LISTEN TO LUKE

It has been noted that a widespread wave of crime has been rampant over the state and the attorney general called a group of law enforcement and judicial officers to Austin last week to talk over ways and means of eliminating and preventing some of the nastiest crimes that have been reported.

We don't know what John Ben Sheppard reported at the meeting or what was worked out, but we have our own ideas about what might help stop such things and that was indicated in a South Texas town last week when a man was given about a 100-year sentence for a crime he was found to have been guilty of committing.

One opinion was that the jury didn't like what they heard submitted as evidence and the verdict and sentence certainly upholds the veracity of that statement.

If some of the juries in other sections of the country would forget the fact that "he is just a good boy at heart and really didn't intend to commit such a vile crime" and try the accused on the merits of the evidence as submitted and sentence him according to his guilt, then it is our opinion that the sudden increase in murders, assaults, auto theft and theft will take a sudden decrease. We certainly do not want to exclude dope peddling, handling and crimes against youths when enumerating some of the worst of crimes.

We have all seen numerous cases when men were either admittedly guilty of a crime or convicted and found to be guilty of a crime and then after due deliberation the jury took upon itself the duty of actually finding the accused not guilty in the assessment of a sentence. Severe punishment to those who are guilty of crimes, rather than dilly-dallying with kid gloves will probably do more to halt the crime wave than any other one thing.

Each jury should be better informed as to the result of laxity in their part and act according to the guilt or innocence of a person, rather than their personal feelings and the assessment of a penalty.

The Lions this week talked over the idea of sponsoring Little League baseball here again this year and asked us to make some comment on it at an organizational meeting. Such comment was made last week at the close of the season, but in order to refresh your memory, it is again.

There are those here who are interested in seeing that the boys have this means of recreation and diversion and also access to the knowledge that can be derived from the playing of baseball. These boys saw that equipment was provided for the playing of the game and saw that there was some supervision of supervised play at the district and two afternoons every week from 6 to 8.

These men, sometimes 2, sometimes 3 and often times only 1, played with the boys because they saw that the boys and the benefits derived from their participation. Usually those who were helping the boys were fathers of little boys, too big to participate in the fun. They were not fathers of the boys who were getting all the benefits from the game.

Some same men want to sponsor a program again this year, but are going to demand some assistance — not monetary — but aid of the fathers of the boys in purchasing their rudiments of the game, and also helping to corral the 30 eager lads who all want to participate at the same time in the game.

They also want the encouragement that is aided in the presence of the boy's father in his efforts to his ability at baseball. What wouldn't aim for the fence in the game, what boy wouldn't throw a Sunday pitch, what boy wouldn't make a desperate dive at a double catch or stop if he knew a lead was on the sidelines or

ALL BUT ABOUT 80 OF STEERS DEAD IN LOCAL STOCK PENS

About 125 head of a shipment of steers which were unloaded in local stock pens are dead from what is reported to be arsenic poisoning, according to Tom Bell of San Antonio, owner of the stock.

The steers were consigned to Brawley, California, from Spofford and were unloaded in Sanderson when it was discovered that several of the animals were dead upon arrival here.

Frequency of the deaths has decreased since last Thursday, but the appearance of the animals and the continuing death toll offers little hope for the recovery of any of the steers.

A veterinarian has been employed by Bell to take samples from the stomachs of all of the carcasses and after all the work was completed in San Angelo, where the carcasses are being hauled, he returned to Sanderson Tuesday and is observing the steers just prior to their death, and performing post mortems on all of the carcasses immediately following death.

The carcasses are being cremated by the railroad company since the death frequency has slowed up because they reported that the rendering company from San Angelo would not send a truck here for less than ten carcasses and it would mean that some of the carcasses would have to lay in the open for several hours, according to railroad officials.

The veterinarian reported Wednesday morning that he had not found any of the digestive organs in any of the animals which were normal and he voiced the opinion that the larger animals were in worse condition from the apparent poisoning than the smaller animals due to the larger area of absorption possible in the larger animals.

Grand Jury Gives Bills of Indictment In Assault Case Here

The Terrell County Grand Jury issued bills of indictment against Chester Lee Tarver and James James Haskell Johnson of Pica-yune, Miss., on two counts: robbery and assault with intent to murder.

The indictments grew out of the slugging and robbing of Vic Carrier, Dittlinger Roller Mills salesman, near Dryden on March 5.

The two youths were apprehended in Del Rio by Sheriff A. E. Steinmetz's deputies and turned over to J. S. Nance, Terrell County sheriff, to be returned here and held for grand jury action.

Roger H. Thurmond, judge of the 63rd Judicial District, empaneled the grand jury here Friday. It is thought that district court would meet during the week of April 1 to clear the court's docket.

Senior Play Presented To Packed House

The senior play, "Old Crusty Takes the Air," was presented to a packed auditorium in the Sanderson High School last Thursday evening.

There was never a dull moment from the raising of the curtain for the first scene, which found Patience Davis, "Old Crusty's" sister, played by Mary Landon Rose, and William Dickens, "Old Crusty's" office manager, played by Jimmy Caroline, bickering over the arrangement of the fixtures on "Old Crusty's" desk. The closing scene, two months later, found "Old Crusty" owner of Pony Express Airlines, acquired from Dickens and Crusty's daughter, Clarice, played by Mary Lou Cargile, and her co-partner, dapper Dan Thomas, an aviator played by Jack Savage. The elements of surprise and suspense were keen factors in the success of the play.

James Clark's portrayal of "Old Crusty", the owner of the Rapid Transit Co., almost stole the show although excellent support was given by the other characters in the three-act comedy which was directed by Mrs. W. H. Savage.

Between acts, a vocal quintette, Mary Lou Cargile, Sarah Pat Grigsby, Carolyn Spears, Jack Savage and James Clark, sang two numbers and a dance was presented by John Pate and Terry Jean Hodgkins. The dance, "Isabel" was presented by Nieves Lopez, Amelia Silvas, Lupe Cardenas and Gloria Marquez.

The students of the elementary school assisted in the ticket sales which were directed by Nieves Lopez and cash prizes were presented to Arnolfo Villarreal and G. C. Eggleston for selling the most tickets. Joe Albert Nessmith handled the advertising and Douglas Attaway was the stage manager.

School Safe Burglarized Tues. Night

The safe in the administrative offices of the Sanderson High School was burglarized Tuesday night and about $300 in cash and several checks were taken by the burglars.

The theft was discovered early Wednesday morning by the janitor and local officers were summoned to investigate the case.

One of the front doors and one of the back doors of the building were open indicating the entry and exist of the burglars and entrance into the secretary's office, the location of the safe, was gained by a jimmy. The right door of the fireproof safe was cut open and the insulation removed so that the release to the safe doors could be reached and the handle of the door and combination lock had been ripped off. The doors of the safe were also pried open by a jimmy.

Contents of the safe had been thoroughly inspected by the burglars and most of the contents were strewn around the desk of the secretary and on the floor.

The shades had been drawn in the adjoining office of the superintendent and in the secretary's office and evidence indicated that the burglars had spent some time inside the office where the safe is located.

No information has been received at the time of this writing of any suspects in the case, but Sheriff J. S. Nance and his deputy are investigating all possible clues to solving the crime.

Park Superintendent Speaker at Rotary Luncheon Wednesday

Park Superintendent Lon Garrison of the Big Bend National Park was guest speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Sanderson Rotary Club at the Turner Hotel Wednesday noon.

Garrison outlined the work now in progress to make the scenic spots of the park more accessible to the visitors. Many trails have been made which enable visitors to get about to various points of interest, he said. In grading the trail to Santa Elena Canyon, Mr. Garrison said it was necessary to construct a barge and put the small grader on the barge and float it upstream in order to work the trail back to the entrance.

More paving is being done in the park and more tourists are now visiting the area than ever before at this time of the year.

Garrison extended a very special invitation to the citizens of Sanderson to come on a special day set aside as Sanderson Day and enjoy the facilities of the new barbecue area. Plans are now being made to promote a trip similar to the Sanderson Day trek into the park last year.

Public Will Pay More For Everything If and When Price Fixing Legislation Passes

An effort is being made to persuade the Legislature that the fair-trade price bill before it (H. B. 42, by Lamar Zivley, styled the "clean competition" bill) is aimed at only one feature of one type of retail business. But the bill would effect business of all retail firms, from the smallest village to the biggest city. It would prohibit retail sale of merchandise "below cost" plus mark-up, and it applies to all merchandise in all types of stores. Its effect would be to prohibit a merchant selling as cheaply as he might be able and willing to sell. It would result in increases of cost to the consumer, and would destroy an element of competitive merchandising. Further, this bill, if enacted, would be a big opening wedge toward the long-sought goal of the standard "fair trade" bill which would enforce manufacturer-fixed prices on all retailers, when one retailer in the entire state contracted to comply with manufacturer's prices. Advocates of legislation to fix or sustain prices have been before every session of the Legislature for two decades with measures in the present form or other all having the practical end effect of raising the price of goods available to the consumer. The question before the people of Texas and the Legislature, is how far statutory price-control would be carried if the principle is adopted as law in any form. Sponsors of the Zivley bill say it is designed to abolish the practice of "loss leader" selling; but its terms are as wide as a merchant's inventory, and it covers the department store, the hardware store, the clothing store, just the same as it applies to the retail grocer. The bill has been set for hearing before the House state affairs committee the night of April 1, when opposing business groups will reiterate old arguments for and against legislative price regulation. But left in between is the consuming public of Texas, which would pay the bill and the fact that it would be a big bill is obvious from the intense and determined efforts to secure price legislation.

With the conservatives scoring victories in both House and Senate the future looked doubtful for increasing pay of teachers and state employees and for improving the state's highways. Representative Charles Murphy of Houston advocates a constitutional amendment that would devote all future increases in the gasoline tax to roads. That would help the road situation, if a gasoline tax increase were passed; but it would not give any more money to schools. Governor Allan Shivers voiced his disapproval of any new state taxes except a 1c increase in the gasoline tax, to pay for more roads. The Governor also said he hoped for court approval of the present natural gas tax which would bring from 40 to 45 million dollars. He added that if the gas tax is found constitutional he may call a special session to appropriate the money for state improvements and services.

The Senate passed, 26 to 2, and sent to the House, a bill providing that persons convicted of drunken driving would automatically go to jail for three days and a $50 fine.

Senator Carlos Ashley, author of the bill, said it would aid law enforcement and traffic safety in people who drive while drunk understand they will have to spend some time in jail.

The bill would not change the maximum penalties of two years in jail and $500 fine.

"Biff" Falls for His Own Story

Biff Morgan's four-year-old daughter Rusty is something of a night owl. Stays awake way past her bedtime.

Every night Mrs. Morgan complained about how hard it was to get Rusty to go to sleep. Finally Biff decided to handle the situation. "Anyone can get a kid to sleep — takes a little patience! Here, hand me her storybook."

He grabs the book and goes into Rusty's room. About an hour later Rusty comes padding out in pajamas and hands her mother the book. "Read it quietly," she whispers, "so we don't wake Daddy."

From where I sit, Biff won't be so quick to be a "child-care specialist" the next time. If we could just resist being such "know it alls," our neighbors would be better off. Take those who would deny me a glass of beer with my supper — well, I might not care for the buttermilk they like. We all ought to realize that we all have different abilities and different preferences, too.

Lacy-Magill Wedding Sunday Afternoon In Murrah Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Tol Murrah was the scene Sunday afternoon of a quiet wedding when Mrs. Winnie Magill and Ed M. Lacy were united in marriage. Rev. John W. Byrd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, directed the exchange of vows, using the single-ring ceremony, in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The couple entered the living room to stand in front of an improvised altar arranged before the fireplace where pink gladiolus were in floor baskets and pink gladiolus and carnations on the mantle. Miss Margaret Gregory played traditional wedding music and played her own accompaniment to sing, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore a navy suit with navy and white accessories and a white orchid on her shoulder.

Her daughter, Miss Ginger Magill, who was maid of honor, wore a turquoise suit with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage. J. S. Nance was best man.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. Mrs. E. J. Hanson and Mrs. W. H. Nesbitt served the cake and Mrs. John Harrison and Mrs. Elmo R. Searcy served the coffee. The covered table was centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and gladiolus.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Sanderson temporarily, planning to establish residence in Fort Stockton.

Easy Recipes to Brighten Lenten Meals

Golden pineapple with shrimp makes a delicious and satisfying salad for meatless days.

Ever thought of combining fish with fruit? This idea is particularly timely now during Lent when meatless dinners are in order and you'll find that the fresh, exciting flavor of golden pineapple will lend new and appetizing interest to your menus. Pineapple is universally popular and so versatile it is a perfect flavor-mate with any fish; fresh or frozen halibut, sole, bass or any of the canned varieties such as tuna, salmon, shrimp or crab. You can use pineapple rings or chunks as an accompaniment for broiled or fried fish, or as a stuffing for baked fish, and a colorful topping of pineapple tidbits will lend inviting flavor to fish casseroles. In main-dish salads, which are especially important during this Lenten season, the addition of pineapple will make them doubly appealing to the eye and more satisfying to eat.

PINEAPPLE SHRIMP SALAD

2 cups fresh or canned shrimp or crab or canned tuna
1 cup French dressing
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup pineapple tidbits or chunks

Marinate cleaned shrimp, crab or tuna in French dressing for 1/2 hour. If using tuna, break into bite-size pieces. Drain off dressing. Serves 6.

PINEAPPLE STUFFED FILLET OF SOLE

2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1/4 cup salt
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup drained crushed pineapple
1 lb. fresh or frozen fillets of sole
2 cups white sauce
1/2 cup grated cheese

Combine bread crumbs, melted butter or margarine, salt, celery and pineapple. Toss lightly to blend. Place a spoonful of stuffing on each fillet, roll and secure with a toothpick. Arrange in a shallow baking pan. Add cheese to white sauce and stir until blended. Pour over fish. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Advancement in Prevention of Polio Outlined by Authority

In a news release issued recently, Dr. Harry M. Weaver, director of research of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has outlined and discussed the advancement that has been made in his field for the prevention and control of poliomyelitis since 1938.

It was pointed out that close observation of cases revealed varied intensities of infection and consequently various manifestations of the disease; also that some who had definitely contacted the virus showed no ill effects whatsoever from the infection.

It was discovered that the digestive tract of man constitutes the portal of entry and exit of the virus and that the virus could be recovered in nature from those species of flies that feed and breed on human excreta, but that in no way did fly prevention and control measures modify epidemics of the disease.

Dr. Weaver pointed out that there were three distinct types of virus which caused the disease and the development of an immunity to one of the viruses did not convey similar immunity to either of the individual strains of the remaining types, and that some strains of the virus of the same class were less potent than other members of the same class.

"The field trials demonstrated quite conclusively that an injection of a sufficient quantity of gamma globulin will confer significant protection against the paralytic disease. However, the duration of the effectiveness, in the dosages employed, was limited to about six weeks, and during the first and last weeks of this period, paralysis appeared to be lessened in severity rather than prevented," Dr. Weaver explained.

He also added that further complications of the problem of research arose from the fact that the immune serum globulin is obtained from the blood of human beings, and has heretofore been manufactured in rather small amounts. Because of limited manufacturing facilities, they cannot hope for the production of more than a very small fraction of the amount of this material that will be sought by the American public. A central allocations authority has been established to provide for the distribution of all of this material, and he stated that this will provide a mechanism to insure, in so far as is possible to do so, the most efficient use of this scarce product.

Dr. Weaver continued: "Yet another important discovery is the development of methods whereby all three types of the virus of poliomyelitis may be grown on small bits of human or animal tissue which are themselves growing in test tubes. He explained that there is no practical limit to the amount of virus that can be produced by this method because of the possibilities of uniform production of large quantities of virus by this method.

He stated that the research men have concluded that they have come to the end of the present era with a sufficient body of knowledge to know with certainty that there can be fashioned, in at least one of two ways, a practical method of control for human paralytic poliomyelitis. The first of these two methods is through the use of drugs, the second is by vaccination.

Since the use of the first method does not give immunity for a long period of time, it is thought that it is less desirable than the second method and would not be used on a continuing basis except in the face of an epidemic, but further work is being done in research in this field.

By the use of vaccination, on the other hand, it would not be necessary to wait for the outbreak of an epidemic before preventive measures were employed. All methods of vaccination are not yet ready for field trials, Dr. Weaver explained, but he gave his assurance that the program will reflect increasing attention to the possibilities of the use of a vaccine as a preventive. He added that he expected field tests to be made during this year.

The National Foundation has warned all citizens to be extremely cautious in the use of "surcures and preventions" as advocated by some unauthorized person who does not have a tested and tried method of prevention or cure, and asked that all reports of such persons and their claims be reported to the national organization immediately.

No other light trucks have all this

YOU don't expect polo-pony agility from a truck in traffic—but the new GMC's have it.

You'd like to have passenger-car pace and economy on the highway—and you'll get it from the 1953 GMC's.

For there are two great advances that step the new GMC's ahead of all previous truck performance:

One: Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive—the fully automatic shift with 3 speeds for traffic, 4 for the open road—available on 19 models through the 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton capacity range.

Two: a new line of engines of progressive design, with compression ratios of 7.5 to 1 and 8.0 to 1—the highest of any gasoline truck engine ever built. Here's pile-driver power behind every piston stroke—flashing response and better mileage are squeezed from regular fuel.

Many chassis advances, too, add to the extra-value features that make GMC's, point for point, the biggest dollar's worth in the light-truck field as well as in the heavier lines.

We confidently tell you—these great new GMC's will do your job better, easier, and at the lowest over-all cost. They have stamina beyond their size, because they're "built like the big ones"—the heavy-duty GMC's that lead the world in sales.

That's saying a lot. But just come in—and we'll prove it.
