Temporary Restraining Order For State Road Construction Ordered Dissolved By Court

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—The Third Court of Civil Appeals today ordered dissolution of the temporary restraining order given to James E. Ferguson and others by a Travis County District Court, enjoining the State Highway Commission from awarding more construction contracts at this time.

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—James E. Ferguson who obtained an injunction restraining the State Highway Commission from spending more money for road and bridge construction at this time, today made application for a jury in trial of the case on its merits in Travis County District Court.

Ferguson paid the jury fee and had the case placed on the civil jury docket, which is not to be called before Monday. Judge Carl Runge, Mason, will hear the case here because of illness of Judge J. D. Moore.

BOGUS DOLLARS MADE IN MEXICO FLOODING TEXAS

Excellent Imitation Of U. S. Currency Is Being Manufactured

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 6.—Silver dollars apparently counterfeited in Mexico and coming across the border are giving Treasury Department employees plenty of trouble on the border, according to Ed Tyrell, agent in charge of the United States secret service here.

He said the matter has gone so far as paying head tax for admittance to this country from Mexico with the counterfeit silver dollars. This money is supposed to be returned to the emigrant when he has finished his sojourn in the United States and returns across the border to his own country.

The dollars are made Tyrell said, from Mexican silver of the constituency of the Mexican peso silver, and this makes it hard for any but experts to determine that the coins are counterfeit. The best way of telling, he said, is to test the make-up of the metal in a mint laboratory.

The dollars appear just a little thicker than the bona fide dollar. The ring is somewhat duller than the metal of the United States dollar gives off when dropped. But the mold is so perfect that those receiving the coins don't always resort to the ring to determine if they are fake.

Efforts to run down the bogus coins coming across the Mexican border, and those who are making and passing fake Federal Reserve Bank notes in East Texas oil fields are keeping the secret service operators on the go, Tyrell reported Monday.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY— By E. V. WHITE, DEAN Texas State College For Women (CIA)

The honor of having money depends on how it was gotten.

No one believes fussing is an evidence of affection.

Investments in human life are more valuable than good bonds.

Genius ignores the law of averages.

The greatest misfortune is the loss of a small fortune honestly made.

Keeping your mouth closed may conceal either wisdom or ignorance.

The condition of Mrs. Lewis Lemons who has been dangerously ill the past week with pneumonia, is slightly improved. Two trained nurses, Mrs. M. B. Bullard and Miss Lydia Fisher of San Antonio have been with her since last Friday and Saturday.

Postal Rate Cut For Christmas Greetings

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—You can mail your Christmas cards this year for a cent and a half each—provided you don't seal the envelopes.

Postmaster General Brown today sent instructions to all postmasters to consider as third class matter all Christmas cards bearing a simple inscription and the name and address of the sender. When the envelope is sealed, the charge is three cents. Postcards, not enclosed in envelopes, require only one cent postage.

CITIZENS FILE INJUNCTION ON HIGHWAY WORK

Routing Highway Around Comstock Is Opposed

G. A. Humphreys and other business men of Comstock have secured a temporary injunction against the State Highway Department and the County Court restraining the work on Highway No. 3 near Comstock.

Contract for the work on Highway No. 3 was let in October and was to have cost more than $200,000 but no work has been started since county and State highway officials anticipated the injunction suit.

Reasons for the action were set forth by the plaintiffs as follows: (A) Because defendants arbitrarily refused to hear evidence and give consideration to the claims of the plaintiffs with respect to the relocation of paid highway at said point.

Flay State Policy (B) Because it is more practical to construct said highway straight through the town of Comstock, in front of the property and places of business of plaintiffs, thence in a westerly direction north of the right-of-way of the T. & N. O. Ry. Co. to a point where the same connects with the proposed relocation of said highway where the same intersects the Pandale and Comstock road. That said highway could be constructed along such route at far less cost than the route where defendants are about to relocate it and it would be straighter and shorten the distance but the proposed relocation is due to the arbitrary policy on part of said Highway Commission and Highway Engineer to route all highways built in future around small towns, except at distance of 100 miles apart for the convenience of tourists using such highways in utter disregard of the rights and interest of people residing in such towns and of plaintiffs' places of business and property which will be impaired and virtually destroyed thereby.

(C) That such action amounts to and constitutes taking and damaging the property and businesses of plaintiffs in violation of Section 17, Article 1 of the constitution of Texas.

(D) That such relocation was ordered without notice to or hearing by these plaintiffs and in violation of Section 19 of Article 1 of the constitution of Texas.

Hearing Set Dec. 15 (E) For all of the aforesaid reasons such action is violation of the fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States of America.

(F) That such action was taken without posting or giving the notices required by law, in disregard of the constitution and laws of Texas.

A hearing will be held before Judge Joseph Jones in the 63rd District Court at 10 o'clock the morning of December 15.—Val Verde County Herald.

There are quite a few cases of influenza and some pneumonia prevalent in our city this week. It is to be hoped that soon all are well.

LOCAL LABORER ON RAILROAD MEETS DEATH

Theory Advanced That Man Might Have Been Murdered

Esidro Arsate, a member of a section crew working out of Sanderson, and who had been connected with the Southern Pacific railroad for many years was instantly killed early Tuesday morning in the yards here at Marfa, when a freight train passed over his body, severing the head.

It is understood that Arsate had come over from Sanderson to be with his wife during her confinement and that he was planning to resume his duties. In some manner he lost his footing in attempting to board the freight train during the early morning hours and was run over by the train.

It is understood that his wife is very sick and that an attempt has been made to keep the sad news from her until such a time as she is stronger. There are several small children in the family besides the new born babe.

The body was prepared for burial by Young's Undertaking Parlor and interment made in the Mexican cemetery.

During Tuesday the theory was advanced that the victim of the accident might have been murdered and his body thrown under the wheels of the train to cover up the crime. Officers made an investigation at the scene of the accident. A large number of "hoboes" usually gather in this section of the city especially when a freight train is getting out of town, and the theory is advanced that it is possible for a man to have been killed by one of these hoboes in the hope that he might have had some money on his person. According to Undertaker Young, he had no money, but did have a return pass over the Southern Pacific to Sanderson.

—Big Bend Sentinel, Marfa. Arsate was employed on the C. F. Haass section gang and left here on November 18th, going to Marfa where he was called on account of the serious illness of his wife. He has worked here on the section gang for a number of years.

Carl Kartes, candidate for county judge of Kinney County in the November general election, has filed a suit in Brackettville contesting the election of his opponent, John S. Fritter.

Kartes charges that in the canvass of the votes a number of absentee ballots cast for Fritter were illegal and that a number of voters qualified illegally.

Fritter won the office by six votes, and Kartes charges that there are some 36 votes that should have been counted for him that were not tabulated.

Toy Balloon Travels From Alpine To Ennis

ALPINE, Dec. 6. (AP)—A toy balloon released on last Halloween night in Alpine, during a school carnival, was found November 20, by Garland Williams of Crisp, Texas, eight miles east of Ennis. The balloon bore the name of Mrs. Lois McIntyre, Alpine, and in that way was identified.

Mrs. McIntyre received a letter from Mr. Williams stating that he had found the balloon on the date mentioned. The altitude, and the course it took in reaching its landing, is a problem for those versed in aeronautics.

NEW SITE FOR OBSERVATORY IS UNDECIDED

Cost Only Barrier To Davis Mountain Choice For McDonald Project

FORT DAVIS, Tex., Dec. 3.—If it were only a matter of deciding on the location, the McDonald Observatory of the University of Texas would be placed on Spring Mountain, 20 miles from here on the Fowlkes ranch, according to Dr. Otto Struve of the University of Chicago, who has just finished a series of tests. But the cost of putting the observatory here would be greater than at other points in the State he said and it is essential to consider the money angle.

The University of Chicago, which owns the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., and the University of Texas have joined in building and maintaining the observatory to be built from funds bequeathed by William McDonald, and Dr. Struve is a director jointly of both observatories. He and Dr. C. T. Elvey of the Yerkes staff made a test covering seven nights in the Davis mountains, three nights spent at the summit of Spring Mountain, 7,550 feet above sea level.

"Of the seven nights," said Dr. Struve, "two graded excellent, three average and two bad, which is exceedingly gratifying for this time of year. I am convinced there is no better place in the United States for an observatory than in the Davis Mountains. But the cost of putting the establishment here would be considerably greater than at some other points, yet the advantages to be gained might offset that angle. If it were a mere matter of location Spring Mountain would be chosen. The McDonald Observatory would then be the highest point in the world."

He said that he had arrived at no decision in his own mind for the final location. It will require at least a year and a half to cast and polish the 80-inch mirror to be used and there is no hurry, he said, about deciding the location. Further tests, such as have just been made, will be made in the windy season of March and April, the astronomers said.

The new McDonald mirror will be made of what is believed will be a more compact glass—pyrex, requiring six months to cool and a year to polish. There will be no lens in the McDonald Observatory, but a series of six graduated mirrors.

REGAN STUDYING DISTRICT NEEDS

Senator-elect Ken Regan made a trip to El Paso last week and spent about a week greeting friends and familiarizing himself with the problems of that part of his big and varied senatorial district.

Mr. Regan is making a thorough study of conditions throughout the district in order to make the best possible representation of the district when the legislature convenes shortly after the first of the year. —Mentone Monitor.

The Bessie Sharp Murder trial which commenced in Del Rio on November 22 ended last Thursday afternoon when the jury reported to Judge Joseph Jones in 63rd Judicial Court at 3 o'clock that they were unable to reach a verdict.

News reports from Del Rio state the following: "It was announced in open court that the jury took a ballot shortly after being given the case Monday at 6 p. m., that ballot was the same as the one taken 20 minutes before the jury reported today, seven to five.

Judge Jones said that he had no authority to inquire if the balance of the vote was in favor of conviction or acquittal, and it was not announced by the jurors how their vote leaned.

No date for new trial has been set."

Just what the next legal move for Bessie Sharp that will be made is in doubt. Disposition of the case awaits action of defense attorneys, who have several days to file motions. Granting of a habeas corpus writ would mean release of the widow on bail. An adverse decision on the habeas corpus petition, attorneys stated, would be followed by setting of a date for retrial and it appeared likely that motions would be made for change of venue.

Mrs. Sharp is being held in the Val Verde County jail pending the disposition of her case.

RANCH BANK IS CRITICIZED FOR RUSHING LOANS

San Angelo Branch Has Loaned $395,600 To Date

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 5.—While the San Angelo branch Agricultural Credit Corporation had disbursed $395,600.35 in loans up to Saturday, and approved an additional $1,158,843.87, the main office at Fort Worth paid out only $125,000, approved some $900,000 and the Houston branch loans were much smaller, according to A. E. Thomas, Fort Worth manager who with George Buskie, R. F. C. official of Washington, were here for the regular board meeting of the local unit.

Of the total applications received at the bank 34 have been withdrawn and 191 rejected. However, a number of these have been resubmitted after revision. At the present rate of disbursement it is estimated that $3,000,000 or less in loans will have been made by February 1, 1933. The Fort Worth and Houston banks would show a much smaller figure if loans are made no faster than they are now.

It is understood that the San Angelo committee has been subjected to some criticism at Washington for having approved as large a number of loans as have been acted upon while on the other hand, residents of West Texas, anxious for relief, are clamoring for speedier action. Among those who conferred with officials of the bank was Tully Garner, Uvalde, son of John N. Garner, speaker of the House and vice-president-elect.

CHEAPER THAN CHARITY

This is addressed to the millions of Americans who have jobs and incomes and money to spend. Perhaps they haven't as much income as they did a few years ago—but the chances are that drops in the cost of living have compensated for their salary cuts and lowered dividends.

These million owe an obligation to the other millions who are unemployed, and are facing a winter of distress and poverty. That obligation can be partially—but only partially—met by contributions to charity. Of greater moment is the obligation to give their less fortunate fellows jobs.

All over the country there are homes in need of repair. People have been holding back and refusing to spend—waiting for better times. And yet it's as obvious as the multiplication table that better times will never come until money again flows through the business arteries, and into the channels of trade. Today we can do some needed re-roofing, repair the bathroom, build a new room, repaint the home, fix the heating plant and a hundred other necessary improvements for a fraction of what they cost in the past—and a fraction of what they will cost in the future when better times actually do appear.

Increased purchasing power is the vital need of the hour. More payrolls—more employed workers—more busy industries. Look around your property, see what improvements you need—and act, it's cheaper and better than charity.—Industrial News Review.

To Be Taken At Face Value

When you pick up this newspaper and read the announcements of this city's local merchants, of those national advertisers, you need never think to question the sincerity and honesty of their statements.

This reliance on Advertising has been brought about by Advertising, and it one of Advertising's greatest contributions to the satisfaction and ease of modern living.

An advertiser deliberately attempting to deceive takes the quick, short road to ruin. The insincere or extravagant statement may have its brief day. But the greater the attention it attracts, the sooner the public will discover and destroy its deceit.

The cornerstone of successful shopkeeping always has been "keep faith with the public"; give honest values and truthfully represent the merchandise and its service. This principle had to find its expression in Advertising—for Advertising is nothing more than the owner of the store or a factory talking with people in their homes about such things as shoes and soap, radios and rugs, blankets and bloomers.

It pays to read the advertisements. They are first-hand news of what is being invented, fashioned, and perfected in the workshops of the world for your well-being, comfort and convenience.

A SHORT SHORT STORY

Fortunes For Two

BY PAUL HAWK

His was a case of "nothing is perfect, but thinking makes it so." Really, Christine wasn't the most beautiful woman in the world. But Jerry would look at her piquant oval face with its so-alive eyes beneath her wavy hair that had a glint of bronze on each wave, or he would see her tall, graceful figure that he could recognize from a distance as far as his eyes could see, and an odd jerk from within would let him know that she was the most beautiful creature in the world.

Nor was she the most intelligent woman alive. But her ready wit, her sympathetic understanding of anything—whether it be humorous or pathetic—made him believe she was.

"I won't be gone long, Jerry," she said.

Jerry nodded absently. "All right, Chris. I don't mind waiting," he told her.

Chris got out of the car and entered a doorway in a building nearby. Jerry waited patiently in the car.

The whole trouble, he told himself, was that he loved her too much. His brow became wrinkled, and his brown eyes were troubled at this thought, for there was no helping himself out of that predicament. That was something he could not do anything about.

Not that he didn't want to love her! But there was always that matter of a constriction of his throat, as if his heart were up there she was near. And there was the other matter of words—many tender and earnest words—that crowded and jostled each other in an endeavor to be said; and yet they were words that he could never get his tongue to say. For was she not perfect? And what right had mere mortal man to speak of love to a goddess? All this was what he meant by "loving her too much."

Jerry ran his fingers restlessly through his black hair. He faced toward the spot where Chris had disappeared. Over the doorway was a sign on which his eyes lingered: MADAME SALOME—Fortunes Told. Jerry was getting the preaching idea when Chris appeared beneath the sign and thus took complete possession of his attention.

"I'll tell her all about it and ask her to marry me right now," he muttered determinedly to himself before she got in the car.

"Oh, Jerry, it was fun! Madame Salome told me a whole bunch of things. She said a great change was going to take place in my life within the next month!"

That was the psychological moment for Jerry! That was the time to tell her he was the change. Jerry took a deep breath and started. But when he heard his own words, they were not words of love, but "What is that change?"

Mentally he kicked himself. That was the way it always happened. Something would say, "She can't possibly love you, simpleton," and he could never quite tell her.

Chris said unexpectedly, "She didn't tell me that. I'm to go back in two weeks and find out some more. Oh, I can hardly wait! You believe in fortune tellers too, don't you?"

As a matter of fact, Jerry didn't. But for her he would have declared New York to be in Siam or the moon to be fresh Swiss cheese.

"I'll say I do," he said.

Jerry headed the car for the country. He told himself, "When I get to the river bridge, I'll ask her."

When they got to the bridge he told himself "Now!" and took a firm grip on the steering wheel. But nothing happened.

By the time the afternoon had sped by and he had taken her home, he had said "Now!" some twenty times—with the same result. When a brilliant attorney-at-law finds himself at a loss for words, he thought glumly, it's time to take drastic steps.

And then he got the idea! Tossing down a valuable brief—he couldn't concentrate on it anyway—like so much waste paper, Jerry dashed for his car and continued the dash until he arrived in front of the door marked Madame Salome.

"You would like to hear your fortune, yes?" that lady asked him. "Never mind my fortune," said Jerry, holding a bill in a very conspicuous position. "What I want is help you tell somebody's fortune."

"Ah-h-h!" Madame's voice ran the scale, and her eyes caressed the money in his hand.

"You will?" Jerry demanded. "But yes, if—"

"Don't worry about the pay," said Jerry. "Listen, Miss Carrothers was in here today. Miss Christine Carrothers. And she's coming back in two weeks. I'm a lawyer, and my name's Jerry Dameron. I'm in love with her, but I get tongue-tied and can't do anything about it. You tell her how I love her and advise her to marry me. Can you do that?"

"But trust me!" Madame agreed. "Now—"

Jerry paid her. "And you get another payment just like that if it works. And put it on strong, will you?"

It was nearly three weeks later that Chris met Jerry at the door with, "Oh, Jerry. Let me tell you about my fortune!" She took his hand and led him into the living room as if he were a small boy. "Jerry, the fortune teller told me that a successful lawyer is in love with me and that I'm going to marry him soon. She said his initials are 'J' and 'D', and she described him as tall, a brunette with regular feature—nice looking—and very timid around me. She said we'd be married the first of the month."

"Could it—could it be you, Jerry?" she asked breathlessly, and she didn't sound as if she minded if it were.

So Jerry wasn't speechless this time! "I happen to love you, all right," he said. "And I do want you to have and to hold forever. Will you marry me?"

"I happen to love you too," Chris said. "So I guess I will."

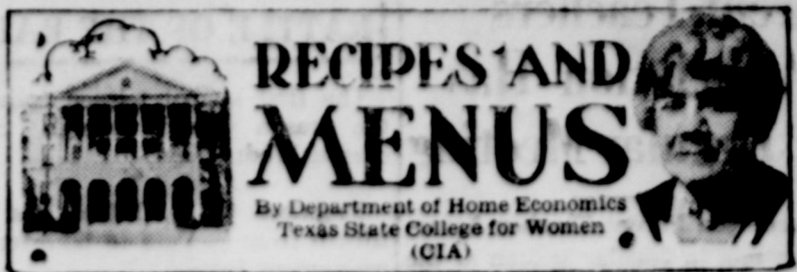

It was some time after the first of that next month before Jerry felt the urge to confess.

"Do you really love me a lot, Chris?"

Chris was emphatic. "Yes!"

Jerry laughed happily. "And to think the joke is on you about our finding it out! I bribed Madame Salome to tell you about how the young lawyer loved you and wanted to marry you! Remember—that day I took you to see her, and you said you were going back in two weeks?"

Chris laughed deliciously and pulled his ear. "That makes the joke on you then. 'Cause I never did go back to Madame Salome—or any other fortune teller!"

RECIPES AND MENUS

Texas State College for Women

DENTON, Dec. 8.—It is not merely a notion that we want salads and fruits in the summer and sweets and meats in the winter. There are physiological reasons for this preference. These cold days when the children come home from school clamoring for food it is probably due to the change in temperature, because the atmospheric condition has some effect on the body temperature. When the air is cold or damp or when the wind is strong we actually need more food to maintain the body temperature. The amount of fat on the body or the kind and amount of clothing worn will also make a difference in the loss of body heat.

Any loss of body heat due to these conditions can be provided for in the foods eaten. Each calorie of food eaten gives out a small amount of heat. It has been found that protein foods are more stimulating than fats and carbohydrates hence the desire for meats in the winter months. However, there is a limit to the amount of protein food one should eat so additional calories may be provided for by eating fats or carbohydrates. The menus which follow are high in caloric value and would be more suitable for cold days than for the warm days.

Breakfast: Sliced oranges, prepared cereal, doughnuts, beverages, coffee.

Dinner: Fruit cocktail, roast beef, baked potatoes, cabbage en gratin, tomato salad, bread, butter, date pudding, whipped cream, coffee.

Supper: Cheese omelet, Harvard beets, French fried asparagus, biscuits, jam, grape juice ice cream, white cake, beverage.

Breakfast: Stewed prunes, oatmeal, cream, creamed eggs on toast, beverage.

Luncheon: Oyster stew, crackers, raw vegetable salad, apple fritters, syrup, chocolate.

Dinner: Spanish steak, browned potatoes, creamed beans, pickle and olive salad, hot rolls, butter, steamed pudding, lemon sauce, coffee.

Date Pudding: 3 eggs, 1 c powdered sugar, 1-2 c flour, 1 t baking powder, 1 c dates, 1 c nuts, 1-2 t vanilla. Beat eggs separately. Combine eggs and add sugar gradually. Combine all other ingredients and add to eggs and sugar. Bake as a sponge cake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes, serve with whipped cream.

Grape Juice Ice Cream: 3 c milk, 1 pt. thin cream, 1 pt. grape juice, 1 T lemon juice, 1 orange (juice), 3-4 c sugar. Mix sugar and milk, add cream, add fruit juices gradually. Freeze in freezer as any other ice cream.

White Cake: 1-2 c butter or crisco, 1 1-2 c sugar, 1 c water, 2 1-2 c flour, 4 t baking powder, 4 egg whites, flavoring. Cream butter and add sugar. Alternate water and flour combined with baking powder. Fold in egg whites and bake in moderate oven.

French Fried Asparagus: 1 c asparagus, 2 eggs, 1 c fine bread crumbs, deep fat. Dip asparagus stalks in beaten eggs, roll in crumbs and dip into deep fat for about a minute. Drain and serve at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCright and baby left Monday afternoon for Anson, Texas, where they will visit relatives.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL URGES PEOPLE TO BE CAREFUL WITH FIRE THRU XMAS

Raymond S. Mauk, State Fire Marshal has sounded a warning of the danger of fires during the Christmas Holidays. His statement released today reads as follows:

"BE CAREFUL, don't let fire mar your Christmas joy. Fire Prevention, like Charity, begins at home.

"Business men and merchants are so engrossed with the idea of Christmas rush and business that they are not careful of the danger of fire and they should be reminded that it pays to prevent fires. Also, the average home is filled with the Christmas Spirit and unless every precaution is taken, carelessness is likely to creep in and turn some house of merriment into a house of mourning.

"DO YOU KNOW
That evergreen trees decorated with highly inflammable materials often ignite?
That cotton or lighted candles should never be placed on the Christmas tree?
That the cotton beard of a Santa Claus frequently catches fire with serious results?
That the old yuletide custom of placing a lighted candle in the window near curtains has cast many a cloud of gloom?
That small children should never be permitted to handle fireworks?
That wrappings from Christmas packages should not be allowed to accumulate?
That Christmas bonfires constitute a serious danger of both life and property?
That it is dangerous to start grass fires at any time?
That toy electric trains, motors and other appliances should not be attached to light sockets until all fuses and connections are in perfect order?
That pennies or wire should never be used in replacing blown-out electric fuses?
That the fuse is the safety valve on your wiring system to protect you against fire?
That the Christmas holidays which should be a period of un-mixed cheer, may become one of sadness because of the thoughtlessness of someone about fire hazards?
That about one fire out of every ten during the Christmas season results in a fatality?"

RAYMOND S. MAUK,
State Fire Marshal.

Mexico Printing Booklet to Lure Winter Tourists

Mexican Consul Lisandro Pena announced Tuesday that he has been notified by officials in the City of Mexico that a collection of pamphlets and propoganda on Mexico were being mailed him for distribution to those inquiring about Mexico.

Radio station XER, the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce and a number of private citizens are constantly in receipt of letters inquiring about Mexico from people all over the country, and these organizations and individuals have no way of furnishing the desired information, Consul Pena pointed out. The fact that the logical source of information on Mexico would be the consulate induced Pena to apply to Mexico City for the desired pamphlets.

The communication from Mexico City States that literature is being sent that will include a collection of post cards displaying scenic splendor of the interior of Mexico, folders of propoganda concerning the country, albums of highways, pamphlets on illustrious men of Mexico, histories of Mexican folk-lore songs, a collection of data on fiestas as well as a calendar of Mexican festivals printed in English and Spanish.

This collection is expected to arrive within a short time and will be ready for distribution to those applying for it at the consul's office in the Ross Building or writing him and asking that they be mailed.

CALIFORNIA TOURIST KILLS DEER WITH CAR

A California tourist driving a new Ford V8 Sedan ran into a deer late Tuesday night about two miles west of this city, killing the deer and badly damaging his car. The man picked the animal up and brought it on into town and turned it over to officers to dispose of. He said that it all happened so quick that he did not realize really what had taken place as he did not see the deer until he had hit it.

The animal's neck was broken, as well as three ribs and one side of its horns were torn off. The deer was a seven point buck and was a cross breed between a white tail and black tail which are very rare in this country.

Dr. C. M. Cotham and Dr. J. T. Hairston of San Antonio were called to this city last Friday night, for consultation with Dr. Doty in regard to the case of Mrs. Lewis Lemons who has pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Daggett returned Wednesday from a two day visit in El Paso.

Tax Collections During November Total $19,443.03

Reports from the Tax Collectors office show that during the past month, November, $19,443.03 in taxes were collected. Of this amount $18,437.03 was state and county taxes for 1932. Split taxes that were paid, the balance of which will be due by June 30, 1933, amounted to $15,742.77; while $2,694.26 represents the amount of full taxes being paid. The Tax Collectors record also show that poll taxes in the sum of $106.75 have been collected and that a total of $899.22 delinquent taxes were collected. The total amount of taxes collected for the school amounted to $5,445.91 according to the monthly report record.

The total collected for the month of November this year is not very short as to what was collected in November 1931, considering how hard times have been the past year. Tax Collections for November 1931 totaled $25,657.72 for state and county the records reveal.

W. D. Hunter, Deputy Tax Collector, expects that this month, December, a large amount of delinquent taxes for 1931 that remain unpaid will be collected as the penalty and interest will be charged against these taxes beginning January 1, 1933.
