

FRIONA
January, 1929
(Concluded)

Public Utilities:
Friona numbers among its public utilities a very satisfactory system of water work, which is constantly expanding to keep pace with the growth of the city.

Friona is supplied with electric light and power by a power plant of the Texas Utilities Company. This company is arranging to build its electric power lines through Friona within the next few months, which will take the place of the local plant, and, if possible, better the present excellent service.

The West Texas Gas Company has already extended its gas mains from Amarillo to Hereford, within 22 miles of Friona, and is planning to extend on into Clovis, New Mexico, and Friona being in line with this extension, it is only reasonable to suppose, will then be a patron of this very desirable utility, which will provide a clean and economical fuel for the city.

In the way of telephone service, Friona is installing a new and thoroughly equipped telephone system, which extends its service so as to include every residence and business house in the city, giving a 24-hour service with complete long-distance connections. In addition to this local service, rural lines will connect the city with all outlying rural communities, that lie within the Friona trade territory, which gives Friona the most complete and up-to-date telephone service on the plains.

Farming Conditions:
Friona farmers have adopted the most modern and efficient modes of preparing the soil and gathering the crops. Power farming has almost supplanted power, and tractors of all the leading makes are seen and heard on all sides in tilling the soil, while the combine has taken the place of the slower and more tedious methods of harvesting the wheat crop and in harvesting many of the row crops. There are, however, many fine farms that are operated wholly or in part by horse power.

The hundreds of fields of green wheat growing under the effect of the warm Panhandle sun and sufficient moisture, and the many more that will continue to be planted each season, form the "Cluster of Emeralds," referred to in our opening paragraph, which will continue to be an annual scene in the Friona Country.

Incorporation:
As the result of an election which was legally called and held on the 19th of March, 1928, Friona is now a duly incorporated city, doing business under the commission form of government.

Living Conditions:
Last, by no means, least, we will state that the living conditions in and near Friona, are abreast of those of any small city or rural community in the land. The latest and most efficient methods of farming are employed by our farmers. Our public utilities are gradually growing and expanding. Progressive thought is advancing. Our people are up-to-date in education, culture, religion and all modern conveniences, and play "second fiddle" to no one. Our schools are among the best. Our churches are religious centers.

Chants of the Chanticleer

A reader in a distant state, writes us asking why we do so much on what Friona has done in past years and have so little to say about what it is at present.

It appears to us, that if this reader and all other readers have been reading this column and the general news stories in the Star each week, they could hardly have avoided keeping pretty close tabs on our progress as a city, economically, socially, religiously and educationally. In fact, it has seemed to us that we have said so much about these affairs from week to week, that we have been rather afraid of being accused of boasting, or to express it in the common vernacular, "braggin'!" We just do not like to "brag," but, at the same time, we must Friona to show up fairly close to her best.

Friona, we have repeatedly mentioned the two large concrete grain elevators, that are now almost completed by our popular grain dealer, concerns the Santa Fe Company, which is the first elevator to be built in Friona, and the Friona Wheat Growers, Inc. These two elevators have increased the wheat storage capacity of the Friona market, to a little over one and fourth millions of bushels of grain. That is no little slouch of a pile of grain, and that does not include the gradually growing number of individually owned farm elevators, which farmers are erecting on their farms.

But probably our reader had in mind our growth in population, which, of course, could be only an estimate, and that is all anything we may say along that line could be. About two years ago, there was an estimate made of Friona's population, which placed it at about 1,600. We do not know on what basis that estimate was made, nor how nearly correct it was at that time, but we feel pretty sure, there are a lot of people here now than at that time. We have just come in from making a short survey of the opinions of several of our citizens as to our present population, and this survey runs from 2,000 down to 1,500. All estimates were made simply on a guess except that of the City itself, that based his estimate on the number of water meters now in use by the city. This made the estimate at 1,450, but allowing $0 additional for good measure, brought the estimate up to 1,500. One can see, however, that comparing this number with the 1940 census of 801, our city has not been standing still as to population. As to us, personally, placed on a guess, we would have placed the estimate at 1,800. Anyway, Mr. and Mrs. Reader, Friona is growing in population, and our guess of 1,800 would not have too high, if houses could have

Lucille Schur Marries Henry Kriegel On Flowered Stage Of Star Theatre

On the flower bedecked stage of the Star Theatre Wednesday night, Miss Lucille Schur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Schur of Farwell became the bride of Henry Kriegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kriegel, also of Farwell.

Rev. W. B. Gummelt, pastor of the Lutheran Church at Lariat read the double ring ceremony with the gold draw curtains of the theater screen forming a background for the candelabra and the baskets of gladolabra.

Attendants for the couple were Miss Edna Schur, sister of the bride who was maid of honor, and Miss Mary Kriegel, sister of the groom and Miss Mildred Meisner, cousin of the bride, who were bridesmaids, all from Farwell.

Groomsmen were Ernest Ramm, and Ariyn Kriegel, cousins of the groom, from Muleshoe and Albert Kriegel, brother of the groom who was best man.

The flower girl was four year old Bobby Kaye Kube and the ring bearer was Dickie Geris, both cousins of the groom and both of Farwell.

Since some of our readers have apparently not been reading this column, wherein most of the business establishments have been mentioned in previous issues, we will take this opportunity of mentioning a few of them again, but we will not have the space at our command to mention them all in one issue.

Friona has two wide-awake and well established produce houses, that handle practically all kinds of country produce, dealing especially in poultry, eggs and butter. These two concerns are the Friona Poultry and Egg, owned and operated by S. T. Thornton at 4th and Main.

The other is the Farmers Produce owned and operated by Eric Bushing. These two concerns do an estimated $3,000.00 worth of business each month. And that we think is doing a mighty fine business, especially when we consider that this is not consistently speaking, either a dairy or a poultry country. They are only side lines to general farming. This has become, definitely, a wheat country, finished out with sorghum grains and forage crops, while a few are still making livestock their leading feature in their farming operations.

Since this is definitely a farming country, it is only natural that one of the leading lines of business should be farm machinery and farm implements, and to that end Friona has at least eight of its largest business buildings devoted strictly to the handling of that line of trade. Beginning out on the highway we have the Herring Implement Company, handling exclusively the John Deere line of machinery; also the Friona Motor Company, owned by "Kater" Crume, handling the Ford tractors and the Deere line of farm machinery; then the Friona Machinery Company with J. J. Williams as proprietor, handling the Oliver line. The O. F. & O. Supply Company, handles the Case machinery, and B. T. Galloway with the Baldwin Greener and other lines of implements. Then going on down Main Street we find the Reeve Chevrolet people proclaiming and answering for all the merits of the Allis-Chalmers tractors and combines and other machinery of the Allis-Chalmers people. And down on the corner on Main and Fifth Streets, the Maurer Company with Carl Maurer as its vitalizing and functioning element, perfectly happy with the business he is doing with Minneapolis-Moline (M-M) complete line of farming equipment; and a little farther west on Fifth Street where we will find Granville McFarland ever smiling and cheerful, at the head of the Parmer County Implement Company which handles almost, if not quite, exclusively, the popular and apparently unlimited line of the International Harvester or McCormick-Deering farm machinery.

As we stated above, we cannot take the space to list and say a few words for all the fine things to be found at Friona, but we honestly believe that if our readers, both at home and abroad, will read this column, they will learn enough to convince the mthat Friona is a bustling, bustling, go-after-it-and-get-it wide-awake and achieving little city.

We will probably touch on other matters pertaining to our city as the weeks slip by. We may, occasionally slip off onto non-essential and inconsequential, but keep your eye on this column for matters worthwhile concerning Friona and the Friona territory.

Levelland To Have Rodeo

Levelland, Texas, June 30, 1949: This thriving West Texas city is getting into its best Western bib and tucker in preparation for the annual Levelland Rodeo, Saturday, July 2, Sunday, July 3 and Monday, July 4. All the trappings of a genuine western thriller are being unfurled for display at these rodeo heydays, by the hospitable citizens of Levelland. Sponsoring the Levelland Rodeo is the Levelland Rodeo Association, a non-profit organization of business men, cowboys, ranchers, and farmers—one of the oldest community rodeos in the Southwest. The Levelland Rodeo boasts one of the biggest and best rodeo arenas in West Texas, and features new facilities.

Tim Holt, famous movie star and son of a star, will head the great parade to begin on the Fourth of July. The procession of horses, riders and floats is scheduled to get underway at noon. The Lubbock County Sheriff's posse and other riding groups have been invited to participate. Immediately following this impressive spectacle, the final two performances of the Levelland Rodeo will swing into action one mile southwest of Levelland, in the new Rodeo Association arena.

In addition to Holt, Elmer R. Robinson of West Mineral, Kansas, will be on hand with his trained jumping steers, bull and sensational roman horse act.

Contest events which will qualify winners for a share of the $2500 purse, with entrance fees added, are in the best of rodeo tradition. Bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, bulldogging, bull riding, calf roping, team tying, and ladies' spurring event are all part of the thrill-menu to be served the spectators at the Levelland Rodeo on July 2, 3, and 4.

Modern site of this year's Levelland Rodeo is a new arena and covered grandstand, seating over 3000 persons. Also, there is a new Rodeo Association clubhouse, where dances will be held on the evenings of July 2 and 4. The Sunshine Trio, of Southwestern radio fame, will furnish western rhythms for both occasions.

Refreshments are to be handled at the rodeo by an experienced concessionaire. Arrangements have been made to care for all of the thousands expected to attend. There are adequate parking facilities on the grounds to care for large crowds at each performance.

Admission prices established for the Levelland Rodeo by the Association are: general admission, $1.50, and reserved seats, $1.00, both tax included. Tickets are being sold at D. N. Bills' Butane, Inc., Levelland. Cash, check, or money orders will be accepted if ordering tickets by mail.

J. L. Landrum, a former Friona citizen, business man and builder, but now of Tucumcari, New Mexico, is here visiting his son, Ray and family and many of his other Friona friends this week.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the local Methodist Church wants to remind everyone to save their IVORY FLAKES and DUZ box tops and CAMAY soap wrappers.

Take them to Foster's Dry Goods before July 31.

innocent heart, producing a wound that neither time nor wealth can heal.

I have had a long and varied experience, and speaking from that experience, in retrospect, I cannot recall an instance when I purposely or intentionally did anything to bring pain to the heart of my fellow men, unless, probably in the line of duty, but I can recall many instances when a thoughtless or careless word or act has caused great pain, and, although promptly forgiven by the sufferer, it is still a blot on my character, for the offense has been committed, the pain has been suffered, and the loss has been sustained, and no amount of forgiveness can remove it.

On the other hand, speaking from retrospection, I cannot recall a single instance wherein I have done or said anything calculated to increase the happiness or relieve the pain, either mentally or physically of my fellows. Such things do happen, but it occurs to me that they more frequently occur and I am not the only transgressor, for I hear of them and read of them at times, places, and under conditions of which I know not. Any way, they were instances in which I know I was NOT the transgressor. It may be possible that it were better had I been the guilty party, since many people think I am already consigned on account of my religious views to that place where it is said, "They never shovel snow," and it would seem like pure cruelty to consign two souls to that destination, when one could suffice.

However, this matter of morals is largely a matter of practice or customs of the people of certain localities or communities. I have lived in communities where it was deemed most unholy to do even the slightest sign of daily labor, even in wheat harvest, when a half hour storm might destroy the entire crop, not a "lick" must be done on the Sabbath day if a storm destroyed it, that was God's will and must not be questioned. They just blamed the whole thing on God. One time a preacher, who lived in another town some twelve miles away, came to preach for us every Sunday, and during the harvest season, as he drove through the country, in another neighborhood, he saw some farmers taking care of their wheat, and he was so filled with horror, that he could scarcely preach. He said it made his blood run cold in his veins. (Of course that was an untruth), but

It was a good illustration of the idea of what was moral or right in those two neighboring communities. Then there was another community where I worked a great deal, and the people there never thought of doing anything else but working right through Sunday until the harvest was over, and no harm was thought of it.
In one community it was thought perfectly all right by the best of the people—and they were good people, too—to have a dance every Saturday night, and perhaps a keg of beer, at some one of the homes; while in my community, had a man even thought of having a dance in his home, on any night in the week, much less to have brought a keg of beer in and asked his neighbors to come in and enjoy it with him, he would have been promptly ostracized, and maybe caulked.

I was so fortunate as to be well acquainted with the people in both these communities, and while there were no better neighbors and citizens, anywhere than those where I lived, they were not one whit better than those in the other community. Their only difference was in their ideas of morality and their methods of practicing them in their recreations and otherwise. I find no reason for criticizing my neighbors' ideas of morals so long as they do not develop into defiance of our laws. Some people severely criticize the practice of women smoking cigarettes or using tobacco in any form. I would not take the position of encouraging the use of tobacco by the ladies, but I stand by the theory that they have as much right to do so as do the men. Some of the best "old" ladies I have ever known enjoyed their pipe smoke three or four times each day. I have known one who chewed tobacco, but I have never known any better woman.

When you wish to dampen a seam before pressing it, fill a medicine dropper with water, run it along the seam. It distributes the moisture evenly, makes your pressing job much easier, and the garment is tailor-perfect.

A damp sponge is useful when pressing or ironing. If the material you are pressing has become too dry just run the dampened sponge over the material and iron.

Have Your Fireworks and Eat Them Too

Snow in winter and sun in summer usually spell playtime for week ends. Since Fourth of July falls on a Monday this year the holiday will be lasting from Friday night through Monday night. Holiday that is, for most workers but not for Mom unless the family plans to "eat out".
Chances are that at least one picnic supper will be held in the backyard on the terrace, or under cover should the day be wet or chilly.
How does this menu sound for such a supper, served buffet style?
Fireworks Fiesta Food
Tomato juice cocktail
Fircracker rolls
Pinwheel pie
Potato chips
Grilled Hamburgers
Radish Torpedoes
Punk Sucks
Watermelon
Coffee
Here are recipes and helps.
Tomato Juice Cocktail
Chill well flavored tomato juice. Four some of it into the ice cube tray. At serving time add a cube or two to each glass of cold juice. Serve with fircracker rolls. To make these, slice fresh bread. Cut off the crusts. Butter the slices generously. Spread with mustard or horseradish. Roll and hold in shape by inserting a toothpick. Wrap and keep cold. At serving time remove the picks and insert a slender strip of pimiento for fuse.
Pinwheel Pie
Buy the largest round loaf of rye bread you can find. Cut off the bottom crust. Cut two round slices, about 1/2 inch thick. Remove crusts. Butter each slice. Spread a thick layer of deviled ham on the bottom slice. Top with second slice of bread. Spread three bands of colorful food on the top slice. First band uses sieved hard cooked egg white mixed with softened cream cheese, horseradish, and chives.
Second band is made of sieved hard-cooked egg yolk mixed with mayonnaise. Add a little anchovy paste, if desired.
Third band is made of chopped cooked beets held together with a suggestion of a gelatin base. Soften 1 teaspoon plain gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water. Heat 2 tablespoons vinegar with 1 tablespoon beet juice. When boiling pour it over the softened gelatin. Stir to dissolve the gelatin. Add beets. Chill until rather firm, then use as the outside or third band of color.
Remove a slice from a peeled hard-cooked egg. Take out the yolk. Fill the opening with washed, perky parsley. Set the egg cup in a hole made at center of top bread slice.
Put slices of stuffed olives on white band. Cut narrow strips of pimiento or pickled green peppers and radiate these from the center hole to outer edge of round slice in a pinwheel effect.
Place the "pie" in a large platter. Surround with crisp potato chips, the more the better.
Years ago Fourth of July torpedoes were in the form of small balls. Small stones and a mild explosive were wrapped in gaily colored tissue paper. When thrown to the sidewalk the torpedo exploded with a bang. Round radishes may be called today's torpedoes.
When fireworks are to be set off, the fuses are lighted by applying a slender stick of a slow burning material which used to be called "punk". The carrot sticks can be of the same size, but not the unattractive gray brown color which used to identify punk.

Oldsmobile Appoints Two On Staff

Announcement of two important appointments in the executive staff of Oldsmobile was made today by S. E. Skinner, vice president of General Motors Corporation and general manager of the Oldsmobile division. G. R. Jones, who has been serving Oldsmobile sales posts on the Pacific Coast since 1933, has been named general sales manager. He succeeds D. E. Ralston, who has been named executive assistant to the general manager. Appointments are effective July first, Mr. Skinner stated.

Ralston has been associated with General Motors Corporation since March 31, 1919. He was assistant general sales manager for the Chevrolet division prior to his promotion as general sales manager for Oldsmobile on November 1, 1933.

Jones, a veteran in the automobile business, is a native of Texas. He school in Jackson, Michigan, prior to attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Oldsmobile's new general sales manager joined General Motors Corporation August 1, 1926, as a field representative for the Oakland Motor Car Company in San Francisco. He subsequently was name supervisor of merchandising for Oakland and was promoted to zone manager for the same division in September 1929. April 1932, when he was named zone manager for the then newly-formed B. O. P. sales division of General Motors. He served in this capacity in Los Angeles and later in St. Louis. He was promoted to Pacific Coast regional manager for B. O. P. in October 1933.

On November 1, 1933, Jones was named Pacific regional manager for Oldsmobile and he has operated on the Pacific Coast continuously since transferring to Oldsmobile.

Santa Fe System carloadings for week ending June 25, 1949, were 31,053 compared with 32,362 for same week in 1948. Cars received from connections totaled 10,086 compared with 11,431 for same week in 1948. Total cars moved were 41,141 compared with 43,793 for same week in 1948. Santa Fe handled a total of 34,700 cars in preceding week of this year.

MAKE FENCE MUCH FASTER with this post hole digger

Why wait to build fence because digging post holes by hand is such hard work? We recommend the Danuser post hole digger that attaches quickly to the Ford Tractor and can dig up to 600 post holes a day. Lifts and lowers by Hydraulic Touch Control. Pays for itself in time and labor saved... gets fence made quickly, between rush seasons or in spare time.

If you have seedling trees to set out, or holes to dig for building pilings or foundations, there's nothing like this post hole digger. Even use it for digging trenches... saves lots of shoveling. Several size augers... Ask for a demonstration.

Fine for setting out seedlings.

Makes holes for building foundations.
