ello Perk?"
"Three gallons of gas."
"Yes sir. Want some oil, too?"
"No, just gas."
"Car needs some paint. Gosh, just in some—heat-proof, fool-proof, and sun proof, and it's guaranteed."
"No, I just want gas—3 gallons."
"How about washing the car?"
"Tell you I just want gas!"
"Yes sir. But your rear bulb is broken. You sure need new ones. Some dandy celluloid ones."
"Say, can't you understand that I just want gas—just gas?"
"Sure. But that magnetto is giving an awful racket. I could change it in a minute. O. K.?"
"NO! Just GAS!"
"The man drove off the other side and asked, "Who was that?"
"I nearly made him mad."
"Oh, that was my barber. I was just getting even with him."

the Sanderson man we met is peeved over the dust storms. "You know," said he, "when I went home the other day, my dog looked so natural that, for the first time in many months I felt at home. There she was—a dog in one hand, an oil rag in the other; head turbaned with an oil towel, and was she chasing me. However, I made no wisecracks as I entered."

their up, men. Soon we'll all be a long-delayed relief from fighting females. Several states are now passing laws to murder alimony racket, and Texas is considering a bill whereby the fee of the species cannot take a court a breach of promise to marry suit.

another goofy scientist now advances the theory that cobra venom will bring relief from rheumatism. If what history tells about the venom is correct, it's a cure for all earthly ills.

the fear of the Lord is making heads to many folks, who believe these prohibition showers dry dust will continue until we are buried even as Pompeii, other ancient civilizations. The danger of this civilization be buried until it becomes civilized.

A misinformed divine, ranting in the trend of modern amusements, says that bridge playing is kindergarten of the gambling. Well, if the bridge players we met in our time are only kindergarten gamblers, we'd hate to meet one of them after he (or she) graduated.

The recent anti-war demonstrations by college youths is but a creative of the working of the average college brain, if any. It is regrettable that our own Texas university join the mob through sympathy. When we remember, however, that college, just as the high school, is only the molding of youth, we see some hope. Our country is drawn into another war, which God forbid the youth of the country will flock to the colors, and whether or not they know what it's all about, they fight, bleed and die, just the same, as did their fathers before them. But youth is impulsive, and these college students, like us, want peace—even if we have to raise seven hundred kinds of corrugated h—l to get it.

Heard in Church: Look't that Mrs.—is wearing; bet that's why she went to El Paso for. I thought she and her husband had married. Gee, these shoes are killing me! There are a half size smaller, but you know, Mrs.—at them at half price by order. Two pair; so I took one pair. Look what's comin in the door. Don't turn your head. If that's this year's style I'm glad I made over my last year's dress. And that hat. I couldn't do a thing with it; just like a rider on a horse. Lookit, she had a plan around to see the preacher. Bet she don't hear thing he says today, thinking that a sensation she is in that dress. I saw one just like it in Rio last Saturday—uh huh, Penney's; just $1.98. Gosh! These shoes! What number hymn should he say? Well this may be the resurrection morn, but when I get home I'm goin' to bed and stay there a week.

Graves and his Lobos from Sul Ross college at Alpine passed through Sanderson Sunday enroute to San Antonio where on Monday they played Coach Mose Mimm's Warriors of St. Mary's, in their second gridiron battle of the spring season. Fed. Land Bank Reduces Interest Rate on Loans

A. C. Williams, president of the federal land bank of Houston, announces that new loans made by the federal land bank on and after April 10, 1935, through National farm loan associations, will bear interest at the rate of 4 1/4% per annum. Mr. Williams pointed out that this is the lowest rate at which the federal land bank has ever made loans.

For about two years the bank has been making loans through National farm loan associations at five per cent with a temporary reduction to four and one-half per cent until July 12, 1933, as provided by the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933. After July 12, 1933, such loans again will bear interest at the rate of five per cent. The four and one-quarter per cent rate on new loans made on or after April 10, 1935, will be effective for the entire period of the loans, which will be made on an amortization basis ranging from 20 to 30 odd years, as in the past. Federal land bank loans are made on the basis of first mortgage security on farms and ranches for amounts that may not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised normal values of the land mortgaged and 20 per cent of the appraised value of the permanent, insured improvements thereon.

No change has been made, Mr. Williams said, in the interest rate on new loans by the land bank commissioner, which rate is five per cent per annum.

SUNSHINE FOR A CHANGE

A welcome relief from the dust storms of the past few days was the full, smiling face of Old Sol, which beamed one hundred per cent on Tuesday afternoon of this week for the first time in several days.

Though disagreeable the intensity of the dust storm here could not be compared to those of the states directly to the north, if reports in the daily press were not exaggerated. On Wednesday everything was back to normal, except, possibly, the housewives, who are now working overtime to rid their homes of all traces of the recent storm.

Claims totaling approximately $7,000,000 have been filed by Americans against the Mexican government and these will be given due consideration by the commission after all data has been compiled.

Austin—The Texas Centennial appropriation bill, surviving the most hectic legislative nightmare in memory, apparently has weathered all attacks and was sent safely to harbor in a free conference committee last week end. It has every prospect of emerging within a week—possibly before this column is printed—in a form satisfactory to everybody except some members of the Centennial commission. It probably will appropriate $1,000,000 for buildings at Dallas, $200,000 to equip them, $500,000 for advertising, $1,300,000 for local memorials, of which $20,000 is earmarked for the Legion memorial museum project at Austin. Control of the state expenditures is vested in a special control commission, with Lt.-Gov. Walter Woodall as chairman, two members appointed by himself, two by Speaker Coke Stevenson, and two by Gov. Alfred. The latter provision injured the feelings of some Centennial commissioners.

When the Centennial celebration has become Texas history, great grandchildren of certain legislators will recall with pride the valiant work their forebears did to save the Centennial appropriation bill. Those will include descendants of the entire Dallas delegation: Duval, Fort Worth; Skipper Hoskins of Gonzales; Bob Fuchs of Brenham and Elmer Pope of Corpus Christi. On the senate side the Centennial heroes included Welly Hopkins of Gonzales, Tom Holbrook, Galveston; the best informed senator on Texas history, and Frank Rawlins of Fort Worth, who, beaten down in his own fight for a livestock appropriation, turned in and fought valiantly to help save the bill. Impassable foes of the Centennial bill who fought it to the last ditch were Gordon Burns, from historic Huntsville; Westfall of Stamewall, and Roark of Liberty, another historic county.

On April 17th, before a subcommittee of the senate committee on mines and mining, in Washington, there will be staged a memorable battle on behalf of every Texan who owns an automobile. On that day Gov. Alfred, Chairman E. O. Thompson of the railroad commission, and Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw, will defend Texas' position that she alone has the right to regulate her great oil industry. They appear in opposition to the Thomas bill, to establish a bureaucratic Washington control over Texas oil. "It would mean higher prices to Texas gasoline users," says Col. Thompson, "who now enjoy the lowest price gasoline in the world." He adds it would destroy state jurisdiction over an industry that is contributing $45,000,000 a year in state taxes alone, which, if diverted, would have to be shouldered by other Texas industries and individuals.

Texas bids fair to become the scene of the No. 1 public works project under the $4,800,000,000 federal work relief program just authorized by congress, if plans for the 36-inch gas pipeline from the Panhandle to Detroit go thru. The legislature has a bill, recommended by the governor, authorizing creation of a state authority to negotiate a self-liquidating federal loan, and build the line. It would employ thousands of workers, keep steel mills that make pipe running for a solid year at capacity. And it would largely solve the gas wastage problem in West Texas by providing a profitable market for gas now being blown into the air. The scheme originated in the fertile brain of B. R. Anderson of Godley, brilliant young tax commissioner. It already has the coal producing areas which supply industrial St. Louis, Indianapolis, and Detroit in a hysterical condition, and may encounter tremen-

PERSONAL MENTION

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Doty returned Tuesday afternoon from San Antonio where they went last Thursday to be with their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry Doty, who is ill. They report she was improved when they left.

Miss Mary Duncan arrived last Friday morning from San Diego, California, and will spend several weeks here visiting her brothers, Donald and Robert Duncan.

A. C. Clatfelter, who is attending school in Los Angeles, visited here this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clatfelter.

W. R. Mann, assistant superintendent of the T. & N. O., of El Paso, was a Sanderson visitor Wednesday.

Mrs. Lee Grigsby left Wednesday for San Antonio where she will undergo medical treatment.

Mrs. J. R. Goodykoontz and son, Jimmie, spent several days in El Paso this week with Mr. Goodykoontz who is working out of that city on the T. & N. O.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Pressley and son left Tuesday for Jal, N. M., where Mr. Pressley has accepted a position with an oil company.

Joe Matthews was a Del Rio visitor Tuesday.

There will be no special session before September, best informed opinion here declares. Most of the ambitious new taxation program promulgated when the 44th legislature convened has failed, or will die by adjournment. When the state learns the exact amount of the tremendous sum of delinquent taxes it has collected next August under the Pope tax remission bill, the deficit likely will be substantially reduced. The liquor question will have been decided at that time, and if legalized control is approved by the voters, probably another $5,000,000 a year in state taxes from liquor will be made available. Then the legislature will know, approximately, how much, if any, additional revenue is needed, and can meet and levy taxes to raise it. Meanwhile, businesses and individuals of Texas who still own anything taxable, can rest easier until fall, at any rate. Business recovery, progressing steadily, but slowly, may increase income from present taxes substantially by fall.

Sulphuric acid is the vehicle which takes most of Texas' sulphur to market. Once it was made exclusively from Texas sulphur deposits. Testimony before the house revenue committee showed that now more than half of the sulphuric acid used by the world is being made by a new chemical process from iron pyrites, a common mineral found in most states. The shrinking market thus revealed cooled the ardor of some legislators for a $2 tax on Texas sulphur.

The first legislative wedding of the session united handsome Traylor Russell, Mt. Pleasant legislator, and the charming Miss Arlene Wilson, assistant chief clerk of the house. Engagement of the senate's most eligible bachelor, Welly Hopkins, to Mrs. Alice Wyatt, secretary to State Treasurer Charley Lockhart, has been announced.

Pat O'Brien Heads Cast in Funniest Film of Season

"I Sell Anything," a comedy drama with a most amusing plot will be the attraction at the Princess next Monday, April 22. It features an all-star cast. It presents uproarious, although startling revelations of questionable auctioneering methods and manufacture of antiques over night.

Pat O'Brien, Ann Dvorak and Claire Dodd, who head the cast, form a triangle. Ann, appearing as a waif of the streets, falls desperately in love with Pat, a fast talking, fast action auctioneer, who can sell anything, including his own heart, until he bumps into a clever adventuress in the person of Miss Dodd, who proceeds to take him for a ride.

The scene is in New York. It is said to be filled with laughable situations, as well as smart, sophisticated dialog that was written by Brown Holmes and Sidney Sutherland, both noted magazine writers.

Kermit Maynard Human Cyclone in Latest Picture

With Kermit Maynard in the principal role, that of a cyclonic human whirlwind, courageously fighting his way against almost overwhelming obstacles, "Northern Frontier," a James Oliver Curwood picture, opens its local run tonight at the Princess Theatre.

"Northern Frontier" has its locale amid the pine-crested mountains of Canada. As "Trooper MacKenzie" of the Mounted Police, Kermit Maynard is detailed to wipe out a nest of counterfeiters which is flooding the continent with spurious banknotes.

Disguised as a new addition to the gang, the trooper bravely enters their den, and not only succeeds in breaking up the mob, but he meets and falls in love with the pretty daughter of one of the members of the gang, but who, to test his courage, the hero is commanded to silence by killing her.

Kermit Maynard's adventures in frustrating the gang, composed of many desperate men and led by a ruthless chief, are many and give that star many opportunities to demonstrate his fitness to portray a slashing fighter, a steadfast friend, and a rider second to none. CARD OF THANKS We wish to express our deep appreciation to our friends for their kindnesses, and for the beautiful floral tribute at the loss of our beloved mother and grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Ellen Mounts. Helpful Household Hints

By BETTY WEBSTER

April is a very popular month for weddings, perhaps because it boasts the diamond for its gem or perhaps, because it is such a nice spring, sweet-smelling time of the year. Nevertheless numerous showers are in order for the many brides-to-be and this is a most appropriate one for a rainy month.

I think the prettiest way to use the idea is for a handkerchief shower, although a linen, miscellaneous, bathroom, or, if the umbrella is strong enough, a kitchen shower could be worked out effectively. If you have a handkerchief shower make the parasol of crepe paper. To do this rip the covering from an old umbrella, the cover the frame with any color paper you wish.

Attached to Chandelier Ask the bride-to-be to arrive at a later hour than the other guests so that all the handkerchiefs may be fastened to the edge of the umbrella and closed inside it before she comes. After it is ready it ought to be suspended, handle down, from a chandelier or an archway. This is not necessary, of course.

It can simply be presented to the young woman by the hostess. If it is hung the ribbon should be so adjusted that the parasol can be opened by pulling one end. As it unfolds the kerchiefs will flutter down and hang like a gay border around it.

Attractive place cards and favors of dainty girls holding parasols may be procured and light refreshments can be served. For refreshments a pineapple salad for which the pineapple has been cut in the shape of a heart, covered with cream cheese and had a stalk of asparagus placed so that it seems to be piercing it, limeade, olive and nut sandwiches and pistachio ice cream with tiny green iced cakes are tempting and seasonable.

DO YOU KNOW THAT: A dol-size electric iron is a most convenient appliance to have for pressing fine laces or the sleeves and yokes of baby's little dresses? Children's dresses ought to be hung on their own hangers immediately after ironing to help them retain their freshness? That bloomers and underthings should be folded after ironing and placed in their proper drawers? Embroideries should be ironed right side down on a thick towel? Woolen garments will become thick and hard if they are allowed to stand while wet? They should be squeezed as dry as possible and dried quickly?

RECIPES

Orange Short Cake 4 oranges; 1/2 cupful sugar; Orange juice; 2 tablespoons of butter; 2 teaspoons arrow-root. Peel oranges and remove sections from membrane in two pieces; add sugar; let stand for an hour; drain juice and add enough more orange juice to make one cup; pour over butter and arrow-root which have been creamed together. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from fire and add orange sections. Pour over sponge cake or individual short-cakes and serve hot.
