R. E. THOMASON FIGHTS REMOVAL OF MARFA POST

Amendment Offered Seeks To Prevent Abandonment Of Post

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The War Department's attitude in proposing to abandon a million dollar military establishment in order to create a similar one elsewhere was sharply criticized in the House of Representatives by Congressman R. E. Thomason of the 16th Texas district in a recent speech. Congressman Thomason offered an amendment to the War Department appropriation bill which would have prevented the removal of Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa before the end of another fiscal year but the amendment was ruled germane to the bill.

"This amendment seeks to prevent the abandonment of this post at a cost of more than a million dollars during this fiscal year," congressman Thomason said. "It is a matter of economy and protection. All thru this bill are items for the transportations of soldiers, and I hold in my hand a letter from General Mosely, the deputy chief of staff, written last week to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, in which he said that on the first day of next January they are going to move the soldiers from Fort Russell to Camp Knox, Ky.

"It strikes me that Congress ought to have something to say about that when the taxpayers are the ones paying for it. For the time

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK

Industry, Refinement, and Character Mark a Successful Life.

Every successful life is marked by industry, by refinement, and by character. Of all the best men and women you know, not one is a loafer; not one is a crook. All are faithful workers; all are fitted to enjoy some of the best things of life; all are clean, wholesome, and upright in mind and heart, and are unselfishly serving their fellow men.

School life is intended to develop these three qualities: it helps boys and girls to find suitable work and fits them to do it, develops their appreciation of art, music, and literature, and cultivates the qualities of sterling character. After school life is over, education continues in the same ways. Growing on the job, filling each position capably while preparing for the next higher job, keeping the mind alert for a larger and better service—this and only this insures promotion. One grows in culture as he grows in workmanship. Listening to good music, looking at good pictures, reading good books increases one's powers of enjoyment. So, too, with character. Honesty, cleanliness, self-restraint, and other virtues are strengthened by each successful battle.

The only rule for success is to keep growing in industry, refinement, and character. Such growth is the chief business of youth. The value of every course in school, every recreation, every task outside of school is to be measured by the way it helps you grow in ability to work, in ability to enjoy, and in ability to practice self-control.—Reading and Living.

When sunny skies shall smile no more
When waves no longer woo the shore;
When every sweet voiced bird has fled,
When every summer rose is dead;
When stars forsake the evening sky,
When hearts with love shall cease to sigh
When Silver mist deserts the glen
We may p-e-r-h-a-p-s forget you then.

County Agent Is Considered In Val Verde

Del Rio may have a county agent and home demonstration agent if plans being considered are found feasible by Commissioners' Court Monday.

When that is done you will be asked to appropriate a million dollars to improve Camp Knox.

Miss Kate Adele Hill, district home demonstration agent, and George W. Barnes of the agricultural and livestock division of Texas A. and M. College, appeared before a called session of Del Rio Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday to explain purposes of the county agents.

In order to obtain a home demonstration agent, each county must appropriate a sum of $1,200 which will be met by a like allowance from the State, the work being supported through commissioners' courts, state appropriations and appropriations from the U. S. department of agriculture.

The purpose of this organization," Miss Hill explained, "is to provide a living at home, to preserve the surplus for home use and to sell standardized products. Committees have found it effective to provide necessary food for charity through demonstrators, who have learned the principals of canning from home demonstration agents," Miss Hill said, and told of an instance where a certain community not able to support a charity organization, canned an abundance of surplus food stuffs, including meats and vegetables, which were given to the needy.—Del Rio Evening News.

Throwing DOLLARS Into the GARBAGE CAN

Stop needless waste... refrigerate adequately with I.C.E. or ELECTRICITY.

Spoilage Wastes One Dollar of Every Ten You Spend for Food

Ten per cent of the money you spend for food is wasted. One dollar in every ten is literally thrown away . . . into the garbage can. These are U. S. Government figures, proving the cost of food spoilage in the average American home.

Avoid Waste—Refrigerate Adequately

This useless waste can be stopped. Adequate refrigeration will do it. Foods kept in temperatures below 50 degrees are safe from spoilage. Above 50 degrees, food deteriorates rapidly, becomes unfit to eat. Waste is the result.

An Efficient Refrigerator Pays for Itself

If your present refrigerator will not maintain a temperature of 50 degrees or lower, you are constantly losing money. The dollars you pay for food spoilage will buy a new and efficient refrigerator in a very short time. Drop by today and see the latest models. We have a complete line—both ice and electric. All are guaranteed to give you perfect food protection, at low cost.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

The Presbyterian Auxiliary celebrated the twentieth birthday of its present form of organization in a very unique way, on Monday afternoon. Invitations had been sent out to meet in a mysterious mountain cabin. Members made preparations for a long, rough drive, but all cars were soon halted back of the Pollard residence. Where Mr. Pollard has erected a sure enough two story cabin. Here Mrs. Pollard had collected a great number of antiques, some over one hundred years old. There were guns, clocks, a spinning wheel, candle sticks, stereoscopes, marble top tables, quilting frames, etc. These with strings of red pepper and animal skins created a real mountain atmosphere.
Twenty seven guests arrived and were welcomed by three sunbonnet girls, Mesdames Holman, Charlton and Savage. Also by Mesdames McCall, McKee, Lochausen and Roberta Lochausen, representing four generations in a mountain home.

A program telling of the needs of two Kentucky Mountain Schools was given by Mesdames McCall and Pollard and Miss Rosa Dunman. The offering for these schools amounted to $17.00.
During the social hour all entered into a contest styled a Mountain Wedding and Mrs. T. D. Moore provided the cleverest contestant and was awarded a split bonnet. A bonnet was also presented to the president, Mrs. McKee. The sun bonnet girls entertained with several mountain ballads, sung to ukelele accompaniment.
A wonderful display of quilts, old and new, was exhibited.
Lemonade and ginger bread was served the guests and all left, expressing hearty appreciation to Mrs. Pollard for her unusual party.

Those present were Mesdames S. C. Bodkin, Joe F. Brown, N. E. Charlton, W. R. Holland, P. J. Holman, Jesse Lochausen, J. W. McKee, J. V. McCall, Joe Nichols, Will Savage, A. F. WOOL NOTES

The belief that a good tropical worsted suit should prove to be the most important summer clothing item in the New York retail market despite all the "noise" that has been made in recent months over the prospects of linens, seersuckers and other wash suits, was expressed by a clothing merchandiser of R. H. Macy & Co., who expressed confidence that if the city were to experience a summer anything like that which made New Yorkers' sweaters for several months last year, tropical worsted would account for far greater volume than any other type of summer suit. An examination of some models discloses that fabrics have been selected with an eye to conservation and practicality. Their styling stimulates to a great extent that of the heavier worsted with the intent of satisfying the average man who dislikes being made conspicuous by the usual "loud" summer styling. The mills have at least awakened to the fact that tropical worsted must be styled as conservatively as regular weight worsteds without the bizarre stripings and loud twist motifs of former years.

Cool weather thus far and a desire to move spring stocks has retarded early sponsorship of summer lines: but it appears that plans are being worked out for launching line promotions in connection with the Memorial Day holiday. Thereafter, it is suggested, June is likely to uncover the main summer apparel drive of the season to stimulate consumer interest in comfortable attire for the Independence Day exodus and the vacation periods to follow.

Price Quotations

After having shown their fall lines for about three weeks, the leading wool manufacturers finally announced the prices of these goods toward the end of the month. Quoted prices were about 10 per cent below last year. There is still too much price sharp-shooting in this industry and its troubles will continue until practice is abated or eliminated.

Nitro Explosion Blows Two Men To Bits

Here are the first photographs of the nitro explosion which occurred Wednesday on the county line between Ward and Winkler counties near Monahans, Texas, in which two men and a truck were blown to bits. A man's hand was all that was found. Upper photo shows the hole left after the explosion. Lower photo shows all that could be found of the truck. The two men were identified as Oklahoma oil workers.

wool season on April 1, 1932 apparently were much smaller than at that time last year. The increase of 22 million pounds in domestic production in 1931 was offset by a decline in imports of combing and clothing wool. The increase of 20 per cent in reported consumption thus served to reduce the heavy stocks of wool available at the beginning of the 1931 season.—Summary of the U. S. Dept., of Agriculture.

National Builds Confidence

Confidence has grown in the wool market since the announcement by the National Wool Marketing corporation that it is now ready to handle the entire wool clip of the United States for 1932. The cooperative marketing agency for 35,000 wool growers also brought better feeling to the wool trade with its statement that "wool remaining from the 1931 clip will be marketed to orderly mill demand as in the past, having in mind the protection of values."

Color Changes in Cloth

One of the favorable trends to help wool cloth consumption is the start to put more color in fabrics. To some extent, this is being helped by the favor shown tweeds in a few quarters. Mills are watching eagerly to determine public acceptance of the new designs. Light to medium shades have so far been given precedence in initial tropical worsted and summer fabric orders.

Men's Wear

The men's wear market continues stagnant, but with a slightly better feeling existent in general business conditions the future seems a little brighter. A restoration of something that resembles confidence in the future, and a fairly good assurance that Mr. Prospective Consumer is likely to hold his job for the coming year, would be just the needed stimulant to set the wheels of activity in this line into motion. The past month has seen the outlook the darkest yet, with every line painting the picture as dark as possible.

Goods Market Likely to Open Soon

While up to now little returns have been forthcoming from the goods market where fall openings have been given a cold welcome, reports from those best in a position to size up the situation state that sooner or later manufacturers will have to buy yarns in spite of conditions in New York. April has always been a month of uncertainty when Easter came early, and the generally adverse business conditions tended to accentuate the listlessness this year. By the end of this month however, it seems fair to state that a slow movement should be under way in spinning centers which should reach its high point by mid-summer.

Mills Reopened

Four of the mills closed by the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, Manchester, N. H., several weeks ago, when the management found it could not operate them without serious financial loss are being reopened. Several hundred operatives have already been recalled and many more, it is believed, will soon return to their jobs. The worsted department appears to be in the best position, with sufficient orders on hand to insure the present force steady work until summer.
