Sheepmen Urged Not To Shear This Fall

Sufficient Quantity Is On Hand To Supply Current Demand

By J. M. LEA

The present stocks of Texas 8-month and fall wool on hand in Boston is estimated to be about 20 million pounds in the hands of the National and various dealers. This quantity under normal consumption is fully sufficient to supply the demand for the next 18 months. For the past 18 months the demand has been much below normal for these wools. However, within the last few weeks there has been some sales made of 8-months and it seems that these wools will come into their own within the next few months.

There are only two states that produce 8-months and fall wool; they are Texas and California. Texas produces the largest quantity and most of these wools come from the southern part of the wool territory.

On account of range conditions this year, there was more beggar lice and hoarhound than for many years. Anyone shearing their sheep this fall will more than likely find that they have beggar lice, hoarhound or both in their wool. This means a discount of from any where from 1 to 5 cents per pound. Beggar lice and hoarhound that is in the wool now and which would cause the wool to be discounted this fall will rot out before spring if left on the sheep and will not affect the price of the 12-months next spring.

In comparison to other commodities, there are only a small group of people who produce and control these short wools and they are very close together and should realize the importance of not shearing this fall when it is not necessary.

Some growers will say they cannot run 12 months wool successfully and will offer many arguments for shearing twice a year. If this were really true why is 80 per cent of the wool produced in Texas 12-months length? Why do growers continue producing 12-months wool who join pastures with growers who are producing 8-months and fall wool if they cannot successfully run 12-months?

In the past and as late as a year ago, wool growers were warned not to shear in the fall; that there was danger of being over-produced on this type of wool. Many growers gave the impression that they would not shear, but when the fall clip was all shorn, it turned out to be one of the largest clips ever shorn in Texas.

As a rule producers of the agricultural commodities will agree among themselves that they will cut down on acreage, shearing or anything else, but they usually go home, plant more acres or shear more sheep, thinking and expecting the other fellow to do the cutting down. They seem to think that if the other fellow cuts down it will give themselves an opportunity to get something for nothing. They seem to forget that their neighbor whom they have agreed with to cut down has the same thoughts they do and he plants more and shears more. The consequence is that when the crop or clip is ready for sale, there is an over-production and low prices. There is no one to blame but the producer in such cases, but he, no doubt, blames everyone but himself for his predicament.

It is the opinion among some warehousemen and bankers in the sheep territory that the wool growers will not make the mistake they made last fall by shearing too much fall wool this year. It is also the belief of some that the wool growers will profit by what has happened to the wheat and cotton farmers who followed the above practices in many cases, and who are today over-produced to such an extent that it will probably take many months to adjust themselves to the demand.

Another reason why a grower should not shear this fall is because he can in most cases secure a loan of 50 cents per head now on his sheep, if the wool is left on sheep's back be a 12-months clip in the

Valentine Center Of Another Tremor

On Monday night of this week Valentine experienced another severe earthquake which rocked buildings and done further damage. Several shocks have been felt in that city in the last few weeks, the first occurring on Sunday, August 16.

The mountainous region of Northern Old Mexico which is located to the south of the Rio Grande River and southeast of El Paso is thought to be the center or starting point of the quakes, according to seismographic readings made recently by the United States Geological Survey.

The shocks were moderately severe and probably caused some damage in the sparsely settled mountains where it originated from.

15 Students Report For Football Practice Mon.

About 15 students reported Monday of this week to Coach Duane Smith for football tryout. The boys were very enthusiastic and Coach Smith has bright prospects for a good team.

A few of the boys that reported will not be eligible to play, but as there are several boys to report yet a good football squad is assured.

Sanderson has always stood high in athletics and this year she has promise of not only a good football team, but a basket ball team, as well. Coach Smith is well pleased with the outlook and is working hard in earnest with the boys, preparing them for their first game.

Warehouses Want 40, 25 Cents Mohair

Session In Kerrville Is Well Attended Saturday

EAGER APPEAL MADE

Will Ask Aid Of Farm Board For New Price

Special Correspondence.

DEL RIO, Tex., Aug. 31.—Hoping to make arrangements whereby prices of around 40 cents a pound will be obtained for the 1931 fall kid mohair and 25 cents for fall grown hair, the Wool and Mohair Warehouse Association of Texas, representing growers, and others, held an executive session in Kerrville last Saturday. They are optimistic of securing fair prices for this fall's mohair, those who attended assert.

Judge C. C. Belcher of Del Rio was in attendance at the meeting along with W. P. Wallace.

During the meeting one of the largest attended in years, plans for enlisting the Farm Board's aid in distribution of the 1930 mohair clip in view of a surplus understood to exist at present in Boston was taken under discussion.

"If proper arrangements are brought about there is no reason why the above prices of 40 and 25 cents should not be obtained for this fall's clip," Judge Belcher stated on Monday, upon his return.

Demand for mohair was understood to be good with many mills anxious and ready to purchase the entire 1931 fall clip, provided they can be assured that the 1930 mohair held by the co-ops will not be dumped or sold in competition at a cheap price.

Only by obtaining prices around the above mentioned sums is there any excessive hope for the mohair grower to pay his overhead or running expenses this fall, it was pointed out at the meeting held Saturday in Kerrville.

A Quiet Vacation

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

They had come up to Cape Cod from New York to the inn where I was staying to have a quiet vacation. They had chosen a good place, for Provincetown is as uneventful and as near stagnation as any place one could desire. Telephones are the exception rather than the rule, and nothing happens excepting that the world turns over once a day. Frost was a publicity man and Schenck a stock broker. Frost had never had a real vacation before, he said, and his companion had been working steadily ever since President Wilson had declared war against Germany. But they certainly were going to have a quiet time for the next few days, they were prepared to tell the world.

They went to a show the first night; they took the bus out to the breakwater the next morning; they looked through the illustrated magazines on the living room table in the afternoon, and then they began to grow restless, and a little later to talk business.

It wasn't a half hour until Frost was working out another publicity scheme, and Schenck was giving directions to the home office over long distance half the afternoon, and writing various people what and how to do. Their minds were so full of business that they found no time for quiet or for rest. When we were not regaled on new methods of publicity, we were given advice on the stock market.

They had come up to the Cape to have three weeks of a quiet vacation, but before three days they were doing business as enthusiastically and as regularly as if they had been in their little offices in New York, and by the end of the week they were ready to go back. They didn't know how to rest; they didn't enjoy quiet; there was really nothing in a vacation for them, for they had one-track minds with no switches.

It takes considerable training and not a little experience to enjoy a quiet vacation. One learns this as he learns other things—by regular practice and by beginning early in life.

These manufacturers have had for many years a business motto of "Service to Humanity" and have maintained at their own expense a Mercy Plane, whose mission is to supply products, such as serums and vaccines, in case of dire need, through the co-operation of their retail druggists.

Under the management of Mrs. McLymont, The Sanderson Drug Company, (probably without your knowledge), has jealously protected and maintained this connection, throughout times, (in our little town) of "ice" or "no ice,"—even to these days of electric refrigeration. For such products should be kept cool or cold, and more necessarily, Uniform.

Let us furnish you with some "Certified" goods. Now that school is starting, these handy packages in your medicine cabinet may save you much trouble, later.

Your Child and Its School

The question may be asked: What can parents do to co-operate in the school program of mental, moral, and physical growth of the child? Here are a few desirable things within the reach of every parent:

First, do you know personally your child's teacher? Or do you merely know her name? Such a contact is often the means of solving many of the problems that arise in your child's school life or it may prevent the problems from arising. It is surprising but true that a goodly per cent of parents do not know their child's teacher. Some parents are not only unable to tell the child's teacher's name but missed stating the grade the child is in by a half to a whole year. They have implicit faith and confidence in the school and its work, but it takes more than faith alone to accomplish your child's education.

Another thing of importance is the home study habits of your child. Although there is some debate as to the value of home study and the tendency is away from home work still a limited amount of home study is usually desirable. Does your child have a definite place and time for his or her school work—a place free from interruptions where he can concentrate on the work, even for a brief time?

Again, do you know the physical condition of your child? This information is very necessary to the teachers if they are to work in an intelligent and constructive way for the child's welfare.

Pay a visit to your child's school and meet his teachers. Talk over with them any problems your child has—very likely they can help you. It will do you good to know them—it will help them, and best of all, it will help your child.

I close with the words of Angelo Patri in that memorable classic of his, The School-Master of the Great City, "Unless a school enters deeply into the lives of the people, that school will not enter deeply into the lives of the children or into the lives of the teachers. The school is not filling its proper place unless it is the great democratic socializing agency of the community.—Contributed.

Character

"Thoughtful persons, if asked the most valuable possession of man, put good character first, before health and far ahead of earthly possessions," writes Dr. Sanger Brown, Assistant Commissioner, Department of Mental Hygiene, New York, in the United States Daily. He continued: "In good character they include fairness, honesty, courage, dependability, willingness to make personal sacrifices for others if the situation demands it, and other noble qualities. These are not rare or heroic virtues; they are possessed by the man in the street. . . ."

"It goes without saying, however, that children need proper opportunity and background to develop character. Courage in facing difficulties, sacrifice of personal wants for ideals, fine distinctions between right and wrong, these traits, to become a part of the personality, must grow out of the experiences of life.

"If children fail to develop these qualities, if they are indifferent, callous to others, undependable or deceitful, such conditions are not to be regarded as frailties due to the child's inheritance coming to the surface. Nor should silly explanations, such as minor injuries in infancy, be accepted as a cause. Detrimental influences at home, at school, or in the neighborhood are generally responsible for faulty mental development of a child.

"Perhaps life is being forced upon him in directions which are distasteful or beyond his powers to assimilate. Children need to do disagreeable things at times but if life is continuously distasteful, they naturally rebel. Perhaps thwarting influences are encroaching upon the child's life, interfering with his development, just as a large and sturdy tree interferes with the growth and development of a delicate plant at its roots.

"If a child is not developing an acceptable character, a thorough study of the entire situation will generally reveal the cause. An understanding of it may make all the difference between the child's success and failure in future life."—Scottish Rite Bulletin.

By Advertising

An actual increase in card-displaying during the past fiscal year is revealed in the Treasury figures, showing that the Government's revenue from playing cards rose from $4,819,292 in 1930 to $4,993,559 in the year ended June 30, 1931. This is the only revenue item that did not decline. The explanation of this rather surprising fact probably is to be found in the ingenious and energetic work done by the playing-card producers. They have popularized their product by popularizing the games played with it. This is particularly true of bridge and contract whist. The card-makers deliberately set out to educate the public to play these games. The fruit of this indirect, but intensive advertising appears in the Treasury's statement. Advertising is never a luxury; and when times are dull it becomes more of a necessity than ever.—Detroit Free Press.

THIS AND THAT

BY JIMMINY

This vale of tears is too complicated for most of us to figure out. We go from one plan to another trying to find out what it's all about; from one extreme to the other, with never a thought of a possible middle ground. We legislate this way today and that way tomorrow; we organize, but we don't stay put. We are groping in the dark, as it were. Something must be done!

Great Britain had a monopoly on rubber for years and made us eat out of her hand. We—and everybody else—revolted, and started growing rubber. Now you can buy the same amount of rubber for one dollar as you paid seven dollars for in 1926. That may be stretching a point—or rubber—but it proves one thing, at least: you can't go bouncing around and get anywhere.

We've got too many surpluses. There's too much corn and wheat—there's too much cotton and oil—there's too much unemployment and hunger—and there will soon be too many women, if census figures mean anything. The 1920 census showed there 104 males for each 100 females. But the 1930 figures show the increasing percentage of women, as there are now only 102.5 males for each 100 females.

I say, gentlemen, we've got to quit bouncing around and form some definite plan—a plan that will hold water, if you please.

This columnist has figured out a plan that will solve all our worries, and it is a solution that will please everybody.

Burn up all the paper money in existence, and melt our gold and silver reserves into fish hooks. Declare a ten-year moratorium and holiday, and throw in jail anybody who asks anybody to pay him anything. Let the hogs and cattle and sheep and goats now in the country run wild, and when we get hungry for fresh meat, we'll go out hunting and kill our dinner. In between times we can go fishing.

Let the country revert to a primitive wilderness. Let the weak perish, and the strong survive (they're going to do it, anyway). Scuttle every ship, rip up all the transcontinental cable lines, and wreck the radios. Then Europe can't get to us to bother us with their problems, and we can't get to them to bother them with ours.

Let's return to a state of barter-exchange. Trade what we've got, and don't want, for what we haven't and do want.

Verily, we must do something soon, so let's rub out and start over.

SAMBO'S PHILOSOPHY

"Ef dey was mo' hard pullin', an' teax see-sawin' an' brayin', dey'd be mo' big loads pulled to de TOP o' de hill 'tild' o' stickin' neah de bottom"

THAT the city that is awake to its advantages and resources is the city that makes itself an attractive place in which to live and make a living.

The city that will attract new industries is the city that makes itself a convenient city in which to do business.

Successful cities must be managed and directed just as any successful business must be managed.

A city is simply a big business; the management of its affairs calls for the same efficiency that makes a private business successful.

A successful institution always has a regular inventory taken of all its assets. This is an absolute necessity if a business wishes to maintain profitable operations.

A business that shows a deficit at the end of each year for a period of years and is unable to reduce that deficit and goes on year after year with a heavier burden of debts would be regarded by any intelligent person as in a bad way, indeed.

A continued increase in debt would make it very evident that conditions require some drastic actions, more efficient management, a trimming of over-head expense, a complete reorganization, or go out of business.

TOO MANY PEOPLE WON'T TAKE THE TIME TO STOP AND THINK THAT THE STOCK-HOLDERS OF A CITY ARE ITS TAXPAYERS, AND THEY MUST PAY SOME ATTENTION TO THEIR BUSINESS IF THEY EXPECT TO BE SUCCESSFUL.

DRYDEN WINS FROM MARATHON, 10-9 SUN.

Local base-ball fans who missed the game Sunday at the Dryden ball park between Dryden and Marathon surely missed a treat for it was nip and tuck for thirteen innings.

Ritter started on the mound for Dryden and four runs were scored by Marathon in the first inning mostly to errors. No more runs were scored then until the last of the seventh when three more runs were scored making the score 7-2 in favor of Marathon.

J. L. Newton then relieved Ritter as hurler and the battle was on. Dryden came back in the eighth inning and scored five more runs thru the stickwork of Bishop, Haley and Mooney. The score at the best was 7-7 tie until the last of the eighth inning. Marathon scored at that time and tied 8-8 for three more innings. The score was at a standstill until the first of the thirteenth. Deaton, Marathon, knocked a home run over Ritter's head to center-field and the score then stood at 9-8, favor of Marathon. The last of the thirteenth proved to be the thriller when Dryden with two outs Lamontagne knocked a two-bagger and Marcus hit a beautiful home run over left field and the longest drive made to date at the Dryden diamond. Marcus went in the last of the ninth as pinch hitter, but Surly produced results in the last of the thirteenth. J. L. Newton done some fine hitting for Dryden as well as good pitching, and Banner pulled down some beautiful drives in the left field that were surely good for home runs. Bishop, Lamontagne and Mooney also hit good for Dryden. Marathon had Stely and Deaton; also Gearheart, for their best hitters, and Elliott, the pitcher, deserves a lot of credit for he pitched the thirteen innings without any assistance and was effective as a batter in the pinches. There was a good crowd at the game and the local boys certainly appreciate that, for that is what makes good games. N. but the manager of the ball club game has been scheduled for Sunday will get in touch with Langtry for a return game at Dryden.

Check-Up Is Made On Earth Shocks At Valentine

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 3.—Describing the maximum damage affected in Texas due to the recent seismic disturbances, Dr. E. H. Sellards, associate director of the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas, who has just returned from a trip to the Valentine and Lobo territories, said that all chimneys in Valentine were either destroyed or damaged.

"The cement cap, weighing 100 pounds or more, at the top of one chimney at the school building, was thrown northward, clearing the roof of the building," Dr. Sellards said.

"Another chimney on a private house was broken at roof level, and that part above roof level, weighing at least 150 pounds, was thrown northeastward clearing the roof and lighting in approximately upright position in the yard. Those instances indicate the intensity of the shock in this locality and also the north-south trend of the vibrations. Many chimneys at Valentine and Lobo were offset or twisted, but the direction of twist was not consistent, some being clockwise and some counter clockwise."

In describing the extent of the area effected by the quake, Dr. Sellards pointed out that minor effects were observed to the south as far as Presidio, to the north as far as Monahans, to the east as far as Alpine and to the west as far as Sierra Blanca. Information concerning the earthquake which is being assembled by the Bureau of Economic Geology awaits completion, pending the arrival of information from the geological survey of Mexico.

spring of 1932. This loan will be made available by the National Wool Marketing Corporation, through the local co-operatives here in Texas.

In the event a grower was going to shear because he needed ready cash, he had better take the loan of 50 cents per head instead of shearing, because in this way he can get more than by shearing. Shearing expense and death loss from worms will be about 15 cents per head. The average sheep will probably shear about 3½ pounds this fall. If a grower will try to figure for himself he will see that he will have to sell his wool at 18 cents per pound, or better, to realize as much ready money as he can get by leaving the wool on the sheep and taking the 50 cents per head loan. Under the present conditions, does anyone think they can sell their fall wool at this price?

At the present time the writer does not see any reason why the National Wool Marketing Corporation should make any advance on fall wool, however, this is for them to decide later on if necessary.

MODEL FOR ROBISON BUST IS COMPLETED

A clay model of a bust of the late Land Commissioner, J. T. Robison, has been completed by Frank Teich of Llano, noted sculptor and designer. The model will be sent to New York where a bronze statue will be made from it. When completed, it will be erected on a Texas granite base which will be cut from granite mines near Llano. The bronze statue is to be erected at the state capitol at Austin.

Funds for the erection of the monument was made possible through contributions of the many friends of the late commissioner throughout Texas. It was started by the ranchment of West Texas in appreciation of his loyalty to them. Robison was one of the most beloved state officials and certainly stood by the people in time of need. He was always considerate of all land owners and came to the rescue always.
