BACK CONGRESS

America's Fourth War Loan drive starts January 18. The sums of promotion will be dropping already when this article is published.

I hope this loan goes over with ease and enthusiasm like the other three, and there is no reason to doubt that it will, but there are two possible changes in the overall war-loan picture that would please a lot of people, and I sincerely believe they would improve sales. (1) An effort ought to be made to sell war bonds to people in the low income brackets. (2) The bonds themselves ought to be smaller size.

Reasons For Both

It would be possible to write a book full of reasons why poor people ought to buy bonds as well as relatively well-to-do persons and banks. The first reason is that there are infinitely more poor people, and their purchases amount to a lot more. Second, too many people with their first will-paid jobs are spending money foolishly and increasing inflation. Third, poor people are going to need money for this war.

The bonds themselves ought to be smaller because small bonds are less, and people who pay for this year deserve every penny they can be afforded. As a matter of fact, I was disappointed when bonds from the third war loan appeared in such a plain size and shape. If it is possible to print a $100 bill 3x5 inches, surely a $25 bond does not need to be as big as a high school diploma.

Chance For Economy

Congressman Charles S. Dewey of Illinois, as long ago as May, 1940, made it clear to everybody in Washington who attended his words that literally millions of dollars could be saved by printing smaller bonds. There are some exceptionally wise men in Congress. In most cases the title "honorable" is as appropriate as is proper. Congressmen are head-and-shoulders above the average or somebody else would have their seats, and Rep. Dewey won my esteem with one short talk a talk on Government Economy.

When Calvin Coolidge was President Mr. Dewey was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, charged with supervising the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which was a figurative headache to all concerned. The outline remedy recommended was to spend $10,000,000 for additional printing equipment to increase the plant's output of paper money 50 percent as demanded seemed to require, but Coolidge said, "No." Then again Mother Necessity bring forth invention and Mr. Dewey found a better way.

What did he do? He figured out a system of printing twelve plates such as formerly printed only eight, and there was a 50 percent output gain. Economy in paper, ink and shipping charges started right away saving two million dollars a year besides the original ten million dollars. And last spring Mr. Dewey recommended that some of the same sort be done with printing bonds. His technical experience is an asset to be heard and heeded; I believe he will ultimately be heard.

Support For Good Men

Congress is not the Puppet show for the amusement of bureaucracy that was a year ago. This column, released January 6, 1943, fairly gurgled over the fact that the 77th Congress apparently had a mind of its own, a conclusion which succeeded events have justified. Congress has lifted the old guidon and made its power felt and understood. Within the last 30 days this

SALVAGE CHAIRMAN ASKS THAT NO GREASE OR PAPER BE BROUGHT IN

UNABLE TO DISPOSE OF COLLECTIONS NOW ON HAND

Announcement has been made this week by R. E. Corder, chairman of the Terrell County Salvage Committee, that no more grease is wanted from housewives in this community until further notice. He also stated that due to the distance and freight rates it was not practical to collect waste paper in this county, therefore no drives would be made.

Although there is a clamor from salvage officials for more grease and the government has requested special advertising urging housewives to save every spoonful of grease possible, no cooperation has been received from these officials by the Terrell County Salvage Committee. Because of the small payments which were to have been made to the housewives and because of the extra trouble and work involved with trying to keep the records straight, it was decided that no payment would be made for grease in Terrell County. Greene Cooke volunteered his services in handling the grease without accepting the small remuneration offered for this service, and that fee, together with the payment which in many counties goes to the housewives, was to go to the American Red Cross or other relief funds. With this in mind, and with a desire to do their part in winning the war, housewives of Terrell County soon collected thirty gallons of grease, which was donated. Mr. Cooke shipped the grease to a San Antonio plant in accordance with instructions he had received. That was more than five months ago and to date no acknowledgment of the shipment has been received.

no payment has been made, and not even the drums were returned so that additional grease could be shipped.

Several months ago a government man from Austin stopped in at the Times office and asked if the salvage program was progressing as it should in this community. The editor informed him of the grease salvage situation and suggested that he contact Mr. Cooke. This was done and Mr. Cooke was advised to write to the plant again, and was also told that the plant would be contacted from the government offices. These instructions were carried out and to date no reply, no shipping drums, nor payment for the grease has been forthcoming.

Thursday Mr. Cooke advised the editor that he had another thirty-gallon drum filled with grease, and had another thirty gallons of grease scattered all over his premises. He does not have additional storage for the grease and has it sitting around in the small containers in which it was brought to his place of business. This is most unpleasant because it sometimes gets overturned on his floors or wares, besides taking up so much unnecessary room.

Recently the government made announcement that housewives would be allowed one brown stamp for each pound of fats brought in to the salvage depot. This further complicates matters because it will naturally cause housewives to be more conservative of their fats, because they will expect the additional point value. If the butcher allows this stamp value and has as much trouble replenishing his points as he has experienced in getting rid of the grease brought in, he will probably feel like somebody is trying to make a goat of someone—and it might be him.

It is believed that the above explanation of the situation will clarify the necessity of the request made by Mr. Corder that no more grease be turned in by local housewives until further notice.

WAR LOAN DRIVE STARTED TUESDAY

The campaign to raise $87,300.00 in Terrell County as its part of the Fourth War Loan was started Tuesday. The quota figure is about four thousand dollars less than that raised in the Third War Loan drive and C. P. Peavy, county chairman, expressed hope that this quota would be met as promptly as all quotas have been met in the past.

When the figure is looked at as a whole, it seems that it is a lot of money to be raised from approximately 3,000 residents, but when you break the figure down into what each of the 3,000 people of this county would have to invest in bonds to meet the quota it seems very small. The breakdown shows that fixing the population at exactly 3,000, each individual would only have to invest $29.10 to meet the quota. Every patriotic citizen in the county will invest all they feel that they can afford—and surely our government isn't asking too much when it asks the loan of at least $29.10 per individual from residents of this county.

It may mean a little sacrifice—maybe doing without something that you don't particularly need anyway—but do a little thinking about what the boys on the front lines are doing without, and what they are giving, then reach down and get that money you intended to spend and buy War Bonds with it. And those who can afford it should buy an extra War Bond for those who are unable to buy their full share.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Washburn, engineer with the Civil Aeronautics Administration who has been stationed at Sanderson overseeing the work at the new airport, left Saturday for Fort Worth where he will be assigned to duty in the main office there.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Litton returned Wednesday from Southgate California, where they visited their daughters and families.

YOU MAY WANT SOME CHANGES

SO PAY YOUR POLL TAX THIS MONTH

Maybe you haven't given it much thought as yet, but if you are going to want to have your say in elections which are coming up this year you had better get down to the Tax Collector's office and get those poll taxes paid by the 31st day of this month.

Maybe things are going just like you want them, and you're perfectly satisfied—or maybe you would prefer that some changes be made in the way the bureaucrats are acting. In either case you won't be able to do much about it if you don't manage to get that little poll tax matter settled in the next ten days.

Miss Marybelle Hollebeke and Lt. Drum Are Wed

Are Residing in Abilene Where He Is Stationed

Miss Marybelle Hollebeke, daughter of Mrs. Gerald Grigsby and Mr. Grigsby of Sanderson, and Lt. Marvin R. Drum were married in the Central Christian Church, San Antonio, with Dr. Bash performing the ceremony. The wedding took place Tuesday afternoon, January 11, at 4:00 o'clock, according to information received here by her parents.

Attendants at the wedding were Miss Doreen Summers and Vernie Summers, and two classmates of Miss Hollebeke, Misses Carter and Hickie, all of San Antonio.

They have moved to Abilene where they are making their home while Lt. Drum is stationed at Camp Barkley. Before going into the army his home was at Garland Texas.

BIRTHDAY BALL TO BE HELD JAN. 29

Celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday, the annual occasion for dances and parties which raise funds for the National Foundation to Fight Infantile Paralysis, will be held in Sanderson this year Saturday night, January 29, since the President's birthday falls on Sunday, the 30th.

W. W. Sudduth, Terrell County chairman, stated that the dance would be sponsored by the Sanderson Fire Department, and would be held at the Masonic Hall, starting at 9:00 o'clock. Music will be furnished by local talent.

James Caroline is treasurer for Terrell County, according to announcement received by the Times from the state vice chairman who also announced the name of the chairman. Along with these announcements, made by George Waverly Briggs, Dallas, vice chairman for the Texas State Committee, also comes an appeal to the public for support in the fight against the dread disease of infantile paralysis. More funds are needed this year because of the epidemic suffered during 1943.

Joe G. Montague Makes Statement Before Agriculture Committee On Effect Of Subsidies On Beef Products; Says Officials Act Without Proper Authority

Joe G. Montague of Fort Worth, council for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, was selected to make the opening statement before the United States Senate Committee on Agriculture when it met in November in Washington, and it is believed that the highlights of his statement will be of interest to ranchmen of this section. More especially, since the entire meeting dealt with the government subsidy plan and the advantages and disadvantages that such a plan would bring to beef growers.

In way of beginning his statement, Mr. Montague points out that the problem confronting the Committee and Congress is of a fundamental nature and goes to the very foundation of the government. That the American system of government was founded upon the concept that the liberty of the individual citizen would be interfered with as little as possible; that the federal government is established by the sovereign states of the union with the state governments constituting the most direct and first-hand representatives of the people; and that primarily the federal government was to act as the clearing house for those problems that affect the entire citizenship and the relationship of the respective states with each other.

Continuing, Mr. Montague said that for many years there had been a strong tendency on the part of the Federal Government to overstep the delegated powers, and to develop a system in this country that would have the federal government interpose itself for the state governments, and even for the local municipal authorities, and to assume a very direct and very complete control over the individual citizen in every phase of his life. In order to develop this system, he says, which has grown to be almost a way of life, the use of bribery and blackmail on the part of the federal government has been extensive.

When asked by members of the Committee to substantiate his charges with examples, Mr. Montague stated: "The bribery I refer to is that system which has been so prevalent in our lives that it is generally referred to as a 'subsidy plan'. A subsidy is the offering of a payment by the government as a dole or gratuity, nearly always a cash gratuity, but the price that is demanded and extracted whenever the citizen accepts such gratuity has been and is, and invariably will be, the surrender of personal liberty. The blackmail I referred to is that species of punishment by way of the withholding of gratuities, the imposition of penalties, the enforced reduction of prices and of crops planted, and even fines and imprisonment that are imposed when the individual citizen refuses to accept the dole. The subsidy that has been offered him."

He further pointed out that the subsidy is nothing more than a gift by the government to the individual since it is not payment for services rendered or for goods, wares and merchandise delivered, since the government is not the beneficiary of the service and not the recipient of the material. Advocates of the subsidy plan assert that they are necessary to prevent inflation and hold down the cost of living. Mr. Montague states that inflation is caused by first, a shortage of desired products, and second, the presence of an excessive buying capacity. He further says that payment of subsidies has been done in the past has the tendency to depreciate production, and at the same time by holding down the price of commodities, or by the rolling back of the price of the commodity, leaves more money in possession of the consuming public. Not only that, but the subsidy plan transfers a part of the cost to the entire citizenship instead of leaving the immediate consumer to pay all the cost of his purchase. In that way the cost of living is paid by the whole citizenship rather than by the individual who is well able to pay his own way through life. This cost of present day grocery bills is passed on, through taxes, to the younger generation—a generation who will not only have to pay for their own food stuffs in the future, but who will also have to pay the grocery bills created by their fathers.

In discussing the cattlemen's view, Mr. Montague said that the thing the growers wanted most was the opportunity to so manage their affairs that the production of cattle will be the fullest compliance possible with the requirements made of them but after the cattle are produced they do not want to see the products of their efforts so mismanaged that the benefits of the increased production will be lost. He stated that production had been increased until at that time they had the greatest number of cattle ever known in the country—approximately 17,000,000 head above the figure that was considered to be normal for ordinary use. He stated that in August of 1942 cattlemen warned OPA officials that their policies would have the result of creating a fictitious and artificial shortage of beef in the late winter. He said the bureaucrats laughed at this warning but that the meat shortage experienced by the people of the United States was proof of the wise judgment of the cattlemen, and that this shortage was suffered when there were more cattle than ever before in the history of the country. At this same time the army was 200,000,000 pounds short of its requirements.

The speaker pointed out that instead of profiting from this experience OPA officials have persisted in following the advice of so-called "economists" experts who professedly know nothing of the cattle business. He also said that he had heard

Sgt. Laurencio Gutierrez has returned to his station at Turner Field, Albany, Georgia, after spending a furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Braulio Gutierrez.

Pvt. Alberto Calzada of the paratroopers has returned to his station at Fresno, Calif., after visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Calzada.

Pvt. Emilio Torres has been here on a 20-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Torres. He is in the Air Corps and is stationed at Denver, Colorado.

The copy of a letter written to his father, Alfred E. Creigh, Jr., and Mrs. Creigh, by Alfred E. Creigh, III, has been brought to our attention and we believe that it will be interesting to the many friends of the young man here. Seems Al is making his first jump (he's in the paratroopers) in his schedule of training, and the first is one he will long remember. The letter in part reads:

"Today I jumped from a plane and landed via parachute. It went this way. All day we were sweating it out. All the chow I had was a candy bar and I was so nervous I ate half the wrapper of that.

We got in the ship and the next thing we looked out and we were off the ground. From then on we were airborne. I was the last man in the second stick. We flew over to Alabama and circled the field. The motors roared and pounded and my heart was pounding in cadence with them. The mainest thing I was afraid of being afraid. Then the first stick went. Then we circled back and the jumpmaster says: "Second stick unhook your safety belts and get ready." "Stand up. Hook up, check equipment. Then sound off for equipment check." I said "gulp, 10, OK."

Then 9 OK, 8 OK, 7 OK, etc. Next thing we were shuffling to the door saying to myself "don't stop." Nobody froze.

The jumpmaster says, "Is everybody happy?" "Yes!", we hollered. "Are you ready?" "Yes!", we hollered.

Go, and the next thing I was whizzing through the air 100 miles per hour, a thousand, two thousand, then my body started to turn upside down. "Why don't this thing open?" Three thousand and pop! I felt a tug on the leg straps. The most wonderful feeling there is. I took a look at the canopy, big round camouflage job, green and

PROPHETIC WORDS

In the light of the trend in Washington today it is interesting to look backward toward a warning given to America a decade ago by the governor of one of the great states of the Union.

In his inaugural address, this governor said: "There is a present dangerous tendency to forget a fundamental of American democracy—the tendency to encourage consolation of power at the top of a governmental structure alien to our system and more closely akin to a dictatorship or the central committee of a communist regime."

We have met difficulties before this and have solved them in accordance with the basic theories of representative democracy. Let us not at this time pursue the easy road of centralization of authority. Ilest some day we discover too late that our liberties have disappeared."

And in one of his radio addresses, the governor again touched upon his basic theme through which he was appealing for election, saying:

"It was clear to the framers of our constitution . . . that any administration attempting to make all laws for the whole nation . . . would inevitably result at some future time in a dissolution of the union itself."

The doctrine of regulation and legislation by master minds has been too glaringly apparent in Washington during the last ten years . . . To bring about government by oligarchy masquerading as a democracy, it is fundamentally essential that practically all authority and control be centralized in our national government."

The governor who uttered these prophetic words was Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It Happened In Sanderson TEN YEARS AGO This Week — Remember

Last Saturday afternoon the fire was extinguished at the Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas Co's No. 1 M. H. Goode well that had become ignited early Wednesday morning while a periodical gauge was being taken. The gas became ignited, it is thought, from a spark caused by rocks striking the steel derrick when they were hurled from the hole.

The members of the High School girl's basketball team left here this morning for San Antonio where they are to play a series of games in that city.

The following girls will make the trip: Beatrice Nichols, Lillian Halley, Dorothy Sullivan, Ellen Appel, Sammie Carter, Grace Billings, Mildred Underwood and Florene Thompson.

Clyde Higgins sold to R. J. Ridley 759 lambs. These lambs averaged 68 pounds and brought 5 cents.

B. Carson from Dryden also shipped out 903 head of lambs to Hollis Nutt at Huldale, Texas.

Mrs. Joe Nance returned the past week from a visit in Bryan with her daughter, Mrs. Prince Dishman.

Fort Stockton Pioneer — Dr. Ben K. Green, graduate veterinarian with wide experience in various fields of research and practice, has located in the Fort Stockton area for the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery, and dentistry and will open offices here as soon as arrangements can be made for location.

Alpine Avalanche—"The coldest winter on record" here in a number of years continued last week-end when a howling blizzard blew in from the north, bringing snow, sleet and ice and adding a small amount of moisture to the ranges of this section. Unofficial thermometer readings of as low as 10 above zero were reported in Alpine early Saturday morning.

Ozona Stockman — Crockett county officers, from county judge down to constable must get along somehow on the same rate of pay for the new term beginning January 1, 1944, the Commissioners Court ruled in an order passed at the January sitting this week, fixing salaries for the year in accordance with instructions from the State Comptroller.

Val Verde County Herald — Four new directors for the Del Rio National Bank were elected Tuesday at the annual shareholders' meeting in the bank.

New directors include Fred Herbst, J. O. Taylor, Jr., Cody Wardlaw and Francis H. Whitehead. Other directors re-elected include Judge W. F. Boggess, Allie Cauthorn, W. S. Stevenson, L. Rust, Sr., Autry Walker, Charles Whitehead and B. E. Wilson.

Uvalde Leader-News — Walter Shurley said that he was still hearing about a piece in the Leader-News that he was quoted as digging ice from a creek on the Mark Bean ranch near Rock-springs and making ice cream on the 4th of July from the ice he dug out. This ice originated from a hail storm back some 30 years ago. The hail damped up in the creek and was covered with trash and drift which kept it from melting. A witness told us the other day that he too had dug up some of that same ice and Walter was not exaggerating. The hail was in March of the year Walter made the ice cream.

Big Bend Sentinel, Marfa — Civilian residents of the Big Bend area have been invited to attend a new series of band concerts, at Marfa AAF Pilot School, inaugurated by Chief Warrant Officer Paul Steg and the 373rd band each Sunday at 1:30 P. M. in the post theatre.

The invitation was extended by Col. Donald B. Phillips, Commanding officer.

Sunday concerts will feature modern music, classical, and semi-classical numbers. Everything from Bach to "Boogie" according to Chief Warrant Officer Steg, will be played.

Montague Statement

four OPA officials frankly admit before the House Committee on Agriculture, that they had no legal authority to issue some of the orders they had given. This admission has been put in writing and the record testimony printed, he said.

Along this same line Mr. Montague pointed out that the President of the United States had issued, under date of Oct. 3, 1942, Executive Order No. 9250, which gave the powers of the Secretary of Agriculture to the Director of Economic Stabilization, which was in direct violation of laws passed by the Congress. In Executive Order No. 9280 which reads in substance: "The powers, functions and duties conferred on the Secretary of Agriculture in Public Law No. 421, 77th Congress, 1942, and of the Act of Oct. 2, 1943, Public Law No. 739, 77th Congress, are hereby transferred to and shall be exercised by the War Food Administrator." Mr. Montague again pointed out that the President acted without authority, and even in direct violation of the laws passed by Congress, and at this time named Chester Davis War

Food Administrator.

Mr. Montague pointed out that all control of the cattle industry could not be removed at once without detriment, but that he felt that the controls should be gradually lessened, and they should be exercised by men who know the meat and cattle business, rather than "By economists that wouldn't know which end of the cow to put a bale of hay before". He also pointed out that even though there are many more head of cattle in this country than ever before "Cattle are not beef, they are only the framework to hang some beef on, and before cattle are fit to kill, fit to eat, they have to have some feed put into them. Because of the press releases by OPA officials beginning about August of 1942 feeders were afraid to buy and feed extra beeves. As a result they went to market several hundred pounds underweight. So, although there was a heavy slaughter, there wasn't a comparable amount of edible beef."

He also stated that a penalty had been placed on the production of prime beef by a directive issued by the Director of Economic Stabilization. This order provided for subsidy payments of $1.45 a hundred weight, live weight, on second grade cattle, and a dollar on choice, fine beef, leaving a 45-cent penalty—or rather, a premium given to the second grade beef over prime beef. (This has been corrected according to recent announcement). The subsidy is paid to the packers, not to the producer, and the tendency has been to try to grade all cattle into the segment that will bring the most money back, which in the above case is not the segment where the most weight is, or where the most money for the cattleman is. Mr. Montague pointed out that the production of cattle has been increased, but the amount of finished beef had been decreased; producers were receiving $35 to $45 less per head than previously; and that, in his opinion the majority of cattlemen would not accept subsidy payments willingly.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

HE'S BACK

He's done his part and more—have you?

They're coming back—the gallant men who've been wounded in action.

Tell them the war's as good as won and that there's no need to buy more War Bonds.

They know first-hand what invasion costs in blood and lives and money. They know the real fight's just begun . . . that wishful thinking can prolong the war and waste thousands of lives needlessly.

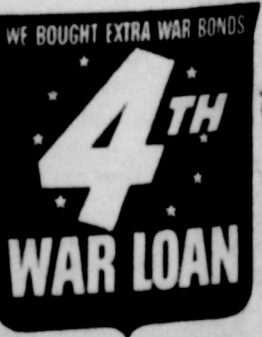

They're looking to us to keep on backing the attack . . . to help get it over sooner by providing the overwhelming weight of arms it takes to win.

We can't match their sacrifice but we can show them we're in the fight by buying extra War Bonds during the Fourth War Loan.

Buy at least one extra $100 dollar bond now . . . and keep on buying Bonds until Victory.

Show Your Colors!

This sticker in your window shows you bought extra War Bonds during the Fourth War Loan. It's your battle flag here at home.

Let's All BACK THE ATTACK!

no Mae West nor blown panels. I said, "Oh, you beautiful thing. I love you so help me." And the chute looked like it was going to say, "I'll bet you tell that to all the chutes."

I did a body turn to see if I was out of the way of everybody. Everything looked OK until I looked down and saw a clump of Georgia pines. I slipped, still Georgia pines. I slipped again. I was getting away but still more pines. Finally I was too low to slip any more so I got ready to crash into them and held my arms over my face.

Then, plunk! I hit the ground. I thought the trees were higher. I had visions of dangling way up in the air but they were just young pines.

I tugged out. There were limbs everywhere too high to reach. I tried climbing up but the limbs were too weak and after jumping from a plane I didn't want to break my neck climbing a tree. So I go over to the truck for an ax to chop down the tree. No ax. A sergeant says: "You can't cut down a tree without permission." It seems Pres. Roosevelt likes trees, especially Georgia pines and he doesn't want people cutting young ones especially.

I finally talked a loopy into letting me borrow an ax from a nigger farmer and cut down the tree. He said I had to get the chute somehow because I was signed out with it. I'd chop down Yosemite Park before I'd sign a statement of charges for a parachute.

The nigger said, "Yasuh, yo sho welcome to my ax" so I cut down the beautiful lil' tree with the nigger's ax, a damn good ax by the way. It took about an

EDITOR'S NOTE—Because it would be impossible to secure all the names of Terrell County residents who were registered in other counties and states, only those men who were inducted through the Terrell County Board, or who volunteered and credit was given the local board, are named on this roll. The roll was carefully compiled from the records of the board and should there be error, it is unintentional and unavoidable.
