Grigsby, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, when the knee and ankle, a cut on the head, the left hand and sustained other body injuries, when he was struck by a truck driven by Stewart Se-eman, employed on the C. H. Ranch.

Grigsby, who is employed in the water service department of the T. & N. O. railway, had arrived here on the midnight Saturday, and was walking home in the northwest part of town when the accident occurred. He was halfway across the street when Seeman, who was leaving town, struck him. Grigsby stated he saw the truck approaching, but thought he had time to get across the street, but when he saw he could not make it, he stepped back. Seeman stated he did not see Mr. Grigsby until it was too late to avoid the collision.

Seeman had been in town loading sheep and had just come out of the cafes where he had been eating.

Grigsby was taken to his home where he was given medical attention and his leg set. Early in the morning he was taken to the hospital and placed in the ward. Late in the afternoon he was moved to the hospital. Late in the afternoon he was moved to the hospital. Late in the afternoon he was moved to the hospital.

He Pakenham, Well Known Here, Buried at Uvalde

Funeral services were held in the afternoon for Miss Pakenham, 78, who passed away in San Antonio Sunday. Ranchers Busy on Projects of Soil Conservation

John Harrison, who ranches in Dryden, completed one tank last week and has three more and fresnos at work on another.

O. Prentiss is at work on a concrete header dam, and B. F. Nett has finished a dirt tank. Although most of the work on range conservation program is dirt work, such as tanks, header dams, terraces, and pastures very little actual work has been done, according to Ernest Williams, county agent.

Mr. Rose has Cleared Lechulla from about 2,300 Acres at Cost of about 55¢ per Acre. Hill North is grubbing part of his property, which is heavier infested than the Rose ranch. His cost is about $1 an acre, but the work isn't completed.

Capt. Barler to Be Sent Here. Report

Capt. W. L. Barler of the Customs Service who, until recently, had been stationed in Falfurrias, is being transferred to Sanderson according to reports in both Del Rio papers. Barler was stationed there several years ago, being transferred to Del Rio, and later to Eagle Pass, prior to his transfer to Falfurrias.

PRaises Ft Worth Fiesta

West Texas provided the greatest attendance of any section at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial last year and no doubt will flock this year to the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta by the tens of thousands, declares D. A. Banded, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

We regard the show with personal interest and pride because it is presented in Fort Worth, the gateway into the West Texas empire," he said. "The development of Ft. Worth into the amusement center of the Southwest means a great volume of tourist travel through West Texas cities."

Banded pointed out that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce building last year at Fort Worth was visited by 700,000 persons and an even greater number is expected this season when the WTCC will present "West Texas, Old and New" with approximately 150 cities having displays in the building.

Court Meets to Adjust Tax Values

The monthly meeting of the commissioners' court of Terrell county was held Monday morning of this week, with all members of the court in attendance. At this time the court sat as a board of equalization, and listened to arguments of firms and individuals protesting the raising of the valuation of their property.

Other business attended to was the approval of current bills. The court authorized County Judge G. J. Henshaw to go to Austin and meet with the State Highway Commission on June 22, and urge that body to complete highway work and highway repairs in this county, the plans for this work being drawn and approved over a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grigsby and baby daughter are spending this week in McCamey with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Grigsby.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. O'Bryant, Sr. and family spent the week end in Alpine with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Caraway.

Famous Choir to Present Program

The Ecclesia Choir, international known singers, will be in Alpine June 22 to sing in the auditorium of Sul Ross College. This choir is enroute to California, and unless the present plans are changed, the appearance at Alpine will be the only one between San Antonio and the coast. This will be the first of several features sponsored by the college during the summer session. It is hoped that a large number of out-of-town people will take advantage of this opportunity to hear this famous choir with its extensive repertory of songs.

Admission to those not attending college will be fifty cents.

THE MARKET TREND IN LIVESTOCK

Fort Worth, June 16.—Hog receipts, 500; shipper top, $10.85; packer top and bulk on good 185 lbs., up $10.75; good and choice, 160-180 lbs. $10.25; $10.75; most packing sows $9.50; few of the best to $9.75.

Cattle, 5000; calves, 1,000; all classes cattle active and strong; load choice mixed yearlings $12; new high for year in this class; several lots good yearling steers, $9.50; $11.25; sausage bulls, $5.50 down. Slaughter calves, $4; $8; choice heavies, $8.50; $9; most stock steer calves $8.25 down; yearling stockers $7.50 down.

Sheep, 4,000; market slow with practically no early sales; little change indicated on spring lambs or aged wethers, talking around 25¢ lower on clipped yearlings.

Shipments for the week Contracting for and buying of lambs in this section continued heavy for several days past, with several deliveries being made. R. E. Corder, local commission man, reports that he has had requests for fleshy muttons at very attractive prices.

Lambs shipped from this section have topped the market and brought good prices. The first of the week 7,000 lambs shipped from this point brought $5 a head, while 5,000 ewes and lambs shipped out brought $9 a pair.

Sheep trading has been active but the market at river point was off 5¢ a hundred.

Most milk lambs in this immediate area are too light to compete with the northwestern market, but are still bringing $9 and $9.50 in Fort Worth. Some of the Terrell county muttons were fat enough to be shipped to Hoboken, N. J., thus bringing a good price.

Among purchases of the week reported were 2,000 ewes and lambs by Roy Haley from Sol Wright, rancher of the Pumpville section. Mr. Haley moved the lambs and ewes to his new ranch southeast of Sanderson.

J. H. Fisher, livestock buyer of Del Rio, purchased 3,000 stocker muttons last week at 5½¢, and recently sold 20 double decks of fleshy muttons at a reported price of 6 cents a pound.

The Mitchell Estate and N. M. Mitchell shipped out the first of the week 4 double decks of milk lambs that averaged around 663 pounds. They were consigned to Fort Worth and topped the market.

Other shipments from here this week included 2 decks of lambs by Albert Appel, to the Fort Worth market Saturday. On Sunday J. H. Fisher shipped two decks of lambs to Kansas City. On Tuesday Mrs. Mary E. Mitchell and Keith Mitchell loaded out 2 decks of lambs, consigned to the Fort Worth market.

On Monday Barrett & Albin shipped 2 decks of lambs to Hoboken, New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cox returned home Monday from a 2-week vacation trip to Sweetwater and Fort Worth where they visited with relatives.

Ranchmen Will Hold 2-Day Meet At Sonora Station

The ninth Ranchmen's Round-up, which should be of interest to all West Texas ranchers, will be held at the Ranch Experiment station near Sonora, June 24 and 25. With outstanding men, interested primarily in the welfare of ranchers on the program, this year's meeting should draw more in attendance than previous ones.

As the station is located about 30 miles from Sonora, Mr. Dameron, station superintendent, requests everyone to bring sleeping equipment and spend the 2 nights at the station. This will enable everyone to be on time when the program starts at 9:30 a. m. A short order counter will be available for securing breakfast and supper at a reasonable price. A barbecue dinner will be served each day.

It will be greatly appreciated if those planning to go will leave word with Ernest Williams, county agent. The field day sponsors are very desirous of having the groups from each county organized.

BROTHER OF J. W. McKEE LAID TO REST IN EL PASO

Private funeral services were held at 4 p. m. Tuesday in El Paso from the Peak-Hagedorn chapel, for Joel Frank McKee, 45, who died Monday at his home in that city. The Rev. W. R. Smith conducted the services and burial was in Restlawn cemetery. Mr. McKee was a brother of our fellow townsman, Jack McKee. Other survivors include the widow, Mrs. Patricia C. McKee; two sisters: Mrs. Pearl Perner of El Paso, and Mrs. J. P. Dyer of New York City, and two other brothers, J. S. McKee of El Paso, and J. H. McKee, of Abilene.

Program Closes Vacation School

The two weeks' Bible school came to a close last Friday night with a creditable program of songs, stories, Bible drills, memory work, and flag salutes, given in the auditorium of the Baptist church. The hand work was displayed in the basement.

The school enrolled fifty-eight pupils in the four departments, the Methodists leading with an enrollment of 20. The average attendance was 51, and 27 had a perfect record of attendance. Thirty-six pupils received certificates. These were given for regular attendance, being on time, assigned memory work learned, hand work and notebook work creditably done, and good deportment.

Mrs. J. V. McCall, as principal of the school, spoke in high appreciation of the fine work done by the seventeen teachers and helpers, who carried on various phases of the work. She also expressed thanks to many in the community who helped in various ways.

A pleasant feature of the school was a picnic at the airport Thursday, from 5 to 7. Parents, teachers and pupils attended, and the 14 cars took 86 people to this happy outing.

The offering amounted to $16.27 and will not quite meet all the expenses. The balance will be made up by the four churches that participated.

GRADUATES WITH HONORS

Austin.—The accolade of graduation with honors was laid on 180 seniors at the recent spring commencement exercises of the University of Texas. The list of honor graduates among the 1,063 candidates for the various degrees included Hubert Dee Johnson of Sanderson, who received the bachelor of law degree, with highest honors.

Heart Ailment Fatal to Capt. Gillett Ex-Ranger—Buried in Marfa Sunday

Marfa, June 13.—Funeral services for Captain J. B. Gillett, widely known West Texan, were held here this afternoon. Capt. Gillett, 80, died in a Temple hospital Friday of a heart ailment. He had been taking treatment for about three weeks. Attending the services were the widow, all of his children and grandchildren. Children included Mrs. Lee Wilson of Ozona, Mrs. Lee Evans of Albuquerque, N. M., and a son, M. E. Gillett, Marfa.

Captain Gillett was an ex-Ranger and formerly sheriff of El Paso county. He joined the Ranger service when he was 18 years old, after running away from his home in Austin. He was also a charter member of the Highland Hereford association, Marfa, and one of the outstanding Hereford breeders in the Southwest.

"Six Years a Texas Ranger," which was sold in several editions and which has been re-written in collaboration with Prof. Hudson of Harvard into a textbook called "The Texas Rangers," was the work of Gillett.

Residing in Marfa for many years, for a long time he ranched on his famous Barrel Springs ranch. His son, Milton now runs the ranch and the captain lived in his big yellow brick house and kept on collecting guns and other relics of the early years in the Big Bend. His collection of early Texas literature is said to be one of the best in existence. All the relics, guns and books were in a small house on the back part of the large lot at his house. There, too, he kept his scrap books, he kept these for years, and they are invaluable in themselves, but much more so for the comments he wrote on the margins beneath the pictures.

Capt. Gillett, born of a ranching family in Laranea, was of the West itself and his stories were some of the most famous. There was nothing quite so interesting as spending an afternoon with him in his "den" as he called the little house with the lily pond at its front steps, and hearing him tell how he used his own gun, or see his own beaded moccasins and belt. He laughs when one lifts the heavy buffalo gun and lets it fall, and his little eyes would gleam when you sighted his old guns that have sharp flint, and murmur, "Why, it's only yesterday." For him it was only yesterday afternoon.

Several months ago Captain Gillett had a bronze plaque made and placed on the bare cliff on the Fort Davis-Valentine road in honor of the old stage drivers who drove on the old San Angelo to El Paso mail coach and fought the Indians. He would tell you with a smile how he helped rout the Indians from that very trail and then would say that those stage drivers were the bravest men in the world.

Word was received by relatives here of the awarding of high scholastic honors to Maurice E. Speer, who is attending the University of Arizona at Tucson. Young Speer, who is a nephew of Mrs. Luella Lemons of this city, has just completed his junior year at the university and was one of five new members recently chosen for membership in the Bob Cats, men's senior honor society. Speer, one of the highest honors a student can attain, membership in the society being based on outstanding scholarship and leadership. ILLNESS FATAL

An early photograph of Capt. J. B. Gillett, ex-Ranger, author, and son of the Old West.

Parents Hopeful After Operation Young Daughter

Betty Cooke, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greene Cooke underwent a spinal operation at the Baylor Hospital in Dallas last Thursday morning. Betty has been confined to her bed for over a year. The operation, according to reports, was a very delicate as well as dangerous one, requiring the grafting of a piece of the little girl's shin-bone to the spine after cutting away part of the spine affected by tuberculosis. A letter from Mr. Cooke, received by relatives Wednesday, stated that the child had been clear of fever for two days and that the attending physician pronounced her case as satisfactory. He was uncertain, however, as to when they would be able to return home.

Plans Under Way For 2-Day Rodeo Here Aug. 12-13

With all plans worked out, literature advertising Sanderson's Annual Ranchers and Business Men's Rodeo is in course of preparation. The dates set are August 12 and 13.

Joe Chandler, promoter of this year's show, made a business trip to Del Rio this week, where he engaged a public speaker outfit for announcing the events, and engaged Earl Sellars in the capacity of arena director.

The usual events, such as calf and goat roping, wild cow milking, steer breakaway, bulldogging and other, all have place on the program. Saddle horse racing is also scheduled. A big dance at the C. A. C. will climax each day's events. A 12-piece orchestra from Big Spring will play for the dances, Chandler stated.

An innovation this year will be a big free barbecue at noon the first day. Another department, according to Chandler, will be the selection of a rodeo queen, and if plans for this event work out, the lucky girl will be crowned with the only headdress recognized in West Texas—a 10-gallon Stinson hat.

With cooperation of the people as a whole, the rodeo this year should be one of the best shows ever staged.

VISITS PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Whistler, who are residing in Hebronville, spent the week end here with his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Whistler. Their son, John Lewis, who had been attending school here, returned home with them for a visit during the summer.

Column Right—

You can expect a circus with more than 3 rings, when an extra session of the Texas legislature is called. The present one, however, is "bigger and better" than ever. Senator Small, the bald-domed sage of the Panhandle lived up to his name with a vengeance in personal attacks on the governor. And Gov. Jimmie's face evidently lived up to his name when the dignified horde crawled his carcass over his recommendations on gambling bills. The people did not see the circus, but they're paying for it to the tune of about $100,000. Theme song of our legislators seem to be "Damn the expense when you ain't out anything."

Mr. Hubbel, star flinger for the New York Giants, doesn't believe in doing things by halves. After establishing a record for consecutive wins he is now well on his way toward a record for straight losses, with five in a row.

No stronger supporter had Mr. Roosevelt than this column. But we confess we don't get the why of his attitude in these labor disputes, riots, and wars. Private property is seized, laborers who will not bow to Lewis, the Mussolini of labor, are intimidated, beaten, killed. All complaints to the president are tossed into the laps of the Labor Relations committee. But "passing the buck" is a distinctly American game, so maybe it's all right. In the late election labor, especially the C. I. O., of which Lewis is Czar, voted solidly for Roosevelt. If the reward is going to be a hands off policy in the labor war, then we unhesitatingly say the price is too much. When the situation is explained the average citizen can twist the C. I. O. around and exclaim O. I. C.

With the situations as they are in Michigan and Pennsylvania, why worry over war in Europe?

It seems like an anti-gambling rash has hit the country. Recently the Times was warned not to advertise bank night; later we carried advertisements of a certain store, giving tickets with each purchase, good for a chance on silverware, dishes, etc. Well, someone informed the P. O. department, and Uncle spanked us (verbally). If the Texas legislators have their way, we'll be scared to death to report these bridge parties, and kids you'd better hide those marbles.

Folks in this section have cause for a peeve at Gov. Allred for vetoing the appropriation for Big Bend Park. But the worst jolt came from Charlie Moore, of the Big Bend Sentinel, Marfa, when he published a picture of an "unknown" and labeled it Gov. J. V. Allred.

European nations again default on war debts. Swell chance they have of pulling off a war without the cash. In fact, we believe 3 Irishmen with a quart of liquor could put on a better show than they could without help from Uncle Samuel.

Al Smith, as a member of the Liberty League during the presidential campaign, made lots of wild statements about this country going to the dogs, regimentation, dictatorship, etc. He recently toured Europe and his reaction was that America is the best place in the world. Sometimes, when you think the home town is all haywire, try Al's recipe—just take a trip.

After this brainstorm we feel need of relaxation. So, believe we'll invest in one of those nice, juicy Rio Grande Valley water-melons now on display, and wrap it around our ears.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton White and daughter, Janice, were visitors in Fort Stockton last Sunday afternoon.

Helpful Hints to Thwart Summer Illness of Child

Austin—The season of the year when the most complaints are received on account of diarrhea and dysentery or "Summer Complaint" is here and the Texas State Department of Health has issued a warning to parents in regard to this, and offers the following suggestions to prevent its occurrence among babies. The chief causes of diarrhea include impure milk, water and contaminated foods, overheating, fever from any cause, too much sugar or cream in diet, overfeeding and underfeeding.

Mother's milk is the safest food. However, if other milk must be used, the supply should be clean and pure. The water, too, must be clean, pure and boiled. Any other articles of food should be clean and fresh and no unsuitable articles of food such as cake and candy should be given.

If a feeding formula is used, it should be one prescribed by a physician and it must be prepared with extreme attention to its cleanliness and kept cold until used. The baby should be fed at regular intervals and should not be forced to eat when it is not hungry. The baby should be kept cool and comfortable in hot weather, should not be overclothed, and should be given plenty of clean water to drink. Any infections which develop in the nose, throat ears or other organs should receive prompt attention from a physician.

If diarrhea develops, feeding should be stopped or greatly diminished and an abundance of water should be given. Cathartics should not be given except on the advice of a physician. If the diarrhea does not improve within a short time a physician should be called and a complete examination should be made.

The three F's—flies, fingers and food—are the three sources of danger to the baby. Flies carry disease germs to the baby and to its food. Fingers and hands that are not thoroughly washed before preparing the baby's food, are likely to be germ carriers also. All milk and water that is intended for the baby should be boiled for five minutes then carefully covered and kept in a cool place until used.

The Cure for Malaria
MALARIA was once the most-feared disease of the tropics. In Elizabethan times, the malarial jungles of Africa and other parts of the Near East were so terrifying and dangerous to white men that few Europeans even dared to go there.

Quinine, the most effective remedy for malaria, was accidentally discovered by an Incan native who was himself half dead from the disease. On a trek through the mountain wilderness of Ecuador, he was overtaken by the dreaded jungle fever. Burning with fever, he dragged himself to the edge of a stagnant pool to quench his thirst, only to find that a quina-quina tree had fallen across it.

Although the medicine men of his tribe had always supposed the bitter-tasting bark of the tree to be poisonous, the Indian was so far gone he preferred the swift death by poison to the lingering one from fever. So he drank deep from the pool. In a few hours he miraculously felt better, and soon he was cured.

Returning to his tribe, he carried his story of the marvelous curative powers of the quina-quina bark. Others tried it, and found it had both curative and preventive powers. By 1640, news of the new drug had been transmitted to Europe, where its name was shortened to quinine.

For a time the bark sold at fabulous prices, as royalty and wealthy merchants bid frantically for the meager supply to cure their aching limbs. Within a century the tree had been domesticated and was being grown commercially in many parts of the world.

Miss Florence Hurt, who has been attending Brigham Young University, at Provo, Utah, arrived home Wednesday and will spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hurst.

Mrs. Col Coates came in Monday from San Antonio where she had been for several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Buck Pyle.

Much Activity in Construction in Fort Davis Area

By Barry Scobee

Fort Davis, June 2.—Current items of news in the Fort Davis scene include an appropriation of $1,600 to reroof the Indian Lodge hotel in the state park and the establishment of a sub-park of CCC boys there to do the work, under trained building superintendency.

This news includes the report that when the lodge is reopened it will be by a corporation that has the concession at Palo Duro state park in the Panhandle. Alleged defects in the flat concrete roofs of the pueblo-style lodge, that caused the leaks, is given as the reason for the reroofing job.

Another item is that work has been started on the four bridges and two culverts on highway 17, between Fort Davis and Balmorhea. Two of the bridges will be across Limpia creek, one across Fraser canyon and one across Short canyon. When these structures are finished next autumn traffic on that highway will no longer be the victim of flood waters, as has been the case in the last few days—not to mention many times in the past. Limpia canyon has "gone down" in flood three times in recent days.

McDonald Observatory, with 5 residences and a power plant, is reported as complete save for the installation of the 82-inch mirror in the telescope. When this will be installed no one seems to know. There are many visitors to the observatory but few, if any, get to see the interior of the dome. Regular visiting hours have not been established. The astronomers are busily engaged in various technical astronomical problems, a 12-inch lens and photographic equipment being used.

Clyde Morris was a visitor in Fort Stockton and Pecos Monday. Accompanying him to Pecos was his mother, Mrs. D. M. Martin, who had been visiting in Sanderson for the past month. She will visit in Pecos and Toyah before returning to her home in Abilene.

Mrs. W. M. Dyal and sons from Lafayette, La., are visiting here with her sister, Miss Lois Taylor, and with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harrell.

Sylvia Sidney and H. Fonda Starred Gripping Story

The saga of a woman who battle a whole nation by the side of the man she loved is depicted in a series of sharp, telling strokes in "You Only Live Once," which co-stars Sylvia Sidney and Henry Fonda.

Unjustly convicted of a bank robbery in which several people are killed, Fonda, portraying a paroled convict who is trying to go straight, is condemned to die in the electric chair.

Prominent in the supporting cast are Barton McLane, famous screen "heavy," who essays the sympathetic role of Stephen Whitney, public defender, who employs the young wife and defends Fonda, although he is a rival for Sylvia's affections.

Boyer meets girls in the Paris moonlight—and romantic history is made!

Which is one way of announcing that you can look forward to seeing dark-eyed Charles Boyer and blonde Jean Arthur, film-dom's newest and most exciting love team, romancing in Walter Wanger's "History is Made at Night," which comes to the Princess Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, June 23 and 24.

This sparkling romance from the pens of Hollywood's madcap writing team, Gene Towne and Graham Baker, casts Boyer and Jean as Europe's most dashing head waiter and a gorgeous American mannequin who meet in Paris under very romantic circumstances and fall in love at first sight.

The ensuing romance takes them across the Atlantic and back aboard a crack transatlantic luxury liner and moves against a background of lavish modern settings, including the smartest restaurants in New York and Paris, and winds up in a surprise climax that promises to be the talk of the town.

Leo Carrillo and Colin Clive are featured in the story, Carrillo furnishing the comedy.

"Spirit From the Stars"

By Floyd Gibbons

"SPIRIT from the Stars." That's the way Anna Nolan of Long Island City, N. Y., explains it. Anna thinks that the sign of Aquarius, under which she was born, gave her the courage to face the terrifying predicament she found herself in. I don't know whether she is right about that or not. Where courage comes from is a question that's a little bit out of my line, and I'll leave it to the doctors, or the astrologers, or whoever wants to try to answer the question.

But adventure IS in my line and I will go on record as saying that the one Anna Nolan had in August of 1914, in the town of Boyle, County Roscommon, Ireland, is a hair-raiser and no mistake.

August, 1914! That's a date that the world will long remember, for it was in the early days of that month—and in that year—that the World War got under way. All England was in a turmoil and that excitement reached clear over to Ireland on the other side of the Irish Sea. England was calling out the Irish reservists—men who were called for six weeks training each year and a number of these reservists lived in the town of Boyle.

Neighbor Woman Fleeing From Her Cottage

Anna's husband was already in the army. He was a warrant officer at the barracks not far away. Anna had rented a house in town—a house that sat well back from the street with a garden in front of it. Across the street was a tiny cottage in which lived the wife of one of the reservists, an itinerant tinker who had just been called to the colors.

It was about eleven o'clock at night and Anna was sitting at her front window looking out on the garden. She had been there since early evening, just after she had tucked her children into bed. She was all alone. Her husband was at the barracks, too busy to come home. And Anna had been sitting there for hours on end, wondering about the war, and about her husband who was going to it soon, and about a hundred and one other things that women wonder and worry about when the war clouds begin gathering in the sky.

The streets of Boyle were deserted by this time. There wasn't a soul in sight. But suddenly, the door of the cottage across the way flew open and a woman, clad only in a white nightgown came running out.

Anna sat bolt upright in her chair. The woman was running as if for her life. She was barefooted, and her long black hair was hanging down her back. She dashed across Anna's garden and took refuge in her doorway.

Husband Wanted to Kill Her and Baby

Anna knew the woman—knew that she had a new-born baby only two days old. Why was she running out of her house in the middle of the night like this? She ran down the stairs and threw open her hall door, and the woman shivering and shaking, almost fell into the room.

"I pulled her inside," says Anna, "wrapped a cloak around her, and asked her what the trouble was. It seemed that her husband got leave to come home from the barracks on account of her illness, and had celebrated by getting very drunk. In his cups he became abusive and finally decided to kill both his wife and baby. She swore he meant it. In her fright she fled, leaving the baby behind, and as he did not come after her she was sure he was killing the baby."

There was no telephone in the house, and just about all the men in town were at the barracks. The poor woman was begging Anna to do something, and though Anna was just a slip of a girl weighing in the neighborhood of a hundred pounds, she was pretty indignant. She told the woman she'd tell that husband of her a thing or two, and coaxed her into going along with her. With the terrified woman following, she started for the cottage.

She opened the door and walked in. There stood the husband, in uniform, in the middle of the room. "He was staring into space and didn't taken the slightest notice of us," Anna says. "The baby was unharmed. I helped the woman into bed and was bending over to admire the baby, when suddenly I heard the bolt shot in the door. I looked around quickly. There stood the husband, opening a large knife of many blades, and staring straight at me with the wildest eyes I ever saw or ever want to see again."

Army Discipline Saved Them All

For an instant the man stared at Anna, with eyes ablaze, and then he said slowly, "I'll kill the two of you!" And right there, Anna began to wish she hadn't been so rash as to venture into this drink-crazed madman's house. "I had visions of my four children across the street all alone," she says. "I would be lying if I said I was not afraid. I was never so afraid in all my life."

The man must have sensed that she was afraid of him. With a wicked leer, he took a step forward. But it was then that courage came to Anna's rescue. Anna says she got it from the stars—from the sign of Aquarius under which she was born. As I said before, I don't pretend to know where people get courage from, but Anna certainly got a bunch of it from somewhere. She pulled herself together and took a step toward the drunken man herself. "My husband is Nolan, the warrant officer at the barracks," she said. "Do you know what he'd say if he knew you were acting like this? Do you know what they'd do to you if they knew that this was the way you used the leave they gave you to see your sick wife? You'd better get back to the barracks. If you don't you know what will happen to you."

Well, maybe the stars had something to do with it, but army discipline played its part, too. The man closed his knife and turned toward the door. Anna never took her eyes off him until he was safe outside. But the fellow went back to the barracks and that's the last Anna ever saw of him.

Says she: "I had my husband see to it that he didn't have much time for visiting before going to France. And when he arrived at the front he was one of the first soldiers to be killed."

Without Benefit of Surgery

By HARRY C. MEHR

NUMBER 782 Center, ground floor, is a pretty quiet place from midnight up to, well it depends on what time the milkman gets 'round—say four a. m.; but the balance of the time, what with two huskies, agen ten an' sixteen, along with their ma, who before she took the job of boss-in' me, was the soprano singer in the choir, why, it's a good deal like an old flivver—silence is what it ain't got much of.

Then, besides my plumbin' business ain't so big that I need to hire no collectors, and any plumber that does his own collectin' gets used to a lot of noise.

So it's easy to understand that when I come up on the front stoop I didn't get palpitation of the heart just because I heard a hullabaloo that sounded like one of the kids had that cracked tenor record on.

But, believe me! when I got inside I soon tumbled that it was not any cracked sextet that was grinding out that howl. Why the loud speaker with four stations jammed would have been a pantomime alongside of that, an' besides the phonograph is in the parlor, and the radio is in the room, that back in the old, quiet days, we used to call the den. Also this racket came from the kitchen, so down the hall I beat it.

Bud had the center of the room an' although the Mrs.' lips was movin' nobody could get what she was sayin'.

The kid's face, what you could see of it through his fingers, was twisted up so that he looked like the pictures of the shriveled remains of the late Mr. King Tut, an' he sure was workin' the ballyhoo over time.

"What's the big noise about?" I hollered.

His mother told me. "It's all very silly, Bud has to have a tooth out."

"Thanks be to goodness he don't have to have a leg off," I says. "Is it hurtin' you much?"

"No, not now, but oh, I know it's goin' to, awful. I just know it is, and I don't want to," he blubbered.

"Well, I just know it will," he sniveled for a finish.

I started to take my coat off an' then reached into my pocket an' brought out the "pound special" that once a week lets the wife know that I still like my boarding place.

"Hi! gimme one, maw, please," whoops the kid.

"Nix," I told him. "You got a toothache."

"No," he says. "It didn't ever ache, honest."

"Well, anybody around would of thought it did, about three seconds ago," I told him.

"No, he's right," says the Mrs., "it's loose and the other one is coming in behind it. The school nurse says it will have to be removed. You must take him to the doctor Saturday. I can't do a thing with him."

"I can do something with him if I hear any more of his yellin'!" I told her as I lit the pipe.

"Don't be too harsh," she coaxed. "Bud is a very sensitive child. You saw how he behaved and I only explained that it must be taken out as the nurse suggested."

"I hope to bump my bunion if I didn't," I says.

Well the next evening I got another earful. "Bud's nerves are something terrible," says the wife, soon as I got in.

"So is his nerve," I shot back. "He's just held me up outside for a new bicycle. Says he has had this one most a year now."

"It is nothing to joke about," she groused. "Mother was here this afternoon and I just mentioned the tooth, and I thought he would go distracted."

"Has he added anything to the act?" I grinned.

She was on her high horse for fair now. "I can see nothing funny in it. Mother had to promise him money for a new football if he had it out by next Saturday evening to quiet him."

"I'll say his nerves are bad," I says, an' beat it.

Things ran along fairly quiet after supper, when the old lady that lives upstairs came in. She is a good-hearted scout, but she does spoil them kids. Candy and cake, oh boy!

Bud was on the job strong and pretty soon he copped a cue. "You haven't been up to see me today, Bud," it was.

You should have seen him get set for a sob act.

"I didn't feel very well today," he mumbled.

"The poor child is going to have a tooth out Saturday," seconds his ma, "and he is just about sick over it."

"Oh, Bud," an' I thought the old girl was goin' to cry herself. "I am sorry. Come up with me, I want to show you something."

"More kush for the sush fund," says I.

"Oh, don't be heartless," snaps his ma, peeved.

The kid wasn't gone long.

"Any hush money?" I asked.

"Huh?"

"I asked you if you got something?"

"Naw," he drawled, "only some grape juice and ginger bread. She makes me sick; showed me a picture of her brother what's dead, and talked all the time I was eatin'." She says when he was a little boy he went to the dentist alone once, an' then on his birthday he got two nice handkerchiefs. "Raspberries?"

"Wasn't that all right?" I grinned.

"Two handkerchiefs ain't nothin'," he answered.

"No, they ain't exactly a flock of Rolls Royces," I had to admit.

"Wisecrack!" he muttered, so soft he thought I wouldn't get it.

My, didn't that kid work fast an' clean for the next few days.

"You let him keep that tooth for another week," I told the Mrs., "an' he'll be pretty well stocked up for the year. Gee, if he just keeps in loose teeth, we won't have to buy him anything until he needs a racing car."

Sore? I'll say so.

"Don't talk like a goose," she says. "I think it is beautiful proof that the world is still filled with the milk of human kindness."

"Milk is right," I almost hollered. "an' that's all there will be, for that kid will cop off all the cream. Pure butter fat for him, if you ask me."

Saturday morning just as the youngster was stuffin' in the last hunk of steak an' tellin' the big lad what a trimmin' the "Center Street Jrs." was going to give the "South Hill Reds," I horned in.

"Don't forget that we got a date with the doctor at three p. m., mister."

"Oh, sure," he answered.

"I think you might have spared him that thought now," says his ma, after he had ducked out. "I reminded him of it last night. I am sure you have spoiled his whole afternoon."

"Yes, it look it," an' I pointed. His whole gang of noise-makers was leggin' it down the street an' they sure didn't look like anythin' they had been spoiled for 'em.

Twelve o'clock came, and no Bud. Then one; an' his mother kept yappin' that she knew something had happened to him.

"If it hasn't it will shen he shows up," I told her.

"You would feel very badly if he has met with some terrible accident," she passed me.

"Well, none of the gang has showed up," I argued, "I bet a dollar they ain't all killed either. I guess that if fifteen kids got killed we would have heard of it. Why, I think even the cops would find that out an' come an' tell us."

The cuckoo squawked two.

"I'll go an' find 'em," I says.

"Look," called the Mrs. from the window.

They were just roundin' the corner. Freckled Smith was in the lead an' he was carryin' a banner. It was a pretty tough lookin' banner at that, but you could read it. "The All-Star Champions," an' behind him was Bud with a kid on each side an' they each had a banner that says, "Our Captain." Then behind came the rest of the team, an' each pair of them had a body guard of two, hammerin' a piece of chucked out tinware.

I guess we are all alike at that. Gee, wasn't I some swelled up, but I knew I must make some wisecrack before the Mrs. got onto me.

"How the dump must of suffered," I finally blustered out.

"Don't, please," was all she said.

They were so close now that you could get the song, too, an' honest, along with the tin pans it had a little music in it at that.

"Center Street, Center Street, Raw, Raw Raw!"

All Star Champions Haw, Haw, Haw!"

"By George," I told the Mrs., "It will be tough to have to lick a champion."

"But you couldn't do that now, dear?" she asked. "Could you?" an' she put her hand on my arm.

"Well, it will be tough," I ad-

P. J. Heisler, 81, Father of Local Woman Passes On

P. J. Heisler, 81, former resident of Sanderson, passed away Monday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. R. S. Hughes, in El Paso. During his residence in Sanderson, many years ago, Mr. Heisler was employed as telegraph operator for the Southern Pacific Ry. Since his retirement from railroad service he had made his home in Oro Grande, N. M., and frequently visited here with his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Daniels.

Funeral services were held in El Paso Thursday at the Hartford mortuary, and burial was in El Paso.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Mary Heisler; four sons, Kasper J. Bisbee, Ariz.; Joseph F., Douglas, Ariz.; James S., and Leo F., of San Diego, Calif.; three daughters: Mrs. R. S. Hughes of El Paso, Mrs. Catherine O'Connell of Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. W. Daniels of this city.

Mrs. H. G. Newton and Miss Mildred Underwood returned last Saturday from El Paso where they visited relatives and friends for several days last week.

"Keep cool an' see," she says. I have seen him look tough before, but this time he was the limit. Mud, dirt, one stockin' down an' torn, and no hat. He was sure a picture of nobody's orphan child, an' that wasn't the whole story. One eye was black an' a smear of dried blood covered his sweat-stained upper lip, an' the end of his nose.

"Sorry I'm late, ma," he yelled as he bounced into the kitchen, "but it took a long time to decide who was the champions. Can I have my dinner quick? I got to go down to grammaw's an' get the money for the football."

He had beat it into the bathroom an' I come in behind.

"How about the dentist at 3, young feller?" I asked, trying to look hard.

"How do you get that way?" he grinned. "Fat Colby knocked that tooth out, just before I made him admit we was the champions."
