Recently he sent home a copy of a commendation received by his platoon for their heroic assistance of infantry units during the evacuation period from December 16 to 24. At one time, he says, his group was given up for lost and marked off the map, but they surprised everyone and showed up again. "I am sorry to hear that Al Creigh is missing in action. That type of work he was doing is about the most daring and dangerous there is. You can hardly be in some of the things those boys do. I am rather well acquainted with the outfit he was in because we have helped them several times. They bragged on me. Of course, we were a prouder of them. Daddy, you know me about the civilians we were seeing here. We see very few of the fewer the better. We have to consider all German civilians as spies, because they are often proven to be so. We have to be fair and firm with them and strictly business so I don't feel better when they stay in one place it doesn't pay."

Sam Bell, USAAF, has been promoted from corporal to sergeant, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bell, learned in a letter from him dated February 19, received recently. He says he has gotten several papers and "really enjoyed" them.

Four Million To Be Spent On Roads In Big Bend Park

Officials Plan Three Major Thoroughfares Over Entire Area

Big Bend National Park, March 12.—The Bureau of Public Roads contemplates spending more than $4,000,000 on three major roads over the Big Bend National park—one into the high Chisos mountains in the center, another to Hot Springs and Boquillas on the lower left, and the third to Santa Helena canyon.

Here several days ago to map out the routes and recheck bridge sites were representatives of the roads agency. Heading them was B. W. Matteson of Denver, district engineer of the Public Roads Administration.

The present road system centers at the end of the comparatively straight portion of the State Highway 227 running south from Marathon. The three branches proposed to be paved will take off from an area just north of the Chisos mountains and west of Tornillo creek.

Dr. Ross Maxwell, park superintendent, is like the National Park Service in desiring to reach the salient attractions of the 700,000-acre park. Roads will not be built indiscriminately in the region.

Where motor roads don't go, bridle paths will go. Much of the park, particularly in the rugged Chisos mountains, will be seen best from saddle, or afoot.

An eight-mile horseback ride from the Basin, NPS administrative center, to the picturesque South Rim provides the most awesome panoramic view in Texas. Roads may be extended closer to the South Rim, despite the obstacles of canyons and tricky formations but is unlikely that motorists will be able to drive right out to the Rim itself. — Alpine Avalanche.

Red Cross Corral at 36th 'Texas' Division Rest Camp Rated "Tops" By Servicemen

With the 36th "Texas" Division, Seventh Army, France—The work done by the American Red Cross at the 36th "Texas" Division Rest Camp cannot be over-estimated. Doughboys have proclaimed the camp by far the finest they have ever visited, and not one leaves after his rest without praising Red Cross Field Director William Fine and Red Cross lassies Carmel White and Katherine McDonald.

The Red Cross Corral is the center of the entire camp. It is the gathering spot where the men can find big soft easy chairs in which to relax and listen to the radio and swap stories. In the Corral is the library of popular magazines procured through the Red Cross. There too is the writing room, well stocked with pens and ink and paper. During December, Mr. Fine secured seventy-five thousand sheets of writing paper, thirty thousand envelopes, as well as enough wrapping paper and twine to enable the men to send home souvenirs. He also provided the souvenirs—perfume, pipes, and gaily decorated wooden shoes.

Adjoining the Corral is the Red Cross Snack Bar, a boon to late risers. Coffee is always available during the morning and, after the evening movie it becomes the bustling center of activity. Until the supply gives out, "Candy" White and "Kay" McDonald pass out hot coffee and fancy pastry. This is the gayest hour of the day.

The Red Cross also discovered that the local photographer could take care of all the men providing she could get an adequate supply of hypo-sulphate to develop the negatives. Mr. Fine got it. When the Special Services Officer discovered he needed mess articles, Mr. Fine located them, from three hundred soup bowls and three hundred drinking glasses to a dozen cooking kettles and sixty candles.

But the Red Cross at the rest camp does a lot more than find perfume and buy kettles. The Field Service is always open to help the men with their home problems, to write letters for them, purchase special presents at their request. When the Chaplain discovered that certain material would be of considerable value to him, Mr. Fine tracked down a supply and secured it.

All the work done at the rest camp is in addition to the regular Red Cross activity with the Division. Both Miss White and Miss McDonald are on temporary duty with the Rest Camp. In addition to these, four girls are regularly at work with the line units, as well as several Field Directors.

PAY THE MEN
About 25 years ago people in all walks of life began to notice and talk about competition between industries. It was new then, and interesting. Before that, competition was understood to exist between people and firms in the same industry—merchant vs. merchant, railroad vs. railroad, sawmill vs. sawmill, etc. But after World War I it was a changed business world, plain to see.

Among the modest newcomers in that remote era was a product called rayon. It was manufactured in the form of yarns, like wool and cotton yarns. The price to weavers was $2.80 a pound against 50c for cotton yarn. Last year 55c a pound was the price of both rayon and cotton yarns, and rayon was on the market as a fibre, very much like cotton fibre, but less expensive.

Rayon Has Grown
Back in 1919 the American people bought less than 2 per cent as much rayon as cotton. Last year the ratio was 20 per cent, and rayon had captured quite a slice of cotton's export business. Europeans earn less than Americans and they pay more attention to a low price. If it were not for the war, using up all both industries can produce, rayon would probably be giving cotton some tough competition.

When the war ends, these two big industries are faced with a struggle for sales in world markets. It is anybody's guess now how the struggle will turn out, but King Cotton is not licked. The cotton industry is still much bigger, still employs more people than any other American industry. Besides, smart cotton men understand how rayon made its remarkable gains.

Volume and Wages
Rayon started out the American way. It had relatively large investments in machinery. With good tools, it turned out large volumes of rayon per worker. On a basis of big results from their day's work, the men who worked drew good wages. At the same time, large outputs of rayon per man every day made it possible for prices to go lower and lower each year, sales become bigger and bigger.

Working people in America have a right to live well. When they earn good wages, they do live well. Money they spend is the very life-blood of national prosperity. But before they can earn good pay they have to turn out lots of merchandise per worker. And in order to produce goods in volume they must have good tools. It was a successful plan with rayon and it will work with cotton.

It Costs Something
People say there is a practical cotton picker ready for introduction after the war. It will cost a lot more than one big sack and a string for each member of a sharecropper's family; it will likewise pick more cotton in a day than they can pick in a week. Efficient tools call for capital investment. It means laying out money, but efficient tools are worth it.

People say we will see many mechanical cotton choppers after the war. It is not impossible. This will increase the number of acres of cotton per worker; make more yield per day for every man. The picker and the chopper will create high wages for a lot of people. But rayon can win its war with cotton if cotton tries to stay in the field armed with hoes and gunny-sacks.

NEW MINISTER HERE
The Rev. and Mrs. Clifford Spencer and family arrived here last Friday from Fort Worth to make their home. Rev. Spencer has accepted the pastorate of the local Baptist Church.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When you think of the sacrifices our fighting men are making in this war, it's hard to figure out how we'll ever repay them, isn't it, Judge?"
"Yes, it really is, Tom. There are only certain things we can do. Such as... write them cheerful letters often. Send them favorite gifts from time to time. Work harder than ever to provide them with everything they need to finish their job quickly. Buy more and more War Bonds... especially during the current drive... to pay for the ammunition and fighting equipment they must have."

"All that still seems kind of small compared with what they're doing for us, Judge."
"True, but it's about all we older folks back home can do, Tom. Except one more thing. And that is to be sure our fighting men come home to the same kind of country they left behind. The kind of country their letters tell us they want. Nothing changed that they don't want changed while they're away and unable to express their wishes."

Are You A Dollar Saboteur?
Every time you buy goods you do not really need, you help force prices up, help make critical shortages of merchandise even more critical. Any one of us who is spending as high a percentage of his income on "unnecessaries" today as he was before the war, is just that—a saboteur.
When you buy War Bonds regularly—when you go to the bank each pay day and make a deposit—when you save according to a plan—you help build a backlog of SAVED DOLLARS which will help to keep down prices and will help assure continued prosperity after the war.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO THE MEAT SUPPLY
We are faced with a serious shortage of meat for the civilian population. The current meat situation is not peculiar to any local area. The problem is national in scope.
LARGE DECREASE COMPARED WITH LAST YEAR
Government figures indicate a decrease of 38% of civilian meat supplies is expected during this quarter (January to March, inclusive), as compared with a year ago. The decrease will vary on the different types of meats.
It is also estimated that during the second quarter of this year (April to June, inclusive) a decrease of 35% is expected.
GOVERNMENT REQUIREMENTS
Few people realize how much beef, pork, lamb and veal must be set aside by meat packers operating under federal inspection to be purchased by the Government for the Armed Forces and for Lend-Lease. As of February 20, 1945, we are required to set aside:
BEEF: 60% of choice, good, and commercial steers and heifers, except extremely light weights.
70% of all utility steers, heifers and cows.
80% of all cutters and canners.
PORK: 50%, approximately, of dressed weight.
LAMB: 75%, approximately, of production in accordance with recent order.
The Government is also taking a large proportion of Swift & Company's lamb and veal production:
LAMB: 40 to 50% of choice and good lambs.
VEAL: 50%, approximately, of choice, good and commercial veal produced within specifications.
Whether these percentages will continue at the same level throughout the year cannot be foretold. The above percentages are as of February 20, 1945.

HOW THE DOLLAR IS DIVIDED
There's an old proverb, "One picture is worth a thousand words." So I decided to draw this month's column instead of writing it. The picture is below, and it tells this story... 75 cents (on the average) out of every Swift sales dollar goes to agricultural producers for their cattle, lambs, hogs, etc. And 11c out of every dollar goes to the people who work in Swift plants, preparing those farm and ranch products for market. Transporting meat, etc., an average of 1,100 miles from producer to consumer takes another 2c. But, after all, the picture tells the story better than words of mine. Few businesses operate on such a narrow margin—few return such a large slice of their sales dollar to the suppliers of raw materials.

Sgt. W. L. Stander, rancher from Promontory Point, Utah, admits the helmet that saved his life. He was wounded on the ill-fated USS Chicago by a strafing Jap plane. But he won the Silver Star for sticking to his gun without thought of personal safety.

NON-FEDERALLY INSPECTED SUPPLIES
The Government takes only federally-inspected meats. Therefore, the shortage of meat available for civilians is not so acute in the case of local packers who do not operate under federal inspection. Non-federally inspected plants have been able to supply a larger percentage of the product they produce during normal times as compared with federally inspected plants.

FORT NASHBOROUGH
 The guns had scarcely grown cold after the Revolutionary War when James Robertson and a party of sturdy pioneers started west across the Blue Ridge Mountains through virgin woodland Indians threatened to wreck their plans. In the vicinity of modern Nashville, Tenn., they realized a strong barricade around their homes was necessary. Thus Fort Nashborough arose in 1780. Reconstructed, the Fort stands as a monument to another area's indubitable will to win, to live and work free men. Descendants of those pioneers, are today fighting for the preservation of liberty. War Bond purchases will keep them supplied with the accoutrements of victory.

[A simplified Annual Report of the American Railroads in their third year at war]

IN 1944, the railroads rendered to the American public the greatest volume of service ever performed by any agency of transportation.

For doing this job, they received about 9½ billion dollars. That's a lot of money—but most of it was earned by hauling tremendous tonnages of freight for less than one cent per ton per mile and carrying passengers for even less than before the first World War.

While the following figures shown are for all the railroads of the U. S., they fairly well represent the situation of the roads in Texas and Louisiana.

- Out of every dollar the railroads received—
- 38c was paid out in pay rolls.
 - 29c was paid for materials and supplies of all sorts and other operating expenses.
 - 19c was paid in taxes—federal, state and local.

7c was paid in interest, rents and other charges—a great share of which went to insurance companies, savings banks, endowed institutions.

2c was paid in dividends to stockholders.

5c was left over in "change" to cover all such things as restoring roadways and equipment after the war, paying off debts, and providing reserves for the improvement of plant and the modernization of service.
