EAGLES BOW TO POWER OF SHORTHORNS 12-7

Last Thursday afternoon, when the Eagles visited the Marfa Shorthorns for their second grid fray of the season, the drive and power of the Marfa team stopped the Eagles' offensive cold and hammered the line again and again to beat the Eagles 12-7. The first game between these two teams, which was played in Sanderson, ended in a scoreless tie.

Marfa used their ample reserves throughout the game and kept an impenetrable forward wall in front of the light Eagle squad. The repeated charge of the Shorthorns literally tore the Eagle line to shreds, according to M. B. England, Eagle mentor. Sanderson made three first downs to Marfa's 12. Sanderson gained 112 yards on their offensive and Marfa made 250.

The Eagle touchdown was won in the second quarter on a pass from Russell to Thompson, who in turn, kicked the extra point. Sanderson was unable to hold their lead for long. In the third quarter Marfa crossed the goal line twice but was unable to convert the extra point after each of the touchdowns.

Tonight at 8:00 Sanderson will play San Felipe School in Del Rio. This is not a conference tilt and will have no bearing in the district standing. Sanderson will meet the Fabens Wildcats for the district title in Sanderson, November 21, at 8:00 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Harris returned home from Woodward, Oklahoma, Monday morning. They were called to that city last week on account of the illness of Mr. Harris' mother who died the day after their arrival.

ably on American carelessness, ignorance and plain inertia.

Because of selfishness, if for no other motive, it is every American's duty to help prevent fires. It is purely a matter of self-defense. Fire threatens everyone. Fire devours jobs and homes and savings. And fire's most effective allies are the tens of millions of otherwise good citizens who do nothing about making their property safe.

World wars are started over the killing of one or a few individuals, but domestically, we condone the killing of countless thousands by fire.

The Ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary are doing a commendable project in assembling a treasure chest of gifts to be sent to the disabled veterans at Wm. Beaumont Hospital in El Paso. The gifts are given to the veterans so that they may send them to their loved ones at Christmas time. If something like that isn't done the boys will have to let Christmas pass without the opportunity of sending any remembrance to their mothers, wives, parents or children. Let's all give freely to this wonderful project.

These shoots have been held annually for the past five years and the response in the past has shown quite an interest. Riflemen from Fort Stockton and other points nearby have been attending and participating in the sport.

"If you shoot well," says Ray Turner, president of the Fire Department, "you will take a turkey or chicken home."

Feeding Test For West Texas To Start November 17

The Madera Valley Experiment Station at Balmorhea will carry approximately 210 head of stock through a winter feeding program this year, according to word received this week from J. J. Bales, head of the station.

Notification has gone out to the approximately 20 ranchmen to ship the stock to arrive not later than November 15 with the weighing and grading scheduled to start November 17. The number of animals to be carried through the winter feeding program has been upped from 175 head to the 210 or more now on schedule.

The basic ration will be hegarri ground alfalfa, cottonseed and bone meal. These basics will be altered with different pens. No two pens are to receive the same rations. Through the feeding program, the stock will be weighed each day for 28 days and a careful check of gains tabulated for the report that will be given the breeders at the end of the experiment next April 1.

This week R. V. Turnbough, animal husbandman at the station, is gathering detailed information from the herds from which the animals come. He is seeking special information on eye pigmentation in the feeding pens. This check is being made in an effort to determine if eye cancer is more prevalent among cattle with little pigmentation in the almost hairless skin surrounding the eyes.

G. W. Barnes, animal husbandman of College Station, J. H. Jones, animal husbandman for all experiment stations in Texas; Dr. R. E. Patterson, assistant director of experiment stations and Dr. J. C. Miller, animal husbandman of Texas A&M College are expected to be on hand for part of the week dedicated to preparing the animals for the feeding.

Legion Auxiliary To Send Treasure Chest To Hospital Dec. 15

The members of the American Legion Auxiliary are making gifts to be sent to the William Beaumont Hospital in El Paso. All of the gifts are put into a treasure chest and, from the chest, invalid patients select gifts to send to their wives, sons, daughters and parents for Christmas.

Many patients in the hospital have no income and would be unable to remember their loved ones at Christmas with gifts if the gifts were not made available for them through the efforts of the auxiliary. It is not necessary that the gifts be home made and there is a greater need for gifts for men, especially socks, cards and cigarettes, which have to be bought.

The local auxiliary will send their gifts to the Treasure Chest December 15. Anyone desiring to have a part in this worthy project is asked to please bring their gifts to Mrs. Richard Hally.

Stolen Car Recovered Here Sat.

Five men and one woman were apprehended and arrested on Highway 90 about ten miles east of Sanderson Saturday evening by Sheriff Jim Nance and Deputy Sheriff B. F. "Andy" Anderson.

The arrest followed a report that a radio and some clothes had been taken from the Fisher ranch near Langtry, and that the car bearing the suspected burglars was headed west on Highway 90.

Nick Verashos, of Houston, admitted to officers that he burglarized the ranch and took the property which was recovered at the time of the arrest. Verashos was turned over to Sheriff Steinmetz, of Del Rio, where he will be held pending the filing of charges for the robbery.

Roy Ladd, Joseph Redmond, Richard Neal and Henry O'Donnell, who gave their home as Philadelphia, are being held in the Terrell County jail for federal authorities to be charged under the Dyer Act for having transported a stolen automobile, a 1947 Plymouth sedan, from Philadelphia, Nance said.

The woman, who was identified as Evelyn Monacello, of Baton Rouge, La., was released Sunday without any charges since she was not implicated in the robbery or the car theft.

NEW GROCERY AND MARKET TO OPEN HERE SATURDAY

Chester Smith, a resident of Terrell County for 33 years, and formerly in the grocery business here and at Dryden, will open his doors for business here Saturday. Mr. Smith recently sold his store in Dryden to J. W. Condra and procured the building here that was formerly used to house the Baker Style Shop where he has installed fixtures and stock for an up-to-date grocery and market.

In making the announcement of his opening to this paper Mr. Smith said: "It will be my policy to give the people of this area the best possible service and merchandise at the lowest possible price." "But," he added, "good quality merchandise will be carried in stock."

Mr. Smith stated that beginning next week a ten dollar basket of groceries will be given away each week until after Christmas.

STEN TO LUKE

Justice Day has come and again. We saw very little of celebration in Sanderson. The observance of that day should not necessarily be set programs and parades should give way to some thinking about a way to other wars. The preparatory program of the nation should be uppermost in our minds on that day.

When it comes to all of us an attempt to do something about something so unpleasant to the notice repeatedly where in West Texas columnist to suppress an urge to some large obstacle on the tracks or at least get the trains whistling as they enter his town. He now insists since there is a new there it is altogether fitting for these old-time ends to make any noise as we approach. We can, to a degree, understand his position. We are not in sympathy with him, however, for we lived so far from a railroad we would have welcomed and of a locomotive whistling there is no sweeter sound to us than that produced by an old-timer who has a dissonant individual way of whistling say to his friends that he is safe.

On the other hand we have to dispense with what is equally as unnecessary. A news story in a paper states that a fact-gatherer there for the manufacture of bubble gum. Now if we are to apply our urge to do things we would visit with a truck load of exes and plant them very close to the aforementioned. Certainly we will support that urge if possible. It may be other annoying come our way where we are tempted to do something. Often we feel the urge to in the door of the office with a baseball bat drawn to the arrival of some of the weak bicycle riders. We know how long we will be to suppress that urge. We are funny — we may let the other fellow go — he's going that way or we like it or not. There are those who don't like some of us do so we will just try patient and forbearing in the other fellow does.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

An informative article in the United States News of October 24 observes that, "Billions of dollars, owned by foreigners, are hiding in the United States and in other havens of safety...The idea is developing that, if U. S. taxpayers are to put up money to save Europe, citizens of European countries could make more of a contribution themselves. The result is that officials both here and abroad are searching for ways and means to chase privately owned funds out of hiding."

upon. Europe's holdings of foreign dollar balances in the U. S. is about $9,000,000,000.

The distribution of the money is of interest. It is estimated that if individual foreign assets were to be seized by the governments involved, something like $2,500,000,000 in securities and $1,000,000,000 in cash could be raised. Another source of potential money is the Alien Property Custodian, who now has control of property worth about $500,000,000 which is held in the name of governments with which we were at war. There would be legal obstacles to overcome in making these resources available, but the job probably could be done, at least in part. A more difficult problem would be to ferret out hidden wealth — assets which are held in cash and whose whereabouts is unknown. The News refers to one suggestion that has been made for accomplishing this. All present U. S. currency would be declared invalid as of a given date, and new currency would be issued to replace it. Holders of our money, here and abroad, would have to make exchange or take the loss. Inasmuch as the amount of actual U. S. currency in foreign hands is estimated at $2,000,000,000, the harvest would be great.

The amount of dollar resources officially known to be held by European countries which would share in aid under the Marshall Plan varies greatly. French citizens own some $500,000,000 in American investments. Great Britain's dollar assets were reported at $1,000,000,000 some time ago, but probably have declined sharply since then. The Dutch have more than a billion counting known assets of all kinds. Belgium is in a similar position. On the other hand, Italy and Greece are dead broke or practically so.

The foregoing is simply one more example of the complexity of the whole European relief situation. A cardinal point in the Marshall Plan as originally proposed by the Secretary of State in his address at Harvard is that Europe must help herself with all the resources she is able to assemble. The tempo of Congress at present is such that appropriations will be scrutinized with exacting and critical eyes. Senator Taft, who will have more to say about the finished legislation than any other individual, has announced that he has some very definite views on the scope and type of relief to be given Europe and the stipulations that will go along with it. And President Truman has indicated that he is opposed to any blank-check policy, and wants to accomplish the job at the lowest cost possible to the American taxpayers.

Many members of Congress believe that Europe has often made improper use of relief funds and supplies in the past, and they are determined that regulations be laid down that will assure a better job of it in the future. They will probably insist that the countries to be aided stop arguing among themselves in spirit of economic cooperation.

This attitude isn't inspired by the dollar cost of helping Europe. It is becoming evident that the drain on our material resources for European relief is a very serious one. To put it bluntly, it is very doubtful if we can feed the world indefinitely.

The United Nations is a young organization. It was formed about two years ago and now comprises 55 nations. During the past year, it is said, the different divisions have held a total of 1,911 meetings. The chief avowed purposes are to bring peace to the world and to prevent starvation as an aftermath of war. Great sums of money have been used to provide food for peoples that are considered destitute.

At first it was thought that 1946 would be the critical year and every effort was made to get people through that year. Now, we are approaching the winter of 1947. Some reports say there will be more hunger this winter than last. From various countries in Europe the reports show no improvement. These countries are not getting to their feet so they can stand up and solve their own problems. And they are not sure what attitude they should take toward the United Nations. We are also much nearer to another war than we were two years ago, or even one year ago. Naturally, then, people have a right to ask why the efforts of the United Nations do not meet with greater success. It would seem there is enough power and strength in 55 nations to help this muddled world get somewhere. And surely enough money has been spent to help those hungry nations to begin to feed themselves.

The answer is not hard to find. The United Nations has not demonstrated real unity of purpose. Even the leaders among the 55 nations have worked at cross purposes. Each nation has been intent upon achieving certain objectives of its own. This is as true of the "Big Four" as it is of the smaller nations. Therefore, despite the 1,911 meetings and the hundreds of millions of dollars spent, the situation has grown worse rather than better. It is my hope that in some way the United Nations may find unity of purpose and intention.

We just haven't enough grain or anything else. In addition, practically every authority feels that European purchases in a tight market are partly responsible for ever higher commodity prices at home. The European problem, as a consequence, lies in with other problems, and can't be considered separately.

The special session should be lively. Mr. Truman will offer his program, and the Republicans have announced that they will have a program of their own in the event that the President's is not satisfactory to them. Mr. Truman will attempt to confine the debate to high prices and European aid, but there is a doubt that he will succeed. It is very likely that the question of tax reduction will be raised once more, and other unsettled issues may be brought into the spotlight. Congress has a lot on its mind that it wants to air.

With Our Neighbors . . .

The recent carnival put on by the P-TA of Bracketville netted about $740 for that organization. If plans formulated at a C of C meeting in Alpine last week materialize, that city will be dressed up for the holidays as never before. The plans include a huge decorated Christmas tree. Government trappers in Presidio County killed 76 predatory animals during October.

Twenty-five trappers at work in the Trans-Pecos area have reported the death of 509 coyotes and bobcats during October. Upon learning that the "Freedom Train" of food for Europe

The most I can get out of this present situation is an important lesson for our own country. What is the application? In America we have found a good measure of unity historically speaking. Though we are made up of states and other kinds of groups we have shown appreciation for the same fundamentals of democratic living.

What is true of the United Nations as a whole is true of nations individually. If we are going to continue to be a prosperous and healthy republic, we too must have unity of purpose. Workers, managers, industrialists, farmers, educators — we must all keep our purposes controlled in the direction of full unity. If one group wants to destroy the capitalist, and another wants to destroy labor unions, these are at cross purposes.

If one group wants to eliminate private ownership of property, and another group wants to preserve Constitutional government — these also are working at cross purposes. If we have everybody working at cross purposes, then conditions in our country will grow worse rather than better. It is imperative that the entire nation be united on fundamentals. It is necessary that all groups work for certain goals.

Right now, I would like to suggest three goals we can all achieve together. First, economy in government spending so rigid the public can see that money is being saved. Second, a program of maximum production that can attract the enthusiasm of capital, management, labor, agriculture. Third, a re-education of all our groups to preserve individual freedom for the entire nation. With this kind of rigid unity, now, in 1947, no one need fear the future prosperity and well-being of our nation.

Late in November a bond issue of $375,000 will be presented to the voters of Fort Stockton Independent School District. More classrooms for the elementary schools and a gymnasium and cafeteria are included in the plans. Overcrowding in all departments ments of the Sunday School has been the impetus for a building campaign of $15,000 to be launched by the First Baptist Church of Eldorado for a new building of 19 class rooms and assembly rooms. A Uvalde baby, Henrietta Flores, has gotten national attention when her weight was recorded as only two pounds and seven ounces. She is one of the tiniest babies born in that hospital to ever survive. Her chances for survival are good since she is getting stronger and gaining weight daily.

Prissy's Got a Man! (Maybe)

Yesterday Sis Martin, our librarian, found an article cut from their file copy of the Clarion. When she compared it with another copy that I gave her she found it was my column on "How to Keep a Husband Happy."

Nothing unusual about that. Except the last person seen reading the paper was Prissy Hoskins (our town's proverbial Old Maid)!

Well, if Prissy has finally got a man, more power to her. And more tolerance to both of them . . . because that's what my column was about: Tolerance of a husband's taste for old hats, old pipes, old friends, and mellow beer. And tolerance on the husband's part of a wife's tastes and habits.

From where I sit, nobody begrudges Prissy taking that clipping from the Clarion. But I'd like to hint that if she'd just subscribe, she'd get my thoughts on tolerance firsthand. And in return I'll treat her to a glass of beer.

Canned Berries Need Little or No Sugar

Many of the berry family will go into jars without sugar at all and keep perfectly for later use. If you want to be famous for delicious blueberry or huckleberry muffins, canning without sugar is preferred. To can blueberries or huckleberries for use in muffins, place two or three quarts of cleaned berries in a square of cheesecloth. Gather up the corners of the cloth and allow the berries to dip into boiling water until spots appear on the cloth. Then dip quickly in and out of cold water. Pack into hot Ball jars. Add neither sugar nor liquid.

Process 20 minutes in hot water bath. Other berries, except strawberries and red raspberries should be heated slowly until the juice runs free before being placed in jars for processing. If sugar is short in your household, can any berries by processing 10 minutes in hot water bath after cleaning, crushing, and stewing them in their own juice. If you have sugar, jams will, of course, use less of your supply than preserves. When you are using corn sirup as part of the sugar required, remember to cook the jam a little longer, in small batches, and stir often.

Lighting Tips
For the Longer Evenings Ahead

Keep bulbs, bowls and enclosing globes clean. You'd be surprised how much dust and dirt hold back light from your portable lamps and fixtures. Just by washing bulbs, bowls and enclosing globes you can get up to 30% more useable light. (Disconnect portable lamps before washing and be sure bulbs and bowls are dry before re-assembly.)

Brush or clean lamp shades regularly. If lamp shades are dirty or turning yellow inside, you may be losing as much as 50% of the light you're paying for. Clean or brush lamp shades regularly. If they are too dark or discolored, replace them or replace them with fresh new shades with white or very light linings.

Fill empty sockets and replace blackened bulbs. Bulbs that have turned black with age rob you of light. Replace them with bright new bulbs of the right size and you'll get a lot more light at little or no increase in cost. Fill empty sockets, too. They're one reason breeders.

Keep an Ample Supply of Spare Bulbs on Hand!

We warn you... you're going to be kissed!

HOW TO HUNT WITH SAFETY

It's fall again. The gridirons are back in their glory, resounding to college yells. The woods of America will soon be filled with hunters, and the game wardens, landowners and farmers are going to have their hands full because, unless Americans have changed, animals, barns, chicken coops, automobiles, and even human beings are going to get shot at.

Approximately 12-million guys throughout this broad land are oiling their guns and the state authorities know what is coming. While the vast majority of hunters will come out of the woods and fields with their legitimate bag, it will be the small minority that catches the newspaper headlines from coast to coast. Past experience has proved that roughly 1,000 people will meet death by gunfire during the months of October, November and December—the hunting months. True, only about one-third of the number will take place in the field where someone mistakes his buddy for a deer or pulls some similar slap-happy stunt. The others will be accounted for by faulty gun handling in homes and cars.

In 1945, the last year that statistics on accidental deaths by firearms are available, there were 2,454 deaths caused by guns. The average per month was 205. However, take away the hunting months and the average drops to 165. In October, November and December, 980 people or 40 per cent of the year's total met death by firearms. From these figures it's easy to see some of the mayhem that carelessness, ignorance and selfishness caused in the woods.

Here they are. Follow them and "Hunt With Safety."

1. Always point the gun muzzle in a SAFE direction.
2. Ask yourself: Is that gun loaded?
3. Be SURE of your target.
4. Be sure of your ammunition.
5. Gunpowder and whiskey will not mix.

PAT M. NEFF RESIGNS POST AS BAYLOR PREXY

Silver-haired, fluent tongued Pat Neff—the personification of Baylor University—resigned Saturday, November 8, 1947.

In a letter to George H. Belew, secretary of the Board of Trustees, the president wrote, "In keeping with my thoughts and plans, at all times, during the passing year, I hereby file with you as Secretary of the Board of Trustees my resignation as president of the institution effective midnight, December 31, 1947."

To others he remarked simply, "I'm stepping out of the traces." Texas born, farm bred, the words came naturally.

President Neff pulled Baylor University through the depression of the 1930's, retired its big indebtedness, and was responsible for the vast expansion of the physical plant of the Waco unit. The net worth of Baylor University in 1932 was nearly 4 million dollars; its net worth upon President Neff's resignation was well over 9 million.

In addition to more than doubling the campus area, President Neff's administration witnessed the erection of Rena Marrs McClean gymnasium; Alexander Hall, the freshman dormitory for girls; the Baylor Little Theatre; near completion of the Union building; Kokernot hall, men's dormitory; Pat Neff Hall, administration building; and five new buildings on the Harrington Park site.

The enrollment during his administration jumped from 1125 to 4500.

Pat Neff is a graduate of Baylor. During his college days, the late Samuel Palmer Brooks was his roommate, Senator Tom Connally was a debate opponent. He and "talking Tom" later attended Texas University Law School together. No one who has heard "Governor" Neff introduce Senator Connally will forget the lines, "We have walked down the trail of the friendly years together."

After law school, Neff went to the Texas Legislature where he served as the youngest Speaker of the House of Representatives up to that time. Later as a fighting district attorney in McLennan County (422 cases in six years with 406 convictions), Neff built the formidable legal reputation which was the springboard into the Governor's Mansion.

His two terms as governor in the 1920's were notable for prison reform, advancement in educational standards, and the development of a state park system. Mother Neff Park was the first park in that system.

President Neff is a member of the First Baptist Church of Waco. He served as moderator of the Waco Association for many years. He has been president of the Texas Baptist Convention; was president of the Southern Baptist Convention from 1942-1946. He was president of the board of trustees of Baylor University for 29 years before he accepted the presidency of the institution in 1932.

Baylor, Howard-Payne College, Austin College, and Georgetown University have conferred upon him the honorary degree of doctor of laws, and Southern University of Florida the degree of doctor of literature.

Neff won the governorship in his first race against Senator Joe Bailey in one of the most memorable political races in Texas annals.

Neff has reached the highest offices within the gift of two Texas fraternal orders. He recently served as grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Texas and was grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Texas, 1918-19. He is a member of the Waco Rotary Club.

He is the author of three books "Twenty-three Addresses," "Battles of Peace," and "Making Texans." The thought and theme of his articles and addresses is "Let's make Texas the best place in all the world in which to live."

To one who recently witnessed him sprint to the "mike" to address a football pep rally it seemed inconceivable that his years in public service were 50—half a century.
