TOTAL OF $1,574.45 RAISED FOR WAR FUND DRIVE

At the close of the War Fund drive, March 31, funds had reached a total of $1,574.45, according to R. E. Corder, War Fund Drive chairman.

The quota set for the county was $1,250.00 and the amount received was $324.45 above the quota. It was disclosed that of this amount $692.76 remained in the county Red Cross Fund to be used in cases of emergency and for necessary expenses in conducting the local organization.

Sign-up Campaign Draws to Close For Ranchmen

Sign-up of Texas' 418,000 ranchmen and farmers under the 1943 food reports in the state AAA office.

According to the Texas USDA War Board approximately 90 percent of all farms and ranches already have signed for maximum production under agriculture's war program, which calls for increases in nearly all commodities.

Counties which have not completed their campaign were notified this week by B. F. Vance, chairman of the board, to complete plan sheets immediately and transmit county figures for state tabulations.

Purpose of early tabulations is to ascertain whether all goals have been pledged or whether adjustments are necessary in some counties.

Since the Food for Freedom program aims at maximum production from the entire state instead of from individual counties, some goals necessarily are re-allocated after pledges have been made by producers.

If goals have not been pledged in all counties, other localities in the state will be given an opportunity to increase their pledges to make up the differences. Through this manner of adjusting, the State USDA War Board expects all goals to be pledged.

Final date for adjusting farm goals has been set for June 1 and no adjustments may be made after that date, Vance said and explained that all producers would be notified of their specific warcrop goals before planting time.

COUNTY'S QUOTA IN SECOND WAR LOAN SET AT $60,000; STARTS MONDAY

Terrell County has been assigned a quota of $60,000 as its part in the Second War Loan drive, which is to start Monday in an effort to raise 13 billion dollars, according to C. P. Peavy, chairman of the drive.

While Terrell County residents have responded liberally in meeting all quotas of the past, it has been pointed out that this goal is far in excess of any amount allotted the county before, and an appeal is made to every citizen to buy all the bonds possible during this drive. The drive is scheduled to end May 1.

Several types of bonds are being offered in the 13-billion dollar campaign, in addition to the E F and G bonds previously listed. These include a 7-8% Treasury certificate which matures next April 1; tax notes bearing 1.07% and maturing in three years; Treasury 2% bonds, maturing in 1950 and 2 1/2% bonds maturing in 1969.

The Treasury has offered investments to fit every pocketbook during the Second War Loan. It is not only a duty but a privilege for every American on the home front to sacrifice to cut down living to necessities in order to purchase his share of these government securities for his own security. The men in the fighting forces have not hesitated to sacrifice to the ultimate. They GIVE their LIVES you LEND your money!

Meyer-Lochausen Wedding In El Paso Saturday

White gladioli and Calla lilies against a background of ferns and palms formed the decorative theme for the wedding of Miss Wilma Mae Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo C. Meyer, to Lt. Jesse H. Lochausen, Jr., of Roswell, N. M., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lochausen of Sanderson, Texas, which was solemnized at 6:30 p. m. Saturday in the Church of St. Clement.

Marked beauty of appointment attended the wedding, which was of simple dignity befitting the Lenten season.

The Rev. B. M. G. Williams, long time friend of the bride's family, was officiant and Walter Davis, church organist, played the wedding music.

As guests assembled the melody rendered included Rubenstein's "Romance," Bach's "Chorale Prelude," "Our Father Who Art In Heaven," and "O Perfect Love," with chime accompaniment.

Mr. Davis also played organ accompaniment for Miss Winnifred Porter, who sang "Ave Maria."

Members of the wedding party approached the chancel by a center aisle formed of heavy white silken cords.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory Chantilly lace and marquisette posed over taffeta.

The long molded bodice was of lace, while the sweeping skirt was of marquisette.

The peplum of the frock is of lace applied mousseline de sole and a similar motif edges the sweetheart neckline.

The bride wore Mrs. Thornton Hardie Jr.'s wedding veil of ivory illusion, fingertip length, arranged with coronet of orange blossoms and pearls.

Mrs. Hardie was Miss Mary Elizabeth Whitaker before her wedding to Ensign Hardie December 27.

The bride carried a white prayer book ornamented with white orchids and for the traditional "something old for luck" she had the rose pointe lace handkerchief carried by her great-great grandmother, Mrs. Waldo Spencer, at her wedding and carried by each generation since that time, including the bride's mother and the bride's sister, Mrs. John Frierson of Birmingham, Ala., the former Waldo Meyer.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Hardie, Lieutenant Lochausen's sister, Miss Roberta Lochausen of Sanderson, and Mrs. J. Fred Ryan, Jr., were all gowned alike in frocks having bodices of ivory jersey and wide skirts of ivory mousseline de sole over ivory taffeta. Bodices were designed in molded effect below the neckline and the waistline featured the violet knotted girdle of jersey.

Bouquets were of iris tied with matching satin ribbons. Mrs. Hardie's bouquet was of blue, Miss Lochausen's of pink, and Mrs. Ryan's jonquil yellow.

Miss Porter, the bride, Mrs. Hardie, and Mrs. Ryan, have been close friends since childhood.

Robert Lochausen, of San Antonio, was his brother's best man and groomsmen were Lts. R. J. Anderson, Douglas Riley, H. S. Tietzworth, and Joseph Svejkar.

Mrs. Meyer wore a jacket frock of navy blue sheer crepe with lingerie touches and her hat (Continued to Page Four)

THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

Everybody wants freedom. "Freedom" is a popular word. But, as Eric Johnson recently pointed out in an article in Reader's Digest entitled "Your Stake in Capitalism," you cannot have freedom unless you also have "capitalism."

It has long been good political strategy to talk about freedom and damn capital in the same breath. Under such inconsistent reasoning our lawmakers have enacted such social legislation designed to enhance the freedom of the individual by establishing wage and hour standards and other economic safeguards, while at the same time passing laws which destroy capital and threaten the very freedom they profess to uphold.

Capital is accumulated savings which, put to productive use by private citizens, supplies jobs and opportunities. When private citizens are prevented from accumulating capital and using it to create jobs, private jobs in free enterprise gradually cease to exist.

As Mr. Johnson observes: "A great many people—in polling booths and in legislative bodies—have thought that you can tax business just as much as you like and still have 'free enterprise' and the 'American way of life.' You cannot. Just suppose that you taxed all new savings and all new profits and all new capital out of private hands into the public treasury. What would you have left to be the creator of new jobs? Only the government. Only the totalitarian state. We stand at a solemn parting of the ways. Our business leaders and our labor leaders want freedom. But what is the price of freedom? I say it is the capital with which to operate capitalism. The word is capitalism."

Freedom will be lost unless we recognize the truth of Mr. Johnson's words.

SEEING THE SENIORS

At last has come the time to reveal the life of that mathematical genius James Carl House, better known as "Casa". Casa has brown eyes and brown hair and definite ability to talk down anyone on the subject of the Civil War. He has gone to school in Sanderson all of his life and plans after graduation to start fulfilling his ambition to be a doctor by going to medical school.

Casa's hobby is gardening and reading and this is also his favorite pastime. Some more of his favorites are eating potato salad and hot rolls, seeing Kathryn Grayson at the show, reading "Treasure Island" and "Kidnaped", and listening to "The Blue Danube Waltz" and "Dixieland". This last shows a trend of favoritism for the South which is quite obvious in the fact that his favorite color is Confederate gray. His favorite subject is the Civil War, and his pet peeve is "Yankees". This love of the South (maybe he will wake up someday) costs Mrs. Bradford quite a few class periods in Texas History, with his arguments that the Civil War did not end as it should.

His ability to argue shows up in the fact that he has been in the debate club for three years, and also his medical tendencies in that he has been in a scientific club for four years. By Mickie Cordee

Douglas Smith and Margaret Pierson seem to get along okay.

We hear that Betty Frazier is having a chicken dinner Oh-boy.

Wonder if a certain Senior, who loves to argue, will get wise to the fact that he doesn't endear himself to certain people by some of his "careless remarks".

During the coming months, all of us will be called upon to do without things to which we have long been accustomed. Each must make sacrifices in one way or another, but all will do it cheerfully so our great nation and its cherished institutions may be preserved.

"Mornin', Judge... meetin' someone?" "No, Sam, I'm just going up the line ways on business. Wasn't that a troop train that just pulled out?" "Sure was, Judge... stopped over here for ten minutes and what a swell bunch of fellows they were."

"That's true all over, Sam. Our present Army is the best trained, best disciplined, best behaved in American history. That's why I get my hair up when I hear of some people trying to dry up the areas around

Army camps. Why, in a recent report made by the government, it said the Army usually prefers its camps to be located in wet instead of dry communities. And there's a sound reason. In a wet community the Army can control drinking. In dry communities where bootleggers run wild it's almost impossible. We know that from our nearly 14 years of experience with national prohibition.

Jim was a lineman and a good one. But Uncle Sam needed men of his calibre in the Army, so now he's in North Africa.

Jim is only one of 100 employees of this company who are serving in the armed forces. Their departure leaves a gap in our ranks that is hard to fill. Men who have spent years learning the know-how of the electric business aren't easy to replace in times like these.

Already the pinch of the manpower shortage is making itself felt in certain phases of our operations. Despite the fact that we are constantly training new men, we are being forced to operate short-handed in some localities. Wartime restrictions on the use of automotive equipment and shortages of materials, repair parts and supplies are also complicating the problem of rendering first-class service, but like other concerns in all lines of business we're doing the best we can with what we have.

While things may not be quite the same with so many of our men away—more going all the time—we intend to safeguard the adequacy of your electric supply and see that you get the best service possible under the prevailing conditions. You can help by keeping your electrical equipment in good condition, learning to replace your own fuses and avoiding rush calls and requests for special trips except in cases of emergency.

Your cooperation will help conserve power, materials and rubber and enable us to serve you better.

HEART BELONGS TO DADDY

As charming and delightful a motion picture entertainment as you're likely to find in a month's movie shopping is Paramount's new comedy-drama, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" which opens at the Princess Theatre Tuesday night.

Performed by an able cast of players headed by Richard Carlson, Martha O'Driscoll and Cecil Kellaway. "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" tells the story of a high-born family which is determined to seize the infant child of their dead son to prevent her from becoming a bubble dancer like its mother; of an equally determined daughter-in-law to keep the child for herself; of a handsome young college professor who wants the bubble dancer for his wife and of a philosophical old taxi driver who turns out to be a Mr. Fixit par excellence.

Miss O'Driscoll is the college professor and Cecil Kellaway, veteran movie character actor, is the philosophical taxi driver. The film moves at a rapid pace and is brilliantly studded with high comedy which at times closely approaches the hilarious.

Kellaway, of course, is brilliant as usual and his efforts in "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" are certain to add many more to his steadily growing legion of fans. The comedy of Mabel Paige as a trained nurse with ideas of her own as to how babies should be brought up and how in-laws are to be handled is also highly commendable. For a while Carlson appears in a Van Dyke beard which does not detract from his good looks a bit.

AUTO THEFT GANG IN EYES OF THE UNDERWORLD

Starring Richard Dix in one of the most colorful roles of his long screen career, Universal's "Eyes of the Underworld," which opens Friday and Saturday April 16 and 17 at the Princess Theatre, is class A-1 entertainment for all types of theatre-goers.

Based on the vicious activities of the thoroughly-organized motor car theft gangs that have sprung into existence since the establishment of war-time restrictions on auto and tire sales, the picture had patrons gripping their seats as it moved into the rip-roaring gun battle with which it is climaxed.

Dix is cast as an honest, efficient police chief devoted to his motherless son. Giving him able support throughout the unfolding of the story are such outstanding players as Wendy Barrie, who shares the romantic niche with him; Billy Lee, as Dix's offspring; Don Porter, as an investigator; Lloyd Corrigan, as the city council president and tool of the crooks; and Lon Chaney, seen as the chief's stir-crazy chauffeur.

Rosebud

Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mammy and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devil-child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mammy had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew. Just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restful occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when, down on Vinegar Hill, Mammy was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mammy's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mammy and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp parted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mammy. "I declare you're an angel child," Mammy said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mammy was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse, and Mammy forgot about her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Scouting the devil in her angel child, Mammy shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come yere with that hammer! What you planning on doing?" But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mammy," she said. "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

Office of War Information

As the first week of meat rationing drew to a close, complaints about "excess" stocks of meat were coming in from many different points in the region. After several weeks of staring at barren counters, housewives and butchers again began to feel that we are still in bountiful America, although the country is at war.

There were evidences that many types of meat were moving slowly, some markets reporting that they were fearful that stocks would spoil. Only advice that the Office of Price Administration could offer was to the effect that consumers should spend their points regularly and should not wait until end of the month. This way the supply of meat in the butcher's counter will be moving regularly and will stay fresher.

OPA spokesmen were quick to point out that rationing books do not produce meat—they merely insure equal distribution of the supply available. It may be well to remember, they pointed out, that stocks may decline again in the future, because the Federal government's set-aside order has been suspended for two weeks in order to move a supply of meat into markets.

Again here is how the red stamps in War Ration Book are to be used: A stamps, worth 16 points, became valid on March 29 and expire on April 30.

B stamps, worth 16 points, became valid on April 4 and expire on April 30.

C stamps, worth 16 points, became valid April 11 and expire April 30.

D stamps, worth 16 points, became valid April 18 and expire April 30.

E stamps, worth 16 points, became valid April 25 and expire at a date yet to be announced.

It should be remembered that the red stamps are also used for edible fats and oils (including butter), cheeses and canned fish.

Everyone should know by now that civilians may expect less meat this year than they ate last year. Rationing has been instituted to assure that each American gets what he needs out of our reduced civilian supplies. But it will be difficult to guarantee adequate diets unless black markets are suppressed. For black markets not only deprive the average citizen of his fair share, they cut sharply into the utilization of extremely valuable parts of carcasses since black market operators are likely to use only the most easily marketable cuts and throw the rest away.

The farmer may feel that Federal meat regulations as they apply to him are foolish, but they are part of a definite program aimed at stamping out the black market operator and aimed at getting meat to move starting with the armistice. Full employment means lively markets for farm products.

Private enterprise created America's unequalled prosperity. So far is it the only proved formula for prosperity. It can win the peace by keeping America prosperous and thus permitting the world to prosper.

through normal, legitimate channels again.

The provision that all dealers in live animals must have a permit to buy and sell will do much to stop the black market mischief. If a farmer gets an order from a dealer with whom he is not familiar, and if the offer is above the level of legitimate dealers, there is a good chance that he is talking with a man connected with a black market. So the wise and patriotic thing to do is to ask the dealer to show his permit.

Regional War Labor Board Chairman Floyd McGowan has sounded a warning to employers engaged in seasonal operations that they must obtain WLB approval if they wish to pay wage rates at the close of the preceding season. Seasonal operators, such as sugar refiners and canners, were advised that the War Labor Board's cost-of-living formula will be used in considering applications for wage hikes.

Of great interest to Southwestern housewives and legitimate retailers this week is the announcement by OPA that specific dollars and cents prices will be established April 15 on beef, veal, lamb and mutton. Pork already is under such controls. With these new ceilings posted at each meat counter or store, every American housewife will know the top price which she may be charged, when she surrenders to her butcher the necessary red stamps from War Ration Book Two.

Effective April 15, no retailer can charge more for the 102 cuts of beef, veal, lamb and mutton in five officially established grades of beef and veal, four grades of lamb and three grades of mutton than the ceiling prices named by OPA. However, the retailer may at any time change less than these new ceilings.

Official copies of the price lists will be distributed through local War Price and Rationing Boards, which will announce locally when copies are available.

Maternity care for wives of service men and care for their infants soon will be available throughout the country to those who apply to the state health department. In making the announcement, Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau of private, private first class, corporal or sergeant in the Army and comparable grades in the Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard.

Drying oils and linseed oils are getting scarce for civilian use, chiefly because of military demands, so that painting of homes and farm buildings with paints using these materials may have to be curtailed.

SANDERSON CULTURE CLUB
The regular meeting of the Sanderson Culture Club will be held Thursday, April 15, at the home of Mrs. H. C. Goldwire at 3:00 p. m. Attention was called to the change in time of meeting to 3:00 o'clock instead of at 2:30 as in the past.

Look! Listen! Live!

They were in a hurry—but they never got there.

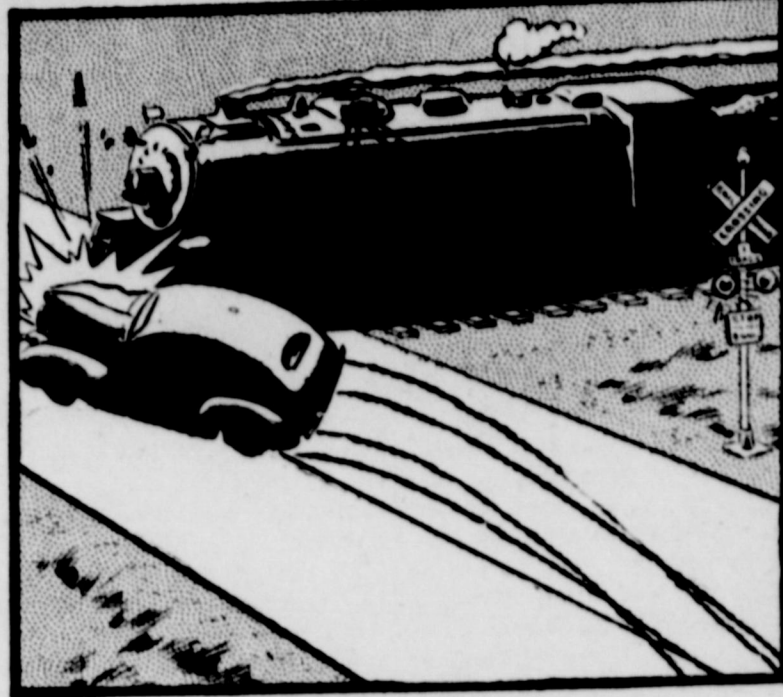

Tire marks on the highway showed that the car skidded about 100 feet through the night.

The car carried a man, his son and his daughter to their deaths. In disregard of warning signals, the car was driven onto a grade crossing and into the path of a freight train. The pilot and piping on the engine were damaged, requiring replacement and causing a delay of one hour.

This deadly accident, illustrated here, is typical of what happens too frequently when a car is driven at too great a speed for existing circumstances. Apparently the driver saw the crossing, saw the signals—but not in time, and skidded onto the tracks.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these accidents, which every day delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a big blow to the nation's wartime transportation effort.

Driver carelessness is the cause of almost all these grade crossing accidents, according to the Council. To help win the war—to save yourself and others needless suffering—the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start across.

Increased Use Of V-Mail is Urged By Navy

With V-mail stations now functioning smoothly in widely scattered overseas areas, the Navy Department is launching a drive to promote the use of V-mail to Naval personnel, according to an announcement today by Lieut. Brian Coyne, public relations officer. Over 10,000,000 V-mail letters have been safely delivered to date.

Because it is sixty-five times lighter than regular mail, V-mail photographed on microfilm and dispatched to its destination by air, means a substantial saving of valuable plane space. One small strip of V-mail film carries 1,600 letters and weighs only twelve ounces. A mail bag carrying the same amount of regular mail weighs 48 pounds, or one sack of V-mail will equal 65 sacks of ordinary mail. The save in cargo space means more room for transporting fighting equipment, medical supplies, and food.

"V-mail has number one priority over all other types of personal mail," Lieut. Coyne points out. "However, space-saving, not speed, should be the first consideration of correspondents to Navy men in the field."

"Frequently men in service write their families and tell them not to send V-mail because it is slower. Transportation facilities returning to the United States have more room than the heavily loaded outgoing facilities and less delay results in mail received from operational areas."

"When the family receives their son's letter in a few days, whereas their own mail has taken weeks or months to reach him, they naturally think that air-mail is best. As a result, their bulky outgoing mail piles up on the coast a waiting transportation."

Even when sent to a locality where it cannot be microfilmed, it still retains the highest priority of all personal mail.

The safety of V-mail is guaranteed, because if a roll of V-mail film is lost enroute to its destination, another roll can be reproduced and forwarded. V-mail is private, as it goes through the photographing machine at tremendous speed and is read only by the censor, when necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Raney and family, Douglas Smith and Mrs. Lloyd Ford and little daughter were Fort Stockton visitors Sunday.
