FROM TEXAS TO TOKIO

Jim Wilkinson, AAF, came Tuesday the long way on a hop-stop from Lincoln, Nebraska, via Fort Meade, Indiana, Chicago, Illinois, and San Antonio. Six hundred officers of the Lincoln base were freed Tuesday evening. One left Lincoln that night filling standing room capacity. Admittance to the baggage buses. By chance Jim was on an Army transport who was on his way to Meade. Three hours later they landed in Indiana, the move on the checkerboard. With a No. 4 priority and a trip to Chicago he managed to pick up a Braniff ticket for "San Antonio." Now going was simple and southern, except for the dread of entering higher priorities the way. By Monday Jim was in downtown San Antonio, waiting for the 2:00 A. train west. He missed a hold in the lobby of the Crockett by about five minutes on way down from M. G. North's room. When he walked of the elevator the place covered with cops. The desk clerk had come from the cellar and out from the desk to testify. One knew a Schreiner friend Jim's, so out of that deal he a police escort to the S. P. Twenty miles from home almost got put off when engers got on to fill up the car. Jim and Campbell greeted each other on their active ways off and on. After a week's stay, Lt. Wilkinson will go back to Lincoln for training as co-pilot on a Super Fortress. He was stationed at Sebring, Florida.

GOOD RAINS FALL IN SCATTERED AREA

Rainfall, which would have been considered a "million dollar" rain had it been general, fell in some parts of Terrell and adjoining counties to the west and north Wednesday evening. In Sanderson 1.12 inches of moisture was recorded while three inches of rain was reported at the C. C. Mitchell ranch. The Downie ranch, and other ranches in that section to the west reported good rains ranging from one and a quarter inches to two and a half. J. M. Corder reported an inch and a half.

Men used to harvest wheat with a thing called a cradle. A cradle is a museum piece now, most able-bodied farmers never saw one. It is a scythe (blade like Father Time carries) with a wooden frame attached to catch the straws as they fall, so the workman can lay them straight for bundling. Even I can remember seeing farmers cradle patches too small for maneuvering a reaper.

Swinging a cradle is hard work. There is almost none of it done these days. But farmers didn't quit using the device for that reason. They still find plenty of hard work to do. The cradle was cast aside because it was inefficient, extravagant. It used to take the profit out of a wheat crop to pay enough men $1 a day to harvest it. But Mr. McCormick's reaper changed all that.

Machinery, American inventiveness, helps working people. There is no hocus-pocus about it. No straight-thinking person needs any high-brow economist to help him read these three sign-posts: (1) In the long run, people get paid for what they produce. (2) With good tools, which call for investment, they can produce more. (3) Investments in machinery raise the worker's wages.

Men vs. Machines
It's a fact that employers who work men on purely mechanical jobs are always faced with a three-cornered problem — men, money and machinery. They can hire a man's body for wages or buy machines that will do the same work without getting tired. If interest and depreciation for the machine is less per year than the man's wages, the employer is likely to buy the machine.

Being replaced by a machine may sting some satisfied laborer's pride but he is soon benefited by learning to manage cold steel rather than compete with it. This is the very first lesson, the A-B-C of American prosperity built on intelligent work; volume production, low in cost and good. Nowhere else on earth can the man who swings a sledge enjoy his own automobile and bathtub.

Wages for men are figured by the hour; depreciation on machines by the year. The result is interesting: If two men work eight hours apiece and keep one machine running 16 hours a day, the owner thus doubles his output but does not double his cost. So the owner's margin per unit of sale is wider and he can lower his price without cutting the quality. Result: Wages up, prices down.

Workmen's wages go up with production but that same volume is what lowers the cost of everything the workman needs to make his home as comfortable (his life as abundant) as that of his employer or anybody else. But volume production requires investment in good tools and training for men to use them. When investments are unsafe in America we may well start rehearsing with grandpa's cradle.

Mrs. Roy Kennemer of Beaumont arrived here Friday of last week for a visit with Mrs. W. Cook, Mrs. J. W. Leatherwood, and Mr. and Mrs. James Word. She returned home Thursday.

DOUBLE DEALING

Commenting on the uncertainties of the "new order" in domestic economy, Wheeler McMillan, editor of the Farm Journal, one of the most widely circulated agricultural monthlies, says: "When a law is passed, most of us ordinary citizens assume that it says what it means, and means what it says. We are not as smart as the new kind of bureaucrats. They have what they call 'administrative interpretation.' That is a fancy phrase for twisting the law to let you do what you want to do, regardless of Congress, and there has been much of it. Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter encourages the 'administrative interpreters.' In a decision he wrote: 'The notion that, because the words of a statute are plain, its meaning also is plain, is merely pernicious over-simplification."

Is it any wonder that some of the Supreme Court justices have openly expressed the fear that public confidence in our highest tribunal is being shaken?

"Administrative interpretation" of laws permits public agencies to commit acts which would be illegal if practiced by private citizens. When expedient, "administrative interpretation" finds monopoly that violates the Sherman anti-trust laws. "Administrative interpretation" of the interstate clause has been stretched until a man who eats a Kansas City steak with Idaho potatoes, is in danger of being in interstate commerce.

But "administrative interpretation" fails to see monopoly in government electric projects which refuse to recognize state laws, state regulation, or state taxation, and which give their customers rebates in electric rates through tax exemptions. Government electric monopolies openly and deliberately seek to drive existing private enterprise out of business either by forcing it to sell or duplicating its properties at public expense, thereby destroying its earning power.

European dictators never devised more cunning schemes for dominating their citizens than

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The more I read about it, Judge, the more I realize the tactics and requirements of this war are as different from the one I fought in 25 years ago as night is from day."

"Yes, and I can give you an example of how true that is, Fred. In World War I the chief uses of alcohol produced for war purposes were found in smokeless powder, medical supplies and chemical warfare materials. In this war the need for this product is far more vital because it is also used as a fuel to propel torpedoes, to make shatterproof glass for airplane windshields and instrument covers, to make lacquers used in camouflaging equipment and as a base for synthetic rubber needed for tires, gas masks, paratroop equipment and dozens of other things.

"Every time I think of it, Fred, I realize how fortunate we were in having a beverage distilling industry in existence when war broke out... ready and eager to convert 100% to the production of this critically needed war product. I'm mighty sure bootleggers wouldn't have been of much help."

It Happened In Sanderson TEN YEARS AGO This Week - Remember

Sanderson will soon have a polo club; if plans of Monte Corder and associates are fulfilled. The field is in the course of construction at his place, and soon those inclined can participate in this thrilling game, in which the ponies, as a rule, must show as much intelligence as the riders. Several local men are interested, and other announcements will be made as the proposed plans are worked out.

The eyes of the world are on Germany and its power-mad chancellor, Hitler. Hindenburg's death has all nations wondering what the Nazi Leader's next move will be. War seems in the offing, but we have a sneaking idea that many still have a bad taste left from the World War and are not as anxious as it seems for another such orgy.

Mr. and Mrs. Nottley Scott left the first of last week for Chicago, Illinois, where they will visit his mother and attend the Century of Progress exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Goodykoontz and son, Jimmy, left this past week for Kerrville and San Antonio for a visit with relatives and friends.

F. M. Weigand left Sunday for Alexander, Illinois, where he will join Mrs. Weigand and their son Albert, who have been visiting relatives in that city for several weeks. They plan to return home the latter part of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dawson were Fort Stockton visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. C. P. Peavy and children are spending this week in Marfa visiting her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Pruett.

Marfaets, Marfa Army Air Field - Jack Teagarden who shared stellar honors with Bing Crosby, Mary Martin and Rochester in the Paramount picture "Birth of the Blues," will appear at MAAF's officers club August 27.

Plans are being made to have Teagarden play for the entire field before going to the officers club.

Brackett News-Mail - C. F. Briggs, prominent Kinney County rancher from the Mud Creek district and Commissioner from Precinct No. 3 of this county, was elected as president of the Angora Goat Raisers Association at its meeting in Kerrville on August 4th.

Mr. Briggs' many friends here have received news of his appointment with approbation.

Hudspeth County News-Congressman R. E. Thomason was here August 3, on his way to Fort Stockton from El Paso. In an interview he said that Sierra Blanca should be able to get a government airport.

"Airplanes will be used extensively after the war," Mr. Thomason said, "and I am glad to help in any way. You need the field."

The Uvalde Leader - News, from "Going Around"-In the Sanderson Times I noticed that V. I. Cargile was a candidate in Terrell County for District and County Clerk. It appears that he was defeated by the present occupant M. H. Goode, Jr. I had been wondering what had become of Virgil, for it had been many years since I had seen him. He was a resident of Uvalde for many years. His father was an elder of the Church of Christ for several years and is remembered by many of our people. Now that Virgil got beat maybe he will have time to come around and visit his old friends once in a while.

Wink Bulletin-In order to raise funds to construct a swimming pool for the enlisted men at Pyote, the Base is staging a 3-act musical comedy "Off Limits." It will be unveiled to a Wink audience on the evening of August 16th at the High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the local Lions Club.

The Fort Stockton Pioneer-Unusual evidence of the clarity of the cool waters which gush from Comanche Spring to form the swimming pool in Rooney Park was established recently when Ray Athey, 12, recovered from the bottom of the pool a glass eye lost by Herman D. Bowers of Texas City while swimming.

Mr. Bowers offered a five-dollar reward for the recovery of his artificial eye, and young Athey spent several hours each day diving and looking at the bottom of the gravelly section of the pool before he located the missing eye in water four to five feet deep. He collected the five from the grateful owner.

AT THE PRINCESS-NEW HUMPHREY BOGART PICTURE, "PASSAGE TO MARSEILLE," TO SHOW HERE

The same inspired combination of directorial and acting talent that made "Casablanca" such a memorable success has turned out another stirring and timely film in "Passage to Marseille," which shows at the Princess Theatre Sunday and Monday. With this story of a dangerous voyage undertaken in the name of faith, sustained by courage and concluded only by sheer determination, Warner Bros. adds another title to its long list of current successes.

With Humphrey Bogart again starred in a cast whose roster reads like a roll-call from "Casablanca"-Claude Rains, Sydney Greenstreet, Helmut Dantine and Peter Lorre to mention but a few-and with Michele Morgan, Philip Dorn and George Tobias added for good measure, Michael Curtiz directs this new picture with the same vigor and suspense he used to such good advantage in "Casablanca."

As Matrac, fighting French journalist who has been confined to Devil's Island on trumped-up charges because of his anti-Fascist convictions, Bogart is given another chance to display those qualities of daring, toughness and courage which he has so happily displayed in former characterizations. Matrac is asked by four companions at Devil's Island-Reynault (Philip Dorn), deserter from the French Army, Garou (Helmut Dantine) who has murdered a woman, Petit (George Tobias) who has killed a man and Marius (Peter Lorre) a Parisian pickpocket-to lead them in a daring and perilous escape from the Island back to the France they all love.

But Matrac is only human and cannot do the impossible. He leads them safely through the dangerous jungles but he cannot help, when having embarked in a small canoe, they find them-

Let 'em hatch, Brother, let 'em hatch!

THOSE WAR BONDS you're buying today—what a beautiful nest egg they're making for your future!

In ten years, you'll get back four dollars for every three dollars you invest now.

That is—unless you redeem them before they mature.

You see, in one respect, War Bonds are like eggs—you've got to let 'em hatch to get the most profit from them.

So let 'em hatch, Brother, let 'em hatch!

Sure, there may be times when you need money. But before you cash in your War Bonds, take a minute to think of the future—and then stick those precious Bonds back in their hiding place!

Here's something else to remember. Whenever a War Bond is redeemed before maturity, it means not only less profit for the person who cashes it in—it also takes those dollars out of the fight.

So be smart. Buy all the War Bonds you can. Put them where they'll be safe—and let 'em hatch!
