Committee Work In State Legislature Is Described

Austin, March 6 — Much of the Legislature's work is done in committees, but comparatively few Texans have ever attended one of these committee hearings.

Persons who are interested, however, frequently come to express themselves about proposed laws that affect them.

One of the committee hearings is described below, to give some idea of how they work, and what the results are.

Recently, for example, the Senate Highways and Motor Traffic Committee heard witnesses for and against House Bill 11, which provides that trucks found to be overloaded must unload on the spot.

The House of Representatives had already passed the bill, with an amendment providing that if the load consists of livestock, the truck may proceed to the next place with facilities to take care of the animals.

A large number — perhaps 400 — attended the Senate committee hearing. Many of these were truck operators. Others were dairymen and fruit growers, who depend on trucks to haul for them.

At the request of members of the committee, Col. Homer H. Garrison, director of the Department of Public Safety, and Robert J. Potts, a member of the Highway Commission, were present to answer questions.

Railroad and truck associations were represented.

After hearing a number of witnesses, the committee adopted two amendments to the bill. These would:

1. Give trucks a leeway, or "tolerance allowance" of five per cent of the gross weight or ten per cent of the axle weight. Texas law now provides for a gross truck weight of 48,000 pounds and an axle load of 18,000 pounds.

2. Permit the driver to unload only enough to make the correction in case of axle load violation without gross load violation. Or he could rearrange his load to make the correction, if possible, without unloading.

The committee then passed the bill with the amendments.

Other amendments were offered, but they were tabled, which means that they will not be a part of the bill as it goes to the floor of the Senate.

When the bill gets on the Senate floor, it is possible that other amendments may be offered. What happens is entirely up to the Senators — they can defeat the bill if they want to, send it back to the committee, send it to another committee, or simply forget about it.

Let's say the Senate passes the bill with amendments.

Then it will have to go back to the House of Representatives for approval (concurrence is the parliamentary word) of the Senate amendments. When the House concurs in the Senate amendments then the bill is finally passed and ready for the governor's signature — or veto.

But if the House does not concur in the Senate amendments, then the bill must go to a joint committee of House and Senate members to work out some kind of a compromise.

The bill can finally be passed if both houses accept the report of the joint committee.

To those unfamiliar with the workings of the Legislature, the process may seem long and complex — but that's the way it's done.

The idea is — as envisioned by the founders of our state government — that bills ought to receive full discussion, long and careful consideration, before they become laws that govern the lives and activities of citizens.

and gold was noted in the decorations. Sprays of acacia were down the center of the T-shaped table which was linen-covered. An arrangement of iris and acacia centered the speakers' table and an arrangement of sotol spoons was on the piano. The guests' names were inscribed in gold ink on green leaves to mark the places.

The luncheon which was served at one o'clock, consisted of chilled tomato juice, barbecued chicken, creamed potatoes, green peas, avocado salad, hot rolls, lemon pudding and coffee.

Mrs. J. W. McKee gave the invocation.

After Mrs. Arledge had introduced the district officers, each making a few remarks in regard to her duties, each guest introduced herself.

For new brides or housewives who need reminding: always iron monogrammed towels, scarves and handkerchiefs on the wrong side over a Turkish towel. Ironing on a hard surface or on the right side flattens the raised finish.

Here's a flavorful topping for fish filets that's both inexpensive and simple. For each serving cream together a tablespoon of vitaminized margarine, a teaspoon of lemon juice and a little finely minced parsley. Drop on each serving.

For flower-lovers: whitewash the insides of wooden flower boxes before filling with soil. This discourages insects and prevents the wood from rotting.

A plain lettuce wedge salad won't seem so uninspired and lazy-styled if it's crowned with a dressing like chopped pickles and olives added to real mayonnaise.

A package of paper spoons makes a convenient addition to your medicine cabinet. Handy for taking medicine and easily disposed of.

ourselves with some of those clubs who are accomplishing things for the good of the community and the country and get in the harness to work with the organized group for the things that are needed—from on a nation-wide basis to those locally.

Yes, this column is FOR some things. We are for better citizenship, better cooperation, and first, last and always we are for the independence and will to stand on our own two feet without any doles or without someone telling us what we must do.

If the recommendations of U. S. Senator Allen J. Elender and U. S. Rep. W. R. Poage are carried out Uncle Sam will be operating in a new role—that of labor contractor. The two men made a trip to Mexico City recently for a bracero conference and were informed by the Mexican Government that only through contracts between the two governments would "imported" civilian labor be permitted from that country.

Such a set-up, whereby the Federal Government would control a labor pool is definitely a departure from government functions that special legislation will be required to permit it. No special agency is at present authorized to contract labor for use in private employment.

Under the new proposal, the U. S. growers would deal only with their own government, which would deal only with their own government, which would receive requests for laborers and allot them from the pool acquired by contract with the Mexican government. Mexico would accumulate pools of laborers for contract to this government.

Under the proposed new plan the U. S. Government would be held responsible by Mexico for the fulfillment of contract conditions, including shelter, food, pay and medical aid, not only while enroute from that country to U. S. centers, but also after they have been transported to the individual farmer or rancher's property.

The U. S. would also have to make sure that suitable vehicles rather than trucks are used for the conveyance of workers.

Growers who would hire help other than through the pool would be "blacklisted" and would be unable to procure help in the future.

This column is not going to discuss this proposal further at this time but will leave it to the readers to determine the outcome of such a procedure.

This is still America. Let's demand that it remain America where we can hire whom we please and dismiss them without having to get government sanction.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON
President, Harding College

Five years ago the warweary people of England voted to give control of their government and nation to the politicians who promised them the most welfare for the least effort. Today they are hungry, their homes are cold, and step by step their personal freedom is being taken away. Never in Britain's modern history has the future welfare of her people been so bleak. And yet the Socialist government continues to reach further and further with the deadening hand of state control.

As we examine conditions and events transpiring in Great Britain today, all of which expose the fundamental weakness of the so-called "Democratic" Socialism, the statement made two years ago by a nationally prominent American clergyman concerning the "strength" of England under Socialism may well be remembered. The statement was written in a widely-read magazine. In it, the American church leader said Socialist England constituted the most powerful force in the world against communism.

This unfounded statement, although two years old, is important today. For there still are many people in America who have been led like this church leader, to the dangerous conclusion that a "Democratic" Socialism such as England has experienced up to now is a workable compromise between Socialism and Capitalism. Events in England have begun to reveal in a living experiment, what history has told us again and again — that no nation can remain half free and half enslaved.

Halfway into Socialism, but with considerable personal freedom still retained, the English people today are miserable. From every standpoint their nation is weak. But the Socialist planners know what's needed: more Socialism, more power, more government and less individual freedom for the people. They have the blueprint for making the nation very strong, in government power. It provides for the total Socialization of the nation. Step by step they are carrying it out. If they are permitted to fully implement their master plan, the English people will be as thoroughly enslaved as the Russians, the Poles, the Czechs, the Yugoslavians. There is only one Socialism, though there are several stages in its growth. Karl Marx labeled the final stage Communism. Stalin himself calls Russia's present stage "Socialism."

The England of today is in a state of suspended bankruptcy. Many housewives with hungry children are beginning to rebel. The nation must either throw off the paralyzing yoke of Socialism or accept it in its full grown state. The former eventually seems a remote possibility now, for it is becoming increasingly doubtful that Socialism can be rooted out of England even if the people wished to be forever rid of it. The plan may have already gone too far to be turned back.

The government has just taken over the sprawling steel and iron industry, heart of the nation's economic life, and its control now reaches into the nation's vital commerce. Moreover, the last substantial holdings of private capital are being taxed out of existence; thus a return to private ownership of the multi-billion dollar steel industry — or any other major industry — couldn't be easily accomplished.

The English people don't have enough coal to keep warm this winter because the 1950 output under Socialism was 204,000,000 tons, compared to 240,400,000 tons per year under private ownership. The government-owned railroads lost $42,000,000 last year. The government-owned electric power industry cannot halfway meet the need; electricity is rationed. With people openly rebelling, because of scarcity of food and of money with which to buy it, the Food Ministry has just written off a $100,000,000 loss on an experiment in peanut raising in South Africa. And now the vital steel industry falls into the hands of the Labor Socialist politicians. England's step by step Socialism continues on toward the stage at which absolute control of the lives of the people is approaching.

Alfred Edwards, former Labor Socialist member of parliament, said in an article: "I am satisfied that the Communists in the union movement, acting through fellow travelers, have been responsible for rushing the Labor Party toward nationalization of steel. As we go deeper into nationalization we shall require more and more ruthless leadership." The English people voted themselves into this dangerous muddle; there are forces among us trying to lead the people into the same quicksand. We must be on guard.

Recent photograph of a Texas primary highway

Damaged highways, such as the Texas highway shown in this picture, are a hazard to the safe operation of automobiles, farm trucks and other motor vehicles.

It costs three times as much to build roads that will withstand the loads of big trucks now being operated over them than it does for the smaller trucks and automobiles.

Latest records show $115,282,344 was spent on Texas highways for the year ending August 31, 1950.

A bill sponsored by the big truck operators is before the Texas Legislature. This bill proposes . . .

- (1) to increase the load limit from the present 48,000 pounds to 72,000 pounds, and
- (2) to increase the maximum truck length from 45 feet to 50 feet.

Recent official highway tests at La Plata, Md., sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, the highway departments of eleven states and the District of Columbia, effectively demonstrated that as trucks increased in size and loads, roads cracked up and "died" more quickly.

We need to safeguard our highways for Civilian and Military use. "Increased heavy loading might seriously disrupt the effectiveness of essential routes in the event of an all-out war," according to T. J. Kauer, director of the Ohio Highway Department and Chairman of the La Plata road test committee.

The big truckers want the taxpayers to continue providing expensive highways for them to use as "rights-of-way" for their own, selfish, personal gain.

THIS IS A TUG-OF-WAR BETWEEN THE BIG TRUCKERS AND THE TAXPAYERS OF TEXAS!

Automobiles and small trucks do not require extra strong, extra costly highways. The truth is, that the big truckers are putting the "pinch" on the pocketbooks of the Texas taxpayers.

State Health Head Urges Vigilance For Tuberculosis

Austin, March 8 — "It has been well said that procrastination not only is the thief of time, but frequently the thief of health and life." Dr. George W. Cox, state officer, said today. "Indeed, medical records in physicians' offices and hospitals prove that many persons die because they do not receive early diagnosis and prompt treatment for their condition. An outstanding example of this fact is the great number of deaths resulting from tuberculosis that might have been prevented.

"Tuberculosis is a powerful enemy, no matter what its stage but the fact remains that early discovery and adequate treatment offer the best opportunity for cure. If the patient upon being told that he has tuberculosis cooperates fully with the strict regimen and discipline outlined for him, the disease can usually be overcome."

Dr. Cox said that in line with some of the other major killers, tuberculosis is insidious in its approach. Acute pain and discomfort are absent usually and the symptoms are so comparatively mild that the patient is thrown off guard and considers them of little importance. Herein lies the real slaying ability of tuberculosis.

"The symptoms which, singly or in combination, demand an immediate checkup by the doctor are easy tiring, a persistent cough, and continued loss of weight.

"While it is true that any of the symptoms can be present without the patient having tuberculosis this is no reason to imagine that this is the case. Therefore, if one is suffering from any of these manifestations, the only sensible and safe thing to do is seek the advice of the family physician at once," Dr. Cox warned. "If such a course is pursued, and the condition turns out to be not serious, nothing has been lost. On the other hand, if tuberculosis is discovered, the patient by doing the wisest possible thing, has probably saved his life."

The new gas indicators are completely automatic. A dial control can be set for gas to burn up to two hours, then the gas automatically turns off when the trash is burned.
