Pre-planning a part of any meal is a wise precaution when you're busy. Banana Cream Torte is an interesting dessert and can be prepared the day before to save time at the regular meal-hour rush. Combine 2 1/2 graham crackers (2 cups) rolled fine with 1/2 cup softened butter or margarine and 2 tsp. sugar. Blend well. Press 1/2 of crumb mixture firmly against sides and bottom of well-buttered pan. For the filling prepare 2 pkgs. prepared vanilla pudding with 1 cup milk following directions on package. Cool and pour into crumb-lined pan. Slice 2 bananas over top of pudding. Beat 3 egg whites stiff but not dry, adding 6 tsp. sugar gradually. Spread meringue over bananas. Sprinkle remaining 1/2 crumb mixture on top. Bake in gas oven (350°) for 20 mins. Chill overnight before removing from pan. Serves 6 to 8.

In most Japanese homes, a small stove under the tub heats water for bathing. In this country, an automatic gas water heater holds the hot water to the necessary 105° for a refreshing hot bath.

When broiling grapefruit halves top them with apricot jam, spiced sugar, or Brazil nuts and brown sugar. Add dots of butter before putting them about three inches under medium flame.

Winter weather doesn't bother the owners of gas laundry dryers. All they have to do is put the wet clothes into the dryer and sit back while the clothes dry to a soft fluffiness.

New flavor for pudding sauce: To basic recipe add 2 tsp. orange juice, 2 tsp. grated orange rind. Beat until smooth. Sprinkle with orange rind just before serving.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Holt left Wednesday for Christoval where Mrs. Holt will take treatments for several weeks. Mrs. George Gann will be in charge of the cafe during their absence.

We have some attractive friendship cards and greeting cards for all occasions at the Sanderson Times. adv.

Winter Complaints Common To Children Also

HESTIN, Dec. 16 — Every mother is familiar with childhood ailments known commonly as "winter complaints", but many fail to realize that the winter season brings its quota of "winter complaints" from which children must be carefully guarded.

Addressing this important subject, Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, says: "Certain diseases are just as prevalent in winter as in summer and just as likely to appear as summer ailments, unless children are safeguarded against them.

In the group of winter health hazards Dr. Cox included influenza, tonsillitis, pneumonia, asthma, bronchitis, and diphtheria when no immunization has been given.

Any such disease affecting a child's respiratory or breathing system is apt to be very serious and in many cases it is fatal. Pneumonia often develops from a neglected cold, or may follow a severe case of measles or whooping cough. Bronchial conditions may also prove to be an after effect of these diseases, and certainly these respiratory illnesses are much more difficult to combat than the digestive disturbances.

"These winter diseases are especially dangerous to babies and very young children," Dr. Cox said. "Nearly all of them are spread from the secretions of the nose and mouth. Children not in good health are naturally more susceptible than those who are stronger, and the first line of defense is to keep the child's resistance built up to the highest possible point; the second is to keep him under competent medical supervision, and the third is to make sure that they avoid contact with persons who have coughs and colds."

THE PRINCE OF PEACE IN A PAGAN WORLD

It is during this season of the year that the minds of millions of people will be on Jesus, the Prince of Peace. Many sincere, serious-minded people probably wonder about the present-day observance of Christmas. Is it from the heart and genuine, or is it merely foolish mockery? Rather than a season of good will and generosity Christmas has become so commercialized and so centered in selfishness and gain that it has degenerated in meaning.

The real test of America's spirit cannot be measured by her outward response to the observance of Christmas. The true test is the extent to which the spirit of Christ is manifested in her words, thoughts and actions. When we evaluate America from this standpoint we wonder just how much influence the Prince of Peace is having in the world today.

Can we truthfully call America a Christian nation—one dedicated to the principles of the Prince of Peace? Not when we consider that 53 per cent of the people in the United States have no religious connection whatsoever. This fact was recently released by our State Department, upon the request of the Russian government. Further, it was found that among the 47 per cent in America who do have a religious affiliation, only one person in every twelve takes an active part in church activities. The record of the United Nations indicates that among the 55 nations who are members only two, the United States and Russia, are classed as pagan nations.

These facts should cause great concern on the part of us all. Why not consider these facts as a personal challenge and resolve today to do your part to make Sanderson, Texas, the United States, and the whole world a welcome abode for the Prince of Peace?

Mrs. M. C. Dye and little son left Thursday for their home in San Antonio after a visit here in the home of her sister, Mrs. O. T. Sudduth. Mrs. Dye's mother Mrs. H. B. Price, of Fort Stockton accompanied them home.

Mrs. Lee Kelly is leaving Friday for Waco to spend the holidays in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joe Landingham.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The Missus "Ducks" Out

Jim Hartman took his missus hunting the other day. And for five hours of sitting in a trap, she'd had enough! Going home, Slim reminded her good-naturedly of the time she'd taken to a woman novelist's lecture, insisted that he sit it out.

Now the missus and Slim have understanding. No more ducking for her—no more lectures from him. They decided each to his taste.

Because they can agree to live like that, I think, that

Slim and the missus get on so well—content to stay home nights together, enjoying one another's company over a glass of beer and a game of chess.

From where I sit, we can't all enjoy the same things—but we can share those little pleasures that we do enjoy—a glass of beer, a game of chess, some music on the radio—and live-and-let-live when it comes to the others.

Economic Highlights

If the judgment of representative business leaders is correct those who anticipate a drop in the cost of living are doomed to disappointment. The outlook now is that some prices — notably foods — will probably decline during the coming year. However, even if this happens, it will be offset by higher prices in other directions, principally in the field of manufactured goods.

A recent statement by Henry Ford II indicates the trend of thinking on the top industrial level. According to him, a fourth-round wage increase "is inevitable." Then he said: "The prices, too, must go up. Prices are high today, maybe too high, but we can't lower them without lowering wage and industrial costs." When asked for his views on price control Mr. Ford said it would not hold prices down and "would wreck the nation — the automobile industry included — and ruin the economy."

The attitude of the principal labor leaders is also indicative of things to come. At the recent CIO convention in Portland, Oregon, Mr. Murray, Mr. Reuther and other high executives in the organization laid most of the emphasis on plans for obtaining repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, and for the framing of legislation which, in their view, would be favorable to labor. At the same time, they made it perfectly clear that they will demand, as a general thing, substantial wage increases. The AF of L is not so aggressive in attitude; but there is little doubt that it will follow a similar policy.

It might be argued, as a theoretical proposition, that higher wages need not constitute any particular problem to the industry — that all it has to do is to raise prices to compensate and carry on in the same old groove. But that argument, in many cases is simply not workable in practice, and for a variety of reasons.

First, there is a group of basic industries which cannot adjust their charges without permission of one or more governmental agencies. These are the regulated industries of which the railroads are the most conspicuous example at present. In spite of the rate increases they have been given by the ICC, their return on investment is only about three per cent. Very heavy demands for wage increases are being made and more may follow. Even if the IC should continue to grant higher rates to compensate for changing conditions, the time factor involved is serious. Wage raises, when granted, go into effect at once and are often retroactive. Higher fares and freight rates are normally granted only after many months of investigation and are not retroactive. Even then, as a general rule, the rate increases are never quite sufficient to offset the wage boosts.

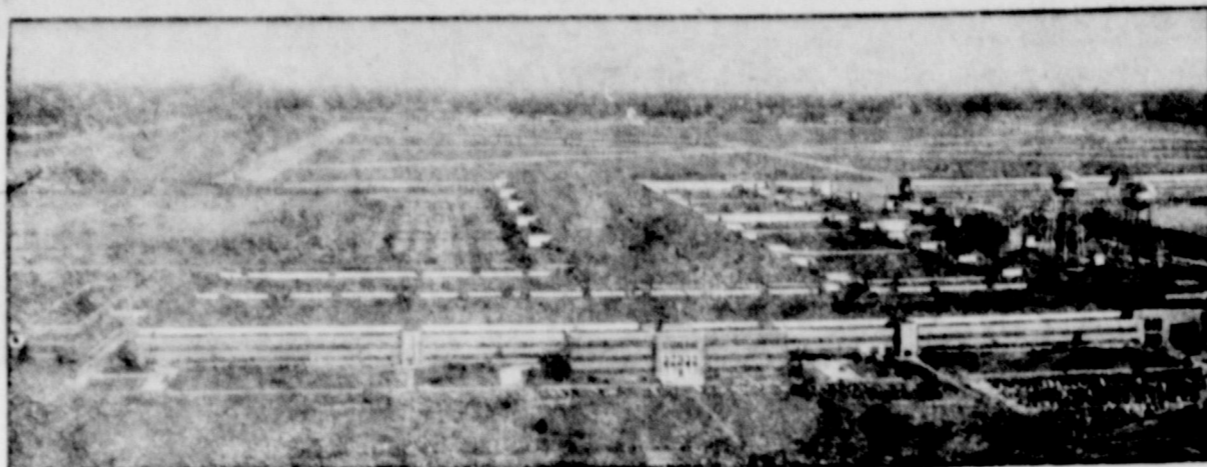

There is another group of industries which must meet foreign competition. Here shipping is the best example. According to the statistics, seamen's pay has risen 207 per cent since 1939. The maritime unions want still higher wages along with other expensive concessions. At the same time, the companies' volume of business and their profits have declined. Foreign lines, which pay far lower wages and can operate more cheaply in all ways are getting more and more tonnage.

Finally, there are any number of industries which are perfectly free to raise prices as high as they like, but which must keep a worried eye on the consumer. In other words, it is one thing to price an article at a given figure but it is a different thing to get people to buy it at that figure. Consumer resistance has become an ominous factor in a number of fields, and is feared in others. On top of that, it is not only the individual buyer that must be considered. The big industrial consumer often dominates the picture. For instance coal is a source of energy which must be sold in competition with other sources of energy, such as oil. If coal prices should get out of line, there would be a gradual shift to other fuels — and then, of course, the employment offered by coal would steadily decline.

Industries serving the demand for luxuries and semi-luxuries — things people can do without if they have to — are especially concerned as the wage problem moves to the front again. Motion pictures are a good illustration of this. Box office receipts in the United States have been drifting downward. There has been a heavy decline in foreign income due to currency restrictions, freezing of funds, and stiff taxes

Kaiser-Frazer's Willow Run Plant

Willow Run, Mich.—This is an aerial view of the giant Willow Run plant of Kaiser-Frazer Corp. Largest single-floor manufacturing plant in the world, the $90,000,000 war-time bomber factory was purchased by K-F from the War Assets Administration. Until the purchase, the auto company occupied the plant under lease from the government, and converted it from bomber production to the fourth largest auto manufacturing plant in the world. K-F has turned out more than 325,000 cars in the factory.

abroad. The top movie minds think that current ticket prices cannot be further raised without a shattering affect on attendance. Efforts to reduce the production costs of the pictures and still keep them attractive to the potential customer have not been too successful. So here too the prospect of higher wages is the cause of many a headache. Labor argues that increases in living costs have made higher wages necessary. Industry replies that the trend of living costs is inevitably tied to the trend of wages. There is a great deal to be said on both sides. The problem is to find a common meeting ground. Efforts in that direction will take up a large share of the national energy during the coming months.
