Veterans' News

Since my discharge from armed services, I find that I am suffering from a chronic condition. Am I entitled to anything in the way of compensation or pension because of my disability?

Chronic disease causing per cent or more disability within one year from separation from active military service is presumed to have been incurred in, or aggravated by, military service. Your service must have been for a period of 90 days or more, part of which was during war time service. However, a finding of service connection may be rebutted by evidence showing previous existence of disease or of a new ailment which affects the chronic disability.

I was wounded in action during World War I and have a service-connected disability. Can the Veterans Administration change my rating from service-connected 20 per cent to service-connected total disability at age 65?

A World War I veteran having compensation for total disability due to disease or injury incurred in service is rated permanently and totally disabled for pension purposes, is awarded the great monetary benefit, if his disability is otherwise appropriate. The service-connected disability subsequently becomes more disabling and represents an additional benefit, the benefits can be made on that basis.

I have two dependent children. I am a World War I veteran and would like to know if I can get a nonservice-connected pension?

If you believe you are permanently and totally disabled, you should communicate with the Veterans Administration regional office having jurisdiction over your address and apply to that office VA form 105, together with evidence of your condition.

My son was killed in World War II. He had designated his two sisters as beneficiaries of his G. I. insurance. One of the sisters passed away recently and I would like to know if I have any right to her insurance benefits?

If his sisters were jointly named beneficiaries or if one sister was specifically designated contingent beneficiary of the other, then upon the death of one sister the other would get the share of one who died. However, if designation was not joint and each sister was not designated contingent beneficiary of the other, then upon the death of one of the sisters the remaining installments would be according to law, National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, and you may have the rights.

Assembly Program At School Wednesday Given by Third Grade

The assembly program which was given on Wednesday morning in the auditorium at the high school, was put on by the members of the third grade under the direction of Mrs. Lillie Shelton, their teacher.

A very clever playette entitled, "End of the Rainbow", was presented by the pupils and each one taking part in the playette did well. The playette was well presented by the pupils, and the costumes they wore were beautiful, together with the lighting effect on the stage, made it a very impressive entertainment, which was not only enjoyed by the student body in attendance but also by a few parents and others that were visitors at the program.

Portraying characters in the playette were: "The Old Man of the Woods," "Three Brownies," "Owl," "Northwind," "Southwind," "Eastwind," "Westwind," and "The Rainbow Fairies."

The class also sang a song, "Over the Rainbow," and a piano solo, "Plantation Party," was given by Nancy Jean Mitchell.

Local Legion Post To Discuss Building Program at Meeting

Important discussion and final decisions concerning the American Legion's projected building program will take place at the Post's regular meeting in the Scout House Thursday night, February 13th.

Post Commander Bob Kerr today urged all members to be present at this meeting if possible, because absence from this meeting will mean loss of a vote in the final decision on building plans.

At present, two committees are working on preliminary groundwork, and at the Thursday meeting will present to the post several different alternatives to be voted upon. If a quorum is present, these recommendations, if carried in the voting, will become law and will be carried out by the Post.

Working on plans for various types of buildings is a committee composed of Tip Frazier, chairman, Jack Hayre, and Jolly Harkins. These men will present to the Post several alternate plans for building types and the membership will vote on these plans. Building type receiving the largest number of votes will be adopted by the Post as its choice.

With R. E. Corder as its chairman, another committee is investigating several different building sites, including the property owned by the Legion on the east end of town. Investigation will reveal cost, size, location and availability of various sites. These sites will then be submitted to the membership for their vote, and the site receiving most votes will be accepted as the future home of the American Legion Hall. J. O. Mitchell and W. G. Downie are serving on the site committee with Corder.

At its regular monthly meeting last night, the executive committee of the local post emphasized the fact that in the Thursday night voting the majority will rule, and the members of the Post will be obliged to abide by the decisions of the majority of those members present. All members are urged to be in attendance.

Marshall Cooke, chairman of the food committee of the local American Legion Post, announced late Thursday night that coffee and barbecue will be served to the members at the next regular meeting which will be on Thursday night, February 13.

Nation Will Honor Thomas A. Edison On 100th Birthday

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Thomas Edison, the inventive genius who never did like pomp and ceremony, would probably be surprised at the extent of the observance that will take place on the occasion of his 100th birthday anniversary on February 11, 1947.

Edison has been dead since 1931, and in the years since then Americans have become more appreciative of the benefits that have resulted from the manifold achievements of the "Wizard of Menlo Park". Many who knew Edison as the inventor of the incandescent lamp, the phonograph, the motion picture and hundreds of other products, became more keenly aware of Edison's creative work in recent years. They learned that radio, television and even radar were traceable to his discovery of the so-called "Edison Effect," which launched the science of electronics.

Many of his old friends, as well as public-spirited citizens, have formed the Thomas A. Edison Centennial Committee to pay a proper tribute to his memory during February—a proper tribute even though most of them recalled that the "Old Man," as he was affectionately known, preferred to work rather than be honored. They remember one time a delegation of French scientists called on Edison to present him a medal. Hard at work in his laboratory, Edison at first refused even to greet them. Finally, with the Frenchmen persisting, he dropped his work and met them to receive the medal—in his working clothes and with grease lined face.

One observance of the birth date will be a traditional affair. For 29 years a group has gathered at lunch on February 11 to honor Edison. This is the Edison Pioneers, composed of former employees and business associates, and their descendants. Organized in 1918, the Edison Pioneers have honored Edison's birthday every year since, with the man to whom they were devoted attending as guest of honor as long as he lived. While the organization still has more than 300 members, only one of the 24 men who founded the group is still alive. He is Edwin J. Hammer, of South Orange, New Jersey, now 79.

A banquet in New York City on the night of the birthday will focus attention on the widespread industrial and scientific interests influenced by the work of Edison. Sponsored by New York section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the affair is expected to attract representatives of 46 professional societies. It is a rare event which could call together so many professional groups in common purpose.

Fort Myers, Florida, the winter home of the late inventor, will have a week-long observance which has been titled "Edison Pageant of Light," starting Saturday, February 8, and terminating with an Edison Memorial Service in Rariton Township, Middlesex County, New Jersey, civic clubs and schools will participate in a two-day observance. Menlo Park, where he invented the electric light, is in Rariton Township.

Schools all over the country are being asked to devote some time to a tribute to Edison. More than 10,000 science clubs in secondary schools have been invited to participate by making workable replicas of five of Edison's inventions, including the phonograph. Students of the Cleveland, Ohio, schools will participate in an essay contest on Edison's achievements, the winners receiving a trip to Fort Myers, Florida, for the Edison observance.

In many cities throughout the nation, civic and patriotic groups will observe Edison day with special ceremonies.

Lem's Dogs vs Thad's Chickens

Running a newspaper, you get to know a lot about human nature.

Thad Phipps was in the other day, all burned up. Wanted me to run an item on how Lem Martin's dog had raided his chickens again, and ought to be put away by law.

I told him: "Lem was in on Saturday. Said you shouldn't be allowed to keep those chickens so close to his house—and in a residential zone, at that."

Thad shuts up right pronto then. And that very evening I see him making his peace with Lem at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern—over a friendly glass of beer.

From where I sit, anyone can find something in his neighbor to complain about. (Some folks may even disagree with Thad's right to enjoy that glass of beer with Lem!) But where would we be if everybody tried to have a law passed against everything they disagreed with? We wouldn't have many neighbors left!

Besides the incandescent lamp, phonograph, motion pictures and his other better-known inventions, Edison was also the discoverer of the so-called "Edison Effect," which launched the science of electronics and ultimately gave the world radio, television and even radar. Every day in countless ways every family benefits from the genius of this great American. To him the entire world owes a debt of gratitude it can never repay.

Smart Lines Characterize New Chevrolet

Re-styled for the new year, with emphasis on a more massive front end and a smoother sweep to body contours, the new Chevrolet will soon make its debut. New front-end grille and complementing bright work, as well as elimination of the body belt molding, have done much to give the new model an air of greater luxuriousness.

HEALTH NOTES—

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 6. Mental disorders today represent a real problem and it is estimated that more than fifty per cent of all hospital beds are filled by persons suffering from mental or nervous diseases, declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

It thus appears that modern civilization is exacting a terrific toll. High speed living, with its cruel exactions upon nature, is responsible for a large part of the trouble. But improper personal conduct must also shoulder much of the blame. The fact that nearly fifty per cent of the patients entering hospitals for mental disorders are there because of organic or toxic causes.

For example, general paralysis is the direct cause of one-fifth of the mental troubles in males entering hospitals and one-tenth of the disorder for all groups. This condition is an organic disease of the brain due to the germ responsible for syphilis. It is a preventable disease. Early and effective treatment of acquired syphilis will block the end results of general paralysis in the future.

The excessive use of alcohol is responsible for a number of mental disorders, at least in males. Alcohol and syphilis combined are responsible for approximately one-fifth of the hospitalized insanities. Nevertheless, improper living habits continue to impair many brains. Insufficient sleep, neglect of bodily care and an over forcing of nervous energy are the pitfalls to avoid in this connection.

Nature demands that her fundamental law be at least reasonably observed. A constant outraging of the physiological economy takes its toll not only in bodies but in minds also. Insanities and lesser nervous disorders could be spectacularly reduced if this fact was more generally respected. Training for mental health must be started in childhood as that is the time when corrections can be made to the best advantage.
