MAN WRITES OF ECONOMIC GROWTH OF WEST TEXAS

Close friends of R. D. Holt realize that he is most well informed as concerning the development and his background of this section.

He has written more recent articles covering the economic growth of West Texas for several years. Many of these have been published in newspapers, magazines and other publications. The appearance of his latest article in the January issue of the "Trail" is a mark for "Trail" by him also in the December, 1940. "Sheep and Goat" magazine. Another appeared in the same month in time the prize had ever been awarded Texas history teachers.

"The Fence Cutters War in Sign and Rhyme" was published in the Dallas News as a feature article in October 1929. In 1930 he had a book published which was a "History of Schleicher County". Other publications which have published his articles are West Texas Historical Association Year Books; Texas Folk Lore Society Publications; San Angelo Standard Times, and the Texas Monthly and Frontier Times. He is also listed in "Texas Writers of Today" published in 1935, and given an autobiographical sketch with quotations from some of his writings.

Most of these articles have dealt with the economic development of the western section of Texas, and he gathers his information far in advance of an article so that he may verify it as being absolutely true facts. He visits many out of the way places and passes up no opportunity of conversation with old timers of the state, no matter from what section they come.

Mr. Holt writes strictly for the pleasure he derives from the work and what remuneration he has received falls far short of paying the expenses attached to the gathering of the material.

Miss Margaret Bowman left today Friday, for Georgetown where she will resume her studies at Southwestern University. Through an error last week she was reported attending school at Kerrville instead of Georgetown.

"Old La Mota," Huge Blacktail Buck, Is Finally Bagged By Alpine Hunter

By Bernice Strawn

Next year's deer hunters in the Big Bend will miss the huge plunging figure of an old buck which eluded even the sharpest eye and surest trigger-finger of sportsmen for several years. "Old La Mota", weighing 275 pounds dressed, with a set of 18 perfect antler points measuring 32 inches across, may be found mounted and stuffed in the Big Bend Historical and Scientific Museum on Sul Ross campus. Old-timers who referred to the elusive buck of La Mota Mountains, 75 miles southwest of Alpine, as the "old moss-back," declared the deer to have been one of the largest ever killed in the Big Bend, with probably the widest horn spread on record.

He was killed by Sheldon Robinson of Sul Ross College faculty, in company with Mrs. Robinson and J. L. Kerby, also of the faculty. The mounting and stuffing of the figure for the museum will be done through the generosity of a resident of Alpine. So unusual was the deer that the taxidermist engaged for the mounting gave a large reduction in charges because of the antler spread. "Old La Mota's" hide, thick and tough, bore the marks of numerous bul-

Moody III, Galveston; Congressional district No. 14, Mark Fuchs, New Braunfels; Congressional district No. 19, Max Starke, Austin; and Congressional district No. 20, H. R. Smith, San Antonio. He invites former patrons of Mr. Stavley to continue favoring him with their patronage and extends a welcome to new friends to give him an opportunity of serving them.

Bert Herbert left Tuesday on train No. 2 for College Station to reenter A. and M. College. He planned to visit in Houston two days with his brother, James Herbert, before continuing on to school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morrison went to El Paso where they attended the Sun Carnival.

Some brands had deep significance to the owner some stood for nothing at all. But when a ranchman was named, for instance P. G. Hatchett, he figured it was a natural, and had the nearest blacksmith hammer out an iron that punned his name.

Very few changes were made in officials of Terrell County, effective January 1, but the new year marked the end of 35 years of faithful service to Sanderson and Terrell County by one of its pioneer citizens.

W. J. Banner first started his career as a public servant for Terrell County serving as its first tax assessor, beginning in the latter part of 1905 when the county was organized and serving in that capacity for nine years. He later served the people of precinct 4 as commissioner before being elected to the office of sheriff and tax assessor in 1928. He served one term in that capacity and then in 1934 was named commissioner of precinct 1 and has served in that capacity since that time.

Mr. Banner came to this section of the country when it was still a part of Pecos County, and was instrumental in the organization of this county. Since the beginning of the county he has offered his services to the people unstintingly, and has done much in promoting the development and growth it has enjoyed since its organization. He has always found time to devote to the needs of the county and at the same time has taken care of his ranching interests.

The people of Terrell County regret that Mr. Banner's health is such that it was necessary that he retire from active public life but his many friends know that his efforts have left many monuments of his work and they hope for him many years of contentment and better health. Knowing that he has given his all for the betterment of Terrell County and the welfare of his fellowmen.

R. E. Corder was named to succeed Mr. Banner as commissioner for precinct 1. The only other change in office was that of C. F. Stavley for Constable replacing J. S. Haley who did not make the race for the office.

Mr. Corder has had previous experience as commissioner and it is felt that his record will be a commendable one.

BASKETBALL FANS TO SEE GOOD GAME JAN. 10

Basketball fans are urged to make preparations to be at the high school gymnasium Friday night, January 10, to see the Eagles tangle with the Fort Stockton Panthers.

First Aid Made Compulsory For CCC Men

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The American Red Cross here announced that it was cooperating with the Civilian Conservation Corps and the War Department in the training of 300,000 CCC enrollees in Red Cross first aid, as a part of its national defense program.

This cooperative effort initiated by John J. McClure, CCC director, provides for 20 hours of first aid instruction for every CCC enrollee. Director McEntee informed the War Department that arrangements had been completed with the Red Cross requiring all supervisory personnel and enrollees to receive training in Red Cross first aid.

Harold F. Enlows, national director of Red Cross First Aid Service, said his organization would assign a supervisor for each of the nine CCC corps areas throughout the country. Working in cooperation with CCC officials, members of the national staff of the Red Cross will train some 3,000 instructors, who in turn, will conduct classes in the 1,500 camps for the 200,000 CCC enrollees. Instructors' training schools call for an intensive two-week course and will be attended by camp personnel having previous first aid training.

Describing the project as the most extensive single undertaking the Red Cross has assumed in the first aid field, Mr. Enlows declared the program has a twofold purpose: to reduce accidents in CCC camps and to better equip enrollees being absorbed by the defense industries. Since 1934 the Red Cross, working with the CCC, has trained 65,000 enrollees annually in first aid. CCC workers who have completed first aid training are given preference by employers, he said.

"Last year accidents claimed 93,000 lives and temporarily disabled some 8,500,000 persons," Mr. Enlows stated. "Enrollees completing their service in the CCC will return to their homes, jobs or to Army life better prepared to act intelligently in the time of an accident, as well as having a greater awareness of the principles of accident prevention."

The Red Cross will train two instructors for each of the 1,500 CCC camps in the country. During the two-week period, eight hours daily will be devoted to instruction and study. Upon completion of the course, each candidate qualifying will receive an instructor's certificate and will be appointed as an American Red Cross first aid instructor. The program will be:

Rob: "I think her voice has improved, don't you?"
Bob: "Well, maybe, but it's still a long way from cured."
Repair Man: "Where is your radiator cap?"
Citizen: "On the front end of the car, but don't call me 'Cap'."

gin shortly after January 1. During the past year, 379,000 persons were trained in first aid by the Red Cross. Mr. Enlows said. Although this was the most active year in the 30-year history of Red Cross first aid, it was pointed out the number being trained during the current year would be considerably higher. More than a score of organizations for home defense units have applied for Red Cross instruction. In addition, the Red Cross is increasing the number of highway first aid stations and mobile units to meet problems arising from increased traffic resulting from

Mystery, Blazing Six-Shooters In "The Durango Kid"

Masked in mystery, Ridin' like a demon, shootin' like fury, Charles Starrett, as blazing vengeance, streaks the plains and tracks down his father's killers. "The Durango Kid," Charles Starrett's latest and best picture opens at the Princess Theatre Friday and Saturday. With the Sons of the Pioneers providing a liltin' and tunful background, and with Luana Walters as the romantic lead, lovers of adventure are in for a big treat. Kenneth MacDonald, Bob Nolan and Forrest Taylor play important supporting roles.

Rosemary Lane Stars In Comedy Film

Laugh, smile and be happy. That is the success formula of Rosemary Lane, pretty young Warner Bros. star, now cast in a sparkling new comedy, "Always A Bride," which opens Friday and Saturday at the Princess Theatre.

She maintains that a keen sense of humor is the most important thing in retaining a successful screen career. That's one of the reasons why she was especially happy about her role in "Always A Bride." It gave her a chance to laugh and she knows that audiences will laugh with her.

The supporting cast includes Virginia Brissac and Francis Pierlot, who has had many a hit year on Broadway. The sprightly story was adapted to the screen by Robert E. Kent from a play by Barry Connors.

"How did you lose your job at the dress shop, my dear?"

"Just because of something I said. After I had tried twenty dresses on a woman, she said, 'I think I'd look nicer in something flowing,' and so I asked her why she didn't go jump in the river."

Contributions Still Coming In For Fighting TB

Austin—Many generous Texans, who know the dangers of tuberculosis were still pouring contributions into the state headquarters of the Texas Tuberculosis Association here today, determined to give full support to the unceasing battle against the disease.

"It's not too late to send in checks for Christmas Seals," Pansy Nichols executive secretary of the Association, said. "Our campaign against tuberculosis goes on throughout the year, and we will need funds for the enlarged program planned for 1941."

The State Association, Miss Nichols stated, will organize more county and local units throughout the state. In this way, each community's particular tuberculosis problems may be solved largely by a group of local citizens who will understand local needs.

The Association will also increase its diagnostic and educational work in high schools and colleges. "This is of great importance," said Dr. E. G. Faber of Tyler, president of the Association, "because young people are most often victims of this disease. Tuberculosis kills one out of every five young men and women who die between the ages of 15 and 30."

One young physician writes to the state office: "Only today I made a seven-mile call through the mud to see a tubercular patient who was having a hemorrhage. She is a young woman with three children. But her case is so advanced that I cannot even get her into the sanatorium."

Early diagnosis would have saved this young mother, Dr. Faber pointed out.

Because many people, during the holiday rush overlooked or safeguard forgot the little seals which safeguard the health of the state, the Association has mailed cards to those on the list who have not responded. "We shall make a splendid record for Texas if the overlooked seals are paid for," declared Dr. H. F. Carman of Dallas, chairman of the executive committee of the Association. "Texans know that the work of the tuberculosis association not only protects the people individually but also lowers the death rate and decreases the tax burden on the state."

"Tell you boys," said the ducky, "dun los a heap of money las night."

"How much, mose?"

"A hundred and eighty-seben dollars an' fohteen cents."

"Golly! dat was a heap o' money."

"Yas, sree, and de wust of it wuz, de fohteen cents wuz cash."

Construction of FHA Homes Shows Increase

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14, 1940—Construction of approximately 170,000 new small homes has been financed through the FHA program thus far in 1940, Federal Housing Administrator Abner H. Ferguson announced today.

For the first eleven and one-half months of the year, preliminary reports show that about 170,000 new homes have been started under FHA inspection. In 1939, the previous peak year, 142,000 small homes were built under the FHA program.

The vital role which the FHA has played in this year's expansion in new residential construction to a 12-year park is shown by the fact that well over 40 percent of all new single-family homes built this year are being financed by FHA insured loans, the Administrator declared. In many localities particularly those where industrial operations are expanding rapidly, considerably more than half of all new home construction has come under the FHA program, he added.

The value of the new homes built under the FHA program this year totals approximately $750,000,000, exclusive of the owners' equity in the new properties. Thus the FHA program has provided an important outlet for new investments by private lending institutions as well as a major stimulus to prosperity in the building industry, Mr. Ferguson asserted.

Since the start of the FHA program in 1934 more than a half million new small homes have been built or started under the FHA program for purchase by American families on the easy monthly terms made possible by the FHA system of long term and low interest home mortgages.

Hilarity Promised In Comedy Hit At Princess

One of the grandest comedies of this or any year is promised in Elsa Maxwell's "Public Deb, No. 1," the 20th Century-Fox picture which comes on Monday and Tuesday to the Princess Theatre.

The hilarious story of a spoiled heiress who turns "Leftist" was produced by Darryl F. Zanuck with a carefully selected cast of favorites headed by George Murphy and Brenda Joyce. Others seen in the new comedy hit include Elsa Maxwell, Mischa Auer, Charlie Ruggles, Ralph Bellamy, Maxie Rosenbloom, Berton Churchill and Franklin Pangborn. Gene Markey was associate producer and Gregory Ratoff director.

Benny-Allen Comedy Is Merry and Tuneful

Musical hits are heard all through "Love Thy Neighbor," that mad and merry musical comedy which opens Wednesday at the Princess Theatre, co-starring those two great comedians Jack Benny and Fred Allen, as well as Mary Martin. Three popular tunes are "Do You Know Why," "Isn't That Just Like Love" and "Dearest Darest I," written by Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen, are in the hit parade. Mary Martin sings the song "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" that she made famous on Broadway in "Leave It to Me." In between these popular songs Jack Benny and Fred Allen continue their feud in a battle of quips guaranteed to keep any audience in stitches. Featured with them are Verree Teasdale, Virginia Dale, The Merry Macs, the Merriell Abbott dancers and Rochester. "Love Thy Neighbor" is from an original screen play by William Morrow Edmund Beloin, Ernest Pagano and Z. Myers.

Mexico's Heroes Are Aztecs Sacrificed Against Spaniards

Mexico City. — Although groups form occasionally to do something about it, Mexico still has no monuments to Cortez the Conqueror.

Mexicans, in moments of candor, admire the invader's courage and some are disposed to admit an obligation to the Spanish leader for bringing Christianity and with it education, but he is not loved in Mexico. This country does not admire conquests such as Cortez and his men achieved in Mexico with the aid of a selected group corresponding to the 20th century fifth columnists, including Marina, the Indian mistress of Cortez, and the Trascalian warriors, who were enemies of the Aztecs.

The gentle, humane and courageous Aztecs who were sacrificed in the wars against the invading Spanish, are Mexico's heroes. The last Aztec prince, Cuauhtemoc, who fought bravely and bore tortures in resisting is a great favorite in Mexican history. Many children are named for him, including a son of President Lazaro Cardenas.

So revered was the Aztec emperor that some Spanish-Indian families began to use the surname of the kings, Montezuma, as their own. A great statue of Cuauhtemoc stands in the Paseo de la Reforma in Mexico City and every city in the republic

TEXAS OUT-O-DOORS

AUSTIN — Although habitat improvement and restoration work with many game species are essential if Texas is to maintain its front rank in wildlife abundance, the enforcement of game and fish laws, a third vital factor, is just as essential as the other two, and reports of the Executive Secretary covering the recently ended fiscal year show game law violators "paid off" for their infractions to a greater extent than during the preceding year.

This was accomplished, the Executive Secretary pointed out despite the fact that Texas has fewer game wardens on the job at present than was the case during the previous year.

Cause for the increase in the amount of fines collected was ascribed to the inauguration of the Game Warden Captain System. When the Game Department in September, 1939, was restricted to 80 game wardens, as compared to 110 formerly employed, the State was divided into six, and later five, regions, and Game Wardens in each were placed under supervision of a Game Warden Captain, chosen from the ranks of men then on the field force.

This step was necessary, the Executive Secretary explained, because with only 80 men patrolling the largest game ranges in the Nation, close cooperation was the only answer to a serious problem that, in other States, is met with the hiring of many

U. S. Is Haven for These Students

No more eager newspaper readers can be found on the Texas State College for Women campus than these six students from foreign countries who find the daily papers a much better medium for keeping up with war-torn homelands than the slow and censored mails.

Silvia Marquez, looking on from the rear, is from Puerto Rico, wants to be a court interpreter. Conchita Genoves fled Valencia, Spain, in January 1939 with her mother and brothers while her father was still a political prisoner.

Sonja Aiken, front row left, hasn't been home to Venezuela since the summer of 1939. Claude Hegar of Brussels, Belgium, came to Connecticut to spend a holiday, thinks it safer to stay here. Maria Luisa Garzon's parents are still in Madrid, Spain; letters from them are always censored. Marthe Thomas, French girl from Algiers, had her education in French and German universities interrupted by war. All are glad to be in the United States.

times the number of game wardens now employed in Texas.

The game warden captains during the past year have closely supervised work of game wardens in their regions, have changed in considerable educational work, and where arrests and prosecutions were necessary have assisted wardens in obtaining sufficient evidence.

The result has been, the Executive Secretary explained, that although fewer arrests were made during the last year (1,711 as compared to 1,790 the previous year) more convictions were obtained as the result of competent law enforcement, and more money was collected in fines. The past year $25,173.29 was collected as compared to $24,173.29 collected during the previous year.

The Executive Secretary emphasized that game wardens and warden captains cooperate to the fullest with biologists and game managers engaged in the technical program of game management and restoration, and, in fact, make the results of that program worthwhile by protecting game increases brought about by scientific work.

The wardens and warden captains in addition have as one of their major objectives and promotion of a friendlier feeling for wildlife and a better understanding between landowners and sportsmen. Educational work is given first rank.

But where so-called sportsmen violate the law, enormous problems of law enforcement confront the game warden because of its limited personnel.

The Game Warden Captain system appears to be a definite step in the direction of solving that problem, the Executive Secretary said.
