MONROES VISIT IN NEW MEXICO AFTER CEREMONY

Following the wedding ceremony in Pecos Saturday, August 19, at 3 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Monroe spent their honeymoon in Carlsbad and Clydecroft, N. M.

Judge W. A. Oden read the single ring ceremony which united Miss Mary Beth Banner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Banner, and F. W. Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Monroe. The marriage came as a culmination of a romance started when they were childhood sweethearts at Sheffield.

Mrs. Monroe graduated from Sanderson High School last year and was one of the most popular of the younger set. She shared in all school and social activities, having been drum major of the Sanderson high school band for the past two years. Her parents are prominent ranch people of northeastern Terrell County.

Mr. Monroe graduated from Schriener, Kerrville, in June, and is a prominent young rancher of the Sheffield country, his family being pioneer ranch people of that section.

The young couple will be at home on the Monroe ranch near Sheffield.

Annual Meeting Sanderson National Farm Loan Ass'n.

Members of the Sanderson National Farm Loan Association will hear Vice-President W. J. McAnelly of the Land Bank and the Board of Directors report on the association's progress, at a meeting to be held at 3 p. m. Sept. 2, 1939 at the Sanderson Wool Commission office. This association now has 36 Federal Land Bank loans in the amount of $1,083.00 and 25 Land Bank Commission loans in the amount of $220,000.00. In addition to reviewing the operations of the association, the members will elect a director to serve for the ensuing year.

A special effort has been made to insure a large attendance at this most important meeting. Previously the meetings were held in January, but often inclement weather prevented many members from attending. Attendance at the annual meeting of the association, A. E. Creigh, Jr., pointed out, affords members the opportunity to have a voice in the management of their own cooperative lending institution. The association loans are made on long term contracts, amortized over as much as 33 years. Repayment is made in reasonable semi-annual payments that gradually but systematically reduce the principal of the loan. By this method, National farm loan association members avoid the necessity of costly renewals and have added advantage of lower interest rates. An excellent entertainment program has been arranged to supplement the business session, Mr. Creigh said.

Mrs. Mary Mitchell and son, Keith and Mrs. R. E. Corder and daughters left for San Antonio Tuesday. They were accompanied by Miss Mary June Reed of San Antonio who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harrell and daughter, Lillian went to San Antonio Monday returning Wednesday night.

Mrs. Roy Bogusch returned home Wednesday night from Crustal City where she has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lindley.

Miss Katie Hopper and Mrs. H. S. Weeks and daughter, Miss Betty Lou of Birmingham, Alabama, are here visiting this week with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pierce.

Do We Move Forward?

(EDITORIAL)

If you would go to each of Sanderson's citizens individually and ask him whether they prefer to see Sanderson go forward or backward, they would reply, "Forward." Some few might say they like it just as it is, but they fall to realize that there is no standing still. We either move forward or we move backward.

We honestly believe that the majority of Sanderson's citizens would prefer to see our town move on, to grow and prosper, but there are very few who seem willing to put forth just a little effort or sacrifice just a little for the good of all. We speak in the main concerning the matter of fire protection. A subject we have seen fit to harp upon at different occasions, and a subject which we intend to harp upon until something is done about it.

True, we have only a limited supply of water, but if we had an ocean for a storage tank we could have no fire protection until we had the necessary fire equipment—pumps to bring the water to the town and a truck and pump to use the water after it was here. A more simple remedy at present would be to purchase a fire truck with a water tank of at least 500 gallon capacity, with a booster pump that would throw that water at the rate of 150 gallons a minute. This tank could be kept filled at all times so that when needed it would be ready to go. There could even be a chemical tank on the truck so arranged that either chemical or water could be used. If one supply failed then the other could be turned on.

The main problem, however, is not in what we need but how to finance it. Such equipment has to be bought, and it is expensive—not so expensive, however, as one big fire. Many of the local merchants and citizens are willing to do their part in creating a fund to purchase this equipment. Others are not willing to spend a dime unless they see a dollar coming back into their pocket.

and that type of person is usually the fellow to do the most crying if it happens to be his home or his business that is destroyed by fire.

Donating to such a fund is fine, but due to the fact just stated above, the burden usually falls on a few and the whole enjoy the benefits. The word tax makes a lot of people almost jump right out of their chair, yet that is the only just and fair method of raising funds for such projects. There are too many taxes, but none of those you pay at present help protect your home, your business and the lives of those you love from fire. If we are to have anything we have to pay for it, and a fair price. It is true that you have insurance for protection, but that insurance will not keep that little child from burning, nor will it pay for the loss sustained.

The Rotary Club, at its regular meeting Wednesday started a move to see if property holders in Sanderson would be willing to pay one per cent of the present valuation placed on their real property. If you are owner of a home and that home is rendered at $1,000 for taxation, then you would be asked to donate one per cent of that amount which would be $10. That would amount to less than three cents a day, and we wonder what man or woman doesn't waste more money than that. And we suppose that there will even be some people who will howl about that.

One of the things we really need is fire protection, and unless we intend to just sit here like we have in the past and let homes and business houses burn to the ground after we have tried to extinguish fires with a shirt-tail full of water and a bucket brigade like that used when the first pioneers settled in Texas, we must push the movement. Let's equip our town so that more citizens will move in without fear of losing all in a fire because there is no protection, and so that citizens who are here at present will be protected.

Veteran's Insurance Now Available

The announcement has been made from the Veteran's War Risk Insurance Department that there has been reopened for the benefit of the Veteran's insurance to all veterans who served from October 6, 1917 to July 2, 1921.

A discharged soldier who has served between these dates may apply under the provision of the World War Veteran's Act of 1924, for insurance not to exceed the original amount of $10,000.

The Clarence Hallie Mulkie Post No. 160 now has all the necessary application blanks and any Veteran may apply to Alfred E. Creigh, Jr., the Service Officer, and make application for any one of the various forms of insurance now offered by the Government to its former soldiers.

This insurance now offered is the insurance which was formerly available to ex-service men but was discontinued by the United States Government in 1928.

We urge any Veteran who feels the need of additional insurance to protect his family to consider this particular class of insurance which is made available only to Veterans and therefore at a cheaper premium rate than other types of insurance offered by private insurance companies.

The Service Officer of the Clarence Hallie Mulkie Post will be glad to assist any veteran who desires to avail himself to the recent amendment of the Insurance Act.

FIRE PREVENTION DISCUSSED AT ROTARY WED.

Plans for establishing a fire department and securing fire-fighting equipment were discussed at the regular Rotary luncheon Wednesday.

E. L. Williams discussed the offer made by Carlton White in an effort to raise funds for the purchasing of a fire truck of some kind. Mr. White offered to furnish the Princess Theatre and equipment and the films for a benefit show if they would pay from the proceeds the operator for his time and the express cost of getting the film here and returned. It is believed that quite a sum might be raised by this method and feel that Mr. White was very liberal in his offer to donate the theatre and the cost of the films.

Another plan proposed by President W. J. Ferguson was to obtain the rendered valuation on all real property and ask that each property owner pay 1 per cent of that amount into a fund especially for the purchase of fire-fighting equipment. This plan would cost any one individual very little and would be of untold benefit in combating the fires that occur from time to time in Sanderson, Mr. Ferguson stated.

E. L. Williams was appointed as a committee of one to make arrangements with Mr. White for the show which will be presented on some future Sunday afternoon and T. R. Kuykendall, G. J. Henshaw, and O. H. McAdams were appointed as a committee to check into the matter of real values as rendered in the town of Sanderson. These committees are to report to the club at the next regular meeting.

J. A. Johnson, with the Good-year Tire and Rubber Company was a guest of the club.

Shocking Calastrophe Is Re-enacted in Film Hit Saturday

The world almost lost Enrico Caruso, perhaps the greatest tenor who ever lived, during the terrible hours of the San Francisco earthquake of 1906. Indeed, the lives of a large number of artists, members of the Metropolitan Opera Company on tour, were endangered on that morning of April 18, almost exactly 30 years ago.

These facts came to light during intensive pre-production research work on "San Francisco," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, co-starring Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald and Spencer Tracy, and dealing with Frisco of the late Barbary Coast days. The picture returns to the Princess Theatre Saturday only.

During a search for all information and photographs of the Grand Opera House, where Miss MacDonald, as an opera singer, appears during a number of the film's sequences, a yellowed book of clippings was found in a second-hand book store. Faded news items revealed that at the time of the catastrophe the city's opera season had just begun. They told, too, of the harrowing experiences of Caruso Campanari Dippell, Eames, Sembler, Sett, Plancon, Reis and other famous singers of the day, all of them quartered in hotels in the city.

Caruso, it appears, was asleep on one of the upper floors of the Palace. Awakened by a severe shock, he made his way down six flights of stairs and into the main corridor, where confusion reigned. Two minutes later a reporter found him, bare-footed and pajama-clad, sitting on his valise in the middle of Market Street. "It instantly recalls the horrors in my own native Naples of which I was reading yesterday," Caruso is quoted as having said. "I have no doubt the earthquake here has some relation to the eruption of Vesuvius." Olive Fremstad was the heroine of the grand opera forces Aroused from her sleep, she barely escaped with her life from St. Dunstan's as it crumpled; but she refused to leave the stricken neighborhood and remained the entire day, ministering to the injured and foraging provisions for the destitute. She spent all her money buying food for the sufferers and when night came she walked to the ferry and crossed to Oakland with other members of the company. The opera house itself was, of course, destroyed. As the last

He Got Back 15 Cents
Just before the opening of the special session of Congress in November, 1937, Vice-President Garner arriving in St. Louis from San Antonio, en route to Washington, made a bee-line for a barber shop. For 25 minutes the Vice-President relaxed for a shave at the hands of Dexter Davis, Union Station barber who has had Garner in his chair four of the eight times in recent years he has stopped in St. Louis. As he left the barber shop, he handed the Negro shine boy a quarter. "Thank you, suh," smiled the boy. "That's a quarter," reminded Garner. "Yes, suh, I know it's a quarter," replied the boy. "Well, I want some change," Garner demanded. He got back 15 cents.

Death by Violence Overtake Prospectors Who Find Nigger Gold Mine of Big Bend

on account of our struggle for Lost mines, buried Spanish and Mexican treasure and other wild o'-the-wisp legends of the Texas border and sparsely-peopled inland generally are pure fiction, but the "Nigger Gold Mine of the Big Bend" is one that appears to have something sounder than imagination beneath the cornerstones. At least two men were certified by reputable persons to have found it and one, Harry Turner, said if he told what sample ore assayed he would be accused of "having twenty dollar gold pieces assayed."

But the deaths by violence, or mishap, of and to the finders and those most closely associated with them is corollary of this treasure trove that the superstitious among future searchers will heed and the brave exercise caution.

The assembly of this narrative began in 1926 when John Young, whom she defines "that grand old Texas pioneer," handed Mrs. Byrde Pearce Hamilton of Montell, Uvalde County, a signed statement concerning the mine. Mrs. Hamilton, who then resided at Alpine, says Young "later brought me a story he said was signed by Lee Reagan, one of the Reagan brothers, principals in the story."

Reagan related that in the summer of 1887, a party included himself, two brothers and Bill Kelly, a Seminole Negro, drove cattle to Bullis Bend on the Rio Grande.

"One night while sitting around the camp fire, Kelly remarked he had found a rich gold mine, which created a big laugh but no interest. He said no more about it until one evening when he and I were out looking for some missing horses.

"Mr. Lee, come with me over yonder (pointing) and I will show you that gold mine. It is just gold sticking out all around there."

The skeptical Reagan refused to go and eventually Kelly disappeared and was not seen again.

The thing was dropped into Reagan's lap again in 1892 when the conductor on a train between Del Rio and San Antonio showed Lee and his brother John, a piece of rich gold bearing rock he said a Negro had given him and which had assayed $75,000 to the ton.

Lee led his brothers, John Frank and a fourth man to the ridge where Kelly had pointed the direction of the gold deposit, but after a day's fruitless search, deciding they would find the Negro before searching further. A trip to Mexico, however, failed to locate him. They made several trips into the Bend subsequently "but had to hurry out each time bacon and beans." The last search was in 1916.

John Young came into the picture about 1911 when he accepted the invitation of two men recently come to Alpine to join them "in a mining prospect in Mexico." The men, Young said, had a map they received from a deceased relative who obtained it from an old prospector in the region of the Lothorine Mountains of Mexico. The prospector had a sack of rich ore and claimed to have found the mine. An expedition was prepared but the Rio Grande, being in flood, the attempt was abandoned.

"The next angle was a letter from Jack Haggard of Mesquite, Mexico, who later came to Alpine and begged my son to go with him to the mines," said Young's statement, which is in his own handwriting. The letter related that Haggard had "a Seminole Negro working for me at a mine at Los Espya" about 1901 who told him a tale about a wonderful rich gold mine he had found in the Big Bend country.

Haggard's foreman, Harvey Turner, however, believed the Negro went alone to the scene, identified by a sketch drawn from the Negro's description of the terrain. Upon returning Turner told Haggard he had found the gold lode. "Turner never showed me the assays," Young's statement said, "stating that no one would believe him but would believe he had sent a twenty dollar gold piece to be assayed."

About a week before he completed his contract at the mine where he was employed, Turner was killed in an explosion along with several miners.

Haggard found among Turner's papers what he believed was a description of the mine but was in cipher and he could not unravel it.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Young's statement concluded, "but that the Seminole Negro found the spew, or chimney, and that the others who found it probably erased or concealed it so that other searchers could not locate the gold. If it was a lead it could be traced, but a spew is just pushed up from the bowels of the earth. All who searched for the gold, except, perhaps, some of the Reagan boys now are dead. There is a superstition that all who locate the gold are under a spell—are struck with tragedy or death before they can remove it."

Young died about a year ago. All his papers and maps, except a tracing of the map he and Turner made were destroyed in a fire in his office. Del Rio Evening News.

Annabella, Robert Young Co-Star in "Bridal Suite"

With Switzerland as its background, an Atlantic liner as its battle ground, and hilarious laughter as its scatter-brained battle cry, "Bridal Suite," with Annabella and Robert Young, will mirthfully invade the screen of the Princess Theatre this coming Wednesday and Thursday.

From his dual role in "Honolulu" Young sallies forth into this picture to play the role of an absent-minded swain who can't remember his wedding day. And from her recent screen hit in "Suez" Annabella emerges to portray the part of an unsophisticated but love-hungry manageress of a Swiss inn, who knows how to bake her nuss-pusserl cookies. Walter Connolly, Reginald Owen, Gene Lockhart, Arthur Treacher and Billie Burke are the supporting fun-makers. Replete with the beauties and perils of Alpine mountain heights, the picture reveals an uproarious comedy situation from the explosion of a water heater as Connolly is about to take his bath, on to the mental examination of Young by Mr. Connolly. Annabella's too-willing response to Young's wooing the search by Young for Annabella and Connolly trapped on a mountain ledge, and other hilarious scenes.

The story reveals the frantic efforts of the fluttery, warbling Billie Burke to have Walter Connolly, Swiss psychiatrist, effect a mental recovery of her adored son, Young, who forgets to remember such things as wedding dates. The Swiss inn to which he takes his son is managed by Annabella to whom Young makes love, much to the dismay of his mother and the doctor. For Young is being treated only that he may marry the daughter of a titled English lord. But love laughs at the psychiatrist and mocks at ambitious mamas, involving the four screwballs in a series of side-splitting complications that tumble over one another from the Alps to the decks of a trans-Atlantic liner where Young, discovering that Annabella has smuggled herself aboard precipitates a free-for-all fight, wins Annabella's hand in marriage, and obtains the parental blessing.

To capture the gay spirit of this hair-brained comedy, M-G-M entrusted the direction to William Thiele, developer of such stars as Lillian Harvey, Danielle Darrieux and Dorothy Lamour, and director of such Continental hits as "Two Hearts in Waltz Time," "Edgar Selwyn," who lists among his screen successes "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," was the producer.

Operation for Appendicitis is Made Every Minute

Austin, "It has been estimated that an operation for acute appendicitis is performed every minute in the United States; moreover, that peritonitis, a result of this disease, takes the life of someone every twenty-nine minutes. Against this frightful toll may be placed the significant fact that if peritonitis does not occur the appendicitis fatality rates but one in two hundred cases, emphasizes the Texas State Department of Health.

"The perforated appendix, which is the cause of peritonitis, is a preventable condition. Prevention lies in prompt recognition of acute appendicitis and prompt surgery. Though this fact is well known to the medical profession and has been definitely proved in hospitals throughout the land for years, the public as yet is not sufficiently impressed with it.

"Thus it happens that the high appendicitis mortality rate in this country (incidentally, the highest in all civilized nations) is not due to a lack of skill in diagnosis and surgery but to the American tendency toward self-treatment with the accompanying factor of delay.

Appendicitis is essentially a disease of the young, seventy-five per cent of the twenty thousand who die annually from this cause in the United States, being under the age of thirty, while only ten per cent are over forty.

"Hospital records disclose that delay in seeking medical advice was the main reason for appendicitis deaths. An impartial survey of deaths from appendicitis in an Eastern state proved that the chances of dying are four times greater on the second than on the first, five times greater on the third, six times greater on the fourth day of the disease. The tragedy of procrastination in the presence of appendicitis is enacted only too often.

"Personal intelligence, then, is the key to the appendicitis mortality problem. The predilection for laxatives upon any, every or no occasion at all, is the great and up to the present time, insurmountable stumbling block. In the presence of abdominal pain, never take laxatives and call your family physician at once if the pain continues.

Not all predators of wildlife are blood-hungry creatures of the wild, and with a new crop of game birds in the fields, Will J. Tucker, Executive Secretary of the Game Department, this week requested every Texan to look after his so-called domesticated animals which are allowed to run loose.

That you cannot blame a good rabbit or bird dog for hunting when he gets a chance and that damage done to wildlife might well be charged to owners of the animals is the opinion of game experts. Hunting dogs can do as much damage as semi-wild house cats. They can hardly be expected to when the legal hunting season ends and they naturally will continue the pursuit for which their masters praised and trained them for at other times.

The number of loose running dogs can, however, in no way compare with a large number of semi-wild house cats which range through the woods and fields, especially near the urban centers, and unless citizens stop dumping unwanted cats and kittens along highways, return of wildlife to Texas fields and pastures will be appreciably hindered.

"The rule is that it's a hat if it is sitting on a woman's head. Otherwise it might be a bird nest, a vegetable platter or a coal scuttle."
