This board of directors meets once each month.

Plans are already complete for keeping the library open one afternoon each week during the summer months. At a meeting of the board of directors on Wednesday afternoon further summer plans decided upon set Thursday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, as library hours. Any person may check out a book for seven days. A fine of five cents per day is charged for books overdue.

The sum of $100.00 was recently set aside by the board of directors for the purpose of additional new books in the near future, with $75.00 of this amount for adult books and $25.00 for children's books. Mrs. W. H. Savage is chairman of the committee on the selection of new books.

Mann Gets Twin Welcome in Home Town

Twenty thousand Texans turned out Saturday when Gerald Mann opened his senatorial campaign in Sulphur Springs, but the official welcome back to his home town was given the Attorney General by the city's twin officials, Mayor W. Z. Kitts, left, and County Judge W. R. Kitts, right.

Texas, April 20—In a atmosphere troubled by impending entrance of the Senatorship by the juggling of manna items, the Senate passed a revised edition of House Bill No. 8 (the Tax Bill) and sent it to the Governor for ratification.

Opposition pointed to the acceptance of the Tax House, because, realizing the desire of many to increase the levies on million dollars more (if you enter $1,389,000) there is a apprehension that if any made, the Tax Bill would be killed or seriously in conference committee.

PORK SHOULDER STEAKS ARE THRIFTY BUY

It's a smart homemaker who gets up on her toes these days and looks market-wise. One of the most worthwhile buys she'll notice right away is pork shoulder steaks—not only delicious, but thrifty, too. They look mighty good when served nicely browned and garnished with glazed apple slices topped with a ball of bright red cranberry jelly as you see them above.

Pork shoulder steaks are, logically enough, cut from the shoulder of pork. Inez S. Willson, home economist, gives several ways to identify this attractive cut of meat. She points out that the bones in pork shoulder steaks may be of two shapes, as seen in the picture. The long, narrow bone is found when the steaks are cut from the side nearest the ribs, while the round bone is found when the steaks are cut from the "arm side" of the shoulder. The steaks are oval at one end and rather squared off at the other.

Pork shoulder steaks are sometimes called pork shoulder chops. They are meaty and both tender and delicious when properly cooked. Braising is the best method for cooking.

Season steaks with salt and pepper; dredge with flour if desired. Brown on all sides in hot fat. The fat may be that which melts out of the meat or it may be added.

When the steaks are well browned, cover and let cook slowly until done. This will take about forty-five minutes for steaks three-quarters inch thick. It may be necessary to add a small amount of water to the steaks, depending upon the amount of fat in the pan.

A cup of tomatoes seasoned with a tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and several onion slices added to the steaks after they're browned and before they are covered, adds variety in the Spanish fashion.

Pork shoulder steaks are but one of the many examples of meats that are adapted to fit a tight-laced budget. There is actually a cut of meat to fit every purse. Scout around in your market the next time you make a visit and treat yourself to economy.

JANE WITHERS' BEST HIT YET IS "GOLDEN HOOF"

Thrills, fun, dances, song, romance—all that and more are packed into "Golden Hoofs", Jane Withers' newest and best starring film for 20th Century-Fox which shows at the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

More grownup, lovable and romantic, but just as full of ginger as ever, Jane is supported by a brilliant featured cast headed by none other than handsome Charles (Buddy) Rogers, who celebrates his return to the screen after leading a top-notch jazz band for seven years. Others seen in fine roles include Katherine Aldridge, George Irving and Buddy Pepper.

As the picture opens Jane, a 15-year-old trainer of trotting horses on the Yankee Stock Farms, learns that the new owner of the farm, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, has plans to get rid of all the prize trotters to make room for his racing stock.

But when Rogers does show up at the farm, he turns out to be such a likeable and handsome fellow that Jane falls head-over-heels in love with him. However, heart-aches brew when Jane finds he just feels like a big brother to her.

A gay highlight of the film is the "Box Social" sequence which provides Jane a chance to sing a delightful new song hit, "Consider Yourself in Love," and do a clever dance routine with Buddy Pepper, a talented young newcomer.

Paced at a fast clip by Director Lynn Shores, there's never a dull moment throughout the film. Jane's at her best and the whole cast turns in convincing performances.

"The Long Voyage Home" Is Superb Sea Thriller

Against the highly dramatic and emotionally stirring story of men who dare the perils of sea and sky, Walter Wagner's new screen presentation, "The Long Voyage Home," will be shown at the Princess Theatre Friday and Saturday, May 9-10. Based on the famous sea plays of Eugene O'Neill, America's greatest playwright, it is John Ford's first Argosy production and was filmed from a brilliant screen play by Dudley Nichols.

The hand-picked cast of this thrilling and suspenseful film is headed by such distinguished performers as John Wayne, Thomas Mitchell and Ian Hunter and includes: Barry Fitzgerald, Wilfred Lawson, John Qualen, Carmen Morales, Arthur Shields, J. M. Kerrigan and Mildred Natwick.

Four of O'Neill's immortal one-act nautical plays, "The Moon of The Caribbees," "Bound East for Cardiff," "In the Zone" and "The Long Voyage Home" were combined to form one tightly-knit, terrifically fast-paced story of the experiences of the crew of an ammunition laden tramp steamer, the S. S. Glencarin, in the war zone.

As timely as the headlines in tomorrow's newspapers, the film brings to local audiences the tale of the heroic sailors who, without uniforms, protection or the possibility of receiving medals, carry out one of the most dangerous tasks in modern war; that of supplying ever-necessary explosives to their country, while they challenge the roaring gales of the high seas.

Woven into the tumultuous drama are a number of gripping individual stories—the drunken renegade army officer who dies heroically while defying a flight of enemy airplanes that machine gun the Glencarin, the romance

Texas History Class Presents Interesting Program

The Texas history class, under the direction of Mr. Holt and assisted by Mrs. Wilkinson and Mr. Duke, presented the assembly program Thursday morning. The theme of this program was to tell something about the old-time Texas cowboy and trail driver; his dress and equipment; his horse and saddle; the Longhorn steer which made Texas famous; and finally to show some of the songs the cowboy sang as he rode around the herd at night or drove a herd of cattle up the trail. The Texas History class were guests on the Lazy 2 ranch out in West Texas, and were on their annual camping trip to this dude ranch. The characters were Uncle Joe, cowboy of the 80's who was guide at the dude ranch, Jimmie Wilkinson; Sourdough Babb, camp cook; and the others were just "duders". As the curtain opened strains of "Home on the Range" were heard and all the dude cowboys and cowgirls, dressed up with boots, bright colored shirts, and big hats, were grouped around the fire place sitting on logs, saddles, and saddle blankets. In the background was the chuckwagon and Sourdough Ball, Buster Babb, washing dishes. The program consisted of the dudes asking questions and Uncle Joe answering them. Everyone in a while Sourdough would let out a complaint about the dudes "messing around" his camp and for them to "clear out." At different times during the program such well-known cowboy songs as "Cowboy's Dream," "Old Chisolm Trail," "Whoopie Ti Yi Yo," "Get Along Little Doggies," "When the Work's All Done This Fall," "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," and "Good-bye Old Paint," were sung. After a few songs by Stump Duke, "Empty Saddles" and "Home on the Range" were sung, which concluded the program. Those taking part in the program were Earline Stirman, Roberta Lochausen, Lois Mae Bassett, Ross Underwood, Jimmie Wilkinson, Marzee Haynes, Doris Cochran, Bernice Harris, Margaret Arrington, Johnny Hardgrave, Bill McPhee, B. F. Davis, Campbell Kerr, Buster Babb, and Robert Shaw.

Posters showing some of the different brands were placed in front of the stage for the audience to see. Cartoons of "Out Our Way" were placed on the bulletin board in the hall between a young Swedish sailor and a beautiful bum-goat girl, and the efforts of a Limehouse crimp to shanghai members of the crew when they dock in London's Limehouse.

Reviews of Progress Is Presented By General Motors

Thursday afternoon at one o'clock, Robert P. Morgan presented to the high school students Previews of Progress. Mr. Morgan represents the General Motors Corporation from New York and all the equipment he used was from the New York's World Fair.

Mr. Morgan did very many interesting experiments and told many interesting facts and stories about some of the inventions and improvements which the people of tomorrow will come in contact with. For example, he showed us the different forms in which silk, cotton, milk, glass, and other materials could be found. He showed us how sound could be carried by means of a ray of light. After this program was over, Mr. Morgan presented a similar program at the Mexican school building. These programs were presented in Del Rio, Marathon, Alpine, and other near-by towns.

HEARS NOTHING SEES NOTHING TELLS ALL

We understand that Marybelle, Jimmy and Ross have a fine time in band each day. Isn't it surprising how some people act when they "get away from it all"?

Ross took Bernice to the party at Corder's the other night. Then after that, Jeep and Ross went to the city on the train. We were surprised to see either one of them home whole, but they did.

Doris, we saw Bill out with another Senior Girl Saturday night. What are you going to do about it?

Senior play practice is quite a lot of fun. The "triangle" have a race to the door every night to see who is to take Doris home. The standings at the present are in favor of Jimmy who leads by a slight margin.

Earline and B. F. were the only members of the class that did not attend Kerr's party last Tuesday. So that's where you have been keeping yourself lately? It looks as if I have something on you after all.

Joyce is always worrying about—well you know who. Why she worries is a mystery to everyone. She seems to have a cinch.

Isn't it a pity that the typing room windows aren't made of plastic glass? Then Earl Hurst wouldn't be buying a new pane for the window.

Since the assembly program last Thursday, the boys have been asking the girls to go milk-shaking instead of dancing.

Bill McPhee seems to have trouble with all the lines in the senior class play that call for endearing words to be said to Joyce Yeates.

From all reports of recent trips made by seniors, Sanderson High will look like a fashion show the last week of school.

Until recently we didn't know that it was possible for senior girls to carry so many hearts at once.

Of course, we had heard that Buster Babb could sing, but until the assembly program Thursday morning, we didn't know he was capable of singing the leading tenor role in an opera. He can cook, too, girls.

We wonder why Joe Ross, Ross Stavley, and Bill Cargile prefer red hair.

The senior class play should be a howling success. It consists of everyone from Lady MasBeth to John Alden and Priscilla and back to Mr. Hyde. There's also a Chink and a few modern characters included.

When Robert Shaw was being so roughly handled by the Sanderson "rogues" Tuesday morning, you should have seen the

Mrs. James Daniels Hostess to Junior Woman's Club

The Junior Woman's Club met Thursday, April tenth, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Daniels with Mrs. James Daniels hostess and Miss Helen Simpson as co-hostess.

Health and Government Day was observed by each member naming a rule for good citizenship.

The president conducted a short business session during which members who attended the Eighth District Convention at Marfa gave interesting reports of that meeting. It being the month of April officers gave their annual reports of the year's work.

Officers elected for the coming year were:

Mrs. Wallace Henshaw, president; Miss Vaunceil Henderson, vice president; Mrs. Conway Pickard, secretary; Mrs. Ted Baker, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Denton, parliamentarian; and Miss Helen Simpson, reporter.

The program for the evening dealt with the first person singular. "Designing Women", given by Mrs. Pickard, and the "Art of Conversation" reviewed by Mrs. Henshaw furnished an interesting view of how the modern woman should dress, act, and converse.

A nest of candy eggs on each plate marked the coming of the Easter Rabbit and the hostess served delicious refreshments of minced pie cups with multi-colored whipped cream and coffee.

Everyone joined in the playing of Easter games.

The following members were present: Mesdames Conway Pickard, Wallace Henshaw, W. A. Matthews, Robert Denton, Jack Hayre, James Caroline, and Misses Myrtle Harrell, Helen Simpson, Vaunceil Henderson, Armenta Ragsdale, Una Lee, and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dyer were visitors to San Antonio Monday to Wednesday.

Robert Lochausen, of San Antonio, was here Sunday visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lochausen and with friends.

COLORFUL ERA LIVES AGAIN IN ROY ROGERS FILM

Pages of history were turned back to the colorful era of Wild Bill Hickok and straight-shooting Calamity Jane, the girl who loved him, in the new Roy Rogers thriller, "Young Bill Hickok". Republic film opening at the Princess Theatre Friday, May 9.

Rogers in the title role, displays fearless courage as the famous frontiersman, who overpowered a dozen overland stage raiders during the Civil War days of intrigue and lawlessness.

Young Bill Hickok, scarcely out of his teens is a relay station attendant for one of the freighting companies, and after continual stage raids that appear to be highly organized, he is assigned to personally escort a heavy shipment of gold.

To doubly insure the safe delivery of the gold, Bill entrusts it to his old friend, Gabby Whittaker, who is to secretly take it across the California line with a pack of horses he is herding. He is accompanied by his niece, Calamity Jane Cannary, who is in love with Hickok.

But Hickok is engaged to marry Louise Mason, daughter of a Southern officer, to whom he confides his plans for the secret shipment of gold, which is the

Corrected Defects Will Permit Selective Service Training

A substantial percentage of registrants rejected for full military service on physical grounds have remediable defects which, if corrected, would permit training of the men in the armed forces. State Selective Service Headquarters announced today. Reporting on an analysis of 37,132 physical examination blanks, Lt. Col. J. W. E. H. Beck, Chief of the Medical Division of the Selective Service System in Texas, said that 30,283 white registrants examined 71.20% were classified for full military service, and of the 6,849 colored registrants 64.69% were classified as qualified for full military service.

Of the total number classified, Col. Beck said, 70% were qualified for full military service, 12.72% for limited service only, and 17.28% were classified as unfit for any military service.

The principal causes for classifying these registrants as unfit for military service are: Eye defects, 1306; defective teeth, 817; hernia, 861; cardiovascular disease, 701; tuberculosis, 278; disease of the nervous system, 776; syphilis, 1982.

"It is an appalling fact that approximately one-third of these men were disqualified for full military service simply because they had not received proper care and attention earlier in life."

Texas' local boards have been requested to notify every registrant disqualified because of physical defects the reason for his rejection, and to suggest that he report at once to the physician or dentist of his choice for treatment. Ordinarily, Col. Beck said, the local physician or dentist is familiar with the registrant's background and he is well qualified to determine the best treatment for remediable defects. Furthermore, if the registrant is found to have defects which are not remediable, his local physician or dentist is likely to be the person best suited to recommend proper treatment.

"More attention must be paid to the prevention and cure of disease. It is hoped that improvement in the health of these young men of military age will tend also to better general public health," Col. Beck said.

Presbyterian Ladies Meet In Home of Mrs. C. L. Sims

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Presbyterian Church held the first meeting of the 1941-42 year Monday in the home of Mrs. C. L. Sims with Mrs. W. E. Grigsby as co-hostess.

Following a short business session presided over by Mrs. John Nichols in the absence of Mrs. R. D. Holt, Mrs. N. E. Charlton presented an interesting program on "Why the Christian College?"

The Auxiliary studies the women of the Bible the ensuing year and Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson gave most effectively the book of Esther.

Mrs. Sims home was attractively decorated with a profusion of flowers. A social hour was enjoyed around a lace centered tea table by the following: Meses. J. W. McKee, Joe Nichols, John Nichols, Seth Davenport, R. S. Wilkinson, J. H. Lochausen, W. E. Lea, John W. Byrd, J. T. Dillard, N. E. Charlton, W. C. Vaughan, Elton Secrest, R. E. Corder, and the hostesses. Mrs. Maude Sullivan was a guest.
