It Happened in Sanderson TEN YEARS AGO This Week—Remember?

October 16, 1931

The Times reported that the "Valuation of Terrell County was fixed at $5,343,256 for 1931." It also reported the death of "the oldest citizen of West Texas—F. C. Bates, 99, one of the organizers of Schleicher County." Mr. Bates, 'tis said, had hopes of "rounding out a century," but death claimed him at his ranch home near Sheffield, Terrell County.

Stock News—Monty Corder shipped out of here Tuesday 1400 lambs. They were going to Oklahoma City where they were to be fed.

Some rain has fallen in various sections of West Texas the past few days which will be of benefit to the ranchmen. As yet no reports of rain falling in Terrell County have been received but every day clouds gather and threaten rain. It is to be hoped that soon a general rain will visit this section of Texas.

The Sanderson Wool Commission shipped out Tuesday of this week its entire holdings of mohair. The shipment which included both grown and kid hair, comprised 140,000 pounds and was consigned to the National Wool Marketing Association of Boston. An advance of 15 cents was made on the grown hair while the kid hair brought an advance of 25, 30 and 35 cents.

Father Sage Says: The best way to eliminate those annoying noises in the rear end of the car is to leave the back seat driver at home.

Hugh Rose, who ranches near Dryden, was a visitor in the city Tuesday.

Bustin Canon was a business visitor here Wednesday from his ranch north of Dryden.

WITH OUR NEIGHBORS

From the top of the Windmill, San Angelo Standard-Times — The county records of Reagan County show that W. T. Mills and Frank Lindley have bought the Methodist church building at Stiles for a consideration of $300. Mills says he will probably convert it into a residence and live in it where he can be near school and his ranching business.

The Nueces Valley News—A. J. Adair who has been connected with the editorial staff of the Nueces Valley News has accepted a position with the Sabinian Sentinel. It is a better paying position and we hope he makes a real success in his new field of work.

His place on The News is to be taken over by Mrs. Byrde Pearce Hamilton of Montell Mrs. Hamilton is a veteran newspaper writer. She has worked on many of the larger papers of the State, and was formerly a vice president of the Texas Women's Press Association. She has been a feature writer and News correspondent of the Associated Press for more than twenty-five years.

The Winters Enterprise—A typical Texas longhorn steer sought for years by the National Park Zoo in Washington, D. C., has at last been found. T. T. Fast, rancher of Hebbronville, in Jim Hogg County, donated the steer to the zoo. It is 12 years old, weighs 1200 pounds and has a horn spread of 8 feet.

LITTLE STORIES

By WILL E. JAMES
CAMELS

"Do you have or can you recommend source for pictures cowboys from Bar X Ranch going out to round up camels and if possible pictures of camels. Please advise soonest collect."
"Homer Cable
"Photo Editor
"News Week
"New York, N. Y."

The Times editor received the above telegram some time ago, and after a tedious research among the annals of early-day Texas history, we have some to the conclusion that there are not now and haven't been any camels in Texas for a long time.

At one time there was a herd of camels in Texas, and the only authentic account, was found in "Camel Tales," by Chris Emmett, Victoria, Texas, whose work was published by the Naylor Printing Company, San Antonio, (price $2.50). The San Antonio Co. informs us that the book, "Camel Tales," is out of print, but that another edition is contemplated.

Besides a story of the introduction of camels into Texas by the War Department as an experiment in seeking an animal that could stand the hard-going in the arid districts and hill country of the then frontier of Texas, there is considerable early-day Texas history embodied in the story one does not find in text books.

There was an appropriation by the Congress of $30,000 to buy and maintain the up-keep of the chosen animal—the camel.

Thirty-three camels were purchased in foreign lands in April, 1856. They were landed at Indola, a Texas coast town, May 8, 1856.

Quite a bit of excitement was stirred among the settlers in that coast town, and countryside, when the camels were unloaded and marched through the streets in care of native camel drivers, who also were imported for the purpose of caring for the animals.

Major Constance Wayne, of the U. S. Army, who made the trip to foreign shores, and negotiated for the camels, and accompanied them to these shores, was placed in command of the animals and he, after a long and continued search, finally selected quarters at Camp Verde, a military post on Rio Verde, a tributary of the Guadalupe River, one-half mile west of the old Johnson road, San Antonio to Fort Terrell, 55 lies northwest of San Antonio by road leading in 1868 from San Antonio. The post was abandoned November 30, 1869.

A number of trips from Camp Verde to San Antonio for supplies are recorded. Besides making the trip in fewer days the camels also could carry heavier loads than pack-mules.

They were also used as beasts of burden through the Big Bend Country when a detachment followed the old Comanche Trail through the country to Old Mexico. On this trip one of the animals was bitten by a rattler and as a result died. The detachment returned by way of Fort Stockton, history tells us. Camels also were used when a new trail to California was sought. A few of the older camels were turned loose in California, and roamed at will until death released them from Army duty.

The book records but one effort to use the camels in war against Indian raiders. A commanding officer entered a complaint that the presence of the animals frightened the horses which became almost unmanageable when it came to marching against the enemy.

At that early date slaves were being shipped into this country by the boat load. It became popular to ship in a cargo of slaves and bill them as camels. A shipload of camels were actually brought over by tradespeople not commissioned by the government. One such load not having a ready buyer at hand, was turned loose to run at leisure on the prairies near the coast. In time they became so numerous, ranchmen considered them a nuisance and a deterrent to the grazing of cattle, so they instructed the cowboys to rope and kill them to free the range of their presence.

Perhaps this story has filtered around until it reached the ears of the Photo Editor of News Week, New York, who sensed a chance to "scoop" the world with pictures of "cowboys rounding up and roping camels" but the news of the camels in Texas got around rather late—say 75 years late, hence, the above telegram. Credit the man with one attribute—he's on the job, not taking any chances on losing an interesting picture or item of news.

Camp Verde, the home of the camels, as stated above, was abandoned as a military post in 1869, and today is a privately owned site, a veritable paradise for tourists, it is said.

Efforts on the part of the Times to locate the Bar X have been unsuccessful. If such a ranch ever existed, it was years ago, as no one can be found today with such knowledge. If such a ranch does exist at this time, it is supporting Angora goats, sheep and fine stock. Of one thing we are doubly sure—there are no camels on it!

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoey and daughter, Mary Ann, of San Antonio arrived last Friday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mitchell. Mr. Hoey returned to San Antonio Tuesday, but Mrs. Hoey and Mary Ann will remain for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Stumberg left Thursday for points in Alabama for a few days visit with relatives.

1941 GAS REFRIGERATOR

New beauty—More convenience—Greater adaptability

Remember, too: only Servel Electrolux stays silent . . . Lasts Long

"IT'S THE BEST-LOOKING YET!" women say when they see the new Servel Electrolux for '41. And when they look inside, they're thrilled with its wealth of new work-saving and time-saving features.

For the 1941 Gas Refrigerator has everything . . . including the only freezing system that hasn't a single moving part. A tiny gas flame does the work—circulates the refrigerant without noise and without wear. That's why Servel stays silent and lasts longer . . . continues to run for a few cents a day. Today, more and more families are replacing other automatic refrigerators with Servel . . . choosing it for their automatic, too. Come in and see the beautiful new model. There's one for every family, every purse.

IF YOU LOOK AT ONE REFRIGERATOR, LOOK AT SERVEL—IF YOU LOOK AT MORE THAN ONE, LOOK AT SERVEL TO SEE THE DIFFERENCE

Assembly Program

Over the past three weeks the girls have been studying kitchen equipment and arrangements. We have also studied points to consider when buying kitchen equipment and utensils, such as: cost, material, and how to be used, safety, and cleaning.

Thursday a pep rally was held in the auditorium for the football boys, who were leaving on Friday to play Fabens. The students yelled with much enthusiasm. After songs and yells, talks were given by Mr. Smith, Mr. Hunter, Mr. Thornton, and the boys.

The Pep Squad gathered at the High School Building at 5:50 Friday morning to give the football boys a good send off for the Fabens game.

THE CHORAL CLUB
The Choral Club is learning three new songs—"The Big Brown Bear" by Mana-Zigee, "Chinese Lullaby" by Bowers Piegler, and "Old Widdle Widdle" by Lousis A. Coerne. The Choral Club hopes to go to Alpine the tenth of November to attend a convention of Choral Clubs. There the girls with the best voices from the various clubs will be selected and sent to Austin.

They have to be completed by the end of November.

The girls also have decided how to select which girl to send to the rally. Three girls will be selected from each class, and later, these will be given a test to decide which two to send. The teachers will help decide. The following are some of the topics on which the girls will be judged.

- (1) Personal Appearance.
- (2) Scholarship:
  - (a) Good grades,
  - (b) Active member of H. E. club and one other club.
  - (c) Interest in two of the following: sports, interscholastic league, music.
- (3) Citizenship:
  - (a) Personality,
  - (b) Dependability,
  - (c) Sportsmanship,
  - (d) Tact,
  - (e) Courtesy.

The Home Economics girls are making curtains to hang in the kitchen. They are made of white marquisette and trimmed with groups of red, yellow, green, and black tufts of wool yarn. We hope to have them hung soon.

SNOOPER

HEARS NOTHING SEES NOTHING TELLS ALL

Why was Dan Murrach so sad Wednesday night? Could it have been because Virginia left? Brace up Dan, she will be back.

Oh boy! the football boys had a courting good time Wednesday night.

Ross seemed to be very happy after the Fabens ball game the other night. It must have been Joyce.

Old Snooper saw Carl and Wilma Lois making eyes at each other the other day in the hall.

Jan, was that Lee McSparren you were with the other night? Theron Horton has been stepping out with Maurine lately. Snooper hears that James House likes Fabens. Is it football or the pretty...?

Who has Maurine F. been stepping out with lately. Couldn't be Roy, could it?

Who was it that met Betty F. at the train the other night? You weren't there were you, Ross?

What happened the other ball or the pretty...? What happened the other night, Margaret Ruth? Eggshells on your front walk.

Bill, why couldn't you find a girl Sunday night? Aren't slipping, are you?

What tall junior boy is robbing the eighth grade of Earline C?

Fire Prevention Week

For many years fire hazards have increased tremendously every year. This is due largely to the enormous toll of burnable values created by the boom in building and the augmented wealth and population in the nation. During 1939 it was estimated that about $274,943,000 worth of property was destroyed by fire. This shows a great increase in one year. The United States is regarded as a land of fire. In the depression there were very few fires as compared to now, but as times get better the number of fires increased.

In Europe, before the war of course, when a man's home burned he was taken in for questioning and suspicion. They teach the children about fire and are cautioned about it. The homes are built as near fire proof as they can build them. More homes in the United States need more protection than they have. If the homes were protected there would not be so many deaths caused by fire as there are now.

Since 1918 we have an average of a fire a minute in the United States.

Some of the causes of fire are: People being careless where they throw matches. Not using ash trays as they should be used, instead of putting the lighted match or cigarette in the tray it is sometimes put on the floor. Rats chew on matches and cause a flame to start, or a rat's nest built by a chimney sometimes catches on fire. Oil rags that are used in the homes to oil furniture with is sometimes thrown in a closet, and they smolder and burst into flames. Coal and coal dust become heated and ignite if not properly stored. Old shingle roofs catch on fire easily. Defective chimneys cause many disasters. Stoves that are placed near a curtain often cause fire. It should be kept in the middle of the room. If you have gas in your home a leaking pipe could

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The children in the Elementary Building observed Fire Prevention Week by having fire drills and making posters. They had one fire drill and cleared the building in one minute and a half. All of the students participated kept order. The posters, which were made by the seventh grade, were very good in thought and meaning. They were placed in the halls on bulletin boards for the length of Fire Prevention Week.

You Can Find Your Adventure Through Reading Books

If it is adventure stories that you are wanting, read Richard Halliburton's story of his life's adventures, for his very name spells adventure. When he read of an adventure in his history and in other books, his mind would immediately begin planning an adventure of the same kind until he finally carried out his plan. If Leander could swim the Hellespont, so could he. Nothing was ever too daring for Richard Halliburton, and you will get many a thrill if you read his story.

Nothing is more adventurous than life on the sea. In Charles Norhoff and James Hall's "The Bounty Trilogy," you can get three good sea stories in one. "Mutiny on the Bounty" is a story of the British navy and the mutiny which the captain of the ship brought upon himself in the South Seas. "Men against the Sea" follows the story of "Mutiny on the Bounty" and tells of 19 of the men who remained loyal and were left out on the sea in an open boat. "Pitcairn's Island" tells of the mutineers and their fleeing from justice.

Somewhat timely and adventurous is the story by Ralph Henry Barbour, "Hurricane Sands," in which the author tells of a young boy who becomes involved with a gang who are smuggling aliens into the U. S. The story takes place on one of the islands off the coast of Florida.

In "Flying Colours," C. S. Forster has given us a historical novel of the sea. During the Napoleonic wars, a Captain Hornblower with his crippled first set your home on fire. It should be checked at regular intervals. When a home is wired it should be done professionally so it won't cause the woodwork around the wires to catch on fire. Radios that are installed wrong can also cause a great disaster.

Some aids in preventing fire are: Chimneys and pipes should frequently be inspected, cleaned, and repaired. Soot should be cleaned from chimneys. Stoves should be kept free of ashes, soot and dirt. Woodwork should be properly protected. Keep heaters away from curtains. Use metal receptacles when burning rubbish. Keep a small extinguisher handy. When building a home be sure to see that the materials used have gone through the inspection of the Underwriters Laboratories.

James House flunking all his subjects?

Teachers giving nothing but A's in school work?

Football boys not making bets, how about it?

FREIGHT RATE—

and should be adjusted. In the plea for postponement the carriers were joined by the governors and shippers groups in states of so-called Official territory.

Of the ICC's order of denial, D. A. Banteen, manager of the West Texas chamber, said, "This action is in line with our own petition, that of the Texas Railroad commission and pleadings for relief by a great many of our Texas cities. We plan to participate vigorously in all future hearings, and our studies will go on continuing to present all the facts relating to the total freight rate level of Texas including both class and commodity rates. On class rates Texas is still paying an average of 61 per cent above the Official territory, mile for mile on equal haul, and this doesn't make sense.

"On intrastate rates," Banteen said, "a part of the battle for equality has been won recently with issue of the Texas Railroad commission's order abolishing all differential territory and all surcharges heretofore assessed against 69 of our West Texas counties. We are now pressing for restoration of the Texas commission's order of May 15, 1940 reducing the level of all class rates by 13 to 15 per cent. When we get this order we will be a long way on the road to equality, but complete equality will not be won until justice is also done to Texas on the interstate levels of rates. This is the trail the Interstate Commerce Commission is now following and from which it declines to be de-toured."

Love and Laughter Highlight "Our Wife"

Every season, Columbia studios pop up with the best comedy of the year, a tradition which dates back to such memorable hits as "The Awful Truth" and "It Happened One Night," and carries through "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "This Thing Called Love," etc. This season, "Our Wife" provides the year's finest comedy film fare, according to Hollywood report, with Melvyn Douglas, Ruth Hussey and Ellen Drew contributing love-and-laugh performances greater than anything they have ever done.

Opening Sunday at the Princess Theatre, "Our Wife" is said to be a racy, rowdy, rollicking to be a racy, rowdy, rollicking romance, an effervescent and exciting triangle that sends Douglas running in circles. "Our Wife" is concerned as much with characterization as it is with plot, as much with scintillant dialogue as it is with gay and laugh-invoking situations.

Essentially, "Our Wife" is the story of a band leader, a trumpeter, down on his luck. Just when the divorce action undertaken by his gold-digging wife is about to become final, he meets a girl who inspires him to more serious work. Hearing of his success the wife attempts to win him back.

"Our Wife" is the story of a battle royal between two women for one bewildered man. One woman uses her head; the other her eyes, arms and lips. And when one eye-ful loses her head she finds a husband; when the armful loses her husband, she finds a fight on her hands!

"Sergeant, can a man be punished for something he hasn't done?"
"Certainly not Private Smith."
"Well, I haven't cleaned my rifle."

'Dive Bomber' Pioneers New Screen Story Field

Timely as tomorrow is "Dive Bomber" the new picture which the Princess Theatre will show starting Wednesday. The big Technicolor special tells the story of Navy's unsung heroes who fly more for science than for glory and who made possible the development of divebombing.

"Dive Bomber," not only pioneers a brand new (to the screen) story field, it sets precedent in a lot of other ways. Fred MacMurray, borrowed from Paramount, is co-starred with Warner's own Errol Flynn, and billing is an even-Stephen matter.

McMurray is one who does the flying, dies the hero's death. Flynn is a medic, working with "Dr." Ralph Bellamy to solve the mysteries of what happens to men in the stratosphere; black out, high altitude sickness, aeroembolism, night blindness, etc., etc. He plays the role straight, on the serious side.

One of the biggest scenes in the picture goes to Louis Jean Heydt, an able actor, well established, but a stranger to most audiences until they see him and then say "Oh yes, I remember that fellow in..."

MacMurray, killed off late in the story, naturally doesn't get the girl, played by exotic-looking newcomer Alexis Smith. Neither does Flynn. In fact she doesn't "get" anybody in the picture. She's a divorcee, out for a good time with almost any man in a navy uniform. And in the picture all the men are too busy with naval aviation matters to give her more than a quick kiss and a pleasant brush off.

"Dive Bomber" has another definite bid as a picture unique. Being filmed, as it was with complete navy cooperation and under strictest navy scrutiny to make certain that every single thing was right.

Gay Trio Drafted in 'Three Sons O'Guns'

Wayne Morris, Tom Brown and William Orr are the three slap-happy jitterbugs who portray the title roles in Warner Bros.' fast-paced comedy, "Three Sons O'Guns," which opens at the Princess Theatre next Friday.

The three fellows are cast in a new kind of film treatment of conscription. It's about a trio of draft-dodgers-at-heart. Morris is trombone-happy, but suddenly decides to get a job and support his mother, incidentally becoming draft exempt. Orr is theatre-happy, but takes time off his phoney rehearsals to get married—right after he gets his questionnaire. Brown is fun-happy, and settles right down to list every ailment he ever had.

At the head of this brood is unhappy Irene Rich, who deplores her sons' lack of character. Marjorie Rambeau is the aunt who lives with the family and laments the boys' easy-going and selfish ways. Because of her responsibilities, the boys' mother has even kept from marrying an old flame, Moroni Olsen.

Miss Rambeau fixes everything when the boys appear at the draft board. She points out that Bill isn't really married, as his show girl wife's divorce isn't legal. Wayne and Tom, too, haven't a thing that should disqualify them from service. And she hopes it'll "make men out of 'em!"

What the army does to three such feather brains is the point of the film. It's as exciting to movie audiences as it is to their screen mother, Irene Rich.

SANDERSONITES ARE EMPLOYED AT LOCKHEED

Word received from Dick Mussey, inspector with the Lockheed Aircraft Corp in Burbank, Calif., states that two more Terrell County men have been added to the staff of that concern.

Ernest Miller, former postmaster at Dryden started to work Wednesday of last week with Lockheed, and Pat Sullivan, son of Mrs. Maude Sullivan, is now employed by the Vega Airplane Co., a branch of Lockheed, at Burbank. Mr. Miller has just completed a 10-months training course at Curtiss-Wright Tech., and the Company where Pat is employed is engaged in the construction of the new Vega Ventura bomber. These two men added to the firm make a total of 8 Terrell County products so engaged.

Stringing Telephone Wires Under Bandit Guns

Under a hail of lead from bandit guns, Tim Holt fights and rides through an hour of breathless thrills in RKO Radio's latest action, "Cyclone on Horseback."

Something new and novel in Western plots, this story delves into the hazards confronting the pioneers who sought to link the west with the east by means of telephone communication.

Spirited bidding for contracts to string the vast network of wires often resulted in desperate maneuvers on the part of unscrupulous losing bidders to delay the work of the winning contractors until the deadline dates had expired for completion of the projects.

Holt as Stan Bradford, rides into Valley City to deliver pack horses to Corbin, a line contractor, and speedily becomes involved in the latter's fight against Cobb Wayne, an unscrupulous bidder. When Corbin is ambushed in his tent by one of Wayne's gunmen and it appears he will lose his battle to string the line by the appointed time, Holt takes over the job and proceeds to carry on the work under a hail of bullets.

Romantic interest in this story is heightened by the presence in the cast of Marjorie Reynolds who, as Corbin's pretty sister, is one of the chief inspirations for Holt's chivalry. Whitley, who has appeared prominently in all the Tim Holt series, is once again found in the supporting cast which also features Lee "Lasses" White, Harry Worth, Dennis Moore, Eddie Dew, Monte Montague, Slim Whitaker and Max Wagner.
