.—Ohio State Journal.

Things That Are Nice for Christmas Gifts

"To Baby," Highchair Cushion

Did you ever see anything so "cuddly" as this "bunny cushion" for baby's highchair? You can buy the material all stamped and ready to work, either dainty pink or pale blue, and you may choose between bunnies, bow-wows, pussycats and sundry other "pet" subjects. Then all to do is to embroider their painted features, pad the material with downy cotton or wool batting, then knot here and there same as if making a comforter. There's no doubt Mr. Santa Claus will be having to work overtime to get enough cushions ready before Christmas for babies north, south, east and west, who will be wanting this "booful" present.

Stage Coach Book-Ends

From all indications Santa is going to make a specialty of giving stagecoach book-ends this Christmas. They are too clever for words, these book-ends, which stand a decorative little coach at each end of a row of books, for the stagecoach, be it of royal lineage like the one pictured or of thoroughly American pioneer descent, is taking the place of the at-one-time favorite ship as a decorative feature in the home.

Convenient for Travelers

Scuffed shoes, slippers and "mules" are one of the problems of light traveling. No one likes to carry too much luggage, so the knitted "shoe case" of soft, lustrous darené cotton, as pictured, makes a most attractive Christmas present.

Cute Pillows for Youngsters

Here is a Christmas gift-ideal for youngsters—pillows made of satene or percale, appliqued with animal or birds cut out of gingham as pictured. Being washable, mothers will welcome them in the nursery. Santa Claus specially recommends this type for "pillow fights."

Moisture in Beans Should Be Watched

Good Plan to Note Condition and Appearance.

With thousands of bushels of newly-harvested soy beans going into storage at this time of the year, J. C. Hackleman, University of Illinois, warns that they must contain less than 15 or 16 per cent of moisture to be safe from spoilage. This is the maximum moisture percentage, as determined by research and experience, under which soy beans can be stored with safety. Soy beans that are cut too green or with too high a moisture content will go off condition quickly and be cut severely in grade.

In addition to moisture content, farmers can control three other factors which determine the grade of soy beans. These are condition and appearance, broken or split beans, and foreign material. As for condition and appearance, soy beans, like corn, should 'look good,' that is, be free of mold, have no insect injury and as far as possible be clean and show marketability. They must be cool, a point which is directly correlated with the question of moisture content.

The percentage of split or broken beans is likely to mount if there is excessive cylinder speed in threshing, concaves set too close, too many teeth or excessively dry beans.

The fourth factor that is largely under the control of the farmer and thresherman is the amount of foreign material. This is just what the name indicates—sticks, chaff, pods, stems and dirt.

Corn Harvesting Cost Cut by New Machines

The Illinois experiment station has made a thorough study of corn picking costs during the past two years. Records kept on 12,000 acres of hand-husked corn showed that it cost 19.4 cents a bushel to husk and crib corn by hand. A study of 102 one-row pickers revealed a husking and cribbing expense of 8.3 cents, while two-row pickers on 64 farms were used for 6.6 cents per bushel.

It was found that two-row machines required only 2.2 hours of man labor per acre. Single-row designs were operated with 2.7 hours, and hand husking called for an average labor expenditure of 3.1 hours per acre. Since the wagon was often pulled by horses in the case of two-row outfits and an extra man was thus necessary, the labor requirement was unusually high for these machines. Pulling the wagon with the tractor would lower it to quite an extent.

Wheat Fed With Profit to All Farm Animals

The animal husbandrymen at the University of Illinois say that cheap wheat can be fed with profit to stock. Wheat when coarsely ground is worth about as much as the same weight of shelled corn for hogs and sometimes it gives just a little better results than corn, says E. T. Robbins, the Illinois live stock extension specialist. When wheat is 75 cents a bushel and can be ground for 5 cents, making a total of 80 cents, it will pay to feed the wheat instead of 75-cent corn, he declares. However, corn at 70 cents a bushel likely would be the more economical feed.

Heartwood of Tree Is Favored for a Post

The heartwood of a tree makes a more lasting post than the sapwood. This is apparently because the sapwood cell walls are comparatively tender and have not yet hardened and become filled with the more solid material. Many assume that the inactive heartwood in an old tree starts to deteriorate and so the heartwood from an old tree would not last as long as that from a younger tree; but this does not seem to hold true. Sound heartwood will have practically the same lasting qualities whether from a young or old tree.

Agricultural Notes

Windbreaks will add beauty to the farm.

Windbreaks near the home will cause less fuel to be needed.

When buying western ewes one should make sure that they have reasonably good teeth.

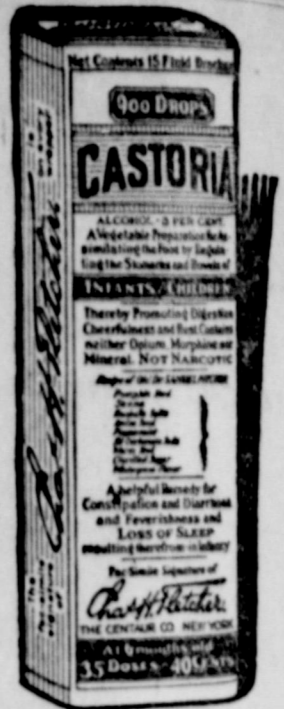

House the pullets when they are ready to start laying. Grade all pullets as to maturity when housing them.

Rhubarb needs plenty of plant food for good results, and the best material to use is barnyard manure. Heap the manure around the plants in the fall and dig it in when spring comes.

Feed two parts of grain to one part of mash, and the pullets will continue to gain in weight and still receive enough protein to encourage the egg organs to function without interfering with growth.

It is the time to select your breeding hens for next year. The hen with the ragged, soiled plumage, bleached shanks, and still laying, is the hen that helped to keep the figures out of red on the ledger during the past year.

Fretful DAYS Restless NIGHTS ... give child Castoria

FUSSY, fretful, can't sleep, won't eat... It isn't always easy to find just where the trouble is with a young child. It may be a stomach upset; it may be sluggish bowels.

But when little tongues are coated and there is even a slight suspicion of bad breath—it's time for Castoria!

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation especially made for babies and children. When Baby cries with colic or is fretful because of constipation, Castoria brings quick comfort, and, with relief from pain, soothes him to restful sleep. For older children—up through all the school years, Castoria is equally effective in helping to right irregularities. Just give it in larger doses. What a comfort Castoria is to mothers! Get the genuine, with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper and the name Castoria that always appears like this:

Visiting Days Unknown to Men of Coast Guard

A lonely vigil is kept by coast guard and lighthouse crews at Big Sable point north of Ludington, Mich. They live in complete isolation the year round. Finding of coins and other antiques by different members of the crew indicates that the point was visited by explorers. Three years ago a large canoe was unearthed but was washed away before crews could rescue it. Recently Albert Howard, in charge of the coast guard station, found an ancient Spanish coin in the sands near the beach. It bore the date of 1731, and was picked up only ten miles south of the point where Pere Marquette died on May 18, 1675.

Heavily Insured

An Insurance Journal publishes a list of 357 persons in the United States and Canada who own life insurance amounting to $1,000,000 or more on each life. Last year only 323 were insured to this extent. More than 16,000 persons own a minimum of $50,000 life insurance each.

HEAD THROB?

The woman who knows, would as soon start out without her purse! She always carries Bayer Aspirin.

When your head fairly throbs from the stores and crowds, reach for that little box. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and resume your shopping—in comfort. Relief is immediate.

Most people use these wonderful tablets for something! But do you know how many, many ways they can spare you needless suffering? From the discomfort—and danger—of a neglected cold. From serious consequences of a sore throat. From those pains peculiar to women. From the misery of neuralgia and neuritis.

Every drugstore has genuine Bayer Aspirin. The box says Bayer, and every tablet bears the Bayer cross. Tablets thus marked do not depress the heart.

"Some politicians," said Mr. Hylan, "are like that. Yes, they are like cigars. The more you puff them the smaller they get."

DON'T let a Cold Settle in your Bowels!

Keep your bowels open during a cold. Only a doctor knows the importance of this. Trust a doctor to know best how it can be done.

That's why Syrup Pepsin is such a marvelous help during colds. It is the prescription of a family doctor who specializes in bowel troubles. The discomfort of colds is always lessened when it is used; your system is kept free from phlegm, mucus and acid wastes. The cold is "broken up" more easily.

Whenever the bowels need help, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sure to do the work. It does not gripe or sicken; but its action is thorough. It carries off all the souring waste and poison; helps your bowels to help themselves.

Take a spoonful of this family doctor's laxative as soon as a cold starts, or the next time coated tongue, bad breath, or a bilious, headachy, gassy condition warns of constipation. Give it to the children during colds or whenever they're feverish, cross or upset. Nothing in it to hurt anyone; it contains only laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients. The way it tastes and the way it acts have made it the fastest selling laxative the drugstore carries!

SWEETEN ACID STOMACH THIS PLEASANT WAY

When there's distress two hours after eating—heartburn, indigestion, gas—suspect excess acid.

The best way to correct this is with an alkali. Physicians prescribe Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water neutralizes many times its volume in excess acid; and does it at once. To try it is to be through with crude methods forever.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. All drugstores have the generous 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions in package.

All social theories, no matter how fine, have to deal with selfish human beings.

Household oil must do 3 things, say experts

Household oils that merely lubricate do only half the job, say lubrication experts. Locks and hinges, sewing machines, electric fans, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, washers—all household devices are constantly gathering dirt and rust when not in service. To get best results one should use an oil that cleans and protects as well as lubricates.

Unlike ordinary oil, 3-in-One is a blend of high grade animal, mineral and vegetable oils, so it does these three things as no other oil can. 3-in-One Oil costs more to make than ordinary oil, but it costs much less to use. It is cheapest in the long run, for it will save you many dollars on repairs and replacements of expensive household equipment.

Don't be satisfied with anything but the best. Get the old reliable 3-in-One Oil. At good stores everywhere. In 15c and 30c cans and bottles. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in red on every package.

THE STORY

Renewing a childhood attachment, Ernestine Briceand, of a wealthy family, is attracted by Will Todd, newspaper artist, son of a carpenter. They lunch together and recall their school days. Ernestine's sister, Lillian, knowing their father would disapprove, urges her to end the affair, but Ernestine refuses. The love-making progresses rapidly.

CHAPTER II—Continued

But she did not see him the next day, although she waited at their rendezvous for an hour past the time. Nor the next day. By the third day she was filled with deep dismay and fear. All sorts of questions whirled through her mind. Perhaps he had tired of her. It might be that the affair had run out for him, that he had never intended to make more than a sweetheart out of her.

But she had only to think of his bright honorable face to know that there was some other reason behind his attitude. She had only to think of his eager kisses to know that he cared. She called him on the telephone at his home, at ten o'clock. His mother answered and said, in a low voice, that he was sleeping.

"Would you waken him, it's important," she said, and stood shaking in the telephone booth, until she heard his voice, husky with sleep.

"This is Ernestine," she said, trembling.

At once there was an electric silence, and then he said, in a voice now thoroughly awake:

"Well?"

She could have cried. "What's the matter, Will? Aren't you going to see me again?"

"Where are you?"

"I'm at the drug store, at Wilson and Sheridan."

"I'll be there within an hour," he told her.

He had not had breakfast, he said, shaking hands with her formally when they met. They went into a little white tiled coffee shop, and he ordered his breakfast and sat opposite her in silent waiting. He looked terrible. His face, often white, was ravaged, and his eyes burned. But he was calm. He had reached some decision, and Ernestine knew that the initiative rested on her.

"What's the matter, Will?" she asked him, trembling again, and hating herself for it. It was awful to be such a slave.

"Your mother phoned me yesterday."

"Mamma?"

"Sure—she asked me to come there to tea this afternoon. I told her I had to work. Didn't you know she was going to ask me? I thought perhaps you told her to invite me," said Will.

A little light dawned in Ernestine's mind.

"Is that the trouble?" she asked. "Do you think I ought to have invited you to my home?"

"Well," he said slowly, "why shouldn't you—unless you were ashamed of me?"

How could she explain without wounding him?

"But you see, Will—it has nothing to do with being ashamed. My first thought was to tell the folks, but then, it seemed they might disapprove of our friendship, and I want to keep it. And then—"

"But don't you see, Ernestine, I can't meet you any more, like this—out on the street, and in the library, and in restaurants and tearooms? I can't do that to your parents. If they don't want you to go with me, I can't coax you to do it—clandestinely."

"Your mother's been telling you all this."

"Yes," he said. "I confided in her. She showed me how it looks."

"Well, then, that's all there is to it. You aren't willing to make the effort to be friends that I am. You don't understand how they'd be. They'd be so nice and so reasonable—and they'd separate us. Just as sure as fate. You wouldn't know them as I do. It wouldn't be your character they'd object to, or your folks. It would be your position and your lack of money and such things. Anyhow, it seems to be a little late to—to—" she faltered into silence.

Will looked at her with agitation.

"What do you mean—it's late, Ernestine?" he demanded.

But she could only look at him. If he did not understand, she could not explain.

"You mean—you care?" he asked a little breathlessly, and she smiled tremulously.

"What did you think?" she asked him.

"I didn't think, I guess," he said. "I never meant to make you love me—it was so natural. I shouldn't have wrenched you."

"But you did, Will."

"Let's go," he said, and paid the bill.

They walked out, swept now into a unity which had been increased, not broken, by their talk. They walked a half mile or so and came to a deserted bathhouse, where they sat down side by side upon an upturned row-boat.

"You see, Ernestine," he told her solemnly, "we just kind of jumped into it all. But it's real with me. It's love—and marriage, with me. I never thought much about such things—just took you at what you were willing to give. Everybody has dates out around town, and I didn't want to go to your house especially, nor think about that. And then, we got to carling—and as soon as I began to think about you as my wife, I began to think about all these other things: your money, your family position, and the darned Briceand pride that I know more about than you do. And then, I wondered why you never took me home. And finally I talked to my mother. And I made up my mind to quit."

"Without even giving me a chance?" she asked him.

She was in his arms now, and he said to her:

"Will you marry me, Ernestine?"

"Of course. Today, if you like."

"You'll have to tell your folks first," he insisted.

"Oh, Will," she cried. "Don't stand with them against me. They'll separate us. Why do you suppose they asked you to the house today, if not to find out about you and how intimate our friendship had become, and to begin the business of breaking it up? I know." She told him what papa said about Sadie Hall and the actor Delaney. His arms grew slack about her. He sat a little away, now, distraught, silent.

"They'll think I've persuaded you. They'll think I want the money, that I'm seeking for myself," he protested.

"If I thought you could live on what I make—but you don't know anything about money. You don't know how hard it is for two people—living on twenty-five dollars a week. I don't know what to do, but I want to do what's right."

He looked most forlorn sitting there, thinking, pondering, trying to contemplate a future without her, trying to reconcile his own pride and self-esteem with the position her family put him into.

"I should never have kissed you," he exclaimed. "I should never have loved you."

"Will," said Ernestine tenderly, "you couldn't help that."

For now his sad confusion had caught her in the grip of her first passion. Now she lived in terrible fulfillment the promise her throbbing heart had made weeks ago, when she had talked to Lillian about marriage.

Her heart leaped in her like a thing threatened with mortal danger. She flung herself upon him precipitously, her arms strained round his neck. He caught her and held her close. All his being flared up in answer to her own emotion, and his lips sprang to hers in a kiss that was as new to them as though they had never touched each other before. It was a promise.

"Take me today, Will," she cried, and tears streamed down her face.

"Now, quickly, before anybody can say a word to us, before they can be reasonable and reassuring and competent about us. Take me and hold me, now, quickly and secretly. I promise you I'll live on what you earn. I promise I'll take my chance with you—completely. I'll never let them have reason to say that you wanted anything, but me. Whatever you have is all I'll have, Will. I promise—"

She was crying wildly. He was shaking, as she was, but he laughed a little, and wiped her cheeks with his own clean handkerchief.

"The lady promises, Judge," he said, and kissed her and laughed at her and teased her. "The lady promises never to sue me for more than a million a year alimony. The lady promises—"

He picked her up and set her on her feet.

"Come on, then—let's do it now," he cried, and seized her wrist and ran, pulling her along.

It was almost evening when Will and Ernestine came to the Briceand house. In the downstairs drawing room the lamps glowed softly. She had telephoned mamma that she was in town for lunch and would come out with Will at five. Beyond Lillian, Ernestine could see Loring's square shoulders.

They ran up the steps, hand in hand, and at the door Will gave her a reassuring hug and kissed her cheek.

"Let me do the talking," he whispered, and they went on into the hall and ran into the drawing and living room. Ernestine was aware at once that the swift kiss Will had imprinted on her cheek had been seen, for papa was flustered and hostile, and mamma looked at her in pale reproach.

"Mamma," said Ernestine, "do you remember Will Todd?"

Mamma gave Will her hand, and he moved awkwardly forward, looking shabby and ill at ease beside the magnificence and self-possession of papa and Loring.

"We've just been talking about you," mamma said to Will. "I didn't know until yesterday that you were such friends with my little girl. I'm sorry you haven't been here sooner."

Will murmured something, and Ernestine introduced him to her grandmother, who looked at him severely and gave a slight snort of recognition, and then Lillian came and offered him her hand and said she remembered him. The two men straddling the hearth acknowledged the introduction with silent handshakes. Mamma asked Will to sit down and rang for tea. Ernestine, full of guilt, sat down close beside him and turned to speak to mamma.

The conversation moved haltingly as they waited for tea. Papa, somewhat maliciously, asked Will about his father.

"He's well," Will answered in a calm natural voice. "But my mother has been almost an invalid for a year now. We feel very anxious about her."

"We are sorry to learn that," said mamma, and then went on quickly: "What have you two children been doing all day?"

There was a dramatic pause, but Ernestine took it up quickly.

"Mamma, you forget that I am twenty now."

They laughed politely. The tea-wagon came, mamma poured tea for them all, and they talked of things about which Will knew nothing. Ernestine could see how they were making him feel like an outsider. Sitting in the deep chair, his long legs drawn up before him, Will was not so disturbing. Her heart was full of tender loyalty.

"You have changed a great deal," mamma said to Will. "You used to be a shy little boy."

"I don't feel very shy today," he told her, and smiled at Ernestine.

His bright black eyes, like shiny bits of anthracite, under his white, domelike forehead, were beautiful, but Ernestine knew that the others could see nothing but his queer clothes.

"Tell them, Will," she said at last, putting down her cup and taking his from him.

They all stopped, and turned startled faces toward the two. Will squared himself and turned first to mamma.

"We've gone and done it," he said, smiling.

"Gone and done what?" asked mamma sharply, and her pallor startled them all.

"We've gone and got married—today."

"Married! Who?"

"It was papa's voice, harsh, protesting."

"Ernestine and I," answered Will steadily, and Loring said, "Married!" in a hoarse, incredulous tone, and Ernestine, looking up, saw his face, as pale as mamma's, and as startled, with deep chagrin and consternation written on it. But none of the others noticed him.

"You see," said Ernestine gently, "we were engaged anyhow, and when mamma invited Will to tea, today, I thought we might just as well make it an announcement party."

"You thought!"

"Certainly, papa. It was my idea." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Claims Elephant Leads Beasts in Intelligence

The question of the relative intelligence of our so-called "dumb" beasts seems to be one to which there is no end. Wherever animal men gather the controversy wages hot and furious. "I think elephants are the most intelligent of all animals," says Hubbard Nye, writing in Liberty Magazine. "I realize this opens an argument, for every man who has worked in a circus or menagerie may think otherwise."

"My contention," continues Nye, "is that elephants show more intelligence in learning to work. In twenty minutes you can teach an elephant to plow a cornfield and not step on a single shoot. The big beast's intelligence shines brightest in vaudeville work. He is the only animal capable of going through his stunts without a trainer and without cues."

"The three-ton star will stand backstage waiting for his act for an hour and a half, placid, thinking his elephant thoughts, while property men shift scenery right under his trunk and chorus girls go scuttling around him. You can lead him between the most fragile sets of gauze, and he won't hurt a thing."

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)
The world is all dark or the world is all bright
Just as we choose to make it:
Our burden is heavy, our burden is light
Just as we happen to take it:
And people who grumble and people who groan
At the world and at every proposal
Would grumble and groan if the world were their own
And the sun, moon and stars at disposal.

TO ADD TO THE FRUIT CLOSET

As sugar is one of the cheapest of foods in common use, its food value high, most housewives are appreciating the chance to preserve and jelly as much of the delightful fall fruits as possible. Try some of these and see what an addition they will make to your preserve closet:

Tomato-Raisin Conserve.—Take two quarts of fresh ripe tomatoes, two lemons cut fine, four sour apples cored and cubed, six sticks of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of whole cloves, two pieces of ginger root, one small piece of mace. Tie the spices in a bag. Cook all these ingredients together until a thick mass is made, then add two pounds of sugar and boil 15 minutes, or until a jelly stage is reached, which is when the mixture drops off in sheets from the side of the spoon. Add one cupful of nut meats just before removing from the fire, if liked.

Carrot Marmalade.—Grate 12 medium-sized tender carrots, add four cupfuls of sugar, three lemons, juice and peel; one teaspoonful each of ground cloves, cinnamon and allspice, tied in a small cloth. Before adding the spice let the mixture stand one hour, then cook slowly one hour, turn into sterilized glasses and seal.

Pear and Apple Conserve.—Take one pint of diced pears, one pint of diced apple, one lemon juice and grated rind, one cupful of seedless raisins, one-half cupful of walnut meats, three and one-half cupfuls of sugar. Steam the raisins for 30 minutes, add them to the other ingredients and cook until thick and clear. Turn into glasses and cover with paraffin. Nuts may be omitted and a small amount of preserved ginger may be added.

Pickled Pears.—Peel four quarts of pears. Boil two pounds of sugar with two cupfuls of vinegar, one-half ounce of stick cinnamon and one-fourth ounce of cloves for 20 minutes. Place a few of the whole pears in the sirup and cook until tender, then place in the cans. Fill each jar to overflow with the hot sirup, then seal.

DAINTY DISHES.

Some time when entertaining one's friends at a dinner, try this method of serving sweet potato:

Orange Sweet Potato.
—Cook the sweet potato in their skins, peel, mash and season with butter, salt and white pepper. Prepare the halves of oranges that have been squeezed of their juice by removing all the white inner lining of the skins. Fill them with the seasoned potato and about twenty minutes before serving time place them in the oven to become hot; a small piece of marshmallow may be placed on top to brown or a sprig of parsley used on top for a garnish when serving.

Coconut Drops.—Grate a fresh coconut and add to it half its weight in sugar, stir until well mixed, then add one beaten egg white and drop on buttered tin and bake in a slow oven until brown.

Oyster Soup.—Add four tablespoonfuls of quick cooking tapioca to a quart of rich milk, two teaspoonfuls of salt, and cook until the tapioca is clear, stirring often and cooking in a double boiler. Add one cupful of oysters and the oyster liquor, a dash of cayenne and paprika and four tablespoonfuls of butter. Serve when the oysters are curled.

Sour Cream Pie.—Mix the yolks of two eggs well beaten, one cupful of sour cream, one-half cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, one cupful of raisins and one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Cook together until thick, then pour into a baked pastry shell. Whip the whites of the eggs until stiff, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar and spread over the top of the pie and brown slightly in a slow oven.

Ozark Soup.—Cover a fresh soup bone with cold water and simmer until the meat is tender, adding salt toward the end of the cooking. Strain the broth and to one quart of the broth add one medium sized potato cut into dice, and one-half cupful of washed rice. Let cook until tender, then add one can of tomatoes, bring to the boiling point, add a tablespoonful of flour mixed with one cupful of sweet cream, boil five minutes, add seasoning of salt and pepper and serve. For further flavor add one teaspoonful of sugar, a little chopped celery, a pinch of curry powder and a bit of mace with a few dashes of cayenne pepper.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity. In both the chassis and body, you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

The new Chevrolet is longer, lower and strikingly smart. The radiator has been deepened and its appearance enhanced by a curving tie-bar and chrome-plated parabolic headlamps. The long hood sweeps back gracefully into the new body lines. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six! They are roomier, more comfortable, and throughout exhibit that attention to detail which is the basis of true quality.

Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is better. The wheelbase is longer. The frame stronger. The steering easier. The clutch more durable. There is a smoother, quieter transmission. Wherever finer materials and more advanced design could increase Chevrolet quality and economy—improvement has been made. The new Chevrolet Six is an outstanding achievement—it is the Great American Value!

» » AT NEW LOW PRICES « «

Chevrolet has long been one of the lowest priced cars in the world. Yet due to the savings of volume production and increased manufacturing efficiency, the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is offered at new low prices. Come in today. See and drive the new Chevrolet Six. Learn the economy of owning a modern, fine quality, six-cylinder automobile.

Christmas Things to Buy or Make at Home

Trays for Yuletide Gifts

Trays are registering as, especially "smart" Yuletide gifts in current holiday displays. Of the making of attractive trays, there seems to be no end this season. Like everything else in interior decoration trays have gone English to a great extent, depicting quaint stage-coach themes, and colorful hunting scenes. Contrasting these are exquisite effects which are French in their dainty rococo design and antique-lacquered flower colorings.

Amusing Hearthstone Brushes

Perhaps it is a hint on Santa's part to keep the hearthstone spic and span for his coming. Anyway, his pack contains an unusual variety of amusing fireplace brushes this year. They are extremely decorative, too, for the spirit of the times is for the bluntest utilitarian article to be ornamental to the nth degree as well as useful.

Fern Garden for Christmas

For Christmas-giving miniature fern (actually growing) gardens are the "big idea" this year. The thought was inspired by the Jibiputian Japanese gardens which have ever been an object of admiration. The one pictured is only about 14 inches long. You can buy the wooden framework (outline sketch in upper corner). Removable zinc flower box or pan fits in the top. You can have the fun of painting it yourself to give it the appearance of a terraced rocky, using for the purpose sealing wax dissolved in alcohol which gives a handsome lacquered effect. Tiny plants and ferns are planted in the galvanized box in mossy soil. A gayly painted toy bridge and doll-like figures add to the landscape.

Made-of-Ribbon Gifts

Basket woven ribbon fancywork is again in fashion. There's going to be a "Merry Christmas" card tied everything from sachets to handkerchiefs and glove cases, pillows, sweater mats, and even large cases to the "nightie" made of ribbon, as the picture shows. Nothing so expensive heart-to-heart sentiment as the "made-it-myself" gift.

DAIRY INDUSTRY NOW IS IMMENSE

Milk Represents Fourth of Production on Farms.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"The dairy industry is an immense industry. It holds an exceedingly important place in our national economic structure. This must be so, because the commodity it produces is a prime essential in our very existence," said O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in addressing the first annual meeting of the North Carolina State Dairyman's association at Greensboro.

"The dairy industry is of such great size that it is difficult to realize how big it is," he said. "The steel industry was once called 'the billion-dollar industry.' In the year July 1, 1927, to July 1, 1928, according to estimates, the total income received by American farmers for all their farm products was about $12,250,000,000. One-fourth of this, or about three billions, was produced by our dairy cows. This was two and a half times the annual value of the cotton crop, two and a half times the beef and veal crop, more than three times the wheat crop, and more than twice the hog crop."

The demand for the dairy products of American farms is increasing year by year; milk, butter, cheese, ice cream, etc., are becoming a greater part of the diet of the American people, he said.

"The increase in the demand for dairy products is due to two factors. The first is the improvement that has taken place in the quality of all dairy products generally in the last few years. There is a direct relation between quality and consumption. Milk that is low in quality is always difficult to market to advantage, whereas milk of good flavor and high sanitary quality always has, under normal economic conditions, an advantageous market and is consumed in relatively large amounts. The second factor is a better understanding on the part of people generally of the value of milk and milk products in relation to nutrition and health. In recent years a great deal of emphasis has been put upon the vitamin content of foods. Milk is rich in vitamins, those accessory food substances which are necessary for the proper functioning of the body.

"The problem of raising the general level of quality of milk and cream at the point of production, the farm, is one that must be given more consideration. The objects of quality improvement are to increase consumption and provide the consumer with clean, wholesome, and nutritious dairy products. Statistics on the per capita consumption of milk show that the southern states are low in their per capita consumption of all kinds of dairy products, as compared with other sections of the country. The producer as well as the manufacturer should make every effort to increase the consumption of milk."

Good Bulls Are Needed to Replace All Scrubs

Good bulls are hard to find, says Prof. S. J. Brownell of the New York State College of Agriculture, who is interested in finding bull calves from good pure-bred sires and from cows that have made 400 pounds of fat in a dairy herd improvement association. Surveys in many New York townships show that more than half of all the bulls owned are grade and scrub bulls. Of the 45 per cent of pure-bred bulls, only 15 per cent of them are registered, and only 3 per cent of all the bulls owned are from cows of known producing ability.

As a result of the surveys, many dairymen who now own grade and scrub bulls have listed their desire to get better bulls. The requests for better bulls are at the rate of ten to fifteen dairymen for every township surveyed. This means that from 300 to 400 good bulls are needed to replace the grades and scrubs in the surveyed territory.

Selection of Feeds for Ration for Dairy Cow

When you wish to make up a ration for the individual cow or for the herd there are two important ingredients to be considered in selecting the feeds. These are: 1. Digestible protein. 2. Total digestible nutrients. Protein is especially important in milk production and all dairy rations should be liberally supplied with this element, but the use of too much protein may be detrimental. The feeding of high protein feeds may be carried to extremes with the result that many cows will be prematurely burned out or become shy breeders. The increased use of alfalfa has given a protein roughage that does not require the high protein grains that we have become accustomed to using with our lower grades of hay.

Separator Care Pays

Reports from herd improvement association testers show that heavy losses in butterfat occur whenever separators are poorly adjusted or not properly cleaned. Among the more common causes are separators not set level, excessive vibration, irregular speed, failure to keep clean, flushing with cold instead of lukewarm water, and so on. It has been found that losses of fat may be three times greater in separators which have not been washed after each use.

Lesson for November 23

THE RICH YOUNG RULER, REFUSING A LIFE OF SACRIFICIAL SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:17-27. GOLDEN TEXT—And he said unto them all, if any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Failed Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Man Who Failed Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choices Which Must Be Made.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Following Christ Means.

1. The Young Ruler (v. 17).

For a complete view of the characteristics of this young man see also Matthew 19:16-20 and Luke 18:18-30.

1. His virtues.

(1) He was courageous.

He was a man of high standing—a rich young ruler (Luke 18:18, 23).

With many couer he came to Jesus.

(2) Earnest (Mark 10:17).

He came and knelt before Jesus, thus showing his earnest sincerity.

(3) High aspirations (v. 16).

He wanted eternal life. He felt the need of preparing for a life beyond.

(4) Pious and moral (v. 20).

He professed to have conformed to God's only law from his youth.

(5) He believed that Christ could inform him of the "good thing" to be done to inherit eternal life.

2. His errors.

(1) About Christ (v. 16).

He esteemed Jesus to be good, but did not apprehend him as God.

(2) Concerning himself.

He was self-righteous. He thought he was good and that he could do something good.

(3) Concerning eternal life.

He had a defective theology. He thought that eternal life could be obtained by good works.

(4) Jesus Dealing With the Young Ruler (vv. 17-27).

Jesus skillfully led the young man to see his errors and then put his finger on the weak spot in his life.

1. His question: "Why callest thou me good?" (v. 17).

His object in this was to lead the young man to a correct apprehension as to who he was. Before giving him a chance to answer he declared that only God was good, as if to say, "I am good and therefore God."

2. Jesus' answer to the young man's question (vv. 17-20).

"If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments." Christ met him here on his own ground; namely, that of the law. He took the young man's level that the young man's real worth might be revealed. If one insists on getting life by doing something, the law declares what must be done. It must be perfectly kept.

3. Christ's command (vv. 21, 22).

Replying to Christ's citation of the commandments of the law, the young man glibly asserted that he had kept them from his youth up. He no doubt was sincere, but deceived. In Christ's command to go and sell his possessions and distribute to the poor, he put his finger upon the weak spot.

4. The young man's fatal decision (v. 22).

His going away sorrowful proved that he was covetous and did not love his neighbor as himself.

III. Jesus Showing the Peril of Riches (vv. 23-27).

This teaching concerning the peril of riches was most timely. Covetousness was fast taking hold of the people. Even one of his disciples, Judas, was well under its sway.

1. It is difficult for the rich to enter into the kingdom (vv. 23, 24).

This difficulty lies not in the possession of riches, for a man may possess great riches and be an heir of the kingdom. The difficulty lies in trusting in riches.

2. Entrance into the Kingdom is possible, though difficult (vv. 25, 26).

(1) It is possible for the grace of God to sanctify riches.

The very thing which hinders may become a great influence for good in the hand of a regenerated soul.

(2) It is possible for the grace of God to open man's eyes that he see his downward course and repent.

(3) It is possible for the grace of God to change a man from self-seeking to self-sacrifice.

(4) It is possible for the grace of God to make men humble.

IV. Rewards for Following Christ (vv. 27-30).

Those who turn their backs upon their kindred and possessions for the sake of Christ shall receive an hundredfold in this life, and eternal life in the world to come.

Wheelbarrow Conscience

Most people follow their conscience as a man follows a wheelbarrow, pushing it before him the way he wants to go.—King's Business.

The Carnal Mind

"The carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be."

Seed Thoughts

Nothing can make a man truly great but being truly good, and partaking of God's holiness.—M. Henry.

ATWATER KENT RADIO with the GOLDEN VOICE

"I know what I want"

"So do I"

... and it's going to be an Atwater Kent. What we want is performance, and so far as we're concerned there's only one choice.

We want the Golden Voice of the new Atwater Kent—good, clear, consistent reception, without a lot of noise. We want power enough to bring in distant stations. We want a dial we can read easily from any position, without straining our eyes—that new Atwater Kent Quick-Vision Dial. We want the new Atwater Kent Tone Control, so that we can bring out the low notes or the high notes as we please.

We want a radio that's always ready to go when we come to the end of a day's work. We want the kind of dependability that Atwater Kent is famous for. We want a radio from the maker who insists that farm people shall have just as good performance as city people.

We want an up-to-date radio, with all the newest worth-while improvements—plus Screen-Grid, from the manufacturer with longest Screen-Grid experience. We want a really good-looking radio—one we can show with pride when friends come in.

We're going to put our money where our faith is, and that means one of the new Atwater Kents. When we go into town tomorrow, we're going to stop at a dealer's and order an Atwater Kent. We know what we want and we're going to get it—NOW.

The new 1931 Atwater Kent with the Golden Voice is built for either all-electric or battery operation. That's another reason why rural families all over the United States prefer the new Atwater Kent.
