Bessie Sharp Murder Case Has Been Set For Trial In Del Rio November 22

According to news dispatch from Del Rio the Bessie Sharp murder case has been set for trial to come up in that city on Tuesday, November 22. Mrs. Sharp has been in the Val Verde County jail and at a State institution for observation, since the case was given a change of venue at the January term of District Court of this year.

Mrs. Sharp is accused of the poison murder of her husband Telefus Sharp, and was indicted at the July 1931 term by the Terrell County grand jury. She was granted a continuance of trial at that term as several of her witnesses were unable to get here for court. When the case came up for trial at the January term of this year a change of venue was granted and the case transferred to Del Rio, Val Verde County.

In a written confession given to officials shortly after the crime, the woman stated that she administered strychnine so that she might be free to wed Willie Bursleson, her paramour lover.

Both Bursleson and Sharp were employed on the Big Canyon Ranch in this county at the time the crime was supposed to have been committed.

Topping the kid mohair market for the Fall at 35 cents a pound, Frank M. Montague with warehouses at Comfort sold between 40,000 and 50,000 pounds of his clip to John Allison, agent for Adams & Leland, Boston.

Advising against prices offered several weeks ago, Mr. Montague held his clip until he procured 10 cents a pound more for his mohair than any other warehouse in the State.—Del Rio Evening News.

OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Last minute responses were made by several to take advantage of the special rate offered by the Times for a year's subscription at $1.50 a year. Several spoke to us asking that we continue sending the paper as they could not afford to be without it and would pay for same as they could. We appreciate this and will be glad to continue sending the paper to those whose subscription are now in arrears if only they will let us know. Some, however, who are far behind with their subscription will be cut off after this week unless other arrangements are made to continue the paper. We regret to do this and only hope that we will not have to resort to cutting off subscribers. Yet we cannot continue sending the paper unless an effort is made to pay for it.

Those who have paid up since our last issue are Mrs. Gayle Mussey, Dr. A. P. Utterback, F. H. Talbot, W. M. Druse, Ruel Adams and Wallace Henshaw Jr.

The Editor wishes at this time to thank each and everyone both new and old subscribers, for their hearty response and only hope that we merit the confidence put in us.

RUSSELL MENZIES IMPROVING

Word has been received in this city by Earls Pierson that Russell Menzies, who was injured in a fall at Fort Stockton several weeks ago, was able to be taken to his home in San Angelo last Saturday from the St. John's Hospital in that city where he has been since the accident.

It will be at least two weeks before Mr. Menzies will be able to be up and about.

His many friends hope for him a speedy recovery.

YATES OIL LAND SUITS PASS TO HIGHER COURT

State Successful In Both California, Whiteside Cases

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Three land suits, involving approximately 4,000 acres of some of the richest oil producing acreage in the world, today had been passed to the Texas supreme court for final adjudication.

The cases were what commonly have become known as the Smith-Turner, the California and the Whitesides suits. All involve the locations and lines of blocks 194 and 178 in Pecos County and lines of other blocks as affected by any changes in these surveys.

The prolific Yates oil pool, in which reputedly is situated the largest oil producing well in the world, is located in territory involved in the suit.

In an effort to expedite the litigation, the third court of civil appeals today sent the California and the Whitesides cases to the supreme court. The Smith-Turner case had been appealed through regular channels from the court of civil appeals at El Paso.

The state was successful in both the California and Whitesides cases. The free public school fund owns large tracts of land in the disputed territory. The famous Yates pool is located on what the state claims is school land.

The controversy arose from discrepancies between course and distance calls in the field notes of blocks 194 and 178 for adjoiners with senior surrounding surveys and the actual ground positions of the senior surveys. Four methods were advanced by various of the litigants to determine the correct position of the east line of blocks 194 and 178.

It is between the east line of these blocks and the Pecos River survey that the state claimed a vacancy of several hundred acres and sold the area as vacant land. The litigation was started when oil was discovered on land that had been sold to Ira G. Yates.

The land itself is worth millions of dollars and additional millions have been tied up pending final determination of ownership of the disputed areas.

The certificate of the civil appeals court stated it was urgent that the controversy be adjudicated as early as possible and that since all the cases involved territory that would be affected by a decision in any of the suits, it was important that parties in all the suits be given a hearing in the supreme court before any decision was entered.

50 Million In Escrow
Royalties totalling as estimated 50 million dollars will be released from escrow by final settlement of the cases involving boundaries in the Yates field.

Many San Angelo attorneys represent various firms and individuals who are parties to the three suits. Charles Gibbs and J. W. Stovall are attorneys for the Douglas Oil Company, James Cornell and Robert G. Hughes represent Mr. Cornell and the Monroe heirs and the I. G. and Anne Yates Estates are represented by Jared P. Hill, vice president and manager and George T. Wilson.

As assistant attorney general of Texas in charge of land litigation George Wilson successfully handled the state's case in the trial of the Whitesides suit at Austin last winter. He recently briefed the Whitesides case for submission to the supreme court and will brief the California case as soon as a copy of the certificate from the third court of civil appeals to the supreme court arrives.

Attorneys are hopeful that the

10 Bushels Corn For Democracy

F. A. Rogers, Hunt County farmer and lawmaker, swapped 10 bushels of 10-cent corn for a $1.00 Roosevelt-Garner Medallion at the Democratic booth at the State Fair. "It's the only way I can do my part towards getting Hoover out and a friend of the farmer in the White House," says Farmer Rogers.

Visiting Officers Luncheon Guests Of Rotary Club

At the regular luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club held Wednesday noon at the Kerr Hotel the club had as their guests the visiting Air Corp officers who were here from Ft. Foster told of the future of the airport not only for commercial planes but of the value for air mail route between Houston and El Paso. J. E. Pike, Civil Engineer and Superintendent Construction told of plans that were being made to remodel and enlarge the present hangar at the port and also to make improvements on the landing field. Each and every one of these talks were enjoyed by the club members.

CUSTOMS PATROL GETS AIRPLANE

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 1.—D. S. Conner of the customs service aerial patrol, and his pilot, Robert Duvel, returned today from California with an airplane that had been confiscated at Los Angeles for smuggling of liquor into this country.

As San Antonio is the only customs district that has aerial patrol for preventing cargoes from coming over the borders without paying duty, the plane was turned over to this district, it was explained.

One similarly seized in Ohio recently for alleged smuggling over the Canadian border, was also turned over to the San Antonio district. These are in addition to three or more seized in this district for alleged smuggling of alcohol from Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Vaughan and daughter Geraldine, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Drake returned Thursday morning to their homes in Tulla, Texas, following several days visit here with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lewellen and family. Mrs. Vaughan will be remembered as the former Miss Thelma Drake and is a niece of Mrs. R. H. Lewellen.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Deaton and Miss Howard of Marathon spent last Saturday here with Mrs. Deaton's sister, Mrs. Guida Whistler, and attended the American Legion dance that night.

Second Shipment Red Cross Flour Received Friday

The second shipment of a car of Red Cross Flour was received here last Friday by the local Red Cross for distribution among the needy families of this community. Around 90 sacks of the flour was given out by the committee in charge last Saturday.

The first shipment of the flour was received in July of this year and the three months supply was exhausted about a week ago.

There has been a steady increase in the demand for the flour, most of those making application for it being Mexicans. As yet the committee has not made application for clothing to be distributed here.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY—By E. V. WHITE, DEAN Texas State College For Women (CIA)

Better make a good thing better than a bad thing worse. Laughter lightens the burdens of labor.

A fellow may be very ill until he learns there's nothing wrong with himself.

Self-respect forbids that you hate a fellow and then weep at his bier. When you quit thinking, it is well to stop talking.

Miss Vanola Lane, of Pandale was a week-end guest with Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Peavey.

Ranger Arch Miller of Del Rio was a business visitor in the city the first of the week.

Dryden Airport Inspected By Air Corp Officers To Recommend Improvements

U. S. CREDIT NOW AVAILABLE FOR RANCHMEN

San Angelo's Branch Made First Loan On Monday

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 1.—The San Angelo branch of the Agricultural Credit Corporation Monday reversed the normal flow of funds from West Texans to the government treasury by writing check number 1, opening the United States vaults to the demands of West Texas producers for monetary aid. The trickling stream of credit relief is expected to develop into a flood that will bring several million dollars into the trade channels of this section within the next few weeks.

There were no gold pens, no extra flourish, no gallery looking on, no pictures taken—the first check inaugurated the orderly process of a government bank to relieve the livestock producers and feeders of this area.

Immediate Relief Arrives

G. C. Magruder, manager signed his name to an order on the United States treasury, and the bars will be down for the first time for private citizens of West Texas to reach into the public vaults and get dollars that have been denied them from many sources in recent days. What this ultimately will mean, few dare conjecture; they only know that it is relief now from the stress of tangled economies.

Check No. 1 is not a lonesome one, for there are at this time 474 applications for a total of $5,698,192.97. Forty-four applications for $610,818 have been definitely approved. In these 44 instances some of the inspections have been made but in all the proper chattel mortgages have yet to receive final sanction before money is passed.

Organization Complete

All organization details are practically complete with the office personnel functioning at top speed and field inspectors ready for work that may be assigned them. Subject to final approval from the Washington offices, here is a tentative list of inspectors, some of whom have already been called upon to inspect the collateral offered by some of the 44 approved applicants:

MRS. BLACK'S FATHER DIES

Word was received here Wednesday telling of the death in Mexico Texas, of T. J. Farmer, 86, father of Mrs. J. R. Black of this city.

Mrs. Black was called to her father the first part of last week after receiving word that he was suffering serious injuries received when he fell from the top of a house. Death was due to concussion of the brain.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Ida Farmer, 4 daughters, Mrs. Joe Bramblet, Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. N. J. Crews, Waco, Texas; Mrs. J. R. Black, of this city and Mrs. W. J. Larkin Beaumont.

Funeral services were held in Mexico Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Black's many friends here extend sympathy to her in the loss of her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Prentiss were in town Wednesday from their ranch below Dryden.

A group of officers from the Corp Area headquarters at Fort Sam Houston were visitors at the Dryden Airport, and in this city on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The officers, who arrived Tuesday morning, made a preliminary survey of the Army airdrome so that final arrangements can be made for the construction of barracks, utility buildings, and provide a water supply. Recently an appropriation of $35,000 was made for additional improvements at the port.

The officers were guests at the airport during their stay. Tuesday evening the personnel of the port and their wives were hosts to a chicken fried dinner given at the Dryden Hotel honoring the officials. Following the dinner, the officers, guests and hosts went to the Dryden Community Hall where dancing was enjoyed until the wee small hours of the morning.

In the spring of 1931 many improvements were made at the Dryden Airport. Among the improvements made at that time were the installation of two new 80 foot radio towers and a first class radio equipment, for both sending and receiving messages; installation of an electric gasoline system, including a 12,500 gallon storage tank. Operation buildings, built out of stone, were also constructed during that year.

The group officers who were out for the inspection were: Lt. T. V. Foster, Air Corp; Capt. W. M. Allison, assistant to Corps Area quartermaster; Staff Sgt. Richardson, Air Corp; Staff Sgt. Martin, Signal Corp; J. E. Pike, C. E. and Superintendent Construction; A. D. Boyd, Hydraulic Engineer; and T. J. Rivas, surveyor.

The present personnel of the Dryden airport are: Staff Sgt. H. M. McCabe, Cpl. Laurier La Montagne, Pvt. H. R. Norwood, H. M. Moss, H. A. Mooney and J. C. Bell and their families.

The airport has been of great importance to aviation due to the fact that it is almost the halfway point between San Antonio and El Paso.

Carnival Given Last Friday By Parent-Teachers

The Halloween carnival given last Friday night on Oak Street between the Highway Lunchroom and Bohlman Confectionery was a success from a financial standpoint as well as a good time affair.

A huge parade, made up of the School children dressed in various masquerade costumes, led by the High School Band, paraded from the High School grounds down to Oak Street where the carnival was held. Following the parade the band played several numbers which received much encore from the crowds.

Various booths were placed about on the ground, as well as several games of chances were played. Each entertaining feature was well patronized and the scene was lent a carnival air by the throwing of confetti and the blowing of horns etc. A neat sum was realized and will be used to pay on the debt incurred in buying a piano for the High School auditorium.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS AMERICAN LEGION DANCE

The Halloween dance given Saturday evening at the C. A. C. Hall by the American Legion was well attended by local crowds as well as many visitors from nearby towns Comstock, Langtry, Marathon, Alpine and Fort Stockton. Many couples were masked.

Wednesday November 23, is the date set for the annual Thanksgiving dance to be given by the Post.

VOTING TIME

Next Tuesday, November the 8th will be the day of the general election when officials out be designated for precinct, county, state and nations will be named. The ballot in Texas this year is larger than ever and it is for this one reason alone that the voter should consider it carefully and closely when he goes to the polls to cast his vote. More so than ever, every vote should and must count in the general election. Too, due to the large ballot and the tedious count of same, voters are urged to go to the polls early and cast their vote in order that the judges and clerks will get through soon as possible after the close of the polls.

The polls in this county will open at 8 p. m. and close at 7 p. m. and voters are urged to keep these hours in mind and cast their vote early in the day. Let us state to the voters that when you do vote next Tuesday consider each and every fellow's name on the ticket for every office and vote for the man best fitted to carry on the public office work. THE HOME-TOWN PAPER

The Journalism department of the University of Southern California has been delving into the buying habits of newspaper readers and has made some valuable discoveries. Subscribers to the home-town paper buy from 12 to 21 per cent more merchandise from local stores than do non-subscribers. Of the people in neighboring rural or smaller communities, subscribers buy from advertisers from 9 to 35 per cent more merchandise than non-subscribers. This holds true, regardless of spending power.

The local newspaper, it is estimated, makes one of the largest, if not the largest, contribution to volume of trade in the smaller cities of California, and doubtless in the other states. The relation of the newspaper to the business world is more vital today than at any time in the past decade. The investigators are convinced that retail business in the smaller communities would be from one-fifth to one-fourth below its present level without the push given it by newspaper advertising.

"In such economic conditions as we have today," says the report, "the local newspaper is an inestimable asset to the entire community. Not only is it a reservoir of local and national information, but through its ability to increase consumption of local goods, it stands out above any other institution in community-building value. It can also be verified that without such advertising merchandise in itself would be less dependable in quality and price, to say nothing of the effect upon trade ethics and practices. For without advertising, there is no opportunity for the consumer to make comparisons of either goods or prices."

The local newspaper has to make quite a struggle against the big city competitor. If local citizens appreciated its value to them they would give it whole-hearted support.—Post Bulletin, Rochester, Minnesota.

SIXTY DISASTERS IN 1932 ADD TO NATION'S DISTRESS

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions.

During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 75,000 families totalling 333,000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,736. These people were in distress because of drought, flood, forest fire, tornado, snowstorm, mine explosion, or other similar great disaster.

Prolonged drought caused the Red Cross to go with help to 58,000 families in the northwest. Here in 144 counties in North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Washington and Iowa the Red Cross spent $1,980,000 from its own treasury to feed and protect people through the winter and spring.

Other grave disasters were floods in southeastern states, where the organization spent $192,000 from its treasury and $66,000 local contributions to help 18,000 persons.

More than $0,000 people were homeless from floods in tributaries of the Mississippi river and again the Red Cross faced a long relief task, aiding these people. The national organization gave $108,000 and local contributions were $10,000.

The Red Cross always maintains a state of readiness to meet these sudden emergencies, and funds and other essentials to this work are supplied, in part, by the annual roll call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every citizen can support this worthy activity through joining as a member in the local Red Cross chapter.

"The best music citizens of Waxahachie have heard in a long time," according to a dispatch in the Dallas News, was the sound of the whistle of the Waxahachie cotton mills, meaning that the plant was going back into operation and providing work for between 125 and 150 persons. It will operate for the present on a full day basis.

Although Texas is buying $50,000,000 worth of boots and shoes each year, there are only nine establishments, most of them small, in the State to supply any part of that consumption. The nine, employing 168 wage-earners and salaried workers and executives, have a rather high scale of pay, total wages and salaries being $184,548. Consuming $250,393 worth of materials, they produced $676,650 worth of finished products, adding $414,405 to the value of the materials and containers used.

The group of Texas & Pacific shops at Marshall, which were closed down early in September, have been reopened in every department putting several hundred employees back to work. Preparing coal gondolas for handling the Louisiana sugar cane crop and general repairs to seventeen locomotives also to be used in that work will be part of the shop operations immediately.

Servis Equipment Co., Dallas, which during the summer, sold an even dozen of its large motorized road-maintainers to the Texas Highway Department, announces that the department was so well pleased with the results that it has given the Servis Co. a second order for another dozen, cost of the two orders being approximately $50,-

000. The second lot of machines is now in course of production, giving employment to Texas workers. The Servis machines are made particularly to stand up under the heavy usage required under Texas road-building conditions, and the fact that the Highway Department will have approximately seventy-five of them in use when the recent order is filled is conclusive proof of the merit of the equipment manufactured wholly in Texas.

DENTON, Oct. 3.—Even though picnics may be planned for any month in the year, there seems to be more enthusiasm about a picnic on one of these nippy autumn days when the leaves are aglow with color and the weather is just right.

Picnics may be planned in such a way that little work is necessary. For the most part, a picnic for a large group of people will mean a great deal of planning and preparation, whereas a picnic for a small group can be impromptu and yet enjoyable. Some families have a habit of packing up most any meal which had been prepared for dining room service and taking it to a park near by. What if the food may not be hot as when served at the table, maybe the mother is a trifle cooler.

Another way to plan a picnic with little effort is to buy steaks, buns, tomatoes, fresh fruits or similar foods as you drive to the park. The preparation is all done out of doors and many times the father or children will enjoy helping out doors when they could not be inveigled into helping in the kitchen.

For the family that enjoys these evenings together it may be desirable to serve a heavier meal at noon and let the evening meal be lighter than it would otherwise be. The menus below may be suggestive.

MENUS

Breakfast: Stewed figs, prepared cereal, whole wheat toast, beverage.

RECIPES

Orange Sandwich Salad: 4 oranges, 1 pint cottage cheese, seasonings, head lettuce, salad dressing. Peel oranges and slice rather thick. Use only the large slices. Place 1 slice on lettuce leaf, place on this a quantity of seasoned cottage cheese. Cover with another slice of orange and press together to resemble a sandwich. Add salad dressing and serve.

Chocolate Wafer Dessert: 1 can chocolate wafers, 1 c whipping cream. To whipped cream add sugar to taste. Spread whipped cream between wafers, placing wafers close together in a long roll on a platter. Spread cream on outside of rolls and let stand in a cold place three hours. Slice roll on a slant, or in bias fashion. This gives an interesting brown and white striped effect.

Sweet Potato Souffle: 2 lb sweet potatoes, 1 T sugar, 1 T butter, 1 egg, 1 t salt, 2 T milk (hot), 1-8 lb almonds, paprika. Cook potatoes in skins, peel and mash. Add seasoning, sugar and egg (beaten) and the chopped blanched almonds. Add hot milk. Pile lightly in a baking dish and brown in oven.

AN ARMY Of Salesmen Who Take Little Time

When a salesman calls upon you, your subconscious question is, "How much time will he take?"

Yet an army of salesmen comes marching into your living-room regularly. They take your time only when you can spare it. They present their products to you briefly and politely, without a single interruption during your moments of consideration. They retire at your wish, or tell you more if you desire.

Are you learning all you can from these salesmen—the advertisements in your local newspaper! They come from the market places of the world. They bring the latest facts about the things you want and need, suggest other things you might want or need. They can make life more pleasant, efficient and economical. But you—and you alone—are the judge!

Can you afford to deny an audience to THESE salesmen? They do more than try to sell you something. They bring you the news of what your neighbors and your countrymen are doing in the world of business.

Advertisements do not ring doorbells—but they receive cordial reception from intelligent, discriminating people everywhere. Again and again they point out the only true bargains—sound merchandise at fair prices. When you read the advertisements, you are helping yourself to better things!

A SHORT SHORT STORY JUST PALS

BY PAUL HAWK

Each time Juanita went with a new man for a few times—and that was enough for him to be interested—she had to listen to this question from him: "Say—just how do you stand with this Gilbert Fairchilds."

Each time she would laugh amusedly and answer, "Just pals. We've known each other forever."

And when Gilbert became acquainted with a new woman, he, too, would hear a question: "Why is it you're always with this Juanita Paige if you're so interested in me?"

When this occurred, Gilbert would laugh and say, "Why, we're just pals. It's just that we've always sorta buddied around together."

Then, when they saw each other again:

"Say, J. You're accused of being that certain person again. Agnes hopped on me about you today. Rich?"

Juanita laughed. "Priceless. And guess what! Donald wanted me to explain just what my intentions were towards you, too."

"Isn't it funny how they're always mistaking our attitude. As if we could ever fall in love after knowing each other so long!"

"Right, Gil, ol' sport! Put'er there."

"Say J. Wanna go swimmin' with me tomorrow about four?"

"I'll say I do. Pick me up at Sally's."

Gil left his law office early the next day, and they were soon at the pool at the Lakewood Country Club. They jumped in and raced to the other end. Gil got out first and stretched out a hand to Juanita. She stood laughing on the bank beside him, holding her cap in one hand and shaking out her long golden hair with the other. She made a pretty picture with her blue bathing suit to match her eyes, and Gil was not the only one there to appreciate it.

"Ya' know, you create quite an effect," he remarked lazily. "Hear the galleries cheering."

She looked at his tall, well-muscled body, his piercing brown eyes, his black hair, and said carelessly, "You're something of a handsome brute yourself."

It was nice there. They lay in the shade, sometimes dozing, sometimes drawing a remark and getting a monosyllable in reply.

"That's the beauty about us, Gil," Juanita remarked suddenly. "We never have to be on pins and needles. We're always at ease with each other."

"Uh-m," said Gilbert. "Pretty soon he said, 'Carrying coals t' Newcastle tomorrow. Go?'"

"Sure."

Birds were singing, the air was full of perfume from the flowers and trees by the road as they whipped by. The drive was exhilarating, but Juanita was strangely silent most of the way.

"Trouble?" Gil asked.

The car lurched suddenly; then resumed its even purring.

The wind caught part of Gil's voice, but it was almost hearty. "Congratulations! Didn't know you went in for that sort of thing. Always thought you should get married."

Juanita seemed to regain her usual high spirits. "Aren't you interested enough to inquire who?"

"Who is the luck mastiff," Gil asked lightly.

"Martin Crenshaw."

"Whoops. Featherin' the nest well uh?"

They were carefree the rest of the trip until they were nearing home. Then it was Gilbert who became silent.

"Tell me," Juanita commanded. "Thinkin'," said Gilbert. Then: "Swan song of famous pair, what?"

"Why, what do you mean?"

"Society girl marries banker. Lawyer now free to attend to law practice. Success assured by reason of added efforts," Gil remarked facetiously.

"No!" said Juanita.

"But that's silly," Juanita protested.

"Wait and see," said Gil shortly. "Well," as they drove up before Juanita's house, lawyer bids adieu. Been fine knowing you," he said sincerely.

Gilbert was right. Martin Crenshaw, who looked and acted as if his three million dollars bore down heavily on his shoulders, propounded the inevitable question and was given the usual answer about Gilbert.

"But I'd rather you wouldn't," he told Juanita in a way that emphasized his belief in the importance of his preferences. "It just doesn't look right for you to be engaged to me and seen with him."

And that was that. It wouldn't have been that, however, had Gilbert not ceased coming around her, for Juanita had her own will. But Gilbert had said, "We're too good friends for me to cause any trouble."

So that was that rather than something else. And Juanita didn't see Gilbert for a long time, but she heard of him. And so she called him.

"Gil, I'm so glad you're engaged! I've always thought you needed someone."

"Thanks, J. It's not official yet, but thanks for the felicitations anyway."

Then it was true—or about to be! A little crease puckered Juanita's brow, and she was late coming down to meet Martin.

"Weren't you feeling well?" he asked.

"Yes. Why?"

"I wondered. Your're late. And you know that business men are always punctual," he said smilingly but in such a way she knew he was bothered about such a trifle.

She looked at him queerly.

The usual number of parties, of buying tours, and of arrangements to be made kept her busy for weeks. Despite the thrilled voices of those who congratulate her and the activities as the wedding date approached, Juanita was not her usual buoyant self. Something was lacking somewhere. She was liable to snap at the servants or her friends without excuse. She was liable to be found staring into space, equally without excuse. She ate as if on a diet; yet she was just right without reduction.

Then she saw Gilbert at a reception. Through a rift in the people they caught a glimpse of each other simultaneously. Their solemn faces broke into smiles. They moved toward each other. It was like sighting a friendly ship from a desert isle. She thought Gilbert looked slightly worn, but still he had never seemed so good to look upon.

"I believe I know you," said Juanita.

Gilbert bowed. "Madam, the delight at being remembered by one so beautiful moves me." He moved.

Juanita laughed. Come to think of it, she hadn't laughed like that since she'd seen him lost. A vivid recollection of their many good times came to her with a pang.

They moved out on a balcony. Hours later, although it seemed only minutes, they were interrupted.

"Gilbert," for the second time, "if you don't come on, I'm going without you."

"All right, Agnes," said Gilbert. He added in a lower tone, "Detest masterful women."

Gilbert stayed.

Martin Crenshaw came to the door. "Juanita, for the last time I must ask you to come with me or I'm going anyway."

"All right," said Juanita. "Pompous men!"

She stepped inside. "You can take this with you," she told Martin, handing him a ring.

Gilbert looked surprised when

W. O. W. MEMORIAL HOSPITAL SERVES LUNCHEON WITH PRODUCTS RAISED ON ITS OWN TEXAS FARM

Judge E. D. Henry Complimented by President Fraser for Fine Work.

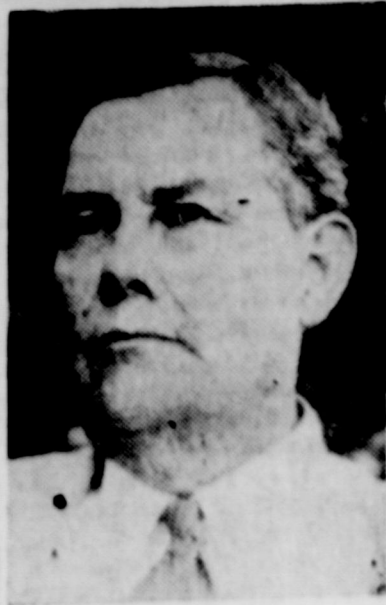

The nationally known Woodmen of the World War Memorial Hospital at San Antonio has one of the finest farms in the state and is doing much to bring about a greater interest in farming and dairying, according to President W. A. Fraser.

Judge E. D. Henry, prominent San Antonio citizen, is agricultural director of the hospital farm. Judge Henry is also a member of the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Each month the agricultural committee discusses some phase of farming, and recently dairying was stressed. Those interested in dairying in Southwest Texas were invited to a meeting and luncheon at the W. O. W. Hospital. They visited the hospital and farm and the new, beautiful William Alexander Fraser chapel and bird sanctuary.

The luncheon consisted of stewed and fried rabbit, roast beef, tomatoes, potatoes, sweet peppers, beans, cottage cheese, bread, ice cream and milk, all products from the farm.

In a letter to Judge Henry, President Fraser complimented him highly and called attention to the fact that Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association was pleased to demonstrate to the dairy interest of Texas what it is doing to promote its industry. He also paid tribute to the fine work of Dr. J. F. Koerth, medical director of the hospital, for the splendid results achieved in the treatment of tubercular patients.

Woodmen of the World has a fine record throughout the country. In its statement of June 1, 1932, it declares its assets to be $107,516,196.65, an increase of more than five million dollars over the previous year. Woodmen of the World wrote more than $41,000,000 insurance in 1931 and paid benefits during that year of more than $10,000,000.

"I wanted to ask you a question, Gil, do you still think I should get married?"

Something like a light flashed in Gilbert's eyes. "More than ever!" he declared.

As she turned to go, he caught her hand and pulled her into his arms. "But to me, sap," he added.

Still later, she said, "I think so too."
