CHECKS TO BE PHOTOGRAPHED

In the future when patrons of the Sanderson State Bank write a check and it goes through the bank there will be a photograph of that check left an record according to L. M. Blaze, cashier.

With the installation of the new machine, an absolutely accurate and a permanent record will be kept of the face of the check and also of the back of the check showing the signature of the endorser. The present machine, the Recordak, has been installed and will be used until the new model just being put out can be obtained and installed.

The checks are photographed to a roll of non-inflammable film and photographs of 8,000 checks can be made on 100 feet of film. This film will be sent to the bank and then put in a safe at the bank. The main importance attached to this method is the matter of keeping an accurate record in case a cancelled check is lost and the minimum of space which is required for keeping such a record. The 8,000 checks will only require a space of about 4 inches square and about an inch thick.

Judge Montague, testing the gavel in his hand, remarked, "You could knock a man down with this."

Big Bend National Park Area Big Tourist Attraction

The Texas Planning Board very interestingly described the Big Bend Section as one of the major attractions to tourists in the December issue of its bulletin. The following story tells why this area furnishes so much interest:

"Our watering places are famous the world over and the sunshine, dry air and medium altitude of West Texas is noted for its value in the treatment of diseases of the chest," the bulletin said.

"The expert mountain climber the novice and those who wish to discover for themselves why the scaling of heights appeals to so many, can find in the picturesque Big Bend a field most extensive, interesting and accessible.

"The primitive glory of cliff and precipice is but a step from the luxury of our modern cities and towns. A day spent in the Big Bend is one replete with novel and unusual impressions. Overhead is a dome of blue, the air is soft and sweet with the resinous spice of wood, and underfoot the trail is at times cushioned with vegetation, while elsewhere one treads the primitive rock."

Julian LaCrosse Retires After 27 Years Public Service

Did Not Seek Office Which He Had Held For Seven Terms

By J. Travelstead.
After more than twenty-seven years in public office in a number of capacities, Julian LaCrosse retired from official life on Jan. 1, 1939. He retired with the expiration of his term as District Attorney of the Sixty-Third Judicial District, an office he held since August, 1924, but to which he did not seek re-election last year.

He was appointed chief deputy county clerk in Val Verde County on November 10, 1911, and served continuously in that capacity until January 1, 1915.

He began the service as elected clerk of the District Court of Val Verde County Jan. 1, 1915, and served two successive terms of two years each without opposition either time.

Mr. LaCrosse was elected County Attorney of Val Verde County without opposition in 1918. At that time he was in the Army as second lieutenant. He served in this office one term.

In 1917 Mr. LaCrosse was appointed deputy United States district clerk and served until August, 1924, holding two offices at once overlapping it all. Mr. LaCrosse served as official court shorthand reporter from 1918 to 1924 under Judge Joseph Jones. This was another official office.

Thus, from 1918 to 1920 he held three public offices at the same time.

He was appointed District Attorney of the Sixty-third Judicial District by Gov. Pat Neff in August, 1924, and served in that capacity until Jan. 1, 1939. He has had his name on the ballot ten times and with opposition only three times.

In retiring, Mr. LaCrosse stated: "I am retiring to attend to my private practice with the firm of Boggess, LaCrosse and Lowrey, of which I have been a member since 1920. The firm was formerly Boggess, Lamar Smith and La Crosse, then Boggess, Thurmond and LaCrosse. That was the late George M. Thurmond who was a member of the firm. Then it became Boggess and LaCrosse and a few years ago Grady Lowrey was taken in to the firm with Judge Boggess and myself."

After twenty-seven years of faithful service, Mr. LaCrosse has returned to private life but maintains a keen and active interest in the affairs of the community—Del Rio Evening News.

THE MOST DANGEROUS PLACE

Believe it or not—the most dangerous place you can be is at home!

According to the National Safety Council, the principal causes of deaths from home accidents last year were divided as follows: falls, 17,500; burns and explosions, 5,600; poisonings, 1,700; firearms, 800; mechanical suffocation, 1,000; poison gases, 1,100. The grand total was 32,500 deaths — ninety out of a hundred of which were unnecessary, and could have been easily prevented.

The Red Cross, in company with other safety organizations, has been carrying on a drive to awaken the public to the danger of home accidents, and to show how hazards may be easily removed and avoided. Take a look around your own home. Is there a loose rug at the top of a staircase? It may easily cause a fall that will result in long agony in the hospital or death. Can unlocked medicine cabinets be reached by children? If so, they are in imminent danger of fatal poisoning by such a common first-aid accessory as iodine. Are guns kept unloaded and out of reach of amateur hands?

You can think of many more such vital questions. When you do, answer them at once—and not by guesswork, but after a rigorous investigation of every room in your home. And once you've eliminated hazards, keep them eliminated. Remember that a home that is safe today may be filled with dangers tomorrow.

Keep safety in mind at all times—if you want to keep your name and the name of your loved ones off the future lists of home accident victims.

RETURNS FROM CHINA

Texas Death Rate From Automobile Collisions Reduced

Austin—State police closed their 1938 death book today and showed a gain of 23 per cent in the encounter between man and vehicle.

As a result there are 464 motorists and pedestrians alive in Texas who had the previous year's record been continued—would be dead. The 1938 death count rose to 1,579 persons, but remained far under the 1937 all time high mark of 2,043 dead.

Strict supervision over reckless and speeding drivers, educational work, engineering and public opinion performed the feat, said Homer Garrison, Jr., public safety director, who had ordered Texas patrolmen concentrated at points where death had successfully stalked most of its victims in 1937.

Christmas holidays were seized with discouraging weather conditions which halted the death figures to an estimated 30 persons, but unofficial returns for the month of December showed a drop of 65 under that month of the previous year when 230 Texas travelers were killed.

Lowered speeds and more alertness on the part of drivers, Director Garrison pointed out, brought about a decrease of 1,189 among the year's injured. The total injury group included 14,994 persons, many of them never to walk again, the reports stated. A stronger driver's license law made effective in late 1937 was given credit in the safety march for removing three per cent of permit applications from behind the steering wheels.

A month by month comparison of the two years—1937 and 1938—revealed death reductions every month of the latter year with the exception of March. The lowest death month in 1938 was April with 94, the highest being the estimated deaths in December. Similarly, sharp drops occurred in the injured persons columns.

Speaking of traffic law enforcement Garrison said an addition of 100 high-way patrolmen to the force of 200 last June permitted expansions of patrol stations and a high increase in the number of arrests for reckless and drunken driving.

"Even with the limited body of 300 officers to maintain night

"Boys Town" Tells the Stranger-Than-Fiction Story of "City of Little Men"

"Boys Town," starring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney, brings the most colorful, human and exciting of real-life stories to the screen, proof again that "truth is stranger than fiction." The picture plays Monday and Tuesday at the Princess Theatre.

More than a year ago Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer became interested in Boys Town, the only incorporated village of its kind in the world. This city of little men has a population of 275, of which 250 are boys, and is situated on the main highway west of Omaha, Nebraska. It is twenty-one years old, a dream come true, the dream of one of the greatest and most kindly humanitarians of our time, Father Edward J. Flanagan.

To Boys Town come boys, a never ending parade of boys, who are made welcome irrespective of race or creed. Each of them has a problem, each of them a drama. Some were abandoned by their parents, others were neglected and many had criminal records. One boy was a bank robber at the age of seven, another an inveterate burglar at fifteen; but of the 4300 boys who have passed through Boys Town none has become involved with the police since graduation, while ninety-five per cent are now normal, respectable and responsible young men and citizens of the communities in which they have settled.

The fifteen-year-old incorrigible thief is now 25, happily and day patrol duties it is easily seen that the presence on the highways of double that force would save the lives of hundreds more motorists and pedestrians," Garrison said.

He commended the work of local traffic officers and safety associations of the state and cities in keeping the death record below the figure of the preceding year.

The safety official blamed a lack of vigilance on the part of drivers for many of the deaths, and pointed to the state law which gives vehicles approaching from the right clearance over all other travelers and the statute that was most violated in circumstances leading to collisions.

Speeding vehicles that do not have clearance in overtaking and passing others were responsible for the hundreds of fatal head-on collisions, he declared.

married and owns a small farm. Mechanically-minded, he has several inventions to his credit. The first was a burglar alarm. One graduate was the youngest attorney ever admitted to the bar in one state; one became a flyweight boxing champion; one became a pitcher in the big leagues. These boys, and hundreds of others, are a tribute to Father Flanagan's firm conviction, which he expresses simply in these words: "There is no bad boy."

Tracy's memorable performance as Father Tim in "San Francisco" made him the perfect choice to portray Father Flanagan on the screen. Father Flanagan thought so, too, and it was Tracy's selection for the role that influenced him to approve the filming of "Boys Town." This gives Tracy a distinction no other star has enjoyed, that of playing a living man as the leading character of a motion picture. In a featured supporting role is Henry Hull as Dave Morris. Hull also is playing a real person, the Jewish merchant who financed Father Flanagan's first venture in founding a home for boys and became his greatest friend. In addition, the picture gives important parts to Leslie Fenton and to Gene Reynolds.

It was Father Flanagan's wish that the film should be the true story of Boys Town. To assure fidelity not only to the story but to the background, a motion picture company, numbering 61, was sent to Boys Town. For three weeks, Tracy, Rooney and Hull remained at Boys Town, filming exterior scenes and absorbing the spirit and atmosphere of the city of little men.

SPORTS AND PLAY REPLACE POLICE AND JAIL IN CITY'S DRIVE TO SAVE YOUTH FROM CRIME

CHICAGO—Sports equipment instead of the policeman's club, and play areas in place of jails, comprise the newest approach to the problem of combating juvenile crime and general moral disintegration.

Municipal recreation leaders of Chicago are "saying it" with ice skating, skiing and other outdoor sports, and badminton, table tennis and similar games for indoor recreation, in their winter program of winning youth from waywardness.

Speaking before the recent conference of the Chicago Recreation Commission, Homer P. Rainey, director of the American Youth Commission of the National Council of Education, stated that "the country is filled with young men and young women out of school and out of work who have time on their hands and nothing to do. There are 4,500,000 youths between the ages of 16 and 25 who are idle. Even those who are employed have shorter work periods and longer spare hours than formerly. Satisfying recreation there-

INVENTOR Lloyd Stars Ronald Colman in Epic Version of Villon Story. Professor Peter Kapitza, retained by the Soviet government, has perfected a new method of liquefying gases, only a few details of which are known. His discovery will have great scientific and industrial importance. Memorial Museum Scheduled to Be Opened January 15. Austin—The Texas Memorial Museum will open its doors on the University of Texas campus January 15. Dr. E. H. Sellards, director, announced here today. The $600,000 building, built by American Legion, ex-students and student contributions augmented by Federal funds, has been completed, except for landscaping, since early November its opening, however, has been delayed until exhibits in the University's collection could be housed. The building is of white stone and the architecture is simple and Grecian style. Natural lighting is furnished by the three glass-brick windows 25 feet wide and 67 feet high. Fifteen tons of structural glass were employed in building the windows. Prominent in these exhibits are the thirteen dioramas showing the history of Texas from 1718 to 1876. Collections of early English china, American colonial, majolica pottery, early Texas costumes and a display of Texas horns are grouped in the history division. Outstanding of the botany and zoology exhibits, housed on the third floor, are rare exhibits of Texas insect, plant and animal life. The anthropological exhibits range from collections of Chinese and Guatemalan costumes, implements of early Texas Indians, and the skeletons and household implements of a groupe burial taken undisturbed from Lamar County, Texas. The geology exhibits include large relief maps of Texas from its earliest geologic days to the present relief topography. Three dimensional dioramas in this exhibit show the underground and surface structure of the most famous Texas oil fields. Also prominent is a collection of "tekites," believed to be the only "glassy" meteorites in this continent; and an exhibit of fossil elephant and mastodon bones taken from South Texas. Lloyd Stars Ronald Colman in Epic Version of Villon Story

Roaring down the centuries comes the story of one of the grandest lover rogues of all time — Francois Villon — whose life story at last gets the screen treatment it deserves in "If I Were King," the new Frank Lloyd production, which shows at the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Ronald Colman, whose great romantic characterizations have made motion picture history, is cast as Villon, one of the most colorful fellows ever to strut across the pages of history—Villon, fifteenth century poet, playboy, lover and statesman who held France in the palm of his hand for one glorious week only to be banished when he gave his heart to a royal princess he dared not love! "If I Were King," as scripted from the play by Justin Huntly McCarthy, by Preston Sturges, who is famous throughout the dramatic world for his brilliant dialogue and amusing situations, presents a Villon story totally different from any ever offered in literature on the stage or on the screen. The story opens with Colman engaged in the typical Villon-esque raiding of a warehouse belonging to King Louis XI, in order to prevent his beloved people of Paris from starving while the Burgundian armies blockade the city. Fleeing the king's soldiers, he seeks refuge in the last place any one would ever think of looking for Villon—in a church and there he sees the most beautiful creature of his life, a royal princess, played by Frances Dee. With the stage so brilliantly set for action, Colman suddenly finds himself the ruler of France due to a caprice of the king, Basil Rathbone, one of whose enemies the rogue unwittingly killed in a street brawl. Made grand constable with absolute powers for a week, the fool of the Paris mobs finds that he must defeat the Burgundians by the end of that time or go to the gallows for robbing the storehouses. The man who verses and charms conquered the heart of all Paris, and of Miss Dee, too, does not find going at court so easy. The generals of the armies sitting comfortably behind the stout walls of the city, absolutely refuse to fight. Faced with the prospect of a hangman's rope—now doubtfully to be dreaded because of his love for the princess—Colman seizes upon Miss Dee's suggestion that he give away every bit of food in the storehouses and so force the lazy generals into action. In a smashing climax, Colman distributes the food to the Paris mob and then, the generals still

Business in Texas Suffers Less Than Elsewhere

Austin—Texas business continues to fare better, economically speaking, than that of the remainder of the country, Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, pointed out today as he surveyed the outlook for Texas industry and trade at the end of 1938. "Compared with the Nation as a whole, the business decline during the past year in this State has been mild and indications are that Texas will soon follow the upward trend of National business thus escaping most of the rigors of the depression experienced during the past year in the North and East," he said. "During 1938 manufacturing employment in Texas has been approximately 8 per cent under last year, as compared with a drop in manufacturing employment in the country as a whole of approximately 20 per cent. Texas factories show decreased pay rolls under last year of approximately 5 per cent; while factory pay rolls in the Nation have decreased approximately 27 per cent.

White. "Medical research will continue to be one of the strongest battles against tuberculosis in 1939."

Two projects are now under way at Yale. Further study of the chemistry of the tubercle bacillus, the germ which causes tuberculosis, is being conducted by Dr. R. J. Anderson of the Department of Chemistry. Dr. Robert Thomas in charge of another which deals with the physiological aspects of the substances of the tubercle bacillus. The University of Wisconsin, under Dr. Horace Getz, will pursue research to determine the ingredients of cod liver oil which make it valuable in the treatment of tuberculosis. At Cornell, the biology of the tubercle bacillus inside living cells will be studied microscopically by Dr. Morton C. Kahn. At Henry Phipps Institute of the University of Pennsylvania, further study of tuberculin, the substance used in intradermal injections to diagnose early tuberculosis, will be continued with a view to establishing a more completely standardized product. Dr. Florence B. Seibert, recipient of the Trudeau Medal in 1938 is working on the project. The Moore School of Electrical Engineering of the University of Pennsylvania, under Dr. F. Maurice McPhedran and Prof. Charles Weyle, is engaged in the improvement of X-ray technique. It has long been known that in diabetics tuberculosis runs a rapid and intensive course. Research to learn the causes back of this relationship will be conducted by Dr. M. Maxim Steinbach of the Columbia University Medical School. Dr. Steinbach will also direct his efforts to a study of increased susceptibility to tuberculosis during puberty and among schizophrenics. The chemistry of the proteins and carbohydrates which are contained in the tubercle bacillus will also be taken up at Columbia by Dr. Michael Heidelberger. A joint study of the causes of calcifications appearing in X-ray plates in the human lung, which resemble those found in healed tuberculous lesions, will be conducted at Vanderbilt University
