FATAL SHOOTING AT RANCH HOME

RIGHT

Longley Surrenders to Officers After Tragedy; Bond is Set at $1000

Wednesday morning, at Longley ranch, twenty miles north of Pumpville, C. Young, 51, was shot to death. Shortly afterwards his son-in-law, Cam Longley arrested Sanderson and surrendered to officers, admitting he had fired the fatal shot.

Justice of the Peace Fred Yeates, E. Sturman of the local home, immediately set out to investigate the tragedy, and the examining trial held in Sanderson Wednesday afternoon following, who were present the shots were fired, testified W. P. Locke, Wallace Hill, "Coon" Chandler, and Longley. The testimony of the witnesses, in substance, was that the men were awakened about 4 a. m. for the work of gathering lambs, were eating breakfast, when a commotion entered the room, and cursing and using abusive language, directed, it was stated, at one in particular. Mr. Longley, the witnesses stated, got up and went to another room, and attempted to calm him. Loud shouting was heard, and then Mr. Longley returned to the kitchen and stated that Young was dead, and declared his intention to go to town and surrender.

One of the shots took effect entering just under the right arm and emerging through the part of the left shoulder.

Longley waived examination on this trial. His bond was set at $1,000, and he was bound to await the action of the jury in district court which convenes here in January.

Evidence of any ill feeling between the men was brought out at the trial.

Longley is one of Terrell's most prominent ranchmen, well thought of, and with a reputation above approach.

He had been at the Longley ranch for the past two years. The body was sent from Thursday to Beeville where it was buried, and where funeral services will be held.

Longley has three brothers: Young, Little Rock, Ark.; George Young and George Young, Beeville; two sisters: Mrs. Cam Longley, who resides on the Longley ranch, and Mrs. Annie Miller of Sabinal, and numerous nephews and nieces.

Many Sanderson Students Prepare to Attend College

With the beginning of the fall semesters in the various colleges and universities within the next week or so, many Sanderson students are preparing to attend. While opening dates at the different institutions vary, the majority of them will begin registrations about September 15th. By the end of next week most of the students will have left, some of them returning for their second, third and fourth years in the schools, other for their first year's college work. Several of the students have already left.

One of the earliest of the students to return was O. T. Schuppach, who has been gone for several weeks. O. T. is again attending the University of Southern California, where he has a berth on the football squad and has been in training since he arrived in Los Angeles.

Other students who have left are J. R. Black, who left Saturday for Los Angeles, where he will attend the National School for Sound Engineers, and Pete Deaton who will attend a business college in Los Angeles.

Among the students who will attend Texas University, Austin, will be Melven Pollard, Edward Downie, Jack Hayre, Henry and Bill Goldwire.

The University of San Antonio, formerly Westmoorland college, will have a good enrollment of Sanderson students this year. Billy and Mary Ferguson will return to that school for their second year's work. Other who will attend are:

Stock Shipments Light; Lamb Crop Almost Depleted

Fall deliveries of lambs purchased early in the season still continue. Prices are holding up, and are much better than quotations of last year at this time. Despite the continued dry weather lambs are in good shape.

A large shipment was made last Friday from Pumpville by Wardlaw Bros. to their ranch in the Marathon country. There were four cars in this shipment.

Reports received the first of the week were that the West lambs in Crockett county were sold at 8 cents a pound. There were 1400 hundred in this deal and delivery was made at once.

Vital Statistics

September 1—Pedro Gonzales, age 2 years.

September 2—Margarita Sanchez, age 1 year.

Several Modern Homes Being Erected Here

A building spurt is now on in Sanderson, the first in several years. Five new homes are now under construction or nearing completion. Many of the residences have been repainted and repaired during the past several weeks.

Last week Milan Northcut moved to his new home, located in the east part of town near the American Legion park. It is modern throughout, of concrete construction, and Vapo-gas has been installed for cooking and heating.

C. V. McKnight, who recently purchased the Albert Appel home in the west part of town, is having the home remodeled into a duplex. Gas for heating and cooking will also be installed.

Another new home in course of construction is that of Jim Kerr's in the northeast part of town. The construction is frame stucco, and will be for rent.

The new home of Ed Chastain in north Sanderson is just about completed. It is of adobe, covered with plaster. Steam heat will be installed.

The new C. L. Surratt home is almost completed. The design is very modern, and the rooms have been piped for gas.

Slight Increase in Enrollment Over That of Last Year

Enrollment figures from the office of Supt. R. D. Holt, show an increase of 22 scholastics in our schools over that of last year. The total number of students in all the Sanderson schools for this year is 472, against 450 for the 1936-37 term.

The elementary grades here are 3 scholastics under last year. The seventh grade reports a loss of 9 pupils over last year. All others show an increase, the high school grades having fifteen more than last year and the Mexican school a gain of 22.

Figures for the American elementary school are:

DR. LESTER BETTER

Mrs. R. E. Lester and nephew, Jack Lester, and her son-in-law, L. K. Walker, returned the first of the week from San Antonio where they had been with Dr. Lester who recently underwent a serious operation in that city. The doctor is much improved and hopes to be able to return home soon.

September 15th Will Open Game Season in Section

O. Z. Finley, game warden for this district, with Del Rio as his headquarters, was a Sanderson visitor last Saturday, and while here was a pleasant caller at the Times office. Mr. Finley stated that there was some misunderstanding by sportsmen in this section in regard to the new hunting laws and asked that the Times print the following in regard to those changes:

First of all, Mr. Finley states that sportsmen must not forget their hunting and fishing and other licenses which are now required and which can be purchased now. It is very essential that these licenses be in their possession during the hunting and fishing season.

He calls attention to the following hunting seasons:

Dove season is from September 15 to November 15. The bag limit and possession limit is 15.

Deer season—Blacktail, November 16 to November 30, and Whitetail, November 16 to December 31. Bag limit 1 blacktail a season, or two whitetail a season.

Quail season, December 1 thru January 15, and bag limit 12, and possession limit 12.

Mr. Finley also stated that an artificial lure fishing license covers all kinds of fishing and that if a person has a lure license the law does not require that they have a resident fishing license, but one must have a fishing license before they can fish.

As the fishing and hunting laws are stricter this year, Mr. Finley issues warning to all sportsmen and urges that they comply with the law in every respect.

Schauer Ranch is Sold to Del Rio Firms for $56,000

At a trustee sale held here Tuesday, the C. E. Schauer ranch located north of Dryden was sold to the Del Rio Wool and Mohair Co., and the Del Rio National Bank at a reported price of $56,000, the highest bid for the property.

Gus J. Groos, trustee for the Aetna Life Insurance Company, made the sale.

Noted Missionary At Presbyterian Church Sunday

Dr. Egbert W. Smith, field secretary of Foreign Mission of the Southern Presbyterian church, with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee, will be in Sanderson from Sunday, September 12th, thru Wednesday, speaking each night at the Presbyterian church, and between times to the school, auxiliaries and local clubs.

Dr. Smith is a world traveler, having visited Africa, Brazil, China, Japan, and other countries, and is a most instructive and entertaining speaker. He charms children as well as grown-ups.

This is a rare opportunity for members of the Presbyterian congregation, and one they wish to share with their friends of the community. A cordial invitation is extended to all to hear him.

Dr. Smith will speak to the Sunday school at the close of its session; will fill the pulpit Sunday at 11 o'clock; and will speak each evening at 8 o'clock.

INVESTIGATOR HERE

Virgil Pope of Dallas, investigator for the Texas Liquor Control Board, spent Tuesday in Sanderson on business connected with the duties of his office. Mr. Pope's headquarters are in Del Rio and his district includes the counties of Terrell, Val Verde, and Edwards.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. P. G. Harris and mother, Mrs. Scannell, returned home last Thursday night from San Antonio where they had been for several weeks and where Mrs. Harris underwent an operation. That she is doing nicely will be gratifying news to Mrs. Harris' many friends here.

Auspicious Start for New School Year; Who's Who on Teaching Staff

Oil Test Drilling Below 115 Feet; Gas Pocket at 20

Favorable reports have come from the test well being drilled on the Sam Bell ranch, in the eastern part of Terrell county. The well, which is located in section 68, block D-7, is now drilling at below 115 feet.

At a depth of 20 feet a showing of oil and gas was encountered, in quantity sufficient to burn, and the D. & S. Drilling Co., of Tulsa, Okla., who are putting down the test is very optimistic.

Geological survey reports have all been very favorable in the vicinity of where the test is being drilled.

No transfers, assignments or leases have been filed for record in this county during the past week.

P. V. Conference Held Tuesday is Well Attended

A fairly large crowd was in attendance at the Pecos Valley Baptist Workers' conference, held here Tuesday.

The meeting opened Tuesday morning at the Baptist church, at ten o'clock, with a song service and devotional led by O. H. McAdams. The Rev. Roden of Wink gave a talk on the subject "If Baptists Should Tith—What?" This was followed by a talk on the subject "How to Increase Tithes and Tithers in Our Church," by the Rev. Frazier of Monahans. This was followed by a sermon delivered by C. G. Goff.

At noon a dinner was served on the lawn at the court house, the food being prepared and served by the ladies of the local church. After dinner a board meeting was held at 1:30 p. m.

The afternoon session consisted of a song and devotional program, led by Mr. McAdams, a talk on work among the Juniors by Mrs. Kenneth Slack of Pecos, and an inspirational address on "The Brotherhood and Stewardship Campaign," by the Rev. Gilbert of Del Rio.

The conference was presided over by the Rev. D. C. Bandy, local pastor.

The meeting closed at 4 o'clock and the visiting delegates returned to their respective homes.

Rites Are Held in Glen Cove For Former Resident

Funeral services were held in Glen Cove Monday for Sam Thurman, who died in Silver City, N. M. on September third. Deceased at one time lived here, and worked for S. L. Stumberg several years ago. He was a native of Rocksprings, and was born in that city, June 14, 1897.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Mae Thurman, and a young son of Marathon. Other survivors include four brothers: John, Jess, George and Ira; four sisters: Mrs. G. F. Givens, Mrs. Edwin Ducey, Mrs. Will Stigler, and Mrs. Caness Bradley.

PASSENGER DELAYED

The derailment of two empty box cars on freight train first 242, due here about 2 a. m. daily, was the cause of delay in traffic on the S. P. Wednesday morning. The cars jumped the track near Strobel, a small station just east of Alpine. Passenger No. 6, east-bound, due here at 6 a. m., was delayed an hour before the crew sent from here could clear the track.

HIGHLAND FAIR DATES

Dates for this year's Highland Fair are October 7, 8, and 9, according to the Big Bend Sentinel.

The 1937-1938 term of the Sanderson schools was ushered in Monday morning at 9:00, with a brief program, after which students were assigned courses and books distributed to the students. On Tuesday morning the school session for the new year was in full swing.

Monday morning's program was as follows:

Invocation by Dr. McCall.

Group of songs—Miss Louise Taylor.

Song, David Duke.

Piano solo—Miss Johnson.

Vocal duet—Misses Arrington and Nichols.

Saxophone solo—C. F. Pickard.

Group of songs—Miss Louise Taylor.

Short talks were made by the following: W. H. Savage, and R. N. Allen, trustees; R. E. Griffith, visiting minister; the Rev. S. M. Mims, Methodist pastor; Duane Smith, high school principal, C. F. Pickard, band director, and Mrs. E. W. Hardgrave, president of the P. T. A.

Then followed announcements by Supt. R. D. Holt, and the program ended with benediction by the Rev. D. C. Bandy, pastor of the Baptist church.

The term started with the faculty complete, several late vacancies being filled in time to let the new members become familiar with their several duties.

Following is a complete list of teachers in the Terrell county, their home address, degree held, subject they will teach, and number of years they have taught in the local schools:

R. D. Holt, Sanderson. B. A. from Trinity University, and M. A. from Texas University, Superintendent. Will teach civics and Economics. Third year.

Duane Smith, principal high school, Sanderson. B. A. from T. C. U. Science and history. His sixth year here.

A. B. Caraway, Sanderson. B. A. from Sul Ross; mathematics. Second year here.

Miss Marjorie Nixon, Denton. B. A. from C. I. A., commerce. Her first year.

See TEACHERS, Page Two

The morning after, with what is referred to as a jaded appetite, we strolled into a restaurant and asked for something that would be kind to the stomach. An accommodating waitress recommended shredded wheat. When it came (in a bowl) we were suspicious, but asked how it was to be attacked. "Pour a pint of milk over it," said the waitress. We did. But when we dug the spoon into it, its bristles rose like a porcupine. And we noticed the milks had disappeared. After wrestling with it for 10 minutes without being able to pry a spoon full of it loose, we decided we squeeze it and get our milk back anyway. But it wouldn't yield a drop. While the waitress was busy we slipped into a napkin, took it to the shop to examine it at leisure. Finally, disgusted, we tossed it in the alley. A dog smelled around it for a few minutes, finally reared on his hind legs and went yelping down the alley. Guess he thought it was a porcupine, too.

We know now why they call them bellies: It's because they have a (p) peal.

We don't know why editors take a yen to fancy expressions. 'Twas a time when it was taboo to refer to certain parts of the body—leg or stomach. The custom was to say "limb" and "abdomen." But today a worse fad prevails. Operations are referred to as "appendectomy" and "tonselectomy." This paper used the expression recently and one of the readers wanted to know if it was a new disease. Reminds us of the two women, one refined, the other just average. In the course of their argument the latter called the other a liar. The cultured woman bristled and said: "Have you the audacity to doubt my veracity, and insinuate that I prevaricated?" The other replied: "I don't know what you're talking about; but I still say you're a liar."

Does advertising pay? asks the Pecos Enterprise. Well, if it doesn't, Henry Ford, General Motors, and hundreds of our most prosperous national firms are damphools.

A woman magazine writer, who featured articles on "The Perfect Home," is suing for divorce. The most expert advice we ever heard on raising babies was from old maids.

Mr. Hamilton, chairman of the National Republican Committee, emerged from his shell the other night. In a speech he called upon President Roosevelt to come out in the open and state whether or not he would seek a third term as president. Now if the Republicans can find a goat to head the ticket they'll be all set for another wallowing in 1940.

The politicians must believe in the old adage that "the early bird catches the worm. Right now they are thicker than grasshoppers in Nebraska. Which means that we'll have to order an oversized wastepaper basket.

All we've got to say about that 91-year-old bird who wants a bride, "young and pretty" is that ambition recognizes no bounds. Or, to put it in more simpler language: There's no fool like an old fool."

The Texas Messenger states that our good friend George Baker, editor of the Fort Stockton Pioneer, has been tendered a position in the School of Journalism at Missouri University, to teach country journalism. George has too many irons in the fire in this section to accept it. But, we wish he would. We'd get a kick out of calling him "professor."

DANCING ENJOYED BY YOUNGER SET

As a courtesy to the younger set, Mesdames Dixie Schupbach, Bertha Mansfield, R. H. Lewellyn, D. A. Pollard, E. P. Halley, and W. J. Ferguson sponsored a dance at the Masonic hall last Saturday evening.

Out-of-town guests at this dance included Mr. and Mrs. Feron Richey of Marathon, who brought their daughter, Jean, Miss Alice Wade and Waddie Burnam down for the evening.

FAREWELL DANCE FOR YOUNG FRIENDS

Miss Nelle Lea honored the seniors and their dates with a dance last Thursday evening, as a farewell on the eve of her departure for college.

Delicious ice cream and cake were served on the home lawn by the hostess to the following guests: Misses Dorothy Lewellyn, Sammie Carter, Mildred Underwood, Mildred Hurst, Mary Ferguson; Messrs. Grady Lester, Cecil Thompson, Eugene Litton, Pat Harris, Pat Sullivan and Albert Appel.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER FOR SON AND GUESTS

Mrs. D. A. Pollard honored her son, Melven, and his guests Tuesday with a six o'clock Mexican dinner, prepared as only Mrs. Pollard can. After an auto ride about the city the guests were invited to the Pollard club room where dancing was enjoyed as a climax to a very enjoyable evening.

Misses Madelyn and Reba Wilkinson passed through here Sunday from their home in Waelder. They were enroute to Alpine where they will enroll at the Sul Ross State Teachers College during the regular term.

"Elephant Boy," Kipling Story, is Picture of Thrills

"Elephant Boy," the new Alexander Korda production which will be shown at the Princess Theatre tonight and Saturday, Sept. 10 and 11, is a thrilling and tender screen adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's immortal Jungle Book story.

The result of the latest expedition of Robert Flaherty, indefatigable explorer into the dense jungles around Mysore, India, and took some two years to make "Elephant Boy" more than justifies the hardships and perils confronted in its production.

Besides, it introduces what appears to this reviewer the most charming and unusual brace of co-stars the screen has ever offered. The team is composed of Sabu, the handsome and engaging 12-year-old Indian boy whom Flaherty found in the jungles around Mysore, and Travatha, probably the world's largest elephant.

The film tells the beloved story of little Toomai the Elephant Boy who was consumed with a desire to become a great hunter like his famous grandfather.

Permitted to accompany his father and Kala Nag, his enormous elephant, on an elephant hunt, in charge of one Peterson, the child is enabled after a series of thrilling adventures, to win his heart's desire and become the hero of the expedition when he chances upon a herd of 80 wild elephants and rides in triumph at their head as they are herded into the great stockade and caught.

The charm and grace of this child, Sabu, as he rides about on his huge elephant are something to see. Unforgettable highlights of this thrilling film are scenes in which the great elephant, Kala Nag, runs amuck and is finally calmed by his tiny master; the killing of Sabu's father by a lurking tiger; the rounding up of the herd of wild elephants and the drive into the stockade, and the breath-taking scene in which Sabu witnesses the wild elephants dancing in the heart of the jungle.

"Parnell" Spellbinding Romance, Has Clark Gable, Myrna Loy in Star Roles

The tensely human story of a love that affected nations is vividly drawn in the fictional drama of "Parnell, Uncrowned King of Ireland," which M-G-M offers at the Princess Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, September 15 and 16, with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in the starring roles.

Directed by John Stahl from the original stage play by Elsie T. Schauflyer, the screen adaptation was written by John Van Druten and closely follows the spectacular career of Charles Stewart Parnell who found a great love more powerful than a great cause.

Gable and Miss Loy are superb in their respective roles, as the fiery Irish leader and the beautiful Katie O'Shea, whom he loves beyond any fame or fortune that political power might bring. "Parnell" as it is here presented, becomes international, although it remains essentially Irish of course.

The story describes the historical rise of Parnell, who was the only man ever to unite the 86 members of the Irish party in a struggle for Home Rule. His love of Katie O'Shea, a married woman, the scandal which results when her estranged husband, Willie O'Shea, divorces her, and the collapse of Parnell's political career, are closely followed with all their dramatic qualities.

Exploding Ship Makes Flare for Trio Lost at Sea

A spectacular signal fire contrived by fate brings about the rescue of three men and a girl lost in a flimsy boat on an open sea, in a thrilling sequence of "Windjammer," the new George O'Brien, together with a wealthy American girl, played by Miss Constance Worth; her suitor portrayed by Gavin Gordon, and her father, enacted by Brandon Evans, have just escaped from a sinister old schooner carrying contraband, and the plot of its captain to hold them for ransom. In the small boat which has served as their means of escape they face the even worse peril of being lost at sea, for they are without signal flares.

As they ponder their plight, they watch a raging fire aboard the ill-fated schooner from which they have just escaped, a fire kindled by an overturned lantern during a terrific fight between O'Brien and the captain.

Suddenly there is a mighty explosion, which blows the schooner to smithereens.

"There goes your signal fire" gravely comments O'Brien. Thrills and dangers such as these make "Windjammer" one of the most exciting adventure pictures of George O'Brien's stellar career. Ewing Scott directed the George A. Hirliman production for RKO Radio.

"Windjammer" comes to the Princess Theatre next Monday night, September 13.

PARNELL

SERIALIZED FROM THE MARY GARDNER HOPPER BY LEBBEUS MITCHELL

Capt. "Willie" O'Shea induces his wife, by threats of living with her again, to ask her aunt for money to pay his expenses as an Irish member of Parliament. He then persuades her to invite Parnell the Irish Nationalist leader, to her home for dinner, to further his political career. Parnell has seen Katie O'Shea at the opera and been strongly attracted to her. At the dinner party from which he is called away by urgent news from London, he tells Katie he is in love with her, and she finds herself in his arms returning his kisses.

A sequence of events, showing Parnell's efforts to obtain Home Rule for Ireland follow. Intermingled is the romance of the great leader with O'Shea's estranged wife, who nurses him back to health after a heart attack. Parnell is accused of complicity in the Phoenix Park murders through a forged letter, and through Katie's efforts the forgery is detected and Parnell is welcomed back to the House and given Gladstone's promise to introduce a Home Rule Bill.

ways asked for." "I know, but now I want you to withdraw it. Or, if it's divorce you want, let me divorce you, or else you name some other man than Charles. Why did you choose this moment? Out of spite? What harm have I done you, or he either, except to refuse to get a position for you that you had no right to ask for?" "Is tarnishing my honor no harm? Stealing my wife?" "And if you don't meet another is the weapon you'll need now more than ever. If you think you can fight Mr. Gladstone better without me, that is for you to decide. But don't sell me for nothing. I you surrender me, it is your bound duty to get value for the sacrifice. I have a Parliament for Ireland in the hollow of my hand. I'd give you my word I'll get it for you if you'll let me."

"You shouldn't talk, dearest." "Yes, but this is important, the most important thing in my life: our marriage. Do you want me to ask you again, Katie? Will you be my wife?" "Charles, don't... I want to be more than anything in the world. You know that." "Do you want a grand wedding, with a choir and page-boys? There won't be orange blossoms though. You'll wear white roses. Where shall we live?" "Darling, don't bother about that now."

O'Shea Plays His Hand
Parnell and Katie O'Shea had stepped out of Parliament building into one of London's "pea-soup" fogs, lost their way and wandered about the streets, happy to be alone. It was some hours later when they returned to Eltham and found Willie O'Shea waiting to see Parnell. The Irish leader cut short Willie's congratulations.

"You've known that for months and you must withdraw the suit," "I can't. It's out of my hands."

Katie O'Shea!" cried a red-faced member rascously. In the renewed uproar Parnell sprang at the speaker and knocked him down with a terrific blow to the jaw. Parnell's hand was seen to go swiftly to his side, while the blood drained from his face. His secretary sprang to his side. Healy, waving his arms was shouting:

"I want to bother. It's important. I think I'd like to live here. I've come to think of it as home. Do you think I'll make a good husband?" "The best in the world, darling." "You'll have to teach me all the things that are expected of me. I'll have to practice... Do you know my wife? Let me introduce my wife... My wife..." His voice weakened; his other hand groped for her. The pulse in his fingers beat more slowly. "Only you musn't go away from me, Katie."

"What do you want to see me about?" "It's about myself. I feel that I should be something better than an M. P. After all, I've been pretty close to you there last four months. You've been out guest. Everybody knows that. Don't I deserve some more important position?"

"Surely, Willie," said Aunt Ben "a little money would remove the tarnish from your honor. I will double your allowance."

"Parnell will never get Home Rule. All he can get you is insults. His name is a by-word and always will be. From tonight there's a new Irish party. Those who are with me, who have the honor of Ireland at heart, who'd have a new party and a new leader follow me."

"I want to bother. It's important. I think I'd like to live here. I've come to think of it as home. Do you think I'll make a good husband?"

SKUNK SALES
Denton.—Possums and skunks may not sound very enticing, but these two animals yield a larger number of pelts to trappers in Texas than any other animals. Out of the 1934-35 catch of some 912,276 raw furs, over 600,000 of them were opossums and about 120,000 were skunks. The season's fur catch was valued at approximately $600,000, but in the past few years the amount has been estimated as high as three million dollars. Other fur-bearing animals which are broad winners in the southeastern and the southwestern parts of the state are fox, raccoon, badger, civet cat, muskrat, mink and beaver.

Some Feast
Claiming the production of the world's largest watermelon—weight 183 pounds, Cass county nevertheless stands second to Parker county in the amount of production per acre, in which Parker leads the nation. According to the 1935 census over 3,875 melons were produced in the 70 odd counties who farm them throughout the south central part of the state. The yearly crop is valued at $536,000.

The Oldest Texans
Although the vanishing American has done a great deal of his disappearing act in Texas, there are still about 2200 full-blooded Indians left. Estimates of the Indian population at the beginning of the white man's settlement run from 30,000 to 200,000. Many full-bloods are now counted in with the Mexican population, their ancestors having migrated back and forth across the border, so there may be many more descendants of the original inhabitants of the state than the tabulation shows. The only distinct settlement left is that of the Alabamas and the Coushattie on the Polk county reservation.

Miss Betty Schupbach arrived in Sanderson this week from her home in El Frio, Arizona, for a visit with her uncles, O. E. and O. T. Schupbach, and other relatives. Miss Schupbach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schupbach were residents of Sanderson many years ago.

"HERE," says Raymond Hopper of Roslindale, "is the story of my life's darkest moment." And I've got to admit that there was one time when Ray's life got pretty dark. It got so dark, as a matter of fact, that even the captain was worried. But I've got to admit, too, that from all the evidence I've been able to gather, it wasn't Ray the captain who was worried about. They're pretty hard-boiled—these captains.

Ray was in the army. Any buck private will tell you that life's dark enough in the army without adventures coming along to make them darker.

But Ray got into the army and into an adventure too. And that gives you a combination of sombre hues that's about two shades darker than an undertaker's hat.

'Twas the Day Before Christmas
The United States Coast Artillery was Ray's branch of the service, and Ray was stationed at Fort Greble, Rhode Island. It was December 24, 1900. Ray remembers the date because it was the day before Christmas. Also he remembers that it was cold—bitter cold. The mercury was way down below the zero mark and the only things around that weren't frozen were the beans boiling on the cook shack stove.

Fort Greble is on an island. All the supplies come by boat, and the boat ties up at the end of a wharf built out two hundred feet into the sea to reach deep water. Ray says the wharf was about 15 feet wide with six-by-six timber bolted all the way around the edges.

I suppose that stuff was put there to keep things from rolling off the pier—but it didn't do very well in stopping Ray Hopper. Ray was down on the wharf juggling supplies for the quartermaster's department. They had given him a horse and a two-wheeled tip-cart. Driving down he noticed that his buddy was working on a small boat pulled up on the shore about a hundred yards from the wharf. He didn't think anything of that at the time—but he thought plenty about it later.

Out of the Cart Into the Water
SAYS RAY: "The fact that he chose that particular day and hour and minute to do the job he was working on is the reason I am alive today."

Ray drove to the end of the wharf. The supply boat was tied up there and he started pulling the horse around to back up to it. As he did, the horse came face to face with a large black boiler that had been left there the day before.

The horse wasn't accustomed to seeing that boiler there. It frightened him. He gave a sudden jump backward. And then—it happened! The wheels of the tip-cart rammed up against the six-inch timber that circled the edge of the wharf. They hit it—and went right over.

Ray, on the seat of the cart, was thrown backward. He somersaulted off of the cart and landed head first in about 30 feet of icy salt water.

"And as I fell," he says, "I saw first the cart and then the horse coming over on top of me."

Ray couldn't swim a stroke. He was dressed in heavy clothing, including a heavy felt army ulster, and that made his chance even slimmer.

The water sent an icy chill through his body. He went down—down. He tried to strike out with his hands and bring himself to the surface—and then there was a kicking, flailing body on top of him, pushing him down, even farther. It was the horse!

"I was told afterward," Ray says, "that the horse hit the water on his back, at the exact spot at which I went under. The men on the wharf were sure I would never come up alive. But I did. I came up right beside the horse."

Horse Tried to Climb on Him
The horse was being dragged under by the heavy cart. Ray came up, right under the heels of the kicking, screaming animal. The horse saw Ray, and tried to climb up on him.

Once more, Ray was pushed down into the green water. Ray caught a deep breath just before he went under. Then he was down again, with the horse's hoofs beating a frantic tattoo on his back and shoulders. That second time he thought he'd never come up again.

He rose slowly, his heavy water-logged clothes holding him down. His lungs felt as though they would burst before he reached the surface.

And when he did come up there was the horse again, climbing all over him—pushing him down once more. That time Ray slid off to one side and didn't go down so far.

Thrashing madly at the water with his numbed arms he fought his way to the surface again. He caught a breath—started to go down again.

This was the third time. And Ray had heard that people who go down for the third time don't ever come up again.

Then, suddenly he felt a hand grasp him by the hair. He was being pulled out of the water—into a boat. And there was his buddy in the boat, hauling him over the side.

From where he was working he had seen Ray fall into the water. He had launched the boat and come speeding to his rescue. Before his buddy could row him back to the shore, Ray's clothing was frozen stiff. Ice fell off him in little chunks as two men hauled him from the horse and he swam ashore.

The boys stripped Ray, gave him a good rub-down and wrapped him in blankets. Inside of half an hour he felt as good as new—and he didn't even catch a cold as the result of his ice-water ducking.

Ray's buddy worried about him for a while—but the captain, apparently didn't. Ray says that when they reported the accident to him his only remark was "Is the horse safe?"
