REWARD ASK FOR 20-YEAR HEROISM ACT

Davis A. Trousdale Renews Application For Reward Of $1,000

Twenty years ago David A. Trousdale of San Antonio, then a Wells-Fargo express messenger, saved $66,000 worth of registered mail by killing two heavily armed men who attempted to rob the G. H. & S. A. Sunset train No. 9 in the desert country near Dryden.

Today Trousdale still is seeking a reward of $1,000 from the U. S. Postoffice Department for the heroic act.

In 1928 a request that he be paid the reward was turned down by the comptroller of the treasury because, instead of causing the "arrest and conviction" of the bandits, he killed one of them by smashing his skull and shot the other one to death with a rifle he took from his first victim.

According to the comptroller's interpretation of the postal regulations, no person was entitled to the reward of $1,000 specified in the regulations unless he had been instrumental in capturing and convicting someone who had been charged with mail robbery as no mention was made in the regulations about a reward for killing a robber, he ruled that Trousdale could not collect.

However, Trousdale has just made another application, asking that the case be reopened. He bases this application on an order issued by the postmaster general on Feb. 28, 1930, which Trousdale believes so clarifies the postal regulations as to entitle him to the reward, without doubt.

He cites in his application a clause in this order of the postmaster general, which states:

Reward May Be Paid

"When an offender is killed in the act of committing any of the crimes enumerated here in (robbing or attempting to rob a custodian of the United States mail) or in resisting lawful arrest, the same reward may be paid as though he had been tried and convicted."

The attempted robbery occurred the night of March 12. Trousdale had left San Antonio at 2 p. m. The train had picked up a combination baggage and mail car, with a man named Reagan as helper, at Del Rio.

"The first I knew of being held up was when the train came to a

Geological Map Of Texas Being Made By Bureau

AUSTIN, Texas, May 5.—A complete geological map of Texas, made from surveys by the United States Geological Survey, in cooperation with the Bureau of Economic Geology of The University of Texas will be available in another year, according to Dr. L. W. Stephenson of Washington who for the last several years has been in charge of the geological investigation on the Upper Cretaceous formation of the coastal plains of Texas for the United States Geological Survey. Dr. Stephenson has been spending a few days in Austin in consultation with members of the staff of the University Bureau of Economic Geology. The geological map of Texas as will be of almost incalculable value to oil interest and others who may be seeking information in regard to the underground resources of the State. Complete geological maps have been made of only a few of the States. The oil development of Texas created a great demand for information along these lines and this fact was the principal cause for the undertaking of the work, it was stated. The operations of oil companies in different fields and localities have brought to light valuable data that were made available in the making of the State-wide geological survey.

Inaugural Dress

This dress was worn at the inauguration of two presidents, namely George Washington in 1789, and Andrew Jackson, in 1829. Mrs. E. B. Hollinger, of San Angelo, Texas, who wears it above, hopes to wear it at the inauguration of John N. Garner as next president, she says. Mary Curtis wore it at Washington's inauguration and a niece of John Tyler, himself a president, wore it at the inauguration of Jackson. Both were cousins of Mrs. Hollinger's great-great-grandmother.

Mexican Caught On River With Stolen Goods

A Mexican laborer, who has been working for several months on the John Caruthers ranch southeast of here, stole a couple of saddles and horses Monday night and left. Soon as the theft was discovered Caruthers, accompanied by Levi Hinds and a Mexican started in pursuit of the Mexican. He was overtaken at the Rio Grande River and the stolen goods recovered. The Mexican accompanied the men back and was brought in here Tuesday night and lodged in the county jail.

Officers are making further investigation of the case and the Mexican will probably have to remain in jail here until the grand jury meets in July.

The Mexican gave his name as Eudibo Ybarra and has a family residing in Del Rio.

The regular May term of County Court opened on Monday of this week with County Judge G. J. Henshaw presiding.

There is a very light docket and on Thursday of this week the probate docket was set, very little being done in probate work.

Eight Cents Is Average Advance

By SAM ASHBURN
SAN ANGELO, May 4.—Advances made by the National Wool Marketing Corporation on 100,000 pounds of wool shipped Tuesday through the Sonora Wool and Mohair Company averaged 8 cents a pound. Top advance on the Sonora Shipment to the co-op warehouses in Boston was 9 1-2 cents a pound, officials announced.

Announcement of the advance was made simultaneously with the shipment of 1,000,000 pounds of wool consigned to the co-ops from warehouses in San Angelo, Brady and Menard. No advance was announced on this huge shipment, also destined to the co-op headquarters in Boston.

TALP WOOL SOLD

SAN ANGELO, May 4.—The consignment of 400,000 pounds of wool to Hallowell, Jones and Donald of Boston, by the Talpa Wool Warehouse, of Talpa, was reported here. About 150,000 pounds of the wool is now on hand. First of the wool moves out next week. Advances ranged up to and including 7 cents a pound. This does not mean the wool is worth no more.

Offers to consign wools have been made to the Brady territory at prices of 7 to 9 cents a pound.

The many friends in this city of the late W. H. Lemons will be glad to learn that his mother, Mrs. J. H. Lemons, is now slowly recovering from a serious illness and hopes soon to visit relatives here.

Carl Wease, accompanied by his mother and daughter Dorothy of Del Rio visited with Mrs. Luella Lemons and family last Saturday.

FT. CLARK POST TO BE RETAINED BY ARMY STAFF

To Abandon Posts At Brownsville and Marfa, Texas

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Abandonment of Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa and Fort Brown at Brownsville, and re-organization of other Texas Border Army Posts, has finally been determined upon by the War Department and will be started January 1, 1933, Speaker John Garner was informed by Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, deputy chief of staff.

The First Cavalry at Fort D. A. Russell will be moved to Camp Knox, Ky., where it will be motorized, while headquarters of the 12th Cavalry at Fort Brown will be transferred to Fort McIntosh at Laredo.

No change will be made at Fort Clark, but Fort Bliss at El Paso will be augmented by the Eighth Engineers from McIntosh.

Opposition Not Regarded

Plans for the Texas abandonments and re-organization have been under way at the War Department for several years, but protests of Texas senators and congressmen have successively delayed putting them into effect.

While Speaker Garner, after receiving the letter from General Moseley, at once announced that he would oppose abandoning of Fort Brown, and Representative Ewing Thomason of El Paso made a similar statement with regard to D. A. Russell, the deputy chief's letter indicated that the department is prepared to take a vigorous stand in support of the program.

Confiscation of Rum Cars Upheld Under Tariff Law

A debatable question among Del Rio attorneys regarding the confiscation of automobiles used in importing liquor into the United States has been settled by a ruling of the United States Supreme Court.

The court ruled that automobiles used in importing liquor are subject to confiscation under the tariff law and the government is not required to take action against them under the prohibition law. Forfeiture is not claimed where the owner can prove the automobile was stolen.

The court held that automobiles used for transportation of smuggled liquor are subject to prosecution under the prohibition law. It first has to be established, however, that the car was not used in bringing the contraband into the United States.—Del Rio Evening News.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK

Education is our biggest business. It is our only indispensable business. If we were to suppress our educational system for a single generation the equipment would decay, the most of our people would die of starvation, and intellectually and spiritually we would slip back four thousand years in human progress.—President Hoover.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Thrift carried Tom Mansfield to Del Rio last Saturday night where he went to have his injuries treated following an automobile accident. They were accompanied by Francis Mansfield. They all returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rogers and sons spent the week end in Valentine with relatives.

Burt Kincaid of Ft. Stockton attended the American Legion dance here last Saturday night.

Really Wet

Walter J. Reid, candidate for congress in the Dallas district, is so dourly inclined that he has had his name legally changed to Walter J. Wet Reid. The legal change came after Reid attempted to file his name on the ballot as Walter J. (Wet) Reid, and R. S. Quillen, Dallas County executive committeeman, wouldn't let him. "Now Quillen has to place my name on the ballot like I want it," Reid says. He further insists that his political inclinations are as wet as his name.

TWO HURT AS TRUCK UPSETS NEAR DRYDEN

Ford Truck Demolished In Collision With Sedan

Painful injuries were received by Tom Mansfield and John Reininger, both of this city, when the light Ford truck they were riding in overturned on the Highway near the Dryden airport. The truck was overturned, when Henry Mansfield, who was driving, turned too quick to avoid hitting a Ford Sedan driven by H. R. Norwood. Norwood had moved over to onside to allow the truck to pass after they had honked and then suddenly turned in front of the Ford truck starting to go on the road to the airport. The light truck, which belonged to Buck Pyle, was badly wrecked, while a crushed rear fender was the only damage done to the Sedan.

Tom Mansfield suffered a brok-left arm, while Reininger received a severe cut on the head. The only injuries received by Henry Mansfield was a bruised leg. Dr. Doty of this city dressed the wounds of Reininger, while Tom Mansfield was sent by Dr. Utterback to Del Rio where his arm was X-rayed and set.

BARS IN VILLA ACUNA FACED WITH CLOSURE

New Federal Tax Not Met By Dispensers Of Hard Liquor

Villa Acuna saloons and cabarets had nothing but beer to offer customers Monday.

Retail sale of hard liquors was virtually banned by imposition of heavy Federal taxes, Villa Acuna saloon operators said.

First class saloons, in addition to the tax for several hundred pesos monthly paid to the city and state, will be taxed an additional 1,000 pesos monthly by the Federal government effective Sunday. The new Federal tax scales down to 750 and 500 pesos monthly for the second class bars, with a tax of about 75 pesos fixed for the mescal caterment. The new tax rate be-erers.

The tax applies only to places offering hard liquors for sale. Retail sales of beer are not taxed.

Liquor was procurable Monday only in the wholesale houses, where the usual brands might be purchased and carried by the consumer to the cabarets and cafes.

Villa Acuna merchants said the bars and cabarets must discontinue the sale of hard liquors and wines and offer only beer, close their places of business or raise prices to meet the new tax.—Del Rio Evening News.

System Of Tests Given In Public Schools Of City

In any field of human endeavor, the most efficient results are attained when the worker has definite goals toward to work, and dependable instruments for determining progress. A definite aim enables the worker to direct his efforts toward the particular task to be accomplished. Thus, educational tests and measuring devices for practically all subjects in the elementary and high school field, as well as in the branches of higher education have come to be used as a means of giving teachers of their relative success in teaching certain subjects. Standardized tests and the types of information resulting from their use in the classroom are coming to be almost universally identified with good teaching practice.

In keeping with the high standard of attainment which this school maintains, a system of tests have been given throughout the grammar grades of our public schools this year. In the early part of the year the National Intelligence Tests were given, and then some three months later the New Standard Achievement Tests were administered. These tests have been given under the supervision of teachers who have made a study of tests and test administration. A comparison of the results of the tests show that they coincide in the measuring of qualities, abilities, and skills of pupils, and the efficiency of teaching. These tests contain materials of prime importance, the questions sample widely among the essentials over which complete mastery on the part of the pupils can be reasonably expected, and which they are given an opportunity to master in the course of study.

PUTTING OUR DOLLARS TO WORK

A few years ago the secretary of a commercial organization in Columbus, Mississippi, began to wonder how many times a dollar changed hands in his community in a single year...

At the end of the year each of these dollars was returned to the secretary by the local bank, and it was found that on an average each dollar had passed through 220 different hands during the course of twelve months.

If one could have interviewed one of these dollars he would have received about such a travelogue as this:

"After I left you I went directly to the grocer's till. My visit there was brief, however, for a faster entered the store with a crate of eggs and the grocer turned me over in exchange. I thought I was going to get a little trip into the country, but I never left the town, for my farmer friend took me down the street a short distance and turned me over to the shoe dealer.

"Well I couldn't take the time to tell you about all of the fine people I visited during the year, but I remember that one was the minister, another a workman helping to build a new pavement through the city, another a school teacher, who received me in exchange for instruction given to your children. I also visited a doctor, a lawyer, and a man working on the new community house. I spent some time in the bank and earned a little money while there for some of my friends.

"I feel that I have brought a considerable amount of happiness to the people of this community during the year, and I am ready to go out now and put in another strenuous year helping to build up worth while things here."

"That is what happens to a dollar that is kept in circulation. And it seems to us that the big problem confronting the nation is not so much the shortage of money but keeping what money we have circulating in a normal manner. How can that be done? Well we would naturally suggest that advertising is one of the most essential elements.—Fairbury (Neb.) News.

A HOSPITAL WOULD SAVE THE LIFE OF A CHILD, BUT HE WILL HAVE TO DIE

Too bad, little fellow, but you will have to die.

Some of the hospitals are full, others are running part time or not at all, because of the lack of money.

It takes a lot of money to run America's hospitals. Oh, yes, a lot of money, a billion dollars a year.

You see, we spent our money in the war. It was a very expensive war. It cost the nations of the world almost a billion dollars every four days.

The annual budget of all our hospitals blown up, in powder and shot, every 96 hours!—Bruce Barton.

I look forward to the day when we shall have a system of adult education in every state which will reach every man and woman as we are now reaching every child, and the librarian will be as important a factor in that place as the formal teacher or lecturer perhaps the most inspiring factor.—John H. Finley, editor, New York Times.

Texas Industrial Activities

Thru misinformation it was recently stated in this column that the San Angelo Foundry & Machine Co. had increased its capitalization from $40,000 to $50,000, when it should have been from $40,000 to $100,000, according to a letter from that company. Increase was made to handle the manufacture and marketing of the Lowen Universal Farm Tractor Impement, which will do the work of virtually all tractor-drawn farm implements from plowing to harvesting.

A pipe line from Midland to Tipobampo, Mexican port on the Pacific side, is projected. Plans for a $10,000 bridge across the intra-coastal canal near Port Arthur are about completed. The U. S. Cold Storage Corporation has leased quarters in the Santa Fe terminal warehouse, Dallas, for a cold storage plant.

New Texas industrial incorporations include Ozonized Water Co., Dallas; Clark Tool Co., Gladewater; Western Pneumatic Co., San Antonio; Coca-Cola Bottling plants, Cleburne and Fort Worth; Mexican Arts & Crafts Co., San Antonio; Ethical Products Co., Waco (Medicinal preparations.)

Commercial rabbit raisers believe a packing plant for rabbit meat and a tannery for handling the skins would be a profitable new industry in Texas. Relatively few citizens outside of those interested in the industry have any idea of the growing value of rabbit production in Texas.

What a modern milk plant is worth to a community is indicated by the fact that the Borden Co. plant at Waco last year paid to the farmers of McLennan and adjoining counties more than a half million dollars for milk and cream.

Texas cotton mills consume only about 2 per cent of the States cotton, but make a better showing than wool and mahair mills, which represent exactly 0 per cent of the State's huge production of those articles.

Texas has 282,100 cotton spindles in its several textile mills.

A duplex cotton fabric particularly suitable for packaging of potatoes and onions has been developed in North Carolina. Approximately 100,000 bales of cotton annually would be needed to move the U. S. potato crop alone if only cotton bags were used for their packing.

Texas produced $9,326,515 worth of furniture, mattresses and bed springs in 1929, (U. S. Census), involving the work of 2,194 employees with a total payroll of $2,587,190. Texas is annually consuming the product of more than 17,500 furniture workers, whose payroll is estimated at $26,250,000 a year.

Texas is one of the seven States producing annually a billion or more feet of lumber, the 1930 (U. S. Census) total being 1,045,262,000 board-measure feet. Yellow pine represented 881,726 feet, hardwoods 156,981 feet.

At the bottom of all newspaper and magazine advertisements of the Postex Cotton Mills appears this line: "Subscribers to Progressive Texans, Inc." Many of the members are using the same line at the bot-

Milady Names Wool As Favorite For 1932

Wool is becoming more popular every day. The modern Miss realizes the wonderful improvement made in this fabric, over the coarse rough materials our grandmothers wore. With the exception of heavy coats, caps and scarfs, wool was worn only in undergarments, so that warmth—its greatest asset at that time—might be derived from it, yet the homely fabric would be hidden.

But today—how different! Our modern designers have labored long and hard that we might be favored with a fabric we could delight in wearing so that the world might see it. We still have it in our undies, yes, but we do not stop there. We are so pleased with the soft texture and fascinating patterns and weaves of wool that we cannot get enough of it. The modern young lady may clothe herself in wool from head to toe, inside and out, and be ultra-smart.

WOOL MESH—can we resist its cob-weby delicateness? We marvel at the various patterns; eyelet mesh, drop-stitch, herringbone, horizontal lines, and ever so many more. Is it possible that this lovely fabric is really a product of the sheep? Its lightness and porousness Mesh is finding much favor in sport are especially tempting even in the hot summer months. Can you imagine our grandmothers wearing wool in the summer time? Mesh was very popular at all winter resorts this past season, where it was necessary for a fabric to be not only cool and comfortable but fashionable. In this respect mesh certainly "fills the bill" for our summer styles.

A popular set being shown in all the smart shops is the mesh sweater and beret. The sweater, in a pastel shade, has a contrasting dark band around the neckline. The beret to match is of mesh with a like band woven into the base of the crown. The most popular color combination in these sets is beige and brown. Beige and brown is much in demand in all outfits.

Wool in evening dresses a few years ago would have sounded ridiculous. Think back a little. Do you remember the first time you heard of a wool evening dress? Confess—didn't you think it a foolish idea? Didn't you say "It must be a homely, coarse thing"? Then do you recall on seeing the first one, how surprised you were to find that it was a delightfully thin, lacy material? Well, time and wool fabrics certainly have changed since grandmother was a girl.

Wool plays a leading part in the wardrobe of Miss 1932. It leads in popularity for sport, daytime, beach and evening wear. It is truly a fabric which may be worn from "head to toe, inside and out."

Let's give three rousing cheers for our wool fabric designers in the success they have achieved. Their work has not been in vain. It is possible, they will go further and judging by the progress they have made thus far, anything seems possible. Congratulations, Mr. Designer, you are to be complimented on the fine work you have done in bringing wool to the foreground. The ladies are grateful to you for the splendid results you have obtained in their behalf.

Famous for the quality of ribbon cane syrup manufactured there, Crockett citizens are discussing plans for the establishment of a good-sized syrup factory. Governor Stanley C. Wilson, of Vermont, Says:

"Some of you can double your wealth within a year, if you will. This sounds like the statement of a stock salesman two or three years ago. But let me explain.

"Wealth is a relative term. A man may have a million dollars in gold on a desert island and still be starvation poor. On the other hand he may have little money or property but have health, a happy and comfortable home, and the esteem of his associates and be rich indeed.

"Some of you in the city are dependent on an income from investments shrunken to a point where it is extremely difficult to live respectively. If you can secure with that income twice as much in living comfort or live twice as well on your income, you can fairly say you have doubled your wealth.

"A family can live much more cheaply in the country than in the city. Comfortable homes with lawn and garden can be bought or rented for less than half city prices. This leaves more money for clothes, food, medicine, magazines, books, radio and automobile and other things that most class as necessities or semi-necessaries.

"In the country nobody considers manual labor demeaning. The wife is the housekeeper, just as the husband is a worker. Clothes are bought to wear and not to display a few times. There is a wide-spread between city and country prices for milk, eggs, meats, vegetables and other farm produce.

"A man and wife with an annual income of $500 to $100 a year can live comfortably and respectably in the country. With an income of $1000 to $2000 in the country, they can be comfortably well off.

"So, if you want to double your wealth, move to the country. In addition to financial betterment you will find real neighbors, people who will really care for you."

The Broad Highway

Not so many years ago a shopping expedition was a task calling for the expenditure of a great deal of time and energy. Roads were poor, particularly in the country. And, after having toiled to the market places, the shopper had to use unusual discrimination to be sure of getting the things that best suited the family needs.

All that is changed. Paved roads in city and country make transportation swift, safe and easy. And advertising is like one of those highways, leading straight to the mark, permitting speedy, economical buying. Giving information. Enabling choices to be made at home. Reducing shopping to the easy selection of brands known quality. Eliminating buying puzzlement and doubts. Saving you minutes and hours for other things—amusements, reading, culture, family duties. Reducing wear and tear on mind and body and money.

It pays to travel this new, modern road this broad highway paved with printers ink.

DENTON, Apr. 5—Texans should make use of the home grown products in order to cut down expense. Pecans and peanuts are grown extensively and make a splendid addition to any meal. Perhaps they are not used as often as they deserve to be included because house wives to often think of them as garnishes.
 Because they have real food value they may be used for the meal where hearty food is an important factor. Of course pecans may always be used in any recipe which calls for nuts but there are many recipes which call specifically for pecans. Nuts have been used quite liberally in the suggested meals but it is not intended that the two days menus necessarily follow one another consecutively.

MENUS

stop at Baxter's Curve," Trousdale said.

"I did not go to the door, and did not know there was any trouble outside until the train porter, or the engineer, called me and asked me to come and open the door. When I did so and looked out, there was a man with a mask on standing there, pointing a rifle at me.

"The train porter told me that I was wanted out there, that there were robbers and that I had better come out. The masked man told me to fall out with my hands up. When I did so, he searched me for arms and then made me stand back with the train crew.

After forcing the conductor and porter to uncouple the baggage and mail cars, he then marched Trousdale up to the combination car and made his call his helper out. Meanwhile the mail clerk also had been forced to join the robbers.

The front part of the train, with the robbers, Trousdale, his helper and the mail clerk, proceeded down the track about a mile, the robbers covering the crew with their guns. One stayed with the engine, while the other marched the clerks to the rear.

"Het hen carried us over to the safe in the baggage car and had me open it," Trousdale said. "I only had seven money bills in the safe, but I told him there were only two of any value to him. He took one valued at $2 and another valued at $37."

Takes Registered Mail

With the clerks marching in front of him, hands in air, the robber went into the mail car, throwing several registered mail sacks out of the door. They returned to the other car.

As they were passing a crate of oysters, Trousdale saw his chance and stealthily snatched up an ice mallet and concealed it in his clothing. Then he decoyed the robber away from the door near which they were standing by offering to show him a valuable package, declaring that he was not paid to fight armed men barehanded and that he did not care what was stolen.

The robber relaxed his vigilance and rested his rifle against his knee as he stooped to pick up the package. Like a flash, Trousdale swung his solid mallet and struck the man a terrific blow on the back of the head, dropping him lifeless to the floor of the car.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sims left Monday in their automobile for Corpus Christi where they will visit her sister, Mrs. G. B. Reece and daughter Miss Mamie.

Although in imminent danger from the other robber outside, Trousdale calmly snatched the dead man's revolver and rifle, armed the helper, the mail clerk and himself and turned out the lights. They waited two hours for the return of the other robber, and he was lured to the car only when Trousdale fired his rifle. The robber called out to his partner then entered the car, hiding behind a trunk about 40 feet away from the trio which waited in the darkness at the other end of the car.

Packages Contained $66,000.

"In about five minutes," Trousdale said, "I saw the man's head sticking out from behind the trunk. I fired one shot, the bullet striking him about an inch and a half above the eye. After waiting about an hour, we pulled the air cord and the engineer backed the engine and baggage cars back to the coaches."

A later check of the registered mail pouches revealed that they contained $6,000. All were recovered from the ground where the robber had thrown them.

Seven weapons, several dynamite sticks, an infernal machine and a quantity of nitroglycerine were removed from the clothing of the dead robbers.

Trousdale received a reward of $1,000 from Wells Fargo and Company and $500 from the G. H. & S. A. Railway Company, but the government so far has failed to officially recognize his heroism.

Trousdale is an employee of the Railway Express Agency here.—San Antonio Express.

CHEAPER

At No Sacrifice In Quality

In spite of recent general reductions in living costs, according to the annual report on the subject by the National Industrial Conference Board, the cost of living has not reached pre-war levels. At the close of 1931 it was still 34 per cent higher than in July, 1914.

During this same period, however, the average cost of domestic electric service has decreased 32 per cent below the July, 1914, average.

Electric service accounts for little more than 1 per cent of the average household budget.

For a few dollars a month, electricity lights your home and operates electrical appliances which have contributed so much to the efficient management of the home and added immeasurably to its comforts and conveniences.

The steady decline in the cost of that service has not brought with it any sacrifice in "quality." Whether you use much or little, electrical energy is always there, ready to be brought into use by the pressing of a button or the flick of a switch.
