This year's Fourth of July has come and gone, and judging by the headlines in the larger dailies, so have a lot of our neighbors. It is a pitiful thing when we kill off so many people while "joyriding" on our nation's highways.

The nation's press and other communication methods have urged people for years to take it easy while driving, and for some reason when a person gets behind the steering wheel of his, or her, auto they become a different person.

Driving with the attitude that the world is mine, including most of the highway, is surely one way to become one of the business items on the local undertakers check list.

But---that is hindsight, what us lucky ones need to do is take these deaths to heart and try to improve.

Tuesday at noon-thirty we had the pleasure of hearing a man we would like to see as the next President of the United States officially throw his hat in the political ring.

We are referring of course to one Lyndon B. Johnson, senior Senator from the great State of Texas.

He has been "running" for the Democratic nomination for a good while, but Tuesday it became official.

In our minds, the worst thing that could befall our nation in these troubled times is for the Democratic party to nominate someone besides Senator Johnson.

Personally, we look upon Adlai with something less than contempt, and every time we see his banners being paraded across the TV screen, or pick up a magazine and read an article about how his "devotees" are backing him for the nomination we shudder.

We could go along for Curly Jack Kennedy a lot quicker than we ever could Stevenson.

We think that LBJ is the man that can fill the bill for our nation in the position of President in the coming years.

Senator Johnson is the most experienced man in the Democratic fold in the fields that our next President must be an expert in.

Mr. K. has already remarked a number of times that he will deal "with the next President" on this, and that problem, and certainly the Commies would like us to come to the sacrificial altar unprepared.

We feel that Lyndon Johnson is a man that can get the job done which must be done for the United States in the next four years.

Already we are faced with the threat of Russian submarines being based in Cuba in a very short time, Red China is simmering now, waiting for another excuse to blast the islands off Formosa and who knows what other tinder could set the world rocking in a matter of seconds.

We need a man who can steer our nation well, think on

133 Acres Wheat Lost; Fire Truck Damaged

What was termed the most damaging wheat fire in many years took a toll of 133 acres of high producing wheat, damaged a fire truck and a combine at the J. W. McMahan farm about 3 1/2 miles south and west of Friona last Wednesday afternoon.

The fire started when the idler wheel on the brand-new combine froze, heating up and touched off wheat that wrapped around it.

McMahan told firemen "I thought the combine had blown up. I was cutting along when something made a terrible noise and when I looked around the wheat was ablaze all around the machine."

McMahan tried to get the combine out of the blazing field, but failed to get the motor started after it had quit following the strange noise. He climbed out of the cab and ran for the edge of the field.

Neighbors quickly gathered at the scene, but with the winds blowing out of the southeast in gusts up to 25 mph the blaze ran across the field of golden wheat.

The Friona Volunteer Fire Department answered the call for help at about 2:15 p.m. with two trucks and the emergency pickup.

The field was wet but the volunteer firemen set about to try and control the blaze which had covered about half of the 200 acre plot by that time.

Hard luck, combining with switching winds and boggy land conspired to plot against the local firemen however, and later in the afternoon those firemen on Truck 5 found themselves stuck, out of water and then the wind changed directions!

The firemen tried by hand to make a firebreak to protect the truck from damage by the fire, but to no avail.

The fire jumped the barrier with ease and raced along burning an estimated 150 feet of high pressure hose, a tire, damaging the radiator, lights, siren and scorching all the paint from the truck.

The other truck in the field at the time was helpless to aid the one in trouble because of the mud.

McMahan told firemen that of the 200 acres in wheat which had been in the field, he had cut "about half" of the grain prior to the blaze.

The farm is owned by Sam Rundell of Farwell and is part of a 480 acre area farmed by McMahan for Rundell.

Both Rundell and McMahan had their shares of the wheat partially covered by insurance.

New Baptist Church To Organize

A new Baptist church will officially organize Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the American Legion Hall in Friona.

In addition to the professional's films, demonstrations and match games with local bowlers, five door prizes were given away to those attending the festivities.

The bowling center was crowded all day Monday with bowling enthusiasts listening to color slides, watching demonstrations and match games.

This new church will be organized by those attending the services which have been held since June 12 in the American Legion Hall.

Mrs. Raymond Adams of Friona won the big prize of a new Amflite bowling ball and those winning bowling shoes included Lois Norwood, Teddy White, Carroll Reeve and Charles Sudderfield.

Mrs. Duval and Lee Kimbrough bowled Nichols and Joy Hall in two match games Monday afternoon and night.

The new church has been designated as the Calvary Mission of the First Baptist Church of Friona and the home church voted last week to deed the new church 3.9 acres of land north of the city limits on which to construct their church.

"We want to thank all those who sent flowers, and those who attended and took part in our Grand Opening," say Ed and Gary Hicks, managers of the Lanes. "We think we had a very successful opening and Norm and Helen (Norm Nichols and Helen Duval) were the visiting professionals" asked us to compliment the folks of this area

Leagues continued Tuesday night and City Association President T. I. Burleson asked that members of the Friday night league meet at Friona Lanes Thursday night in order that these two leagues can be combined in order to provide more competition.

Negotiations are underway by members of the new church to purchase a building to be placed on the new church site in order that the new place of worship can have sufficient room.

Attendance at the mission has averaged 104 at Sunday School according to Douglas Connelly, superintendent, and members of the new church are anxious to get them a permanent place of worship that will accommodate the number attending services.

Soaking Rains Fall On Parmer County

With some of the heaviest moisture on record coming in the last few weeks, residents are beginning to recall stories of the floods which coursed the draws over the Plains during the early '40's.

This was about half the amount recorded in some areas of the county Monday night alone, however, as rains of 3.1 and up to 5 inches fell in places.

Although no rainfall has caused this effect as yet in Parmer county, plays lakes are brimful over this entire section as moisture measuring 2.77 fell in Friona Sunday and Monday nights.

At the George W. Jones farm west of Friona about 8 miles Dee Hight says his gauge measured 3.1 for Monday night. No serious crop damage was reported there.

Richard Dixon Dismissed Tuesday

Richard Dixon, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Dixon, was dismissed from Parmer County Community Hospital Tuesday. He had been receiving treatment for six weeks.

Out at the Black Community the average rainfall in that section was about 1.75 inches Monday night and about 1.50 at the Hub Community.

However, south of Hub the rains fell harder and Tuesday some reports gave rainfall in excess of five inches around Clays Corner.

The Star looked over Friona's official moisture reports at Friona Consumers Tuesday afternoon and found that the total moisture for 1960 through June came to 7.36 inches of rainfall. June marked up 3.17 inches as compared with June of 1959 with no rainfall recorded whatsoever.

Normal rainfall for June is 1.85 for Friona according to records.

Up through June of 1959 a total of 5.80 inches of rain fell in Friona.

As with last year the rains fell during wheat harvesting, although this year elevators report that probably "about 90 per cent" of our wheat crop is in.

Only a few scattered late patches of wheat remain to be cut in this area.

Wednesday morning the weather was still thick and murky with possibility of more moisture yet to come.

Airman Fined $100

Clyde L. Smith, 33, of Cannon Air Force Base, Clovis, was fined $100 and court costs by Judge Loyde A. Brewer in county court Tuesday morning. He was charged with driving while intoxicated after being involved in a traffic accident east of Friona at 6 a.m. Saturday.

Smith's car sideswiped a car being driven by Alvin Brooks, a Friona farmer. Both cars were travelling east on Highway 60 when the accident occurred. Damage to the Smith car was estimated at $200 and damage to the Brooks car was $75.

Men Fined For Assault

Two Mexicans were tried and convicted on charges of aggravated assault Tuesday afternoon by Judge Loyde Brewer in two separate county court cases.

In addition to the fine, Smith was sentenced to three days in the county jail and had his driver's license suspended for six months. He was arrested by Parmer County officers who investigated the accident.

Santos Rando, 50, from south of Friona, and Jesus Espinoza, 42, from east of Farwell, were arrested following assaults on the wives Monday, July 4. Both assaults occurred at their homes.

Rando was fined $100 and court costs and sentenced to 90 days in the county jail. Espinoza was assessed a fine of $50 and sentenced to 10 days confinement.

Two other cases tried in county court Tuesday involved Charles Wollen, 39, and L. W. Rosenkran, 63, both of Bovina. Rosenkran was picked up in Bovina Friday night and charged with drunkenness. Wollen was arrested Saturday night and was charged with drunkenness and disturbance.

Both men were fined $28.80.

Youth Revival

A youth-led revival, now picking up its stride at the First Baptist Church, in Friona will end next week.

Services are held twice each day, with morning services at 7 a.m. and evening services at 8 p.m.

Dr. John Freeman, interim pastor at the First Baptist Church and head of the Psychology Department at Wayland College in Plainview, is bringing the messages during the revival.

Gary Deatherage, a former Frionan and active youth worker in the Baptist church in this area, is assisting Dr. Freeman with the music for the revival.

Young people of all denominations are urged to participate in this revival, says Deatherage.

Release Quail

Several Parmer County farms were stocked with quail last week. Announcement of the project was made by Al Kerby of Bovina, president of Parmer County Game Management Association.

A total of 596 birds were released on various farms throughout the county.

An average of five to 10 pairs were released on each farm participating in the program, Kerby says.

Closed season will exist for the quail here until they become well enough stocked to justify hunting, Kerby says.

Friona Lions Club. Barber is next year's secretary-treasurer and a 100 per cent attendance member of the club and was named from 13 other candidates for the trip along with the new Boss Lion. Williams is sporting the "new look" in traveling apparel.

IT WASN'T EASY MEN--Fire Chief Ruben Taylor muses over some $750 in damage to one fire truck in a wheat fire last week on the J. W. McMahan farm southwest of Friona. Standing on the running board of the damaged truck, Taylor inspects a few heads of burned wheat that was still hanging on the rear-view mirror when the truck was brought back to town for repairs. Notice peeled paint on the truck's door.

George Had A Different Problem

When George Washington was President he had a problem that he wouldn't have today. He headed a group of states and citizens who were so independent they were downright unruly. Under his leadership they had thrown off an oppressive government, and most of them were perfectly happy to tend to their own affairs with no help or interference from the new U.S. government.

Washington and several of his successors had to work long and hard to persuade those early Americans to give up a few local rights and powers in order to strengthen the infant nation.

Many of today's descendants of those rugged independents are willing enough to turn over local rights and powers to the federal government—if it will take over their local problems. They accept high taxes as a matter of course. But in exchange they seem to expect that federal bureaucrats will somehow magically see that everyone has a good job, good pay, good home, good roads, good education, good health and carefree old age.

Washington's problem was to get the people to support the government. We doubt if it ever crossed his mind that a day might come when the people would expect the government to support them.

Cancer And Heart Deaths Set Record

Cancer and heart diseases set a grim new record last year, accounting for almost half the 73,754 total deaths in Texas during 1959.

Final tabulation of State Department of Health death statistics shows 24,629 deaths from cancer and 11,086 from heart.

The cancer death rate in Texas is still well below the rate for the United States as a whole. Texas registered 117 deaths from the disease for each 100,000 population compared to the national cancer death rate of 130 to 130 per each 100,000 population.

Texas has a younger population, which probably accounts for the disparity between the Texas and national cancer death rates. Cancer strikes most frequently at people past 45 years of age. Of the 11,000 cancer deaths last year, 9,768 were 45.

Heart diseases are demonstrating a significant increase. Three years ago there were 22,888 deaths from heart diseases—a rise of 1,741 for 1959 over the number registered for 1956.

Most of the increase is in the older age groups. Of the total heart disease deaths, 23,519 were past 45 years of age. The heart disease rate for all ages during 1959 was 261 per 100,000 population.

As life expectancy increases, more and more people are going to fall victim to heart diseases and cancer by virtue of living into the ages when they are most vulnerable to the ravages of the twin menaces.

Here is a simple four-point regimen for general good health:

1. Eliminate excessive weight that taxes your heart. Do not overeat.
2. Ask your family physician about a plan of exercise suitable for you. A nonstrenuous hobby is beneficial.

3. If you must smoke, do it in moderation. There is strong evidence linking excessive smoking to increases in lung cancer.

4. Above all, see your family physician at least once annually for a thorough physical examination.

For Thou art my hope, O Lord God; Thou art my trust from my youth.

—(Psalm 71:5)

In the vigor of youth, one inclines to assume that his strength will overcome all obstacles and insure success, without any other help. But how joyous and useful life will become when youth realizes the need of the love of God, and His guidance and His help, which are so freely given.

WITH JUNE

One of the cutest "Out Of The Mouths of Babes" jokes we've heard recently came from Jana Prock, a three year old girl who was touring the farm with her daddy.

Upon coming to an old calf with a calf sucking, Jana asked, "What is that calf doing?" Her daddy replied that he was eating. "Well," said Jana. "He will not have to wash dishes when he finishes."

Little John Louis Spring is one of Friona's newest residents. He is the adopted son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Spring. Neighbors of the Springs need not be surprised to see Dr. Paul out teaching John to shoot a "nigger shooter" real soon. In a shower of gifts John received a pair of Levis complete with nails, string and assorted items in the pockets. In the assortment was a tiny "nigger shooter" and some rocks.

The spelling of his middle name is one of the things that causes newspaper writers to make mistakes. In a conversation with Dr. Paul he explained the different ways of spelling the name this way. "My father spelled his name Lewis; Frank and Ethel Ruth used the same spelling for Frank Lewis, but for some unknown reason the spelling L o u i s was used for my middle name and I'm using the same for my son"

Several years ago an ag teacher told his pupils his personal definition of the value of weeds. It came out like this: 'Weeds are good to make lazy people work'

If that be true, they're certainly serving their intended purpose in this area this summer. Every farmer we know has had difficulty keeping his row crop clean and every lawn and garden has required more than the usual amount of weeding.

It isn't too early to start thinking about Maize Days. Before very long preliminary plans will be in the making and if everyone in the area will cooperate with those serving on the various committees, much can be accomplished.

If you don't feel that you have time to attend meetings, just write your ideas for a bigger and better celebration in a letter to the editor of the Star and Dave McReynolds will see that your suggestions get into the hands of the proper persons.

MOVEMENTS INTERPRETING "The Lord's Prayer" were presented by four junior high students in Union Congregational Church Friday night as a program for parents and friends of students.

Jo Anne Jennings, Dagmar Wilhelm, and Carol Knight, Miss Phyllis Treider was accompanist for Buddy Claborn who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the presentation.

Program Concludes Congregational School

Concluding a week-long Bible school at Union Congregational Church Friday night was a program for parents and friends of students.

Each of the 42 pupils enrolled had a part in the program. Nursery students gave a prayer, and the kindergarten group enacted a skit aided by flannel boards.

Highlighting the program was an interpretation of "The Lord's Prayer" presented by junior students, Buddy Claborn sang, accompanied by Miss Phyllis Treider, as Gail McGlothlin, Jo Anne Jennings, Dagmar Wilhelm, and Carol Knight, gowned in white choir robes, presented the interpretation. Miss Treider and Rev. Hudson Phillips arranged the number. Following the program directed by superintendent of

It was Saturday morning and while they were having breakfast, Mr. Smith suddenly announced that he didn't have to go to the office that morning. "Well don't think," said his wife, "that you're going to run off to play golf today and leave me alone with all this work to do."

"Why golf is the furthest thing from my mind," replied the husband, gnawing at his breakfast, "and please pass me the putter."

SPORTS AFIELD By Ted Kesting

For generations the worm has been the most popular basic fish lure the world has known. But, not for sport fisherman! This particular breed of angler preferred to catch fish by outwitting them with artificial lures. That is, until the invention of the artificial worm. Now he can catch fish on a worm and still remain a purist.

Homer Circle, in Sports Afield Magazine, takes you on a typical morning's fishing, using the plastic worm to augment your regular method of angling.

Worms won't replace your regular lures, but they will augment them. Let's start the morning early before the wind freshens, with a topwater lure that gurgles, chugs or waddles to make surface fuss.

Move out from shore as the sky brightens. Ply the shoreline with floating-diving lures that go three to six feet deep. If by now you haven't stringered the limit, bring out the worm for those fish that haven't been reached yet.

That's right, these worms can be made to go where nothing else will reach! Go back to that shore cover, tie on a lead jig and floating worm. Flick it close to a stump, bush or rock, and let it sink to the bottom.

The lead will rest flat on the bottom, and the worm will float above it, visible as a camel on a hill. Take the slack out of your line, rod tip low, and wait a few seconds. Then raise your rod tip with a gentle nudge, repeat in short jerks, lower your rod tip, take up slack and regular method of angling.

Repeat this until the jig-worm is right under your boat. By now you will have slowly and efficiently fished every foot of bottom cover between you and shore, something few lures can do without getting fouled!

Repeat this tactic around weed beds, gravel bars, rocky points, deep holes, drop-offs, bridge abutments and other visible cover spots.

It doesn't matter too much how you use it, but do fish it s-l-o-w-l-y. There are but two mistakes you can make with a worm. One is to fish it too fast.

Elevators Receiving CROP Wheat

Wheat for CROP is now being received at grain elevators in all parts of the Texas Panhandle. The contributors make known to the elevator manager the amount they wish to give to CROP as the wheat is brought to the elevator. By making the contribution before the total amount is credited to the growers account, added credit can be secured for income tax purposes. This is true for grain contributed to other worthy charities.

All elevators in organized CROP counties have been supplied with transfers, receipts and other printed matter needed to properly record contributions. A number of elevators in other counties have the same material. Those wishing to help the overseas needy but deliver to an elevator with out these CROP supplies can leave the wheat with instructions to the manager to put the desired number of bushels in the CROP account. The manager will contact this office and proper forms will be furnished.

Those desiring added information on the work of CROP are asked to contact any CROP worker of their county or to drop a card to P. O. Box 518, Panhandle, Texas. The demand for added food for earthquake victims and other natural disasters is added much to the load of the Christian Rural Overseas Program. Refugees and others in free countries were needing more than CROP could supply before the earth quakes, floods etc. occurred in several parts of the world.

CROP is a collecting agency and will see that church denominations receive full credit and that missionaries and others representing these denominations receive the food as designated. All ministers of the area are acquainted with the work of CROP.

Two men were commenting on a friend's bad luck at the horse races. "Funny," said one, "how Ed is so lucky at cards but does so badly at the track."

"Funny nothing," retorted the other, "they don't let him shuffle the horses."

The other is not to fish it at all. We urge you to give it a try, no matter how you fish. Chances are, not only will you catch more fish, but bigger ones than ever before in your life!

The district attorney was questioning a Kentucky colonel in court. Unable to shake his testimony he tried sarcasm. "They call you colonel," he sneered. "In what regiment are you a colonel?"

"Do you believe in clubs for women?" "Yes, if kindness fails." "I remember you," said the annoyed housewife. "You're one of those hobos to whom I gave some pie last summer." "That's right, lady," the tramp replied. "There were three of us. I am the only survivor."

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS--

Texas Fights War With Peashooters

AUSTIN, Tex. -- When the various states go to battle to capture new industries, other states go in with cannon-sized budgets. But not Texas.

Texas is, by comparison, fighting with a rubber band and split hairs. At least that's the view of the man who heads the Texas effort, Walter E. Dickerson.

Dickerson, as executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, directs himself. He has no staff and no secretary. Legislature allotted him $23,750 a year to do a job for which the neighboring "poor" state of Arkansas spends more than a half-million a year.

Dickerson uses his slim funds for a brochure on Texas and, since out-of-state travel is impossible, long-distance telephoning. He's also seeking additional funds from Texas firms to carry on the work.

Next winter he'll be before the Legislature to ask for more money to give Texas an even break in the intensely competitive industry-seeking field.

Dickerson's pleas come against a background of warnings that Texas manufacturing has not been growing fast enough to offset the decline of oil and agriculture. Some areas, such as the Gulf Coast, are becoming highly industrialized, but Texas needs more industry all over, say the economists, if it is to avoid a stall.

More manufacture of products for the Texas consumer market is especially recommended. Dickerson has data showing that Texans send $2,500,000,000 of their money out of state to buy manufactured products.

Dickerson also supports his urging for a beefed-up industrial Commission with figures showing that new industry is literally "money in the bank" for a town and state.

For each industry with 100 employees -- not a particularly big one -- bank deposits jump $270,000 and retail sales $360,000 per year.

BUSINESS TOTALS TUMBLE--Texas' most recent business activity reports are not entirely rosy, either.

Retail trade for May was down 2 per cent from April and 4 per cent from a year ago, according to the University Bureau of Business Research.

Building construction was also in a downward spiral. 3 per cent from April and 11 per cent from last year. Building decline between April and May was due to a sharp drop in home building. Non-residential construction was up 3 per cent.

Slow down in retail buying was unexpected, inasmuch as employment, income and savings are at an all-time high. An increase in home building is hoped for as a result of eased FHA down payment requirements. More home buying would, in turn, stimulate more retail buying, particularly furniture, appliances and hardware.

Civil Appeals. Since the case involves a constitutional question, it could be appealed directly to the State Supreme Court.

Either way, it will not finally be decided until it gets to the U. S. Supreme Court, probably not in time for the next Legislature to know whether the state can count on any revenue from that source. Estimated yield is about $7,500,000 a year.

Gov. Price Daniel said he was "keenly disappointed" in the district court decision, especially in that it saw no difference between the severance beneficiary tax and the old gas gathering tax which lost out in the courts.

Daniel said he was confident this tax eventually would be upheld.

STRAY LIVESTOCK LAW IN FORCE--Farmers are warned to pen up their livestock and keep them penned, or be subject to a $200 fine and impoundment of the animals.

Each day the animals roam at large will be considered a separate offense.

The new law relates to horses, mules, donkeys, cows, bulls, steers, hogs, sheep and goats loose on state and federal highways. Farm and ranch roads are not included.

An increasing number of deaths

Legend Of Old Rip Has Recent Beginning

BY BOYCE HOUSE

Many of us think of a legend as a story handed down from a long-ago past; something that our fathers heard from their fathers. But this is the story of a legend that originated in the memory-span of many who read these lines -- how a legend began, told by one who can be said to know about it at first hand.

Old Rip was one of those fantastic, fearsome-looking but harmless creatures which scientists say are lizards; but any small boy in West Texas knows better than that: they are horned frogs. They have leathery-like hides and spiked heads. They are voiceless and their drab color enables them to blend into the background. Their ability to scurry is their chief reliance in getting away from danger. When aroused, they can emit a reddish fluid from their eyes. In the winter, they find hiding places and go into a state of suspended animation.

The hero of this tale was no different in appearance from any of the unnumbered thousands which swarm over numerous Texas counties each spring and summer. A little, bright-eyed creature that you could hold in the palm of your hand--yet he gained world-wide renown and he has become a part of the lore and legend of Texas.

In the winter of 1927-28, this chronicler was editor of Eastland's daily newspaper. A group sat in the office of the district clerk in the old brick courthouse, which had been built in 1897 and was soon to be torn down. It was almost closing time. In the group was Ernest Wood, former county clerk and later justice of the peace. He was a plump, middle-aged man with mild blue eyes and a quiet way of speaking. The conversation had been about this and that; then Wood, addressing me, asked: "Did you ever hear the West Texas tradition that a horned frog can live a hundred years without food or water?"

Newspaper instinct told me that here was a story but that instinct also told me to handle the line with care. So, in an equally casual tone, I replied, "No--but then I'm comparatively new in West Texas and don't know all the traditions. Why?" His answer was, "We'll soon know whether it's true or not."

"How is that?"

"Because when the cornerstone of this courthouse was laid, a live horned frog was placed in it."

He then related the circumstances: The courthouse cornerstone was going to be laid. Being a member of the band, he would have a part in the ceremonies. As he was leaving home, Wood saw his son, Will, playing with a horned frog. The father had read, a day or so before in the Dallas News, something about the purported ability of these creatures to survive a century without food or water. Deciding to put the matter to a test, he took the frog and proceeded downtown.

Because of his duties as a musician, Wood knew he would not have the opportunity to place the frog in the cornerstone so he entrusted the animal to a friend whom he saw place the frog in the cornerstone, where also were deposited a Bible, newspapers and coins.

That night, (after our conversation) I wrote a short news article, keeping the carbon for use in the Eastland paper and sending the original to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, of which I was the local correspondent. Not only did the Star-Telegram publish the article but the Associated Press, of which that newspaper is a member, sent the dispatch to hundreds of journals.

Letters came to Eastland from many sections. Visitors asked about the matter and towns-people traveling to other areas were showered with inquiries: Was it really true that a live frog had been sealed in the cornerstone? When would the stone be opened? The seekers for information who dwelt in more distant regions wanted to know if there actually were frogs with horns. The young editor was amazed at the wide interest which had been aroused.

It was not long until destruction of the courthouse began. County Judge E. S. Pritchard promised to learn from the contractors the exact day and an estimate of the hour that the cornerstone would be reached. So on a Friday morning, the editor was informed that probably in the middle of the afternoon of the next day the cornerstone would be opened. Through the Associated Press, millions were informed of this.

On Saturday, February 18, 1928, shortly after noon, people began to gather and the crowd grew steadily larger. The frog was the only topic of conversation: Would he be found -- and, if so, would he be alive? There was one member of the crowd who was sure that nothing would be discovered, not even a shriveled mummy or a punch of dust that could be identified. This individual was the brash young editor who had started all the speculation.

What was the scene which the waiting audience beheld? The three stories of the courthouse had been leveled. All that remained, besides the basement, was the floor of the first story -- and a jagged section of wall, some eight feet high, immediately above the cornerstone. By this time many persons were standing on the floor of the old structure; others were perched on a mound of debris in the yard but most were on the ground. Heads were thrust from the upper windows of the buildings overlooking the square. Fully 1,500 were present and eyes were directed, from all sides, from above and from below at the cornerstone as the drama began.

A cable was looped about the wall and the end was attached to a truck which began to tug. But there were warning shouts; the wall and the cornerstone were so firmly attached that both threatened to topple. So a worker perforated just above the cornerstone, then the truck began to pull again but, once more, both wall and cornerstone were in danger of falling. A second time, the worker plied the pick and when the line again tightened, the wall fell, leaving the cornerstone in place.

All of this I saw as I stood nervously in the fringe of the crowd. Not wishing to be a target of the jibes and perhaps anger when nothing was found, I walked across the street and, entering the bank building, climbed the steps to the second floor. Just as I entered the office of a friend, there was a roar from outside and a man in the window shouted, "They've found the frog!" I rushed across the room and just then there came a louder roar and the watcher exclaimed, "And the d--- thing's alive!"

When the wall had been torn down, a worker, with a pick, broke a layer of cement -- an important bit of circumstantial evidence. With the layer of cement removed, a metal covering was revealed. The lid was lifted. The Rev. F. E. Singleton, pastor of the Methodist Church, who had been standing beside the cornerstone, peered in, then pointed and said, "There's the frog!" Gene Day, an oil man, took out the creature, flat and dust-covered, and handed the apparently lifeless frog to the minister who in turn gave it to Judge Pritchard. Grasping the animal by a hind leg, the official held it high so that all could see and there was a cheer.

Then Pritchard saw the other hind leg twitch and the creature's body began to swell as he obtained his first breath of air in thirty-one years! That was when the greater roar arose. Excitement gripped the crowd and those in the back pressed forward so there was danger that the frog would be knocked to the ground and trampled. County Motorcycle Officer Bob Hammett took the creature, forced his way through the crowd, got on his motorcycle and rode to the edge of town to allow the excitement to subside.

The news flashed around the world. Some scientists scoffed but Dr. William T. Hornaday, former director of the New York Zoological Gardens, who had explored many parts of the world, including the Southwest, declared the feat was quite possible. Many West Texans came forward with incidents in their own knowledge of horned frogs surviving long periods without food or water. Arthur Brisbane commented on his front page column, "Today", with an audience of 15,000,000 or more. Preachers told about the frog from the pulpit. He inspired poems and editorials.

On Page 1 of a metropolitan journal appeared the following without dateline or word of explanation: "First Straphanger -- They say he was flat as a dollar. Second Straphanger -- Well, you would be, too, if you'd had a whole courthouse resting on your chest for 31 years." It was said that no achievement by an individual, except Lindbergh's lone flight across the Atlantic, had ever received as much newspaper space. Old Rip, as the frog was christened, was declared to be the most famous animal since the serpent in the Garden of Eden.

Some weeks after the cornerstone opening, spring began and the hibernation season ended, the vast numbers of horned frogs made their appearance. Thousands were shipped to the North and East, and even to foreign lands, as souvenirs. A representative of the United States Department of Agriculture warned that, because the creatures kept in check insects which were injurious, nature's balance was in danger of being upset; and there was a proposal that the Texas Legislature bar the shipments.

Meanwhile, Old Rip had gone to Dallas to be exhibited in a theater but Judge Pritchard, claiming the frog as county property, ordered his return to Eastland; so he was brought back. After some weeks, Old Rip set out on a tour of the nation. In Dallas, he was "arrested" as the theatrical promoter had sued, alleging breach of contract. Will Wood (remember the lad who had originally owned the creature?) -- arranged for the frog's freedom on bond and the trip con-

Read Matthew 18:21-27

All the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another. (Galatians 5:14,15.)

During the American Civil War, when hatred between the North and South was bitterest, a White House reception was given. One of the guests overheard Abraham Lincoln as he made a kindly remark about the South. She immediately assailed him saying: "Why Mr. Lincoln, how can you say kind things about your enemies? You should want to destroy them." Lincoln looked at her and said slowly, "Madam, do I not destroy my enemies when I make them my friends?"

This is the Christian way: get rid of the hatred. The result is that your enemies are gone also. Jesus was saying exactly this when He said, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father."

an individual attraction. In New York City a news reel with sound (this was in the early days of "talkies") was made, with Will Wood doing the talking; a crew of eighteen men was required and the cost was approximately $5,000.

It was in Washington that the frog achieved his greatest triumph: a call on Calvin Coolidge in the White House. Incidentally, through a misunderstanding, the Eastland frog kept the president of the United States waiting fifteen minutes. Old Rip looked at Coolidge and Coolidge looked at Old Rip. Neither spoke. At last the president broke the stillness. "Silent Cal" had met his match.

The frog returned to Eastland and Wood kept him at home in a bowl. One day a "norther" struck and the layer of sand and rocks in the bowl was inadequate to shield him from the sudden and intense cold. When Wood went to feed Old Rip, he found the frog lifeless. The date was January 19, 1929. He had lived eleven months and one day after emerging from the cornerstone.

Is the story really true? M. W. McMinn, a merchant in nearby Olden, said he saw a live frog placed in the cornerstone in 1897; and Ernest Wood said he saw it placed there. And thirty-one years later, hundreds saw the cornerstone.

A bit of corroboration was the finding in the stone of a faded piece of paper on which Wood had written the names of his sons, Harry and Will--(the paper called the latter Willie, which had been his nickname in 1897). Here is another perhaps significant circumstance. When a horned frog hibernates, he sheds his horns but they grow back. When Old Rip came out, (it was still hibernating season) his horns were gone and they never grew. Could this have indicated an unusual ordeal, such as being sealed up for three decades? There are many men in prisons all over the nation, sent there on circumstantial evidence no stronger than that in the case of Old Rip.

In the lobby of the present courthouse stands a glass tomb and several thousand persons each year view the frog's mummy which, it has been said, will last as long as the mummies of the Pharaohs. Above each entrance of the temple of justice there is a star and between each point there is the sculptured likeness of the frog and so it is truly stated that the beautiful five-story courthouse of brick and stone is a memorial to Old Rip, the horned frog that is a legend.

LAKE ASH--Ash Street, one of the streets that run one block off of Fifth Street and under paving looks like a lake Wednesday morning following the rains. Paving crews were busy pumping the water out of the new streets and the bosses were hoping for some sunshine to get things dried out and going again.

Stephens
 Funeral
 Thursday

Funeral services for Mary Lynne Stephens, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Stephens, were Thursday afternoon at First Baptist Church. Rev. Harvey D. Bennett of Central Baptist Church in Anton and Rev. W. M. Draper, a retired Baptist minister, officiated.

The child died Wednesday morning when the bicycle she was riding was struck by a car on West Fifth Street. She is survived by her parents, and two brothers, Joe Michael and Gerald Edward. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Harper of Anton, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stephens of Dumas, and Mrs. Forrest Van Meter of Greenville. Pall bearers were Earl Crow, Max Reeve, Joe Reeve, Carl Osborn, Teddy Osborn and David Talley. Claborn Funeral home was in charge and burial was in Friona cemetery.

SCHOOL PROBLEM ERUPTS--
 At the instigation of Texas Commissioner of Education, J. W. Edgar, Brownsboro school officials, both board and superintendent, are resigning en masse.

Decision was reached after an involved and rather heated hearing in Austin to review school conflicts that had resulted in a killing at a Brownsboro school board meeting.

Homer Bass was appealing his dismissal by the Brownsboro school board when his contract as superintendent still had two years to go. Board members charged Bass with instructing teachers how to vote in school board elections, handling school funds carelessly and failing to meet state accreditation standards.

Several board members said they felt mass resignation was a good solution that would enable the community to start afresh on a peaceable basis.

BIGGER BUDGETS ASKED--
 Three state agencies presented their requests for funds for the Sept. 1, 1961-Aug. 31, 1963 period. All want more than they are now spending.

Legislative and governor's office budget staffs are reviewing the requests of State Health Department, State Board of Insurance and Texas Employment Commission. Health wants an 18 per cent increase to a total of $17,000,000 for the coming biennium. State Board of Insurance is asking $5,173,664 for the same period, approximately a 20 per cent increase. TEC estimates its needs at $28,384,905.

Two festive husbands were parting late one night for their respective homes. One of them said, "Well, it's pretty late, I suppose your wife will hit the ceiling when you arrive home."

The other one responded, "Yes, I suppose so, she's a lousy shot." --Hugh Downs.

The story is told of Will Rogers' being shown the beautiful new state capitol building at Lincoln, Nebraska. They were standing in front of the building reading the inscription over the entrance, "The vigilance of the people is the salvation of the state."

Will Rogers read it, thought about it a moment, then scratched his head and said, "Why don't they put those things up there in language the people can understand?"

One of his hosts asked, "What would you suggest?" "Oh, something like this," replied Will. "You gotta watch them guys or they'll run away with the state capitol."

 his feet, not of himself but rather of the well-being of our country for our next President. We believe that LBJ stands head and shoulders above the rest of the political figures looming on the horizons. As to the charges of next week's Democratic convention being rigged--we think it is a sorry thing that the very persons who have been causing all the hoopla over Payola and calling for Congressional investigations are guilty of Payola in a political sense by selling out their birthright--their vote!
 We anticipate an open Democratic convention in LA next week, and hope that our delegates there will have the foresight to nominate a MAN for a MAN'S job, and not send a boy (or an egghead!).

THIS WEEK --In Washington With Clinton Davidson LABOR MONOPOLY

Davidson

Within the past few weeks the Supreme Court of the United States has found a farm cooperative guilty of antitrust violation and has scheduled arguments on whether two large industrial firms have violated antitrust laws.
 Collusion in restraint of trade is a violation of the Sherman Antitrust law that has been in effect for many years. Few will argue that it is not a good law.
 But prosecution of farm cooperatives and business firms under the law must suggest to many people this question: What about labor unions? Are they innocent of monopolistic practices, or are they immune from prosecution?
 A search of court records and talks with prominent attorneys fail to show a single important case in which a labor union has been found guilty under the Sherman Antitrust law. Yet the record of collusion between unions in restraint of trade is found in numerous congressional hearings.
The McClellan Committee
 The record of racketeering, violence, coercion, extortion and many instances of collusion between unions is written into the thousands of pages of testimony before the Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field.
 This is the committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas and more commonly known as the McClellan Committee. Earlier this year the committee reported it had found "alarming examples of criminal domination of legitimate business achieved by using corrupt unions."
 The record of testimony concerning James Hoffa and his Teamsters Union covers hundreds of pages
 "Togetherness" as subversive and each rejoices that male is different from female. Each affirms that this apartness creates a delicious biological attraction, which does and will forever, amen, make marriage as challenging and as threatening as a ten-gallon Martini.

Miss Nelda Barnett Marries Hereford Man

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barnett of Hereford, formerly of Friona, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Rogers, also of Hereford.

Rev. Woody Northcutt of Abilene performed the ceremony in the presence of close friends and relatives.

Six tall white wedding tapers were placed on the choir rail with seven branched candelabra entwined with greenery flanking a fan-shaped arrangement of Majestic daisies and delphinium in the center.

Mrs. Howard Scott, organist, and Miss Donna Rogers, vocalist, presented wedding music. Vocal numbers included "Whither Thou Goest," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Bless This House."

Miss Billie Jean Barnett served her sister as maid of honor. Her dress was white eyelet over blue made with fitted bodice and flared skirt.

Bruce Terry attended the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were James Dobbs and Ken DeHart.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over satin.

The lace bodice was finished with an upstanding collar and long petal point sleeves. The full floor-length tulle skirt featured a handkerchief tunic of lace attached to deep points of the bodice in front and back.

The lace-edged veil of illusion was attached to crown encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a cluster of white feathered carnations tied with white satin streamers and nestled on a white Bible.

The bride's mother wore a light blue cotton dress with black accessories and the bridegroom's mother chose a navy silk suit with white accessories. Their corsages were of white feathered carnations.

The bride's table was laid with a white Italian cutwork cloth at the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Renfro. Gandelabra holding wedding tapers entwined with flowers centered the table.

Assisting with serving were Janet Roe, Donna Rogers and Doris Barnett.

For a wedding trip to points in Colorado, the bride chose a pale grey silk suit trimmed in black and featuring black patent accessories.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are graduates of Hereford High School. She is presently employed in Jack Renfro's offices. Her husband is employed at Joe's Auto Clinic.

FVFD Has Family Night

Friona Volunteer Fire Department's family night was highlighted by a fried chicken supper at the clubhouse last Thursday night.

Mrs. Hank Outland won the door prize.

Loose carpeting on the stairway caused Daisy Martin to trip and break her leg. When we heard about the accident, Ed and I checked all of the stairs in our house. We didn't find any loose carpeting, but something else which could cause a serious accident—a loose step. Ed went to work with his tools and fixed it in a jiffy. My friend, Safety Sue, told us that many needless accidents would be prevented if all homemakers would check their stairways occasionally. At all times keep stairways clear of boxes, toys, and other objects, Sue advised.

Eva Mickey Services Read Here Tuesday

She had 17 grandchildren, 28 great grandchildren, and one great great grandchild.

Rock-and-roll came into vogue four or five years ago. Long-suffering folks hailed with delight the announcement that it was dying. The prediction that it was on the way out was first made two years ago—but rock-and-roll is still with us.

I have given the matter considerable thought and I have figured the situation out. Rock-and-roll indeed was slipping out of favor with the teenagers who were its devotees—but as they outgrow rock-and-roll, a new army of teenagers comes along to take their places.

So, friends, Romans, countrymen, I think we are stuck with it. Rock-and-roll has become a permanent part of our way of life.

EYE OPENERS

"Come all of you from other parts, Both city folks, and rural. And listen while I tell you this: The word "you-all" is plural. When we say "you-all" must come down, Or "we-all" shall be lonely. We mean a dozen folks, perhaps. And not one person only. If I should say to Hiram Jones for instance, "You-all's lazy"; or, "Will you-all lend me your knife" He'd think that I was crazy. Now if you'd be more sociable And with us often mingle, You'd find that on the native tongue, You-all is never single. Don't think I mean to criticize, Or act as if I knew all; But -- when we speak of one alone, We-all say "you" like you-all -- From Carl of Patrician Inn, Washington, N. C.

PREACHER: "And when I get through with my sermon I'll ask those of the congregation who want to contribute $5 toward the mortgage on the church to stand up. In the meantime you play appropriate music. . . The Star Spangled Banner."

The time to get primed for the future is when you're still in your prime.

THE HIGH PLAINS FARM AND HOME

Burning Saves Money Now, But Costly Later

In an effort to cut down on the cost of getting this year's wheat ground ready for the next crop, many High Plains farmers have resorted to burning stubble rather than plowing it under.

This practice makes it much faster and easier for the farmer to prepare a seedbed, whether the next crop be wheat again, sorghum or vegetables. The thick stubble left from this year's high-yielding wheat crop presents quite a problem.

A farmer may have to go over the field with a shredder, then disc it many times before the stubble is worked into the soil. This is both costly and time-consuming, thus the reason for burning the stubble.

After the straw is burned off, the ground can be worked into a good seedbed in short order. Once or twice over a burned stubble, and the ground can be ready for planting. This practice is especially helpful to the farmer at this time of year when his time is needed on other phases of farming, like cultivating the grain sorghum which is just reaching a good stand.

When that stubble is burned, a farmer may not realize that he is destroying organic matter and plant food which are necessary if the soil is to remain fertile and productive. At least, he doesn't realize the far-reaching effects of this burning process.

Agricultural and soil conservation experts say that the stubble should be worked back into the ground so that some of the organic particles which go into making the harvested crop can be replaced.

Back in the 30's, the proper

ALL THAT'S LEFT of what once was a thick wheat stubble is this small patch, and in a few minutes it too will be destroyed. Black clouds of smoke from wheat stubble such as this have been common scenes throughout the High Plains area during the past week.

use of crop residues was one of the farming practices developed to overcome wind erosion. Today, with the advent of irrigation, wind erosion is not so much of a problem but the residues still need to be utilized to keep organic material in the soil at a high level.

When stubble is worked back into the soil and decomposed, it helps to maintain this high level of fertility, especially when aided by the proper application of fertilizer and water.

"It takes a long time to build soil up and it also takes a long time to tear it down," says Joe Jones, Farmer County agent. For that reason farmers who burn their stubble this year may not notice any real effect on the next crop.

However, it is the long run that counts and this practice will eventually result in lower production.

Bob Crozier, unit director for the Farmer County Soil Conservation District, has this to say:

"To those who are planning to burn their crop residue, look at it this way. If there is a gain, it is an immediate reduction in cost. The prospect of future losses of soil is a permanent one. The loss of productivity may be regained through additional fertilizers, but this of course means increased costs."

So, in the long run it will be more profitable to utilize that crop residue which is already on the soil.

Crozier goes on to explain that soil needs a protective covering at all times. When crop residue is returned to the soil, it forms a protective covering and also makes the ground more porous and keeps it from crusting.

When the ground crusts, it will not absorb water and neither will it allow the natural nitrogen in the air to find its way into the soil.

"When soil was in its native or original condition," says Crozier, "it was in its most productive state. It was filled with grass roots, decaying organic material, and millions of both microscopic and small invisible soil organisms."

When this soil was first plowed for farming, it was permeable and productive, and it had all the organic material and soil organisms necessary for breaking down these residues into plant food for growth. The ground was also open and porous and the organisms could do their work in the presence of air and moisture.

As this same soil is farmed year after year, this original and productive condition gradually disappears. "The only way to keep this ground fertile and productive is to return as much crop residue as possible or plant a soil improving crop such as legumes or grasses," Crozier says.

"The residues that we return to the soil merely replace a part of that which we harvest," he adds. "To take all and return none results in unproductivity and diminishing returns from the land."

If you have a copy of "Tall Talk from Texas," you may, eventually, own a "collector's item." After 16 years, the book is out-of-print. What with loss through fire, flood and friends who borrow, but never return books, "Tall Talk" should ultimately be in short supply. This probably will take some time as close to 100,000 copies were published.

ORGANIC MATTER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE, and it is noticeable in these two photographic close-ups of soil structure. On the left, soil has become "tight" and is slow to take water. The sample on the right, however, is in good mechanical condition--primarily because of organic matter.

STUBBLE MULCHING is not very common in this area, but it does have its place in conservation work and is used by local farmers occasionally. The main idea here is to plow under the straw but to leave the surface "trashy" so as to prevent blowing.

Everybody Joins Bindweed Fight

Bindweed control has become a very important problem to agriculture in this area. In fact, it has been for some time. The people of Farmer County have faced up to this problem fairly well and bindweed is not spreading as fast in this county as it is in some other areas.

A great number of bindweed infested areas in the county have been treated in the past three years. However, there is still a lot of work to be done and the importance of controlling this pest cannot be over-emphasized.

Even though, bindweed control is, and should be, primarily the farmer's problem it is gratifying to note that almost everyone in Farmer County is taking an active part in helping to eradicate this pest. For example: Farmer County, through the commissioners court, will furnish a person with the chemical necessary to control any bindweed growing on adjoining county right-of-way; provided, that person agrees to treat the infested area on his own land.

The railroad people have treated, and we are assured will continue to treat, all bindweed infested areas on their property in order that this property may not be a source of spreading this pest.

The maintenance crew of the State Highway Department has been very cooperative and has done a very good job of controlling bindweed on their right-of-way in this county.

The Farmer County ASC committee has set aside Agricultural Conservation Program funds for the purpose of assisting farmers with the cost of controlling this pest. The government through this program will pay approximately 50 percent of the cost of treating bindweed infested areas on a

Now Is The Time To Fertilize Wheat Stubble

Now is the time to fertilize that wheat stubble. Or, at least it should be done before this crop residue is plowed under, advises Joe Jones, Farmer County agent.

However, something needs to be added to replace those organic materials which have gone into the produced crop. That's where fertilizer comes in and there are various kinds which can be applied to replace valuable nitrogen which has escaped.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT. The soil sample on the left is low in organic matter. For that reason, it breaks apart when immersed in the jar of water much more readily than does the sample on the right, which is high in organic matter. The sample in good condition absorbs water readily but does not break down and run together.

Straw Burning Assets Only Temporary Ones

Stubble mulching has advantages in the long time farming programs in the High Plains that outweigh the immediate and temporary gains from burning the wheat stubble. Delbert Langford, associate agronomist at the High Plains Research Foundation, stated in a recent interview.

The advantages of plowing under the stubble are (1) maintaining the organic matter content of the soil which facilitates water penetration by improving the tilth and structure of the soil; (2) returning plant food to the soil; (3) better aeration of the soil; and (4) prevention of diseases.

IN FEDERAL COURT District Sues To Establish Water Depletion Allowance

In 1954, the High Plains Water District filed with the U. S. Internal Revenue Service a request for a ruling that would establish ground water in the southern High Plains of Texas as a depletable natural resource and allow a deduction on federal income-tax returns for its depletion.

The request for such an administrative ruling has been denied. A lawsuit is now being planned to establish through litigation the District's contention that underground water in this area is a natural deposit and that it is being depleted; and that individuals and institutions using water to produce income should be allowed a Federal income-tax deduction for the depletion of this resource. Such depletion shall be calculated under cost rather than percentage depletion methods.

Another Harvest Wrapped Up

By the end of this week the 1960 wheat harvest will be history. According to reports from various parts of the county early this week about 95% of the total acreage in the county has been cut. What remains in the fields is late or has been too wet for combines to get into the fields.

Rainfall in June was beneficial to most of the wheat in the area. About the only noticeable damage was in the form of hail and wind damage about the middle of the month.

This same rainfall was very beneficial to grain sorghum and cotton. Irrigation has been almost all on these two crops. Since most of Farmer County received two or three inches of rain early this week, beginning date of irrigation on row crops has been moved up again.

With the exception of spotted areas wheat harvest went at a steady pace from its beginning to its completion. In some areas combines were halted for a day or two by local showers.

Total production in the county has apparently been better than farmers and elevator operators expected. Figures on total production in the county are not available at this time, but reports from elevators all over the county have been good. Vegetable harvest has started on a limited basis and the rain has halted this work for a few days.

Farmers all over the county took advantage of the "too wet to plow" situation Tuesday morning and made trips to elevators to secure warehouse receipts on their wheat.

Standing in line at some of the elevator offices was similar to waiting your turn at the ration board offices during World War II.

Farmers didn't seem to mind and were busy catching up on visiting with neighbors and friends. At least two farmers at a Friona elevator stood in line until it was almost time for them to be "next in line" before discovering that the marketing cards they were carrying in their pockets were dated 1959. One of them was able to keep his place in line by calling his wife and asking her to deliver his 1960 card.

FB Suggests Farm Policies To Demos

J. H. West, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, has presented recommendations of the American Farm Bureau Federation to the Democratic Platform Committee, meeting in Los Angeles.

The Texas agricultural leader stressed the Farm Bureau's platform for a "competitive enterprise system in which all property is privately owned, privately managed, and operated for profit and individual satisfaction, and in which supply and demand are the ultimate determinants of market price.

Briefly, here are some of the Farm Bureau's policies on national farm programs:

(1) Farm production cannot be balanced with effective demand by legislation as long as increased production is being encouraged by government guarantees. Price-fixing programs of the past have failed to control production and have failed to protect farmers against reduced incomes.

(2) We should move in the direction of eliminating government regulation of the right to produce agricultural commodities. Our experience in this regard clearly indicates that political determination of the right to produce is the road to low—not high—per family farm income.

(3) Our farm plant is over-expanded in relation to current markets—including the extraordinary "markets" made possible by special export aids. Land retirement programs, such as the Conservation Reserve, are not a cure-all. Nevertheless, a sizeable land retirement program is urgently needed as a temporary measure to help farmers make the adjustments that must be made to correct the adverse results of past programs.

(4) Where price support and production adjustment programs are used, they should be designed to facilitate orderly marketing rather than to fix prices. Price support levels should take account of competitive conditions, supply and demand, and market trends.

(5) With less interference from government, the marketing system will be freer to operate effectively and efficiently. This will encourage the expansion of market outlets and the production of quality products in line with market demands. Thus, we can better meet competition at home and abroad.

(6) Where special export pricing is necessary to regain or maintain foreign markets, we should return to a one-price system as rapidly as possible.

(7) Individual commodity programs must be in harmony with the interests of agriculture generally; however, these programs must also recognize the inherent difference among various farm commodities.

(8) Congress should retain responsibility for determining major provisions of commodity programs as it is the only body which represents all the people affected by such programs. The assumption that producers of a commodity are the only people interested in programs for that commodity is fallacious.

(9) We strongly oppose the establishment of maximums on price support loans, either in total or as applied to individual farmers. A ceiling on individual loans would not remove the basic causes of high program costs. More significantly it would tend to reduce the size of farm units and thus lower production efficiency.

(10) The compensatory or direct production payment approach is unsound and dangerous to our economic and political system.

Irrigation And Management Of Soils Aid Productivity

Since soil is one of the most valuable assets a farmer possesses, its care and management should be a primary concern.

Much of the land in Texas is irrigated, and this poses additional problems and considerations for the farmer. To be able to manage this irrigated land correctly, he must understand the processes of soil formation, the texture and structure of the soil, the physical condition and organic content, the relationship between soil and water, the use of fertilizer on irrigated soils, the development of plants, and the sources of plant nutrients.

These factors must also be taken into consideration by the farmer who is trying to decide whether or not to irrigate.

John Box, assistant extension agronomist, and William F. Bennett, extension soil chemist for the Texas A & M College System, have written an informative and comprehensive publication on the irrigation and management of Texas soils. They discuss the many aspects of irrigation, and the publication should be helpful to anyone who is considering irrigation or who already operates an irrigated farm.

The bulletin may be obtained from the local county agent or by writing the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for B-941.

FOOD ADVICE FOR TRAVELERS

Keeping your family well-fed may be your biggest vacation problem. Here's some food advice for travelers from extension foods and nutrition specialists of the Texas A & M College System.

Include lots of fruit, vegetables, meat, eggs and milk in your diet. Try to avoid fat or fried foods and sweets, such as too many soft drinks, candy, cookies and ice cream. These foods may not be harmful at home in moderation, but it's easy to eat too many on a trip. They may cause you to omit other necessary foods. Eating well-balanced meals will do more than anything else to prevent car sickness and constipation—two common problems of travelers.

To select a safe, sanitary restaurant, specialists suggest you watch where local people eat or follow the recommendation of travel authorities. Eating places within a large city usually are under more strict, sanitary control than those outside city limits.

Other important suggestions: Drink only pasteurized milk. Avoid creamed foods such as potato salads, custard or cream pie desserts. Dangers of food poisoning are greatest in these foods.

TRAVEL LIGHT

Going away this summer? Take no more clothing than is absolutely essential, suggest extension clothing specialists of the Texas A & M College System. Traveling with light baggage is lots easier these days with all the new fabrics and finishes which make clothing so much easier to care for.

Make a plan and build your wardrobe around a basic color scheme. Well chosen separates and such small accessories as scarfs, flowers and jewelry help vary your costume.

Take the type of clothes you know you like to wear. As useful as separates are to most women, if you don't like to wear them at home you won't like them away from home. The same thing applies to knitted suits and dresses. They're ideal for packing but remember you want clothes ideal for wearing, too.

Be PRACTICAL but not drab. When in doubt, don't take that extra dress.

Chemical Treatment Improves Pump Efficiency

By WILLIAM F. SCHWIESOW, Asst. Professor

Agricultural Engineering Dept., Texas Tech College, Lubbock, Texas

An irrigation well on the Texas Tech farm, which produced a small amount of water, was treated in the Spring of 1960 by the Agricultural Engineering Department of Texas Technological College. Records of performance of this well during previous years indicated that the well was capable of producing more water than it was producing at the time of treatment.

The suspected cause of this reduced flow was an organic growth, and the analyses of samples of water that were taken when the well was started at the beginning of the irrigation season substantiated this thought.

An experiment was made to determine the possibility of chemically removing some of this organic growth and thereby increase the flow of water from the well. To accomplish this experiment, 50 pounds of Welgicide Cleaner, a product of Cotey Chemical Company, was selected for the treatment. The chemical was placed in the pump column and in the well casing according to recommendations of the manufacturer. When the pump was started after the treatment, samples of the water contained a greater percentage of organic material than before the treatment. The pump was driven by a constant speed electric motor; however after the treatment, the flow of water increased approximately 17 percent. The draw-down of the water level was increased 2.8 feet. These results indicated that the chemical treatment was successful in removing a sufficient amount of organic material from the pump to allow the water to flow more freely and thereby increase the operating efficiency of the pump.

The following table is supplied so that the value of water under a particular set of conditions may be determined.

* Reported average value when irrigating grain sorghum.

** Reported average value when irrigating cotton.

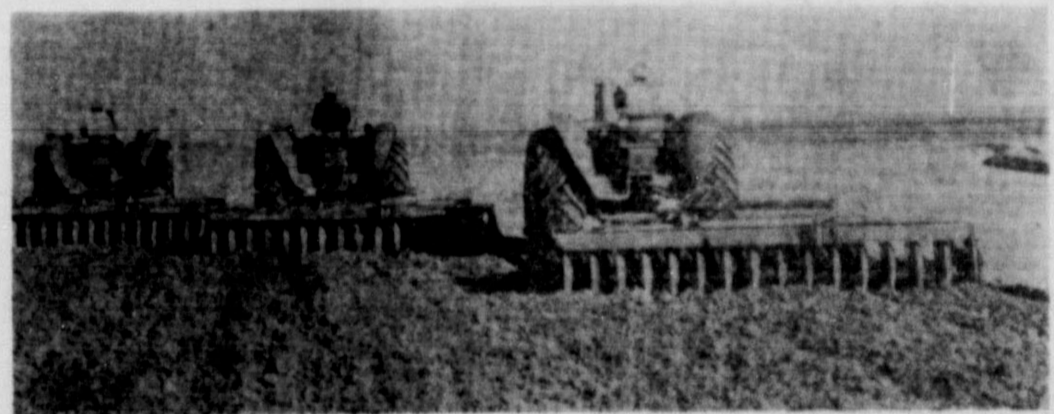

Example: If we assume that water is used on both cotton and grain sorghum, the value of the water per acre-foot may average $30.00. If we further assume an increased yield of 10 gallons per minute from the well, then we would follow across the table opposite the 10 g.p.m. flow increase to the column directly under the $30.00 figure. There we find the amount $132.00. This is the expected monetary return if the well is pumped 100 days. Pumping 200 days would mean an increased productive value of $264.00.

According to some estimates, overall production of plastics in the United States will double during the next decade, reaching an annual output of about 11 billion pounds by 1970.

NINETEEN PIGS is quite a large litter, but this sow gave birth to all of them Friday night. Belonging to Dee J. Brown, left, and his father, the sow is crossed between a Duroc, Berkshire and Poland China.

5 Sows, Then 77 Pigs -- And All In 3 Days

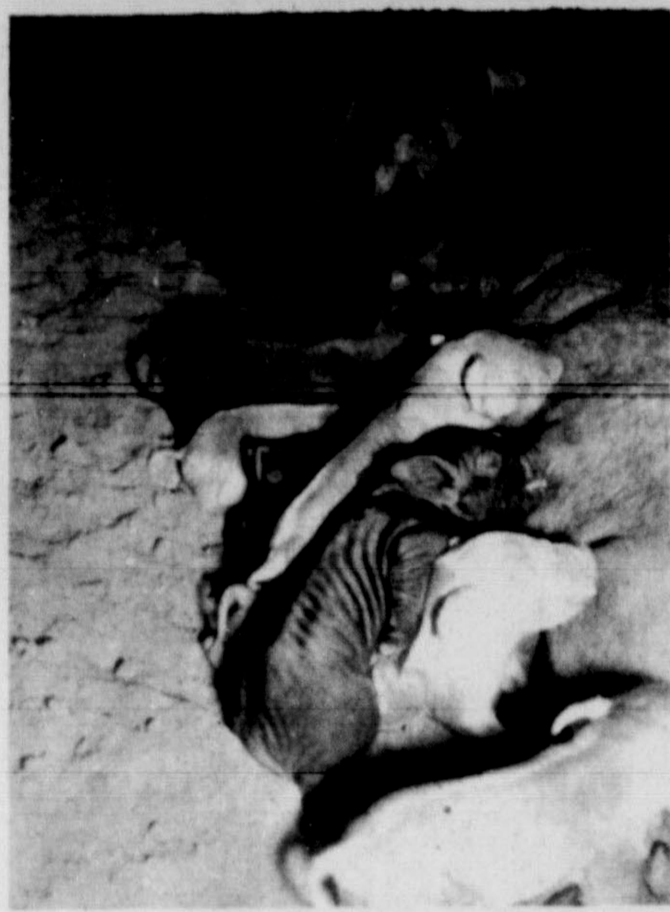

"Pigs a Poppin' everywhere", pretty well describes the situation last week end on the farm of D. J. Brown and his son Dee, south of Texico-Farwell.

Dutch Quickel, Representing MUTUAL Life Insurance Company Of New York

From Friday night through Sunday night, five sows farrowed 77 pigs, the litters being 19, 14, 13, 16 and 15, respectively. "The 19 from this one sow is the largest litter we've ever had," said Dee J., who with his father has been in the hog-raising business for many years. The 77 pigs farrowed from the five sows is also a record, but it just barely tops the 79 total farrowed from six sows last January. At that time, the sow that gave birth to the 19 this time, had a litter of 16. The five sows are all cross-breeds, 1/2 Duroc, 1/4 Berkshire and 1/4 Poland China. They were all bred to a Duroc boar, which the Browns have had for a year. He also sired the last batch of pigs. Things first started happening on the Brown farm last week when one of their Hampshire sows farrowed nine pigs. That wasn't anything, though, compared to what the cross-breeds started doing Friday. The first two litters arrived Friday, the second two Saturday and the last one Sunday. And, that's not all. Another sow is scheduled to farrow sometime this week. Asked how profitable the hog-raising business was, both D. J. and Dee said, "It's profitable if you stay in it all the time." The market naturally fluctuates and sometimes you make money, other times you do good to break even, they explained. "You can't get in the business and then out," D. J. said. "You're always in when you should be out and out when you should be in." "Raising hogs takes about two hours of your time each day," Dee added. But, he indicated that it was worth it.

IT'S CHOW TIME and these 3-day old pigs don't hesitate one minute about answering the call. This is one of the five litters farrowed on the Brown farm over the week end.

The sooner wheat straw can be worked back into the soil and decomposed the better condition the land will be in for seeding this fall. To do a good job of decomposing organic matter such as wheat straw you must have moisture, temperature, and nitrogen available. We have all three available in some soils at present but in most soils addition of nitrogen will speed up decomposition and give a better seed bed this fall.

In medium or heavy textured soils very little loss of nitrogen will take place between now and planting time. On sandy soils some leaching may take place but the value of getting soil back in good seeding condition should outweigh any loss through leaching of a little nitrogen.

Those who normally use anhydrous ammonia for all their nitrogen had better consider some other source, if you are unable to get anhydrous due to the excess residue on the ground, and go ahead and apply some nitrogen now to speed up decomposition of the stubble. In most all instances 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen (Net. N) should do a good job.

Spot treatment of Johnson grass with oils or Dalapon is the easiest, cheapest, and most effective method of getting rid of Johnson grass in row crops. This method of Johnson grass eradication has proven to be just as cheap as hand hoeing and will eradicate the old established grass where hand hoeing will not.

In cool weather naphtha is recommended for spot oiling purposes but in hot weather a 50 - 50 mixture of naphtha and diesel or kerosene should be used. One hundred gallons of kerosene and one gallon of C-56 as an additive is also an effective mixture for killing Johnson grass.

The oils are not foliage treatments but must be applied directly to the stems at the groundline. This requires only a small amount of oil and the Texas Jetgun developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station makes the oil easily applied.

Field bindweed continues to bloom in the bar ditches, along waste land, in the towns, and in the fields. In most instances bindweed has already matured some seed. Bindweed is like cotton, it will have mature fruit and blooms at the same time. A lot of people see bindweed blooming and plan to get it before it makes seed and do not realize this blooming goes on all year long and the blooms they see this week will be forming seed next week and new blooms have formed to take the old blooms place.

This process is continuous throughout the growing season. If you have Bindweed adjoining your property on county right-of-ways meet with the commissioners court on a second or fourth Monday and discuss it with them. If it is on a State Highway see Lloyd Kilgough at the highway barn at Bovina, if it is on the railroad report it to your station agent, if in the city discuss the problem with your mayor, if on the farm go by the county A. S. C. office and ask about assistance for eradication. The main point to keep in mind is that all Field Bindweed should be eradicated and it is everyone's responsibility to see that this joint effort is carried out.

Nationwide Soil Conservation Awards Program Announced

For the eighth time, a nationwide soil conservation awards program is being sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. All soil conservation districts in the nation are eligible to participate.

Jack Barton, soil and water conservation specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the program officially started on May 1, 1960 and would end on April 30, 1961. He emphasized that an early entry would be to the advantage of the conservation district because the sponsor, upon receipt of an entry, will provide material very valuable for recording the progress of the district.

Barton added that the program's purpose is to stimulate individual effort in soil conservation. The awards offered under the program are made on the basis of the administration of the soil conservation district; conservation education; planning and application; organization and activities of committees to assist district

Announce Payment Rates For 1959 Wool Program

The USDA June 21 announced that shorn wool payments for the 1959 marketing year -- to bring average wool prices up to the previously announced incentive level of 62 cents per pound under the National Wool Act -- will amount to 43.2 per cent of the dollar returns each producer receives from the sale of shorn wool during the year.

This will result in an incentive payment to producers of $43.20 for every $1.00 received from the sale of shorn wool during the fifth year of the program, says Prentice Mills of the county ASC office. USDA also announced that the payment rate on sales of lambs that have never been shorn, to compensate for the wool on them, will be 75 cents per hundred weight of live animals sold. This payment is based on the shorn wool payment and is designed to discourage unusual shearing of lambs before marketing.

County SAC offices will begin making payments soon. Applications for payment were filed with these offices by April 30. The payments will be made on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed from April 1, 1959, through March 31, 1960.

The wool incentive program was authorized by the National Wool Act of 1954. Legislation originally provided for a program during the 1955 through 1958 marketing years but was extended in 1958 to continue through the 1959, 1960, and 1961 marketing years.

The act directs the Secretary of Agriculture to support the price of shorn wool at an incentive level he finds necessary to encourage an annual production of 300 million pounds of shorn wool. The act limits the cumulative payments to an amount equal to 70 per cent of the duties collected on imports of wool and wool manufactures since January 1, 1953.

Shorn wool production in 1959 continued to move upward and was almost 7 per cent more than in 1958. Although 1959 production of 257.2 million pounds is well below the 300 million pound annual production goal provided by the wool act, it was the largest yearly output since the 1946 clip. The 1960 clip is expected to be about 4 per cent larger than 1959, or about 265 million pounds. For the third successive year, numbers of stock sheep on farms and ranches increased. Numbers on January 1, 1960, were up 3 per cent from a year earlier and were the largest since 1948.

The shorn wool payment rate for the 1959 marketing year was determined on the basis of the difference between the national average of prices received by growers for shorn wool sold during the 1959 marketing year and the 62 - cent per pound incentive level announced for the 1959 marketing year in September 1958.

The average price received by growers was 43.3 cents per pound as determined by the Agricultural Marketing Service on the basis of prices reported by growers in their applications for payment. The wool incentive rate of 43.2 per cent is the amount needed to bring the average return for wool up to the incentive level of 62 cents per pound.

To determine the wool incentive payment for individual producers, the rate of 43.2 per cent is applied to the dollar return each producer received for wool after paying marketing charges. The percentage method of payment is designed to encourage producers to do a good job of marketing their wool. Under this method, the producer who gets the best possible price for his wool also gets a higher incentive payment. A lamb payment rate of 75 cents per hundred weight is determined on the basis of the average weight of wool per 100 pounds of lamb, the value of lamb wool relative to shorn wool, and the average shorn wool incentive payment per pound.

The payment of 75 cents per hundredweight of live animal was determined by multiplying five (the average weight of wool in pounds per 100 pounds of lamb) times 15 cents which is 80 per cent (value of lamb wool relative to shorn wool) of the average shorn wool payment of 18.7 cents per pound (the difference between the 62-cent incentive price and the average price received by growers of 43.3 cents per pound of shorn wool).

Deductions of 1 cent per pound from shorn wool payments and 5 cents per 100 pounds of liveweight from lamb payments will be made for advertising, promotion, and related market development activities on wool and lamb. This self-help program (under Section 708 of the National Wool Act) is carried out by the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., which was established for that purpose. Deductions from payments were approved by producers in referendums in 1955 and 1959.
