BEAR CUB CAUGHT DEPUTY COLLECTOR STEP-BROTHER OF RANCH LAST WEEK TO BE IN SANDERSON DIES IN ACTION A black bear cub was brought into town last week by Oscar Bendele and chained at Frank's Super Service Station

The cub, estimated to be three or four months old, was caught on the Bendele ranch which is northeast of Dryden. Mr. Bendele jumped the cub and tried to rope it but it went through the fence and was gone before he could get his horse over. The next day he borrowed two dogs and with the help at the ranch

He jumped it again only a short distance from where it had been the day before and was soon cornered by the dogs. It is believed that this is the only bear in that section and i is not known from what direc tion it came. It is about thirty or thirty-five miles from the Mexico border to where the bear was found and no bear have been in that locality for a number of years.

AN APPRECIATION

The library board is taking this opportunity to thank all of the students and teachers who helped in the Book Week Program Friday night, November 19th. Especially do we want to thank Miss Odom, who was in charge of the lights, Mr. Lovell, who helped back stage, and Mrs. Harkness for getting the programs out for us.

During Book Week the community was asked to donate magazines for the soliders who are stationed at Meyer's Canyon. As a result of this call two large boxes of magazines were sent to the camp Friday night.

Failure To Report Wages May Cost Social Security Ins.

Employee Should Be Sure That Proper Returns Are Made

"Social security insurance benefits may be lost unless all wages are reported by employers and are posted to each individual's social security account," said Elliott W. Adams, manager of the San Angelo office of the Social Security Board. The number on the account number card that has been issued to each employee is the number of its social security account. That card should be shown to each employer for whom the employee works, and the employee should assure himself that each employer had made an accurate record of the number and name to use in his quarterly payroll reports, he said. Even a very small amount of unreported wages may be very important. Mr. Adams cited one case wherein a claim was filed by a young widow who had three dealers and officials of the AAA small children. When the wage record of her deceased husband an order will come out of Washwas obtained it showed that her ington in about two weeks orddeceased husband lacked one quarter of having an insured status. "Because small items of wages wage earner to be insured." Adams said, "each employee Mass every Sunday at 8:30 and should always show his account number card to every one of his employers, even to those for whom he works a fraction of a day. It makes no difference how small the amount of wages or how short the period of employment, the law requires the employer to report it, and it must be reported along with the account number and name of the Choir practice, Wednesday at person to whom paid. Every employee, whether a part-time employee, a school child, or a housewife, should show the social security account number card to every employer for whom work is done." The employer then can report the number with the name and wages, the wages can be posted to the worker's social security account. If all wages are accurately and completely reported, no widows and orphans of insured men will ever be denied the survivors' insurance that their husband and fathers have work and paid for. If employees will always show their account number card to all their employers, and if all employers will report all wage paid, the payment of retirement insurance to all elderly persons who have earned and paid for it will be assured.

-0 The word "Specimen" does not appear on any genuine social security account number card. Employers should ask to see the card of each new employee to assure themselves that the name and number furnished them are correct
