Friday of last week the local Club was host to all the kids in the county and area for a treat of our street corners. It was the annual Christmas visit of the Claus.

The local organization is to be commended for the interest they have taken in this endeavor because of the interest shown by the children, especially the smaller ones who enjoy a brief talk with the old gent. It brings a lot of fun into town that day, too, and to create a little more Christmas spirit among the young folks alike.

The high school band and director Charles Matney were on hand to give the crowd the pleasure of carols and Christmas songs at the arrival of Santa.

In all, it was a very good party, like any other of this kind. It was paid for and the club doesn't feel obliged to dig down in their coffers, but anything in them to dig deep to pay for the party by themselves. They have always had containers in business houses to receive contributions from interested people, to help defray the expense of buying 800 cellophane bags, paper plates, and many pounds of walnuts, Christmas candy like.

There were several very generous contributions to the fund this year by individuals and one or two jars held a sizable amount of change, according to members of the club, but all of this did not close to paying for the party.

The Lions Club was also hosts of a football banquet this year to help defray the expenses of two projects they put on a good minstrel, as we reported as was agreed by almost all attendees. But the support of the minstrel was very light and barely made enough from this to clear the indebtedness.

US 90 PROVED TO BE BEST ALL-WEATHER ROUTE THIS WEEK

Throughout the state motorists were in difficult positions on their trips because of the highway conditions during the after-Christmas flurry of sleet and snow in the middle of the peak of high travel. Evidence of the claim of US 90 as the best all-weather highway was noticeable in that it was the only trans-Texas highway which remained free of ice to a degree of safety for the traveling public.

In an area paper Wednesday morning there appeared a map showing the state's cross-country highways and the extent of the road hazards from snow and ice. This map showed practically all of US90 to be free of rain, ice, sleet or snow, while many cars were stranded on some of the main arteries of traffic.

Promotion of travel on this splendid road is gaining and with the newer efforts to bring in the eastern section of US90, more results will be seen in increased traffic. A meeting of the Travel US90 Association is scheduled at Del Rio on Sunday, January 9, at which time the organization of towns east of San Antonio as far as Columbus will be consummated.

E. F. Pierson, president of the association, and Greene Cooke, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee, are urging a large attendance from Terrell County in order that more enthusiasm may be evidenced for the drive to get more traffic over the scenic, all-weather route.

Christmas Pageant Cast Is Listed

The annual pageant depicting the birth of Jesus Christ was presented by the young people of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist Churches on Sunday evening, December 19.

Mrs. Ernest Farley, director, was assisted by Mrs. H. C. Rock, in the lighting effects and Mrs. J. W. McKee was in charge of the costumes. Phillip Eggleston depicted Zachariah in the temple when the angel, Nancy Mitchell, appeared to foretell the coming of the Messiah.

As the events were unfolded by the readers, Miss Mary Ferguson and Jolly Harkins, there appeared the shepherds, Charles Bentley, John Wilcox and Larry Goldwire, followed by the three wise men, Carroll Eggleston, Eddie Hanson and Malone Mitchell, Jr. Joseph was represented by W. J. Vaughan and Mary by Eva Bentley, Elizabeth by Colleen Pierson. Other angels joining in the "Gloria in Excelsis" were Bonda Boyd, Mary Jane Bentley, Patsy Teenor and Martha Smith.

The junior choirs of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, led by Miss Sidney Louise Harkins, and accompanied by Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson at the organ, furnished the music.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Duncan during the holidays were her sister, Mrs. S. A. Blackburn and son, Victor, of Lubbock, her mother, Mrs. T. A. Briggs, and her sister, Mrs. Virgil Musick, and family of San Angelo.

New Park Head Due To Arrive Soon

Due to arrive here early next month is George W. Miller, new superintendent of the Big Bend National Park. Miller will replace Lon Garrison, who has been promoted to head a new office of conservation and protection of the Park Service with offices in Washington, D. C.

Miller, whose boyhood ambition was to "select a career in which I would be happy," has been in the Park Service for 29 years, joining the service in 1925 as a temporary ranger at Yellowstone National Park. Later assignments took him to Rock Mountain Park in Colorado and to Glacier National Park in Montana, where he is assistant superintendent.

Miller stated that the change from the northern parks to the Big Bend in Texas would be a big one but an interesting one. He said he had no immediate plans for the operations of the park other than "to continue the excellent program currently under way by Supt. Garrison."

Film Aids Drive For Money Supporting Gonzales Fund

A film strip narrated by Miss Greer Garson is currently being shown at the Princess Theatre to aid in the drive for funds to go to the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation. Containers to receive contributions have been placed in many of the local businesses.

The needs and purposes of the contributions are all well-known by Texans who have contributed generously over the years to help build the center into one of the largest and most complete units of its kind in the Southwest. All types of paralytic cases are treated by the center as soon as room becomes available and facilities permit the entrance of patients into the center for treatment.

The contributions of Texans are continually being sought to take care of additional patients which have been needing the treatments available at the center due to the high polo incidence over the past several years.

Patients who need the treatments available at the center are admitted regardless of financial condition, race, color or creed.

Your contribution to the fund will be appreciated and will be used to a great advantage to help cure, if possible, the paralytic effects of crippling diseases, and to fit braces and ambulatory aids for those who cannot be completely cured.

THOMAS INFANT DIES CHRISTMAS NIGHT

Rev. J. W. Byrd conducted graveside services here Monday for Sharon Thomas, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thomas. Three sisters also survive.

TEMPERATURES IN TERRELL COUNTY DOWN IN TWENTIES

Terrell County had its first real taste of winter weather this week. Balmey weather prevailed all during the Christmas season with slightly overcast skies noted on Christmas Day.

A blustery norther blew in Monday evening and continued all day Tuesday with tumble-weeds, sand, paper and gravel caught in the gusts of wind that came down the streets from the northwest. Temperatures dropped steadily Monday night with reading in the low 20s that night and Tuesday night.

The skies were hazy all day Wednesday but temperatures raised considerably after dawn Wednesday morning.

Poor Game Harvest Noted at Season's End

Austin — Every conceivable factor seemed to harass hunters this fall but the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission insisted in a statement that the wildlife population can rally to an amazing degree.

"Some species, such as quail, can come back in a rush," he explained. "And with adequate brood stock available, only a definite break from the arid conditions will be required to stimulate new hope all around."

As the end of the legal harvest on big game and waterfowl approached, the Executive Secretary said there was a possible advantage from the fall shoot.

"Any non-believers about the actual havoc to the wildlife habitat from the awful drought, judged the situation first hand. They must know now that the condition of the ranges in some areas truly is indescribable.

"This lamentable condition can be corrected by only one mighty force — the elements. But it is desirable that since the habitat, already under constant shrinkage, has deteriorated so terribly, that the hunters and sportsmen observe the actual situation.

"In all frankness, it seems now that there may be a further loss this winter to the deer herds, particularly in the Hill Country. The seared land simply does not possess the food for the animals and many ranchers are approaching the end of their resources in buying feed.

Typical of the weather-imposed handicaps on hunters was the dust that duck and goose hunters kicked up in coastal marshes which ordinarily are wet and soggy. Then, in areas where there were quail, the weather was so dry the dogs couldn't work successfully.

"We have seen the worst," the Executive Secretary said. "We have seen the inevitable result of poor land use — overgrazing, erosion — and the like. It's going to take some teamwork even after the weather returns to normalcy. This should be a good time for everyone to face the facts and act accordingly."

Fifth Annual F.F.A. Show Here January 15th

MISS NANCY MITCHELL

Miss Nancy Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mitchell, Terrell and Pecos County ranchers, is pictured above in an F.F.A. jacket she was given along with the honor of being named Sweetheart of the local chapter.

The Annual Terrell County F. F. A. Livestock Show has been set for January 15. The site of the show will be at the Sanderson Wool Commission Co. warehouse.

There will be 12 classes in the division for senior FFAers. They will be: Rambouillet ewes; Rambouillet bucks; Suffolk ewes; Suffolk bucks; Fine wool lambs under 115 pounds; Fine wool lambs over 115 pounds; Cross-bred lambs under 115 pounds; Cross-bred lambs over 115 pounds; Champion fine wool lamb; Champion cross-bred lamb; rabbits, does and rabbits, bucks.

All livestock must be in place by 9:00 a. m. and judging of rabbits will be first on the program and will begin at 10:00. Breeding sheep will be judged at 10:30 and at 11 the junior lambs.

A barbecue dinner will be served at noon and tickets will be sold by the members of the local FFA chapter.

The senior division judging will begin at 1 p. m. The usual rules pertaining to local shows will be in effect at the show this year, which is expected to draw a large crowd.

L. R. Armstrong is the chapter advisor and vocational agriculture teacher in the Sanderson High School.

Roarks Buy Land Surrounding Wink

Word was received this week that I. C. Roark, Sr., and his two sons, F. M. Roark and J. C. Roark, has purchased over 25,000 acres of land surrounding Wink, with most of the land to the west of the city.

The land is what is known as the former American Maracaibo land.

The largest tracts of the newly purchased land lie to the west and north of Wink, it was stated, but some of the other tracts lie on all sides of the town, from the city limits out in all directions.

As yet, the Roarks have expressed no definite plans as to what they intend to do with the land. A small amount of mineral rights were obtained, but the majority is surface rights, available for leasing and ranching purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carle and children returned home the first of the week from Eagle Pass and Hondo where they visited during the holidays.

Annual Banquet For Rotarians And Ladies Wednesday

The local Rotary Club observed "ladies night" last Wednesday evening when the annual banquet was served in the band hall.

Clyde Griffith was master of ceremonies for the program which followed the banquet. Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Spurlin sang a group of Christmas carols popular in several countries of the world to emphasize the international scope of Rotary. Mrs. Doris McCullar provided piano accompaniment. Several carols were sung by the group.

A radio was presented to Joe Little in appreciation for his services as community service chairman last year when the markers were put up on the streets of Sanderson and the houses numbered. The presentation speech was made by Herbert Brown.

The Rotarians exchanged gifts from a beautifully decorated tree and compacts with the Rotary emblem were given as favors to the ladies.

The U-shaped table which was covered in white linen cloths was decorated in the seasonal motif. Sprays of lemon leaves and holly

Dance Scheduled For Friday Night

Friday night the American Legion is sponsoring the second dance of the holiday season. The affair will be in the V. F. W. Hall, beginning at 9 p. m.

The Legion members reported a good sized crowd at the Christmas dance and are hoping for better attendance at the dance New Year's Eve.

An orchestra playing western-type music has been engaged for the dance and the public is invited.

HOLIDAY NEW YEARS DAY

Most all of the retail businesses of the town will be closed all day Saturday, January 1, as is the custom locally.

The bank and postoffice will also observe the holiday.

were down the center of the table and large red candles were placed at intervals. An arrangement of white gladiolus and red carnations centered the speaker's table.

Rev. John W. Byrd gave the invocation preceding the banquet which featured baked turkey and dressing and the trimmings.

THE SOCIALIST TRAGEDY
Millions of the world's people have accepted the proposition: "You can get something for nothing." Logic, science, theology and even the simplest human intuitions and biological reflexes reject the proposition as false. Yet in the span of 5 years the promise of something for nothing has brought about the enslavement of nearly half the people on earth. And it has made serious inroads upon the moral and intellectual strength of every nation outside the Iron Curtain, including our own.

When we get down to brass tacks the promise of something for nothing is both the core and the substance of Socialism — all hues and forms and degrees of Socialism. It led a majority of British citizens to choose a Socialist government in 1945, and it kept Russia's millions docile and expectant while Lenin and his little band of cutthroat revolutionaries took over and established the Soviet dictatorship in 1917. It is a tool which political demagogues have used throughout history to become tyrants and gain control of people.

British "Experiment"
A good example of the lure of "something for nothing" and its results are given us in the so-called British "experiment." Prior to 1945, the British Socialists who controlled the Labor Party called themselves humanitarians, not Socialists. They didn't speak of Socialism; they spoke of a "Welfare State." Taking from the successful people, through various governmental manipulations, and giving to the less successful — that was the core of the social philosophy and operational program of the Labor-Socialist politicians who labeled themselves variously as reformers, liberals, progressives, humanitarians.

One of the most idealistic and hopeful of the Labor Party leaders when the proposition of "something for nothing" was sold to a majority of England's voters in 1945 was Ivor Thomas. Labor Party member of Parliament. After the Labor-Socialist government took over he began to see the true aspects of Socialism in practice. Deeply alarmed, he wrote a book, "The Socialist Tragedy," (McMillan Company, New York). It is one of the truly important books of our times.

Gift Horse
On the Oklahoma farm where I learned some basic truths, as a boy, my dad used to say, "Always look a gift horse in the mouth," thus reversing the old saw. He meant that a close examination of "something for nothing" always is in order. By looking a horse "in the mouth" you determine his age and old horses eat more than they are worth; they become "nothing for something." In the more elegant language of statescraft, but quite clearly nevertheless, Ivor Thomas writes about the realities of Socialism's promise of "something for nothing."

"We have now seen enough of socialism in practice," he writes, "to know that the picture is an illusion." Then he warns: "The socialist age, if it comes about, will not bring an end of oppression of man by man, of class by class, and of nation by nation, but will substitute new oppressors for old, man for man, class for class, nation for nation. The socialist age, if it comes about, will not place greater economic resources in the hands of man, but will reduce the wealth of nations well below its present level, and perhaps take us back to the material poverty of the middle ages."

And Furthermore
"The socialist age, if it comes about, will not be an age of superior morality, but will lead to a general lowering of ethical standards. The socialist age, if it comes about, will not free the energies of man from physical work, but will compel him to work harder for a lower standard of living; and instead of being liberated for the pursuit of the arts and sciences he will find his life planned, ordered, regulated and controlled to an extent which will kill any flowering of the spirit. What was thought to be a vision turns out to be a nightmare."

The slow dawning of these true and vitally important facts, in the mind of Ivor Thomas, Laborite, as he worked to install Socialism in Great Britain, will be detailed in subsequent columns. His awakening may prove to be valuable to America but futile to England. For despite a government change in 1951, Socialism had by then so crippled private initiative, incentive and enterprise it hasn't yet been overturned, and the Labor-Socialist politicians are expected to return to power in the next election.

The Buick Special—A Standout for 1955

SLEEK NEW STYLING and record-high horsepower make the Buick Special four-door sedan for 1955 a standout in the lower priced field. Its V-8 power plant has been increased to an all-time high of 188 horsepower which, with Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflow transmission, gives the Special performance and maneuverability unequalled by any automobile in its field. Setting a new styling trend are a wide-screen grille and a roll-edge bumper with sturdy dual wing guards. For the first time, Buick's choice selection of power assists—power brakes, power steering, window lifts and front seat adjustment—are available as optional equipment on the Special.

F. L. Gordon Named Assistant Vice-Pres. SP Freight Traffic

Houston — The appointment of F. L. Gordon to the newly created position of assistant vice president, system freight traffic, for Southern Pacific with headquarters at Houston, was announced Monday at a meeting of the Texas and New Orleans Railroad board of directors.

Gordon has been freight traffic manager for the Texas and Louisiana lines here since May 1, 1953. His appointment was made by W. C. Peoples, vice president, system freight traffic, at San Francisco. Members of the board also announced the appointment, effective January 1, of L. A. Brockwell, former assistant vice president, system freight traffic at San Francisco, as freight traffic manager at Houston.

Gordon, a native of Houston, began his railroad career as office boy in Southern Pacific's traffic department here in 1902. He served as chief clerk to the general freight and passenger agent of the Arizona and New Mexico Railroad, now part of the Southern Pacific, and as chief rate clerk for the Humble Oil and Refining Company prior to returning to railroad work as general freight and passenger agent for the Dayton and Good Creek Railroad which also later became a part of Southern Pacific. He was promoted to assistant general freight agent here in 1940 and to freight traffic manager three months later.

Brockwell started his railroad career as a clerk for Southern Pacific at Portland, Oregon, in 1919 and served as traveling freight and passenger agent at Seattle, Wash., and district freight agent and later as assistant general freight agent at Portland. He went to San Francisco as assistant general freight agent in 1936, and 1942 was promoted to assistant freight traffic manager in charge of rates and divisions.

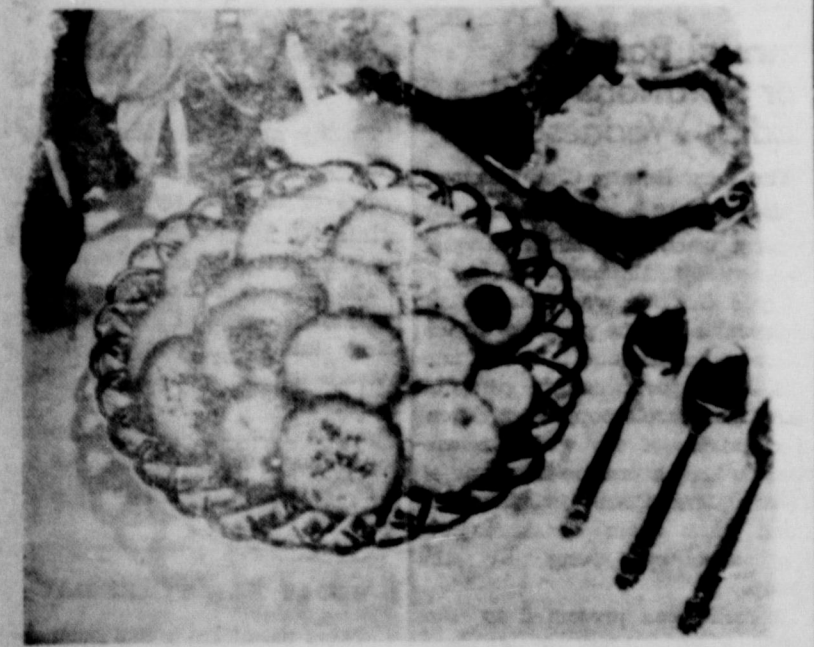

He served as freight traffic manager in New York from 1941 until January 1, 1954, when he returned to San Francisco as assistant vice president, system freight traffic.

Kenneth Stutes visited in Jacksonville, Fla., and in Lake Charles and Crowley, Louisiana, during holidays.

Pineapple Ice Box Cookies Are "Good Keepers" in The Cookie Jar

Perfect to go to school in the lunch box and for impromptu snacks while watching TV.

Almost every family has a favorite kind of cookie or will have one, they've tried these delicious ice box cookies with a surprise ingredient — flavorful crushed pineapple. They may be mixed ahead, which is an advantage, and stored in that cold spot to bake when you need them or when it is most convenient.

Every child enjoys cookies in his lunch box, and you'll find these "good keepers" in the cookie jar. Keep them on hand for everything from cookie jar raids to impromptu snacks while watching TV.

PINEAPPLE ICE BOX COOKIES

1/2 cup butter or margarine	1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed	3 cups flour
2 eggs	1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup crushed pineapple, well-drained	1 teaspoon baking powder
	1/4 teaspoon salt

Cream butter or margarine and sugar, add eggs one at a time and beat well. Stir in well-drained pineapple and vanilla. Add flour sifted with soda, salt and baking powder.
Shape into 2 rolls 2-inches in diameter and wrap in floured waxed paper. Place in refrigerator for 2 hours or overnight.
Cut in slices 1/4-inch thick. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 15 minutes or until slightly browned. Makes 5 dozen cookies.
Note: If crisp cookies become soft, they will be crunchy again after a 5 to 6 minute warming in a slow oven (250 degrees).

Pineapple Nut Bread Will Give Meals Added Sparkle

A "Special" Treat for the Lunch Box or—Quick and Easy For an Afternoon or Evening Snack

Versatile is the word for Pineapple Nut Bread. It fits into every eating occasion—from lunch box to party fare. Any meal no matter how simple, can be turned into something of real elegance with a delicious fruit-nut bread.

All quick bread batters—like muffins—should be stirred as little as possible—never beaten. Batter should look lumpy—not smooth.

Good in its own right, Pineapple Nut Bread requires only the simplest of fillings. Delicious just "battered" or spread with cream cheese.

PINEAPPLE-NUT BREAD

Color Invades Oil Fields

Salesgirl thinks hard hat is pretty as well as useful.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Not to be outdone in the department of eye-catching headgear, men who work in the oil fields of the U. S. are now adding color to the place they work. Instead of the familiar aluminum hard-hats, the oil men are wearing gold, bronze, blue, grey or green safety hats.

This is not entirely a vanity measure, but one of safety. Developed by the E. D. Bullard Co., here, the colored hats allow a different color for each type of job, thus making job identification immediate.

The color process used on the hard hats was the result of more than a year's research in finding the proper dyes which would be "fade-proof." As a further test, the company exposed the hats for 1000 hours in the blistering Arizona sun.

Party Surprises Mrs. S. D. Thompson

S. D. Thompson planned a little party to surprise his wife last Thursday night.

Since eight of their children were unable to come home for Christmas this year, some of the guests arrived with the announcement that they were J. D. David, Shirley, etc., arriving home for Christmas. Neighbors and friends, including a group of young people, were the invited guests.

The group sang carols and songs and enjoyed a period of conversation. Cake and punch were served for refreshments by Mrs. Ray Thompson and Mrs. Gene Thompson.

New Year's resolution that pays off in thrills...

"I'm going to drive that 1955 BUICK!"

WE'VE seen some high peaks of interest in our new cars over the years—but never anything like this.

Since the day we unveiled these glamorous new Buicks, people have been coming in—not only to see and study and sit in these great cars—but, very definitely, to drive them.

They want, it seems, a firsthand taste of the thrills that Buick engineers have conjured up for this new year.

And who can blame them? For the word's around that Buick has what no other car has—a new kind of performance from a new kind of transmission.

It's called Variable Pitch Dynaflo Drive.* It uses the principle of the modern airplane's variable pitch propeller. And it does in oil what that aeronautical marvel does in air.

At one pitch of the blades inside the Dynaflo unit, you get more fuel efficiency in normal cruising and driving—which means better gas mileage, pure and simple.

But push the gas pedal beyond the full throttle position and you switch the pitch. Instantly, you get electrifying response—a sudden safety-surge of accelerating power to get you quickly out of a tight spot—and with the absolute smoothness that is constant in Dynaflo Drive.

Maybe you, too, have made a mental resolution to drive a '55 Buick—but why wait?

We're ready, willing and eager to let you try one—feel the spectacular new power that gives life to this bounteous beauty—and see for yourself that here is a performance thrill too exciting to miss. Drop in on us this week, won't you?

of the two expensive parties, even after each member contributed $4 of his own money to help pay the expenses of the banquet.

We give you all these details to say this: if the Lions Club is going to continue to function as a civic organization which has as its only overall project - civic work, then there is going to have to be some help by the citizens of this county when they are trying to carry through their over-all plan. And this goes for any other organization, too.

Certainly the Lions, the men individually, enjoy doing these things. They also like to know that their efforts are appreciated, too.

During this past Christmas season, we all seemed to have the notions that depicted the idea that we were too busy looking after No. 1 to have anything to do with anyone else. The Lions Club, Rotary Club, Retail Merchants, nor the Chamber of Commerce, prodded the merchants into any Christmas decorations, so there were only two strings of lights across the streets of the town, other than the Christmas tree erected by the Lions. Few of the merchants put up any decorations, other than those centered around their wares.

The town should profit by its mistakes this Yule season and prepare next year for something that is in keeping with the usual custom of other towns and will make our town more attractive to local citizens and visitors.

HERE'S THE 20,000,000TH!

WAUPUN, WIS.—Keeping 20,000,000 customers happily assured of quality has been the job of the printing department of the Shaler Company here—by printing 20,000,000 Rislone guarantee cards. Here's the 20,000,000th card—just off the press and being held by William S. Coles, executive vice president, and Miss Evelyn Runger.

According to Coles, people like to satisfy themselves on the quality of a product, and this card gives them the opportunity to do so knowing that they can get their money back immediately if the product doesn't perform as advertised. He calls them "customers' quality insurance policies."

SHE'S AMONG FRIENDS—Physical Therapy at Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for Crippled Children is more than just exercise routines. Astronomer Explains Origin of Galaxies

College Station — "Some five or six billion years ago all the matter that we now observe to be present in our galaxy and the external galaxies was concentrated perhaps in one huge super star," Dr. Bengt Stromgren, one of the world's leading astronomers said at a graduate lecture at Texas A&M College.

"Somehow this super star exploded," Dr. Stromgren, who is director of the Yerkes Observatory in Wisconsin and the McDonald Observatory in West Texas, declared and "the matter separated out into single galaxies and these spread out and we still observe their spreading out — the so-called expansion of the universe, the expansion of all the nebulae, galaxies, one from another."

Speaking on "The Foundation and Evolution of the Stars," the world-renowned astronomer said, "after separate galaxies have been formed within each galaxy the stars of Population 2, the oldest stars, were formed. Their evolution and dissipation back into space may have changed the properties of interstellar space or other factors may have been at work that changed the nature of these galaxies into what they are now."

"Then came a phase of evolution when stars of type Population 1, like the sun were formed. The chief difference between Population 2 and Population 1 is that a larger fraction of the heavy elements are present in Population 2. "After these stars began to be formed," Dr. Stromgren said, "the systems flattened and the picture was much like the picture that we observe now when we study our own galaxy — vast systems with interstellar matter still existing between the stars being formed galaxies like our own there are to some extent cycles of processes — matter condensed into cloud banks. A hot star is formed at the center and the action of the radiation from this star scatters the matter out into the clouds again."

"Stars are formed by this process and some of the matter from the star goes back into interstellar space. The remnants of the blowing up of these clouds, the remnants of the stars after they have finished their evolution and become white dwarfs, pass back into interstellar matter, and thus the cycle goes on.

CARD OF THANKS
No one can lose faith in mankind. Sanderson has proven itself again to us.

This is the only way we have of thanking the railroad men and others, we don't know just who, who so generously gave their spare time, work and money, that went into the repairing of our garage apartment. It certainly makes us feel good to know we have such friends. Money can never repay such kindness and thoughtfulness. We also want to thank the men's wives for being so generous and patient. Thank you again.

on we can pretty well follow what happens. The hot air will ionize the hydrogen gas that surrounds it. The action on the star will eat its way through the gaseous center — the hot central region will spread as a compression wave in the region of the cloud bank through which this passes and high densities are readily produced. Stars will be formed and the matter in the outer part of the cloud bank will be pushed outward by the action of the hot gas at the center of the cloud.

"Conditions in the universe must have changed radically some five or six billion years ago. The strongest arguments in favor of this picture is the existence of radioactive elements that decay rapidly and which are not formed in any appreciable amounts in our present galaxy."

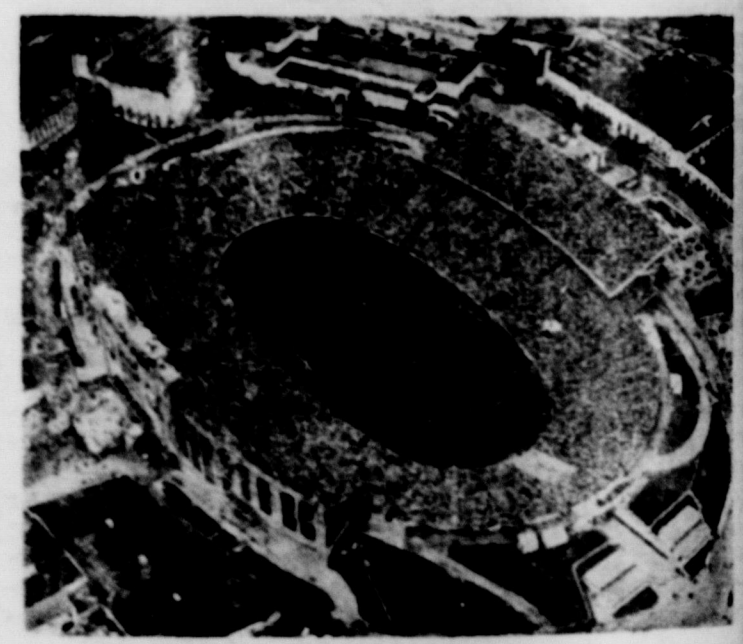

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Down during the holidays were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Evans, her grandmother, Mrs. George Houston, and her great-aunt, Mrs. Bea Thompson, all of San Antonio.
