Fishing Crew Is Rescued From Island

Port Isabel—Coast Guards left here late Tuesday afternoon to bring back the five man crew of the Hazel J, fishing craft out of Port Aransas, after they had been located on Padre Island beach by Frank Smith, Port Aransas pilot flying a small plane.

The vessel, captained by J. F. Pollard, lost its anchor in a blow Monday and was washed ashore. They were a short distance from Port Isabel but had lost their bearings.

Smith located the men from the air, landed and left them food and blankets. Then he flew on into Brownsville, and after being given his bearings there, returned here Tuesday afternoon late to notify Coast Guards of the men's location on the beach. Smith said the men were in fair condition. San Antonio Express.

Clyde Whistler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Whistler of Sanderson was a member of the crew and as soon as they were rescued he called his parents here that he was all right.

Chubby, redheaded, wisecracking Bill McCraw, former attorney-general of Texas and losing candidate for governor against O'Daniel in 1938, planted himself comfortably before the microphone in the House today and literally picked to pieces an Anti-Strike Bill proposed by Governor O'Daniel as emergency legislation.

"Whoever wrote this bill had great patriotism, but little knowledge of State's rights," McCraw declared. "Parts of the bill are unconstitutional, others are unenforceable, and still others are already covered by existing statutes. It is about as poor a bill as ever I saw placed before a Legislature."

Thus, very smilingly and suavely he chided Governor O'Daniel with being a sentimental optimist. But in this he was not entirely successful, as several members of the House revived sufficiently from the famous McCraw personality to point out that the Governor was entirely sincere in his motive—that he wants to shield the expanding new industries of Texas from the communist blight which is stalling National Defense production in other parts of the nation. Because of this argument, the bill was not killed, but was sent to Attorney General Mann for a ruling, after which it will be re-written and re-submitted to the House.

The bill in its present form requires 60-day notice of an intended strike in any plant engaged in National Defense production. It prohibits picketing by more than two persons; prohibits strike assemblies; and prohibits interference with non-strikers.

As the Legislature rounded the half-way mark of the session Friday, the Chief Clerk reported 746 bills had been introduced, which was about 300 less than at this time in the last session. Fewer bills, and more action on the major problems, seems to be the motto of the Fighting Forty-Seventh.

James Henry Young, aged 81 years, 9 months and 22 days, died Sunday, morning March 9, at 1 o'clock, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Will Leineweber in Dilley.

The funeral was held at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Baptist Church with the Rev. Leach, Baptist pastor, in charge. Interment was in the Dilley cemetery.

Of recent years, due to advanced age, he retired and made his home with his children. He was a man of friendly disposition and well liked by neighbors, and other friends—Dilley paper.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Young and little daughter, Shirley Nell, and Felix Young, who was here from Uvalde working with Mr. Young, attended the funeral services from Sanderson.

Nephew of Mrs. R. D. Holt Plays In "The Kid's Last Ride"

George Havens, a nephew of Mrs. R. D. Holt, played a minor part in the picture, "The Kid's Last Ride," which was shown at the Princess Theatre Friday and Saturday of last week.

The role is the first speaking part Havens has had although he has appeared in several others (one of which was "Little Men," in which he doubled for one of the characters).

Before going to Hollywood about a year ago, he had appeared on the radio at Sweetwater, Abilene and San Angelo with his guitar music and songs. He is also adept at roping tricks and has had several of his songs made into recordings.

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Collins have recently moved to Sanderson from San Antonio. He is third trick operator for the T. N. O.

TUBERCULOSIS CAN BE PREVENTED WITH PROPER CARE

By Edna Peterman, Health Nurse

Tuberculosis causes 4,000 deaths annually among our Texans. Statistically speaking, each one of these persons actively infected nine other individuals. The Public Health Service aims to find these active cases in order to prevent spreading of this disease. Because the greater majority of these deaths and active tuberculosis cases are in the age group between 19 and 45 years of age, tuberculin testing is not advised since their possibility of being positive is very high. But x-rays are indicated whenever suspicious symptoms arise. These are loss of weight, loss of appetite, night sweats, elevated temperature even as slight as 99 or above should be considered dangerous if it continues over a period of time; coughs, frequent colds, persistent fatigue and susceptibility towards pneumonia.

School children are urged to have the tuberculin test regularly as they provide clues as to source of infection. The public health nurse acting as detective, makes home visits interviewing the adults in the home relative to contacts had with other members of the family, neighbors or relatives who might be suspicious cases. Then too, by tuberculin testing the children one finds the cases early among them as well as in the contacts. When a child has a positive reaction it need not alarm or worry the parents. Although a positive skin test indicates the presence of tuberculous infection, it does not in itself even when associated with "lime spots" on the x-ray plate, necessarily indicate active disease.

Let me tell you about a case which proves the value of tuberculin testing our children. In one community where I was employed as public health nurse a county wide testing and x-ray program was carried on. Only one active case was found as the result of this program but not only financially but also preventively speaking it had been worth while. Two small children one six and one seven years of age in the same family were positive. When they are positive at this very young age we are suspicious that an active case was in contact with them recently. The mother was x-rayed and thoroughly examined but found negative. However, she informed me that her sister had been "ailing". A home visit was made and I found a very suspicious tuberculosis individual. After an x-ray and thorough examination she was found to have far advanced tuberculosis. This mother was pregnant and if she had not been cared for in the sanatorium immediately she would never very likely have recovered from the disease. Everyone is not always as wise as this mother for some will not go to the sanatorium and therefore not only endanger their own lives but also those around them.

All cases do not end so happily. I recall the family where the mother and two children had died of tuberculosis leaving four small children motherless. Tuberculosis is an expensive disease. It can be prevented and cured. Our best weapons are to find the cases early through testing and x-raying.

Three programs have been carried on in Terrell County. One in 1938, one in 1940, and one in 1941. As a result of the testing 81 persons were found with a positive reaction of which a number have been x-rayed. It is important that at least the suspicious reactors be x-rayed but more so that all suspicious adults likewise.

Mr. and Mrs. Bustin Canon were visitors to the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show Monday where they met their son, Hicks, who is attending A & M College. In returning they went by way of Lubbock for a visit with their daughter, Miss Marjorie, who is attending Tech there.

Hernandez was to build a trail in 8-Mile Draw and was bitten the first rock he turned over. The snake had evidently been out sunning the day before and had failed to crawl back under shelter at nightfall, remaining beside the rock. He was struck on the right hand.

He went to the C. E. Long ranch and Aaron O'Bryant brought him to Sanderson to a doctor. His condition is satisfactory although he was rather ill the following night.

The serum can be purchased at the drug stores and Dr. Lester will be available at any time.

A telegram from Representative Cal Huffman informs the Times that the House Appropriations Committee approved a million and a half dollar appropriation Bill for the Big Bend National Park project Wednesday of this week by a vote of 11 to 3. The Bill has also been approved by the Senate finance committee.

The bill provides money for the purchase of land for the park and as soon as the purchase is made the land will be turned over to the Federal Government for construction of the project. The state would acquire 788,000 acres on the American side of the Rio Grande, and Mexico would set aside 1,000,000 to create an "International Peace Park."

"It is one of the worthiest matters ever put before the legislature," Huffman said. "The war has cut off travel abroad, and travelers are going to tour this continent. Texas should create a way to pull tourists as other states are doing. California has a $200,000,000 tourist business," he stated.

Largest Shipment Ever to Go Over Rail Through Sanderson

A piece of equipment weighing 200 tons was the unusual rail shipment which remained overnight in the local yards of the T. & N. O. Railway Tuesday night.

The machinery, a 121-foot cylinder, required two special built cars with a rider car to carry the load. It was 13½ feet in diameter and it was necessary to widen cuts in several places before there was room for it to pass through. The piece of equipment was built in California and was being shipped to the Humble Oil & Refining Co. at Baytown and is to be used in a national defense project which involves the extraction of a valuable element from petroleum. The trip was made only in the day time with a maximum speed of only 25 miles per hour on a straight road and only 10 miles per hour on curves. It is understood that this is the first of a shipment of eight of the pieces, known as refractory tubes.

L. F. Tadlock, trainmaster, J. K. Kinsler, Southern Pacific division superintendent, L. M. Tuberville, general car foreman and W. R. Mann, assistant superintendent, left here with the crew in charge of the shipment. W. M. Bowyer, general engineer, was also with the crew.

Freight charges alone amounted to more than $6,000 according to information here.

Rural families in 17 West Texas counties of Extension Service district 6 canned 325,020 quarts of fruits, vegetables, meats, and jellies and dried 20,802 pounds of vegetables and fruits, during 1940, according to compiled reports of county home demonstration agents serving in those counties. Typical of these co-operating homemakers is Mrs. W. E. Bruton of the Reynolds Home Demonstration Club in Schleicher County, shown above, who had 56 different items in her pantry. Families also use freezer lockers as a means of storing food for home consumption.

"White Eagle" Is New Serial Coming To Princess Theatre

Action is the heart blood of chapter dramas or, as they are sometimes known, movie serials. And action, lots and lots of it, is said to be crammed into Columbia's "White Eagle" to make it one of the most potent and elaborate serials yet turned out of Hollywood, jam-packed with suspense and thrills; crowded with hair-raising adventure designed to delight and hold spell-bound the most discriminating action-fans.

In 15 breath-taking episodes which opens Friday, March 28 at the Princess Theatre, where it will be shown every Friday and Saturday thereafter, the film recounts the efforts of Buck Jones, starred as "White Eagle", to bring about lasting peace between his own people, the Indians, and the law-abiding white settlers of an early American frontier town.

To do this Jones must continually battle some of the most renegade and desperate bad men of the old west. It is their wish to keep the Indians and whites in constant turmoil and to accomplish this they must do away with Buck. Their efforts to kill him take nearly every known shape and are sufficient to send chills up the most lethargic spines.

They include crashing a tree on his stage-coach; trapping him in an exploding ammunition wagon; dropping him into quick-sand; an attempt to blow him up by powder; trapping him in a furious stampede; dynamiting a cliff onto him and his Inventiveness on the part of Jones allows him to escape unscathed from all of these adventures, but the suspense created is said to be highly satisfying to lovers of adventure and excitement.

"She Couldn't Say No", Gay Comedy Coming to Princess

He's a lawyer and she's a lawyer and they're sweethearts. Instead of poetry he reads her passages from the New York Statute's Modus Operandi, and she loves it. But the sparks fly when they try to tear each other apart in court in Warner Bros. gay new film, "She Couldn't Say No," which opens at the Princess Theatre next Friday, March 28.

In the film's leading roles are talented Roger Pryor and one of the screen's outstanding personality-girls, Eve Arden, who came to Hollywood from Broadway's "Two For the Show" and caused much comment of her performances in "Stage Door," "No, No Nannette" and "Comrade X." Also featured in "She Couldn't Say No" is Cliff "Ukelele Ike" Edwards.

The story concerns a not-too-successful lawyer, Wallace Turnbull, played by Roger Pryor, and his sweetheart-secretary, Alice Hinsdale, portrayed by Miss Arden, who is also a lawyer.

Wallace finally gets a case. He's to buy a piece of property for his client owned by Eli Potter, played by Clem Bevans, who is an erratic old millionaire. When Wallace approaches Potter's place, he is shot off the ground because the old man thinks he is a process server. Potter is being sued, it seems, for breach of promise, by Pansy Hawkins, played by Vera Lewis. Alice steps into the picture to take Potter's case, believing if he won he'd sell the property in question. At the same time, Wallace takes Pansy's case, thinking that she'll sell the land if she win it in the trial. Neither lawyer knows the other is on the case.

The case is a wild contest of defendant vs. plaintiff and lawyer vs. lawyer at the same time. But when Pansy and Eli get together and the lawyers explain the mixup, all ends happily.

The play, "Heidi," sponsored by the Davis Mountain Federation of Women's Clubs, was presented Thursday afternoon of last week in Sul Ross College auditorium, Alpine, with a capacity audience in attendance from Valentine, Fort Stockton, Sanderson, Presidio, Fort Davis and Marfa. Cagney Has Two Sweet Honeys In 'Strawberry Blonde'

Jimmy Cagney, who put the "roar" in the "Roaring Twenties," is now bowling them over as a bad boy of the Naughty Nineties, in Warner Bros.' "The Strawberry Blonde" which makes its local debut at the Princess Theatre next Wednesday, March 26. Cast with Cagney and decked out in their best bustles are lovely Olivia de Havilland and demure Rita Hayworth.

When those two honeys start to vie for Cagney's affections they prove that times may change but love is love whether it be in the Golden Nineties or the Flippant Forties.

"Strawberry Blonde" captures all the charm and quaintness of the mauve decade. The customs, songs and jokes of that era make a delightful background to a warm drama.

Alan Hale and George Tobias round out the talented cast by supplying plenty of laughs to the film. The screen play was written by two of the cleverest scenarists in Hollywood, Julius J. and Phillip G. Epstein, from a play by James Hagan. Raoul Walsh directed the production.
