With good rains falling in this section during the past few days it is expected that many fat lambs will soon be placed on the market. So far there has been very little buying and but a few shipments.

On Monday, R. J. Ridley, Del Rio buyer, shipped from here 7 cars of sheep, consigning 3 cars to Spofford and 4 cars to the Kansas City market.

There is a good demand for broken mouth and spreader ewes and solid mouth ewes at $2 for the first mentioned class and $4 for the other. It is reported that more than 3000 head have been sold in and around Sanderson, to be delivered in September, at the above prices, for shipment to California.

Jimmy Mills, commission buyer of Del Rio, has purchased 4,300 mutton lambs and aged aged lambs from four ranchmen in the Del Rio section this week, according to the Del Rio Evening News. Purchases were made from Bob Miers, Hussie Gallo-way, Emery Davis and H. T. (Hussie) Miers. Mills paid six cents a pound for the mutton lambs and $2 a head for the aged ewes. They were shipped this week to pastures in Illinois and California.

Reports in the San Angelo Times of last Saturday were that Ira Yates of Wetmore had purchased the 45,000 acre Iron Mountain ranch one and a half miles north of Marathon from W. S. Skinner at $6 an acre and had, in turn, leased it for a period of ten years at 45 cents an acre.

Barstow, May 29. — A small twister, accompanied by a cloud-burst, leveled barns, business houses, and destroyed telephone and electric line here last night. ## Column Right—

You know, we're beginning to think that lots of things, once declared necessary, are useless today. We're afraid education is heading for that category. Lots of young men and women will graduate this month and, armed with diplomas, they think they've got the world by the tail with a down-hill pull. Not so. Most businesses today are run by machinery. Machinery with gadgets that do everything but think—because they don't have to think. Even filling stations have caught the idea, and all that the operator needs know is to distinguish the figures from the naughts. Anybody who ever ate a doughnut can do that. So what price education? Working the brain only gives you a headache. Schooling, in the not distant future, will be unnecessary—as unnecessary as a fence one town tried to build. A committee was appointed, and it was having good luck until it contacted the town grouch. "What do you want with a fence around the graveyard," he said. "Those in there can't get out, and those that are out don't want to get in."

Jim Farley, in his jaunt thru the South, is afraid he'll run out of shirts. Well, just so he doesn't run out of hot air, everything will be lovely.

Tried our hand at golf the other day. We were informed that the course par was 38, but that didn't worry us. We teed off and whammed that ball all over the course, and finally turned in a score of 28. And then we started on the second hole.

Had a great fishing trip the other night. It was on the Gulf, and tarpon was our aim. Being a long time between bites we dozed. Directly a 200-pounder struck. We played him over a 25-mile area before he gave in, and we hauled him alongside. It was the biggest tarpon ever hooked in the Gulf, and everybody was congratulating us. President Roosevelt stepped forward to add his praise to that of the others—and then we woke up.

We used to brag about the brain work we put out. But we never again! The other day we read a long, learned article by a specialist who said that the body needed more renewing than the brain, and that one peanut was ample to keep the brain working one hour.

During the depression the prophets predicted riots, rebellion, and civil war. Nothing happened. Now, with every line of business on the upward trend, we are undergoing an era of unrest, strikes and riots. It bears out the Biblical saying that a prophet is without honor save in his own country. Prophet! There ain't no such animal!

Los Angeles preacher thinks he established a record by talking for 21 hours. Evidently he never heard of the U. S. Senate. And if any bouquets are in order they should go to the people who had to listen to him.

Going to have several new school teachers next term of school. Well, that's fine. Some of the home boys didn't have much luck this last term.

Sit-down strikes in the United States are being followed up by kneel-down strikes in Mexico's religious fracas. Neither one has any appeal for us—we waiting for a lie-down strike.

News flashes state that Wallie was the calmest person at her marriage to the Duke. Nothing strange in that: It's the man who always has the jitters at the altar.

Health Letter

Austin.—Dr. George W. state health officer, urges one to be careful when in country to prevent snake rattlesnake; and, contrary to common belief, it does not rattle before striking.

About 75 per cent of all occur on the lower extremities and could be prevented by wearing high top boots and leggings. About 20 per cent occur on the hands and arms, should be exercised in morning when climbing rocks, and before picking up anything may be obscured by vegetable brush and rocks.

If bitten prompt action is necessary and a physician should be obtained as soon as possible. Time should be lost in removing the poison by suction; to be done by mouth or by a cup. First a tourniquet should be applied above the wound as to increase congestion, assist in washing out the poison. A cross cut incision with a clean knife or razor blade should be made over each fang mark, preferably to connect the fang punctures. These cuts should be at least a quarter inch and at least that long. A should be kept up about an hour. The tourniquet should be removed every 10 or 15 minutes for a minute at a time.

If bitten by a snake—do not get overheated; do not use alcoholic stimulants; do not use potassium Permanganate; it is now known to be of no use as an antidote to cauterize wound; and do not depend on home remedies.

Novel Converted To Gripping Film

The "inside story" of the bil-lion dollar slot machine racket as it operates in a big city is laid bare in "King of Gamblers," a daring and thrilling motion pic-ture story which comes to the Princess Theatre next Monday, June 7, for one night only.

Written by Tiffany Thayer, the noted writer of crime and racket stories, "King of Gamblers" par-allels with striking adherence to recent newspaper headlines, the circumstances which led several eastern cities to smash the racket and to consign the crooked ma-chines to the ocean bottom.

The title role is played by Akim Tamiroff. He is supported by Claire Trevor, Lloyd Nolan, Larry Crabbe, Porter Hall, Helen Burgess and a number of other well-known featured players.

Tamiroff, an entirely unscrup-ulous racketeer, is in love with Miss Trevor, a night club enter-tainer, who does not know the man's business. She meets and falls in love with Nolan, a news-paper reporter, who is assigned to run the racketeer to earth.

The thrilling climax is reached when Tamiroff, trapped, unleashes his fury in a last attempt to save his crumbling underworld empire and to avenge himself on the girl whom he believes had betrayed him.

Nolan's performance fully vin-dicates the producer's belief that in him they have a star who is more reminiscent of Clark Gable than any other screen player. Nolan is the possessor of an un-usually fascinating screen person-ality, he is a splendid actor and he has an excellent voice for pic-tures, all of which augurs well for a brilliant career in pictures.

Mrs. Mary Lou Kellar visited in San Antonio for several days this week with relatives.

All-Star Cast in Thrilling Picture

A powerful drama that rains blows of passion and emotions on your pounding heart, "Nancy Steele is Missing," the 20th Cen-tury-Fox production which will be shown at the Princess tonight and Saturday, June 4 and 5, is unforgettably portrayed by the star of "The Informer," and an inspired cast.

Victor McLaglen, winner of the Motion Picture Academy's acting award for 1935, turns in one of the finest performances of his career in this taut, dramatic film in which he is starred with two of the screen's outstanding play-ers, Walter Connolly and Peter Lorre, Europe's one-man cham-ber of horrors. June Lang and Robert Kent are featured in the picture, adding a romantic note to the proceedings.

"Nancy Steele is Missing," with its tense thrills of emotion-lash-ing power, begins in the troubled days of 1917, with the disappear-ance of the daughter of Walter Connolly, a munitions magnate. Shortly afterward, Victor Mc-Laglen, whose knowledge of the horrors of war has turned him to ardent pacifism, gets involved in a brawl with police and, in the hysteria of war-time, he is given a two-year prison sentence.

Framed by fellow prisoners as the instigator of an attempted jail break McLaglen is sentenced to life. Ashrewd cellmater, Peter Lorre, suspects that the huge prisoner is concealing a valuable secret, and when, twenty years later, McLaglen is released for good behavior, Lorre trails him constantly.

In a tense dramatic climax Mc-Laglen attempts to restore the grown-up Nancy Steele to her rightful father, while Lorre stops at nothing to get the penitent criminal out of the way so that he may substitute a fraudulent claimant of his own. The man-ner in which McLaglen redeems himself for the crime he commit-ted 20 years before provides a conclusion of tremendous emo-tional power.

Daring "Marked Woman" Triumph For Bette Davis

The new O. K. Theatres Road Show attraction coming to the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, June 9 and 10, offers Bette Davis in this unusual picture in the greatest show of her career. Last year Bette won the Academy award as the greatest dramatic actress of her time, and critics seem to think that in the role of the Marked Woman she even surpasses her former efforts and will undoubtedly put her among those considered for the 1937 gold statuette. In it she is alternately tender, hard and gay, and the versatile actress that she is, does them all admirably. She plays the part of a night club girl forced by her overlord, a racketeer, who buys the place, into helping him to rob the patrons by overcharging and luring them to the place. The Big Boss is played by Eduardo Ciannelli. The entire plot is based upon Liberty's background story which ran serially in recent issues under the title "Smashing the Vice Racket." How the Clip Joint is finally cleared of the existing menace through a brave and young attorney who dares to arrest and prosecute the Overlord will leave much favorable impression in encouraging the stamping out of these places. In the story the girls give their testimony with the full knowledge that they face the underworld vengeance. The picture is masterfully directed by Lloyd Bacon.

"Cherchez La Femme"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

THROW another log on the fire, Uncle Mike, and call all the neighborhood adventurers in, light the old pipe, settle back and I'll tell you the story of the doggondest adventure I've had in many a moon.

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Malamute saloon when out of the darkness and into the light there stepped—a blonde.

Oh! Oh! I'm getting ahead of myself. Allan J. McDonald now lives in Chicago. But a couple of years ago he was a reporter for a paper in El Paso, Texas. That's right across the Rio Grande from Juarez, Mexico.

Well, sir, it was Al's night off and he and a bunch of the boys went across the Rio Grande to Juarez. They went into a couple of bars, had a few drinks and along about midnight decided it was time to start back to El Paso.

OUT RAN THE BLONDE GIRL

As they stepped out of a bar onto the dimly lighted street a tall blonde American girl went running past them. Close at her heels and cursing in Spanish was a swarthy Mexican. The girl was screaming and it didn't take Al and his friends long to realize that the girl was in trouble.

With a yell they were off in hot pursuit.

Up unpaved alleys they dashed, slid around dusty corners onto dark streets, shouted and yelled. No one paid any attention to them nor did anybody else join the chase. Suddenly they came to the banks of the Rio Grande and then the girl and the Mexican disappeared into thin air.

Al and his pals looked around a bit but couldn't find a trace of the girl or the Mexican. So the boys started back toward the center of the town. They hadn't gone half a block when from behind them came fifteen Mexicans on the run waving all kinds of weapons in the air and shouting at the top of their lungs.

Al tells me that in the glance he gave over his shoulder before he started to beat it he saw, lead pipes, old boards, knives and razors strapped to hammer handles.

GREAT BATTLE IN THE RIVER

Well, sir, Al and his two buddies started. They started right for the Rio Grande and the good old U. S. A. The river at that time of the year was practically dried up. There was only about twelve inches of water in it, so it was possible to wade across. They hit the river a few feet in front of the Mexicans, but the mud slowed them up and one of the party fell. The Mexicans were on top of them and the fun began.

Boy, oh boy, what a battle royal! Three against fifteen.

Al and his friends had no arms. They were trapped right.

It was darn tough to defend yourself in that slippery, muddy river bottom. Every time you took a swipe at a guy your foot would slip and five Mexicans would be on top of you. It was easy then to slice a near or klunk you over the head with an iron pipe.

Al wrestled with one Mexican and succeeded in getting a lead pipe away from him. Then Al swung the lead pipe right and left. Every head he saw that didn't look like his own he brought that lead pipe down on it with gusto and then it was a case of cracko.

PAT WAS MORTALLY WOUNDED

There was one Irishman with Al of the name of Pat Stacy. Pat knocked three of them that gents down before somebody shoved on old-fashioned hat pin clear through him. Pat died three weeks later from lobar pneumonia.

The other friends of Al was knocked out early in the fight and fell into the water. Why he didn't drown Al doesn't know.

For twenty minutes they fought in the Rio Grande that night before help came. But to Al, those twenty minutes felt more like twenty years. The border patrol finally heard the commotion and broke up the affair. Al was minus part of an ear, his head and chin were slashed up and his lapels were cut completely cut off.

The fellow that was knocked out and fell in the river didn't have a scratch on his. Was he lucky? And were you lucky, Al? Believe me, I've been in Juarez and I know they used to get pretty rough over there.

All right, Uncle Mike, I'll tell you about the blonde. She was the come-on for the Mexicans. They pulled the same stunt often and it is said that it was a profitable business, although Al never could figure out how it could be so good when the take had to be split fifteen ways.

Urges Students to Secure Numbers Under the S. S. A.

El Paso, May 20.—High school students who plan to enter industrial and commercial employment for the first time this summer should apply now for social security account cards, F. J. McCarthy, Jr., field representative of the Social Security Board, said today.

"Many boys and girls will be finishing school within the next week or two, and will take regular employment. Some who are not graduating this year will work during vacation, others will be employed part of the time. As monthly retirement benefits payable at age 65, are determined solely on the basis of wages received in included employment, it is important that these young men and women apply now for account numbers, so that wage records may be set up for them," McCarthy explained.

Employers must make complete reports to the Bureau of Internal Revenue showing the name and account number of each worker they employ and the wages paid in each case. For this reason, McCarthy pointed out, many employers are refusing to give jobs to those who do not have account numbers.

Applications for account numbers may be obtained from any postmaster prior to June 30. After that date they must be obtained from the nearest field office of the Social Security Board.

Know Texas

The difference between a horse and buggy and a streamlined automobile is not greater than the difference between Texas highways of today and those of ten years ago. Humpbacked roads, murderously slick surfaces, and deep ditches on each side of the high embankments are ever more scarce than the horse and buggy, and the bumpy patches are going, too.

Responsible for these changes is the State Highway Department guided by the Highway Commission. The policies formulated by the three commissioners are executed by the highway engineer, whom they select. He has the power to appoint the department heads and division chiefs and he serves as long as the commission votes to keep him. Gib Cilchrist has held the post for the past nine years.

According to the chairman of the commission there are about 10,000 employes in the department alone, exclusive of the contractors' employes on each job. Almost all construction work on the roads is done by contractors, except on test jobs which are done by the department at frequent intervals to determine fair prices.

Maintenance and repair work is done by state employes, however, and through experimentation and economy the cost of keeping up state highways has been cut from $445 to $295 a mile. The reduction of costs through improved methods is the result of work done by the department's huge laboratories, among the best equipped in the nation. In these every pound of material used is tested and re-tested for value and durability.

Two of the largest small tasks of the maintenance division are the distribution of road markers and removal of animals killed on the highways.

Mrs. W. J. Ferguson motored to San Antonio Sunday, and returned home Wednesday, accompanied by Billy and Mary, who have been attending school in that city, and who will visit here during the summer.
