With taxes a tremendously growing burden on every citizen in the United States, the people must take an increasing interest in all affairs of government, from the smallest school district to Congress itself.

Taking an interest in the affairs of government does not mean merely to sit back and kick after assessments have been levied. Instead, study the legitimate needs of government and sift them out of the thousand and one purely political items that have crept into public budgets.

The people must begin talking to or writing to their city councils, their local school boards, their county courts, their tax commissions, their state legislators—and last, but not least, their congressmen and senators who are today levying taxes which are taking the lion's share of the tax payments of every individual, every business and every industry.

Your congressmen are anxious to know what you think about various measures proposed which deflate your pocketbook. They cannot know if you never express your opinions. A postcard message from a man on the soil, a workman in an industry or a small businessman struggling to meet the tax problems, is the best index of public thinking. There should be sacrifice and economy in government, just as there is sacrifice and economy and scrimping in every home in the land.

Let your public official know how you feel on legislative and taxation policies that affect every job, every industry and every dime of savings. The future of representative government is in the hands of the people in more way than one. Remember, you are the government. Don't expect it to be better than the thought you contribute to it.

JULY 15, 1932

On Thursday, July 14, Terrell County celebrated its 27th birthday in a very quiet unassuming manner. To a few citizens its birth anniversary was not even known while to the older pioneer citizens it was a day that recalled memories, and with a feeling of pride and interest of that first day when the county was created.

PRODUCTION...

Is the Present Need . . .

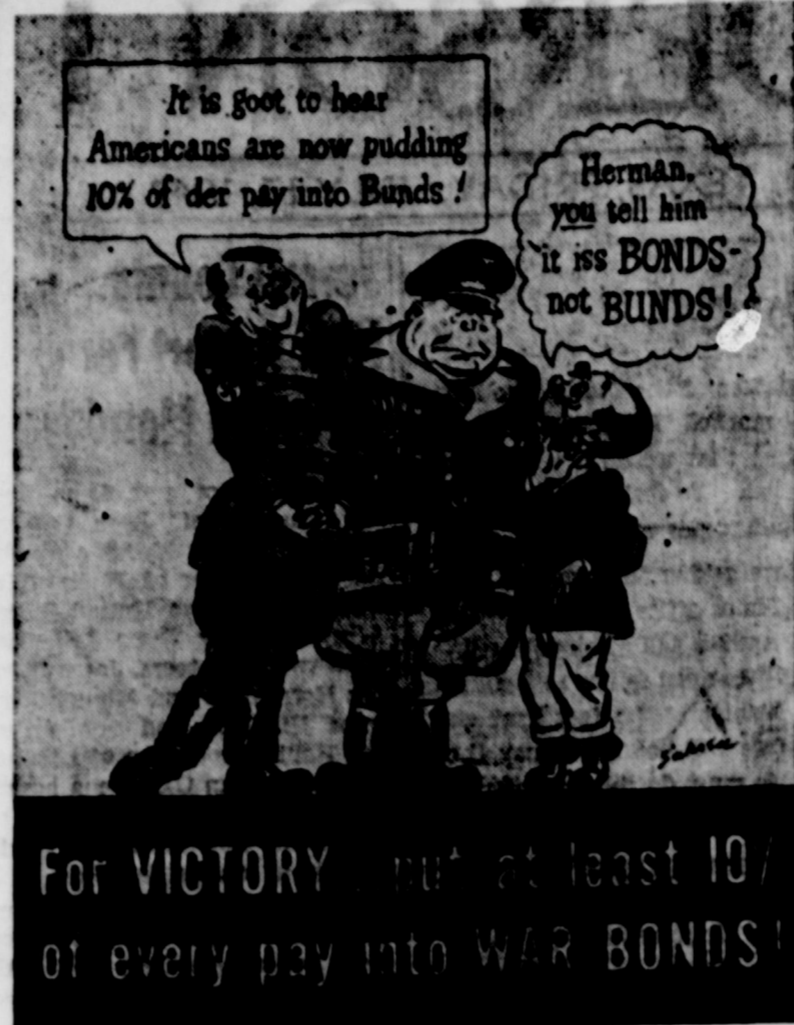

"This is a war of machines . . . Our national need calls for the best efforts of every man in industry. My message consists of one word, PRODUCE! Produce all you can, as fast as you can. Our entire war effort depends on how well you do your job." — Lieut. Gen William S. Knudsen Munitions are important, but so also is the production of food and other essentials. Without well-planned production all along the line, the most hopeful plan for victory must fail.

The Sanderson State Bank is ready to do its part in increasing local production. We have faith in the future of America, and we shall welcome any opportunity to be of service.

MAISIE GETS HER MAN
(Sunday & Monday)

A bit of music here and there, a thrill or two, some romantic heartaches, and comedy all along is the combination to be found in Sunday's matinee picture. Ann Sothorn, starring in her sixth Maisie role, has the part of the Brooklyn girl trying to break into musicals. Red Skelton of the radio and several preceding pictures, is a country boy with a variety of tricks up his sleeve, also trying to woo musical producers.

After becoming acquainted and job-hunting together Maisie and Red find themselves in love. But he has a fiancée back on the farm; and Maisie is perturbed over her.

Leo Gorcey, "Dead End" tough guy; Donald Meek, Allen Jenkins, and Walter Catlett figure in the plot.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The giant four-motored Navy Patrol Bombers are the world's most powerful planes. They cost approximately $700,000 each. The Navy also has a lighter Bomber called the Scout Bomber which costs about $143,000 apiece.

The battle for Britain was almost lost because England had none of these giant four-motored planes with which to fight back. We need thousands of them and they are coming off the assembly lines in our production plants at a high rate of speed today. You can help buy these for your Navy by purchasing War Bonds and Stamps every pay day. Put at least ten percent into Bonds or Stamps and help your county go over its Quota.

A WEEK Of the War

War Production Chairman Nelson, speaking in Detroit, said the U. S. will hit the "real" peak of its war production program by next March. Mr. Nelson said "Our ability to produce is much greater than any one dreamed. The armament objective as announced by President Roosevelt last winter—and which seemed too vast at the time—will be readily realized. Our productive capacity is apparently limited only by the raw materials available.

"The engineering genius of American production, when turned from peace to war, has proved a reservoir no one could gauge," Nelson said. "When American men and machines stopped competing with each other and turned all their competitive energy and abilities against Hitler and Hirohito, it knocked all previous calculations of our productive powers into a cocked hat. . . . TWO YANKS IN TRINIDAD
(Friday & Saturday)

Two racketeering boys from Brooklyn start chasing one another for some off-color acts pulled by each, and in the pursuit, each gets tied up in the Army and is shipped to Trinidad, S. A. Here they meet a gorgeous gal, and the fight continues. More fights occur in the army life and when Japan raids Pearl Harbor, the boys keep on fighting, but this time not against, but with each other.

Chairman Nelson said "At all costs—we must not get into the frame of mind that this is either an easy or a short job. If the people build on false hopes of an easy victory or a short war, then they are certain to come down when the bad news as come they will . . .

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

IF YOU ARE PLANNING TO MOVE

Read These New Government Regulations Limiting Extensions of Utility Service

In order to conserve materials for the war effort, the government, through the War Production Board, has issued new rules regarding service extensions by public utilities, effective June 23 and expiring September 30, 1942.

Under these new WPB regulations, we will not be permitted to build extensions to our distribution system to serve customers, except under the following conditions:

- (1) The extension must not exceed 250 feet in length. (Including service line from distribution system to building to be served.)
- (2) Building to be served must have been piped or wired ready to receive service prior to July 1, 1942.
- (3) In case of new construction, foundation under main part of building must have been completed prior to July 1, 1942.
- (4) Cost of material for extension must not exceed $1,500 for underground jobs or $500 for overhead extensions.

The above regulations apply only to ordinary non-defense extensions. In case of new consumer building projects bearing a preference rating of A-5 or better, we are permitted to use such rating in placing orders for material necessary to serve such projects without prior approval from the War Production Board, although this does not guarantee that the material will be immediately available.

Nothing in the above regulations applies to buildings already connected to our distribution system and which are piped or wired but are not now receiving service because of vacancy or for other reasons. Service to such buildings may be resumed at any time upon application at our office.

However, if you are planning to move into a new home or other building which will require an extension of our system to receive service, we suggest that you consult us before making any commitments or taking any action. We can assist you in determining whether or not service can be provided under the new government regulations.

The Road to Complacency

—By Knott

W. Lee O'Daniel---

the world by lies, and this man O'Daniel has never once risen to plead the cause of truth. He smiles and chants "There ain't gonna be no war." What sort of blood runs in his veins? We have not retaken one inch of territory seized by Japan. For months our men fought like tigers in the Philippines, but now the Japanese hold all that land. We call Corregidor "the Gibraltar of the Pacific," and they took it. They took our bases at Guam and Wake Island. They took Hong Kong, Singapore, Java and Burma from our Allies. Yet, according to this prophet, W. Lee O'Daniel, the war is about over. The Germans are pushing the Russians back in Russia. The Germans, as this is written, are on the edge of the Suez Canal and the oil fields of the Middle East. They are murdering civilians by the hundreds of thousands in conquered countries. But there ain't gonna be no war."

of Austin. Governor O'Daniel has never been able to get along without hired musicians. He put several of these hired musicians on the payroll at Camp Mabry. Their services there consisted mostly of drawing their monthly pay. They furnished the patriotic music he regularly gave out on Sundays and on other occasions. In the first campaign for governor that O'Daniel made in Texas he sang, "Pappy, pass the biscuits," and dodged all issues. In the second campaign for governor, he talked about "professional politicians" and dodged all issues. In the third—his sensational senatorial campaign last year—he sang "There ain't gonna be no war," and dodged all issues. On the night of June 22, 1942, in a speech at Austin, Texas, to a small and unresponsive crowd, Senator W. Lee O'Daniel said: "Professional politicians got us into this war." That is the way he meets the issues now. That is the way he remembers Pearl Harbor. That is his answer to declarations of war by Germany and Italy against the United States. He says that it is up to Roosevelt to win the war. That is the O'Daniel plan for national cooperation. No citizen can get away from the war. It is a total war. A year or two years from now the people will realize much more intimately how total and terrible the war is. American soldiers and sailors by the tens of thousands will lie dead at the bottom of the seas and oceans of the world and on the continents and islands stretching from the equator to the poles. The Texas tradition is a fighting tradition, and already in this war the Texans have drawn upon themselves the eyes of the world. On San Jacinto Day last April, the Texas boys on besieged Corregidor sang "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You." One day last month a thousand Texas boys were sworn in together at Houston to avenge the Japanese sinking of the S. S. Houston. Before the United States was bombed into the war, so many Texans had volunteered for the Canadian air force that this magnificent body of men was jokingly called the Royal Texas Canadian Air Force. Among the seventy-nine men that Doolittle led to bomb Tokio, there were nineteen Texans—a fourth of the force. The Flying Tigers in Burma and China are distinguished by Texans. While one of their darling leaders called "Kirk of San Saba" flies obsolete planes, Mr. O'Daniel campaigns with five luxurious touring cars, two sound trucks and one station wagon. No man claiming to represent the people ever stood more isolated from them than W. Lee O'Daniel stands today among the Texans. While he glides over the smooth highways of Texas on the thirty-two wheels of rubber that his caravan "conserves," the United States Congress appropriates over $42,000,000,000 for carrying on the war. This is the greatest appropriation for war than any nation in the history of the world ever made. It is greater than all World War I cost America. And while the nation forges, strives, arms, goes down in ships, goes over the waters to fight and die, the mighty scene brings from Mr. O'Daniel only a galvanized chant: "There ain't gonna be no gas rationing. There ain't gonna be no run-off."

As I Was Saying

By Aynah Nemus

A wild-haired, ragged, bum-of-the-road with exposed toes and a backless shirt, odorized an opening into our corner collection Wednesday and squinted at the cocked heads about him. "You want to know something about me?" he demanded. "OK, I'll tell you." And he leaned against a convenient telephone post. "I just got out of the pen four months ago after being in it for fifteen years, and now I wish I was back. You want to know why I wish I was back? O.K. Because it's worse out here than in there." And he pointed with his arm. "You're about twenty, I guess, huh?" he said to one of the fellows, who flinched. "And when you were five I went in. And I stayed cooped up there till now."

Here he began moving around the circle, sticking his chin out in birth certificates to prove American citizenship, the War Manpower Commission announced. The WPB Labor Division said the aircraft industry will require more than 1,500,000 workers by the end of 1943. A total of almost 20 million persons will be drawn into war production and service in the Armed Forces during this year and next, the WMC reported. Consequently, employers can no longer afford to set arbitrary age limits or discriminate against workers because of sex, race or nationality, the commission stated.

THE WAR FRONT

Recent Far Eastern events indicate "the turning point in air operations has been reached and the Japanese are now more on the defensive whereas the American Air Forces are on the offensive." U. S. Army Air Forces Headquarters in China reported. U. S. submarines within two days sank or destroyed five Japanese destroyers in the Aleutians the Navy said. The War Department said American troops are now stationed at Port Moresby, Allied base in New Guinea. The Department also announced that U. S. crews, manning American-made medium tanks, knocked out a number of German tanks in the battle of Libya in mid-June without losses of their own personnel. Gen. MacArthur reported more Allied raids on numerous enemy bases in the Southwest Pacific. The Navy announced the torpedoing by Axis submarines of 16 additional United Nations Merchant vessels.

and pushing his upper lip against his nose.

"I was a circus entertainer, a clown, and I didn't get much money to speak of, but it was work. We rolled into a small town one day, about the size of this one; but it was dirty and lazy. Not over three or four good houses there, and they belonged to foremen who ran a mine where all the people worked. The people leaned against end posts of torn down fences and sat on rubbish stacks, and covered up navels on naked stomachs with pieces of torn clothes as we went by in our parade. We didn't want to but we stayed there one night. After the tents were pitched, I started moseying around and I came upon a little girl sitting against a broken wheel from off a wagon and she was crying."

He paused in his story to think, and then began again his slow limp around the circle.

"She told me her mother had just died giving birth to her thirteenth child; and that she was going to run away and try to join our circus. So I talked to her about the town and how the people lived and she proved to me that the kids there didn't have a chance to grow up like other people. So I went back to the circus and went in the main wagon and took the expense money and gave it to the girl."

They gave me fifteen years because I wouldn't tell where I put the money. $10,000 is a lot. And there you are. I stayed in the coop for fifteen years, now I'm out and wishing I was back."

He turned and left in the direction of the switchyard, and we watched him bewilderedly, not knowing what to think. We remarked about it for five minutes and as we heard a freight train pull out of town we decided to break it up and go get drinks.

At the counter every man in the crowd, ten of them, discovered his watch and money gone.
