

WILL HONOR TOP CITIZENS--

Banquet Set Tuesday

The preamble to the constitution of the United States begins, "We the people of the United States."

There are those who misinterpret this passage to mean we the organized laborers, we the farmers or we the truck drivers, depending upon the group to which they belong.

Being a young editor has many disadvantages.

First some individuals believe that the human being doesn't have any reasoning powers to speak of until he has passed middle age and started downhill.

They also don't feel anyone less than their own age should be given the advantage of expressing an original opinion, unless of course it is in the same rut with the old folks thinking.

Last week, this column had a few brief remarks to make about the feed grains bill.

Realizing the bill will have the support of a majority of area farmers did not affect the opinion of this writer, nor his self-claimed freedom to express his opinion in this space.

Seven persons told this writer in no uncertain terms what they thought of the situation. One said he couldn't see how anyone could think the way I do, but did respect an individual's freedom to his own opinion. One said he could see my point but felt the bill contains more good than evil, and three said flatly that they thought as this writer does.

Then two men who apparently never have read or understood or accepted the fact that rational people can have different opinions roared into my office and said they just wanted to have a look at the person who could write such a thing.

They were T. O. Lesly and Wyle M. Bullock, from Lazbuddie. Operating under the assumption that they are the only individuals in this nation who possess the freedoms mentioned in the bill or rights, these two men had numerous cutting, slurry remarks to make. They made no attempt to explain why their point of view is more sound than the one expressed in this column last week.

I have a definite opinion on the feed grains bill. I do not fear to express them, and will not lose any respect for one who has an opposing opinion reasonably expressed.

I am sure that the two persons who visited me do not represent the behavior generally accepted by the Farmer's Union. But if they do, that group is definitely seeking to tear down the fundamental American freedoms listed in the bill of rights.

In all fairness to another senatorial candidate, (other than the one endorsed by the co-owners of this newspaper last week) I feel voters should know that Wednesday afternoon when the paper was already to press, we received a telegram from U.S. Senator William A. Blakley asking the Senate Finance Committee to give Texas growers an opportunity to show how they can solve the nation's sugar crisis.

Blakley wired the request to Senator Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the committee, which will take up a House-approved bill to extend the Sugar Act through 1962.

I respectfully request hear-former local entertainment personality Don Lewis has been tentatively booked as part of the program.

Country Club Seeking Pair

Friona Country Club, lacking only two memberships to reach the point that will enable them to start concrete action, plans a directors' meeting probably Thursday night to determine if the two memberships have been secured by that time.

If the two additional memberships have been obtained by Thursday night, directors will then be prepared to examine bids for installation of a watering system on the club's nine-hole golf course.

Club president Andy Hurst pointed out that it is important that contract for the irrigation system be approved soon so grass can be sodded on the course. The club is shooting for a July 1 opening.

Meanwhile, a committee is revising the club house plans in hopes that the one they submit to the membership will be acceptable.

"We will definitely be started when the membership reaches 100," Hurst said. "There are several good prospects, but we

Election Tuesday

Parmer County citizens will join Texans throughout the state Tuesday as they go to the polls to choose from a field of 70 candidates the person who will fill the U. S. Senate position vacated by Vice-President Lyndon Johnson.

Polls for the special election will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. in what is expected to be a "fairly heavy" vote for an off-election year.

The seven polling places in the county are: Friona, city hall; Farwell, county court-room; Bovina, American Legion Hall; Black, community building; Lazbuddie, school house; Oklahoma Lane, community building; Rhea Parish Hall; and Lakeview, Otho Whitefield residence.

While there are 70 names on the ballot, there are only six persons who are considered major candidates, and they are expected to poll most of the county votes.

Positions on the mile-long ballot were determined by a drawing conducted by the county election board--County

Jerry Kolander, Amarillo attorney and former judge of the Band and declamation students from Friona High School presented the program for the evening.

Outgoing Lion Boss Kenneth Williams reminded the club that the annual broom sale will be Tuesday April 4.

Lions will remind citizens to vote at the same time they are selling the brooms.

The broom sale is conducted in cooperation with the Texas Lighthouse for the Blind.

Robert Smith Honored As Top Soldier

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith of Friona, received word this week that their son Robert has been chosen "Soldier of the Month" for the U. S. Army Ordnance School Proving Grounds at Aberdeen, Maryland.

"Such honor is hard earned and signifies that he has excelled in such matters as appearance, soldierly bearing, knowledge of military subjects and world affairs," said a letter from the commander Major Rudolph F. Hazucha.

The recognition which he has earned reflects great credit upon himself and his family," the letter concluded.

IN NEXT FOUR DAYS--

Residents Eye Three Important Elections

Frionans will have a chance to vote in three important elections within the next four days.

First on the list will be Saturday when voters cast their ballots in the school trustee election. The next two will be held on Tuesday and will find city residents selecting city aldermen on the same day voters throughout the state will cast their ballot for a United States Senator.

The trustee election will be in the High School study hall Saturday, and both the city and state elections will be in city hall next Tuesday.

Three candidates will be opposed on the ballot for three places on the city council, while eight candidates will be seeking three places on the board of trustees.

Candidates on the ballot for city council will be Wright Williams, Bill Nichols and Kenneth Williams. Nichols is the lone incumbent listed on the ballot.

Deon Awtrej and Danny Mac Bainum will not seek re-election. However, Bainum will be a candidate for trustee.

Incumbents C. V. Potts and Clyde Weatherly join six other candidates in the race for a trustee office. Other candidates are U. S. Akens, groceryman; Glynn Don Hughes, nurseryman; Curtis Murphree, farmer; John W. Renner, farmer; Newman Jarrell, Jr., variety store owner

HOSPITAL ADDITION--A view from the northeast corner of Parmer County Community Hospital shows the new addition to the building. Open house is planned April 9.

APRIL 9--

Plan Open House For Hospital

April 9 has been set as the tentative date for open house at Parmer County Community Hospital to mark the opening of a $50,000 addition to the hospital building.

The new addition is located at the east entrance and features 3,250 square feet of floor space.

The hospital auxiliary, which is in charge of the open house ceremonies, set the tentative time for the open house from 3 to 5 p. m.

Hospital director H. E. Barnett said there were obstacles that might delay moving into the new addition so reminded that the date is tentative.

The new addition will provide each doctor with adequate counseling and examining rooms and should aid the hospital in improving service, according to Barnett.

Eighteen rooms will also be included in the new addition. The older portion of the hospital, which has been used for patient space and doctor offices, will be converted into an after-hours receiving area. Also the lab will be expanded to take up part of the older portion.

The new section will have a meeting room for hospital personnel and other groups, a doctors' lounge and a space for

Local Doctors To Be Honored

The local doctors will be honored Thursday on National Doctors' Day. The hospital auxiliary will place a floral arrangement in the lobby of the hospital. A red carnation on each doctor's desk will be presented by the Future Nurses Club.

Those to be honored are Dr. Paul Spring, Dr. Lee Spring, Dr. Lee Cranfill, Dr. George Anderson and Dr. Loyde Shackelford.

records and bookkeeping. Barnett's office will be moved into the section of the building now being used for bookkeeping, and his current office will be converted back into lobby space.

The trial is that of Bert Wade Christesson, of Clovis, who is charged with intent to murder. Victim of the alleged assault is John Hartwell, of Bovina.

The judge and jury spent Monday afternoon and Tuesday listening to testimony of 10 witnesses for the prosecution. It was said when court recessed Tuesday that the court would start hearing testimony of defense witnesses Wednesday morning.

Classes Dismissed

New Honor Society Admits 20 Members

The Miller-Wilson Chapter of the National Honor Society had its first meeting Monday. The faculty of Friona High School had previously submitted the names of students who were academically eligible to a council consisting of Raymond Cook, Baker Duggins, Mrs. Dorothy Rowlett, Mrs. Valoris Osborn, Mrs. Carmaleet Trutt and Jack Roberts.

This council then chose the ones who were eligible for the society. Eligibility was based not only on academic achievement, which had to be an overall average of 90 with twice as many A's as B's, but also on outstanding leadership, service, and character.

Those chosen were Kay Struve, Bob Sanders, Kitty Black, Mary Lemmond, and Gayle Knight from the senior class. Linda Castleberry, Jim-ette McLean, Brenda Collier, Su-Zan Harper, James Perkins, Tommy Roberts and Pam Roden were chosen from the junior class. Janet Buckley, Brenda Deaton, Tom Gee, Carol Kay, Max Reeve, Sharon Reeve, David Talley and Gayle White were the chosen sophomores.

At the first meeting Cook read and explained the constitution to the group. He told some of the advantages of being a member of the society. Two of them are: 1. Its national scope gives it high significance and unusual prestige throughout the world and in institutions of higher learning. 2. A National Honor Society member is a preferred candidate for college scholarships and admissions to college.

At the next meeting a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer will be elected.

Christ's Life Highlights Good Friday

For the past few weeks members of the Union Congregational Church have been working on an unusual presentation of the Life of Christ entitled "He Dwelt in the Midst of Us."

Color slides have been taken of various events in the Biblical story placed in a modern setting. Friona, Palo Duro Canyon and other nearby locations serve as the background for the drama of Christ's life. The production places its emphasis on the impression of Christ's life upon contemporary disciples.

The film slides and a narration will be a part of the Good Friday service at 8 p. m., March 31. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:
On the eve of our departure to England, we would like to express through your column, our sincere thanks to Dr. Lee Cranfill and hospital staff of the Farmer County Hospital for their kindness and consideration to my husband and self during his recent illness.

We would also like to thank our many friends for the flowers and cards received. Our stay in Friona will always be a happy memory.

Dan and Libby McEvey

Dear Editor:
After reading your views in the local paper three days ago, I have decided to relieve myself of a few things and I'm sure this will not be the only one to take up for the farmer and the poor Texan.

It seems your definition for a middle-of-the-roader or conservative is one for big business and corporation farming. A left-winger would be one who is for the family-size farm and little business man. This being correct, we need many more like Yarborough in public office to keep the big dogs (not government) for running us off our farms. How unrealistic can you be too, being editor of a small farming paper, trying to cram the idea of Ike and Benson as "the good old days."

When farmers of this country are sorry or make a mistake they will admit it without the help of one who is just like Nixon and his aids were, just could not realize defeat. This is still America, two parties (or more if you like) which is the way we want it, but if you are going to bellyache about the farmer, why don't you cry about the subsidy the gov. is giving the very paper you work for. If the gov. will drop your paper, and the magazines air lines, trains, steam ships, oil and labor from its subsidizing program we certainly will go on our own. But you want the gov. out of farming, turn everything loose, I guess you were still in the crib in the early 1930's. Have you ever heard of them? Have you ever thought what a sack of spuds would cost if safety or someone big raised all of them. In this very paper you printed, (I don't know if you realized it) that 13,000 farms were being taken out or combined every year.

You say "perhaps Texans are already being made to realize the mistake they made last November." A few said that from the time the votes were counted, but you can not set there and write that with your heart, when we have the working team we now have in Washington. Pres. Kennedy has done more and put more hours into work already than the last veto golfing pres. did in any one year. Did you ever hear of a local secretary holding a job when he or she was against their boss or who ever they were working for as Benson was his people. He tried to prove no farm program would work, told the family-size farmer to move to the city if he could not make it on the farm. Ike promised not only 80 or 90 per cent parity but 100 per cent in his campaign, I think even you know what we got. Pres. Kennedy has promised also many promises and he has set out to fulfill them. His sec. of agriculture said in a speech last week in Washington that the people should get down on their hands and knees and be thankful we have a surplus (10 months of milk). That they will work, work and try, try, try, and try again until supply and demand are in balance.

Yes, we have a feed grain bill now. If those who are opposed will only give it a chance to work instead of yeaping (sic) "no program can work why don't the gov. get out," we will be back as we were in the 1940's instead of the last 8 years "of good old days" you talk about.

Yes editor, with your attitude toward the farmer I think you should go apply for an editor's job in the Farm Journal magazine, their editorial in this month's magazine sounds if you might have written it, or I guess maybe there are a few more like you.

John W. Renner

(Editor's note--Thanks for your letter John. But let's give credit where credit is due. We conservatives realize the vital importance of the farm economy to our nation, and know that if it fails, our entire country will be put in jeopardy. We don't advocate government dropping the farmers back into the laissez-faire conditions that existed some 20 years ago. We do resent either government or individuals clinging to the lost dreams that $2.80 milio made this district rich can be brought back at the expense of the taxpayer.

Also, publications, air lines, steam ships, oil and labor don't have local groups working, attempting to get more subsidies from the government or this writer would have comments to make on that subject. And you hit the nail right on the head John when you said there are a few more like me. Such fellows as Herbert Hoover, and all the presidents before him, Tom Anderson, editor of Farm and Ranch; Jack Patterson, Rhea farmer, and many other local farmers who had rather not be called by name, are "like me" on this issue. In case our position needs to be re-defined; we are opposed to measures that throw our local farmers into a socialized temporary gravy train that will eventually take away the few freedoms they have left.

P. S. -- This writer was no where near the crib in the early 1930's, and I have a birth certificate to prove it. I was born on Feb. 25, 1939.)

When the small boy of the family eating out in a restaurant heard his parents ask the waiter to put their beefsteak leavings in a bag to take home to the dog, he spoke up in a shrill, excited voice:
"Oh, boy, are we going to get a dog?"

A frustrated motorist tried to pass a huge truck for many miles. It was no use. Finally at a stop sign, the motorist pulled alongside the truck driver's window. "Well?" said the trucker, glaring viciously. "Nothing important," the motorist replied. "I know what you are. I just wanted to see what one looks like."

"I've got a cow I want to sell you, Charlie."
"Yes? Would she fit into my herd?"
"No; I dunno as she would."
"Does she give lots of milk?"
"No; I can't say as she gives lots of milk, but I can tell you this: She's a kind, gentle, good natured, old cow, and if she's got any milk she'll give it to you."

"Purely by accident, I have made one of the greatest discoveries," said the scientist.
"May I ask what it was?"
"I found," said the scientist, "that by keeping a bottle of ink handy you can use a fountain pen just like any other pen--without all the trouble of filling it."

Hanging Might Work

Almost 38,000 Americans died in traffic accidents during 1960. We are a little shaken by this bare fact, but not nearly enough to do anything about it.

Traffic authorities are pinning the blame for the high death rate on the highways on the driving public, and that is exactly where the blame belongs. They point out that strong citizen action on such actions as horse stealing and gun fighting caused those two activities to be abandoned.

Surely strong citizen action toward traffic violations and reckless driving would cut into the growing number of mishaps that kill and injure each year.

But the measures already taken to punish those who disregard the rule of safety or the highways are fairly strict, and yet most drivers have little regard for them. Strengthening them to a degree that would mean either financial or social ruin for the violator would no doubt have the same braking effect on speeding, driving while intoxicated and other major offenses as hanging and jailing had on horse thieves and gun fighters respectively.

Similarity on these two trails of reasoning ends suddenly. Borrowing someone's horse or shooting at tin cans wasn't likely to cause any bloodshed or hanging, but running a red light or stop sign can be just as damaging as driving 110 miles per hour or driving when one is seeing double.

FIRST CHOICE of TEXAS VOTERS

Senator William A.

BLAKLEY

★ SENATOR BLAKLEY is the winner of the Texas Poll directed by Joe Belden and subscribed to by 21 leading Texas newspapers. He also is the first choice in many other surveys and polls conducted throughout Texas.

SENATOR BLAKLEY'S ACTION PROGRAM FOR TEXAS

$100 MILLION MORE ANNUALLY FOR SCHOOLS: A home-rule aid-to-education plan that would return to each state 5 per cent of federal income taxes for support of locally administered public schools. In Texas this would mean over $100 million more annually for our schools--without federal interference!

INCOME TAX RELIEF FOR PRESSED PARENTS: Also, for families putting their children through school, additional income tax exemptions of $1,200 for college or university student, $400 for son or daughter in high school. Parents deserve a tax break!

A HELPING HAND FOR OUR SENIOR CITIZENS: A bill to raise ceiling on what Social Security recipients may earn without being penalized. Senator Blakley would raise ceiling from $1,200 to $1,800 a year to help many retired persons.

SHARP REDUCTION IN FOREIGN OIL IMPORTS: Reduce by one half the amount of foreign oil being brought into U. S. Texas' economy, schools, state government, all suffer when foreign oil floods market, causes Texas production to shut down.

INDEPENDENCE! WE MUST KEEP IT ALWAYS: Retain Connally Amendment to World Court. United States should maintain its sovereignty without question. Senator Blakley is fighting against repeal of this vital guarantee.

"We had to do it to meet competition."

Something To Think About

6th. Street Church of Christ
Box 515 -- Friona, Texas

The Bible says, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." Rationalism says that "nothing can be made out of nothing." Thus we have two conflicting principles, and many of our day would make the oracles of God harmonize with this new product of man's wisdom. And so it is, that the Bible is now divested of much of its power and authority in the popular consciousness; and its miracles are treated by many as the mere myths of ancient fables.

It is evident therefore that the great want of the present age, is to return to the simple faith and practice of primitive Christianity. Tradition, philosophy, and all other products of man's mind that would undermine the authority of God must be confined to its own proper sphere. Let men everywhere bow to the authority of God's inspired word. This should not be such a difficult lesson for us to learn. Bible history is full of examples of men and nations that have allowed their foolish wisdom to overshadow the wisdom of God. And, without exception, they have paid dearly for their folly. The Bible is the pattern, man is the product, and prudent men acknowledge the fact that you cannot make the pattern fit the product. We would do well to learn this lesson from history, and order our lives accordingly.

come to church Sunday

While I was conducting a preaching mission in a village in the United Arab Republic, a man called Yassa invited three others and me for lunch. He prepared us a rich banquet at his house. He greeted us so nicely, saying, "We are greatly honored. Feel at home and help yourselves." Suddenly, his eyes were moist with tears. He hurried at once to another room and shut himself in.

As his wife saw my surprise, she stepped in and said, "I am sorry. My husband is a drunkard. He can't enjoy a meal unless he drinks. He wept because he couldn't eat with you."

A few minutes later, our host came back. He looked at me and said: "Please don't preach at me. I know more than you do what wine is. I have tried all means to overcome it, but in vain."

I replied: "I am not going to preach at you. I believe every word you say. But may I just add a word? There is a power that can save you. You need not try it; just trust it. It is the grace of Jesus the Saviour. Take hold of it through faith."

He did, and won a victory.

Smoking Out Coons
 Don't smoke coons, possums, or squirrels out of dens or hollow trees. You can cause a disastrous forest fire by doing so. Instead, tie a wad of cloth on a stick and soak in common household ammonia. Thrust ammonia-soaked end of stick in tree hollow or den and the occupant will hustle out in a hurry.

Protecting Your Motor
 Does your outboard motor get scuffed, scarred, or thrown out of adjustment when carried in your car trunk? Next time out try laying it on an old inflated inner tube. The inflated rubber absorbs the knocks and scuffs, and preserves the finish.

EXTERIOR VIEW--It won't be long before this building will be completed and Friona's indoor swimming pool ready for use. The swimming pool, located at the Southwest edge of Friona near Highway 60, should be completed by April 20.

Swimming Pool Completion Date Hoped To Be April 20

Work on Friona's new indoor swimming pool is progressing rapidly, reports Truett Johnson, the man who is building the $60,000 recreational area as a commercial venture.

"We hope to have it completed and open for business by April 20," Johnson says.

Workmen early this week were installing the aluminum rafters for the roof, and after this is done the finishing work should move fast, Johnson believes.

When the pool is completed, citizens of Friona and surrounding area will have a 36x75 foot swimming pool that can be used the year around.

Quite likely, Friona will be the only small city on the High Plains, to have such a pool.

The swimming pool will be complete with a snack bar, two dressing rooms, rest rooms, a patio and barbecue pit, and a wading pool for the youngsters.

The patio and barbecue pit will be located at the rear of the 60x130-foot structure that will house the pool and it will be for use by private parties, Johnson says.

Depth of the main swimming pool will range from three feet at the shallow end to 10-feet at the deep end, where high and low diving boards will be located. Depth of the wading pool will range from one foot to 18 inches.

The new pool will have a filter system that pumps fresh water into the swimming area every six hours, and heaters that will keep the water at uniform temperatures the year around.

There will be six racing lanes which will meet specifications for interscholastic league swimming, the owner says.

Constructed mostly with concrete blocks, the building will have a brick front and an all-aluminum roof, covered in part by Filon, a semi-transparent material that will help to light and heat the swimming area.

Johnson says that he does not yet know what the schedule of operation at the pool will be, but says that it will probably be open each morning, noon, and night, with certain hours and days being designated for special groups.

Designated times will be set aside for swimming lessons, and a club will be organized to start teaching the fundamentals of skin diving, Johnson says.

Probably one night each week will be set aside for private parties, and there will also be designated times for children to swim, for women only, and for men only.

All of these schedules will be worked out when the pool is opened, Johnson says.

Admission to the pool will be by membership only, the exact fee to be set later, according to Johnson, who says, "The fee will be low."

Also, arrangements have been made to permit members of the recently-organized Friona Country Club to use the pool, and a program will also be worked out whereby Friona School can make use of the pool in its physical education program.

Construction of the pool first started in November. It has been delayed somewhat by the slow arrival of lumber shipments, but everything is moving along now and it shouldn't be long until the pool is ready for operation.

Johnson admits that construction workers will have to hurry to have it completed next month, "but if everything goes all right, it should be ready by the 20th," he says.

A Few Hunting Don'ts

Never say anything against your hunting partner's dog. Also, don't pat it or feed it. And don't give the dog orders.

If you kill a bird, tell the owner . . . not the dog. Follow these don'ts and you'll keep the respect and friendship of your partner.

For Better Shooting
 As you get older, the open sights of your rifle get fuzier and won't stay on the target. You find yourself missing the target often.

Of course, this can be overcome by using scope sights. But often a scope isn't feasible, or you may not like scopes. So, the next best thing to do is to switch from open to ring, or peep sights. You won't have to squint, and your target is again clear.

Better change the front sight at the same time. Replace with one that has a higher post. Most rifles are drilled to receive peep sights, so you can install it yourself.

Be Careful With Bullets
 Carrying loose ammunition around in your pocket is foolhardy. The little .22 cartridges are especially dangerous. They are small and easily lost, and may turn up in the open fireplace with a bang — literally.

Vern's Views--

ing on HR5463 in order that the people of Texas and other areas may have a full opportunity to present information and data to support their needs and desire to join in the production and refining of sugar," Blakley's telegram said, "Hearings are urgently needed in order that your committee may fully consider the best interests of our domestic economy in this particular area before passing this legislation which is so vitally important."

The seven or so major candidates agree on such non-controversial subjects as water depletion and sugar beet acreage. Where the split comes, and where the thinking voter will make his decision on election day, will not be on what the candidate has promised to do for Texas--since they have all pretty well promised the same thing--but what they can do for the nation as a whole as a United States Senator.

Here is where the seven or eight major candidates break ranks, and only two have had anything to say about what they think they can do for the nation. The rest have been so busy promising plums to this group and that group that they have awakened to find the polls showing that Texans want their man in Washington to be prepared to take a little more definite stand than the "Texas position." It is a little late now to change campaign plans, but some of the so-called big-time politicians who don't make it in the run-off will be shaking their heads and vowing to do it the other way next election time.

Since the candidate endorsed last week in an editorial in this newspaper doesn't fall into this group of two, this writer feels it is unwise to name the two candidates who have made stands on issues that mean something.

Watch for them in the runoff.

Trial Enters--

Christesson allegedly beat Hartwell with a double strand of heavy, rubber-coated wiring last September, following an argument that started in the Clover Club in Texico.

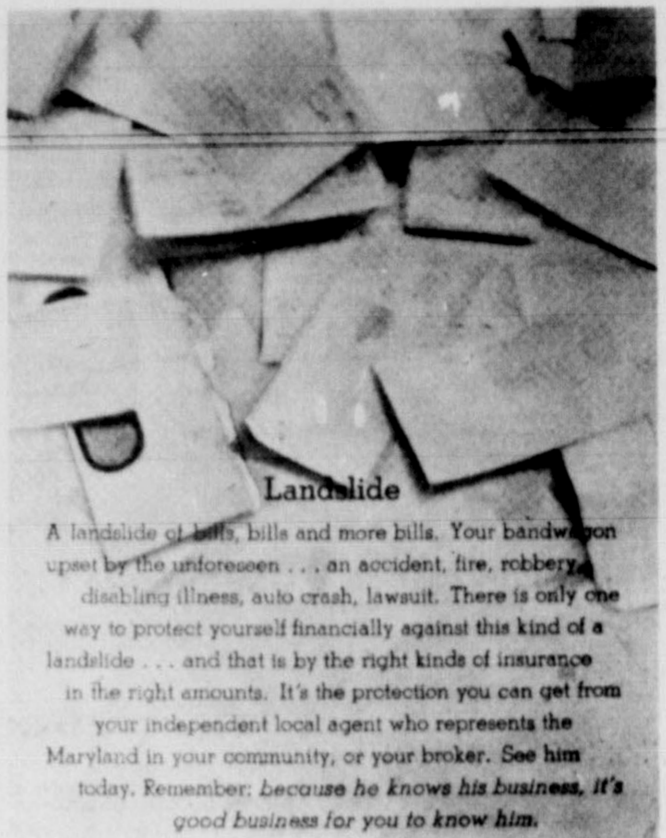

The beating occurred at a roadside park near Farwell, after Christesson and several companions had forced Hartwell's car off the road. Hartwell was hospitalized with injuries to the face and other parts of the body.

Just how much longer the trial will last was not known at press time, but it was thought that all testimony would be completed and the jury would reach a verdict sometime Thursday.

Before Christesson's trial got under way, another man, Houston Bryon Martin, who had previously been with the same offense in the case, had his charge reduced to a misdemeanor.

Martin was with Christesson on the night when the beating took place, but the charge against him was changed to simple assault. Martin was tried in county court last week by Judge Loyde Brewer and was fined $200 and court costs.

The 12 members of the jury who are hearing the case are Don McDonald, G. P. Meissner, T. I. Burleson, Clyde B. Monk, E. L. Fairchild, Gilbert Kaltwasser, Milton Walling, L. T. Utsman, James H. Jennings, James Ensor, Roy Daniel and G. W. Mimms.

HUMI-CITE

WHAT IS HUMI - CITE?

HUMI-CITE is a natural liquid soil conditioner which creates humus and helps break down and balance the natural minerals in soil to produce healthy plants. Healthy plants are far less susceptible to insects and diseases.

Most of us know about plant chemistry--we have in years past tried many formulas, some with great success, and some with little results. We are putting our money on HUMI-CITE and believe we have the answer to our plant food needs. We firmly believe the addition of HUMI-CITE to your plants including COTTON will give the greatest results in lowering damage from diseases and insects. Plant chemistry is just common sense -- the same common sense every mother uses to try to give her family balanced meals to produce good healthy bodies. HUMI-CITE is a balancer -- a Soil Conditioner which counteracts alkali and salts to permit good germination of seeds planted in our land in Parmer County.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE: HUMI-CITE should be applied to all crops in irrigation water at the rate of 10 gallons per acre. Homeowners will be happy to know it brings marvelous results to flowers, shrubs, fruit trees and lawns. Available in small amounts for home use . . . We also have mineral water for cattle -- easily applied in regular drinking water to give cattle all the minerals needed for healthy growth.

"Feed Grain Bill" Now Law; Important To Parmer County

The one-year emergency feed grain bill, enacted into law by congress last week, will affect greatly the plans of most Parmer County farmers this year.

The bill, which calls for corn and grain sorghum price supports in return for acreage cut-backs, will no doubt have more far-reaching effects on Parmer County than any major farm bill that congress has ever passed.

This is due to the fact that the county has been one of the largest, if not the largest, producer of grain sorghums in the country.

During the past two years, Parmer county farmers have planted more than 260,000 acres of land into this feed grain and they have produced in excess of 20 million pounds of the grain each year.

The 260,000 acres represents almost 60 per cent of the total county acreage under cultivation, and therefore, almost every farmer will be affected by the program.

Farmers who sign up for the program will be eligible for a price support on their grain, provided they agree to lay out at least 20 per cent of the acreage planted to the crop during the past two years.

Most Parmer county farmers are expected to participate in the program in view of the fact that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has been given the authority to sell on the market grain from huge government surpluses. This quite likely will result in a lower market price for the grain.

The national average price support on grain sorghum will be a $1.93, as compared to the market price of a $1.52 last year. Since Parmer County received an average price of a $1.48 for last year's grain, it is estimated that they will receive in the neighborhood of a $1.88 for grain sorghum planted in compliance with the new government program, an increase of 40 cents per hundred over 1960.

The price support on corn was raised to $1.20 a bushel, up from last year's $1.06, and the price support on other feed crops included in the program--barley, oats and rye--will be increased accordingly.

Prentice Mills, Parmer County ASC manager, says that quite likely contracts for farmers who plan to sign up for the program will be available at his office by April 15. He hopes that all of the contracts will be signed and the program in effect by May 1.

Mills was in Lubbock last Friday attending a briefing on the new bill and he will attend another meeting some time next week, at which time final instructions will be given on the program.

Following next week's meeting, Mills plans to conduct about three meetings throughout the county to explain all the provisions of the bill to county farmers.

While all of the provisions of the new program have not yet been worked out, here basically is how it will work:

To be eligible for price supports, farmers must cut corn and grain sorghum acreage by at least 20 per cent of their average plantings during the years 1959-60, or at least 20 acres, whichever is larger.

The secretary of agriculture can reimburse farmers for laying out 20 per cent of their grain acreage with either cash or surplus grain. Cash payments and payments in kind will be equal to 50 per cent of the normal yield. Payments will be based on the new price support.

Farmers will also be permitted to lay out an additional 20 per cent acreage, on which they will receive cash payments or payments-in-kind totaling 60 per cent of the normal yield.

One provision of the law provides that farmers may receive part payment for idle acreage as soon as they sign up for the new program.

The normal yield for each farmer will be arrived at by first establishing an average county yield.

This will be done by the Agricultural Marketing Service, and it will be arrived at by taking estimates from the ASC office and the county agent, by checking elevator receipts throughout the county, and by talking to a representative group of farmers from the area.

It is in this establishment of a mean average yield that the key is to how much the new feed grain program will benefit financially the farmers of the county.

SPRING IS IN THE AIR as indicated by the number of Parmer County farmers who are in the fields getting the land ready for spring planting. Two good snows in recent weeks, and a rain which measured about one-half inch of moisture last Friday, has helped to put the soil in good shape for the upcoming crop year.

If the yield established by the marketing service is what most agricultural officials and elevator men of the county think it is--somewhere between 4,000 and 5,000 pounds--then the program should boost considerably the income of farmers on the production of grain sorghum.

However, should the mean average be considerably lower than the 4,000 pounds, then it is questionable that the overall income from grain sorghum production would be increased to any great extent.

Because there is no accurate way to arrive at the average yield, and because many times the marketing service relies a great deal on elevator receipts instead of estimates, the figure arrived at could be some lower than what it actually is.

The reason county elevator receipts may not reflect the true picture is that all of the grain produced in the county doesn't necessarily go into storage in local elevators.

Mills, in telling how the county average would be arrived at, explained similar averages taken in the past on cotton and wheat. In 1957, an average arrived at on wheat was only 20 bushels per acre, the ASC manager said, which was considerably lower than what the actual average was.

On cotton, however, it was felt that the estimate on average production in the county was a little higher than it actually was.

At any rate, whatever the county average yield is set at, it is from this figure that county and community committees will attempt to arrive at the average production of each individual farmer.

This will be done by basing the individual farmer's yield on a percentage of the average yield, such as a 110 per cent, 120 per cent, or 90 per cent and on down to some smaller percentages. When all the percentages of each farmer are balanced out, they should total 100 per cent of the county average.

The 15 community committees from each part of the county, along with the county committee, all who were elected by the vote of the farmers, will be charged with the responsibility of determining these percentages.

Farmers who comply with the program will be given the price support on grain produced up to the average yield established for each individual. All grain produced over the established average yield will have to be sold on the open market.

The reason for this clause in the new bill is to discourage farmers from applying heavy doses of fertilizer to up their yields.

THE HIGH PLAINS FARM AND HOME

Farmers Should Think In Terms Of Unit Cost

In this mechanized, scientific farming age, it's the cost per unit of production that's important to the farmer, rather than the amount of money that's spent on each acre of land.

It's time we started thinking in terms of what it costs to produce a 100 pounds of grain, a bale of cotton, or a bushel of wheat, instead of thinking only what the cost is per acre," says Parmer County Agent Joe Jones.

The reason for thinking in these terms is quite simple when you consider that the yields on each crop varies considerably, depending on such things as Hybrid seeds, the application of fertilizer and other improved farming practices.

Of far more importance to the farmer than what his per acre costs of production are, would be the return he receives on his investment, Jones points out.

As an example, say a farmer invests an extra $6 per acre in an efficient farming practice such as the application of additional fertilizer. If this fertilizer increases production by 1700 pounds, in reality the cost was lower than it would have been had the farmer not spent the extra $6.

Parmer County farmers have been discovering this more and more in recent year, and subsequently production has increased considerably through these improved farming practices.

Nevertheless, many farmers still have a tendency to think of farming cost on the per acre basis, and this can be misleading, Jones points out.

Naturally, every farmer wants to cut his farming costs down as much as possible, but the way to do this is strive for more efficiency in such things as tilling practices, the selection of seed, application of fertilizer, irrigation practices and methods of harvesting.

Improvements that will make for more efficient production can be made on most every farming practice, and the best way for the farmer to determine which steps would be more beneficial is to figure his costs on a per unit basis.

An investment that will make for more efficiency and higher net profits is always good, whether it be the purchase of better and time-saving equipment, the application of fertilizer, or better methods of irrigation and soil conservation practices.

"This is something that can't be stressed enough when farmers of thinking of production costs," Jones says.

The important thing is to consider, "How much money can I spend and still make it pay dividends," Jones adds.

Another example of how a farmer could make more efficient production methods pay off would be in the soil test.

The cost of the soil test, besides a little time and effort, is $2. Say that this soil test showed that a piece of grain sorghum land needed some phosphate.

If a farmer had been spending $8 an acre on nitrogen and then spent an addition $4 on phosphate, it would appear that his production costs in regard to fertilizer had increased 50 per cent.

However, should this additional application of fertilizer increase the yield from 4800 pounds per acre to 5600 pounds, then the production costs would be cheaper.

There are many ways in which more efficient methods of production may be put into practice, and something that would be an aid to the farmer as he figures his costs would be the per unit method.

This is done by figuring the production cost per acre all right, but then dividing it by the yield per acre.

Soil Testing Proves Value

A group of Cherokee county corn growers know that fertilizing according to soil test recommendations doesn't cost but pays. The farmers, co-operating with County Agricultural Agent Steve Lilly, conducted demonstrations last year on their farms to compare yields from plots fertilized according to soil test recommendations and from others where usual rates of fertilizer were used.

In a summary report, from Lilly to W.F. Bennett, extension soil chemist, the value of soil testing for determining fertilizer needs was definitely proven. From the plots which were fertilized according to the farmer's choice, an average of 48.7 bushels of corn an acre was harvested at a cost of $8.40 an acre for plant food.

Corn fertilized according to soil test recommendations produced at the rate of 63.4 bushels and fertilizer costs averaged $14.70 an acre.

By following the soil test recommendations, the demonstrators produced an extra 14.7 bushels of corn from the additional $5.77 an acre spent for fertilizer above their usual rate of application.

With corn figured at $1.25 a bushel, Bennett said the extra corn meant an additional $18.38 an acre income. Since the soil test cost $2.00 and the extra fertilizer $5.77, they should be deducted, Bennett said. The result -- a nice profit of $12.61 an acre -- in favor of the soil test.

Game Meeting Thursday Night

Pat L. Donnelly, state game warden from Littlefield, will be featured speaker at meeting of Parmer County Game Management Association Thursday night at 8 in Bovina School cafeteria.

Announcement of the meeting was made this week by Al Kerby, president of the group, which is dedicated to increasing game population in Parmer County area.

Also on Thursday night's program, Kerby says, will be an individual's gun collection which will be exhibited.

Jack Patterson, who lives at Rhea and is an avid hunter, will speak on eradication of predatory animals.

The Association has released 298 pair of bob white quail in the county since it was organized more than a year ago. At Thursday's meeting, orders will be taken for more quail and for fish to stock lakes in the county, the president points out. Officers for another year will be elected. Retiring officers, other than Kerby, are Bruce Parr, vice president; Joe Jones, secretary; and Bill Nichols, treasurer.

Men who have served on advisory committee for past year are Patterson, Gilbert Kaltwasser, Woodrow Fleming, Bob Wilson and Jack Smith.

"And there I was," a convict was telling his cell mate, "making big money - about a quarter of an inch too long."

From the Omaha, Nebraska, World-Herald: "The rails could be helped most, and helped immediately, if they were given the right to run their business and cut needless costs. If Congress really wants to help, an easing of the government's heavy hand is the way to start."

Connie Vaughn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaughn of this community, placed second in the Junior high division on flute solo in the Interscholastic league competitions held at Amarillo.

Her flute solo selection was "Minuet" by Percell.

It seems some other interested person decided to eat the ham that Jack worked for. Jack left the ham in his pick-up while in a cafe, and hasn't seen the ham since. He wasn't too worried at the time, thinking someone was playing a joke, but the ham still hasn't returned so the steal evidently wasn't a joke.

John Deere Rotary Hoe has firmly established itself as a major tillage tool for corn, beans, cotton, maize, peas, beets, small grain, and numerous other crops. It cultivates in the rows and between the rows. It can be used from pre-emergence until the crop is 6 to 8 inches high. It's fast—recommended minimum speed is 4-1/2 miles an hour. It really saves on tractor fuel over other types of cultivation.

Row-crop tillage is far from the only use for this versatile implement. Other jobs include crust-breaking to let crop seedlings emerge, firming and finishing seedbeds, small-grain cultivating, wind-erosion control, packing behind drills, and summer-fallow tillage. Whatever the job, you can be sure that a dependable John Deere Rotary Hoe will save you time and money.

John Deere Rotary Hoe is thorough—about 108 penetrations per square yard with Heavy-Duty 14 Series.

Good work is assured by a uniform pattern—there's none of the hit-or-miss of hoe wheels with staggered teeth. Axles on 14 Series Hoe are adjustable—as close as 14 inches for maximum penetration . . . up to 23 inches where trash is a problem.

John Deere Hoe has tough, cold-forged tines with non-curling points which "wear in" on the rear side for self-sharpening action. Tines may be bent and straightened many times without breaking, and are replaceable. They enter the ground almost straight down for best penetration, and emerge in nearly flat position for most aggressive shoveling action.

New Market For Texas Seed Studied

A study to expand existing, and to develop new, markets for Texas grown forage seed for parts of South America is scheduled this spring," announced Othel M. Neely, Executive Vice President, Texas Certified Seed Producers, Inc., Waco. "The study is a joint project of the Texas Certified Seed Producers, Inc. and the Foreign Agricultural Service of the USDA," said Neely.

Three Texas seedsmen will spend five weeks in Chile, Argentina, Uruguay and Venezuela visiting with seed merchants, farmers, diarmen, ranchers and agriculture scientists. Each of these countries have expressed interest in obtaining new and improved varieties of forage for permanent and temporary grazing. The seedsmen will determine the forages grown in Texas which may be useful in improving their forage resources. Neely will be accompanied by George Warner, Miller Seed Company, Hereford, Texas; Dave Foster, Agronomist, Southwest Agricultural Institute, San Antonio, Texas; and Mr. Horace Bolster, Seed Marketing Specialists, USDA, Washington, D. C.

Warner, formerly with the Texas Agricultural Experiment station, and of Waco, is recognized as a foremost authority on natural forages in Texas. Foster, formerly in charge of the grass nursery of the Soil Conservation Service is recognized as one of the state's greatest authorities on forages which have been introduced in Texas.

Bolster was born on a farm in North Dakota. He was a certified seed grower in Montana in the 1920's, extension agronomist, and member of the Loan Committee, Federal Land Bank, Spokane, Washington. Mr. Bolster has served five years as Agricultural Attache in Iran and the Netherlands. Since returning from abroad, he has been working on matters related to foreign affairs including four years as European Area Officer, Agricultural Attaches, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

BY RAYMOND EULER

By RAYMOND EULER

We hope farmers will remember the organization that opposed the feed grains bill to the end. Farm Bureau is the only farm organization, and it has as members 3 out of 4 organized farmers. We don't believe it possible that American farmers will like complete government domination of operations. Most farmers have taken pride in their personal management of their farms and are not gleefully looking forward to federal agencies further controlling their operation.

The "farmer committee" system that appears to be next in line for farmers, according to the president and Agriculture Secretary Freeman, is not better, but perhaps worse than the bill now being debated. It would leave the impression that various state committees of farmers were working to give the farmer the kind of program he desired, while the committeemen, hand picked by supporters of administration programs, would be actually acting as high pressure salesmen for the program. The farmer not on the committee would have nothing whatever to do with the formulation of the program. And the party, Republican or Democratic, would make no difference in the management of the program, because the committees, county and state, would be operating the programs as directed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Quoting from Facts for You, published by Texas Farm Bureau Research and Promotion, under the direction of Bill Wedemeyer along the lines of the above government programs, "FOOD SUPPLY—Let us again be reminded by the Communists that if we intend to have a satisfactory food supply in the future, it will be absolutely necessary to avoid the mistakes which the Communists themselves have made. The mistakes they have made are that they have agreed to allow someone else to control their farms and businesses in preference to individual ownership and management. Individuals usually find a way to solve problems, including weather and insects."

The state bill proposed to allow competitive rating in automobile insurance was defeated. Another, limiting the power of the insurance commission to determining penalty points to serious traffic violations, may have a chance for passage.

CONSIDER THIS: Correct thy son, and he shall give thee rest; yea, he shall give delight unto thy soul. (Proverbs 29:17)

Hartford, Wis., Times-Press: "We refer to the medical care plan for the aged under the Social Security System... Just last month, the top-level Federal Council on Aging reported that about 70 per cent of our older people own their own homes. The others generally live with relatives. Only about 6 per cent live in homes for the aged or other institutions. Our senior citizens surely love health. They love something else, too—freedom. Let's let 'em keep it."

Sesame Breeding Program

WITH THE COUNTY AGENT

JOE JONES

On January 1, 1960, the sesame breeding program was initiated at the High Plains Research Foundation. The objective of the basic breeding program is to develop improved varieties specifically adapted to the soil and climatic conditions of the High Plains.

Eight hundred and ninety-five sesame strains and varieties were received from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and several scientists in foreign countries. A valuable collection of one hundred and seventy different sesame types was received from the Minister of Agriculture in Mexico. This material was selected from areas throughout Mexico which have soil and climatic conditions similar to those of the High Plains. All of this breeding material represented a wide range in plant characteristics.

Each strain was planted in a single-row plot 20 feet long on May 26. A preplant irrigation of approximately four inches was applied to all plots on April 5. All plots also received three additional irrigations of 3 1/2 inches each on July 29, August 11, and August 31. Rainfall received from May 1 to October 1 amounted to 22.70 inches. Of this amount, 12.46 inches were received during the period of July 4 through July 17. Water stood on all plots for five days during a period of heavy rainfall in July.

All plots were fertilized at planting time with 175 pounds of 16-20-0 per acre. The fertilizer was applied as a side-dressing about four inches to the side and four inches below the seed. An additional application of 120 pounds of nitrogen per acre from Uran was side-dressed on all plots, July 28.

Agronomic data on plant characteristics and performance were taken for all strains and varieties. Most of the strains and varieties were segregating for various plant characteristics. Each strain and variety was rated with regard to seedling vigor, bloom date, disease injury, plant height, lodging, date of maturity, and yielding ability. Seedling vigor varied from very poor to very good, and bloom date ranged from July 14 to September 10. Disease injury among the various types varied from less than five percent to 100 percent. Plant height ranged from 12 to 84 inches. Some types matured in 75 days while others never did mature.

There was considerable variation among the different types of sesame with respect to genetic characteristics, such as number of pods per leaf axil, number of carpels or cells per pod, length of pods, color of seed, and number of branches per plant.

Individual plants were selected within all desirable strains and varieties at maturity. Each selected plant was tagged, cut by hand at physiologic maturity, and put in a paper bag. The individual plant selections were dried in the laboratory and threshed by hand. The seed were cleaned by hand with laboratory screens. Seed from each plant were put in a seed envelope.

Three hundred and forty plants were selected from the breeding material in the nursery. These plants will be used in the breeding program in 1961. Hand pollinations will be made between plants that possess desirable characteristics.

Indehiscent types with paper-shell pods will be crossed to dehiscent selections which possess desirable agronomic characteristics. The immediate objective of the crossing and selection program is to develop high yielding, indehiscent varieties which can be harvested directly from the stand.

The sesame breeding program is a part of the Foundation's continued efforts to develop improved crop varieties for the High Plains.

HD Agent Gives Cleaning Tips

"Are you still using the same house cleaning practices on the new finishes and coverings for floors, walls, upholstery and furniture?" asks Miss Ettie Musil, County Home Demonstration Agent.

"If so, chances are you are doing it the hard way."

New improved equipment and practices were discussed and demonstrated by Miss Musil during a training of home demonstration club leaders, Friday afternoon, March 24 in the Friona State Bank Community Room. These volunteer leaders will present the same demonstration "Cleaning Carpets, Floors, and Furniture" in each of their respective clubs in April.

Information stressed included how to choose rugs and carpets to cut down on cleaning and upkeep, kinds of dirt, equipment needed in cleaning carpets, and how to shampoo or dry clean carpets.

For floor care there is a new electric floor washer and dryer that will discharge a certain amount of clean water or detergent solution on the floor. The brush then loosens the dirt and the dirty water is drawn into a separate compartment. This washer-dryer leaves the floor clean and dry. The washer-dryer was not demonstrated at the training, although a liquid wax applicator was.

In this dry climate of Parmer County, Miss Musil recommended lightly oiling the furniture with lemon oil about twice each year.

Much detailed information is available in mimeographed pages that included cleaning rattan furniture, upholstery, and foam rubber cushioned upholstered furniture. Certain cleaning agents will harm the foam rubber cushions. Do not use vinegar, turpentine, acetone, chlorine, hydrogen peroxide, oxalic acid, and sodium perborate. Be careful not to spill these cleaners on the cushions.

Efficiency of production is what counts. Let me suggest we start thinking in terms of the cost of producing a bushel of wheat, bale of cotton, or one hundred pounds of grain sorghum. Per acre cost of production means little when yields range from 3000 pounds to 8000 pounds of grain sorghum with the same ratio holding true on all other crops we produce.

To date, soil test reports on about 400 samples have been received in my office. This indicates to me that some are looking for the most efficient fertilizer program. The next step is to check out efficiency of the soil analysis recommendation as compared to your fertilizer program of the past. It is rather easy to compare the fertilizer cost in each unit of production fertilized by the two different programs. To do this you must grow the crops side by side under the same conditions, except fertilizer, and harvest, weigh, and apply the cost figures to them.

This is rather easy to do if you plan it ahead of time and are interested in knowing the truth about the comparative cost. Keep in mind it is the cost of producing a unit of any commodity that counts and not the per acre cost. Fertilizer is only a part of the production cost, but is one cost that can be checked rather easily and is one of the big costs.

I am in the process of setting up demonstrations with several farmers who will keep records, but need more good demonstrators to help check out the efficiency of production based on the soil test. I would also like to have two or three farmers who would grow variety demonstrations with grain sorghum. These would be the same type demonstrations that Melvin Sachs, Bob Riethmayer, and Jack Tomlin had last year. I can furnish 50¢ each of up to 15 or more hybrids for these demonstrational plots. Eight one-half mile rows of each variety would be plenty to check the yields. These varieties would have to be harvested and weighed separately to get accurate records.

Moisture at present is adequate for just about anything, but you had better keep in mind how much water wheat will use and make plans to provide plenty. Don't forget to fill that soil profile to capacity on your cotton land. Keep in mind this should be done early enough for soil temperature to build up as much as possible before planting.

Watering just prior to planting cools the soil off and it does not have time to warm up again before planting. Better take into consideration the quality of your seed before placing them in a cold soil.

Germination alone is not the answer, you also, need to know how vigorous the seed is under cold condition. Where possible get the cold germination report. This report will show the per cent germination at 68% temperature compared to 86%.

Due to lack of germinating facilities, to run the cold germination this may not be possible, but this is what we should and will give more consideration to in the future. With severe conditions you need more seed and the best seed available of the variety you are using.

Greenbug infestations are becoming more numerous over the county and may justify control measures in some instances. To make infestation counts measure off one foot of row and count the number of Greenbugs. This same procedure should be duplicated about 5 places over the field. Control measures should be carried out when the count runs 100 per linear foot at anytime before boot stage. In case of very young wheat or spring seeded wheat populations of 50 or even less per linear foot might justify control. Parathion or methyl parathion either should do the job, if the temperature is 50 degrees or above. Parathion is dangerous to apply and should be put on by airplane.

While oversimplification can lead to misunderstanding, the ability to simplify is apparently reserved to the great minds who refuse to be sidetracked by the complexities and conflicts of adjacent ideas.--Odessa American

DEAR VOTERS:

Will Wilson is and always has been a Democrat. His outstanding records as district attorney of Dallas County, Judge on Texas' Supreme Court, and Attorney General show what this man can do as senator.

He won the Tidelands case for Texas which secured for Texas two million acres of submerged land and millions of dollars in revenue for Texas schools. He has consistently fought to rid our state of loan sharks, quack doctors, syndicated gambling and anti-trust violators.

Will Wilson believes that farmers, just as oilmen, deserve a water depletion allowance. He has publicly stated that he will support new sugar beet acreages which would make a more balanced economy for Parmer County. He is a firm supporter of state's rights and is for less federal interference.

Will Wilson showed his interest in Parmer County by visiting here several times and meeting and talking with many of you. Have other candidates taken the trouble? Let Parmer County pick a winner. Will Wilson is a winner for Texas. Elect Will Wilson United States Senator.

Sincerely,

PARMER COUNTY SUPPORTERS OF WILL WILSON FOR SENATOR
